TO TAKE PHILIPPINES.

Ultimatum of American-Commissioners to Representatives of Spain.

Willing to Compensate For "Pacific Expenditures."

Paris, Nov. 1.—The American peace commissioners, each of them carrying a portfolio containing records and personal memodanda, left their headquarters in the Continental hotel for the meeting with the Spanish commissioners at the foreign office shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The health of the president of the Spanish commission, Mr. Rios, had improved to the extent of enabling him to attend the meeting.

The Americans were removing their wraps when the Spaniards entered the ante-room, and polite and cordial greetings were exchanged as the two groups, comingling, passed through the grand salon and entered the conference chamber.

Secretary Moore, upon the request of Judge Day, passed to Mr. Ferguson, the interpreter, the formulated demands of the United States regarding the Philippines, which were read to the Spaniards in their own tongue by a rapid rendering from the English, in which they were written. Although the Spanish commissioners did not betray any anxiety their attention to the reading was keen. They had anticipated that the United States would take over the islands; but the terms and details of the transfer had all along been a subject of speculation.

The reading disclosed the fact that the United States government had determined to possess for itself certain territory and parcels of land bounded by and lying within such parallels of latitude and longitude as marked the limits of the Philippine archipelago. The United States do not purpose assuming the Philippine debt of $40,000,000, but they are willing to be responsible to Spain for a sum of money equal to the actual expenditures by Spain in the Philippines for the advantage of the islands and for the good of their people, for permanent betterments and for improvements both physical and mental.

The reading of the presentment specifies that the United States will reimburse Spain to the extent of her "pacific expenditures" made in the archipelago. This phrase "pacific expenditures" is employed to differentiate the expenditures by Spain in combating insurrections in the Philippines. The one is felt by the American commissioners to be a fair burden upon the acquiring power; while the other, and latter class of expenditures, is held to have been logically assumed by Spain as the inevitable hazard to a nation resorting to arms to enforce order in its own territory.

Such is the determinative, and therefor, the vital portion of the presentment made by the American commissioners; and it is to be observed that, while the main proposition as to possession and financial responsibility is clear and definite, many details have been left to the developments of the discussion between the two commissions. Thus, while the Spaniards are quite certain that the United States intend to reimburse them for "pacific expenditures," they remark that they are not enlightened as to whether the Americans expect to endorse the Spanish obligations to the extent of "pacific expenditures" in the archipelago or whether they will hand Spain a lump sum of gold large enough to cover Spain's outlay so designated.

Possibly the American commissioners themselves are not at this moment fully determined on this point. It is unlikely, however, that the Americans will care to become identified in the slightest degree with Spain in her responsibility to her creditors. The clearer method seems to be to hand to Spain spot cash, or something as good, and to bid her apply it on her debts by whatever name known, or to put it in her wallet for whatever use she may elect.

While the United States have designated "pacific expenditures" as those they will reimburse to Spain, the presentment of the American commissioners did not demand either a schedule or an inventory of the same from the Spaniards. But the suggestion naturally raises an inquiry as to the kind and quantity of Spain's "pacific expenditures" in the Philippines; and some light may be given on that matter now.

Possible "Pacific Expenditures."

There is considerable traffic between the islands, and some time ago a system of lighthouses became necessary. Spain set out to supply this and projected 48 light stations. Of these she has already constructed 17 of the first-class and 16 of the second. What they cost is not yet known here; but in American waters those of the first-class cost from $25,000 to $250,000 each; so that, on an average basis of the minimum cost in the United States, Spain's 33 lighthouses may represent an outlay of $825,000.

Spain has constructed breakwaters at Manila, at an expense not yet known here, and wharves of small value along the Pasig river. She has recently built barracks for 4000 men, now occupied by American troops, the cost of which is not yet ascertainable.

At Cavite Spain had built a naval station, which, before it was sacked by the natives, was said to be equal to the Mare island station, and may, then, have been worth $2.500.000. Whether or not the last two items can be strictly designated "pacific expenditures" must be determined in conference, but the lighthouses, water improvements, barracks and naval station are necessary to the United States as the owner of the Philippines and are deemed worth a fair price. Spain has also built some schoolhouses, which the American are willing to take over at cost.

The Spanish commissioners listened attentively, though not without some evidences of impatience and surprise at the financial suggestions in the American presentment, and finally asked until Friday to consult the Madrid government and make reply.

Adjournment was then taken to that day. After the conference dissolved the Spanish commissioners expressed the opinion that the American demands would create in Spain, as they had upon her commissioners, an exceedingly grave impression. While the Spanish commissioners pushed to a final determination at once that would reject the American demands, but the changing tone of the Spanish press recently urges the consummation of a treaty of peace, however rigorous, the argument being that, although the Spaniards bow to the American demands, the commissioners do not acknowledge the justice or admit the legality of them.

The Spanish commissioners now feel that the United States, to all intents and purposes, have not offered any financial inducement to Spain to cede by treaty any part of the Philippines. Had the American commissioners even offered to take over the entire Philippine debt of $40,000,000 the Spaniards affect to feel that it would have been as nothing, and they regard yesterday's propositions as so meagre as not to warrant even a schedule of Spain's "pacific expenditures" in the archipelago.

The Proper Course.

London, Nov. 1.—The Times editorially this morning expresses its frank satisfaction at the decision of the United States commissioners to take the Philippines. It says: "The arrangement is undoubtedly the best that could be made both for the inhabitants and for all interested in the trade and progress of the far east. Upon this point, as upon others, Spain has no choice but to yield, as her warmest partisans no longer maintain that she has either the means or the wish to renew the war.

The same irrestible logic of facts controls the question of the Cuban debt. The United States can dictate their own terms. At the same time we are bound to draw attention to the serious consequences of the policy upon which the American delegates have insisted."

The editorial then proceeds to back up the recent contention of its Paris correspondent, who has argued that Spain could only meet the Cuban debt by sacrificing her foreign bondholders, "who, by a strange anomaly, would thus have to pay for the independence of Cuba."

The Daily News editorially echoes the views of The Times regarding the Philippines, and says: "For Great Britain the American retention of the archipelago should be nothing but a gain. In saying this we assume that the United States will not extend their exclusive tariff laws to the colonies, but will show the manufacturers of the world free access."

REED STILL AT LARGE.

Notorious Bunco Man a Slippery Customer For Police Officials.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 1.—John Reed, the famous bunco man, is still a very much unknown quantity. His quiet disappearance from the Sherwood House Sunday night was effective, and since Officer Abbott left him in his room at the hotel nothing has been heard of the whereabouts of the much-wanted man.

Abbott appeared in court yesterday morning, with the intelligence that he brought Reed to Worcester Sunday afternoon, but he was unable to bring him into court.

Mrs. Reed, who appeared overcome when she learned of her husband's sudden leave-taking, has recovered sufficiently to return to Boston, leaving this city on an early evening train last night. Officer Abbott, too, went back to Charlestown for a conference with Warden Bridges at the state prison.

There have been absolutely no developments in the case so far as locating the man is concerned. Local police officials are of the opinion that Reed will be a very hard man to locate, in view of the many influential friends that his past experience has shown him to possess in different parts of the country.

Of Benefit to Trade.

Washington, Nov. 1. — Ambassador Hitchcock at St. Petersburg has been in communication with the state department regarding the establishment of steamship communication between the United States and Russia with a view to an increase of trade between the two countries. Arrangements have been made with the United Steamship company at Copenhagen to establish a line direct between Russia and the United States. The vessels will make experimental runs between St. Petersburg, Riga and New York.

LAND VALUES

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to Q, and today's instalment is the first of the Rs:

High School Decoration.

Monday evening, 7 November, at 7.45 Professor William G. Ward of Cambridge will lecture on "American History and Greek and Roman Art with stereopticon illustrations. This lecture will be delivered in High school hall. The proceeds will be used to decorate the Quincy High school. Too much stress cannot be laid on the influence of pictures and casts as a genuine, educative force. Boston, Newton, Brookline, Medford, Cambridge and many other progressive cities and towns have decorated their high schools in a liberal and public spirited manner. Quincy must not allow her neighbors to surpass her in any department of educational progress. All the friends of the High school are cordially invited to aid in this movement to make our High school more beautiful.

The class of '98 recently set a new example by contributing $20 to the cause, and the class of '97 has also helped. If each class would do equally well, what magnificent results might be achieved! The Quincy High School Alumni ought to discuss this matter at their next meeting.

Those philanthropic persons who have not been called upon to make good their subscriptions to a "Decoration Fund" will now have a fine opportunity of renewing and of paying their subscriptions. New subscriptions, too, will be equally welcome.

Tickets for Professor Ward's lecture may be obtained at the door and from High school pupils. The price of the tickets is twenty-five cents. Do not miss the opportunity of hearing a most interesting lecturer, of seeing a beautiful exhibition, and of helping the good old Quincy High.

Cake Walk Introduced.

The social at Brasee's hall, Wollaston, Saturday night, was, considering the inclement weather, well attended. Aside from the general good time which dancing alone affords, there was introduced at intermission a feature quite new to Wollastonians—a cake walk participated in by seven couples. After a very laughable and good-natured contest, Mr. "Andy" Rache and Fred W. Kappler, the judges, were unable to decide on the winning couple. In consequence, Mr. Joe Mullen and Mr. George Turner with their partners were ordered to walk "off" for honors. Mr. Mullen and partner won. The floor was in charge of Messrs. Eaton, Mullen and Smith. Music by Robinson's orchestra.

THE BOYNTON ROAD.

Given Another Hearing by City Council.

Hon. Moody Boynton Present and Talks Big.

Prominent Citizens Object to the Location Asked.

The report that there would be a stereopticon lecture and a little spice at this week's meeting of the City Council, caused a very large attendance of citizens, ladies as well as gentlemen, several finding it necessary to stand.

The great attraction was the public hearing on the second location asked by the Boston, Quincy and Fall River Bicycle railroad. This was called at 7.45 o'clock. Previous to which the regular business of the City Council was transacted.

AN OPINION.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the City Solicitor, being a reply to the question asked, viz.: Whether the City Council could without a public hearing grant the Bicycle railroad a location other than those upon which public hearings had been held.

The reply was that the Council after a public hearing may grant or refuse the location asked. If granted it should be substantially as asked for. To the specific question he replied, no. Placed on file.

FIVE CENT FARES.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Railroad Commissioners, relative to five-cent fares in Quincy, which in effect was, that the Commission before giving a hearing, desired to know if a request had been made of the Street Railway Co. for five cent fares. Placed on file.

MUNICIPAL CAUCUSES.

Communications were received from the Republican and Democratic City Committees, giving notice that municipal caucuses would be held on Nov. 17 and 18, that of the Republicans on the former date and Democrats on the latter. To Committee on Elections.

Several petitions for minor licenses and for State Aid, under Chapter 561 of 1898, were received and referred.

The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for a location for poles on Dimmock, Temple and Hancock street. To Committee on Streets.

BOYNTON RAILWAY HEARING.

At this point the public hearing on the second petition for a location for the Bicycle railroad was held.

Mr. E. Moody Boynton, president of the company, appeared in favor of the petition and for a hour and a half he held forth, explaining his system and roasting all those who differed from him. He opened by saying he regretted to come here where descendants of signers of the Declaration of Independence had objected to his system without looking into it. It was a shame and disgrace. They cannot give one reason why the one rail will not be a substitute for the two rails. He then paid his attention and compliments to steam railroads and their managers. The single rail has the approval of the engineers of the world, none question it after an investigation.

Mr. Boynton by means of a stereopticon showed some of the progressive steps of his system explaining each at length. He also showed the cars in which he claimed one could go from Quincy to Boston in six minutes including stops. Also freight cars. He claimed he could raise his capital in thirty days and save his charter in the spring. Then you would ride for five cents and without the slightest danger.

If a large corporation is coming here give them the right hand of welcome. We do not want to leave you out. All we ask is your cooperation and we come here to meet you face to face. We are going to give the steam railroad the hardest fight they ever had, and there is no one who will pay more for my goods in twelve months than will they. At this point Mr. Boynton announced that he was ready to answer any questions.

Councilman McGrath asked what amount of space the structure occupied.

Mr. Boynton replied that the structure took up twelve inches, and the cars which were elevated in the air four feet.

In reply to a question if the road in New York was successful Mr. Boynton said it was highly endorsed by all engineers.

Councilman Jameson asked why the Boston Elevated railroad did not adopt the system but got no direct answer other than. "How do you know they have not?" "When their structure is constructed we shall pass over it" and "They will put it on or we will wipe it out."

Councilman Parker passed President Pinkham a letter from the editor of the Engineering News of New York which did not speak highly of the road and closed by saying it did not call Howard an expert outside of his interest in the road.

Mr. Boynton then read from his prospectus testimonials from engineers and from the Engineering News.

In reply to how much noise the road made Mr. Boynton said you could not hear it one hundred yards way.

In reply to how near stations would be to each other Mr. Boynton said, "treat us well and we will have them as often as possible."

Mr. Faxon asked how steep a grade could be overcome without difficulty, which brought the reply that cars could go over the Alps or they could use his freight train for an elevator. He then said that a grade as small as possible was desired. Most of our grades are one per cent.

Mr. Faxon then said the road could go through his land or through his houses if they wanted to.

Representative Thompson asked how much the capital of the company was.

Mr. Boynton—Five million in stock and five million in bonds.

Representative Thompson — How much of capital stock had been paid in?

Mr. Boynton hotly replied "It was not necessary to go into his private affairs, as it was no one's business. That the man was probably interested in the New Haven road.

Ex-Mayor Porter arose and said that several citizens had been insulted. He was not in employ of the New Haven road, and his objection was not to the road, but to the location. He would be glad to see this road built if it will bring about the result desired, that is rapid transportation. He did not think, however it would be wise to multiply trains on the line in which we now have transportation.

While Mr. Porter was speaking Mr. Boynton frequently interrupted and President Pinkham was obliged to use his gavel to preserve order.

Edwin W. Marsh asked if he had an engineer who could run a straight line around curves.

Mr. Boynton replied that there was but one sharp curve.

Mr. George F. Pinkham thought this was a hearing in regard to a location and not as to the road.

The hearing for the petition was then closed. During the entire hearing Mr. Boynton hardly referred to the location but used his hour and a half in expounding the merits of his system and at hardly any time would he give a direct answer to any question that was asked.

THE REMONSTRANTS.

C. M. Bryant, ex-President of the City Council, thought that for the City Council it was a question of location, not as to the feasibility of the plan. He thought the petitioners should have leave to withdraw, as they had asked for a specific location. If the location cannot be accepted as a whole it must be rejected. No bluff should be allowed as to time limit. The corporation should first ask for a location through the city, and then a committee of the Council should run a line with their assistance. Then would be the time for hearing. He claimed the present petition was illegal.

Mr. Bryant was willing to answer questions by Councilmen but not from outsiders.

John F. Merrill, ex-Senator, was on record in favor of improvements, but endorsed the views of the preceeding speaker. He objected to the location especially in the vicinity of Goffe street, where the best building land of the city was located. The location would be very detrimental to property on the hill. There were better routes toward West Quincy.

In reply to Henry H. Faxon he said he was not largely interested in street railway. From a street railway standpoint he thought the Boynton road would be a benefit as it would bring more people to distribute.

Rev. Arthur Bumpus appeared for his father and objected to a location in the vicinity of Goffe street, claiming it would reduce value of property. Thought railway a theory, and that elevated roads in general were objectionable.

Edwin W. Marsh objected to location. It was not the wish of people on the route to have the railway. As for a direct route other locations would be just as direct. He claimed no engineers had been on the route and run lines.

Mr. Faxon queried if there ever would have been a railroad in Quincy if everybody was to be suited on location.

R. D. Chase said he had enjoyed the entertainment very much and felt like paying some one fifty cent. But there were just as interesting exhibits in the patent office at Wasthington which had never matured successful, which could be brought by the cord. This railroad was "in the air." Goffe street was 17 feet between curbs at one point. He objected to a location on the street. Thought it an experiment largely. The best land should not be taken for experiments when there were continuous pastures just as direct.

When asked it it would be profitable to locate the railroad through pasture he replied the city was not considering the financial benefit to the road.

The Dorcas society held a very enjoyable social Monday evening at the home of Mrs. George Spooner of Canal street. Whist and other games were indulged in. Refreshments of cream and cake were served. A social good time was enjoyed by all present.

The Newcombs of Quincy may feel proud, as a namesake took an active part in this late war with Spain. Lieutenant Frank Newcomb rescued in the face of almost certain death his comrades and their ship in the fight at Cardenas. He took the Cutter Hudson and threw a line aboard the Winslow.

The rumor that the People's course might not be continued this year proves to be only a rumor. Arrangements will be made to give a course of eight on successive Saturday nights beginning Nov. 27, and omitting only Dec. 24, Christmas eve. A repetition of last year's success may be looked for.

Privates A. A. Garbut, F. W. Newcomb and A. F. Capaccioli of Co. K arrived home from Camp Meade Monday, on a fourteen days' furlough. The boys look a picture of perfect health and have not much complaint to make, other than they would like to be on the move. Camp Meade at present is very cold at night, and at times it is hard work to keep warm.

Mr. Charleton of cruller fame, who serves the people of Wollaston with that good and wholesome edible, while attending to a regular customer Saturday, left his horse standing near by as usual, when that animal took a notion that he would go home alone and fool Mr. Charleton. The result was that in his hurry to get home he "cut corners" at Mason street and Elm avenue with such poor judgment that the carriage was overturned and crullers were soon more numerous than cobble stones on the ground at that particular point. No serious damage.

Nothwithtanding the disagreeable weather a large gathering of young people favored the T. R. & S. A. A. by attending the social given at Music hall, Atlantic, Saturday night. While dancing alone is an incentive to bring out those who love that pastime, it can be said truthfully that the association have friends who wish them success. The generous offer of the management, of an eight dollar prize to any one turning in the most money from the sale of tickets, no doubt accounts in a measure for the financial success. Mr. Harry Sprague, as usual, furnished good music; Mr. Wilson prompting. Mr. H. Seymour gave a good account of himself as floor director, assisted by others.

Economical

Some "penny-wise" people practice a kind of economy that is not economical. They save a penny on soap and lose a dollar on clothes. Sooner or later they learn that cheap, common soaps rot clothing by burning the thread with strong alkalies. Then they wish they had used which contains no alkali, no impurities, nothing to injure the most delicate fabric. There is still greater economy in using Fairy Soap, because it lasts longer than common soaps. It's a space of at least eight feet would be required. Then there would be some noise.

BOYNTON ROAD.

Alexander Marnock objected to location on Penn street when only 120 feet in the rear of his house there was an open field.

Ex-Councilman L. S. Anderson objected to the location as an abutter and as a citizen. Council should protect the citizens. It was pertinent to the issue to ask how much capital had been paid in. Not allow a taking of land and then find the corporation had no capitol to pay damages. Quincy people should have something to say as to location.

Mr. Boynton said capitol would have to be paid in before location was taken.

Mr. Anderson, in reply to Councilman Cain, was of the opinion that the 20 miles of the route could not be built before June 11.

Ex-Councilman Fred B. Rice queried if the Council must grant a location.

President Pinkham was of the opinion that the corporation could go to the courts, if we refused a location, and obtain an order compelling us to grant location.

In rebuttal Mr. Boynton said the road was not an experiment. That it had been successfully operated in Long Island. That the Engineering News, which had been quoted, had endorsed it. That no extension of time was necessary or would be asked.

The hearing was then closed and the order recommitted to the Committee on Streets.

ELECTION ORDERS.

Councilman Freeman offered an order authorizing the City Clerk to issue warrants for the State election. Adopted.

Also an order designating the polling places for the City election, Dec. 6. Adopted.

Also an order that the Committee on Election meet Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, to examine returns. Adopted.

JOHNSON TURKEYS.

Councilman Packard offered an order that the Overseer of the Poor under the direction of the Committee on Poor of the City Council expend the income of the Johnson fund.

STATE HIGHWAY.

Councilman Little offered an order that the Mayor be requested to invite the towns of Milton and Braintree to join with him in petitioning the State Highway Commission to accept Granite avenue and Willard streets, from the northerly end of Granite avenue to the southerly end of Willard street near the Randolph line. To Committee on Streets.

OLD FIRE APPARATUS.

Councilman Hill offered an amendment to the ordinance concerning the fire department, that the Chief Engineer may be authorized to sell, exchange or otherwise dispose of second hand material, unfit for use, with the consent of a majority of the Committee on Fire Department, the receipt for the same to be placed to the credit of the Fire Department. To Committee on Fire Department.

Upon motion of Councilman Badger, Councilman Little was allowed to explain the order in relation to Granite avenue and Willard street.

Councilman Little said that Councilman Packard had first suggested it to him, but he did not see how it could be done except by the three towns. Willard street needs extensive repairs, Granite avenue is in very good condition to Squantum street but from there to bridge is in a wretched condition. Willard street from the West Quincy Depot to Braintree was in a bad condition.

Councilman Packard rose to speak but was ruled out of order.

Councilman Cain proved that reference to the order be withdrawn that Councilman Packard might not be shut off.

Councilman Packard, however, said he did not care to speak, and the motion was lost.

OPINION WANTED.

Councilman Jameson presented an order that the City Solicitor be requested to give an opinion as to whether the petition of the Boynton railroad for a specific location was a legal one. Adopted.

The Council at 10.30 adjourned.

TWO CAMP LETTERS.

Co. K Finds it Very Cool at Camp Meade.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.,
Middletown Penn., Oct. 28.

There was no dress parade last evening, on account of absence of Major Morrison, who is attending the Peace Jubilee at Philadelphia.

The night was the coldest yet a heavy white frost being perceptible this morning. We having a very brisk frosty air. The guards of last night, had to continually walk their post so as to keep warm, no man was caught napping. Every sentry being on the alert.

The following are on guard today: Corporal Adams, Bugler Piper, Privates J. G. Clark, M. M. Clark, Carlson, Currie, Delano, Dunleary, Deslauries, Doran, Dean, Egan, Fitz gerald, Gundersen and Gilfeather. Private P. Dean secured the orderly's berth. The private is a lucky fellow, he hardly ever missing his turn when on guard he has served as orderly for a number of times.

Artificer Seaverns is today busy making doors out of wood for the officers' tents. They will help to keep the warmth in. The boys are still in good health. Volunteer.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.,
Middletown, Penn. Oct. 29.

The parade of last evening was reviewed by Capt. McDonald of H Co. He acting in the absence of major.

The boys experienced another chilly night the frost again making a show this morning.

The weekly inspection took place this morning, the battalion officer being the inspector. The boys passed a very satisactory inspection.

After the inspection of the four companies, the major had the battalion form in line on parade ground where Corporal Haskins of K Co., who is a photographer, was in readiness with his machine to take a picture of the whole battalion. The machine is a high priced article, so we expect to have good pictures. One will be supplied each company as a souvenir.

Major W. E. Morrison commanding officer of this battalion leaves tonight for Braintree, on a sad trip, he having received word of the death of his uncle in Braintree.

Today is a fine sunny day, which helps to make the boys more cheerful.

The orderly selected was Private D. P. Lyons, a member of old K company. The boys are still in good health.

Birthday Party.

A very social evening was enjoyed Saturday at Mr. and Mrs. John Carlson's home at 7 Nelson street, it being the 19th birthday of their daughter, Alma. About thirty of her intimate friends were invited. A beautiful gold watch and chain were presented to Miss Carlson, together with numerous congratulations and wishes for many more happy birthdays. One of the most handsome decorations on the refreshment table was an elegant birthday cake with inscription: "Alma"—1897—1898."

Miss Melema Bardi.

With "A Country Merchant" to be seen at Quincy Music hall, Friday evening, Nov. 4, is a character actress of no mean attainments. Her portrayal of the old New England matron is a revelation and at once compels the recognition of her as an artist. None could imagine the old-fashioned Puritantial housewife to be a young woman by only a few summers removed from her teens.

Miss Bardi is a versatile actress and has played a great many responsible roles in almost every line, from leads to the most difficult characters besides having done a great deal of dancing.

Big Day for Taxes.

Tax Collector Baker and his clerks were kept busy all day Monday and Monday evening taking in money and receipting tax bills, and it came with a rush. By a special arrangement with the bank a deposit was made at 5 o'clock of what money had been taken in at that time. When the receipts were figured up at the close of the office Monday night, it was found that 391 tax bills had been paid, amounting to $35,000. This is the largest day on record. The receipts on Oct. 31, last year were $25,000.

Unprovoked Assault.

Charles N. Hunt was roughly handled last Saturday night by some unknown party. It was a little after 8 o'clock when two men entered the driveway at the south end of Durgin & Merrill's block, where Mr. Hunt was standing. One of the party took a bottle from his pocket and asked him if he had a knife that they could remove the cork with, to which he answered no. One of the party then left the driveway and the other approached Mr. Hunt and after some words drew off and struck him twice, once on the right eye and once on the chin. The result is that he has a cut over the eye and the eye is blackened, and a cut on the chin. Mr. Huntdoes not know the parties.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY.

Take a silver dollar and drop it on a jeweler's show case and you'll get a ring. Take a quarter and saw it in two in the middle and get two halves. Take a two-dollar bill and fold it once and you double it—and you can keep on monkeying with money and make imaginary capital for an hour. But if you want to get a new wrinkle in money, just take a new ten dollar bill and fold it corner-ways and you'll get a new wrinkle every time. But don't fool with your money and don't let anybody else fool with it. Don't let anybody fool you with the idea that they'll give you a $10 bill with every $2 suit or overcoat.

The new store has earned a reputation for selling straight goods at straight prices. We don't monkey with your money, or flim flam you with any imaginary values. We give you good goods, charge a fair-profit price for everything you buy and expect you to come back the second time because you were used right the first.

We can sell a good Overcoat for $5.00 and an all wool one for $6.50. But for $7.50 we can show you a dandy all wool Kersey, made with raw edge and lap seams and lined with good lasting linings. The same coat our competitors (in Boston) get $10 for.

Our $10 coat we have in Blacks, Blues, Olives and Browns. Then we have them for $11, $12, $13, $13.50, $15, $15.50 and upwards to $19, in all the different style goods worn this season.

For this week and next too, if they are not all gone, we will sell all wool Dickey Pants at $1.48. All the other stores get $2.00.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

KEYSTONE STATE MUSS

Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 1.—More fuel was added to the flame of Pennsylvania's furious campaign last night when Dr. S. C. Swallow, the "honest government" candidate for governor, boldly charged that Democratic State Chairman J. M. Garman had made a proposition to Senator Quay to "sell out" the state Democracy. In support of his accusation, Dr. Swallow produced an affidavit sworn to by E. C. Miller, a travelling man of this city. Miller swears that on Sept. 8 last he met on a train, between Williamsport and Philadelphia, Charles E. Keck, a Wilkesbarre lawyer, who told him he was on his way to see Quay with a message from Garman. Keck, being a Republican, explained his selection thus: "Garman told me that he had lots of men in the Democratic party, but none that he could trust with a mission of that kind. The proposition is that if certain legislation and favors in certain counties are given to Garman he will insure those counties for Stone, and he will offer positive evidence that he can deliver the goods." W. A. Stone is the Quay candidate for governor.

Miller alleges that they went together to the Republican state committee's headquarters, but Senator Quay was in Atlantic City and Keck went after him. When they met in Philadelphia the next day Keck told Miller, the latter swears, that he had "laid the proposition before the old man and he thought well of it," and he was then arranging a meeting between Quay and Garman.

Dr. Swallow said that Mr. Miller's statement was corroborated on many points by documentary evidence, and that Mr. Miller voluntarily related the story. The doctor said he made it public at this time in response to the recent denunciation of him by Chairman Garman in his denial of the charge made by Dr. Swallow that the leaders of the Democratic party had sold out to "the Quay machine."

Harrisburg, Nov. 1.—Senator Quay passed through here late last night on his way from Philadelphia to his home in Beaver. Shown the charges made by Dr. Swallow of a proposition from Democratic State Chairman Garman to "sell out" to Quay, the senator said: "The charges are absolutely untrue. I have never had an interview with either Mr. Keck or Mr. Garman."

IN THE EMPIRE STATE.

Van Wyck, Hill and Black Talk Upon Topics of Interest.

New York, Nov. 1.—Governor Black's first speech in this campaign was delivered at the Lenox Lyceum last night, under the auspices of the Plaza Republican club. The governor was received with deafening cheers. Governor Black said in part:

"To the small, benighted, lamplit mind the glories of the sun are lost in contemplation of its spots. The trouble is that too many lamp-tenders have turned astronomers, too many fault-finders have turned statesmen.

"We are now at a time and place where we must decide whether we shall attempt to measure by these rules the gigantic operations of the national government during the last year. In all the career of the American people there is no single event which has more fully illustrated the American character than the war with Spain. The spring had fully opened before the war begun, the summer was not ended before the war was closed—and yet these great achievements on so vast a scale wrought on the field of international war are marked by sacrifices whose smallness seems incredible. In all the conflict less than 3000 died from any cause. Of the 250,000 men who served their country, 247,000 are now alive. You cried for war with such resistless fervor that you forced the president into it unprepared. In less than four months he brought you out of it, victorious. Have you so soon made up your minds not to sustain him?

"And with him through all this tempest stood one whom I shall name because he has so often suffered at the hands of the unthinking and the unjust—a hero in the last war, a statesman in this—courageous, upright, the secretary of war has stood, performing his duty and has not been swerved therefrom either by the perils of war or the aspersions of his countrymen."

The governor then proceeded to consider state issues and recall what Republican administration had done for the state during the past four years, such as completing the capitol building, preventing the destruction of the forests, enacting a primary law and reducing the rate of taxation. With reference to the canal question he said:

"In one respect at least the course of the present administration will be adopted and pursued. The subject I mean is the investigation of the canals. No man should be excused if found to be guilty, and no man should be marked without sufficient proof. When once the evidence is clear no considerations will retard for a single day the just and proper disposition of the case. The subject shall be so left that no matter who my successor may be he will not be permitted to choose whether he will proceed. He will be compelled to proceed."

In concluding his speech Governor Black said: "Fellow citizens, you must declare whether Theodore Roosevelt shall be elected governor, who, some think, may prove to be too honest, or Tammany hall, against whom that charge at least has never yet been made."

Augustus Van Wyck and David B. Hill addressed an audience of nearly 3000 people in Utica last night. Judge Van Wyck was the first speaker of the meeting. He said:

"There are some evidences that our opponents have of late become convinced that state issues have a little to do with the coming election in this state. The present lieutenant governor and member of the canal board and candidate for re-election has even gone so far as to inform his hearers that the special report on the canal made by the commission appointed by Governor Black, when rightly read, is rather an approval than a condemnation of the manner in which the $9,000,000 voted by the people for the improvement of our waterways has been disposed of."

Then the speaker referred to the alleged interruption by the audience of Lieutenant Governor Woodruff's speech at a recent Republican meeting in Rochester; declared that an attempt had been made to present "a false and contemptible defense of the canal outrages," and claimed that the lieutenant governor in his remarks had slandered the members of the canal commission. Continuing, he said:

"Desperate indeed must be this cabal in their efforts to continue in control of our state government when they resort to such an infamous effort to blind the people and to stay their anger until Nov. 8. Can it be wondered that the honest indignation of the audience upon which they sought to impose should rise in open revolt and should not permit the speaker to continue?

"I stand before you as the candidate of the Democratic party, but not as that alone. I am pledged to a work of needed reform, to a vindication of the principles of administration that concern all honest men, irrespective of partisanship, to the striking down of undisguised robbery in the public life of the state, to the bringing to bear on the forces of the state of simple honesty, to the reassertion of home rule rights for every city in the state, to the defense unimpaired of personal liberty against a system of repression which depends upon the spy for its enforcement and devotes public revenues to the enrichment of spoilsmen, and to the carrying out in good faith of the civil service laws of the state."

Ex-Senator Hill's speech was along the lines of that delivered at Brooklyn. Among the new features he ridiculed the Roosevelt party as a wild west show, and said the war was over. He made a strong plea for Van Wyck as one who would follow in the footsteps of Marcy, Tilden and Seymour. He reviewed the services of noted Democrats in the late war and when some one asked: "How about Bryan" Mr. Hill reviewed Bryan's services in the field, and closed by predicting the election of Van Wyck.

Middle-Roaders Shut Out.

Denver, Nov. 1.—The time allowed by the law for making changes in the state tickets expired at midnight, with 10 state tickets in the field. The middle-of-the-road Populists will have no state ticket. The court decided at the last moment that the party has no standing. There are only four candidates for governor. Charles S. Thomas (Dem.) heads the Democratic-People's party; Teller, Silver Republican, national Populist and Liberty union tickets; Henry R. Wolcott heads the Republican, silver Republican (anti-Teller) and western Republican tickets. The other two candidates for governor are Robert H. Reso, Prohibition, and Nixon Elliot, Socialist-Labor.

Hawley Sure of Votes.

Hartford, Nov. 1.—Republican primaries were held in each ward in this city last night. A large vote was polled and the result is the election of between 60 and 70 Hawley delegates out of a total of 83. This insures the nomination of a senator and two representatives from this city to the general assembly who will vote for Hawley for United States senator to succeed himself.

Hanna's Opinion.

Cleveland, Nov. 1.—Senator M. A. Hanna, discussing the probable result of the coming state election, said yesterday: "I am of the opinion that there will be a slight falling off in the Republican majority in Ohio from last year's figures. The reports from the state committees are very favorable, however, and I am sure that the party will be victorious in this state."

To Have New Rink.

New Britain, Conn., Nov. 1.—At a meeting of National league polo magnates held in this city, W. M. Harris of Bridgeport relinquished his franchise for that city, and it was later transferred to the Bridgeport Polo and Amusement company, represented by Thomas E. Guest of Waterbury. It was stated that Frank Scelee of Boston would manage the club, and that a new rink would be built. An application for a franchise in Fall River was received, but it was placed on file. President Morse was chosen to represent the league in the national board of directors.

"Pernicious" Only.

Washington, Nov. 1.—It is definitely announced by the civil service commission that the evidence taken in the recent investigation of charges against the federal officials at Richmond shows that while there was much to be deplored in the facts brought out there was no evidence of the violation of the civil service laws or rules. The preliminary report states that the participation of officials in the political gatherings was a violation of the Cleveland order regarding "pernicious political activity," but that that matter does not come within the civil service law.

Detective Gives It Up.

Bucksport, Me., Nov. 1.—The case of Sarah Ware, who disappeared from her home Sept. 16, and whose dead body, with a crushed skull, was found in a lonely pasture two weeks later, is still unsolved. Detective Odlin of Lewiston, who was employed by the town, after three weeks of hard work has voluntarily abandoned the case. Neither the place, weapon, motive or murderer has been established, or any definite clue connecting any person with the crime discovered.

A Grand Success.

Omaha, Nov. 1.—The trans-Mississippi and international exposition closed at midnight. The grand total of persons who registered at the turnstiles since the exhibition opened, five months ago, exceeds 2,000,000. The exposition was a financial success, something over $400,000 remaining to be divided among the stockholders.

WHOLESALE BIGAMIST.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—A Bridewell prisoner of many aliases has been identified as the original of a picture forwarded from Wheeling as the likeness of Jacob Adolph Huff, who is suspected of complicity in causing the death of Mrs. Jacob Hoh, to whom he was married on April 15, and whose death occurred two months later. The prisoner is known at the Bridewell as Martin Doty, with several aliases. The letter enclosing the picture was received by the Chicago police Saturday and was signed by Rev. Herman Haase of Wheeling. Mr. Haase said Jacob Adolph Huff married Mrs. Hoh, a widow, April 15, 1895. Two months later the woman died suddenly, and the day after her burial Huff disappeared. His clothing and watch were found on a bank of the Ohio river, and it was thought grief had caused him to commit suicide.

The discovery that he had drawn $900 from the bank and pawned his wife's jewelry caused the Wheeling authorities to change their mind and an examination of the woman's body was made. It was discovered, the clergyman's letter indicated, that she had not died a natural death. A week ago Mr. Haase, after reading of the arrest of a polygamist in Chicago, one of whose aliases was Hoh, sent the picture. Yesterday detectives recognized Doty as the original of the picture.

Doty denied having ever been in Wheeling. He has been in Bridewell several weeks. Nearly a month ago it was discovered that he was wanted in Milwaukee for bigamy. An investigation developed that at least 10 women claimed him as their husband. He was not suspected of murder until Rev. Mr. Haase's letter arrived.

Two Were Killed.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 1.—The special naval train was derailed east of Rat Portage at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by a broken rail. The tender, two baggage cars and three colonist cars went over an embankment 10 feet high. Frank Fleckney and William Miller, boys from the training ship Agincourt, of Chatham, Eng., were killed; Samuel Harrison, stoker, of Edinburgh, and Thomas Burns, seaman, were injured; also a man named Smith from Papineauville, P. Q., who was stealing a ride.

Halifax, Nov. 1.—The naval train wrecked near Rat Portage left Halifax Thursday night on the arrival of the steamer Carthaginian from Liverpool with drafts for the British Pacific squadron. The train carried 133 sailors and 11 officers. The train was made up under imperial government officers' inspection and was being rushed to its destination in view of the Anglo-French controversy. It was a special and had a clear track, and was due to arrive at Esquimault one week from date of departure.

"A Step Backward."

Washington, Nov. 1.—The Civil Service Reform league has sent a letter to the president expressing its hope that he will not, as reported in the public press, withdraw a number of places now filled by civil service methods from the scope of the civil service rules. The letter expresses the league's belief in "the certainty that such changes will be greeted alike by the friends and enemies of the merit system as a step backward, and the first step backward avowedly taken by the executive branch of the government since the civil service law took effect."

Agreed to Disagree.

Yokohama, Nov. 1.—The whole cabinet has resigned, the ministers being unable to agree upon the question of filling the portfolio of education. Thus the first attempt at party government in Japan has proved a failure. It is probable that the next cabinet will be a coalition of Liberals and Clan leaders.

Death of Dr. Duncan.

Boston, Nov. 1.—Dr. Samuel White Duncan, who returned from his trip to foreign countries only last Saturday, died at his home in Brookline at midnight from heart failure. He was born in Haverhill, Dec. 19, 1838. He was foreign secretary of the American Baptist Missionary union.

The Nicaragua Canal.

Managua, Nov. 1.—After four days' public discussion the Nicaraguan congress has unanimously approved the agreement, provisionally made between President Zelaya and the American contracotrs and engineers, Messrs. Craigin and Eyre, authorizing the construction of an inter-oceanic canal, and empowering the concessionaires to negotiate with the Maritime Canal company. A clause in the agreement declares that the concession to the Maritime Canal company will terminate on Oct. 9, 1899. Congratulatory telegrams have been received from the chief cities of Nicaragua and the neighboring republics.

Malden's Sensation.

Malden, Mass., Nov. 1.—Dr. William D. Nutter was arrested last night charged with being accessory to the death of Mrs. Louise S. Bradbury of this city, which occurred at the Malden hospital on Oct. 7. Dr. Nutter furnished $2000 bail. Dr. Sexton, the city physician, is charged with performing the operation, and Henry S. Cardy of Chelsea is held as the alleged accessory. Dr. Nutter did not deny assisting at the operation, which, he claimed, was performed with the hope of saving Mrs. Bradbury's life from the effects of a previous operation of a similar nature.

The carriage of a buzz-saw doesn't move very fast, but if a man stays on it long enough he will presently be sawn asunder. The process of gradual bodily decline and loss of energy which leads finally to consumption is not always very rapid, but if it isn't stopped it will presently begin to saw its way into the most vital part of the body, the lungs. There would be very little consumption if every family would keep Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the house, and use it whenever feeling "out of sorts." It keeps the entire body in such a high condition of health and forcefulness that wasting diseases have no chance to get a foot-hold. A teaspoonful or two before meals, in a little water, gives the digestive organism power to assimilate the blood-making, nerve-toning, strength-building properties of the food.

It enables the liver and excretory system to clear the circulation of bilious poisons and remove all waste matter from the body. It replaces worn out tissue with hard muscular flesh, and changes weakness and debility into active power and nerve force.

The originator of this great "Discovery," R. V. Pierce, M. D., is chief consulting physician to the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., at the head of a staff of nearly a score of eminent associate physicians and surgeons. He has acquired, in his over thirty years of active practice, a reputation second to no living physician in the treatment of obstinate, chronic diseases. His prescriptions must not be confounded with the numerous "boom" remedies, "extracts," "compounds," and "sarsaparillas," which a profit-seeking druggist is often ready to urge as a substitute. Dr. Pierce's medicines are the product of wide experience and deep study. Any one may consult him by mail free of charge.

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

NEW COLONIAL POLICY

Emphatic Declaration by Senator Hoar Against Expansion.

Not In Accordance With Established Doctrine.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 2.—A large audience greeted Senator Hoar, Congressman Moody and Speaker Bates in Mechanics' hall last evening. Charles T. Talman, chairman of the Republican city committee, introduced Senator Hoar. Three hundred Republican leaders occupied seats upon the platform with the speakers.

Congressman Moody spoke of the good record of Congressman Joseph H. Walker during the past 12 years, and urged his audience to return him to his seat in the house.

All of the speakers spoke of the war, its causes and consequences, and the probable result in territorial expansion.

Senator Hoar Said: This year has been crowded with history and crowded with glory. It is also, to my mind, crowded with danger. The flag of Spain, formerly the proudest power on earth since the day of the Roman empire, has gone down in darkness and in blood before the victorious navy and army of the United States.

The flag of the United States has arisen in the eastern sky like a new constellation. Let us not accept the duties and responsibilities of this victory in any temper of vulgar vain-glory, still less of a vulgar greed of power or of gain.

The United States comes to these oppressed people, east and west, as a great deliverer. The American people are not talking or thinking today, unless I misunderstand the temper of my countrymen, of what they are to gain, but of what the people they have delivered are to gain. To deal with this great occasion by talking about coaling stations and trade advantages degrades and belittles it. We have not overthrown Spain, we have not periled the precious lives of our sons, that we may add to our possessions, or that we may make money out of our new relations.

But yet the first duty of the American people is in themselves. And when I say this I say it in no spirit of selfishness or of indifference to the welfare of mankind. On the contrary I believe that the highest service the American people can render mankind and to liberty is to preserve unstained and unchanged the republic as it came to us from the fathers.

The danger is that we are to be transformed from a republic founded on the Declaration of Independence, guided by the counsels of Washington—the hope of the poor, the refuge of the oppressed—into a vulgar, commonplace empire founded upon physical force, controlling subject races and vassal states, in which inevitably our class must forever rule and other classes must forever obey.

I, for one, am not dazzled by the example of England. The institutions of England, which have enabled her to govern successfully distant colonies and subject states are founded, as Mr. Gladstone pointed out, on the doctrine of inequality.

Why, fellow citizens, already we are hearing utterances from the platform and from the press, and, I am sorry to say, from the pulpit, which show how already our old doctrines of freedom are being forgotten.

It is said that Porto Rico is already ours. It may be that Porto Rico is to become ours; but there is no authority under the constitution of the United States to acquire any foreign territory save by a treaty approved by the senate by a two-thirds vote, or by an act of legislation in which the president, the house of representatives and the senate must unite. We are told that it is proposed to purchase 10,000,000 of people and a thousand islands, 10,000 miles away from this spot where we are gathered.

But under what doctdine ever yet heard on the soil of America are peoples—men, women and children—to be bought and sold like sheep. It is said that the Philippine islands are already ours by the right of conquest. We hold, so far, but a single port in that group of islands, containing, it is said, 10,000,000 of people—I suppose nobody knows what their numbers are or whether there are not 15,000,000 instead of 10,000,000. For one, I deny this alleged right of conquest.

Human beings—men, women and children, peoples—are not to be won as spoils of war or prizes in battle. It may be that such a doctrine finds a place in the ancient and barbarous laws of war. But it has no place under the American constitution. It has no place where the declaration of independence is a living reality. It has no place in the code of morals of the people of the United States.

I have stated elsewhere the considerations which, in my judgment, warranted the acquisition of Hawaii. It is 5000 miles over the sea from Hawaii to the Philippine islands. But further still, far as the east is from the west, are the doctrines and principles which are applicable to the two cases. Hawaii came to us with the consent of her own government, the only government capable of maintaining itself there for any considerable length of time. We held already the chief harbor and strong place of Hawaii. Her islands, except the American and European population, all of whom, with substantial unanimity, desired the annexation, were occupied by a feeble and perishing people that had gone down in a single century from 300,000 to 30,000, who had lost all the essential characteristics of national life, and who, unless we saved them, were sure to fall an easy prey to Japan or any other considerable power that should covet them.

Besides all this, we had long ago declared, with the unanimous consent of all our statesmen, for nearly 70 years, that we would not permit Hawaii to exercise that power, most essential to a national character and independence, of determining her own fate, if she should choose to form an alliance or a union with any other country. Besides all this, we were told by our great naval and military authorities, whom it would, in my judgment, have been presumptuous to disregard, that the possession of the Sandwich islands was essential to the protection of our western seacoast against a hostile power.

As I have said, so I repeat. As far as the east is from the west is the case of the Philippines from the case of Hawaii. In the case of the Philippines we are asked to subject a nation and to hold it in subjection. We get them by conquest and hold them by force. In the case of the Sandwich islands, we get them by compact made with their lawful government. We accept a voluntary offer on their part, which had been awaiting our acceptance for six years.

It is idle to say that the late government in Hawaii was a usurpation, that it was forced on them by us. That claim has been refuted again and again. It is difficult to discuss such questions when diplomacy is doing its work. It is not to be tolerated that foreign countries should study our politics and hope for victory or defeat of our parties for their own advantage.

But there is less difficulty of that kind in the present case, because the conditions are such that Spain has got to submit to our terms, and the question of our policy is to be decided by the American people, whether Spain likes it or does not like it. And beside, the great things that concern our welfare are not to be settled by diplomacy. The American people must settle it by legislation only. They must act through their constitutional organs—through the president of the senate, a two-thirds vote of the senate in case of a treaty, which is but one form of legislation, or by the two houses of congress and the president, which is another form of legislation. So when our friends tell us that they are willing to leave this matter to the president, they only mean that they will leave to him to determine what conditions he will require of Spain, to be submitted to the senate hereafter, or what conditions he will propose to congress, to be acted upon by them hereafter.

William McKinley, who is alike great as a patriot and as a statesman, is the last person on the continent who would accept the duty of determining for the American people the question of reversing their whole constitutional policy and departing from their constitutional obligations. Indeed, we would not leave such a question to George Washington himself, although we know very well how he would decide it.

If the Philippine islands become ours, then under the late decision of the supreme court every child hereafter born in them becomes an American citizen, free to come, free to go. Are you going to admit them as states, with 60 representatives and a dozen or 20 senators? Are you going to hold them as subjects, taxation and representation not going together, all men not created free and equal to live under the American flag? Are you going to have a subject people, without trial by jury; without habeas corpus, governed not by their own legislative assemblies, but by practors and proconsuls?

Are you going to have a trained and governing class, such as England has been compelled to build up, educated for the purpose, and when they come of age, with the same right to offices in the colonial government as the officers educated at West Point or Annapolis have to commissions in the army or the navy?

Are you going to enter into the struggle and scuffle for power in the eastern hemisphere, with the necessity for intrigue and bargain and secret diplomacy? Are you going to abolish the right of the senate to concur in treaties, or the right of congress to declare war and make peace? To maintain itself in that struggle every great nation must have a power of an instant, rapid and unfettered action, entirely inconsistent with our constitutional restraints. Are you going to multiply by 10 the size of your navy, and to have a navy such as England has, equal to that of any other two powers on earth?

Are you going to have a standing army which must amount, in my judgment, to hundreds of thousands in number? Are you going to have the national tax gatherer the most frequent visitor and the best-known visitant to every American house? Are you going to increase many fold your national debt? Is every American child hereafter to be born as in Europe with an armed and trained

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to Q, and today's instalment is the second of the Rs:

Good Afternoon.

If the Boynton bicycle railroad ever amounts to anything it will be a good thing for the cities and towns through which it passes. In view of this fact, should Quincy business people desire to put it away from the business centre? It would seem not, and yet there are those who have advocated granting a location at West Quincy, or in that direction. Dorchester people now regret very much that they forced the Old Colony to built so far out to sea as to be of no benefit to the bulk of the district, and it would be the same in Quincy in years to come, or else the business will move toward the railroad which gives the best service. Before granting the locatio, the City Council should learn just what part of the road will be elevated; just how many stations the city will have; just where they will be located; etc., etc. We realize with some of the remonstrants that the locations asked are in a measure objectionable and should be changed. It is not the land taken that is damaged but the property abutting. Many who are anxious to sell their property at double its value would not object in the least to it being taken by eminent domain, but the City Council should protect the first class residential neighborhoods, and business interests.

A pasenger car on a steam railroad costs from $4000 to $5000; a baggage car, from $2,000 to $2,500; a sleeping car, from $10,000 to $20,000.

NAPHEN AT QUINCY

He Speaks at Two Rallies Last Night,

Also W. H. Baker Another Congressional Candidate.

Messrs. Cain and Jordan Make Short Addresses.

Democratic rallies were held in two of the wards of the city last evening, addressed by the same speakers. However, only three of the six advertised put in an appearance.

AT WEST QUINCY.

From 200 to 300 assembled at St. Mary's hall and it was quite an enthusiastic rally. Ex-Councilman Gerry was introduced as the presiding officer, who spoke briefly and introduced Candidate Naphen.

Mr. Naphen spoke for fifteen minutes. He thanked the voters for the nomination and the greeting, and had no doubt of the result if Quincy does her duty. He said his rival at first felt sure of a re-election; now considered it close, while many believed him beaten.

I noticed that Mr. Barrows referred in words of praise to the Adamses of old, but he forgot to say that all the descendants endorsed Democratic principles. But we must consider live issues. Quincy was the only city in Norfolk county, and the improvement of Town river meant much. It could then compete with Cape Ann for the granite trade. The city was entitled to a public building.

Candidate Barrows was criticised relative to petitions. The people should have the right to petition, and they should receive attention Mr. Barrows wanted to be elected to uphold the President, lest Spain might say his policy had been repudiated. What do we care for Spain? At last Barrows was pledged to Imperialism. To annex the Philippines would be a menace. I would bring cheap labor to competition. It would mean a large army, increased taxation and other dangers.

The administration was criticised for its short comings in the war. The Republican party was charged with the death of Sherman, Hoar, Col. Bogan, Maj. Grady, Maj. O'Connor and others.

In closing he said the Republican party did not represent either Republicans or Democrats.

W. H. Baker, the candidate in the 11th district spoke at length. He refuted the claim that prosperity was returning to the country. Algerism was discussed and McKinley and the War Department denounced.

W. A. Jordan, candidate for the Legislature, was introduced. While the party was surprised to find a Democrat in Wollaston, he was surprised at the nomination, but the biggest surprise would come next Tuesday in the election of the Democratic Representatives. They had been handicapped at first, but had wiped it out. In answer to the criticism that the Democratic party had stood still, he said, if they saw no way to advance the interests of the people it was preferable to stand still. The Republicans seemed to delight to flop around. The Republicans were opposed to immigration, but were now anxious to take in the population of the Philippines at one time.

Candidate Cain followed. He said he and his colleague were both laborers and new what labor men wanted. He never knew Candidate Sprague to introduce an order of benefit to labor. He further criticised his labor record. Candidate Sheppard bore an excellent character, but had had no experience or record. Mr. Cain criticised the administration of Mayor Sears and promised to explode a boom at the next meeting of the City Council.

Donald McDonald was the last speaker.

AT ATLANTIC.

There were less than 100 in attendance at the rally in Atlantic. It was announced for 7.30 but at that hour no speakers had arrived, and it was 8.30 before Stephen H. Edwards called the meeting to order and introduced Mr. Donald McDonald.

Mr. McDonald said he came simply to fill in until the speakers arrived. Candidate Naphen was his neighbor and he had always found him an honest man. If elected the citizens would have no reason to complain. The question is, have the Republicans fulfiled their promises? The speaker then told wherein they had failed and spoke of national issues and the tariff question.

Hon. Henry F. Naphen had now arrived. He thanked the audience for their reception and asked their support for the whole ticket. The contest in this district was the most important for years, and Quincy may determine the result. The Republicans are desperate and are using deplorable means. They are putting in an unlimited amount of money in this district. The living question is imperialism which will effect the future policy of this country, Mr. Barrows is committed to imperialisms. The question is whether you will vote for one committed to annexation or one opposed to it. If the Philippines are annexed it means men are to be brought here to compete with the laboring classes also a large standing army and other complications. In closing the speaker said, If you believe that Mr. Barrows should stay at home and save souls, send me to Congress and I will see that this district will be represented.

No other speaker had arrived and while awaiting the arrival candidate Naphen held a reception.

After a wait of nearly half an hour William H. Baker candidate for Congress in the 11th district, and W. A. Jordan and Thomas F. Cain candidates for the Legislature arrived each of whom spoke briefly.

CITY CAUCUSES.

The Representation of Both Parties—Political Notes.

The Democratic Municipal caucuses will be held Friday, Nov. 18, and the convention Tuesday, Nov. 22. Nomination papers for the caucuses must be filed before Saturday, Nov. 12..

The Republicans will hold their municipal caucuses on Thursday, Nov 17, and the wards will be entitled to the same number of delegates as to the Representative convention, viz: Ward One, 7; Ward Two, 5; Ward Three, 7; Ward Four, 5; Ward Five, 7; Ward Six, 3.

The Democrats will have a large Municipal convention this year, it being entitled to 63 delegates. There will be one at large and the following from Wards: Ward One, 11; Ward Two, 9; Ward Three, 12; Ward Four 19; Ward Five, 6; Ward Six, 5. A majority in a total vote will be 32.

The warrant for the State election appears in this issue. Polls will be opened at 7 A. M. and close at 4 P. M. Quincy voters will mark 17 crosses to vote the complete ticket.

The Secretary of State will publish in the Quincy Patriot this week the official nominations for Norfolk county. There are five candiates for each of the State offices except Attorney General, viz: Republican, Democratic, Democratic Social, Socialist Labor party, and Prohibition. For all the other offices it is a straight fight between Republicans and Democrats, except that there is no contest over register of probate and insolvency and sheriff. The Prohibitionists make no nominations this year for senator or representatives.

An Unfortunate Affair.

A party of highly respected young ladies and gentlemen of Quincy were returning from a Halloween party Monday night, and, as usual on an occasion like that, were singing and laughing. Officer Barry hearing them coming thought it was a crowd he was looking for and prepared to arrest the first one he could lay hands on. This proved to be J. William Biganess. On discovering who the party was, Mr. Barry acknowledged that he was sorry he had made the arest, for the young man bears an irreproachable character.

EBEN BAXTER.
TO BE SEEN HERE.

Mr. Charles Cowles, one of the best of our younger American actors, is to be seen in his strong Yankee comedy drama, "A Country Merchant," at Quincy Music hall, Friday night. Mr. Cowles is surrounded by a company of talented players and singers, carries his own special scenery, and promises a production of his pretty little play which will win for it and for him new friends..

In his stellar role of "Eben Baxter" the old Postmaster, Town Clerk and Grocer of Matua corners, he brings down the house, with laughter. This will be a genuine treat and should play to standing room only.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

THIEF OVERHAULED.

When the Brockton car due in Quincy at 3.40 arrived Tuesday afternoon, the conductor called Officer Daveron's attention to the peculiar action of one of his passengers. He was not only somewhat under the influence of liquor, but it was noticed that he had on more clothing than people usually wear at this time of the year. Officer Daveron took the fellow off and placed him under arrest for drunkenness. Upon being searched at the police station he was found to have on two pairs of trousers and three coats. In his pockets were a pint of whiskey, two silver ladles, several silver spoons and a silver fork. One of the spoons was marked R and another K. In a bundle the fellow carried there was a lady's silk waist and a lady's fur collarette. The fellow gave his name as John Kelley and his residence as Philadelphia.

It later turned out that a house had been broken into at Brockton and a quantity of silver and clothing taken. Brockton officers, and the party whose house was entered, came to Quincy later and identified the property as part of that stolen. It was not all found, however, and it is thought that eit her the fellow had a confederate or had disposed of it before he came to Quincy. Kelly had also disposed of his own coat, for that he had on was one that had been stolen.

Kelly was taken into the Quincy court this morning and after having the case against him for drunkenness disposed of he was turned over to Officer Kingman of Brockton.

The places entered at Brockton were the residences of Frank King and Geo. Packard. At both places the families were away and the breaks were not discovered until they arrived home at 6 o'clock. It was at Mr. Packard's that Kelly left a coat, which he this morning admitted belonged to him.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

But Ex-Councilman Bryant Says He is on the War Path.

Editors of the Ledger:

The statement made in the Ledger in regard to a Democratic nomination of myself for mayor was so absurd in its conception that I paid no attention to it in a serious way until I was asked by several persons if it was a fact. I think all Democrats will agree, except of course those who have been nominated to office under our present mayor, that I would not be eligible to a nomination by that party, and would like to state now once for all that I am not or would not accept a nomination for office by either party.

All I am looking for is a suitable candidate for the Republican party to nominate, and in justice to me I trust you will publish this letter.

Yours,
C. M. Bryant.

YOU WRONG YOURSELF

If you think you are making the most of your opportunities and do not advertise liberally in the Quincy Daily Ledger, which reaches most of the families of Quincy, Wollaston, Atlantic, Norfolk Downs, Quincy Point, Quincy Neck, South and West Quincy. It also circulates in Weymouth, Braintree and Milton.

JOHN WANAMAKER,

The millionaire of Philadelphia, who made his fortune by store advertising, says "I never in my life used such a thing as a poster, or hand bill, or dodger. My plan for 20 years has been to buy so much space in a newspaper and fill it up as I want it."

GOING SOUTH.

Regiments at Camp Meade are on the Move.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.,
Middletown, Penn, Oct. 30.

Last evening was clear, but toward midnight it commenced to sprinkle, so that we are having a disagreeable misty morning. It looks like clearing weather which we hope to have this afternoon. This being Sunday all drills are dispensed with so it is quiet in camp.

The boys commence tonight cleaning all their rifles, belts, buttons, dippers, pans, knives, and forks for tomorrow is the monthly inspection.

It may be the last to be held in Camp Meade for a number of trains are arriving, and commencing Monday the regiments will move away from here, two regiments each day.

Those booked for guard duty today from K Co. are: Sergeant McGrath, Corporal Haskins, Privates Gould, McLaughlin, Morales, Osgood, O'Connors, Jones, Olson, Piravanol Rafferty, Restelli, Roberts, Rowells, Ross.

The engineers and Signal Corps will leave tomorrow. A train loaded with horses and mules left tonight for the South. This battalion will not move before November 10, or until all the subsistence has been cleared away from the Commissory depot. The boys will be glad when we move away from here, for it is cold and chilly at night. The health of the boys is favorable. Volunteer.

Camp Meade, Oct. 31.

We are experiencing very sharp, snappy weather. The nights are cool, but the boys manage to keep warm. Corporal George E. Adams received an honorable discharge today, so that he can return to his class in Harvard which he left to join the company. The corporal is elated with his good fortune. The other boys are not so successful in securing theirs. The new camp that was selected, has again been condemned so that the 2d Army Corps will be stationed at Greenville, S. C., which is across the border of North Carolina, near Columbia. Huntsville, Ala., was condemned by the medical board.

The 2d Battalion will remain where they are, until all the troops depart from Camp Meade, when they will complete their duty, by loading all the supplies which are in the Commissory storehouses for shipment to the new camps at Greenville.

From now on regiments will be leaving every day.

The regular monthly inspection mentioned in my last letter, came off today. The inspection showed that the 2d batalion can still present, in spite of unfavorable conditions, as good an appearance as they did when at South Framingham. Where it was possible to preserve accoutrements in a much fitter condition than here. The boys of Co. K, as usual carried off the honors for their appearance. The battalion was inspected by Captain Sykes. of Co. I, who is acting commander of the battalion, during Major Morrison's absence.

The boys were today, mustered for pay. This, as the reader can well imagine, is one of the most pleasurable events of camp life. We expect to have this soon followed by a visit from the paymaster, and his presence will be more than welcomed, for money is at a premium here.

The following members of K Co. are today performing the tour of guard duty: Corporal Johnson, Bugler Johnson, Privates Levangie, Leonard, Osgood, Ryan, D. Smith, W. Smith, Swanson, Spillane, Savoie, Sheehan, Sullivan, Seberg. Private Spillane was again favored with the berth of orderly.

Privates W. E. Morrissey and Frank Pierce are still at their task with Corporal Leslie unloading beef cars for the 2d Army Corps. Tomorrow 25 men from this regiment, with commissioned officers, will embark for the South, to make preparatory arrangemnts for the removal of the headquarters of regiment, so that everything will be in readiness for the arrival of the regiment.

Among the commissioned officers in the detail was Lieut. Spear of Co. K.

The health of the boys remain excellent. Volunteer.

TODAY'S COURT.

Michael Carroll was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth, and John M. Delory $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

John Green was arraigned for keeping an unlicensed dog at Quincy. Case continued until next Monday.

Work Wanted For Ten Thousand Idle Cubans.

Labor Question Bids Fair to Make Trouble In the Near Future.

Santiago, Nov. 2.—General Wood authorizes the statement that there has not been a case of yellow fever in Santiago city during the last 60 days, and that the ordinary sickness during the same period has been 90 percent less than usual at this season of the year. In view of the fact that a good many people have been unnecessarily frightened by fictitious tales of suffering, General Wood asks that hereafter all applicants to the various societies for aid be referred to him. If the case is a really necessitous one he will endorse the application. General Wood does not wish to be understood as saying that no private assistance is wanted in Santiago. On the contrary, much will still be needed, though the present supply is ample for present contingencies.

He warmly commends the Red Cross society for continuous help and for supplies which have been effectively distributed.

It is now expected that within the next 15 days the staff of the yellow fever hospital will be abolished. It has been maintained merely to care for a few suspected cases, and as the cooler weather is now here its further services are not needed.

The leading Cubans are very anxious to have their people return to work. They are preparing plans to be laid before the Washington government that will enable all insurgents who are willing to work to get employment in building railways in various parts of the island. The idea would be to pay for the lines by local taxation, the roads thus becoming government property and eventually reverting to the Cubans. It is believed that 10,000 men now idle can be given regular emp oyment in this way.

The transport Port Victor, which leaves today for the United States, will carry a number of sick to Hampton Roads and to New York city. She will also take many bodies of United States soldiers killed in action. These have been placed in hermetically sealed coffins.

Fears are expressed here that the former Spanish cruiser Infanta Maria Teresa, which left Guantanamo bay on Saturday for the United States, accompanied by the repair ship Vulcan, may have met with a hurricane on Sunday night.

Telegraph wires will be stretched immediately to Holguin, to bring the regiment station there into immediate communication with headquarters here.

Santiago newspapers are asking General Wood to appoint a civilian mayor of the city, and he will probably designate Leonardo Ros, who was mayor under the Spanish regime, and was appointed by General Shafter the first civil governor after the American occupation, holding the office for several weeks. Senor Ros is a Cuban by birth. Formerly he was an autonomist, but at present he is apparently identified with the extremist section of the Cuban party.

A representative negro has written a letter to General Wood, demanding that the negroes, who, he says, constitute a large majority of the population of the province, shall be given their rights, and announcing his intention to form a labor party composed of blacks. A party that will labor is really what is wanted here, General Wood asserting that if the people of the district will not work he will authorize the immigration of foreign miners and workmen. Matters cannot remain longer at a standstill.

Naval Vessels' Movements.

Washington, Nov. 2.—The Hist has arrived at Santiago. The Marblehead has sailed from League island for Boston. The Topeka has sailed from Philadelphia for Havana. The Nashville has sailed from Port Royal for Norfolk. The Montgomery and the Princeton have sailed from Charleston for Norfolk. The Cincinnati has arrived at Caimanera.

Evacuation Is Progressing.

Havana, Nov. 2.—Senor Girauta, secretary of the Spanish evacuation commission, yesterday delivered to the American commissioners two notes, one authorizing Dr. Laine to inspect the sanitary condition of the Spanish military hospital in Havana, with a view to a report, and the other announcing the sailing from Gibarara, province of Santiago, Oct. 29, of the transports San Ygnacio and Notre Dame du Sal, each carrying 1000 troops with officers, all belonging to the Holguin division. The note further states that General Luque will remain until the last soldier is ready to go. The steamer Chateua Lafite sailed from this port today for Gibarara to complete the evacuation.

The members of the various United States commissioners and their staffs went to the Colon cemetery today to place wreathes upon the graves where lie the remains of the Maine victims. A committee of young Cuban ladies sent five baskets of flowers to the hotel Trotcha to be used in the cemetery.

Chaplain House's Resignation.

Boston, Nov. 2.—The resignation of Chaplain House of the Fifth Massachusetts regiment, now at Camp Meade, has been disapproved by Colonel Whitney, who endorses the application: "The services of this officer have been of such inestimable value that I feel the interests of the regiment require that he be retained." Chaplain House's church in Attleboro has also declined to accept his resignation so that he can remain in the army, and the clergyman's position is peculiar.

Friendly Tips.

London, Nov. 2.—The Paris correspondent of The Times notices with pleasure the fact that important French newspapers advise Spain not to count upon European intervention, and that it is expedient for her to yield, so as not to be exposed to the terrible consequences of a bombardment of the Spanish coasts.

The Daily Chronicle says editorially this morning: A war in which the justly vanquished nation receives a solatium of £6,000,000 would be a novelty so great that it must be seen to be believed. In any case it would be madness for Spain to attempt to resume hostilities.

Standing of Racers.

Baltimore, Nov. 2.—A bulletin issued by Chairman Mott of the L. A. W. racing board gives the following as the score in the national championship: Tom Butler, 189; Bald, 155; Major Taylor, 143; McFarland, 128; Kimble, 112; Cooper, 106; Arthur Gardiner, 102; Watson Coleman, 87; Freeman, 73; Stevens, 62; Robert Thompson, 40; Mertes, 38; George Kramer, 33; Robert Walthour, 30; Wiese Hammer, 20; William Martin, 19; Jay Eaton, 16; Nat Butler, 15; John Fisher, 14; Titus, 14; Bowles, 7; Kiser, 6; Fred Sims, 5; Dr. Brown, 5; Becker, 5; Jaap Eden, 4; Karl Kaser, 3; Harry Terrill, 3; Bourette, 2; C. M. Bly, 2; Hills, Jr., 2; Caldwell, 1; Cabanne, 1; Colgan, 1. The bulletin shows that the following have been transferred to the professional class: F. Coulter, Brockton; J. Martin and William Littlewood, Quincy; William W. Whalen, Atlantic, Mass.

Joke on the Kaiser.

Constantinople, Nov. 2.—It appears that Emperor William made an amusing mistake at the reception which preceded the gala banquet given in his honor by the sultan at the palace. Evidently mistaking Mrs. Straus, wife of the United States minister to Turkey, for the wife of another diplomatist, the emperor said he knew her queen very well. Mrs. Straus quickly replied: "I presume your majesty refers to Mrs. McKinley?" Emperor William was evidently much entertained at his own error.

Settled Its Debts.

Toledo, Nov. 2.—Judge Ricks of the United States court yesterday took the Columbia, Lima and Milwaukee railroad out of the hands of the receiver and turned it over to the stockholders. An application was filed by O. M. Stafford showing that all the accounts of the road had been adjusted. The receiver filed a similar report and stated that he believed the road to be all right.

THE FASHODA MUDDLE

Report of France's Decision to Withdraw Her Nile Forces.

Egyptian Government to Help Facilitate Matters.

British Premier Will Wait For Evacuation Before Proceeding Further.

London, Nov. 2.—The Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail says: France will retire from Fashoda unconditionally and without asking compersation. Baron de Courcel, whose term as French ambassador in London expired long ago, but who has held on to conduct negotiations affecting Egypt, will now be recalled; and no haste will be shown to appoint his successor with a view of making French resentment at British action, for England has almost taken the place of Germany as the object of French hatred.

The Paris correspondent of The Times says: Baron de Courcel gathered from a conversation held after the last British cabinet council that Lord Salisbury's attitude had undergone a change, the British premier insisting that it was impossible to disregard public opinion in England, and that nothing could be done until Fashoda was evacuated. So far as French public opinion is concerned there is not the slightest idea of going to war for Fashoda; and any government doing so would be regarded as a government of imbeciles.

The war office has issued a semi-official notification in which it says it does not object to the papers announcing military and naval preparations in general terms, but points out that it would be "unpatriotic to publish specific details that might be useful to a possible foe."

The Daily Graphic says this morning: We learn from an official source in Paris that Captain Banatier bears instructions to Major Marchand to return to Fashoda and then to withdraw his expedition in the direction of the Upper Ubanghi river, evacuating Fashoda and the five posts established east of the frontier indicated in the Anglo-German agreement.

The Egyptian government will be invited to send troops to accompany Major Marchand as he retires from the Bahr-el-Ghazel territory and to reoccupy the posts as they are evacuated by the French officer, thus solving the difficulty concerning Major Marchand's revictualment.

When Major Marchand's retirement is fully accomplished, negotiations, based on proposals submitted by Baron de Courcel to Great Britain, will be opened. France is disposed to recognize frankly that the reconquest of Omdurman completely changes the situation as it existed when Major Marchand was instructed to proceed to the Nile. The French government will even state that, had Major Marchand been aware of the khedivial advance, he would not have pushed his mission so far east.

These intentions have not yet been officially imparted to Great Britain, but they probably will be before Major Marchand's evacuation commences.

There is no noticeable cessation in England's preparations and the officials are confident of the country's ability to meet all emergencies. There were large shipments of guns, shells, and ware stores to Malta and Gibraltar yesterday.

The Rome correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: "France is making great preparations at Bizerta, about 40 miles northwest of Tunis. Guns and munitions of war arrive daily and men are strengthening the forts, working night and day. The object is said to be to cut communication between Malta and Egypt in the event of hostilities with Great Britain.

The Berlin correspondent of The Standard says: "Russia has declined to support France in the Fashoda affair, fearing that a reopening of the Egyptian question would interfere with her tremendous task in China."

Sued For $50,000; Got $9000.

Boston, Nov. 2.—A verdict of $9000 for the plaintiff was returned by a jury in the superior court in the case of Charles E. Gibson vs. the International Trust company. The plaintiff is president of the Provident Trust company, which is a tenant in defendants' building. On April 28, 1896, Mr. Gibson was leaving the elevator at the street floor, when the car dropped suddenly. His right leg was caught between the elevator and the floor and was badly crushed. He sought to recover $50,000.

Charged With Poisoning.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 2.—The trial of Daniel Hastings, formerly a driver of an ice wagon in Framingham, who is charged with attempting to poison Alexander Robichau, his foreman, on Aug. 5 last, was placed on trial in this city yesterday. The government witnesses included Robichau, Joseph Desroseus and Arthur C. Howe, who drank coffee into which it is alleged the defendant had put paris green. The case was not finished at the close of the session.

Short ge of Over $6000.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 2.—Frank E. Foss, postmaster at Hill, was brought to this city by United States Marshal Campbell and arraigned before United States Commissioner Shurtleff on the charge of embezzlement from the United States government. He pleaded not guilty, waived examination and was bound over in the sum of $8000. Post-office Inspector Willis states that the amount of the shortage is $6329.

Gloucester's Losses.

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 2.—The end of the fishing season is at hand and with it is counted the profit and loss and the sacrifice of life. The reckoning for the year is 14 vessels a total loss, 82 men drowned in the pursuit of the fisheries, 23 wives widowed and 55 children orphaned. The losses will approximate $100,000.

DUPUY AT THE HELM.

New Cabinet Promises Introduction of Progressive Measures.

Paris, Nov. 2.—President Faure last evening signed the decree constituting the cabinet formed by M. Dupuy. M. Dupuy had a long conference with his colleagues and discussed all pending domestic and foreign questions. The ministers reached a complete accord regarding the past attitude of Foreign Minister Delcasse toward the Fashoda question and as to the policy he proposed for the future. They approved also the taxation reform proposal of Minister of Finance Peytral.

CHARLES DUPUY.

It was agreed that the ministerial statement of policy, on the reassembling of parliament, should declare that the present constitution of the cabinet was meant to mark a further stage in the complete union of the whole Republican party and should promise the introduction of progressive measures as, for instance, old age pensions, and similar bills.

As regards the Dreyfus question, the cabinet bows to the decision of the court of cassation and will aid the work of justice.

Cannot Open Branches.

New York, Nov. 2.—On Oct. 21 last ex-Controller of the Currency Hepburn, now vice president of the National City bank, wrote the present controller at Washington, Charles G. Dawes, asking whether or not, with propriety and consistently with law, any modification could be made in the ruling of the controller's office forbidding the opening of branches by national banks within city limits. Yesterday Mr. Hepburn received from Controller Dawes a reply to his letter in which the controller says that "it would seem that the question is settled in the negative by reference to the revised statutes of the United States." The controller then goes on in detail to point out how this section, to his mind, clearly settles the matter adversely.

Western Railways In Debt.

Denver, Nov. 2.—A suit for foreclosure of mortgage and sale of the entire property of the Southwest End Railway company has been filed by the Central Trust company in the United States circuit court. Petition is made for the appointment of a receiver and an injunction to restrain the present officers from interfering with the future management of the road. The mortgage is for $300,000, interest on which has been in default since 1894. The Southwest End railway is 10 miles long and runs into the suburbs of the city. A decree was entered in the district court yesterday ordering the sale of the Colfax Electric railway, another suburban street car line, to satisfy defaulted bonds and interest to the amount of $216,000.

For Allowing Reed to Escape.

Boston, Nov. 2.—Officer J. L. Abbott of the Charlestown prison, who is accountable for the escape of John Reed, the bunco man, at Worcester, Sunday night, was suspended yesterday by Warden Bridges. A report on the case will be forwarded to the prison commissioners, and it will then fall on them to decide whether or not he is a proper man to remain in the employ of the state. Warden Bridges has offered a reward of $200 for the recapture of Reed. The warden has also sent Deputy Allen to Worcester for the purpose of obtaining all the information possible relating to the escape of Reed and to make a thorough investigation to see if there was any prearranged plan made for the escape.

Took French Leave.

Rockland, Me., Nov. 2. — William Barnes, an inmate of the state prison insane asylum, made his escape yesterday while at work in a cabbage field under the charge of Officer Moody. Barnes was not a convict, yet is considered a dangerous man. He has served two sentences in the prison, being the first time committed for obstructing a railroad when only 14 years old, for which he was sentenced to 10 years. Previous to his being committed to the prison asylum he escaped from the Augusta asylum and was recaptured and sent to Thomaston about four years ago.

Mayor Moores' Case.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 2.—Attorneys for Frank E. Moores, mayor of Omaha, yesterday filed with the supreme court a motion for a rehearing and reversal of judgment from the decision rendered two months ago ousting him from office. The court at that time sustained the allegation that Moores was a defaulter at the time of his election and therefore ineligible. Mayor Moores in his motion insists that the writ of ouster is at variance with previous decisions and without precedent. He charges other irregularities. He has served nearly two years of his term.

Raised Money In Circulation.

Boston, Nov. 2.—Boston detectives have been ordered to search for two men who have been passing raised money. The bills are of the $2 denomination and were raised to $10. Secret Service Agent Redfern is working with the local police.

New Lease of Life.

Hartford, Nov. 2.—Governor Cook yesterday reprieved Benjamin R. Willis, the Fairfield county murderer, who was to have been executed Nov. 4, until Dec. 20. Willis was convicted of murdering D. S. R. Lambert in Wilton, Dec. 1897.

NEW COLONIAL POLICY.

These things are involved in this wild and impassionate cry for empire. And these questions will be answered by the American people before we enter upon that crusade. For myself, I disbelieve and hate the notion that the American people are to submit to such a transformation. Incredulus odi.

The cry that we have outgrown Washing; that the old foundations can no longer support our temple; that the doctrines of the declaration of independence and the constitution of Massachusetts are not eternal verities, but only the makeshifts of a generation; that they are for little countries and not for large ones; that the policy and the destiny of this people are to be better settled in crowded assemblies, with shouting and clapping of hands and stamping of feet, than they were of old in the quiet chamber where Madison and Hamilton sat in council; that the flag stands for trade and for dominion and not for manhood and for self-government; that Washington lived and that Lincoln died only that we might have another Rome or another Spain; that Spain has so revenged herself upon us as that her spirit and ideals have entered into and taken possession of us—these things shall never happen while America is America, and while Massachusetts is Massachusetts.

We will not give these people back to Spain. Indeed, she could not reconquer them if we let her alone. We will set them on their feet; we will support them in the exercise of self-government. If in the future it shall be found necessary, we will call other civilized and Christian nations into our counsel and invite their co-operation. But we will not annex them to our Union; we will not treat them as booty, and we will not govern them as serfs.

Ounce of Prevention.

New York, Nov. 2.—The quarantine regulations are strictly enforced against all vessels arriving from ports where the bubonic plague prevails, particularly Hong Kong and Bombay. There are no regular passenger lines of steamers plying between Austria and this port. All passengers, however, who leave Austrian cities, are carefully inspected on arrival at quarantine.

Held In $2000 Bonds.

Malden, Mass., Nov. 2.—William D. Nutter, M. D., of this city was arraigned in the Malden court yesterday and pleaded not guilty to the charge of being an accessory to the death of Mrs. Louise Samuel S. Bradbury, which occurred at the Malden hospital on Oct. 7. The hearing was continued until Nov. 9, and he furnished $2000 bonds for his appearance.

From New York to Canada.

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 2.—The house yesterday passed the bill incorporating the Rutland Canadian railroad company, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, giving it the right to construct a road from Burlington to the Canadian line. The construction of this line will give the Vanderbilt system a line from New York to Canada and the Great Lakes.

Coming Home For Trial.

London, Nov. 2.—Dr. Nancy Guilford of Bridgeport, Conn., whose extradition to the United States on the charge of murder in the second degree has been granted in connection with the death of Emma Gill, the victim of the Yellow millpond tragedy, will sail for New York on Nov. 12 in custody of Detective Cronan of the Bridgeport police.

Taunton Democrats Rally.

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 2.—A Democratic rally with George F. Williams as the chief speaker, was held in Odd Fellows hall last night, and the audience which filled the hall was quite enthusiastic. Mr. Williams was repeatedly applauded. Charles H. Brown, candidate for senator from this district, was also a speaker.

HEART DISEASE.

FACTS REGARDING THE RAPID INCREASE OF HEART TROUBLES.

Do Not be Alarmed, But Look for the Cause.

Heart troubles, at least among Americans, are certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real, orgainic heart disease is incurable; but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by branches of the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way, also the heart is affected by that form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half digested food; there is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, makes it thin and water, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can best be done by the regular use after meals, of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuarts' Dyspepsia Tablet, which may be found at most drug stores and which contain valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

VESSEL SUNK

Such Said to Be Fate of a Transport.

Wreckage From the Prize Ship Panama.

Greater Number of Passengers Were Soldiers.

New York, Nov. 3.—The Press has a dispatch from Washington saying that cable advices from Santiago announce the probable loss of the Panama ,once a United States transport, off Capt Maysi. The Panama sailed from Santiago on Tuesday, having on board 320 odd passengers, the greater number of whom were soldiers. There were a few civilians aboard, including Congressman Dalzell of Pennsylvania.

The vessel is said to have been off Cape Maysi yesterday, and it was expected that she would reach New York city on Saturday. The news of the probable loss of the vessel, according to the information received here, was brought to Santiago by a fishing schooner.

The schooner left Santiago a week ago, and while cruising along the coast early yesterday morning the captain sighted wreckage.

There were chairs and trunks. At first it was impossible to make out from what craft the debris had come. After a close inspection several pieces of joiner work and some life preservers were seen, each one bearing the name of the transport Panama.

Believing that possibly all those on the vessel might have been lost, the captain put on all sail and headed back to port.

One of the passengers on the Panama was Congressman Dalzell of Pennsylvania. He went to Cuba in the interest of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and had completed his labors and was returning home, in company with G. M. Huff, formerly congressman-at-large from Pennsylvania.

Only little surprise was expressed here when the news spread that the vessel had probably gone to the bottom. She had been in a bad condition, and it was expected two months ago that she would be taken out of the service temporarily and repaired.

Presented With Flags.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 3.—More than 3000 people crowded the city hall last evening to take part in the celebration in honor of the three local companies of the Second regiment, at which the companies were given each a handsome flag by the citizens. A feature of the evening was the presence of Governor Wolcott and members of his staff. The governor delivered an address of eulogy to the companies, which brought great applause. This morning all the companies of the regiment were mustered out. Governor Wolcott reviewed the men from the city hall steps.

Amicably Adjusted.

Denver, Nov. 3.—The lockout of 600 employes of the Denver breweries was ended yesterday, the diffrences between the Brewers' association and the Brewery Workmen's union having been adjusted through the efforts of the National Union of the United Brewery Workmen. The workmen's union conceded to the employers the right to discharge men at will. The master brewers agree to take back all the men locked out and grant a 9-hour day without reduction of wages.

Pension Figures Run High.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 3.—Returns received here from Tuesday's election are still so meagre that the result is in doubt, although it is believed that the country vote will defeat the pension amendment. The hope is expressed by many that the amendment is defeated, as in seeking to pension confederate soldiers it will cost the state $250,000 to begin with, while an increase to $1,000,000 annually in a very short time is probable.

Believes In Pafriotism.

Aberdeen, S. D., Nov. 3.—United States Senator Kyle, in an interview in The News, says: "I repudiate the Populist party management in this state." Although still an independent, he says he will oppose fusion until the state has been redeemed from the hands of the element that now controls that party. He charges his Populist colleagues in congress with being unpatriotic in not supporting President McKinley in the war against a common foe.

Will Remain Out.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 3.—The weavers in the Border City mill ,who have been on strike for about 12 weeks, yesterday affirmed their determination to stay out, by a secret ballot, over 990 percent voting to keep up the strike. The contention is over the wage schedule. the operatives alleging a cutdown.

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

England Continues to Hurry Along Her Warlike Preparations.

London Nov 3.—The situation regarding Fashoda is practically unchanged. The special dispatches from Paris this morning repeat the semi-official statement that the evacuation of Fashoda is accepted in principle, but that other points in the Bahr-el-Gazel region will be maintained.

Various rumors are afloat as to Abyssinian expeditions nearing the Nile to assist the French, but nothing authentic is known on this point.

Mr. Delcasse, French minister of foreign affairs, is expected to announce his policy in the chamber of deputies tomorrow. It is admitted on all sides that Fashoda itself offers no difficulty, provided a way can be found to save French amour propre.

Not since the Crimean war has England engaged in such extensive preparations for war as at the present moment. Every dockyard, arsenal and military centre resounds with the din of preparation for some mighty emergency. No one outside the government officials knows what the exact reason is, but nearly everybody thinks he can guess pretty near what it is.

The belief is almost general that England contemplates a sensational coup by declaring a protectorate over Egypt, or to speak more plainly, to make it a part of the British dominions. Such a move would command the support of the whole English people, for curiously enough all parties are united in demanding that British supremacy in Africa must be secured forthwith and safeguarded for all time.

Her great fleet is being mobilized at various points, and all kinds of military stores are being placed on board. Ships that were laid up for repairs or out of commission have been hurriedly ordered to sea, and the utmost dispatch is being used to fill out the crews. The fact that the coast guardsmen throughout the United Kingdom have been warned to be in readiness for mobilization, is regarded as a menacing sign. Many of them have already joined their ships.

London, Nov. 3.—James Byrce, former under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, subsequently president of the board of trade, and now a Liberal member of parliament for Aberdeen, speaking there last evening, endorsed Lord Salisbury's stand in the Fashoda controversy, declaring that "the military control of all the navigable waters in the Bahr-el-Ghazel basin, as well as the Nile, must be secured to Egypt."

Referring to the increasing cordiality between the United States and Great Britain, Mr. Bryce said: "When last in the United States I was much struck with the change in public sentiment. The spontaneous outburst of feeling in Great Britain, when the European powers wished to intervene against the United States during the recent war with Spain, made the Americans understand how close we felt the tie between them and ourselves. They have shown that they appreciate and reciprocate our sentiment.

"I would never advocate a formal alliance. At all events the obstacles at present are serious; but all the conditions exist for a solid and durable friendship between America and Great Britain. They have no adverse interests anywhere in the world, and they have common aims in sundry regions. Everywhere each can render a great service to the other, and they can understand one another better than either can understand any foreign country. Nature and history meant them to be friends; the closer and deeper that friendship is, the better it will be for the greatness and welfare of both."

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to Q, and today's instalment concludes the Rs :

Good Afternoon.

Among the 32 cities and towns which the Herald includes in "Greater Boston" only Boston, Brookline, Cambridge and Newton made a larger gain in valuation of real estate this year. And only four — Waltham, Everett, Cambridge and Belmont—made a greater decrease in tax rate. The Herald is unfair to Quincy, in that it includes Hull in the district but does not include towns like Hingham, Weymouth, Braintree, Holbrook, Randolph and Brockton, most of which are nearer to Boston by rail than Marblehead, Manchester, Lynn, Weston and others, and have high tax rates.

The suggestion to make Willard street from Braintree through Quincy and Milton to Boston a State highway should have been in shape to present at the meeting of the Massachusetts Highway Commission for Norfolk county, held at Dedham on Wednesday. This street with its continuations should be one of the great arteries from Boston to the South Shore towns. We predict that it will be, and that within five years there will be a line of electric cars from Boston via this route to East Milton, West Quincy and Braintree. It is a thoroughfare which needs the cooperation of Quincy, Milton and Braintree, but as this is difficult to obtain, the State Highway Commission should step in.

Some were not surprised to learn from ex-Councilman Byrant himself that he was "looking for a suitable candidate for the Republican party to nominate for Mayor." While he is experiencing considerable difficulty in finding the man this year, the great majority of the Republicans are in no such dilemma. They recognize in the executive of the city the present year a gentleman who is entitled to, and worthy of, renomination and a re-election, and they propose to stick to him. If Mayor Sears has nominated some Democrats for office, as represented, it will stamp his administration as non-partisan, and entitled him to the independent support. But the grievance of the ex-Councilman is that the Mayor did not reappoint another Democrat, the chief engineer of the fire department. All justice to ex-Chief Williams as a fire fighter, but the fire department of 1896 and 1897, it must be admitted, was a political machine. The fire department was never better organized or more efficient than it is today. The only criticism of Mayor Sears relates to the appointments, and comes almost wholly from the disappointed ones. The officials of 1898 have very generally indeed, given excellent service. No criticisms are heard relative to administrative acts of the executive but many have praise for him, is that he kept the annual appropriations down, and secured a decrease in the tax rate in the face of dire predictions. They note progress in the city—the rapid sewer construction the building of several miles of permanent sidewalks to which the Mayor was so earnestly committed; an improvement in our streets; the preparations for placing the electric wires underground, etc.

And on the whole an economical and administration within the appropriations.

Sketches and comments concerning the Republican candidates for Representatives will be of interest but are hardly necessary to influence the voters, in their favor. Both are successful business men of honesty and repute.

EUGENE H. SPRAGUE.

Mr. Sprague's three years' service in the City Council as a Councilman at large in 1894, 1895 and 1896 made him well known to all the voters. He was one of the most active members of the legislative branch in each of these years, not confining his work solely to the Committees on Public Buildings and Grounds, and Fire Department and Police, on which he served the three years. He was always ready to discuss any question and was admired for his blunt, honest straight-forward statements. His opponents in this election are endeavoring to make capital out of misrepresentations of his attitude toward labor, but they don't state all the facts. Experience has proved that it is impossible to get Quincy labor at any price to dig the deep cuts necessary for the trunk lines of the sewer. The duties of a Councilman and Representative in the Legislature are largely to the taxpayer, and Councilman Sprague was watchful for their interests.

The votes by which Councilman Sprague was elected each year are of special interest, showing a continued appreciation of his services, his total vote the last year being larger than the first year and each year larger than the vote given for the Republican candidate for Mayor:

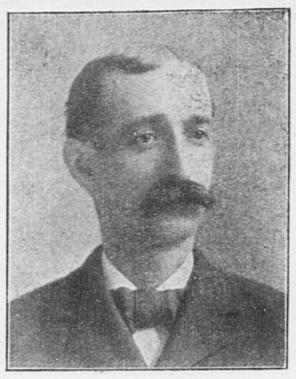
Ex-Councilman Sprague is a Pine Tree State man, his birthplace being Islesboro, Maine, May 23, 1864. He completed his school education at the Eastern State Normal school, but once remarked to the writer that his best education was received in doing business with men smarter than himself. He came to Quincy in 1882, and entered the employ of Thomas Gurney at Atlantic. Since 1886 he has been associated with his brother in the wholesale provision business in Boston under the firm name of Sprague Brothers & Co. Over twenty of the marketmen of Quincy who do business with the firm will testify to square dealing.

Mr. Sprague married a sister of ex-Commissioner Eaton, formerly a successful teacher in the Quincy schools, and Mrs. Sprague has encouraged her husband in all his enterprises. They located in Wollaston, and in 1896 erected a fine house on Arlington street, at the corner of Elmwood avenue.

EBEN W. SHEPPARD.

Eben W. Sheppard, the other Republican candidate, is a popular young man in the prime of business activity, who has never sought political office. Largely through his personal efforts the Quincy coal business of J. F. Sheppard & Sons is what it is, for Candidate Sheppard came among us sixteen years ago and has successfully managed the Quincy end.



Mr. Sheppard was born in Greenwich, New Jersey, May 7, 1860. Ten years later he became a resident of Braintree where he attended the public schools and was graduated from the High school while Mr. Charles E. Stetson was principal. In 1880 he took up the study of navigation, making a trip to the West Indies and spending part of the winter in Cuba.

Mr. Sheppard married about the time he came to Quincy, and prospering in business he has erected recently on Greenleaf street one of the finest residences in the city. With a family of two bright boys, now students at Thayer Academy, he enjoys the comforts of home.

For a few years he has been a member of the Republican Committee but is in no sense an offensive politician, and his efforts are always for good government on business principles. It is such gentlemen that Quincy has usually been successful in electing to the Massachusetts Legislature, and the election of Mr. Sheppard is conceded.

A Chorus Class.

Next Saturday evening all Atlantic people who are interested in music are invited to the vestry of the Methodist church, where a meeting will be held to consider the feasibility of organizing a chorus class. The class if organized will be under the direction of Mr. Howard R. Wood of the New England Conservatory of Music. Mr. Wood is a man of abundant experience in such work. He sings at Trinity church, Boston, is leader of two choirs, is also directing several choruses at present. He is a voice teacher and has time for a few more pupils.

The classes will not be organized unless at least thirty join. The charge will be ten cents per member per lesson. It will be started with the intention of giving ten lessons and may continue longer if desired at that time. If enough attend who are already familiar with music probably an oratorio will be worked up to be given later.

The County Ring Again.

A whisper from Hyde Park indicates political activity on the part of ex-County Commissioner Melville P. Morrell of a nature interesting to Quincy citizens, as well as Hyde Park voters. It would seem that early in the campaign Mr. Morrell and his friends favored the candidacy of Mr. Walter S. Weston, the Republican candiate for Representative. Later, however, Mr. Morrell called at the home of Mr. Weston and tendered him his support and promised his sure election if he would pledge himself to vote and work for a bill to be presented to the next legislature authorizing the payment of the legal expenses incurred in his defense, which the County at the time repudiated, and which action the Supreme Court has since sutained. Mr. Weston positively refused in any way or for any thing to bind himself before election. Upon this Mr. Morrell at once stirred up his friends, some of whom had already voluntarily tendered their support to Mr. Weston, to actively oppose his election and give their aid to Mr. S. A. Tuttle, the Democrat candidate, who has possibly promised what was refused by the Republican candidate.

It is said that Mr. Morrell is operating the same questionable campaign methods he used last year against the Republican candidate, but as his political influence in Hyde Park does not extend beyond a few devoted friends, Mr. Weston has little too fear and Hyde Park is sure to be represented in the next Legislature by a man who stands unpledged to further the schemes of any man.

Inasmuch as the contemplated legislative act would involve an expenditure of over seven thousand dollars ($7,000, of the county's money, it behoves Quincy and the other towns of Norfolk county to see to it that their candidates for Representatives occupy the same unpledged position in this matter as does Mr. Weston of Hyde Park. The stand taken by Mr. Weston stamps him as a man who can be trusted to look honestly and fearlessly after the interests of his constituents, and the more of such men there are in our Legislature the better we shall all be represented.

This Afternoon's Fire.

The alarm at 1.20 this afternoon was for a small barn on Dunn's hill off Quarry street, near the quarry of George H. Hitchcock & Co. It obtained a good headway before the alarm was given and was practically destroyed with one or two tons of hay. The cause was unknown. Loss $200.

A Happy Occasion.

The Mother's society of the Bethany church gave a reception Wednesday afternoon at the church parlors from 2 to 5 o'clock to mothers and children under six years of age. The reception proved a source of great pleasure to the seventy mothers who were present and twenty children enjoyed themselves as only children know how. During the afternoon there were devotional exercises, music, kindergarten games, for the children, and a lunch, and of course a general interchange of thoughts in which the mothers recounted to willing listeners the exploits and witty and cute sayings of their particular little one, while the children themselves looked on in blissful ignorance and doubtless wondered what it was all about.

POLITICAL FIELD.

Mr. Naphen says that is a disgrace to put so much money in Quincy as the Barrows men have, but from all at appearances Mr. Naphen's friends are spending a few dollars. A stereopticon was used in City Square Wednesday evening in the interest of Mr. Naphen.

Papers placing delegates in nomination for Mayoralty candidates at the caucuse have already been filed.

The Democrats will hold their last campaign of the State election tomorrow evening at Hancock hall to be addressed by Congressman Fitzgerald, Robert Howard, Richard Sullivan, William A. Murphy, E. C. Baldwin and Leon Egges.

Registration for the City election will begin next Wednesday, the day after the State election.

The city finds it necessary to rent but three of the eight polling places.

Eighteen votes will be necessary in the Republican Municipal convention to nominate the candidates for Mayor and Councilman at large.

Why Quincy Must Wait.

Congressman Barrows in his speech at Fields Corner last night said in part:

"Mr. Naphen told the people of Quincy that they ought to have some improvements for their harbor, and that they ought to have a federal building. He did not tell them, however, that a Democratic administration had so depleted the treasury that there was no money to spend for a river and harbor bill, or for new public building.

"It is not the plan of a Republican administration, when the government is running behind several million dollars a month from Democratic mismanagement to borrow money at a high rate of interest by selling bonds to syndicate, and to spend this borrowed money for public improvements. Our first business is to bring up the public revenue and spend our money when we have got it.

"Mr. Naphen would like to go to Congress and show how generous he could be by voting public money for local improvements which has been raised by Republican revenues. But I think it is a little wiser if the Republicans have raised the money to let them spend it with a wise economy.

"Mr. Naphen thinks, also, that he should go to Congress to exercise the right of petition, but I know of no representative from the 10th district who has refused to present petitions which have been sent to him. It was John Quincy Adams, a representative from this district, who nobly stood for the right of petition, and that right is no longer questioned.

"If my opponent thinks he can persuade the voters of this district that by going to Congress he will have any more influence with President McKinley Thomas B. Reed, John D. Long than your present representative; that he will be more influential with the Republican majority, let him cease to attack the administration; let him assure the people of this district that he will be glad to vote for Thomas B. Reed for speaker; that he will sustain the Republican revenue bill, abandon his free silver heresies, come down from his rickety Chicago platform and stand on the solid ground of sound money and national honesty."

A CARD.

The undersigned does hereby agree to refund the money on a 50-cent bottle of Greene's Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cold or cough. He also warrants a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or no pay.

The continued case of Herbert Kennedy, for being a tramp at Quincy, was called and again continued until Friday morning.

LETTER FROM CO. K.

The Personnel of the Detail Which Went South.

Camp Meade, Nov. 2.

Today has been bright and sunny, but a little chilly. The usual inspection of quarters took place same as other mornings. Captain Sykes of Co. I, Attleboro, who is in command of battalion, during the Major's absence, was the inspecting officer. The regular morning's drill took place. At guard mount the following members of K Co. went on duty: Corporal Foster, Privates Thumstrom, Buckley, Clapp, Clements Colberg, M. Clark, Currie, Delano, Deslauries, Doran and Livendale. They were inspected and marched to guard quarters under the command of Lieut. Spear who is the officer of the day.

Last night word was received that a commissioned officer, a non-commissioned officers and 6 men from each company of the regiment, were to be detailed, today to preceed to our future camp at Greenville, S. C. Their duty will be to lay out the new camp, build tent floors, and dry sinks, in short to make it ready for occupancy at a moment's notice. Captain Neilson was the officer selected from K Co., not Lieut. Spear as first rumored. The other men from Co. K are as follows: Corporal Wardwell, Artificier Seaverns, Privates J. G. Clark, F. Egan, M. Gunderson, E. O'Connor, T. T. Mahoney.

This morning as per their orders of last evening, these men reported in heavy marching order to their respective officers. About 1 o'clock they formed in line and started for the train, which had backed up to a side track, just across the road. They were more fortunate than the boys of some of the other regiments who were obliged to march two or three miles from their camp in order to board the train. These men will probably be two days and nights on their journey, since it is almost 1,000 miles to the destination and there will undoubtedly be numerous delays. In all there were about 100 men from the Fifth Massachusetts regiment, and these men again honored the Old Bay State by their magnificent military appearance, all the men who were unable to do so, gathered together, and gave a hearty cheer as the train pulled out.

Tomorrow evening the 2d battalion will be given the opportunity of listening to the band which visits us for the first time since leaving the regiment. This will be quite a treat for the boys, all of whom love music.

The good health of our battalion is evidently on the increase since their remain but one patient in the hospital.

Volunteer.

Victory for the Boys.

The debate on the respective merits of the girls and boys was concluded Wednesday by the following volunteer speakers: Messrs. Murphy, Northcott, Swift, and Foss, '99, Misses Mitchell, Sibley and Whittemore, '99, Messrs. Hayward and Lewis, 1900.

To judge by the telling arguments advanced by Mr. Lewis, he bids fair to take the place of his brother, Mr. George R. Lewis, Q. H. S. '98, Harvard, 1902.

Mr. Pitts, '99 acted as critic.

The entertainment was as follows:

Declamation, "The Slave's Dream," Mr. Northcott, '99.

Essay, "Old Georgina," Miss Lingley, '99

Essay, Miss Wiley 99.

Piano solo, Miss Newcomb, 1900.

The entertainment was of a high order of merit. Mr. Swift's declamation was particularly creditable.

By the board of Decision's verdict the boys won a victory.

The new debate "Resolve, That the jury system ought to be abolished," was then begun by Miss McLaughlin, '99 for the affirmative.

Boom at Quincy Neck.

About 250 feet from Rogers Bros.' ice house is the large ledge of Mr. T. J. H. Thayer, on the street which leads to Wendells old quarry. The firm of Fallon & Sons have a contract to furnish aobut 2 tons per day for a state dock. When the machinery is in working order about twenty-five men will be emmployed. One steam drill is now at work and another is to be added.

Steam is supplied from the engine and boiler of Rogers Bros.' plant, through a pipe 240 feet long. Scows and barges are to convey the stone from the creek and wharf at Quincy Neck to the State dock.

The same firm also have another contract for Moon Island. Three acres, more or less, at Bracketts' wharf are covered with huge granite boulders, where five sloops are in waiting to carry it away.

On the Moon Island work 200,000 tons are called for and it will take over a year to do this work.

WEYMOUTH.

Rev. Mr. Cressey entertained three pastors at a social supper with him on Tuesday evening. Revs. Hyde, Marvin and Snyder were present and enjoyed a friendly talk after the refreshments. Though every pastor represented a different denomination, there was all the unity that could be desired.

The Literary Club met at Miss Tower's on Commercial street this week. Miss Blanchard gave an interesting paper upon "Cooper's Literary work." The next meeting is at Mrs. Cook's on Summer street.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society met at Mrs. Joel Sheppard's on Wednesday afternoon. Some new members were present.

The children of the Weymouth schools are preparing to make speeches on Friday in honor of Lafayette. The parents and friends are invited to visit the schools at that time.

While many hoped to get into the new Union Congregational church to celebrate Thanksgiving they will have to defer the time for two or three weeks.

It is a good idea to have children drilled for action in the event of fire in high school rooms.

Purity Itself

The purer the soap, the more effectual it is and the better it does its work, without harm to clothes or skin. Fairy Soap is absolutely pure—it contains no resin to gum the clothes, no alkali to rot the threads or fade the colors, no coloring matter or impurity of any kind to injure the skin, the finest lace or most delicate fabric.

FAIRBANK'S

is unequaled for toilet, bath, nursery and fine laundry uses, and is more economical than common soaps on account of its lasting qualities and the saving of fabrics. It's handy because it's made in three sizes—a small size for the toilet, a medium size for the bath and nursery, and a large size for the laundry.

Conditions In Philippines Not Conducive to Good Health.

Not a Few Cases of Typhoid and Smallpox.

Men Were Overcrowded at First, but Matters Are Now Improving.

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—The following correspondence, dated Manila, Oct. 8, has been received: The health of the troops here at present is far from being good. At Cavite the conditions are very bad. There have been 40 deaths there since Sept. 1, mostly from typhoid fever. One-third of the officers of the Montana volunteer regiment are on the sick list, including the colonel and lieutenant colonel.

In one battery alone over 75 per cent of the men stationed there have been on the sick list within a month. The hospital accommodations there are inadequate. The supply of medicines was exhausted at one time and for days there was nothing medicinal to administer to the patients. The men are quartered on ground floors where it is damp, and in this country especially conducive to illness. Many of the men worked themselves ill during the process of cleaning Cavite, but now that sanitary conditions are being looked after, an improved health record will doubtless follow.

In Manila the conditions are better. The men are fairly well quartered and are being given better accommodations as fast as possible, and it will not now be long before all reason for complaint will have passed. Much of the sickness of the past can be traced to the overcrowding of the men while proper quarters were being prepared.

Malaria is the most common of diseases among the troops. Typhoid fever has also developed to a serious degree. The average number of sick in the hospitals, in addition to the number of men relieved from duty by order of the physicians, is 800. The new cases reported to the hospitals daily average about 40 cases. There have been 12 cases of small-pox among the soldiers so far, six of which have proved fatal.

The regimental physicians have advised the whitewashing of the soldiers' quarters and the liberal use of corrosive sublimate, but there is not sufficient lime or corrosive sublimate, or even a good substitute, to be had. Small-pox is always prevalent among the natives. The doctors are doing everything possible to confine it among the natives. No cases have been reported in the past five days.

The hospitals are being put into sanitary condition. They are abundantly supplied with food and medicines are now obtainable at a moment's notice.

Colonel Lippincott today said: "With cool weather a radical improvement is looked for."

General Otis recently inspected one of the convent hospitals established since the capitulation of Manila and said it was the finest hospital he had ever visited.

In Cuba's Capitol.

Havana, Nov. 3.—Colonel Bliss, the member of the board of United States officers appointed to select camps, who was reported sick, is much improved. He is in no danger.

Generals Wade and Butler went to the Colon cemetery yesterday to lay flowers on the graves of the victims of the Maine disaster. In the course of the afternoon a number of other officers visited the cemetery. Representatives of the Cuban club brought an immense floral cross to lay upon the grave.

Owing to the bad weather prevailing and the heavy sea running, the steamer Mascotte arrived here yesterday four hours late. The water of the bay was so rough that one boatload of passengers was capsized while going ashore. The passengers were all rescued by a tug.

Camp Hamilton All Right.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 3.—The war investigation commission finished its work here yesterday and left for Cincinnati. The members of the commission compliment the condition of things at Camp Hamilton. A committee of prominent citizens of Lexington went to Washington to see what chance there is for a retention of the encampment of troops here. Telegrams received from this committee say that the troops must leave for the southern camps, but that Secretary Alger has promised that they will be brought to Lexington in the spring to recuperate after they have seen service in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

Aguinaldo's Latest.

Manila, Nov. 3.—Aguinaldo has issued a proclamation pointing out that, although the stringent orders previously issued by him have been generally obeyed, a few Filipinos have refused obedience and offended in various ways, and he now warns all such that they are liable to be declared outlaws and to incur the extreme penalty. The reference is apparently to the anti-American Filipinos. Aguinaldo allows all armed foreigners, except Spaniards, to travel in Philippine territory, but all such are forbidden to approach the fortifications or to take photographs of defensive works.

Many Deaths Occurred.

Cadiz, Nov. 3.—The Spanish steamer Montserrat has arrived here from Santiago with repatriated troops. There were 98 deaths on board of her during the voyage and 800 of her passengers are sick. The Spanish newspapers are venting their spleen on the Americans by publishing fictions to the effect that the United States sanitary officers at Gibara insisted upon the embarkation of dying Spanish soldiers. The Montserrat left Havana on Oct. 12 for Spain.

DUKEDON AT STAKE.

Mrs. Druce Granted Permission to Examine Contents of a Coffin.

London, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Annai Maria Druce, daughter-in-law of the late Thomas C. Druce, who, she asserts, was in fact and in law the fifth Duke of Portland, obtained a final order in the high court of appeal yesterday directing the chancellor and faculty of the diocese of London to issue her a permit to open and inspect a coffin now in the vaults of Highgate cemetery, alleged to contain the remains of her father-in-law, or of a man buried as Thomas Charles Druce.

The appeal court dismissed the appeal of Mr. Young, the executor of Druce, against a decision allowing the exhumation of the body granted in August last by Sir Francis Jeune, president of the probate, divorce and admiralty division of the high court of justice.

Mrs. Druce claims that the fifth Duke of Portland and Thomas Charles Druce were one and the same. Mrs. Druce is the daughter-in-law of Thomas Charles Druce. Her son, who is a poor sailor in Australia, is, she declares, the rightful heir of the dukedom. Druce suddenly disappeared. No one saw him die. It was only reported that he had died in a sudden illness. His funeral was held and a heavy coffin was lowered into a grave in Highgate cemetery. This coffin, Mrs. Druce claims, was filled with lead; that there was no body in it; that Druce did not die, but, as the Duke of Portland, lived for some time afterwards.

Roosevelt and Hill.

New York, Nov. 3.—Colonel Roosevelt yesterday made a tour of Long Island. He delivered 23 speeches at different places, beginning at Valley Stream and closing with two big meetings last night, one at Flushing and the other at Long Island City.

A great crowd attended the mass meeting of the Business Men's Democratic association at Carnegie hall last night. Ex-Senator Hill was the attraction of the night. The entrance of Richard Croker was the occasion of one of the heartiest demonstrations of the evening. Resolutions were adopted approving the state platform and endorsing Augustus Van Wyck for governor. The reading of a letter from ex-President Cleveland, congratulating the association on "striving to prevent the maladministration and extravagance of the Republican party," was followed by deafening applause.

The national Democrats and independent citizens held a mass meeting in the Brooklyn Academy of music last night to formally announce their support of Augustus Van Wyck for governor.

About 5000 members of the German-American Reform union met in Cooper union last night and formally endorsed the Democratic state ticket and platform, and condemned the Raines law and the Republican candidates.

Freedom Short Lived.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Nov. 3.—At Clinton prison yesterday Charles Crossman and Charles Collins, the latter a negro, both sentenced for burglary and classed as incorrigibles, made a break from the workshop and into the prison yard. Keepers started in pursuit, and in the face of their fire the convicts threw a rope ladder over a fixture on the prison wall and were soon on top and grappling with the wall guard. Collins overcame the guard while Crossman seized his rifle and, throwing the ladder over the outer side of the wall, reached the ground and made for the woods. Collins, after settling with the guard, jumped 30 feet to the ground, and was badly injured. He was easily overcome by the pursuing officers. The chase then centered on Crossman. He vainly attempted to fire the rifle at his pursuers, but did not understand the mechanism. Officer Nash headed the convict off, and he surrendered at the muzzle of a revolver. Both convicts are now in dark cells.

The Fashoda Muddle.

London, Nov. 3.—A semi-official note, issued last evening relative to the reports of a settlement of the Fashoda question, says: "The matter is substantially in the same position as when the blue book and yellow book were published. It is not anticipated that France will take further action until Major Marchand's arrival at Cairo on Thursday, when explanations will be forthcoming as to his reason for leaving Fashoda."

A Frenchman has been arrested at Dover for attempting to enter the big gun turret on the admiralty pier there.

Filled Requirements.

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 3.—Armor plate manufactured by the Krupp process was given its first test yesterday by the Bethlehem Iron company at its proving grounds. Many notable engineers witnessed it besides the Russian ordnance engineers. It was the first test of Krupp armor of American make, and was a great success. Three shots were fired from an 8-inch rifle, the projectile weighing 253 pounds and the velocity ranging from 1600 to 1800 feet per second. The plate was not cracked. The Bethlehem company has received a big order for this make of plate from Russia.

Inviting Commercial Trade.

Boston, Nov. 3.—The harbor and land commissioners announce that the commonwealth will take 100 acres of land and flats in and about East Boston for a state system of docks. The governor and council have approved of the taking. By the act authorizing the taking a loan of $100,000 was provided, but further appropriation will be necessary to develop the property. It is the plan of the commonwealth to provide ample facilities, at the lowest possible cost, to commerce seeking this port.

Dissatisfied Indians.

Deadwood, S. D., Nov. 3.—Following a protest sent to Washington against the retention of Agent Clapp at Pine Ridge, the Sioux Indians are now preparing formal charges against Major Clapp and Clerk Pugh. A disposition to act ugly is manifested among the young Sioux. While there is little fear of an uprising, timid white settlers near the agency are preparing to move unless the trouble with the Indians is soon settled.

A Novel Reunion.

Boston, Nov. 3.—A somewhat remarkable gathering took place yesterday at a hotel in this city, when the Lizzie Borden jury held its first reunion. The 12 men were present who found Miss Borden not guilty of the murder of her father and mother at Fall River, for which she was on trial some years ago.

HAD PLENTY OF COIN.

Reed Was Evidently Willing to Pay a Big Price For Freedom.

Police Haven't the Slightest Clue to Work Upon.

Warden Bridges Still Believes That Officer Abbott Was Simply "Buncoed."

Boston, Nov. 3.—John Reed, "king of the green goods fraternity," is still at liberty, and seems likely to remain so. It seems just as easy for Mr. Reed to keep out of the way as it was for him to hypnotize confiding farmers. The state offers $200 for his capture, but Mr. Reed can probably afford to pay more than that to remain at liberty.

Worcester has been searched from end to end. Everyone who saw Reed at the Sherwood House has been questioned, livery stable keepers have been made give an account of the doings of all their teams Sunday night and Monday morning, and every board and piece of plaster in the Sherwood House has been examined, and still even the slightest traces of him are missing.

Yesterday it was said that for a week a mysterious man has been around Worcester making plans for the "bunco king's" escape when he should be brought to the Sherwood House Sunday night, and people were found who said they knew positively he was provided with $60,000 which he was to distribute among those who would aid in spiriting Reed away; but they don't know who got any of the money, who the mysterious man was, where he stopped, and when they were questioned closely none of them had ever seen him.

Albert J. Moon, an officer of Oxford, is sure he saw Reed drive through there in a carriage between 1 and 2 o'clock Monday morning, and there are a dozen men in Worcester who also saw it.

Detective Murray of the state police says John McLean, a New York undertaker, who paid the money to the different courts to bail Reed, was in Worcester with a Mr. Doherty Thursday and Friday, when Reed was here to plead to the Comfort R. Thompson indictment.

Friday afternoon, when Reed went back to state prison, the detective says they disappeared, and as far as he knows they have not been seen since. Perhaps they were in town when Reed escaped, the detective says, but he doubts if it will ever be known.

Colonel W. E. Gile, Reed's counsel, does not agree with the detective about McLean being in Worcester. He is sure he was not. Colonel Gile does not know what will be done with the bail Reed has left, but he suggests that it would be a good idea for Middlesex county to take the $9000 it has to put a Reed memorial window in its new courthouse.

"Reed," said the colonel, "has very liberally contributed to the new courthouses now building in the different counties, and I think it is only fair that he should be remembered."

"I have not yet a single bit of information about the whereabouts of Reed," said Warden Bridges yesterday, "but I will willingly pay for information out of my own pocket, if necessary, to recapture the bunco man. The escape of Reed grieves me deeply, especially so, as it is the first man that the state has lost since I have been warden, nearly six years. I have not seen Abbott since he was suspended, and I have not received any additional information about the escape from him. I still believe Abbott to be an honest man, and I believe that Reed secured his liberty simply by 'buncoing' the officer."

Shows Good Judgment.

Kingston, Jam., Nov. 3.—General Hallowes, acting governor of Jamaica, started on a tour of the eastern parishes on Monday for the purpose of personally investigating the causes of disaffection in the recently disturbed districts. But the heavy rains converted the rivers into torrents, obliterated the roads, rendered travel dangerous and altogether isolated the so-called Maroon territory. The general experienced a thrilling escape from being swept away. This determination to get into touch with the disaffected people is expected to produce excellent results, especially under the above conditions.

Still Busy.

Sydney, C. B., Nov. 3.—British warships Cordelia and Pelican have arrived from Halifax. Their visit is extraordinary, as both were supposed to leave for home to go out of commission. The ships have submarine mines and heavy guns aboard, specially shipped at Halifax, and it is reported they will mine the entrances to Sydney and St. John's harbors.

Halifax, Nov. 3.—The British battleship Renown is in full fighting trim, and last night the ship tested her electric searchlights.

The Morrill's Mission.

Woods Hole, Mass., Nov. 3.—The revenue cutter Morrill arrived yesterday from Norfolk, bound to Milwaukee, via St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes. She will replace the Gresham, which came to the coast during the war. The Morrill performed very effective service while in the navy during the war, her chief exploit being the capture of a schooner right under the guns of Morro castle, Havana.

Farmers Held Back.

Topeka, Nov. 3.—Complaints are being received by the board of railway commissioners regarding a scarcity of grain cars at many Kansas points. A complaint from Claflin says 30,000 bushels of wheat is waiting to be moved at that point, 7000 bushels being on the ground. Farmers generally have been holding their grain for higher prices, and this unexpected movement has caused a shortage of cars.

Vail the Winner.

Halifax, Nov. 3.—The Vail-Lynch race was pulled off yesterday. The men started at 4:13, and Vail obtained a slight lead, having a lead of a length at 200 yards. The men reached the turn in 11 minutes. Lynch then upset, Vail being a length ahead. A small boat picked Lynch up and Vail rowed home, crossing the line in 25:30.

Gaels Organize.

New York, Nov. 3.—The Gaelic League of America was organized here yesterday. It is the union of societies of cities in New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Resolutions were passed approving the work of the Gaelic league in Ireland.

The last resolution reads as follows: "That we earnestly protest against the recent persistent attempt of a group of persons in this country to classify the American people as Anglo-Saxons."

Letters commending the ojects of the new league were read from Cardinal Gibbons, Rev. R. H. Newton and others. Former Assistant Secretary of Navy McAdoo spoke in English on the Irish race as a power in the world, and on its relations to America.

The hospital ship Bay State was thoroughly inspected at Boston by representatives of the war department. This was necessary before President McKinley could decide whether the vessel should be bought or not.

President Lord of the Manufacturers' National bank and Cashier Tenney of the Freeman's bank of Boston make unqualified denial of the statement that a movement is under way to consolidate those two banks with the Continental.

Love that Alters.

"Love is not love that alters when it alteration finds."

That is one of the sublimest lines in all literature. It is the final definition of love by the world's greatest reader of the human mind,—Shakespeare. Nearly all women who truly love, love in this sublime way. Men seldom do.

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for many thousands of women. He has devised a perfect and scientific remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for all weaknesses, diseases, disorders, displacements, irregularities, and debilitating drains peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it, and no honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute that he may make a little larger profit.

"I was afflicted with kidney trouble and I have always had a torpid liver," writes Mrs. H. Crosswhite, of Duffau, Erath Co., Texas. "When I commenced your medicine I was not able to stand on my feet. I used one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and five vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets.' I am now well. I had not walked in four months when I commenced the treatment; but in ten days I was able to walk everywhere."

CANCER CURED

BY ABSORPTION NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

Fever Hospital In Santiago to Be Abolished.

Cuban Strikers May Force General Wood to Resort to Drastic Measures.

Santiago, Nov. 4.—Bulletins announcing the safe arrival of the United States transport Panama at Havana caused considerable relief here, as there had been some uneasiness, although the report that she had been lost was not credited. The department had been caused much annoyance, owing to the utterly unfounded dispatches forwarded on the subject for a day or two to the United States, more than 50 cablegrams having been received asking for information. One report was that a schooner had passed some wreckage marked "Panama." But there was nothing in this.

General Wood inspected the yellow fever hospital yesterday. He found one patient suffering from Bright's disease, but that there had not been a case of yellow fever under care for two months. He has severely censured Dr. Ducker, superintendent of the hospital, for making an appeal for American relief stores, and he will probably soon abolish the hospital altogether.

Collector Donaldson returned from Gibara yesterday with $40,000 customs receipts at that place. He reports that there is considerable small-pox near Holguin, but no yellow fever.

Colonel Hood's Second immune regiment is encamped at Gibara, in a healthful locality, waiting to occupy Holguin on Nov. 10. General Castillo, who is assisting in the work of organizing the military department in that district, is busy engaging men for gendarmerie, accepting only those of good physique.

The Cubans who have been employed in cleaning and repairing the streets of Santiago have struck for higher wages, though they have been receiving $1 a day or 50 cents and two rations—higher than ever before paid for similar work.

In fact, local employers of labor have been complaining of this high rate, alleging that it was quite impossible for them to compete with the government on such terms. The Cuban laborers at the best are lazy and slipshod. They want an increase of 50 cents a day. General Wood absolutely refuses to accede to the demand and will adopt heroic measures if the strike is not promptly declared off.

The trouble is that many of the strikers have rations enough on hand to last a month or more, and they think they can coerce the United States authorities. General Wood says he will arrest every laborer able to work and, under a vagrancy law which he will establish, compel him to work 30 days for rations while confined in jail. He dislikes the idea of importing labor, but believes that this must be the ultimate result.

Colonel Ray, who has returned from Guantanamo, says that the Cuban general, Peroz, is about to grant indefinite furlough to his men to enable them to go to work, the reason apparently being that many are practically starving and would have gone to work anyhow. Lieutenant Blount, the judge advocate, is acting as lieutenant governor.

The United States transport Berlin arrived yesterday afternoon from Ponce. The cruiser Cincinnati arrived yesterday and remained for some hours to allow an examination of the wreck of the Reina Mercedes. Captain Chester is of opinion that the vessel can be raised at small expense. She is of an antiquated type, but would be useful, when repaired, as a school ship or for coast defense, though it would be necessary to lay out a large sum in refitting her.

Sailors Not Pleased.

Boston, Nov. 4.—The United States gunboat Helena, Commander Swineburne, left the Charlestown navy yard yesterday afternoon on her long voyage to the China station. The Helena will reach her destination by way of the Mediterranean and Red seas. The light draught of the vessel, which will make her particularly useful in shallow channels, will make her voyage there a trifle unpleasant. Not all of the sailors on the Helena want to go to Chinese waters, as the police yesterday were asked to assist in finding several who had deserted from the vessel.

Troops Exonerated.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Some of the newspapers published in Porto Rico have been publishing articles bitterly critical of the conduct of the United States soldiers who have been sent to the island as a permanent garrison. The soldiers have been accused of all sorts of misdemeanors—of ruffianism, of petty larceny, of the destruction of private property—in fact, of every kind of excess which might be charged against green troops in a foreign country, and were so general and earnest that Secretary Alger felt called upon to take formal notice of them. They are denied and declared to be without foundation by Major General Brooke, whose attention was called to the matter by cable.

Government Through With It.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Secretary Long says that the government will take no further steps to raise the rest of the Spanish warships destroyed by Admiral Schley's fleet off the coast of Santiago, but that the department will receive propositions to that end from any private firm that cares to undertake the work. The existing contract with the Merritt-Chapman company will be abrogated and operations entirely suspended on the Colon and other vessels, pending the consideration of propositions from private firms independent of the government.

Patients Well Treated.

Cincinnati, Nov. 4.—The war investigation committee reached Fort Thomas, Ky., yesterday, and proceeded on a tour of inspection through al the wards of the hospitals and also the camp of the Sixth regiment, which is in tents on the grounds adjoining. This regiment was cut to pieces in the Santiago campaign and has since been recruited. General Dodge put many questions to the patients in the hospitals concerning their treatment, but found no one complaining.

Typhoid In Hawaii.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 4.—Honolulu advices state that work has been stopped at Camp McKinley. The entire camp will be moved to Moanola. Typhoid fever was the cause of the abandonment of the camp. Typhoid fever was sown broadcast during the time the ordinary rules of sanitation were disregarded in the military camps. There are said to be 50 cases, but it is believed that the death rate will be very small.

Forrest's Record.

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 4.—Although Forrest R. Young failed in his attempt to break the world's 12-hour road bicycle record yesterday, he secured the national record for the distance, making 202 miles within that time. He also broke the record for 50 and 75 miles, formerly held by Waller, and the state record for 100 miles, held by F. V. Gorman.

Three Are Dead.

Livingston, Ky., Nov. 4.—John Meadows shot and killed John and Clayton Matthews, brothers, at Pineville Wednesday night. Meadows was a school teacher. Meadows is now in jail. Fagan, the most prominent witness, was found dead yesterday in his storeroom. The indications are that he was murdered.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to R, and today's instalment is the first of the S's:

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

ENTITLED TO MORE.

Norfolk County Getting too Small Percentage of State Highways.

Quincy was represented at the annual public meeting of the Massachusetts Highway Commission for Norfolk County at Dedham on Wednesday by Commissioner Knowlton, who called the attention of the Commission and spoke at length upon the acceptance of Granite avenue and Willard street, using the argument that it was important that these streets should be accepted as they formed a connnecting link with the Blue Hills Reservation.

The Selectmen of Braintree who were present urged the Commission to accept Quincy avenue between Quincy and Braintree as a State highway.

The Commission reported that 29 petitions had been received since January 1, in answer to which 21 layouts had been made, including 13 of 21 miles in Norfolk county. The proportion of roads laid out since January 1, is 19 per cent. in the State and 16.02 per cent. in Norfolk county. The total number of miles petitioned for in the State since January 1, is 1183, coming from 20 cities and 272 towns. Of these nearly 250 miles have been laid out.

Obituary.

Mr. George H. Hobby, for many years a much respected citizen of this city, died Wednesday night at the residence of his sister, in Lynn, of cancer of the stomach. Funeral services will be held at 114 Hamilton avenue, Lynn, at 10.30 Saturday morning, and the remains will be brought to this city, and burial services held at the Mount Wollaston cemetery at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Hobby was born in Lynn in 1831, and educated in the public schools of that city. He married the daughter of the late Perez Joyce of this city, and settled in Swampscott, where he was a Selectman for a number of years, and also held other offices of honor and trust.

A score or more years ago, after the death of his wife's mother, they moved to Quincy avenue, in this city and took care of Mr. Joyce in his declining years.

He was a genial gentleman and made many friends wherever he was. In this city he became connected with the Universalist church and for many years was the Superintendent of the Sunday school, and was greatly missed when he returned to Lynn after Mr. Joyce's death.

He was a soldier in the war of the rebellion, enlisting from Lynn in the 8th regiment, and was a member of Post 118 of Swampscott. He leaves a widow and two sons who will greatly miss his many acts of kindness.

The polls at the state election next Tueday open at six o'clock in the morning and remain open until four o'clock in the afternoon.

ACADEMY GAMES.

Winners of the Founders Day Sports Held Yesterday.

Thursday was an ideal day for the annual fall games of the Adams Academy Athletic Association, and as a result there was an unusual large attendance. Although the students of the Academy this year are as a rule younger in years than in previous times, the boys are full of grit and entered into the games with much spirit. The entries in the several events were larger than on previous years and a larger percentage of the entries than usual came to time.

The several events and winners were as follows:

75 yards dash, handicap, run in five heats—First heat won by Hoxie; time, 10 seconds. Second heat won by Whitman; time, 9 1-2 second. Third heat won by Baker; time, 10 second. Fourth heat won by Hodges; time, 9 1-2 second. Fifth heat won by Hardwick; time, 9 second; final heat won by Whitman (scratch); time, 8 3-4 seconds.

Potato race, won by A. Thomas.

Running broad jump, won by Whitman distance, 15 feet 5 inches.

220 yard dash, handicap, won by Donaher, 6 yard time 32 seconds.

Barrel roll, won by Weston.

Putting the shot, handicap, won by Donaher, 6 feet distance 22 feet 2 1-2 inches.

Foot ball kick, handicap, won by Mahon, 8 yards. Distance, 114 feet 7 inches.

Three-legged race, won by Burchsted and Hatch. Time, 12 seconds.

Quarter mile run for challenge cup, handicap, won by Whitman, scratch. Time, 1 minute 15 seconds.

One mile relay race, between classes of 1902, 1901 and 1892. This was run in six relays. The class of 1901 took the lead at the first and held it thoughout the race, time 4 minutes, 20 seconds. The winners of this class were Anderson, Baker, Harkins, Nickerson, Tate, Vogel.

The final event was a foot ball game between elevens captained by Mueller and Hodges. One fifteen minute half was played. Both elevens were well matched as regard to weight and a good game it was. Hodges team had the battle at the start but soon surrendered to Mueller, who gradually forced it towards the opponents end until Cashman made a goal. Upon resuming play the ball was forced to Hodges ten yard line, when Hardwick got it and made a run the whole length of the field making a second goal. For the balance of the game neither side scored. Score: Mueller, 5, Hodges 5. The line up:

MUELLER.	HODGES.
W. Thomas, r. e.	l. e., Hardwick
Pinkham, r. t.	l. t., Nickerson
Morse, r. g.	l. g., Adams

Two of the events, viz: Hammer throw and running high jump postponed until this morning resulted as follows:

Hammer throw, handicap, won by Bennett, scratch. Distance, 5 feet 8 inches.

Running high jump, handicap, won by Hardwick, 10 inches. Distance, 5 feet 2 inches.

Life of Frances Power Cobbe.

The story of this remarkable life written by herself has just been put in our Public Library. These volumes are in attractive binding and type and are delightful reading.

Miss Cobbe was a strong, sunny, normal woman, born under favorable conditions, and her life was not only eventful, but it was a noble self-sacrificing one. She says in her preface, it "has been a life worth living if it is not worth reading about."

The story is instructive as it tells of memorable time in the life of England of Ireland and one learns to love the talented lady and to admire her for the great good she wrought among all classes of oppressed English people.

She was helped by very many of the great and good in her work. She met intimately so many notables of every clime, that one is held spell bound by a recital of the events of one span of life, and that of a woman who was so truly womanly.

The Afternoon Fire.

The alarm at box 46 this afternoon was for a closet fire at the house and shoe store of Samuel Cohen at 120 Copeland street. The loss to building and contents was less than $50.

LIBERAL DONATION.

All the Protestant Churches of Quincy Receive a Check.

Henry H. Faxon, Esq., has just contributed $2,100 to the Protestant churches of Quincy, for which the societies are doubtless all grateful. The letters received by the treasurers were all alike. While very brief there is after all considerable in them. They read as follows:

Quincy, Mass., November 2, 1898.
Treasurer of the —— Church, Quincy, Mass.

Dear Sir: Inclosed find check for $100 to be expended by your society, for the advancement of pure religious faith, the promotion of honest politics and the extension of social enjoyment.

Very truly yours,
Henry H. Faxon.

As noted above it requires quite a sum to remember all the Quincy churches with $100 each for there are 21 in Mr. Faxon's list as follows:

Wollaston Unitarian.
Christ, (Protestant Episcopal).
St. Chrysostom's (Episcopal), Wollaston.

Alliance Sociable.

There was a large attendance at the sociable given under the auspices of the Alliance at the Wollaston Unitarian church vestry on Thursday evening. Supper was served at half after six o'clock. The entertainment was at eight o'clock. It was interesting. Miss Emma Curtin of Atlantic, rendered a couple of piano solos with marked brillancy of execution. Mr. Hosea B. Johnson read in his inimitable style "Margaret of New Orleans," and also another selection, and an orchestra composed of Mr. I. W. Faunce, cello, Ray Weston and George B. Weston, violins, and William E. Weston, piano, played a waltz that fairly captivated the audience.

There was also a candy table in charge of Miss Marion F. Taylor, Miss Carolyn Holmes, Mrs. Charles A. Adams and Miss Mabel F. Fairbanks. The proceeds will be devoted to the use of the flower committee of the church.

Dedham High, 10; Quincy High, 0

Quincy High on Thursday played her first game in the Norfolk County Suburban league, being beaten 10 to 0 by Dedham High in a fast hard game.

The Dedham team was heavy and played finely. The Quincy team made a strong stand, and played pluckly throughout the game. Magnuson and Jordan made superb tackles, while Magnuson's punts travelled ten yards farther than those of the Dedham full back. The Quincy ends were slow, however, and did not help out Magnuson's kicks as they should have done.

Captain Foss of Quincy was injured at the end of the first half, and had to leave the game. His injury will not prove serious, however, and he will be out again next week.

Dedham rushed the ball down the field for a touch down in the first half, and blocked a kick in the second half, the ball rolling to the 5 yard line.

Quincy made desperate effort, and held them for 3 downs, but on the fourth they carried the ball over the line for their second touchdown. They missed both goals.

In speaking of the boom at Quincy Neck yesterday, several errors occurred in the article. The type was placed in the form just as the press was about to start, and the errors found on proof sheet were not corrected. The most important one was where we stated that Messrs. Fallon & Sons had a contract of 2 tons of granite a day, when it should have read 200 tons.

At a regular meeting of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge held Thursday evening, there was a very fine entertainment given for the good of the order. The remainder of the evening was spent in a social way including dancing. Prof. Goodridge had charge of the entertainment.

BETTER STREETS.

A Correspondent Would Make a Big Loan.

Editors Quincy Ledger:

Some suggestions for the permanent improvement of the streets and sidewalks of the City of Quincy.

Are good streets and sidewalks an inducement to bring new residents to the city?

Will the improvement of real estate increase the valuation and decrease the tax rate of the city?

Can we have the permanent improvements without increasing the tax levy?

If yes is the answer to the above questions, how can these things be brought about?

1st. Have the necessary act or acts passed by the General Court enabling the city to do some things which are not authorized under the City Charter.

2d. Have a Board of Public Works (see Chapter 3344 Acts of 1872) to consist of three competent men, appointed by the executive, whose term of office shall be 3 years, to be paid by the day for actual service performed.

3d. Have the City Council refer to this Board all petitions for the establishing, locating or laying out of all streets, sidewalks, crossings, drains, bridges, etc.

4th. Have the Board of Public Works given a public hearing on all petitions referred to them, giving the customary notice of such hearing to the parties interested.

5th. Have the Board of Public Works report to the City Council whether common necessity and convenience require that the petition be granted (Sec. 15 Charter of the City of Quincy).

6th. Have the city issue bonds to the amount of $125,000.00 to run 25 years; $25,000.00 worth of these bonds to be sold each year, the proceeds to be used for the permanent improvements of the streets and sidewalks of the city.

The average cost to macadamize a street, set edge stones (2 sides) and concrete the walks (2 sides) would be about $4 per running foot. $25,000.00 would build a mile to a mile and a half.

Then assess the abutters one-half the cost of the improvements ($2 a running foot frontage) to be paid in five yearly installments, the assessment to become a lieu upon the property and collected the same as the taxes.

This assessment would yield at the end of 5 years $25,00.000 each year for work on other streets.

The city under the general tax levy could provide for the interest on the bonds. A sinking fund could be created by increasing the valuation on the property benefited by the improvements, the tax rate being smaller, the indivinal net tax would not be increased.

By this method if a majority of the residents of a street want the improvements they can have them by paying for the same. Now all pay for half the cost of any improvements made in any part of the city while it may be years before their immediate locality is benefit.

Give the present efficient Commissioner of Public Works the money and we will have the improvements.

These brief suggestions may give to some of the bright minds of Quincy the cue which will lift us out of the slough of mud now prevailing.

Won by Pinckney.

The Bennett checker tournament at Wollaston was finished yesterday, the last game being played between Mr. Hoxie and Mr. Sanderson. Many surprises were in store for those who picked winners at the beginning.

The first place was conceded to Mr. Pinckney who always plays a sharp game. Mr. Nelles did not play the game that he is capable of putting up he being very unsteady.

In the score a draw is counted as half a game. Considerable interest was manifested throughout the tournament by partisans of the contestants.

Each contestant played five games with each rival and out of a total of 25 games the individual scores were:

	Pinckney	Calnan	Hoxie	Sanderson	Wright	Nelles	Games Won.	Games Lost.	Per cent.
Pinckney,		5	4	5	5	2*	22	3	.880

Nelles,	1*	1†	2†	3	†		9 1-2	15 1-2	.380

*Two draws. †One draw.

Thelves Take Notice.

Mr. Kenny Hirtle of Wollaston Park mourns the loss of a '98 "Stock" bicycle which he left outside the T. R. & S. factory during working hours. There are no less than fifty or sixty wheels stacked up daily about the place by employes, and at this time of the year when darkness comes on before six o'clock, the opportunity for thieves is ripe. Since one of those undesirable members of the community has got in his work, the owners of wheels who are in the habit of riding to and from their work have been devising all sorts of means to protect their "horses."

The padlock trade has taken a boom. Some of the young men in the factory who possess good muscular development and sprinting qualities promise to make a Dewey finish of any one caught "touching" a wheel on and after this date. Thieves please take notice. A Manila reception awaits you.

Every one interested in temperance is cordially invited to this serivce.

The Play that's the Play.

One of the best plays dealing with Yankee life, and character is "A Country Merchant," which will be seen at Quincy Music hall tonight, with the talented comedian, Mr. Charles Cowles, in the star part. The production is said to be on a splendid scale, the scene settings being particularly realistic, and the interesting story of the play will be well told by a clever company of players. Musical and specialty novelties will be furnished in abundance, and altogether a magnificent treat is in store for the large audience which is confidently expected. Tickets now on sale at Durgins.

MUST CHANGE LINES.

Spaniards Almost Certain to Reject the American Proposition.

How the Insurgents Affect the Present Situation.

Constructive Responsibility Must Be Forsaken or a Larger One Assumed.

Paris, Nov. 4.—Last Monday the United States and Spanish peace commissioners left the definite limiations of the protocol and entered upon the wide field of diplomacy, where an open question to be deciedd. Both commissions realize that the area is ample enough for some manoeuvering, though, on the American side, the tendency is to evolutions much more compact than those of the Spaniards. Both would undoubtedly be gratified to reach a mutual conclusion without compulsion.

At Monday's session the American commissioners laid down a proposition in two parts: First, that the United States should take over the Philippines entire; second, that in so doing they should reimburse to Spain the sum of her permanent and pacific expenditures in the Philippines. The logic of the situation compelled the Americans to make the first move.

Having heard the American proposition the Spaniards might have immediately declined it, as they certainly will do at today's session. Whether they will accompany the refusal with a counter proposition has not been definitely ascertained, though that course seems improbable. The result will be that the commissioners will retire from confronting positions until one or the other shall have reformed its lines for the next meeting, which will probably occur next week.

The fact is the commissioners have felt that the conditions precedent render the letting go the Philippines as difficult as their retention. There is, for instance, the question of the future of Aguinaldo, his chiefs and followers. The Philippine leader and his immediate associates in the insurrection accepted exile and over half a million dollars at the hands of Spain as an inducement to cease their rebellion. They went to China; but they were brought back to the Philippines on board a United States warship. Aguinaldo received from Admiral Dewey several thousand stands of arms, and was put ashore as an ally of the United States in the war with Spain.

The insurgent leader and his chiefs have forfeited their lives. Should the United States return the Philippines to Spain, Aguinaldo and his fighting followers must be surrendered to death or taken away by the United States, and the American commissioners feel that transporting them would be as severe toward them as it would be impracticable from the point of view of the United States. Territory to shelter them is felt to be necessary in the Philippines.

The entire group might not be necessary for this purpose. Should then the United States retain Luzon as their place of refuge? To do this would be to take the most valuable portion of the archipelago, an act which might furnish a basis for the dual charge of greed in taking the best and of cowardice in evading responsibility for the remainder. The American commissioners have been unwilling to place the United States in such a position.

Again there arose the pregnant question of undesirable neighborhood should only Luzon be taken. An aggressively disposed power might acquire Mindoro, which is almost within cannon shot of Luzon, and thus create a most difficult situation. Could then a wiser division of the islands be made?

Pursuing this inquiry the most feasible division seemed to be Luzon, Mindoro and Palawan, forming a chain free of neighbors on the western boundary, but so closely tangled on the eastern side as to make impossible a line of geographical division at once equitable and safe.

The American commissioners have not been unmindful of the fact that circumstances, partially of their own shaping, had imposed upon the United States a constructive responsibility for the Philippines and that either this must be forsaken or a larger one assumed. They have believed, too, that before the nations of the world the United States have assumed the higher responsibility of the stable control of the entire group; and, with a sense of specific and general obligation, they felt compelled to propose to take over all.

On the question of the Spanish debt, by whatever name known, the American commissioners seem to take broader ground than the mere question of dollars. It is evident they do not favor coupling any power in debt responsibilities. They seem inclined to direct adjustment on the plain basis of facts and equities. Whether the war ledgers of Spain and the United States are to be balanced in the present negotiations does not appear; but the Americans face the situation open-eyed and with minds free to any argument based upon justice to Spain and fair treatment of their own national interests.

It is asserted from Spanish sources, beyond question authentic, that before the Philippine question is settled the Spanish commissioners will declare that they are not here solely to save or to gain all the money possible from the United States. Senor Rios, president of the Spanish commission, and his colleagues, waiving for argument any classification of the Spanish colonial debts, will point out that Spain has borrowed on the collateral of her colonial revenues. They will concede that the national guarantee may have been added, but that for all the purposes of this contention, the fact is irrelevent. It will then be frankly urged by her commissioners that Spain has pawned the revenues of the Philippines and of Cuba; that she did so in good faith to her creditors, and, this being true, that she has no moral right to give away or re-hypothecate territory already pledged.

Senor Rios will urge that should Spain take that course her creditors might fairly charge her with defrauding them to save herself the Canaries, Carolines and Balearic islands, and to avoid possible damage to the peninsula. The Spanish commissioners will protest that such a transaction would be intolerable to Spain, as it would brand her as a robber and poltroon. They will declare to the Americans that rather than be so pilloried by their creditors they will, if they must, be deprived of their mainland.

If the United States feels it a high duty to retain the Philippines, Spain's envoys will declare that she has an equally sacred duty in holding them to the pledge of their revenues in honorable indebtedness, and that, while possibly unable to make good the indebtedness in dollars, Spain can, if only by a fruitless adherence to high purpose, save her name from the brand of theft.

This statement of the Spanish contention comes from a source which gives it all the weight possible to any Spanish utterance, and, in the presence of these conditions, the two commissions will meet again today.

Law Now In Force.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The department of justice has been importuned to define the status of the involuntary feature of the bankruptcy law passed during the last session of congress. Congress provided that when the involuntary feature of the measure should go into effect it should be accompanied by a set of rules and orders formulated by the supreme court for its execution. The supreme court not having compiled these rules and orders some question was raised as to whether the law could be properly enforced at the time provided for, Nov. 1. The department of justice holds that the absence of these orders will not materially affect the enforcement of the law; that they are not absolutely essential to the execution of the act, and that there is no need to wait on the supreme court rules.

Claim Discrimination.

Berlin, Nov. 4.—The Hamburg-American and the North German Lloyd Steamship companies have protested to the German foreign office against the new American application of the restrictions imposed on steerage passengers passing through Vienna, due to the outbreak of bubonic plague there, which restrictions, the companies claim, are now extended to cabin passengers. They complain that the restrictions in question are unfair, especially as they do not apply to intending passengers who are American citizens.

The Modern Sunday Paper.

The development of the modern Sunday newspaper never halts. Observing people have noticed before this that the coming method of illustration is that of the half-tone process, which gives an accurate and artistic reproduction of the original photograph. It is an expensive process, however, and that fact has deterred many newspapers from undertaking it at all, while others have sought to achieve the results by a similar but cheaper method, a method which has not proved satisfactory. The paper of New England which leads all others in this regard and the only Boston Sunday paper which does use these photographic illustrations is the Boston Sunday Journal. It spares no trouble or expense to achieve the best possible results, and the favor which its photographic section and the illustrated New England Home Magazine have found is, therefore, not surprising. The new and improved Boston Sunday Journal, which numbers so many attractive features, is receiving the hearty approval of press and people throughout the New England States.

A Trial Order.

AFTER A LONG EXILE.

Alleged Philadelphia Bank Wrecker Returns and Surrenders.

Successfully Eluded Police For Seven Years.

Keystone Bank Sensation Again Brought Before the Public.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Gideon W Marsh, the president of the failed Keystone bank, who has been a fugitive more than seven years, yesterday answered the appeal of John Wanamaker and surrendered himself to his bondsman, William H. Wanamaker, brother of the ex-postmaster general. William H. Wanamaker had forfeited $20,000 bail when Marsh fled and had also expended $15,000 in vain efforts to discover the whereabouts of the fugitive.

The closing of the doors of the Keystone National bank on March 20, 1891, caused a profound sensation. A run had been made on the bank a few months prior to that date, but the crisis was tided over and the public was taken by surprise when the failure became known. Subsequent investigation showed that the bank had been practicaly looted, and that there was little left for depositors and other creditors City Treasurer John Bardsley had loaned to the bank several hundred thousand dollars of the city funds, and on these loans he had been drawing interest for his own profit. Bardsley was arrested, tried and sentenced to 15 years imprisonment in the Eastern penitentiary, several years of which he served. He was finally granted a pardon.

President Marsh and Cashier Lawrence were arrested on May 4, 1891, charged with conspiracy to make false entries in the books of the bank, and the wilful misapplication of its funds. When arraigned before United States Commissioner Bell they were held for a hearing on May 15. Both secured bondsmen and were released. Marsh induced William H. Wanamaker, brother of ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker, to enter bail for him, which he did in the amount of $20,000. On May 21, the day fixed for the final hearing, Lawrence appeared, but Marsh had fled. The bail was forfeited and the $20,000 was paid to the clerk of the United States district court by William H. Wanamaker. Since that date, it is said, Mr. Wanamaker has spent $20,000 more to apprehend Marsh. Lawrence was convicted and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment.

Marsh eluded the officers of law, who searched the entire country for him. Detectives were even sent to points in South America, whence had come reports that the fugitive had been seen. Even after the United States authorities had abandoned their search it was kept up by Marsh's bondsman, but not until Wednesday did the bondsman get an inkling of Marsh's whereabouts. Then a telegram to William H. Wanamaker stated that Marsh was at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, New York city, and would surrender to him in Philadelphia. Mr. Wanamaker, who was in Boston, was immediately advised and he left that city for New York at once. It is understood that Marsh met his bondsman in New York Wednesday night and agreed that Marsh should come to Philadelphia and surrender. This program was carried out.

Marsh, in talking to friends who called on him in the marshal's office, said that during his absence he had roamed almost over the whole world and worked for a living at anything he coud get to do. When he left he had with him $1385 which he had collected from two debtors. He went by a circuitous route to Brazil, and afterwards travelled from place to place over the world. He then returned to America and eventually located in the state of Washington, where, he said, he had earned money at any kind of labor he could get. Mrs. Marsh obtained a divorce from the fugitive about a year ago on the ground of desertion.

The news of Marsh's return, when it became generally known, became almost the sole topic of conversation on the streets, at the hotels, clubs and in fact in all circles. Not the least interesting portion of the discussion was in reference to the effect the reappearance of the bank president would have in political circles.

In a speech a few weeks ago Senator Penrose intimated that John Wanamaker, prior to the failure of the Keystone National bank, had knowledge of an overissue of the bank's stock, and knowledge of a demand made by President Marsh on City Treasurer Bardsley for an additional deposit of city funds. He (Penrose) said it was to the interest of Wanamaker that Marsh should not come back to Philadelphia. The senator said he had been in communication with Marsh, and that the latter would probably soon come back and tell all he knew about the looting of the bank.

Mr. Wanamaker has been vigorously opposing the Republican state ticket, and especially aiming to defeat the re-election of Senator Quay. A few nights after the speech of Penrose, Wanamaker delivered a speech in which he denied Penrose's statements and called upon him to hasten the return of Marsh, if he could do so. He said he would like the truth told about the Keystone National bank matters.

In the course of his speech Mr. Wanamaker said: "There is nothing that will please me so much as Marsh's return, and I welcome the reopening of every book and paper of the bank to public gaze. If my foes will bring this man into court and he will tell the truth, I will use my utmost endeavor in securing all the leniency possible in his sentence, and after he has finished it I will aid him in re-establishing himself and his family in life. I publish this to the world, hoping he will see it, wherever he is. If the poor man will send me word where he is, as soon as these words bear him the message of these dastardly assaults upon me, I will come to him to any part of the world and accompany him back."

NATIONAL TREASURY.

Interesting Figures From the Annual Report of Treasurer Roberts.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The secretary of the treasury has received from Treasurer Roberts the annual report on the transactions and condition of the treasury for the past fiscal year. It shows:

The net ordinary revenues of the government were $405,321,335, an increase of $57,597,630 over those of the previous year, while the net ordinary expenditures were $443,368,582, an increase of $77,594,423. The resulting deficiency of $38,047,247 exceeds that of the preceding year by $19,994,793.

Up to the close of the fiscal year the increase of the expenditures on account of the war with Spain was $43,041,732 for the war department, and $24,262,438 for the navy department. For the four months, July, August, September and October, 1898, the expenditures of the war department were $107,520,368, being $81,613,131 greater than for the same months in 1897.

For the same months this year the navy department expended $27,459,577, which was $16,014,926 more than it spent in the like period in 1897. Up to Oct. 31 the war with Spain added to the disbursements of these two departments the sum of $164,932,228.

The total available assets were $874,764,377 on June 30, 1897, and $839,606,736 a year later. By the addition of the unavailable assets carried by the department these totals are swelled to $904,411,576 and $869,202,941 respectively.

The total currency of all kinds in circulation shows an increase of $96,539,249 in the former year, and of $137,755,854 in the latter, a gain of $234,294,103 for the two years.

Atmosphere Is Clearer.

London, Nov. 4.—An official note issued last evening says: "There is now good reason to hope that the political situation is ameliorating. It can be confidently stated that when the cause of the irritation which unfortunately recently existed in France and Great Britain on the Upper Nile is removed, which is expected soon to be the case, the door will again be open for a resumption of those friendly negotiations which happily characterize the normal state of the relations between the two countries." The most reliable information from Paris confirms the earlier reports that Premier Dupuy has decided to wash his hands of Fashoda and to recall Major Marchand, for whose mission he is now responsible. This decision is, to some extent, due to a desire to allow nothing to interfere with the success of the exposition in 1900.

Valuable Horses Burned.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 4.—Four fast trotting horses, valued at $3800 or $4000, were burned to death at Woronoco park, Westfield, last night. The fire started in one of the stable sheds, and before the horses could be turned loose, Maggie (2:12¼), Lucille B (2:17¼), Tom Thumb (2:19¼) and John (2:14¼) were burned. Belle M was also badly scorched and blistered and will probably die. The other 15 horses in the stables were rescued, but nearly all the sulkies and fittings were lost. It is rumored that two of the "rubbers" were burned to death, but this cannot be confirmed until the ruins cool.

Of Interest to Vessel Owners.

New York, Nov. 4.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Charles S. Smith, on behalf of the executive committee, presented a memorial signed by Charles H. Butler for himself and others, and addressed to the President of the United States, urging him to convene an international congress at Washington to consider the question of making private property on the sea free from capture during war.

Murphy Easily Defeated.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 4.—The Palace Athletic club pulled off a fistic contest last night between Dan Murphy of Waterbury and Dick O'Brien of Lewiston, Me. The men were matched for 20 rounds at catchweights, but the bout lasted only half the limit, as Murphy was knocked completely out after two minutes and 55 seconds of boxing, in the 10th round. Murphy attempted to rush and O'Brien ducked and, quickly turning, landed a right hook on Murphy's jaw, and he went to the floor at once.

Deal With the Sultan.

London, Nov. 4.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Standard says: Emperor William's visit to Constantinople has resulted in an agreement with the sultan whereby the latter gives the kaiser the right to plant a large German colony along the whole frontier of Tripoli. This arrangement will protect the sultan against French encroachments across the Tripoli-Tunis frontier, and will avoid granting a concession in Asia Minor, which would induce Russia to demand compensation.

Georgia Wants More Ground.

Atlanta, Nov. 4.—State Attorney Wimbish has filed his report with Governor Candler on the claim set forth by Georgia that 1500 square miles of territory lying in Tennessee and North Carolina belong to the first named state. Mr. Wimbish says the question is still open for the courts to decide. There is still some doubt as to whether Chattanooga is in Georgia or Tennessee.

To Make Powder.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The British government has closed a contract here for immediate delivery of 125,000 gallons of distilled spirits at Montreal. An intimation was also given that about 450,000 more gallons would be ordered in 10 days. The order of 125,000 gallons amounts to nearly 3000 barrels. The spirits will be used in the manufacture of smokeless powder.

Used a Shotgun.

Ridgeville, O., Nov. 4.—Adam Rowe, a prominent politician of this county, had been out electioneering, and upon his return, it is alleged, while under the influence of liquor, went to William Smith's house and attempted to kick the door in. Smith opened fire on Rowe with a shotgun, inflicting wounds which will prove fatal. Smith has not yet been arrested.

For Stabbing Allen.

Rochester, N. H., Nov. 4.—Almon Stewart was given a preliminary hearing yesterday on the charge of stabbing Charles H. Allen at his hotel in this city Tuesday night. He was committed to the county jail to await the action of the grand jury. Allen still remains in a critical condition.

KLONDIKE POINTERS

Which May Prove Beneficial to Those Intending to Visit That Region.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Captain John J. Healy, vice president of the North American Transportation and Trading company, who has just returned from a six years' sojourn in the Klondike, says: "The truth about the Yukon country is that it will yield $30,000,000 between now and next October, and with the completion of the government roads and the operation of quartz mining machinery the output will amount to $100,000,000 in gold annually. In less than five years 100,000 whites will be at work in the Yukon and 100 years of steady labor will not exhaust profitable mining in Alaska.

"Now the question arises," said Captain Healy, "how are these statements to be reconciled with the hard-luck tales brought out of the Yukon? Whether it is believed or not, the simple truth is this: Scores of men who have gone to that country don't know pay dirt when they see it. They are farmers and greenhorns, and cannot set a sluicebox or make a riffle to save their lives. A sluicebox must have a certain pitch or the washings wil not pan out. Some are quick to catch on to these things, while others are not."

Didn't Patronize a Bank.

Akron, O., Nov. 4.—A large sum of money has been discovered at the late home of Oscar Osborne, who was murdered at Richfield a few weeks ago. Recently searches were made with the result that $10,000 was found. The theory is now advanced that the strap found about Osborne's neck was used to choke and strangle him to induce him to tell where the money was hidden. It is known that Osborne had secreted large sums somewhere about his place.

Fall Killed Him.

New York, Nov. 4.—Police Captain John M. O'Keefe died in St. Vincent's hospital yesterday from injuries received by falling downstairs at Lissers' hotel, Tuesday. He was a guest at a birthday dinner given at that place in honor of Martin Engel, a Tammany leader. He was taken to the hospital suffering with a fracture of the skull and paralysis. He did not regain consciousness. Captain O'Keefe was born in 1845.

Increased Appropriation.

Indianapolis, Nov. 4.—The general executive committee of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church closed its annual session after having elected Mrs. Harriet B. Skidmore of New York treasurer of the general society. The total appropriation of the society for foreign missions for the ensuing year was announced to be $357,251, an increase over that of the past year of $22,196. The northwestern branch alone gave $92,656, the largest subscription offered.

After the Bondsmen.

Holyoke, Mass., Nov. 4.—The city of Holyoke yesterday took legal steps to protect itself in the tax matter by placing attachments aggregating $205,000 in amount on the property of ex-Tax Collector Keough and his bondsmen, for the years 1895, 1896 and 1897. The attachments were filed by Deputy Sheriff O'Donnell. The writs are brought in the name of the city of Holyoke against the defendants in an action of contract, and are returnable the first Monday in December.

Wilmington's Race War.

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 4.—The first red shirt parade on horseback witnessed in Wilmington was held yesterday. It created enthusiasm among the whites and consternation among the negroes. The whole town turned out to see it and hundreds of women waved flags and handkerchiefs as the long column of horsemen rode by. While the riders frequently cheered, the parade was otherwise quiet and orderly. Not an insulting word was uttered to a negro.

Well Trained.

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 4.—The fire drill in the public schools was brought into actual practice with great success at the Prescott grammar school yesterday, when fire broke out in the building. More than 500 pupils were marched from their seats to the cloakroom and then to the yard while smoke was filling the building. The discipline maintained was commendatory. The fire loss was not heavy.

Played the Races.

Kansas City, Nov. 4.—Eli Levy, aged 20, who is accused of having embezzled from his employers, Weston & Levy, wholesale butchers of New York, was arrested here last night in company of a young woman. Levy admitted that he and another bookkeeper named Cohen had embezzled $8000 from their employers, one of whom is Levy's brother, and that the money had been lost on the races.

O'Dell's Figures.

New York, Nov. 4.—Chairman O'Dell of the Republican state committee last night issued a statement in which he claims that Roosevelt will carry the state by a plurality of at least 40,000.

Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about 1-4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

HEART DISEASE.

FACTS REGARDING THE RAPID INCREASE OF HEART TROUBLES.

Do Not be Alarmed, But Look for the Cause.

Heart troubles, at least among Americans, are certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real, orgainic heart disease is incurable; but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by branches of the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way, also the heart is affected by that form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half digested food; there is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs interfering with their action; hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, makes it thin and water, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can best be done by the regular use after meals, of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuarts' Dyspepsia Tablet, which may be found at most drug stores and which contain valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant, convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Naphen and Barrows.

An Open Letter to the Voters of the 10th Congressional District.

Every voter in the Tenth congressional district of Massachusetts will be called upon, on Tuesday next, to decide whether or not he loves his party better than his country. At ordinary elections no great injury is done if the voter permits his prejudices and personal predilections to master his judgment. At the coming election, however, the future destiny of the country is to be decided. At such a time the man who fails to think and to act as his best thought directs is as much a betrayer of his country as Benedict Arnold.

We do not exaggerate the perils of the situation. The wisest and most conservative men of every party have spoken grave and earnest words of warning. Let anyone who doubts what we say read the recent speach of Senator Hoar. Partisan Republican though he is, our venerable senior senator loves the republic too well to keep silent at such a crisis.

The recent demands made by our peace commissioners indicate that the President, whose will directs their action, has been persuaded or brow-beaten into the adoption of the wildest extremes imperialism, with all its train of evils. If he is not checked at once in his perilous purpose we will soon be draged into complications which may entail upon us endles wars, burden some militarism, an abandonment of the Monroe doctrine, a repudiation of the principles of the Declaration of Indepeadence,an influx of cheap-Asiatic labor to compete with our own working men, an anual sacrifice of valuable American lives and a blot upon our fair flag which will make it an emblem of conquest instead of the banner of freedom which it has always been.

The only effective check that can be put upon this wild and dangerous scheme, this project of selfish capitalists to gain a new field for exploitation, is to send to Washington a Congress radically opposed to such a falsification of the mission of our republic. It must be a Congress that cannot be cajoled or bullied. Every Republican congressman, whatever his views may be, will be subjected to powerful pressure to support the administration policy. It is not safe, in such a crisis as this, to trust even the strongest-willed and most pronounced Republican opponent of imperialism, much less one whose views are so vaguely expressed and so complexly qualified that a college of casuists could not exactly determine what they are.

Is the Republican candidate in the Tenth district a man to be trusted under such circumstances? If anyone will read his latest utterances on the subject he will easily perceive that Mr. Barrows is playing for votes on both sides. He is in a bad predicament. He is appealing to his fellow-citizens to support the administration by voting for nim. He talks to them of the President's wise guidance, and in the same breath endeavors to leave the impression on the public mind that he is not exactly an imperialist.

Anyone who has followed Mr. Barrow's career in politics can readily perceive that he is the last man to be trusted by the people with discretion to act according to his own best judgment. He professes high purposes in politics, and a devotion to lofty principles. He is an avowed reformer with a large "R," and a coiner of eminently respcetable phrases. But like many other reformers with a large "R," the inducement of office is amply sufficient to make him swallow his high and mighty devotion to principal and vote with his party against his convictions like the veriest hack politician.

A single instance will suffice to show how untrustworthy this pretentious gentleman is. For several years prior to his election to Congress he was an avowed believer in a low tariff. His voice and his vote were given to tariff reform. He then had no reason whatever to be other than honest in his utterances. There is not a shadow of doubt that he believes today as he did two years ago that the country's good demands free raw materials and a large reduction in tariff duties. Yet only a few nights ago Senator Lodge, addressing a Republican rally, assured his hearers that Mr. Barrows voted for the Dingley bill, the most extreme and corrupt protectionist measure ever enacted by Congress. We have here an illustration of how far this high-minded candidate will go in the sacrifice of what he conceives to be the country's good, in order to hold on to his job. What does it matter in view of this showing, how Mr. Barrows stands on imperialism? If he could be bought with an office to support the Dingley bill against his convictions, he can be bought again to support any wild scheme his party may advocate in the next Congress.

The Democratic candidate's course in this matter contrasts very favorably with that of Mr. Barrows, and commends him to every conservative and patriotic voter. He did not pause a moment to consider the political prudence of boldly proclaiming his views. He did not wait to ascertain public opinion, but sought to mould it intelligently. He indulged in no vague, Barrows-esque generalities, so qualified as to leave him free to take any course in Congress which might seem best calculated to help him get a renomination next time. He put himself fairly and squarely on recordas an uncompromising anti-imperialist, and practically said to the voters: "This is what I conceive to be for the country's good; let all who agree with me support me."

All Americans love a fair fighter. Mr. Naphen has made a fair fight. His frank and manly canvass has drawn to him the support of hundreds of thoughtful and conservative citizens who are not Democrats, but who are unwilling to plunge into the bogs and quicksands in the wake of the Republican candidate whose platform and policy is "anything to stay in Congress." The Republican managers have frantically sought to force other issues into the campaign, appreciating the fact that their candidate was at an immense disadvantage on the one really pressing issue now before the country, but they have not succeeded, and every vote cast next Tuesday will be simply a vote for or against imperialism.

The Tenth district is one of those in which the great battle for the maintainance of the republic's honor is to be settled next Tuesday. It can scarcely be considered a doubtful district now. Its people are not accustomed to vote blindly. They have often demonstrated that in the past. They are in the firing line in this great contest, and when the polls are closed next Tuesday afternoon it will be found that, like the men of Massachusetts who stood in the firing line at Santiago, they have done their duty to their country nobly and well.

Let every true man, having the interest of his country and his district at heart vote for Hon. Henry F. Naphen.

Thayer Academy defeated their old time rivals Weymouth High eleven on French's Common, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 17-0. Over 400 people were present, composed for the most part of students from the two schools. Thayer's new backs did fine work, the line backing of Billy Harrison being the feature. The crowd greatly interfered with the playing of both teams, the game having to be stopped several times to put them back. The summary:

HARVARD VS. PENN.

The score at the end of the first half this afternoon was 6 to 0 in favor of Harvard.

CLOSING RALLY.

Henry H. Faxon Raises a Pertinent Query.

A largely attended Democratic rally was held in Hancock hall last evening. It was at one time doubtful if it could be held as the break in the gas main cut of the hall from its light. Lamps were however, produced.

William A. Jordan presided, and in opening he thanked the citizens for the honor they had bestowed upon him in nomiating him for the Legislature. He accepted and if elected would strive to represent the city. He had always been a Democrat. The Republican party was sadly misnamed for instead of representing the many it represented the few.

Hon. Robert E. Howard was the first speaker, who opened by saying that the last time he addressed a meeting in Quincy was 18 years ago, when it was a meeting of striking granite cutters. He told of the labor measures Mr. Naphen had worked and voted for. He also said a good word for Candidate Slattery, Loyd, Jordan, Cain and Rivers, and closed by saying that the right party to vote for was the Democratic, which was the party of the people.

Levi H. Turner of Norfolk Downs said he stood by Naphen, for he stood on the Chicago platform. His remarks were confined almost wholly to the monetary question, and he referred to Grover Cleveland as a traitor. He closed by urging his hearers to make a desperate effort to elect Naphen.

Hon. Richard Sullivan opened by saying that we should remember that the fundimental thing was the unity of the Democracy of the Tenth district. Although not directly referring to the speech of Mr. Turner he rather repudiated the remarks made about ex-President Cleveland. He paid a high tribute to Mr. Naphen and believed that he would send Mr. Barrows back to his library, his books and his pen. He urged his hearers to vote for every Democrat on the ticket, from top to bottom. If we are united in the Tenth district it means the nucleus of a united democracy. He said that Mr. Barrows had broken his promise, which caused Mr. Faxon to remark "That is right!" Mr. Sulliavn said that there was one thing and that was Mr. Faxon was not afraid on any occasion to declare his honest opinion of any candidate.

Thomas F. Cain was the last speaker. He believed the enthusiasm shown would hold until after Tuesday. Mr. Naphen would be elected, and he personally would do something for the city in the legislature. No one knows how Mr. Barrows stands, but we know where Mr. Naphen stands.

Mr. Faxon then arose and said he would like to ask the two candidates for the legislature how they stood on the temperance question.

Mr. Cain replied that he made his living in the liquor business and he made it honestly as it was legalized. Personally he had never tasted a drop of liquor of any kind. But while his interest were perhaps with the business he would be true to the wishes of the city in regard to liquor legislation regardless of his own interests.

Mr. Jordan said he also had never tasted liquor and that he always voted "No," which he believed was for the best interest of the city.

No Gas Last Night.

Those citizens who depended upon gas to illuminate their residences and places of business last night had their lights suddenly cut off just before six o'clock, and were obliged to depend upon oil. The trouble was the bursting of a three inch gas main in a sewer trench on Hancock street, opposite Saville street.

In puddling the sewer trench, which had just been filled, with a hose from the hydrant caused the pipe to settle and break. The trench was reopened and preparations were made to repair the leak, when some on went into the trench with a lantern. The result was that the gas ignited and a large flame shot into the air. The only way to extinguish the flame was to shut off the supply at the gas house. This was done and this left the city in darkness. The break could have been repaired even then but as there were doubtless some jets that were open in houses it was considered dangerous to again turn on the gas. The break was repaired this morning.

ELECTION STRAWS.

They Blow for Victory for Republican Candidates.

☞ Chairman Goetting of the State Committee urges Republicans to get out the vote, and vote themselves, and vote the ticket straight.

☞ Speaker Bates of the Massachusetts House says, "Our legislation of labor has been copied by several of the States. I am glad to see. I read the other day that 24 of the States had copied it.

☞ And so the Cubans employed upon the streets of Santiago have struck for a rise of fifty cents a day. This looks as though we may not have a great deal of difficulty in instructing the Cubans in American methods.—Boston Transcript.

☞ "Imperialism is not an issue of this campaign. The committee sitting at Paris are not all Republicans. Both parties have gone to represent the situation, and the American people will stand behind that committee and indorse their action."—Speaker Bates at Cambridge.

☞ "I say deliberately that the breaking up of the Democratic party in 1896 was a great misfortune. There drifted out of it at that time a large majority of the men who represented the conservative elements of their party, and who also believed in the traditions of the party, the traditions of American government. They threw all the old traditions to the winds. It was a misfortune to the country that that great historic party separated as it did then. It is important for this country that there should be two strong, well-ruled parties, one fit to govern and one fit to criticise, and it is beyond doubt that power will not always be kept in the hands of either of them."—Senator Lodge.

☞ Speaking at Brookline Benjamin C. Dean said: "A party organization was absolutely necessary, for the reason that in our town government it was only through the party that town affairs were so well managed. For this reason every man should give his individual assistance to their party, in its efforts to regain the ground that has been lost during the past four years. This must be done at the polls on Tuesday next, if we wish to gain the prestige which we have held before. He declared that the Republican Party had every reason to be proud of the record which it had made during the last four years. He paid an excellent tribute to President McKinley and Governor Wolcott.

☞ We have passed the protective tariff. It has shown its capacity in in times of peace to give the Government sufficient revenue for ordinary expenses. We pledged you in the St. Louis platform that we would maintain the gold standard. We have maintained it. Our fidelity to that great principal has been shown in the last three months, for when we were brought to the supreme test of war. One of the great pillars of Government is credit, and we turned to the people of the United States and said for immediate expenditures we need two hundred millions of dollars, and the people of the United States came to the Treasury, and said, here are fourteen hundred millions. The credit of this country has been maintained even as the Republican Party promised to maintain it. We have set the Hawaiian question as the platform demanded. We have settled the Cuban question. It came to us in ways that no one understood in 1896, but it has been the fortune of the Republican Party in 1898, as it was its good fortune in 1861, to be charged with the conduct of the Govenment when a great crisis confronted the people and now, as then, we have met the crisis, we have come victorious out of the fiery furance of war.—Senator Lodge.

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

I chose him out from all the rest—
My Tom—he had three lovely brothers,
But—well, he seemed to like me best
Of all the girls. Oh, there were others
That wanted him, but somehow he,
Right from the first, kept after me.

He was so splendid! Big and kind
And calm and full of mischief very.
A romp seemed always to his mind,
While I was rather prim than merry,
Yet when he was my own I felt
How fond a lover near me dwelt.

Alas, there came a time of change!
He cared no more for home nor quiet;
His moods were reckless, wild and strange;
Night after night he spent in riot,
Returning when the dawnlight came,
Quite heedless of reproach or blame.

And so it went till months were past.
I was too proud to bang or beat him
Or pull his whiskers, yet at last
He left me. Now I sometimes meet him:
He has grown ugly, old and fat—
My handsome Maltese Thomas cat!
—Madeline S. Bridges in Ladies' Home Journal.

AN EXPERIMENT.

Arthur Wilson awoke with a vague sense of positive distress. What was it? He knew now. From the room beneath came the tink tink of a piano played—no, not played, thumped in a most atrociously crude fashion.

It was dreadful, awful, unendurable! It would have been bad enough if the tune had been played correctly, for to a man brought up on Boston symphony concerts the tunes of Mr. Sankey are not the most inspiring and satisfactory music, but this performance outrivaled anything Wilson could have dreamed in the way of imperfections. Moreover, there was a certain insistence in the thumping that foretold frequent application to the instrument. The racket would probably be kept up for hours at a time and many times during the day. What should be done about it?

Wilson poked his head from beneath the clothes and looked around. There was his baggage, there was the table especially put in by kind Mrs. Hapgood in order that he might have ample accommodation for his literary work. He might go elsewhere, but he knew that at this one house his needs could be satisfied, and as for going to another town, hadn't his physician told him with great emphasis that Boston was the one spot, by reason of its climatic conditions, where he could hope to accomplish his task without breaking down? Here, then, he must stay, and if he found that he positively could not stand the pounding of that piano he must find a way to stop it.

All through his preparations for breakfast the nerve wrecking attempt at music continued. There was a pause when he opened the door to go down—"probably hunting another tune," thought Wilson—and he hastened his steps that he might look into the parlor and see who it was that was apparently destined to torment him. Just as he laid his hand on the knob of the parlor door there was one solitary thump, as if the performer had unwittingly dropped a book on the keys. Next instant the door was open and Wilson beheld a sight that filled his heart with perturbations quite as exciting but far pleasanter than those that had been caused by the execrable playing.

Upon the piano stool, swinging around to face him and with the Moody and Sankey book in her hand, was a young woman whose fresh, radiant loveliness sent a thrill straight through his breast to the innermost core of his spinal column. So far as Wilson was concerned it was a case of love at sight. How else will you explain the lamentable confusion that beset him? How account for his sudden access of color and his subsequent behavior?

"Excuse me," he stammered, trying to withdraw, but rooted to the spot.

"Good morning, Mr. Wilson," she responded, rising with admirable composure and simplicity. I wasn't at home when you came last evening, but, of course, I knew about it. I am Lucy Hapgood, and that saves mamma the trouble of introducing us. I am afraid the piano disturbed you."

"No, no. Not at all! Not in the least, I assure you," fabricated Wilson, with alarming emphasis. What further perjury he might have committed may be left to the imagination, for just then Mrs. Hapgood appeared and announced that breakfast was ready.

All through that bountiful meal Wilson reflected. He hardly dared raise his eyes from his plate, and for that matter he did not need to, because where he should have seen hot buckwheats he beheld the lustrous orbs of Lucy Hapgood, who sat demurely opposite. He answered the commonplaces of Mr. and Mrs. Hapgood in monosyllables and looked up only toward the end of the meal when Molly, a 6-year-old sister of Lucy, came running in from the yard with voluble excuses for being late.

Now, Wilson did not for one instant realize what was the matter. He failed even to suspect that he had gone daft on Lucy Hapgood. It was quite apparent, however, that an unforeseen element had obtruded itself into his life in Boston, and he attributed his discomposure to the impossibility of asking that superb creature to let the piano alone. If she had been a mere child or an ordinary raw country girl, it would have been easy enough, but—the end of it was that Wilson decided upon trying an experiment. He would teach her to play.

Being naturally an honest man, Wilson's first step was to correct his previous falsehood. Finding Miss Lucy dusting in the parlor, he said: "I want to be frank with you, Miss Hapgood. The piano this morning did disturb me a good deal, and I am afraid I could not stand that kind of music right along, don't you know."

"I felt sure of it," she answered, with equal frankness. "It shall not happen again, Mr. Wilson."

"But I should hate to deprive you of the pleasure of playing the instrument," he added hastily, "and I don't mean to. I was just going to make a suggestion."

She was looking at him with such interest and attention that poor Wilson could hardly continue, but he succeeded.

"I'd like to give you a lesson or two. You see, Miss Hapgood, if your playing took the form of regular practice instead of—er—what you were doing this morning I think I could stand it, and I never feel in the least disturbed when—er—the performance is fairly correct."

Lucy turned her gaze to the floor, and her glorious color heightened.

"I don't play so very well myself," continued Wilson, "but I could teach you the elements, and after a time you would be able to pick out tunes with more—er—satisfaction to—er—yourself."

"I should like to learn," admitted Lucy, looking up with a most engaging smile, "and if you will give me lessons I can manage my practicing so that you will not be disturbed. There's a piano in the church vestry that I can use all I want to, and I can practice there."

"Fine!" exclaimed Wilson, and so rejoiced was he at the promising success of his experiment that he suggested a first lesson forthwith. Lucy hesitated, but eventually put aside her duster, hunted up an old instruction book and sat at the piano beside Wilson, listening with docile attention to his remarks about do, ra, me, the names of the keys and the fingering of the scale. He showed her how to hold her hand, finding it necessary, of course, to place her fingers in position with his own, an operation that so bewildered him that when he went to his writing he couldn't put down a single satisfactory sentence.

Well, such was the beginning. There was a daily lesson for two weeks, much to Mrs. Hapgood's amazement and apparent objection, though she said nothing, and much to the further disorder of Wilson's mind. Lucy evidently practiced long and well, for she improved remarkably, and she continued to be docile until toward the last, when Wilson observed that she was uncomfortably reticent and almost freakish. One day she jumped up suddenly, her face scarlet, and bounded out of the room, declaring that she was done with it all, and that she would never touch a piano again as long as she lived.

Wilson's heart was in a tumult. He had learned days before this what was the matter and the prospect of losing those sweet hours at the piano was intolerable. He followed her, found her struggling against tears in the dining room, and, going straight to her, he told his story. Lucy listened with an expression of unutterable anguish, tried to say "Yes," and "No," at the same time and at length broke away from his tentative embrace and fled back to the parlor.

For one painful moment Wilson remained where he was. Then upon his astonished ears came the sounds of that most beautifully melancholy nocturne of Chopin's, the one in B major, and played, it seemed, with more perfection of technique and feeling than he ever heard it. He tiptoed his way into the parlor and listened there, while he watched Lucy wring from the instrument the expression of her wealth of woe. Presently she stopped in the middle of a passage, put her face in her hands and moaned, "Oh, I am so ashamed!"

"But, Lucy," said Wilson, tenderly, as he caressed her hair, "I love you, dear!"

Then she stood up, reached out her arms helplessly, and their lips met.

"I couldn't help it, Arthur," she said, a little later, "when I saw that you mistook Molly's ignorant pounding for mine, I meant to have a little fun with you, that was all. Mamma scolded, but I wouldn't stop. I am afraid you think I haven't any principle at all."

"On the contrary, dearest," answered Wilson, "I knew that you were impelled and guided by the principle of love. It reminds me of the professor in college in whose hands an experiment went all to smash. 'Gentlemen,' said he to the laughing students, 'the experiment has failed, but the principle remains the same.'"—Chicago News.

Through Thick and Thin.

They are with us again, the brave laddies in blue,
And we welcome them all with a will,
And we'll help them forget all the woes they went through
Where the battle notes echo and thrill.

And it's thankful we are there's no greater dismay
As we gaze on each conquering troop;
They are with us again from the thick of the fray
And the thin of the coffee and soup.

Evidence of Ability.

"Skidley always seems industrious," remarked the gossip. "And yet he never accomplishes much."

"Yes," replied the eager listener, "he's one of these people who whenever they do anything make you think they'd be first rate hands at something else."

OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

FRENCH GOWN OF SILK AND WOOL FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

Bolero and Eton jackets in various modifications, as a part of the costume, are in equally good style as the long coats among the French models.

A little jacket, the shortest possible under the arm, is made of novelty silk and wool cloth in olive green and brown. The broad revers, making a sharp spoint at the bust, are trimmed with three black velvet cords and small buttons of velvet. The collar, open to the throat in front to produce a continuation of the full front of the waist, has the same little buttons as a decoration. The jacket has a pointed back and neck to repeat harmoniously the lines on the skirt, which is a new seven-gored model of tabac brown cloth whose width at the foot is four yards. Three velvet cords form a simple trimming for the bottom, as well as for the edge of the circular peplum over-dress, which is attached to the skirt in yoke effect on the sides and back and has a point each side of the front, with the side rounded away and sloping downward towards the back, lengthening in another deep point behind to the hem of the petticoat. The yoke is hooked invisibly at the back, and the tiny belt of velvet is held in place by a square buckle of brilliants.

Very odd is the "tulipe" sleeve, one of the latest Paris models. This sleeve is made in two sections separated slightly along the outside of the arm, disclosing an undersleeve. The top of the sleeve within also appears in a puff effect from which the outer top rolls back. These divisions overlap at the wrist and fall over the hands in points.

Such a sleeve admits of many pleasing combinations in color, fabric, and trimming. The proper cut of this gown can be obtained only from the cut-paper patterns, published by Harper's Bazar, when gown appears.

Quantity of material—plain goods, 52 inches wide, 5 yards; novelty goods, 42 inches wide, 3 1-2 yards.

FIRST POSITIVE MOVE.

Movements After the Signing of the Protocol

Form a Basis For Counter Propositions For Our Commissioners to Consider.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The American proposition to take the entire Philippine group and to reimburse Spain for her "pacific expenditures" there was flatly refused by the Spanish commissioners, in the course of a two hours' session of the peace conference yesterday.

This negative decision was expected. The Spanish commissioners had also a number of positive declarations, which filled some 37 sheets of a type-written presentment. In this statement the Spaniards held that the United States had no ultimate rights in the Philippine archipelago and could have none, save by the consent of Spain in these negotiations and upon terms satisfactory to her. According to the Spanish contention in the formal statement, the United States entertained no thought of annexing the Philippines when the protocol was signed, or it would have been expressed in the protocol as clearly as the conditions regarding the cession of territory in the Antilles and the Orient. Mr. Cambon, before the signature of the protocol, received from Madrid—the presentment alleged—a cable message clearly setting forth that the maintenance of Spain's authority over the Philippines should not be affected by the protocol, to which reservation the United States made at that time no protest or objection.

This dispatch to Mr. Cambon, as the Spaniards claimed, embodied also the view that the United States had no valid basis for claims in the archipelago. It is further held by Senor Rios and his colleagues that the capitulation of Manila, having occurred after the signing of the protocol, and thus after the suspension of hostilities, was invalid.

With all this for groundwork the Spaniards made their first positive move against the Americans, and it constituted their counter-proposition. They charged upon the United States a wrongful appropriation of public moneys belonging to Spain by seizing the tariff duties at Manila; and they formally demanded the return of these moneys, in the sum of nearly $1,000,000.

On the same premises the United States were yesterday declared to have made and held as prisoners the Spanish troops at Manila in violation of international law, because done after the suspension of hostilities under the protocol. A further charge was that by the imprisonment of the Spanish troops at Manila the United States had prevented Spain from quelling the insurrection and had thus contributed to the violence against Spain, after the cessation of hostilities. The Spanish presentment yesterday also cited the refusal of the Americans to consider the Cuban debt on the ground that it was not mentioned in the protocol and demanded an adherence to this as a precedent in the discussion of the Philippines, regarding cession of which the Spanish commissioners held the protocol to make no mention.

In support of these assertions, arguments and demands, the Spanish presentment invokes Spain's record in the correspondence, by mail and telegraph, though it is not known unofficially whether the Spaniards produced the message said to have been sent from Madrid to Mr. Cambon, at the time the protocol was signed, in which, it was affirmed, Spain reserved her Philippine sovereignty.

The presentment was read by Interpreter Ferguson, being rendered from the Spanish, in which it was written, into English. At the close of the reading the Americans said they wished to have the Spanish statement rendered into written English for more careful consideration, and an adjournment was taken to Tuesday next.

The Spaniards affect to believe that the Americans had planned to develop the spirit of their Philippine demands before the American elections, but they declined to say whether they expect easier terms after the election.

The entire clerical force of the American commimssion was busy the greater part of the night in handling the Spanish presentment, and the counsel to the commissioners at the same time examined it with a view to today's private session of the American commission, when a response will be formulated.

It may again be asserted on the highest authority—as bearing on the Spanish argument—that when the protocol was signed there was no understanding, verbal or otherwise, which the protocol does not show forth; nor have the American commissioners at any time, on the other hand, held or believed that the protocol, in se, determined anything against Spain's sovereignty in the Philippines. The American representatives have, however, held, and doubtless will hold, that the protocol was meant to provide, and does provide, for a decision by the Paris conference regarding the ownership of the Philippines.

In this connection, too, the Americans will undoubtedly cite the fact that originally the protocol contained the word "possession" instead of "disposition," the latter having been substituted at Cambon's request and in deference to Spanish sensibilities. The original reading will unquestionably be recurred to now as indicating the mental attitude of the American signers of the protocol toward American possessions of the Philippines. This line of reasoning will naturally include the question of the precedent, which the Spaniards say was created by the refusal of the United States to consider the Cuban debt because it was not mentioned in the protocol.

It is possible that the American commissioners may finally concur with the Spanish contention that the capitulation of Manila, coming after the signing of the protocol, was invalid. In that event the Americans may cite, as an offset to the tariff duties collected, their own expenditures in administering the government of Manila and enforcing order. They may also ask if Spain wishes the insurgent cordon of the city and the insurgent control of the water works reestablished as a step toward the restoration of the status quo ante, which the Spaniards declare was broken by the Americans.

Finally Spain may be asked to consider whether, insted of being prisoners of the United States, the Spanish troops at Manila were not more exactly refugees within American protection.

But however the contentions may run, there are at present no indications of a rupture.

The War Inquiry.

Cincinnati, Nov. 5.—The war investigation commission had among the witnesses yesterday four officers who served in the Santiago campaign, one of them being General Egbert, who, as lieutenant colonel of the Sixth United States infantry, was shot down at San Juan hill by a bullet piercing his chest. The general appears entirely recovered. Lieutenant Colonel Miner, now in command of the Sixth infantry, was another witness. Perhaps the most suggestive testimony was that given by Major Griffiths of Kansas City, who was in charge of the third division hospital of the First corps. The major declared that he asked the corps commander at Chickamauga on June 20 to have the typhoid patients isolated. The epidemic, he said, could then have been avoided, but no attention was paid to his request. The commission ends its work here this evening and will resume in Chicago on Monday morning.

Insurgents Disagree.

Manila, Nov. 5.—It is reported that the priests are instigating a faction to support Artachio, a bitter opponent of Aguinaldo. The increasing dissensions among the insurgents are diminishing the probability of the latter opposing the Americans.

Havana Gleanings.

Havana, Nov. 5.—Mr. Gould, legal adviser to the United States evacuation commission, sailed for the United States today on the Vigilancia. He goes to attend to private business and will return here in the course of a fortnight.

The Spanish officials announced a sale yesterday of government tugs and launches. The only sale effected was of a launch, which went for $3500. In the other case the bids fell below the two-thirds estimated value and the articles were not sold.

The official records for Matanzas for the month of October give the births there as 19, the marriages 10 and the deaths 668.

An application signed by a large number of Cubans was presented to the United States evacuation commissioners yesterday, begging them to intercede with the Spanish government for the release of the Cuban general, Rius Rivera, and the Cuban colonel, Bacallao, his chief of staff, who, in March of last year, were captured by the Spanish general, Hernandez de Velasco, while operating with his column in the hills about Cabozadas de Rio Hondo. The local papers say that the American commissioners have forwarded the petition to Captain General Blanco, but it is safe to assume that they have taken no steps in the matter, as it would be entirely outside their province. General Butler called at the palace yesterday and had an interview with General Blanco, but the American commissioner says the visit was entirely unofficial.

Captain Brooks has completed his inspection and inventory of the batteries and other defenses of Havana.

Praises Camp Wickoff.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 5.—Sister Camilla, the head of the training school for nurses at St. John's hospital, who left that institution Aug. 26 on a mission to nurse the sick soldiers at Montauk, returned yesterday. Sister Camilla went first to Montauk, where she remained five weeks, or until the camp was broken up. She says that for the first few days things were not in shape and there were many drawbacks and inconveniences, yet for the rest of the time the camp was a model. There was a superabundance of everything the soldiers, sick or well, could desire. Sister Camilla says the newspaper clamor against Camp Wikoff was most unjust. There was an ample supply of food and medicine, and the delicacies and luxuries indispensable in hospitals were always at hand.

Turkey For Troops.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Governor Dyer of Rhode Island has inquired of the war department whether the First Rhode Island volunteers will be in this country on Thanksgiving day. His desire is to give the regiment a Thanksgiving dinner if it is in this country on that day. Adjutant General Corbin replied that the regiment probably will be at Camp Meade, Pa. A feature of the proposed dinner will be 200 Rhode Island turkeys.

Against "Expansion."

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 5.—George S. Boutwell, ex-secretary of the treasury of the United States, addressed the Cantabriga club yesterday upon "Imperialism." In the course of his remarks he said: "If American institutions of government are to be set up and established firmly in other countries, the ideas on which our institutions rest must, in anticipation, have been accepted by the people. Hence I condemn the attempt to extend American institutions by the sword. Let the institutions wait until the world is conquered by ideas. As the conquest of ideas goes on, the people who accept the ideas will create and project corresponding institutions. It has been our boast that within this republic we had founded states freed from the dominion of a church; that we had founded a republic in which it was said it was possible to establish a church freed from the domination of the state. This is the legacy which has come down to us from the Pilgrims of Plymouth and the Catholics of Maryland. Let not the army, the navy, and the young men of the republic be employed in setting up a state which must in the end fall under the domination of a church. Instructed by Senator Hoar's speech, I qualify the propositions with which I ended my address to the Twentieth Century club. I reproduce them in this form: Give to Hawaii a territorial government, and upon a liberal basis. Insist upon an independent government for Cuba, and give no encouragement to the project for annexation. Abandon Porto Rico and the Spanish islands of the Pacific ocean without controversy, debate or negotiations with anyone."

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Encouraging Features Continue In Nearly All Branches.

New York, Nov. 5.—Bradstreet's says: Further quieting down of new business in iron and steel, the relapse into dullness, though at steady prices, of wheat, consequent upon the withdrawal of the excited foreign demand, and some slight increase of quiet in general trade, chiefly at the south, as the result of the approach of the elections, are all features calling for special mention this week. Among the more actively favorable features are the price steadiness displayed by most staple articles and the enlarged distribution of staple goods at many western and southern markets, as the result of improved weather and removal of quarantines. Confirmatory of the quite favorable reports as to general trade during October are the returns of bank clearings for that month, and scattered reports as to the increased business doing at many centers in that month as compared with one year ago. Export statistics of grain, too, are beginning to show that an ample basis for the stories of heavy foreign buying really existed, exports this week being the heaviest on record.

New business in iron and steel has been lighter than for weeks past, and some shading of quotations, particularly steel, is reported. Wheat has been duller, but steady on uncertainty as to possible foreign complications, offsetting a heavy gain in movement from producers' hands. The current demand and output of flour has continued to equal and even exceed all previous records. An encouraging feature is the continued active demand for domestic wools, largely at Boston, and much of it at price concessions, with rather more reported doing in cheap makes of worsteds. While a little more is doing in boots and shoes the market for hides and leather is still unsatisfactory, and price reductions are a feature. Cotton has made another new low record on heavy crop movement, but improved demand for export and the working of the new print cloth restriction have tended to firmness for the manufactured product.

Business failures in the United States this week number 183, against 228 in this week a year ago.

Big Fire In Haverhill.

Haverhill, Mass., Nov. 5.—The department store of F. H. Dunmore, on Merrimac street, was wiped out by fire last night, causing a loss of about $30,000. The rear portion was an old wooden building. The basement was occupied as a storage place for building materials, and was entirely open. The fire was discovered in the basement, and although a small blaze at first it swept over the entire building. A week ago last night there was a mysterious fire at F. W. Jacobs & Sons' dry goods house, which caused a loss of $40,000, and the city is alarmed over the presence of a firebug. During the progress of the fire a Mrs. Nichols was injured by flying glass striking one eye, and it is said she will lose the sight of it.

Joe Jefferson Sick.

New York, Nov. 5.—Owing to the sudden and serious illness of Joseph Jefferson the audience in the Fifth avenue theater was dismissed at 8:10 last night. There was no performance of "The Rivals," and there will be no matinee or evening performance today. Should Mr. Jefferson improve in health before next Monday evening he will appear in a revival of "Rip Van Winkle." Mr. Jefferson was suffering only from a cold, but his friends now fear that the cold may develop into pneumonia which, at his time of life, would be exceedingly dangerous.

A Six-Rounder.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Joe Choynski narrowly escaped being put to sleep several times last night at the Arena Athletic club by the fierce onslaught of Gus Ruhlin of Akron, O. Each time he was apparently saved by the bell. The bout was limited to six rounds, and was one of the fastest seen here in a long time. Choynski fell down several times to evade Ruhlin's rushes. Ruhlin fouled a number of times in the clinches, but it was apparently due to the heat of the encounter.

A Needless Flurry.

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 5.—The run on the Dime Savings bank, which began Wednesday afternoon, came to an end yesterday. During the run on the bank 275 depositors withdrew the largest part of their deposits, and quite a number of those who were anxious to get their money out on Wednesday and Thursday were equally anxious to get it back yesterday. The amount withdrawn is conservatively estimated by the officials of the bank at $70,000. Of this quite a large sum has been returned.

Rotten Politics.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 5.—Thomas J. Haynes, Populist candidate for congress from this district, yesterday made public a statement that the Populist ticket was put in the field for the sole purpose of defeating the Democrats. He says he was promised $300 for the use of his name as a candidate. He admits he has already received $100, but says he accepted it solely for exposing the scheme.

Fata Elevator Accident.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Miss Jennie Davison of Somerville, employed by the Clinton Manufacturing company of this city, was crushed to death in the elevator yesterday. As near as can be ascertained, the girl was looking over the gate into the well when the elevator came down upon her without any warning, crushing her head and shoulders.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:24; sets, 4:31.
Moon rises—11:27 p. m.
High water—4:30 a. m.; 4:45 p. m.

Increasing cloudiness is indicated for New England tonight and Sunday. Light showers may occur in northern sections of this district by Sunday afternoon or night. The temperature will continue high, followed by somewhat cooler Sunday evening and night. The winds will shift to west and northwest. Monday promises cooler, generally fair weather.

Walking the Floor.

When a business man gets to the point where he cannot sleep at night, where he is so shattered of nerve that it is torture to even remain in his bed, and he has to get up and pace the floor—it is time for that man to bring himself up with a round turn. If he does not, it means nervous prostration and mental, if not physical, death.

For a man who gets into this condition there is a remedy that will brace him up, put him on his feet and make a man of him again. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It goes to the bottom of things. It searches out the first cause. When a man is in this condition you can put your finger on one of two spots and hit that first cause—the stomach or the liver or both. This great medicine acts directly on these spots. It promptly transforms a weak stomach into a healthy one. It facilitates the flow of digestive juices and makes digestion and assimilation perfect. It gives a man an appetite like a boy's. It invigorates the liver. It fills the blood with the life-giving elements of the food, and makes it pure, rich, red and plentiful. The blood is the life current, and when it is filled with the elements that build new and healthy tissues, it does not take long to make a man well and strong. It builds firm, muscular flesh tissues and strong and steady nerve fibers. It puts new life, vigor and vitality into every atom and organ of the body. It cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. Nothing "just as good" can be found at medicine stores.

"I had suffered about eleven years with a pain in the back of my head and back," writes Mr. Robert Hubbard, of Varner, Lincoln Co., Ark. "I suffered for eleven years and spent a great deal of money for doctors and medicine, but did not get relief. Then I tried four bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and improved greatly. I sent for five more and now am glad to tell everyone that I am in good health."

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

WALTER P. PINEL

Good Afternoon.

Although the Democrats of this district were particular to nominate a candidate for Congress who stood squarely upon the silver platform, the candidate does not now consider that the issue. Republicans, however, will not be deceived. All the questions of the war with Spain will probably be settled by the present Congress of which Mr. Barrows is a member. Should Mr. Naphen be elected he would not enter upon the duties of the office until 1899, possibly a year hence.

The personal letter received by the Quincy voters indiscriminately from Democratic Candidate Naphen, will it is thought greatly aid Candidate Barrows. It is a clever job but everybody recognizes that it is printed and not written. The personal plea for assistance is unique, and the offer to reciprocate is almost a pledge. It would seem as if the burden Mr. Naphen is assuming to each individual voter is the Tenth Congressional district is too great for one man, and that if elected he could not be at all independent, but merely the tool of everyone.

That there is an increasing foreign market for American goods is shown by the report of the Treasury bureau of statistics. For the nine months of 1898, ending Sept. 30, the exports both of manufactures and products of agriculture were the largest for any nine months in the country's history. The exports of manufactures were $227,822,645, over fifteen million more than in 1897, and more than double 1892. The exports of agriculture were $571,294,955, over one hundred million in excess of 1897 and nearly double ten years ago. In 1895 the imports exceeded the exports while this year the exports are nealry double: imports, $475,360,893; exports $854,203,502. Still some orators tell us there is no market for our goods outside of the United States.

Our correspondent of yesterday, who offered suggestions for the permanent improvement of the streets and sidewalks, struck the key note when he said, "Give the present efficient Commissioner of Public Works the money and we will have the improvements." We fail to see any escape from increased taxation however, in the plan proposed, and see many objectionable features, which may be unconstitutional. We doubt if permission to issue bonds on the plan proposed could be secured from the Legislature, and we doubt if assesments paid could be reappropriated for improvements. A sinking fund is objectionable If only a mile and and a half is built per year it would take a number of years to build the 100 miles in the city. Again, is it constitutional in Massachusetts to assess abutters half the cost of street building? Good progress is being made in street improvements in Quincy and the best way to hasten the work is to increase the annual appropriation and avoid interest. Our finances will soon admit of this.

It is rather cheap politics for a candidate for office to volunteer to secure for his constituents as much as possible from the public crib. Yet Candidate Naphen tells Quincy that she needs river improvement and a post office building, and that he will endeavor to secure them. And candidate Cain says he will secure for Quincy the Metropolitan boulevard. These gentlemen remind us of the saying of Rousseau: "He who is most slow in making a promise, is the most faithful in the performance of it." And of Fuller who said: "Thou oughtest to be nice, even to superstition, in keeping thy promises; and therefore thou shouldst be equally cautious in making them." Mr. Naphen as a member of a Republican Congressman, or Mr. Cain as a member of a Republican Legislature, would not be in a position "to deliver the goods." Then taxpayers and voters will beware of an official who thinks it is his sole duty to spend the public money. There are expenditures which are wise and economical, but what Congress needs most is gentlemen who will secure for the government a revenue sufficient to pay all neccessary expenses, and legislate wisely and honestly for good government. The record of Congressman Barrows is along these lines. If successful business men like B. Herbert Woodsum, Eugene H. Sprague and Eben W. Sheppard, Quincy may best expect to secure representatives in the Legislature who will safely guide the ship of State.

S. V. & L. A. S. Notes.

Francis L. Souther Camp 27, Sons of Veterans, and Ladies Aid Society No. 3, will attend the annual inspection of the L. A. S. of Rockland on Monday evening.

The camp and society are preparing for G. A. R. fair and propose to present many new and novel features on their tables this year.

The annual inspection of Camp 27 will be held on Nov. 29, and there is every reason to believe that a creditable marking will be received as the interest in the order is increasing. The meetings are well attended and the officers have their work up to a high degree of efficiency.

At the last meeting of the Camp several brothers who served in the navy during the Spanish war, gave interesting accounts of their experiences.

The Division and National Headquarters of the Sons of Veterans are compiling a list of those brothers who served in the U. S. army during the late war, and it will show that a large percentage of the members responded to the call.

Annual of Masons.

Rural Lodge of Masons held its annual meeting on Thursday evening and reelected all its officers unanimously, viz:

W. M.—Henry L. Kincaide.
S. W.—William H. Whitney.
J. W.—F. W. Brett of Braintree.
Treas.—E. W. H. Bass.

Castle Square Theatre.

The management of the Castle Square theatre has decided to depart, for once, from the custom regarding productions at this house, and announces a repetition of Rostand's famous romantic drama "Cyrano de Bergerac" during the coming week. The twelve performances of this dramatic sensation given by the Castle Square stock company during the week of Oct. 24 were entirely unequal to affording sufficient opportunities for those desirous of enjoying this great production and the success of the performances of the coming week is already assured. Some improvements will be made in the stage setting with a view to making them still more attractive the coming week and these supplementary performances will undoubtedly prove still more satisfactory than those of the former week. Every patron at the Tuesday matinee will be given a souvenir bottle of violet water with a spray stopper. The performances of "Cyrano" the coming week are the last to be given of this play at this house.

Keith's Theatre.

Those who patronize Keith's Boston theatre certainly get their money's worth if they stop to see every act, for in doing so they will have to remain nearly five hours. This is one of the pleasantest features of the continuous form of entertainment, for one may go once, remain quite as long as at other theatres, and see a different show each time. The fact that one may drop in at any time after ten o'clock A. M. and yet see a show that is "always beginning" is one of great importance to residents of suburban towns and other visitors to the city, and has contributed immensely to the popularity of the house. For the week of Nov. 7 that clever farcieal comedian, Bert Coote, is the headliner, supported by Julia Kingsley, a handsome and talented actress, in the amusing one-act farce, "A Supper for Two," which is full of laughs from beginning to end. The dialogue is bright, the situations rediculously funny and the action brisk throughout. Another star of magnitude in the world of vaudeville is Juan Caicedo, widely known as "King of the Wire." The feats which he performs have to be witnessed to be realized.

TODAY'S COURT.

Michael Horrigan and William Spooner of Quincy and Sylvester W. Haynes of Randolph were fined $5 each for drunkenness.

George A. Horton was sent to the State farm at Bridgewater for being a tramp at Quincy.

Thomas Quinn was arraigned for assault and Joseph S. Whiting at Weymouth and was fined $5.

GOING TO HAVANA.

Fifth Massachusetts Gets Its Assignment in Cuba.

It is probable that the boys of Co. K. and the 5th Mass., now at Camp Meade, will be on their way to Cuba before the end of the present month. Yesterday general orders were issued from Washington designating the troops for occupation in Cuba and their stations upon arrival, the movement to take place from time to time.

Among the troops mentioned in the general order is the Second Army Corps of which the 5th Massachusetts is a part. The corps will have its headquarters at Havana. This will probably be good news for the boys of Co. K., who have so patiently waited to be sent to the front, and they seem to have had the preferment in location. They can be depended upon to give a good account of themselves wherever stationed.

Peck's Bad Boy.

At Quincy Music Hall next Wednesday Evening, Nov. 9. Of all old friends none are more welcome than Harry Peck, "Peck's Bad Boy." This good natured lad and his mischievous pranks will always hold a warm place in the hearts of the old and young. For years he has amused and entertained American public, and he comes now as full of merriment as ever. Dull care disappears like mist beneath the sun's rays when the bad boy sports with the funny groceryman, and annoys his ma, his pa and makes love to his girl. A bright galaxy of specialty artists adds to the general excellence of the perfomance, and nothing but the highest praise is heralded all along the route and crowded houses testify to the increasing popularity of the Atkinson Comedy Company's presentation of "Peck's Bad Boy."

—Over a quarter of a million dollars, says the Boston Home Journal, is bet already on the New York state election—and then it is said that general interest in political matters is declining!

THE TRUE TONIC TRUE'S ELIXIR

is not a stimulant but a blood purifying, cleansing and harmless mixture of vegetable ingredients which cures disorders of the digestive tract and expels worms. It does not whip the tired organs into temporary activity as most remedies do, followed by an equal reaction, but True's Elixir removes the cause of the trouble and its tonic effects are due to good, sound digestion and pure blood, which follow its use. A favorite family medicine for 47 years. Its popularity is due entirely to its cures. Ask your druggist for it. 35 cents a bottle. DR. J. F. TRUE & CO., AUBURN, ME.

POLITICAL FIELD.

All voters can greatly assist their committees by voting early in the morning on Tuesday. Those whose business is in Boston should vote before going to work in the morning. The polls open at six o'clock.

Democrats and Republicans give notice today relative to caucus nominations for the City election. Polling places for the City election are advertised today.

The Scandinavian Republican club gathered at Wilson hall last night and was addressed by the Messrs. Eugene H. Sprague and E. W. Sheppard, the Republican candidates for the Legislature, A. Gustafson, Dr. J. A. Elmere, Gustaf Carlson and William Gelotte. The meeting was well attended. At every meeting new members are added to the club and it promises to be a power among the Swedish and Norwegian people who are naturalized citizens. Great interest is felt for State as well as city affairs for good and honest administration.

As has been previously stated, the new ballot counting machines adopted by the State have been received by the City Clerk and as the law compels their use, their methods may be of interest. The machines or boards are designed to hold fifty ballots. The ballots are first examined and those irregularly marked are laid aside to be counted last. The remainder are then counted into blocks of fifty and folded printed side out. The machine, which is little more than a flat board four feet long and two feet wide is then laid on a table. At the top the board is marked with a line every half inch and the first lot with the first page uppermost is placed on the board, the right hand edge corresponding with the first mark. The second is then placed to the second mark and so on carefully through the whole block of fifty. This leaves the names on the last or top ballot exposed to view, while on the remaining nothing but the square for the mark is shown. The fifty ballots are then held in place by a clamp and a straight edge is placed horizontally below the first name, and the number of crosses in the entire block for that name counted.

The straight edge is then moved down to the second name and so on until the whole page has been counted.

The board with clamp ballots is then turned over which brings the second page to view and they are counted in the same manner as the first page. This block of fifty is then removed and a second block made ready for counting. During the past few weeks most of the election officers have visited City Hall and made themselves familiar with the new machines so that little difficulty should be experienced on Tuesday.

Rivers for Senator.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

It is of the greatest importance to the citizens of this city, that they be ably represented not only in the next House of Representatives but also in the Senate. It has well been said that the Senate was the grave yard of important legislation, from the fact that the corporations through their paid agents can more effectually do their work through a small body.

We are indeed favored when an opportunity is offered us to place in the Senate of Massachusetts a man of sterling worth such as is George R. R. Rivers who will not only fitly represent the 1st Norfolk District but the entire state as well.

Mr. Rivers is a life long resident of the adjoining town of Milton, and has always been amongst its representative citizens, having been frequently honored with their suffrages, and in every instance discharged those duties with honor to himself and to his constituents.

As a member of the legislature he was a faithful, painstaking, conscientious legislator, that his course in the Senate if elected will be marked by equal fidelity is without question. Quincy, the only city in the first Norfolk District, should see to it that a Senator be elected from this district who will guard her interests zealously. Such a man is Mr. Rivers, he has been tried and not found wanting, and he will not be in the future. We believe Mr. Rivers will be handsomely elected, we also believe it is for the interest of Quincy that she has a share in this victory. Independent.

What man would not almost wish that his right hand had been cut off rather than not have upheld Abraham Lincoln a third of a century ago? Let no man in Massachusetts a third of a century hence hang his head because his hand did not swell the electoral vote of every Republican candidate for Congress and my friend William McKinley, the disciple and the successor not only in place but in faith to Abraham Lincoln.

HERO OF THE SOUDAN.

British Statesmen Extend a Warm Greeting to Kitchener.

Salisbury Has Something to Say About Fashoda.

An Acute and Dangerous Cause of Differences Has Been Removed.

London, Nov. 5.—The banquet given to General Kitchener at the Mansion House last evening was an exceptionally brilliant affair. A trophy of British and Egyptian flags entwined had been arranged above the lord mayor's seat. The guests, who wore full dress uniforms, with ribbons and decorations, included many men of the highest rank in the British empire. In all there were about 360 guests present.

The lord mayor received his guests in the grand salon. General Kitchener was attired in the uniform of a major general of the British army, with the ribbon of the Osmanieh order. He was greeted with tremendous cheering from the assembled guests. The banquet was served in the Egyptian hall of the Mansion House.

General Kitchener sat on the right hand of the lord mayor and the Duke of Cambridge was seated on the lord mayor's left. After the dinner proper the lady mayoress and a number of other ladies were accommodated with seats in the gallery, in order to enable them to hear the speeches.

After the loving cup had been circulated, the lord mayor toasted the queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales and the royal family, to which the Duke of Cambridge responded.

Lord Rosebery toasted the army and navy, paying a glowing tribute to Lord Kitchener and his gallant comrades and to Lord Cromer and the Egyptian and Soudanese forces, "whose brilliant campaign, just closed, is the most consummate in the annals of British military history for 80 years, and far more beneficent and extended in its results than, perhaps, any recorded in history." The campaign, said Lord Rosebery, had wiped out the "bloodiest and most barbarous tyranny in the history of mankind." He concluded by expressing the opinion that Great Britain had "a right to expect from the nations whose territory borders on the dervish territory not ill feeling and jealousy, but the fullest measure of gratitude."

Admiral Salmon, first and principal naval aide-de-camp to the queen, responded for the navy, and the secretary of state for war, Lord Lansdowne, for the army.

There was a feeling of expectancy throughout the speeches, and everything that could be construed as an allusion to war was jumped at by the assembly with prolonged cheers. When Sir Newell Salmon alluded to the "preparations of the navy," and Lord Lansdowne to the "readiness of the army" there were prolonged outbursts of applause.

The assembly greeted the rising of the Marquis of Salisbury to toast the sirdar with nervous silence, as it had been whispered that he had an important and grave statement to make. His statewas important, but it was pacific, as he announced a settlement of the chief difficulty with France.

The premier said in part: "No one can wonder at the vast enthusiasm by which the career of this great soldier has been received, especially when we consider the strange dramatic interest of the circumstances and conditions amid which the laurels were won by the sirdar. Besides being a splendid soldier he is also a splendid diplomatist. It must have required unusual talents successfully to carry out the delicate mission up the Nile which conducted him into the presence of Major Marchand. The sirdar has recently expressed the hope that the difficulties arising from the presence of Major Marchand may be within the power of diplomacy to adjust. I am glad to say that up to a certain point he has proved a true prophet. This afternoon I received from the French ambassador the information that the French government has come to the conclusion that the occupation of Fashoda is of no sort of value (prolonged laughter and cheers) and that it thought, in the circumstances, that to persist in an occupation which would only cost them money and harm, merely because some bad advisers thought it might be disagreeable to any unwelcome neighbor, would not show the wisdom with which, as I think, the French republic has been uniformly guided.

"They have done what I believe every government would have done in the same position—resolved that the occupation must cease. (Cheers). I must not be understood as saying that all causes of controversy are removed. That is not so. Doubtless there will be many discussions between us; but a somewhat acute and somewhat dangerous cause of difference has been removed."

General Kitchener's reply, which was modest and not important, gave unstinted praise to the British, Egyptian and Soudanese troops. The sirdar said he would indeed have been an incapable leader if he had failed of victory with such soldiers. He gave some details as to the expenses of the expedition, dwelling with pride upon its cheapness, and, in summing up the "assets that remain," referred to 600 miles of railway, gunboats, a flotilla of sailing craft and (after a pause) the Soudan. (Laughter and applause).

A striking feature of the scene was the presence of a number of young officers of the guards, life guards and Twenty-first lancers, who had served with the sirdar. Several of them were wounded and walked with crutches or with their arms in slings.

Marchand's Movements.

Cairo, Nov. 5.—Captain Baratier, bearing confidential instructions from the French government to Major Marchand, arrived here yesterday afternoon in company with that officer, who went to meet him at Ismailia, on the Suez canal.

It is said in French circles that Major Marchand, when he dispatched Captain Baratier from Fashoda, expected him to go to Khartoum, telegraph his (Marchand's) report to Paris and return to Fashoda. On hearing no news for a week Major Marchand decided to go to Cairo himself and acquaint the government with the situation. Now, it is understood, he will return to Fashoda and conduct his expedition to Jibutil, on the gulf of Aden.

England and the Philippines.

London, Nov. 5.—Despite the jubiliation of the country over the favorable announcement by Lord Salisbury regarding Fashoda at the Kitchener banquet, there is serious uneasiness as to the real object of the continued war preparations. A dispatch from Hong Kong remarks upon the unusual naval and military activity there. The dispatch says General Black and his staff have been inspecting the old frontier of British Kau-Lung (Kow-Loon) and selecting points for the erection of defense works. Field and siege guns are being mounted; and the men-of-war lying off Hong Kong are embarking large quantities of ammunition. The fleet has been signalled to send no mails by the French steamer leaving today. This order is regarded as very significant. The Berlin correspondent of The Daily News says: It is asserted in well informed quarters that the British war preparations are connected with the Philippine question, in which the United States government is working in agreement with England. The rumors are revived that the United States intend ceding to England some of the islands or granting coaling stations there.

Boomed Circulation.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—Maximilian Harden, editor and publisher of Die Zukunft, has been sentenced to six months' detention in a fortress for lese majeste. Nine charges of lese majeste were brought against Herr Harden. The articles particularly resented were one in which he compared the emperor to a poodle prince; one in which he personally addressed the emperor, complaining that he had been charged with lese majeste for writing the first article, written anonymously, and one in which the Bismarck case was introduced. The circulation of Die Zukunft, since the prosecutions, has increased threefold, reaching $250,000.

Kaiser Likes Babies.

Jerusalem, Nov. 5.—The emperor and empress of Germany embarked on board a train for Jaffa yesterday amidst firing of salutes and the cheering of large crowds of people. They declared they were greatly pleased with their visit and shook hands with the principal civil and military authorities. The affability of the emperor is much remarked. He took Arab babies in his arms and told their frightened mothers that he was the father of seven children and also complimented them upon the healthfulness of their infants.

Released and Rearrested.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 5.—James H. Aldrich, who was sent to the penitentiary in May, 1897, to serve a two years' sentence for stealing $27,000 from the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis railway, whose paymaster and cashier he was for years, was released yesterday, his term having expired under the good behavior rule. He was immediately rearrested on a warrant sworn out by the American Surety company, who had gone on his bond and were compelled to make good his shortage. Aldrich's sentence just served was pronounced on but one of the three indictments found against him on the same count. The surety company will push the case against him on the other two counts. Aldrich is 45 years of age.

Pressmen on Strike.

San Francisco, Nov. 5.—The pressmen employed in the San Francisco newspaper offices declared a strike yesterday, and as a result the first editions of the afternoon papers did not appear. The pressmen employed by The Post and Bulletin declined to obey the order to strike, but The Report pressmen walked out. The stereotypers in The Report office also struck. The other papers, acting upon an agreement to stand by each other, refused to publish unless The Report could. Arrangements were made to print the 4 o'clock edition of The Report and all the papers appeared last night as usual.

Stabbed by His Father.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 5.—Thomas Durvin stabbed his son, William, on the cheek yesterday, inflicting a wound two inches long and nearly causing the victim's death from loss of blood. The father was arrested and later admitted to bail in the sum of $500. The son will probably recover unless the wound should in some way be reopened. Nobody seems to know the cause of the assault, but it is supposed to be the result of a family quarrel in which father, mother and son engaged. Thomas Durvin is a veteran of the late war, and has always borne a good reputation.

Killed by a Woman.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 5.—John Bailey, a prominent farmer residing eight miles north of this city, was shot to death yesterday by Mrs. Levina Black, a neighbor. Ten days ago Mrs. Black had Bailey arrested on the charge of criminal assault. The trial resulted in acquittal. Since that time Mrs. Black has been the butt of much talk. This preyed upon her mind and the tragedy was the result.

Interest Falling Off.

New York, Nov. 5.—The sum of $18,000 was realized at the auction sale of boxes for the coming horse show, which was held yesterday in the Madison Square garden. The sale brought $25,000 in '97, and $41,000 the year before. J. F. Addicks and D. A. Loring yesterday paid $410 for boxes, the highest figures reached during the sale.

Sat on Knife Blade.

Rochester, N. H., Nov. 5.—Michael Troy, aged 14, an attendant at the parochial school, was seriously injured yesterday by sitting down on a sharp bladed jackknife which a companion had fixed in his seat in a spirit of sport. Physicians consider Troy's condition serious.

Couldn't Oppose the Law.

New York, Nov. 5.—The board of control of the Joint Traffic association decided yesterday to dissolve the organization. This action was taken because of the recent decision by the supreme court of the United States that the efforts of the association to control railroad rates were illegal.

ENVELOPED IN FLAMES

Steamer Croatan Went to Her Doom While Off Cape Charles.

Twenty-Two Persons Saved and Five Met Death.

Origin of the Fire and a Subsequent Explosion Shrouded In Mystery.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Nov. 5.—Captain Hale and a number of the crew and passengers of the Clyde line steamer Croatan, New York for Wilmington, N. C., and Georgetown, S. C., arrived here yesterday afternoon, reporting that the steamer was burned and sank off Cape Charles, Nov. 1. Five persons were drowned. The steamer carried a general cargo.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the burned hulk of the big freighter sank beneath the waves, but of the 27 persons who were on board her, 22 survived a very tragic experience. These persons were landed at this port by the schooner Alice E. Clarke of Portland, Me., which had been in the vicinity of the Croatan at the time she was burning.

The death list is as follows: Second Assistant Engineer Jeremiah McCarthy of Nova Scotia, who leaves a widow in New York; Steward James Curtis of Jersey City; Mrs. James Curtis, wife of the steward; Frank ——, an oiler (last name unknown); Jennie Willard (colored), Wilmington, N. C.

The story of the disaster is told by Captain Hale and other officers of the unfortunate vessel as follows: The Croatan was but 20 hours out from New York on her way to Wilmington and Georgetown, going at a good rate of speed, with a smooth sea and calm weather, when, at 3 p. m., a fireman came hurriedly on deck and reported that the ship was on fire. A general alarm was immediately given and an effort made to lower the boats, but the fire spread with such rapidity that all efforts to reach them were unavailing, because of the flames. In fact, in less than 10 minutes after the fire was reported the ship was completely enveloped in flames from stem to stern. Shortly after the fire was discovered an explosion took place in the cargo, which blew off the after hatches. A second explosion followed a few minutes later, and the ship was then a mass of flames. It was at this time that Captain Hale, seeing that to remain on the vessel meant sure death, gave orders for all hands to jump overboard and save themselves as best they could. The captain was the last man to leave the ship, remaining on deck with his first officer until they were completely enveloped in flames and the vessel had commenced to sink.

There seemed to be no panic on board and men and women, after lashing on their life preservers, calmly leaped into the water, knowing that their chances of escape were much more certain than if they remained on board the burning ship. Some of the passengers had their faces scorched and many had their clothing on fire when they leaped into the sea. The captain and first officer succeeded in securing a yawl boat, which had been damaged in lowering, and by hard work rescued eight persons from the water.

The burning ship was sighted by the four-masted schooner Alice E. Clarke of Portland, Captain Clarke, Norfolk for Portland, which lay becalmed six miles off, and her captain sent a boat crew to aid in the work of rescue. They succeeded in saving 12 persons from a watery grave, many of whom had been an hour or more in the water and had become nearly exhausted. They were taken on board the Clarke and given every possible attention.

Captain Hale, his officers, crew and passengers, all speak in the highest praise of the treatment they received at the hands of Captain Clarke, his wife and crew on board the Clarke. Captain Clarke not only gave the shipwrecked men and women food and clothing, but supplied them with money to take them to their homes. The rescued persons are being cared for here at the Seaman's Bethel and at the homes of citizens, and will proceed to New York today.

No explosives were known to be among the ship's cargo, and the origin of the fire is a mystery to her officers and crew.

The Croatan is said to have been valued at $100,000. She was fully insured.

The Croatan was a steel twin screw steamer, built at Paisley, Scotland, in 1881. She registered 1024 tons gross and 827 tons net; was 201.6 feet long, 32.1 feet beam and 19.5 feet deep.

Her First Defeat.

New York, Nov. 5.—For the first time in her career as a golfer, Miss Beatrix Hoyt, the woman champion of America, was yesterday defeated. She was the partner of W. H. Sands in the mixed foursomes handicap at the Westchester Golf club, and the pair finished sixth best. Mr. Sands was unsteady and was a handicap instead of a help to his partner. The best score in this contest was 96, made by Mrs. R. D. Graham and Mr. Graham, Jr.

Gilbert Is Champion.

Cincinnati, Nov. 5.—The Cincinnati Gun club live bird tournament ended yesterday with the result that Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., won the silver cup and the live bird championship of America. It required 300 birds in the shoot-off to decide the championship contest, of which Gilbert killed 96, Charles Budd 95 and C. Young 95.

Meant to Kill His Wife.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—Elzear Mann was found guilty here yesterday of murder and sentenced to be hanged on Dec. 5. Mann shot and killed his mother-in-law and wounded his wife on June 11 last. His defense was that he only intended to kill his wife, whom he suspected of infidelity.

New Bicycle Record.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Harry Park of the Century Cycle club of this city arrived at the city hall here at 8:35 a. m. yesterday, having ridden from the city hall in New York in 25 hours and 45 minutes, thus establishing a new New York-Washington record.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 6. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—"The good fight."—I Tim. vi, 11-16; II Tim. iv, 7, 8.

The Christian life was often likened by Paul to a warfare. It may have been that his long residence at Rome, where soldiers were constantly being drilled and disciplined, may have suggested the figure. Whatever suggested it it is an apt and telling one. The Christian life is a constant struggle, a ceaseless warfare between right and wrong, between holiness and sin, between the kingdom of God and the kingdom of satan. It is a good fight, because it is in a good cause, has a good captain and produces good results. It is a fight of faith—faith in God and Christ, faith in humanity, faith in eternal life.

The enemies in this fight are Biblically called "the world, the flesh and the devil." This world is not a friend to grace. Its influence is to draw us away from God and to weaken us in the great struggle for eternal life. The flesh is wicked, sinful self, the natural human heart, which is enmity against God. The principal adversary of the human soul in its struggle for life, however, is the devil, a personal, powerful, fallen being, whose knowledge of our weakness and power to tempt us make him a formidable enemy indeed and over whom we can gain the victory through the Lord Jesus Christ alone.

The weapons for this fight Paul describes in Eph. vi, 10-17. They are the girdle of truth—the truth as it is in Jesus; the breastplate of righteousness, not our own personal righteousness, but the righteousness of Christ; the sandals of the gospel of peace which has been prepared, and as a result of being at peace with God we can stand firm and secure, as one with sandals on his feet; the shield of faith, strong, real, abiding faith in God; the helmet of salvation, for being assured of our salvation we can hold our heads erect as one who wears a helmet; the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God, by which we are to overcome all the arguments of the evil one.

The result of this fight will be victory or defeat, as we enter upon it and continue it—victory if trusting in God we use the knowledge He has given us with His power to overcome; defeat if, lightly esteeming the enemy, we put our trust in our own knowledge and powers.

Paul won a glorious victory. Face to face with the end of life, as the warfare is about to close, he writes to Timothy: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of rejoicing, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will give me in that day, and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing." What Paul accomplished every Christian can accomplish. May his example inspire us all to the required effort!

Bible Readings.—Ex. xiv, 10-14; Deut. i, 30; Ps. xxvii, 1; Math. iv, 1-11; xxvi, 36-45; I Cor. ix, 25-27; xv, 58; Eph. vi, 10-18; Heb. x, 31-33; Jas. iv, 7; I Pet. v, 8; Rev. ii, 10.

Go Slow.

There is no more ominous word than "fast," which means a great deal more than do many slang words. It means that it is possible to get through life in such a hurry as to curtail that which one would suppose it would be to our interest to lengthen. When the end is reached, there is collapse—all is lost. Do we not do well to ask if this is the best thing that life can do for us? Is there nothing higher than this feverish haste, nothing better and more manly than this perennial round of frivolous excitement? Remember that he who thus throws his life away throws away a chance wholly unique. Only once there is given to us the possibility of living out this brief life as God intended that His creature man should live.—Churchman.

Pain and Peace.

It is often surprising to see how much pain there may be in the sensibility, and yet peace, in the depths of the mind. In crossing the Atlantic some years ago we were overtaken by a gale of wind. Upon the deck the roar and confusion were terrific. The spray from the waves blew upon the face with almost force enough to blister it. The noise of the waves howling and roaring and foaming was almost deafening. But when I stepped into the engine room everything was quiet. The mighty engine was moving with a quietness and stillness in striking contrast with the war without. It reminded me of the peace that can reign in the soul while storms and tempests are howling without.—C. J. Finney.

Satanic Assaults.

The power of Satan to trouble the saints is never done. It may be that the child of God has been such consciously for long years, he may have been enabled to grasp the fullness of salvation which belongs to him who is clothed with the righteousness of Christ since he was first converted, but let him never think that he is safe from the assaults of the evil one.—Episcopal Recorder.

To Those Who Trust.

Let none doubt, however weak and erring they may be, the security of their souls and the comfort of their hearts amid all trial and temptation and sorrow, who have a living Redeemer, sympathizing with them in heaven, interceding for them with the Father and ready to impart all power, even His own almighty and divine Spirit, to those who trust His grace.—Presbyterian.

Duty.

Never to tire, never to grow cold, to be patient, sympathetic, tender; to look for the budding flower and the opening heart; to hope always, like God; to love always—this is duty.—Amiel's Journal.

PRESIDENT McKINLEY REVIEWING THE JUBILEE PROCESSION IN CHICAGO

FROM HARPER'S WEEKLY. AFTER SKETCHES BY H. REUTERDAHL

Chicago and Philadelphia have been indulging in a great deal of enthusiasm during the last week or so, by celebrating the American victory of arms with peace jubilees. It is a fitting way to celebrate the return of peace and a way that is inspired by a lofty sentiment. The citizens of these cities gave vent to their enthusiasm in parades, banquets, receptions dedications, etc.

In Chicago, the ceremonies began on Sunday, October 16, and extended until Friday, October 21. President McKinley, returning from the Omaha exposition, remained over at Chicago to participate in their jubilee. He gave a public reception at the First Regiment Armory, and despite a downpour of rain, great crowds gathered to greet him. The most important feature of the celebration, however, was the grand military, naval, and civil parade.

There were in line veterans of the civil war, marching together as brothers reunited, and civic societies which make for militant citizenship and patriotism, while in between were boy cadets for future armies. At the end, in the position of honor, the sailors and soldiers marched, the men who offered their lives in our recent war with Spain. President McKinley, who witnessed the parade from the Presidential stand, was accompanied by the Mayor and other dignitaries, and during the time of its passing remained standing. While the military divisions were in sight, Generals Miles and Shafter, in full uniform, stood close beside the President, and displayed great interest in the review. The enthusiastic crowd finally persuaded the President to make a speech, which he did, although a short one.

All Absorbing Question.

The support of the present Administration is the all-absorbing question of the hour. That question pierces the heart of every home in the land, and appeals directly to every one of her citizens. The present campaign is laden with far more important issues than personalities. The future welfare and prosperity of the nation is at stake. In such a struggle partisanship should be ignored. The present policies should be preserved. Who, twelve months ago dreamed that at our threshold would be thrown nearly eight millions of helpless people. He knew not the meaning of imperialism, but he and every other intelligent voter understood what Americanism means. When the tyrant foot of the oppressor is laid upon a people the humanitarian instinct of Americans is manifested, and he felt certain that our country would not ignore the appeal of those in need. For his conduct of the Spanish war, President McKinley will receive from historians the same praise and honor as that which immortalizes the name of President Lincoln.—Michael J. Murray, at South Boston.

☞ The Democrats secured control because, at a prosperous time, the people were misled by the fairy tales of the Democratic orators. They made promises and did not keep them. After four years of their work wreckage was strewn along the shore of prosperity and thousands of honest workmen had been turned out on the highway. We haven't been in power two years yet and have not had time to do everything. We made promises and we are carrying them out. One thing. We revised the tariff and gave to the country revenue enough to sustain it. Within five days after President McKinley had been installed, he called Congress together as had been promised and one year ago last July the Dingley Tariff bill was passed. You well remember how goods were imported in large quantities just before the passage of this bill in order that they might escape the duty which was to be put upon them. There were 16 shiploads of wool in a single day that came into Boston. The warehouses were filled. It was a long time before much revenue could be derived from importations. In February of this year the revenue was sufficient to meet the expenses and by June all peace expenditures had been paid.—Congressman McCall.

☞ It is a favorite trick of demagogues to assail the "labor records" of Republican nominees for office in Massachusetts, but there is no blinking out of sight the monumental fact that Massachusetts has led all her sister States in legislation for the protection and uplifting of wage-earners—and Massachusetts is the State of all States where Republican power has been paramount. There has not been a time within the memory of the present generation when the Massachusetts legislature, which has passed all these enlightened labor laws, has been otherwise than overwhelmingly Republican. There has been no time when the Democrats have not been in an insignificant minority, impotent to initiate reforms and impotent to enact them. Every line and paragraph of labor legislation on the statute books of Massachusetts is Republican legislation. Does Mr. Ramsdell or any other Democratic leader care to compare this Massachusetts Republican record with the record of such typical Democratic States as South Carolina, Georgia or Alabama? [Boston Journal.]

—Senator Lodge says:—A vote today against the Republican candidates is vote for free silver, and for the Democrats of Massachuetts, more honest than their brethern of New York, have declared that they stand on the Chicago platform. It is a vote to reopen the question so perilous to business. It is a vote to reopen the tariff question, if you believe their platform.

Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." GRATEFUL PASTORS.

How the Churches Will Utilize Mr. Faxon's Gift.

A reporter of the Boston Advertiser has interviewed several of the pastors of Quincy and he finds that there are 21 very grateful pastors and 21 very grateful congregations in the city, and their gratitude is expressed toward a familiar object of such feeling in Quincy—H. H. Faxon.

The latter part of last week Mr. Faxon sent to each of 21 Protestant churches of his city a check for $100, as a Thanksgiving offering, asking that it be used in the furtherance of pure religion and clean politics.

This, of course, as it was intended, left a wide scope for its use, and while not many of the church congregations are yet positive of the exact object to which the gift will be applied, it is not likely that many will use it in any other way than to meet the pressing expenses of routine church work.

That in all cases the money was very gratefully received was amply proven by a reporter's visit to nearly every pastor whose church received Mr. Faxon's present; and it was equally clear that the money was received at a time when it was specially needed.

"This thoughtful gift of Mr. Faxon's came at a very opportune time for us," one minister said, and then added smiling: "But most any time is an opportune time for receiving gifts with most of us. We not only always have use for money, but are often sadly in need of it to carry on our usual work."

Rev. E. W. Preble of the Washington Street Universalist church in Quincy Centre will make Mr. Faxon's suggestion of pure religion and clean politics the subject for his sermon next Sunday.

His church will use the $100 for general church expenses, and it will help as other gifts of Mr. Faxon to the same church in times past—to close up the year's work with less expenses to meet in the beginning of the new year.

It is no new thing for Mr. Faxon to help the churches as he has done in this instance, and it did not much surprise many of the pastors, for all the churches have at other times received similar remembrances from him; but all are particularly pleased that it came at this time, for there is really special need of it now, on account of the end of the year being near, and many accumulated bills to pay. Just at this time, too, there are taxes to pay on any property that some of the churches may own. In some cases it is quite a burden for some of the little churches to meet their tax bills.

Mr. Peach, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was very much pleased over Mr. Faxon's thoughtfulness. That church is not wealthy but it has managed pretty well this year, and Mr. Peach thinks his congregation will vote to use Mr. Faxon's gift in paying the tax bill, which has not been met.

Of the 21 churches remembered by Mr. Faxon, four were Swedish—the Swedish Baptists, Congregationalists, Methodists and Lutherans. They have to figure very closely with their little congregations to make contributions go around to all the needs and work of the churches, and they were profoundly grateful for the unlooked for $100.

The Swedish Baptists will use the money to help to pay off the debt on their church. The Swedish Congregationalists have just emerged from debt, and will use the gift in their general expenses the Lutherans and Methodists will also add the amount to their general fund for church work.

Mr. Faxon has received especially pleasant letters from the West Quincy M. E. church and from the Calvary Baptist church of Quincy. Mr. Wilder of the West Quincy church said they had been having a hard struggle to meet the running expenses, and that at this time, particularly, $100 was a great blessing to them.

Very much the same thing was said by the treasurer of the Cavalry Baptist church. Mrs. Jones said that members of the church had been trying in every-way to find means of meeting a number of pressing bills, and the $100 came like a good angel at the very hardest part of the difficulty.

Of all the other churches nothing striking can be said of unusual need. They all needed the money, some of the smaller ones, very badly, and all their pastors and members are much pleased over Mr. Faxon's thoughtfulness.

Of the entire number of churches remembered by Mr. Faxon, his own, the First Unitarian is probably the richest, but that church can also find ample use for the money given, and it will be spent by Mr. Butler's congregation in the general church expenses.

The Wollastion and Atlantic churches are particularly pleased. Some of their congregations are small and scattered, and in their struggles to support the work in hand, the gift of $100 will go quite a distance toward paying up the yearly bills.

For a place no larger than Quincy, the 21 Protestant churches in addition to the Catholic churches, are rather out of proportion to the population. But another church is nearly completed, and still another is in contemplation.

Mr. Faxon realizes this somewhat "over-production" in churches, but it does not hinder his giving, for he says that no good reform work can be accomplished without the help of the churches so he gives to all without regard to denomination, in hope of furthering in each instance the cause of good religion and good manhood.

In fact, it is this ability to give that his work makes for him, which keeps Mr. Faxon so busily engaged today. It is his greatest pleasure, now, to do just such things as the sending of $100 checks to 21 churches.

He has given away in a similar manner for reform work, etc., in the past 18 years, more than $100,000. He has helped in some way, every church in Quincy with amounts ranging from $100 or $200 up to several thousand in some cases.

The Swedish Lutherans have a $300 bell that was presented by Mr. Faxon. Several years ago Mr. Faxon bought $1,800 worth of presents for Quincy Sunday school pupils, and personally arranged the presents for the children of the various churches.

After Mr. Faxon had sent the $100 checks to 21 churches the other day, he learned that the Finns were getting ready to build a church. They will be remembered by Mr. Faxon a little later.

What Senator Hoar Says.

"Everything that Massachusetts desires and stands for requires the re-election of S. J. Barrows. To elect him is to give a vote for Thomas B. Reed, the strong champion of sound money, of honest politics, of good wages, of prosperous business, governing America by Americans and for Americans, as the fathers intended, and as Massachusetts desires. To vote for his competitor is to vote for Joseph W. Bailey of Texas or some other cheap money, free trade, low wages Democrat. It is a choice between New England and Texas in control of the national House of Representatives.

"GEORGE F. HOAR."

Considerable Granite Needed.

The new dry dock in Boston will be of the following dimensions: Length, 750 feet; width on the floor, 80 feet; width at top, 114 feet; width at entrance, 95 feet; depth to floor, 40 feet; draught of water on the sill, 30 feet; will be constructed of granite or concrete faced with granite. If built entirely of granite there will be used in its construction about 576,000 cubic feet of cut stone and about 1,390,000 cubic feet of rubble masonry. If the dock is built of concrete, faced with granite there will be about 256,000 cubic feet of cut granite and about 1,710,000 cubic feet of concrete.

Body Identified.

The body of the unknown man picked up in the water off Hull last Saturday was identified Sunday as Lars Larson of Quincy, who has been missing since Oct. 15. On that date Larson and Ernst Salsteen went out from Houghs Neck in a boat after smelts. That was the last seen of the two. The next day the boat came ashore at Peddock's Island bottom side up. Larson was 22 years of age and was employed as a stone cutter. The body was brought to Quincy today.

BOTH CLAIM VICTORY.

Platt and Croker Each Confident That His Man Will Win.

Four Districts In Doubt In the Bay State.

New York, Nov. 7.—The air is full of predictions as to the result of the election on Tuesday.

The prophesies are tinged according to the political faith of the prophets, and so the average man has a wide choice to select from.

As a matter of fact the New York election is expected to be so close that it is difficult to make a prediction that is worth very much. Last week there was a very general impression that Van Wyck would win, but during the past few days the Republicans have been showing increased confidence, whether as a "bluff" or in reality it is hard to say.

It is admitted on both sides that Roosevelt will get a big plurality throughout the state, while Van Wyck is expected to get a big plurality in Greater New York. The Republicans say Roosevelt's plurality in the state will be very much more than enough to offset Van Wyck's plurality in New York city, while the Democrats claim that Van Wyck's plurality in New York will be so great that in the total vote he will run over Roosevelt by from 40,000 to 60,000. Here are some of the prophesies:

Richard Croker—I expect about 100,000 plurality here to counteract the vote Colonel Roosevelt will get up the state. Our figures today, which were very carefully gathered and for which each district leader stands, show that we will carry this county for Van Wyck by 76,000. Brooklyn will give about 15,000 plurality, and the other counties below the Bronx will increase the total to 100,000 at least. Victory is easily ours, for I do not believe Roosevelt's plurality up the state will be more than about 60,000. This would give Van Wyck a plurality of 40,000.

Senator Platt—I am confident Colonel Roosevelt will be elected by 100,000 plurality or more. I am quite certain the Republicans will control the state legislature and elect a Republican to succeed Edward Murphy, Jr., as United States senator. I am satisfied that the Republicans will have a majority of the New York delegation to the house of representatives at Washington.

The Outlook In Massachusetts.

Boston, Nov. 7.—The close of the campaign in this state finds three of the usually Republican districts somewhat in doubt. These doubtful districts are the Fifth, Seventh and Tenth, while singularly enough, owing to a split in the party, the usually overwhelmingly Democratic district now represented by John F. Fitzgerald is also uncertain.

In the Fifth district Senator Joseph J. Flynn of Lawrence has been making a vigorous fight for the seat now held by Congressman Knox, and it is generally conceded that the issue will be closely fought at the polls.

In the Seventh district Mayor W. L. Ramsdell of Lynn has waged an aggressive campaign, and the indications are that if Senator Ernest W. Roberts, the Republican candidate, is successful, it will be by a majority considerably smaller than that given to Congressman Barrett in the same district two years ago.

In the Ninth district, the independent Democratic candidacy of Senator James A. Gallivan and the war record of former State Representative Franz Hugo Krebs will make considerable difference in Congressman Fitzgerald's usually safe plurality, if it doesn't wipe it out entirely, and leave Mr. Krebs the successful candidate.

In the Tenth district, the contest between Samuel J. Barrows, the present Republican incumbent, and Henry F. Naphen, the Democratic candidate, promises to be close, and both parties are confident of success.

It is conceded by the Republicans that A. B. Bruce, the Democratic candidate for governor, will poll a much larger vote than did Mr. Williams last year or the year before, and Mr. Bruce's vote, it is estimated, will exceed 100,000, although the Democrats claim 150,000. Last year Governor Wolcott's vote was 165,075, and the combined votes of Williams (Dem.) and Everett (Nat. Dem.) was 93,031.

Republican Figures.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—Republican State Chairman Elkin has prepared an estimate by counties giving his views of the result of tomorrow's vote for governor. He claims that the Republican candidate, William A. Stone, will be elected by a plurality of 131,000 over George A. Jenks, Democratic candidate, in a total estimated vote of 950,000. To Rev. Dr. Silas C. Swallow, the "honest government" candidate, he allows a total of 143,760 votes. On the congressional contests the state chairman says: "While we do not expect that the next delegation to congress will contain as few Democratic members as the present one, yet we believe a good showing will be made by the Republicans throughout the state on this issue."

The Democratic End.

Philadelphia, Nov. 7.—In an interview last night, Democratic State Chairman Garman said: "I estimate that 1,000,000 votes will be cast, divided about as follows: Jenks, 430,000; Stone, 395,000; Swallow, 175,000, which will leave Jenks at least 35,000 plurality. I do not care to give figures as to counties, but our whole effort has been to have cast for Jenks as many votes as were cast for Bryan in 1896, which was 422,000.

In the Buckeye State.

Cleveland, Nov. 7.—Special interest is taken in the election in this state tomorrow because of the public utterances that the president's native state should show a strong endorsement of the administration at this time by returning Republican congressmen. This is what is known as the "off year." The dominant party has heretofore lost in Ohio at the congressional elections following a presidential election, and if the Republicans hold their own tomorrow it will be a marked exception to the rule. The only state officers to be elected are secretary of state, judge and clerk of the supreme court, food commissioner and member of the board of public works, and none of these places carry with them such patronage as the places filled last year, when Governor Bushnell was re-elected. During the present canvass, the only issue in the president's state has been the support of his administration.

The Contest In New Jersey.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 7.—One of the most active political campaigns conducted in New Jersey for some years is closed. Foster M. Voorhees and Elvin W. Crane, the Republican and Democratic candidates for governor, made speaking tours of the state. Mr. Voorhees was accompanied most of the time by Congressman Charles N. Fowler, and Mr. Crane by ex-Assistant Secretary of the Navy William McAdoo.

The issues discussed were largely of state concern. Much attention was paid on both sides to the labor vote, and the Democrats attacked Secretary Alger's management of the war department.

The Next Senate.

Washington, Nov. 7.—There will be elections in 42 states tomorrow—in Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The control of the United States senate will be determined very largely by the result of the elections, when 23 states elect legislatures which will in turn elect senators. The present party strength in the senate is as follows: Republicans, 43; Democrats, 34; Populists, 6; silver Republicans, 6. This gives a majority to no one party, and it has proved a fruitful source of doubt in legislation influence by party lines.

The terms of 30 of the present senators are about to expire, and in most of these cases the legislatures chosen next Tuesday will elect successors. In seven cases, however, legislatures already have been chosen and senators elected, viz: Aldrich of Rhode Island, Daniel of Virginia, McComas to succeed Gorman in Maryland, Hanna of Ohio, Money of Mississippi, Proctor of Vermont, and the legislature of Maine, which has been elected but has not yet chosen a senator. In Oregon also Simon has been elected to fill a vacancy. These changes already made give a net gain of two in the Republican vote—McComas of Maryland and Simon of Oregon. The remaining 23 senators are yet to be chosen.

Those who are about to retire are: Allen (Pop.) of Nebraska, Bate (Dem.) of Tennessee, Burrows (Rep.) of Michigan, Cannon (Sil. Rep.) of Utah, Clark (Rep.) of Wyoming, Cockrell (Dem.) of Missouri, Davis (Rep.) of Minnesota, Faulkner (Dem.) of West Virginia, Gray (Dem.) of Delaware, Hawley (Rep.) of Connecticut, Lodge (Rep.) of Massachusetts, Mantle (Sil. Rep.) of Montana, Mills (Dem.) of Texas, Mitchell (Dem.) of Wisconsin, Murphy (Dem.) of New York, Pascoe (Dem.) of Florida, Quay (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, Roche (Dem.) of North Dakota, Smith (Dem.) of New Jersey, Stewart (Sil. Rep.) of Nevada, Turpie (Dem.) of Indiana, White (Dem.) of California, and Wilson (Rep.) of Washington.

Illegal Registration Alleged.

New York, Nov. 7.—Acting upon warrants issued to Superintendent McCullagh of the state bureau of elections, Police Captain Hasslacher, with several platoons, yesterday arrested 68 employes of Bellevue hospital, who were charged in the warrants with illegal registration. The men for whom the warrants had been issued were assembled in the reception room, where Superintendent O'Rourke informed them of the nature of the charges. The 68 men left the hospital escorted by the policemen. All the prisoners were arraigned in the Yorkville police court. They were held in $500 bail each to await the action of the grand jury. Bonds were furnished for all and the men were allowed to depart.

Gardner's New Church.

Gardner, Mass., Nov. 7.—The Notre Dame du Rosarie church was dedicated yesterday by the bishop of the diocese, Rt. Rev. Thomas D. Beaven of Springfield. The bishop, accompanied by the attendant priests, blessed the exterior and interior of the church. The bishop celebrated the 8:30 mass, and the dedication mass was at 10:30. Father Bruneault delivered the sermon. The Society of St. John the Baptist attended the mass in a body. In the evening the bishop gave a sermon for the benefit of the children, after which he confirmed a class of 160 boys and girls.

Fighting at Pana.

Pana, Ills., Nov. 7.—There was a renewal of hostilities again yesterday between union miners and the imported negroes from Alabama. A negro attacked James Boyle, a union miner, which caused the battle. Twenty-five or 30 shots were exchanged. Two negroes were slightly wounded. No white miners were wounded. Major Butler immediately sent a detachment of soldiers and a gatling gun to the scene. No arrests have been made thus far and further trouble is not anticipated.

The Detroit Catastrophe.

Detroit, Nov. 7.—Three more victims have been dug from the ruins of the New Wonderland building, which collapsed Saturday afternoon. This makes the death list so far 11. A mass meeting of citizens was held yesterday in the mayor's office and over $1000 was subscribed for the relief of the families of those who were killed. The loss on the property is estimated at $102,000. What caused the catastrophe is still unknown and probably will be until the coroner's inquest.

RECORDS DESTROYED.

Explosion In National Capitol Wrecks Supreme Court Room.

Ancient Documents Which Cannot Be Replaced.

Twenty Thousand Volumes of Law Reference Books Destroyed.

Washington, Nov. 7.—An explosion and fire yesterday afternoon wrecked the supreme court room and the rooms immediately adjoining it on the main floor of the Capitol. The damage is enormous. The entire central eastern part of the great marble pile from the main floor to the subterreanean basement practically is a mass of ruins. The force of the explosion was so heavy that the coping stones on the outer walls just east of the point where the explosion occurred were bulged out nearly two inches: windows in all that part of the building were blown out, and locked doors were forced from their hinges quite a hundred feet away from the scene of it.

Fire followed the explosion so quickly as to seem practically simultaneous with it. The explosion shook the immense structure to its foundations and was heard several squares from the Capitol. It occurred in a small room tightly enclosed by heavy stone walls in the subterranean basement immediately below the main entrance to the old Capitol building.

In this room was a 500 light gas metre which was fed by a 4-inch main. Very little gas is used in that part of the building, but at the time of the explosion the gas had not been turned off at the metre. The metre itself was wrenched and the gas pouring from the main caught fire. The flames originating from the explosion darted up the shaft of the elevator, which had been completely destroyed by the force of the explosion, and communicated with the record room of the supreme court, the office of the marshal of the court and the supreme court library. Before the flames could be subdued the priceless documents in the record room had been almost destroyed, and serious damage had been done in the marshal's room and some minor rooms in the immediate vicinity.

The library of the supreme court, located immediately beneath the supreme court room, was badly damaged by fire, smoke and water, water practically destroying the great collection of law reference books. The library contains about 20,000 volumes and was used not only by the justices of the supreme court, but by members of congress and lawyers practicing before the supreme court.

Justice Harlan said last night that the library was very valuable. Many of the works it contained would, he thought, be difficult to replace. Librarian Clarke, after a cursory examination, expressed the opinion that many of the books could be saved, although they had been drenched by water from the streams poured into the library for two hours or more after the explosion occurred.

The most serious damage, in the opinion of the justices of the supreme court, is to the records stored in the sub-basement. These include oll of the records of the supreme court from 1792 to 1832. The room contains records of cases and opinions rendered by the fathers of the judiciary of the government. Apparently the documents in this room are either totally destroyed or so badly damaged by fire and water as to be useless. Justice Harlan said that while the loss of the records was irreparable it was fortunate that the late records of the court, which were kept in the office of the clerk on the main floor, were not injured. As documents for reference at this time and later Justice Harlan thought these were of far greater value than the records destroyed. Fortunately the clerk's office was not in the least damaged by fire, and the explosion did no damage in it except to blow out the windows.

While many theories are offered as to the cause of the explosion, it seems beyond doubt to have been due to escaping gas. At seven minutes after 5 Lieutenant Nelson, of the Capitol police, detected an odor of gas in the corridors adjoining the supreme court room. Not being able to locate it, he proceeded to statuary hall—the old hall of the house of representatives—thinking the gas might be escaping from a burner in that vicinity. While he was endeavoring to locate the escape of the gas the explosion occurred. Only a few persons, principally officers of the Capitol police, were in the building at the time, but several of them had narrow escapes. Before the fire department had arrived, C. P. Gliem, chief electrician of the Capitol, and H. W. Taylor, chief engineer of the house side, had a stream playing into the supreme court record room, which by that time was a roaring furnace. Within a few minutes after the arrival of the fire department the flames were under control, although as a precautionary measure streams were poured into the marshal's office, the library and the subterranean basement for two hours. The firemen were unable, however, for a considerable time to extinguish the flame of gas which shot out of the 4-inch main in the metre room. From this main the fire swept through an orifice in the basement floor caused by the explosion and attacked the consultation room of the supreme court justices on the main floor. Some damage was done to the furniture and fittings in this room, but it was inconsiderable as compared with that done elsewhere. The robing room of the justices practically was undamaged.

It was evident that the fire could not be extinguished until the gas from the main was cut off. That this might be accomplished the firemen turned two streams upon the main, choking the flow of gas and at the same time cooling the pipe. Elecrtician Gliem, braving the intense heat, entered the metre room and cut off the gas at the floor valve of the main.

WILL SIGN TREATY.

Spain to Accept Conditions, but Under Protest.

London, Nov. 7.—The Madrid correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "Spain will sign the peace treaty under protest."

Germany and the Philippines.

London, Nov. 7.—The Vienna correspondent of The Times, commenting upon the irritation of the German press over the attitude of the United States toward the Philippine quesion, says: It has but little importance, and is only likely to excite the scorn and defiance of the Americans and tend to confirm them in their determination to keep the Philippines. The Fremdenblatt, in a temperate article that gives the German papers an example of impartiality, recognizes that it is purely a question for the Americans to decide for themselves. The Berlin correspondent of The Times, after giving extracts from another long and violent article in The Klonische Zeitung, declaring that the fate of the Philippines cannot be a moatter of indifference to Germany, expresses the opinion that such utterances will only stiffen the attitude of the United States.

The Berlin correspondent of The Standard says: The semi-official papers have received a hint to stop their attacks upon America. I have good reason to believe, however, that Germany will doff her reserve so soon as other powers seek a share in the spoils of the Philippines.

Jealousy Leads to Murder.

Providence, Nov. 7.—Lotta Lippitt, who was shot by her negro lover, Sam Lindsay, Saturday night, died yesterday. An autopsy showed that three bullets took effect out of the five shots fired, two entering the abdomen and one the thigh. Lindsay expresses nothing but satisfaction over the fatal result of his act. The shooting affair occurred in Pawtuxet, and was the result of Lindsay's jealousy of another negro who was paying attention to the Lippitt woman, who is white. Lindsay entered the house about 6 o'clock, where he found the Lippitt woman with another negro. While the latter went out on an errand the two indulged in some words. Lindsay became enraged and shot her. Lindsay had threatened to shoot the woman several times before, and bought the revolver a week ago with the intention of killing the woman if she did not remain faithful to him.

Burglars' Bold Job.

Richford, Vt., Nov. 7.—The most daring robbery ever known in this part of the country took place yesterday morning betwen 2 and 3 o'clock. The vault at the Richford Savings Bank and Trust company was blown partly open by three men, but the robbers, becoming frightened, failed to force the door to the inner vault, which contained a large sum of money. As it was they got away with $500 worth of postage stamps, $25 worth of revenue stamps and a few dollars in silver. Members of the family living over the bank heard the noise of what was probably the first explosion, but they were afraid to go down stairs or to give the alarm. Two citizens, who were attracted to the scene by the noise of the explosion, were seized by the burglars and gagged and bound.

Economist Wells Dead.

Norwich, Conn., Nov. 7.—David Amos Wells, the noted economist, whose reputation was international, died at his home in this city Saturday afternoon, aged 70. Mr. Wells' death was not unexpected, though until Friday it was thought he might rally from his illness. Mr. Wells was born at Springfield, Mass., June 17, 1828. He was a lineal descendant on his father's side of Thomas Wells, governor of the colony of Connecticut from 1655 to 1658, and on his mother's side from David Amos, who, under Washington, built and established the national armory at Springfield, Mass.

Murderer's Awful Punishment.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 7.—Arthur Williams, a negro under arrest for the murder of Miss Elina Ogden at Wellborne, Fla., on Friday, made a confession Saturday night, implicating two negroes, Buck James and Monroe Leggitt. At 11 o'clock Saturday night the constable and his guards were overpowered by a crowd of incensed citizens and Williams was taken from their custody, riddled with bullets and a fire built upon his body. James and Leggitt are now under arrest and it is likely that they will go the way of Williams.

A Gift of $10,000.

Washington, Nov. 7.—The Catholic university of America, through its rector, was the recipient on Saturday of a gift of $10,000 for establishment of a fellowship in the faculty of divinity. The donors are Mary G. B. Caldwell, Marquise de Morinville, and her sister, Mary E. B. Caldwell, Baroness Von Zedtwitz. This fellowship, which is in perperual This fellowship, which is in perpetual independent of the scholarship founded a few days before by the Marquise de Morinville.

Tenement Block Burned.

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 7.—A large two-tenement block on South street occupied by four families was totally burned this morning, and the inmates, while escaping unscathed, had very narrow escape sfrom death. All lost their clothing and household effects and none had insurance. The house, which had a small barn attached, belonged to Father Feehan of St. Bernard's church, and the loss is about $3000.

Whalers Return.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—The whaling bark Alice Knowles and the steam whalers Balena and Belvidere arrived from the Arctic yesterday. The Knowles brought only 600 barrels of sperm oil, while the Balena brought 460 pounds of whalebone and 800 barrels of oil. The Belvidere took six whales, but only a portion of the same came on her. The other part had been sent down beforehand.

Must Remain In Bed.

New York, Nov. 7.—There was a consultation of Joseph Jefferson's physicians at the Holland House last night, where the actor is confined to his room. They told Mr. Jefferson that he must not leave his bed for at least a week. He has chronic throat trouble.

Fell From a Platform.

Bradford, Vt., Nov. 7.—Ex-Governor Roswell Farnham was severely injured by falling from a platform at Pompanoosue station. He lies in a critical condition with concussion of the brain.

All Absorbing Question.

The support of the present Administration is the all-absorbing question of the hour. That question pierces the heart of every home in the land, and appeals directly to every one of her citizens. The present campaign is laden with far more important issues than personalities. The future welfare and prosperity of the nation is at stake. In such a struggle partisanship should be ignored. The present policies should be preserved. Who, twelve months ago dreamed that at our threshold would be thrown nearly eight millions of helpless people. He knew not the meaning of imperialism, but he and every other intelligent voter understood what Americanism means. When the tyrant foot of the oppressor is laid upon a people the humanitarian instinct of Americans is manifested, and he felt certain that our country would not ignore the appeal of those in need. For his conduct of the Spanish war, President McKinley will receive from historians the same praise and honor as that which immortalizes the name of President Lincoln.—Michael J. Murray, at South Boston.

☞ The Democrats secured control because, at a prosperous time, the people were misled by the fairy tales of the Democratic orators. They made promises and did not keep them. After four years of their work wreckage was strewn along the shore of prosperity and thousands of honest workmen had been turned out on the highway. We haven't been in power two years yet and have not had time to do everything. We made promises and we are carrying them out. One thing. We revised the tariff and gave to the country revenue enough to sustain it. Within five days after President McKinley had been installed, he called Congress together as had been promised and one year ago last July the Dingley Tariff bill was passed. You well remember how goods were imported in large quantities just before the passage of this bill in order that they might escape the duty which was to be put upon them. There were 16 shiploads of wool in a single day that came into Boston. The warehouses were filled. It was a long time before much revenue could be derived from importations. In February of this year the revenue was sufficient to meet the expenses and by June all peace expenditures had been paid.—Congressman McCall.

☞ It is a favorite trick of demagogues to assail the "labor records" of Republican nominees for office in Massachusetts, but there is no blinking out of sight the monumental fact that Massachusetts has led all her sister States in legislation for the protection and uplifting of wage-earners—and Massachusetts is the State of all States where Republican power has been paramount. There has not been a time within the memory of the present generation when the Massachusetts legislature, which has passed all these enlightened labor laws, has been otherwise than overwhelmingly Republican. There has been no time when the Democrats have not been in an insignificant minority, impotent to initiate reforms and impotent to enact them. Every line and paragraph of labor legislation on the statute books of Massachusetts is Republican legislation. Does Mr. Ramsdell or any other Democratic leader care to compare this Massachusetts Republican record with the record of such typical Democratic States as South Carolina, Georgia or Alabama? [Boston Journal.]

—If you are inclined to criticise the Administration, just stop a moment and think of what was done in the brief three months of the war. Use your common sense. Think of gathering 250,000 men with no arms or equipments and without ammunition; and in three months sending them armed and equipped all over the world and finishing a war that in its vast results has hardly been equaled in the history of the world. After duly considering the magnitude of the task then condemn the Administration all your conscience will allow.

What man would not almost wish that his right hand had been cut off rather than not have upheld Abraham Lincoln a third of a century ago? Let no man in Massachusetts a third of a century hence hang his head because his hand did not swell the electoral vote of every Republican candidate for Congress and my friend William McKinley, the disciple and the successor not only in place but in faith to Abraham Lincoln.

—Vote for all the candidates. Don't skip a single name. The responsibility rests on you. Your failure to vote may defeat the one you really approve. You must have some choice. Show it by your vote.

What a boom it would be to this city if the Citizens Gas Light Co. would contract with the Machussetts Pipe Line Gas Co. for the purchase of cheap coal gas. The Brookline, Dorchester and Jamaica Plain Co.'s have already agreed to supply their localities with it.

An eight-page Ledger was necessary today to accommodate the demand for space by the campaign committees. While the Ledger is Republican its fair treatment of all parties commands respect and business.

Quincy is again without its regular 11 o'cock theatre train. It was so last year when the winter schedule was made up, and, after a persistant fight on the part of our citizens it was put back. Why the New Haven officials take that off when the theatres are all out at from 10.30 to 10.45 o'clock is a mystery, thus compeling people to wait for upwards of three-quarters of an hour in a cheerless station for the 11.30 train. The 11 o'clock train was always well patronized during the winter season. It's discontinuance is an unwarranted inconveniene to hundreds of people.

HOAR fOR BARROWS.

Tells Why He Should be Re-elected To Congress.

The predominating issue today says Congressman Barrows, is the question of sound money, and the intelligent people of this community will not be hoodwinked. At this late stage in the campaign the Democratic candidate thinks it would be a good idea to shift the issue, but, standing as he says with both feet on the Chicago platform, it is not easy to see how he can stand anywhere else at the same time. He is a gentleman who knows where he stands and who is willing that the public should know that he is a champion of free silver.

Mr. Naphen has evidently reached the conclusion that he cannot get to Congress without the help of Republican voters, and so he is trying to get them by appealing to Senator Hoar to lend him his influence. You who know the splendid stand which the senator has taken for sound money, and his brilliant leadership against repudiation and depreciation in the United States Senate, will smile when you see him asked to lend his influence to add another free silver Democrat to the roll of the House. Mr. Naphen's desire to get into good company is laudable, and if he wants to get into the Republican party, let him renounce the Chicago platform, with its attack on the monetary and judicial systems of the United States.

There are a good many Democrats who have no use for the Chicago platform or for anybody who stands on it. It is, no doubt, this discovery which induces Mr. Naphen to yearn for the support and influence of Senator Hoar. But the honorable senator has not left his position in any doubt in this matter. From the heart of the commonwealth he has spoken to the voters of this district, in a dispatch today to the Boston press he says:

"Everything that Massachusetts desires and stands for requires the re-election of S. J. Barrows. To elect him is to give a vote for Thomas B. Reed, the strong champion of sound money, of honest politics, of good wages, of prosperous business, governing America by Americans and for Americans, as the fathers intended, and as Massachusetts desires. To vote for his competitor is to vote for Joseph W. Bailey of Texas or some other cheap money, free trade, low wages Democrat. It is a choice between New England and Texas in control of the national House of Representatives.

"George F. Hoar."

Worcester, Nov. 5.

Mr. Bryan thinks we ought to add to our circulation $42,000,000 a year to keep pace with the needs of the population.

I have just received the official statement of the United States treasury for Nov. 1 of the present year.

I find that in the month of October the increase in circulation is $49,979,390. Almost $50,000,000, or $8,000,000 more in this month than Mr. Bryan thinks necessary for a whole year, and of this amount more than half is in gold, and the rest in silver and paper. And the increase in circulation from Nov. 1, 1897, to Nov. 1, 1898, is $159,842,878. That is nearly $160,000,000 in the past year, and that is almost four times as much as Mr. Bryan demanded in the way of annual increase. I am anxious to make this statement, gentlemen, because a Boston paper thought I was exaggerating. But these figures are official and accurate.

Another thing. The silverites lay great stress upon the per capita circulation of money. It is not a matter of importance they think. But let us see how this argument is swept away. In June, 1896, the date of Bryan's nomination, the per capita circulation was $21.15. Notwithstanding the fact that our population has increased to about 75,000,000 on the 1st of November, the increase in circulation has surpassed the increase in population.

It was $21.15 in June, 1896. On the 1st of November this year it was $24.87, so that, taking their own arguments and demands we see that the free silverites have really no argument left. If the whole case hangs on the circulation of money, there is no ground for the silverites to stand on. The great glory to the United States is that every dollar of this enormous sum in circulation is either gold or as good as gold.

The body of the late George H. Hobby, formerly of Quincy, who died at Lynn, was brought to Quincy Saturday afternoon and buried in the family lot at Mt. Wollaston cemetery. Those who were present at the Wollaston Baptist church on Sunday morning heard a very fine sermon by the pastor, Rev. Preston Gurney. The text was taken from Isa. 26:20, and the ideas expressed were further carried out by the selections of the quartette and hymns. The musical numbers were Cantata, Domino in C, Buck; Response "When in the East Daylight is Gleaming," Rheinberger; "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," Williams.

Handsome flowers decorated the altar Sunday morning at the Quincy Point church. Although a rainy day a fair audience was present to listen to the discourse given by the pastor, Rev. Edward Anderson, who took his text from 18th Deuteronomy—"That which may be tangible and a hand to help, not the word of the mouth." Mr. Anderson is a plain earnest and distinct teacher. It was Communion Sunday. Mr. John Federhen and Miss Phillip received the hand of fellowship. The Ladies' Aid society give a social and supper Tuesday eve.

LAND VALUES

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to R, and today's instalment is the first of the S's:

Political.

The enthusiastic Republicans of Quincy predict the reelection of Congressman Barrows by 3,000 majority.

The Republicans have issued sample ballots.

Forty-two States hold elections tomorrow.

The polls in Quincy will open tomorrow at six A. M. and close at four P. M. Read Tuesday's Ledger for news from all the polling places. It may give you some idea how the election is going.

Cards have been circulated today purporting to come from Eugene H. Sprague, candidate for the Legislature, but which are signed by J. B. Early of Rustic place. They place the candidate in a false position and should be taken only for what they are worth.

Atlantic A. A. 5; Thayer 0.

The Atlantic A. A. football eleven defeated the Thayer Academy football team Saturday, on French's Common, Braintree, by a score of 5 to 0. Over 500 people witnessed the game which was of a most interesting character from the start. Atlantic did not score until the second half. Then by constant line bucking Atlantic scored a touchdown, having to run Thayer about 20 yards to do it.

WEYMOUTH.

The foot ball team of the Weymouth High was defeated by that of Thayer Academy Friday by a score of 17-0. Thayer had the advantage during the first part of the first half, but in the latter part of the half, the Weymouth boys rushed the ball down to Thayer's 15-yard line. This made Thayer rather nervous, and seeing that the Weymouths were sure to score in the next half, she substituted Arnold for McMahon. Before the game, it had been agreed that Arnold would not play, but that made no difference with Thayer. Arnold made great gains with the above result.

A Jubilee meeting was held in the Porter M. E. church Sunday evening.

THE SIMPLIST CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

As Well as Safest and Cheapest.

The new medical discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tables, digest the food instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, give it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

You get nourishment and rest at the same time because these Tablets will thoroughly digest all wholesome food taken into the stomach whether the stomach works or not. A cure is certain to result because the digestive organs are given a chance to rest and recover their natural vigor and tone. The Tablets are then no longer required.

To show the manner in which the remedy acts on different people and how quickly and effectually it cures stomach troubles we present a few recent cases.

Mr. J. O. Wondly of Peoria, Ills., writes; I was unable to eat anything but the plainest food and even that often distressed me, but since using one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets I can eat anything and everything I want.

Mrs. Samuel Kepple of Girty, Pa., writes: I have been entirely relieved of my stomach troubles by your Tablets. I suffered three years with sour stomach and gas at night. I am thankful for them.

Mrs. A. E. Bowen, Barnard, Vt., writes; I think Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best thing for dyspepsia I ever took. I will recommend them to anyone troubled as bad as I was.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will not disappoint because they cure Dyspepsia surely and lastingly by causing the food to be properly assimilated, and cure constipation by producing the proper quantity of bile. SPEECH.

Talk happiness. The world is sad enough
Without your woes. No path is wholly rough;
Look for the places that are smooth and clear
And speak of those to rest the weary ear
Of earth, so hurt by one continuous strain
Of human discontent and grief and pain.

Talk faith. The world is better off without
Your uttered ignorance and morbid doubt.
If you have faith in God or man or self,
Say so; if not, push back upon the shelf
Of silence all your thoughts till faith shall come;
No one will grieve because your lips are dumb.

Talk health. The dreary, never changing tale
Of mortal maladies is worn and stale.
You cannot charm or interest or please
By harping on that minor chord, disease.
Say you are well or all is well with you,
And God shall hear your words and make them true.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox in Woman's Home Companion.

END OF A ROMANCE.

November's raw air warned negligent householders that it was time to lay in their winter's supply of coal, and everywhere up and down the wind swept length of the city's residence streets rattling coal troughs barred the pedestrian's path and discharged their black torrents into insatiable sidewalk scuttles. Mrs. Matthews, who lived on quiet but highly select Prospect street, had ordered ten tons of coal put into her cellar, and the first instalment had arrived—a two ton load—got to the crest of the steep, narrow street by much hard pulling on the part of the horses and stentorian shouting on the part of their Irish driver.

"Mr. Coal Man!" cried Mrs. Matthews from the up stairs bay window. "Be sure you close the coal scuttle when you go. Don't leave it open. It is so large somebody might fall in."

"Yis, mum," assented the driver, raising his grimy face and smiling in the dazzling way that distinguishes coal heavers and negroes. Then, with a perversity as sublimely unconscious as that of inanimate objects themselves he went away when he had finished his task, leaving the iron lid of the scuttle leaning against the side of the house.

Three or four minutes later a small, dapper, nicely dressed young man stepped out of the street door next to the Matthews' and turned to make his final adieus to a lady, slightly faded, but still young, who had accompanied him to the threshold. He backed away, bowing and holding his hat politely and jauntily a few inches above his head. Just as the final "Thank you; goodby!" had escaped his lips and the door had closed upon the lady the young man whirled around, hovered for a fateful, strenuous instant upon the yawning edge of the coal hole and disappeared! Mr. Dennis Murphy, happening to turn his head at the same moment and beholding the sudden ingulfment of the young gentleman, uttered but the two words, "Howly murther!" and lashing his steeds into clumsy, galloping flight disappeared with terrific clatter down the cobble paved hill.

But Mr. Murphy was not the only witness of the tragic disappearance of the young man who had emerged from 52. Miss Minerva Matthews had stopped for a moment at the little table in the bay window to get a book of verse, from which she wished to make a quotation. At the precise moment, when she laid her hand upon the volume, her eyes, carelessly lifted after the unobservant manner of one in deep thought, had beheld a young man sink apparently into the earth, directly in front of the quiet, respectable house in which she and her mother and her maiden aunt kept themselves aloof from the world.

Miss Minerva did not scream. She simply said, "Mother!" But the manner in which she uttered that word was infinitely more startling than any inarticulate outcry could possibly have been.

Mrs. Matthews came scurrying out of her room with a face as closely approximating an animated interrogation point as might well be.

"Mother! A man has just fallen intc our coal scuttle!"

Mrs. Matthews gasped convulsively and collapsed into a chair. Twice she tried to frame articulate words, but the shock had been too great. She could only choke and clinch and unclinch her slender, transparent hands. If those same delicate hands could have closed just then upon the brawny throat of Mr. Dennis Murphy, they would have left him little breath indeed for protestation.

Minerva saw that her mother was practically helpless for the time being, and that whatever was to be done in the emergency must be done by herself. Even at the height of the second story she could hear the unwilling and unwelcome intruder blundering and stumbling and rattling about in the dark coal bin as he aimlessly sought some egress.

"I will go down to him, mother. I will explain!" she cried. "Oh, the carelessness of that detestable coal man!"

Miss Minerva Matthews fled down stairs as fast as she could go. But as she opened the door at the head of the cellar stairway she stopped for a moment and shuddered from head to foot. It was like the initial plunge of the swimmer into cold water. After that the worst of the terrible shrinking was over. She picked up her skirts and darted down into the twilight of the cellar.

The coal bin was a large one and was boarded up to within a foot or two of the beams overhead. There was a vertically sliding door in sections, two of which—there were three of them—had been dropped into place ere the arrival of the coal. The big bin was therefore practically "a tight box," and the young man who had fallen into it, not understanding its construction, was most securely imprisoned. It was vastly to his credit (so Minerva thought) that he did not raise a terrible outcry, demanding to be released. Surely he must be a young man of the best breeding to confine himself so considerately to undemonstrative excursions around the coal heap!

The young lady flew to the bin and removed the top section of the door. As she did so she found herself face to face with a most woebegone, smooched, demoralized and bewildered young man. For a moment the two young people stared at each other speechlessly. Then, as if moved by a simultaneous impulse, both spoke:

"Oh, I am so sorry!"

"I beg your pardon most humbly for my carelessness."

Then they both laughed weakly. Minerva snatched the remaining section of the door away, and the young man slid totteringly out upon the cellar floor, with a small avalanche of released coal.

"It was all our fault!" cried Minerva. "We ought to have watched that wretched coal man and seen that he put the cover over the scuttle."

"No, it was my fault," objected the young man. "I ought to have had my eyes about me. I had no business to be walking backward on the street. I—but, really, Miss"—

"Matthews," interposed Minerva, noting his questioning hesitation.

"Really, Miss Matthews," looking at his grimy hands and besmirched linen, "I feel so disreputably dirty that I am going to ask you for the love of humanity to get me an old pan or basin to wash this stuff off in."

"Come right up stairs," said Minerva pityingly.

"No, no; I might encounter somebody—beg your pardon for the seeming insinuation. But, you know, I had to encounter you, and I feel toward you a sense of gratitude for my deliverance that overrides all other feeling. Isn't there a laundry tub or something where I could make a preliminary toilet?"

Minerva led the way into the basement laundry, where there were set tubs, running water and plenty of soap. "I'll run up stairs for towels," she said, and so made a timely escape with the geyser of laughter that was gushing up in her throat. She fled into the kitchen closet, shut the door tight and collapsed, with the cook's old wrapper pressed against her face. "Oh, I'm so glad auntie isn't home today, or Katherine!" she gasped. "What would they do, the hysterical dears!" She writhed in a fit of suppressed laughter for a minute or two, and then broke forth and darted up stairs for the towels. Mrs. Matthews met her at the head of the stairs.

"Don't speak a word to me, mother," panted Minerva. "Don't; I shall explode!"

She dashed into the bathroom, caught up a couple of towels and sped down cellar again.

The laundry was empty. The outside basement door, standing ajar into the little back yard, told the story. The young man had fled.

Minerva mechanically gathered up a pair of mournful cuffs that had rolled under the shadow of the tubs. Their jewelry was of the most modern kind—smoked pearl—but the linen was fine in texture and quality. "I guess he must have been a gentleman as far as he went," mused the girl. She turned the cuffs this way and that and peered inside, but there was no name, no clew.

Then, with that wonderfully swift, prophetic intuition of a woman, Minerva Matthews sighed and exclaimed under her breath:

"Poor Miss Atherton!"

It was Miss Atherton who lived next door.—Portland Transcript.

Wildcat on Toast.

There is no accounting for tastes. What suits the palate of one may be little esteemed by another. An English traveler and sportsman had recommended to him when he was in Morocco a variety of game which he would not be very keen for at home. His informant was a soldier, for no foreigner is allowed to travel in that country without such attendance:

He began telling marvelous stories of the game in the neighborhood, of the sultan's army and of his own importance. One remark on cooking—for he was a gourmand—is worth repeating.

"There is," he said, "only one kind of game worth eating in Morocco—wildcat. Its taste is as the taste of all other varieties of game mixed. When once you have tasted wildcat, never will you eat anything again with pleasure."

Probably not. I should think it enough to poison most people, but I dared not say so. I merely proposed in a weak voice that I preferred owl stewed with mustard and sand. He said that ought to be good, too, but he had never tried it.

GOWN WITH CIRCULAR FLOUNCES FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

A French mode carried out in tones of marquise brown, illustrates the tendency of trimming in lines. Rows of rolled folds of the broadcloth of which the gown is made follow the outline of the pointed panel of the skirt and the circular flounces, as well as of the sleeve and jacket. The later is odd and pretty—a fancy bolero which fastens diagonally across the bust with three embroidered velvet buttons. It slopes away from the front, disclosing above the brown velvet belt an underblouse of brown and white polka-dotted taffeta. The sleeve, ending with a curve over the hand, is trimmed around the upper part with the same silk and bordered with folds. The crushed silk stock has a high square wing behind. The ruffles on the skirt extend around the back, drooping towards the train, thus accentuating the length of the back breadth. These ruffles encircle the back and sides, then turn up each side of the front to the first point of the panel, with just fulness enough to allow them to round the corners nicely, yet with not much ripple. The skirt is unlined from the waistline to the first ruffle, the panel and lower part having the usual lining. The top of the back fastens smoothly, with neither pleat nor shirrings, under narrow straps, or with a row of small buttons and buttonholes the length of the placket, or again with a double row of buttons laced across with tiny cord loops. The skirt is of circular cut, the width at the bottom being a little over four yards. The proper cut of the grown can be obtained only by the use of the cut-paper patterns furnished by Harper's Bazar, where gown appears.

The hat of pale brown felt is rolled upward at the side, and trimmed with two Mercury wings passing from behind puffs of a lighter-toned mirror velvet. A brown velvet rosette is under the brim next the hair.

Quantity of material for gown—6 1-2 yards of broadcloth; 1 1-4 yards of taffeta for blouse.

CANCER CURED

BY ABSORPTION
NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

HATE "SAXON RABBLE"

An Incident Illustrative of the Feeling of Spaniards.

Cubans Say America Is Trespassing Upon Time.

Havana, Nov. 7.—Alfred Betancourt, a British subject, born in Jamaica, was assaulted on Tuesday last by a Spanish officer, who struck him on the side of the head for wearing a gold scarfpin in the shape of a five-pointed star. The officer ordered Betancourt under arrest and sent him before General Arolas, military governor of Havana, who ordered him imprisoned. Mr. Jerome, British vice consul, on being notified of the assault, presented himself at the captain general's palace to protest against an act of brutality and to demand the instant release of Betancourt.

General Blanco at first attempted to put Mr. Jerome off. Then he said it would be an extremely difficult matter to release the prisoner, as he had been arrested by an army officer and had been sent to jail by the military governor. But Mr. Jerome maintained a firm attitude, insisting that he would remain at the palace until Betancourt was released. Finally his persistence was successful. After an interchange of messages between General Blanco and General Arolas, Mr. Jerome all the while refusing to budge from the palace, Betancourt was released at a late hour.

These are the bare facts of an assault which, under other conditions, might pass with slight notice, but which is significant, coming on the heels of a threat made by General Arolas to get even with Englishmen in Havana because of a protest recently made by Mr. MacLean, manager of the Marine railway, owned by an English company, against the use to which the railway stations had been put by Spanish soldiers stationed to guard them on Sundays and holidays. The conduct of the soldiers was grossly indecent and excited the indignation of everybody living in the vicinity of the stations. When Mr. MacLean lodged his complaint, General Arolas, who is extremely hostile to the English, as well as the Americans, declared that he would get even with the "Saxon rabble."

El Diario De La Marina publishes a fierce editorial attack upon the United States, declaring that "the whole country is governed by rum and ignorance." It imputes to the American government "a breach of faith contrary to the usages of all civilized countries in sending war vessels to Porto Rico after the protocol was signed and occupying the Philippines before the conference at Paris has terminated." The whole article is a mass of inaccuracies and slanders, but its spirit is most seditious.

The feeling among the better class of intelligent and influential Cubans may be pretty accurately summed up in the following observations made by a representative Cuban merchant of Havana:

"It seems to me—and I think my views are shared by many—that the United states government is dilly-dallying too long with Spain over this evacuation question. Of course the problem is a difficult one, but the delay is surely unnecessary. The United States have sent here an assortment of commissions, each more self-important and mysterious than its predecessor, and each veiling its operations with a cloud of secrecy which, so far as my own experience goes, really serves the purpose of obcuring issues and concealing very small achievements.

"Almost nothing has been accomplished. The spirit of jealousy fills not only the individual members of all the commissions, but also exists between the different commissions collectively. Their rivalries seem to engross the attention of commissioners much more than the serious questions affecting the welfare of Cuba and the dignity and good faith of the United States.

"First we were told that the date of occupation by the United States troops would be Nov. 1, then Dec. 1 was fixed upon, and later we were informed that the date for occupation would be left indefinite. So far as evacuation is concerned Jan. 1 was named as an ultimate date; but now it is rumored that February has been agreed upon. The fact is the country at large, especially commerce, whether Cuban, foreign or Spanish, is getting disgusted. The people are losing faith and confidence, owing to the lack of formality displayed by the American representatives. To all questions asking information on these points the American commissioners, with a superior smile and an assumption of gravity to cover their ignorance, reply vaguely and unsatisfactorily.

"Unless the Washington government forces its lethargic commissions into greater activity Cuba will be an immense graveyard and its fields barren before the United States takes possession. The daily records of mortality show that the population in all parts of the island is dwindling steadily. Entire villages are dying of starvation. On all sides the Spaniards continue robbing and plundering. In the meantime these sage, gossiping commissions of the United States sit sipping cool drinks by day and seeking shelter by night with mortal dread of fever, yet absolutely impervious to the demands of humanity.

"The situation created by this uncertainty is still further aggravated by the fact that no one dares sow crops or cultivate lands until the present chaotic conditions show some rays of light to guide agricultural efforts. There is no work for idle hands. Day by day the number of beggars, thieves and prostitutes increases, while the number of those able to relieve distress shrinks in the same proportion. Thus far the United States has sent in the name of humanity a mere pittance of 1,000,000 rations and the Red Cross society has sent two cargoes of supplies, as to whose distribution and disposal there have been many unfavorable comments. How far can such relief be expected to go?

"The present conditions cannot be much longer protracted without subjecting the United States to well deserved criticism. More than this, the elements most in sympathy with the United States are slowly, but surely, falling off and joining the ranks of the opposition. As you are aware Senor de Castro, the civil governor, only yesterday issued orders for the arrest of 263 criminals, recently released from jails and the penal colonies at Ceuta and on the Isle of Pines. This step was rendered necessary by the alarming increase in burglaries, highway robberies and assaults.

"While the blockade was on the city was ruled with an iron hand and cases of assault and robbery were almost unknown. Today, with the release of criminals and the increase of poverty, the list of murders and holdups is a very grave matter. In addition to the already numerous paupers and unemployed, driven to beg from sheer necessity, there are many discharged Spanish soldiers entirely without means of support. Their number reaches into the thousands. Many boys and young girls of genteel extraction have been thrown on the streets to begin their lives as beggars or thieves, and to bring up in jails and houses of ill-fame. Do the people of the United States realize these things? Does the government of the United States, morally responsible before the world for the future of Cuba, intend to tolerate indefinitely a delay which day by day makes these bad conditions worse?"

Ordered to Manila.

Washington, Nov. 7.—Lieutenant Niblack, formerly in charge of the naval militia branch of the navy department and just detached from the command of the torpedo boat Winslow, which has gone out of commission, reported at the navy department yesterday, en route to Manila, having been assigned to duty on Admiral Dewey's flagship, the Olympia.

Benefit to Interior Towns.

Middleboro, Mass., Nov 7.—Articles of association have been formed for another street railway to connect the New Bedford, Middleboro and Brockton line, through Lakeville and East Taunton, with Taunton. It will be known as the Taunton and Middleboro Street Railway company. The route selected is from Middleboro town house through Precinct village to East Taunton, to the terminus of the East Taunton street railway in hat village. The new road will open up the lake country of the towns of Middleboro and Lakeville, and is well calculated to develop it as an interior summer resort.

Sailors' Terrible Experience.

New York, Nov. 7.—Steamer Saratoga, from Nassau, had among the passengers Captain Buener and six of the crew of the schooner Jennie F. Willey, which was dismasted in a hurricane on Oct. 1, 600 miles east of Abaco, losing boats and dockhouse. She subsequently drifted ashore on Walker's key, Abaco, Oct. 23, where she became a total wreck. While on board of the Willey they suffered untold privations, and for 23 days subsisted on raw fish and seaweed. From Abaco they were conveyed to Nassau and forwarded home by the United States consul.

Very Much Alive.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 7.—Daniel Kennedy, who was supposed to have been murdered in Deering, Me., last spring and the body brought to this city and buried with an appropriate gravestone, suddenly reappeared at his home alive and well, Saturday, to the unbounded astonishment of his friends and the almost unspeakable joy of his aged mother. Kennedy said that he went west during the latter part of the winter, but a few months ago wrote home. Two letters were actually received from him, but nearly everyone believed that someone else wrote them.

Still Preparing.

London, Nov. 7.—The military authorities at Devonport, the site of the largest naval arsenal in Great Britain, received orders yesterday for the immediate mobilization of all the troops in the western district. The defense committee will meet today.

Halifax, Nov. 7.—All military officers absent on furlough or otherwise have been recalled. Captain Kent, chief of the submarine service, who was about to leave for Bermuda, has been ordered to remain. Colonel Leach arrived back from Toronto last night.

Opposed to Experiments.

Boston, Nov. 7.—The Herald says that before another month has passed it is probable that the affairs of the now famous Electrolytic Marine Salts company, organized for the purpose of extracting precious metal from the salt water of the ocean, will be wound up and settled. In spite of the reported disposition of the officials of the company to go on experimenting, attorneys of the stockholders will make a mighty effort to save the remaining funds.

Without Loss of Dignity.

Paris, Nov. 7.—The Matin confirms the report that the government will instruct Major Marchand to return to France with his expedition from Fashoda by way of Jibutil, on the gulf of Aden, the "only route consistent with French dignity." The paper expresses the hope that the national flag "will not again be involved in such small colonial enterprises, unless success is assured beforehand, both diplomatically and by adequate support."

Alabama "Justice."

Selma, Ala., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Stridler, wife of a merchant and justice of the peace at Jones Switch, while preparing to retire, discovered a negro under her bad. Upon screaming for help the man fled. A negro section hand, John Williams, was suspected and arrested. A crowd took him from an officer and hanged him.

ELECTION STRAWS.

They Blow for Victory for Republican Candidates.

☞ Chairman Goetting of the State Committee urges Republicans to get out the vote, and vote themselves, and vote the ticket straight.

☞ Speaker Bates of the Massachusetts House says, "Our legislation of labor has been copied by several of the States. I am glad to see. I read the other day that 24 of the States had copied it.

☞ And so the Cubans employed upon the streets of Santiago have struck for a rise of fifty cents a day. This looks as though we may not have a great deal of difficulty in instructing the Cubans in American methods.—Boston Transcript.

☞ "Imperialism is not an issue of this campaign. The committee sitting at Paris are not all Republicans. Both parties have gone to represent the situation, and the American people will stand behind that committee and indorse their action."—Speaker Bates at Cambridge.

☞ "I say deliberately that the breaking up of the Democratic party in 1896 was a great misfortune. There drifted out of it at that time a large majority of the men who represented the conservative elements of their party, and who also believed in the traditions of the party, the traditions of American government. They threw all the old traditions to the winds. It was a misfortune to the country that that great historic party separated as it did then. It is important for this country that there should be two strong, well-ruled parties, one fit to govern and one fit to criticise, and it is beyond doubt that power will not always be kept in the hands of either of them."—Senator Lodge.

☞ Speaking at Brookline Benjamin C. Dean said: "A party organization was absolutely necessary, for the reason that in our town government it was only through the party that town affairs were so well managed. For this reason every man should give his individual assistance to their party, in its efforts to regain the ground that has been lost during the past four years. This must be done at the polls on Tuesday next, if we wish to gain the prestige which we have held before. He declared that the Republican Party had every reason to be proud of the record which it had made during the last four years. He paid an excellent tribute to President McKinley and Governor Wolcott.

☞ We have passed the protective tariff. It has shown its capacity in in times of peace to give the Government sufficient revenue for ordinary expenses. We pledged you in the St. Louis platform that we would maintain the gold standard. We have maintained it. Our fidelity to that great principal has been shown in the last three months, for when we were brought to the supreme test of war. One of the great pillars of Government is credit, and we turned to the people of the United States and said for immediate expenditures we need two hundred millions of dollars, and the people of the United States came to the Treasury, and said, here are fourteen hundred millions. The credit of this country has been maintained even as the Republican Party promised to maintain it. We have set the Hawaiian question as the platform demanded. We have settled the Cuban question. It came to us in ways that no one understood in 1896, but it has been the fortune of the Republican Party in 1898, as it was its good fortune in 1861, to be charged with the conduct of the Govenment when a great crisis confronted the people and now, as then, we have met the crisis, we have come victorious out of the fiery furance of war.—Senator Lodge.

"Detectives."

There are probably not less than a score of men walking about New Orleans today who are decorated under their lapels with large tin stars bearing the cabalistic word "detective." They are patrons of the various private agencies of the north that advertise for "shrewd men as operatives in all parts of the country," and supply the tin star and a beautifully lithographed "certificate" for the trifling sum of $5. The wearers of their insignia labor under the hallucination, as a rule, that they are vested with some special right to collar their fellow men. The same agencies do a land office business in wigs, false beards and other disguises which the amateur sleuth believes firmly are part of the necessary equipment of the profession.

Now and then one of these deluded individuals, who are to be found in all large cities, gets himself into trouble by attempting to make an arrest; but, as a rule, the mania is harmless and its victims confine themselves to prowling through side streets and looking mysterious. They find great joy also in posing in boarding house circles and hearing folks say in awed undertones, "Do you know Mr. So-and-so is a detective?" It is one of the queerest of all queer phases of city life.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Both Are Married.

The ordinary paragrapher in referring to a marriage nearly always says that Mr. John Smith or Mr. James Brown was married to Miss Nellie Green or Miss Fanny White. It would lead one to think that the man only was married, while the fact is both were married. The woman is as much married as the man. The man was not simply married to the woman. The woman and the man were married, and the announcement should be that Mr. So-and-so and Miss So-and-so were married. Rev. Dr. Sunderland wrote a series of articles on this subject some years ago which were published in this city. He laid down the general principle that he did not marry the man to the woman, but that he married the man and the woman, and married one just as much as he did the other. He discountenanced the issuing of wedding cards by parents that their daughter was married to any particular person, and said he did not want to perform any marriage ceremony in which any such announcement was made.—Washington Star.

Peabody and the Boatman.

Many years ago John Bright and George Peabody, the philanthropist, were fishing in a little Irish stream. Late in the evening, after a hard day's work, the party arrived at the landing stage, and Bright, accosting the inevitable policeman on the bank, said:

"What is the proper price to pay these boatmen, constable?"

He replied, "Seven shillings and sixpence, yer honner, but some gintlemen give them 10 shillings."

Bright, turning to his companion, said, "I have no change, Peabody; have you three half crowns?"

The millionaire produced the coins and gave them to one of the boatmen.

"Is that all ye're giving me?" asked the latter.

"That's all," said Peabody.

Holding the coins in the open palm of his hand, and slowly scratching his head with the other, the boatman said:

"And they call ye Paybody, don't they? Well, I call ye Paynobody."—New York Tribune.

Nauseous Doses.

Nauseous medicines nowadays possess none of the terrors that many of us remember when "powders" were given in jam and castor oil in hot milk, as pharmacists have invented no end of ways of giving the nastiest drugs without any flavor at all.

Castor oil, cod liver oil and things of that disagreeable kind are made up in little flexible capsules, which slip down the throat like a strawberry.

These capsules are also made in two parts, so that any one can buy them empty and put the powder or other drug in himself, sealing them and then swallowing them without knowing that the drug has a taste. Then there is the round wafer paper, in which can be inclosed any kind of bolus, pill or powder and which, when moistened, can be swallowed with ease.—New York World.

A Clever Witness.

In a recent county court case in which a man sued another for balance of wages the defendant called a witness.

Witness—I beg pardon, your honor. Before I give my evidence I want my expenses.

Judge (to defendant)—Pay him 7s. 6d.

The defendant having done so, the judge said, "Now that you have had your expenses, what do you know of the case?"

Witness—Nothing at all, your honor.—London Tit-Bits.

Cautious Tennyson.

A clergyman is quoted by Sir M. E. Grant Duff in his memoirs as authority for the story that on the occasion of Hallam's going down to Richmond to be godfather to Tennyson's eldest boy the historian asked, "What is to be the child's name?" "Hallam," answered the poet. "I don't like surnames for Christian names," said the other. "Why not call him Alfred?" "What if he were to turn out a fool?" was the reply.

George IV's Wit.

Mrs. Byrne, in her "Social Hours With Celebrities," tells this anecdote of George IV's wit: "I remember one of the Rev. Mr. Wagner's stories concerned some nobleman who had enjoyed an unenviable reputation for assininity. It had been suggested to the king to confer on him an order of the Thistle, which had become vacant. 'Give the Thistle to ——!' exclaimed the king. 'Why, he'd eat it!'"

CRISP LOCAL NOTES.

All Up-to-Date Lively, Sparkling and Bright.

Rather cool today.

The receipts from water rates for 1898 thus far amount to $45,438.34.

The land has already been surveyed for the yacht basin at Hanley's.

The dance at Music hall, Atlantic, Saturday evening was largely attended and a great success.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGill of this city are visiting their parents on Chestnut street, Randolph.

Mrs. H. Bain of Old Colony terrace, Wollaston, has given up house keeping and will make her home in Oak Hill, Florida for the winter.

Mrs. E. G. Pratt of Spear street was much pleased on Saturday by having a fur collarette returned to her which she had lost on Temple street.

City Treasurer Gray reports large receipts for October, $109,047.42. The expenditures for the month were $72,-804.08 leaving a balance in the treasury Nov. 1, of $89,456.21.

A Boston paper reports that the Quincy & Boston street railway has secured a controlling interest in the Rockland & Abington road, and will also absorb the Hanover line.

The symposium at the Wollaston Baptist church last Wednesday evening was a great success. The young people of this society have great faculty in arranging original entertainments and the surprises offered are always excellent.

The last of Miss Thompson's course of talks will be given tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph C. Morse on Goffe street. The ladies were much interested in Tolstoi and Zangwill's definitions of Art as explained the last Tuesday. The subject for the closing talk is "A Religious House of the 17th Century; Little Gidding in Huntingdonshire.

A horse was seen this morning on Hancock street which had been dirven several miles and was covered with foam. The season is at hand when the blankets should play an important part. Never leave your horse standing after a hard drive without throwing something over him. A blanket may save the life of a heated horse if used on such an occasion.

One of Quincy's school teachers rushed up to the entrance to the water office at City Hall before 8 o'clock this morning, and after trying several times to enter inquired of a passing gentleman how he could get in to vote. When informed that Tuesday was the day citizens voted in Quincy, he said it must have been the quinine he took the night before that had muddled him.

At tonight's meeting of the City Council the Committee on Streets will report on petitions of the New England Telephone Co. for locations for poles, and on the order of Councilman Little inviting the towns of Milton and Braintree to unite with Quincy in petitioning the State Highway Commission to accept Willard street and Granite avenue as a State road. The Finance Committee will also report upon several matters before them.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.
Camp Meade, Nov. 2.

We are enjoying fair weather. The nights are bright and the moon full making it pleasanter for the boys. Last night was a little milder than of late. Today has been fine and warm. The sun has dried up the ground in capital shape.

The drills of today were postponed, as half of the battalion, was working over to the commissary stores, loading and unloading freight, wich is used for our subsistence.

There is nothing of interest occurring in camp of special note. The guard of today consisted of Corporal Whitney, Privates Carson Collins, Dougherty, Dean, Fitzgerald, Gilfeather, Gillis, Gallagher, Gilbride, Hodges, and Jones. We are proud to mention that Private P. Dean was again selected as orderly. Private Dean has served in the regulars, so we have a model soldier. He never misses the distinction of being orderly, when he is detailed for guard.

Tonight the boys are gathered around to hear the strains of the 5th Mass. Volunteer Band, it is quite a treat, to hear the sound of music. This is the first time the band has left the regiment to pay us a visit., So the boys are tonight giving them a cordial welcome. Private Clements was today detailed as Company Clerk in the absence of Private Chase, who is away from the company for a few days, visiting relatives.

Corporal Adams left camp this afternoon, being detained the last two days through a mistake in his discharge which had to be corrected. The Corporal felt overjoyed to know that he was once more a free man. The boys wish him every success, and hope that he may pass through Harvard college successfully. He is about to reenter again to continue his studies.

The health of the Company is favorable. There being no sickness in the company at this writing. We think K Co. is one of the healthiest companies in Camp Meade today, and we hope that it may continue so.

Volunteer.

With Co. Co. K, 5th Mass.
Camp Meade, Nov. 3.

Since my last letter I have been fortunate enough to secure new information relating to our future movements. Tthe first of next week it is quite likely that the 2d battalion will again join their regiment. We expect to leave Camp Meade on or about the tenth of November.

The new camp, at Greenville, S. C., to which we are going, is situated in the north western part of the state, and from a rough estimate, is about one thousand miles from Harrisburg. In order to get to Greenville, we will undoubtedly pass through Baltimore, Washington and Richmond.

The new camp, as yet unnamed, is claimed by those who know to be a very healthy one, without that fever dreaded by all soldiers, called malaria. The hospitals, both division and regimental will be in working order, and ready for immediate use upon the arrival of the 5th Massachusetts, and the other regiments forming the 2d Brigade, 2d Division of the 2d Army Corps.

In a day or so, Lieut. Barney, 2d Assistant Surgeon, of our regiment, will leave here in command of sixty trained hospital attendants to perform the necessary work in establishing the hospitals.

Lieut. Barney is one of the most efficient of surgeons. He has had previous experience, in the war, on an active campaign, having been at Guantanamo, during the fierce fight which took place there, betweeen some of the marines of our navy, and the Spaniards. The story of this battle is too well known to readers of the Ledger, to require any further mention on my part.

The new camp will be laid out on one of the high hills, which marks the beginning of the Appalachian Mountains. At present I am unable to state how long we shall remain there. It is now known, however, that General Fitz Hugh Lee will take command of eighteen thousand men and with them assume control of Cuba on time during the latter part of December. Whether or not the 5th Massachusetts will be a part of this army is not known. There are all sorts of rumors going around concerning our probable movements. Some even go so far as to say that we shall never see Cuba, but will be kept somewhere in the south until next spring, when we will be mustered out. On the other hand, some officers claim, that we shall serve the larger part of our two years enlistment. From this you will see, that they evidently know nothing more than the enlisted men. Shortly I expect to have further trustworthy information relating to our coming duties.

The sick of the division hospitals are being sent in large numbers, to the hospital, at Baltimore, those at Philadelphia, being filled to overflowing During transporatation, these sick men are well cared for. The cars being well equipped and carrying female nurses, to attend to the wants of the unfortunate boys. To transform passenger cars into temporary hospitals, the seats are taken out and two rows of cots placed in them. The beds extending from one end of the car to the other, close to the windows, with a passage way between them.

Several of the nurses paid a visit to the 2nd battalion Hospital today, and were deeply interested in the hospital arrangements. They were shown about the hospital by Surgeon W. E. McPherson and his two assistants, who were much surprised and much more pleased at having the honor of entertaining these ladies. Too much praise cannot be given to those ladies who leave homes of luxry to care for the sick.

The weather continues fine, but the nigts are growing colder, and gloves are necessary articles for guard duty. The boys of Company K were greatly pleased, to receive woolen gloves, purchased by Quartermaster Sergeant Crane, with money from the company fund. This was a surpirse to the boys who were much pleased at Sergeant Crane buying them.

A Niggardly Policy.

Editors Quincy Ledger:

Land has recently been taken in City Square and along Hancock street for public purposes. It was taken by authority of law under what is known, and has been known, at least since the days of the great Dutch jurist the theologian Hugo Grotius (b 1583 d 1645), as "Eminent Domain," a good definition of which is, "that sovereign power vested in the State, by which it can, for all public purposes, take possession of the property of individuals, by paying just compensation therefor."'

This right, originally vested in the ruler or State, is now delegated to municipalities, railroads, and all other kinds of corporations whose duties are of a public nature. The writer knows of instances in this city, besides the takings mentioned above, where it has happened that the sum awarded by the city as compensation has been even less than the assesssed value of the land taken. It seems contrary to the spirit of fairness and justice which should govern these takings and awards, for the authorities to repudiate the acts of their own Board of Assessors, who have placed a certain value on a piece of land, and offer the owner such a niggardly sum as an amount less than even the assessed valuation, in the hope and expectation, which are often fulfiled, that the expense of an appeal to the courts, which must necessarily often cost more than the difference between the niggardly award and what a fair minded jury would award, will coerce an owner into accepting.

It is hardly possible to attribute an award of less than the assessed value, on centrally located property, to any thing other than niggardliness, or the desire to coerce owners into accepting an unfair award through fear of the expense of recourse to the Courts.

Memorial Church.

The sermon last Sunday morning was "A Bird's Eye View of the Gospel of St. John." The pastor portrayed the character as known of St. John, of his tender and loving relation with Jesus and his devotion even in his old age to that spirit of love which seemed to characterize his whole life. The book itself has a special interest for followers of Christ as it contains more than any other of the Bible the direct words of Jesus and is filled with hope and comfort and is a guide in itself for the wayfarer.

The evening service was inspiring in its consideration of the topic of "Helpfulness."

Monday evening occurred the "Barmecide Banquet" given by the Y. P. S. C. E. which had been postponed the previous week on account of the storm. It proved a success. Miss Millie Gassett began the entertainment with "Consomme a la galop," a performance on the piano. Mr. Adams provided the "Tongue" in an original poem. Miss Emery the "Saratoga Chips" in a facetious reading from "Samantha at Saratoag," Miss Lillian Waterhouse the "Roast Turkey" in an essay on the Turk, cocoa and cakes were served to the audience and packages of popped corn tied in Japanese handkerchiefs with ribbon, each bag containing a sentiment, consituting the "Game" and Pudding," Miss Alice Coe in her solo representing the Sweet Pudding Sauce," while the "Scotch Marmalade" was supplied by Miss Mackenzie of West Quincy who recited in Scotch two charming poems. The exercises closed with the joining of all in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

A TURN ABOUT

Roosevelt Money Now Goes Begging.

View of Political Conditions In Various States.

Usual Claims Put Forth In Doubtful Districts.

New York, Nov. 8.—There is a wonderful change in the betting on the gubernatorial race and the odds of 10 to 8 on Van Wyck, which had prevailed for several days, began to wobble yesterday under a pressure of Republican money until by noon even money offered by Colonel Roosevelt's supporters almost went begging. In the afternoon the odds switched over to the Republican candidate, and 10 to 8, and in some instances 2 to 1, was offered on his chances to win. A good amount of this money found takers, but there seemed to be a surplus of Republican money on the market, and much of it went uncared for.

The first attack on the Democratic odds began in Wall street, and bets aggregating $50,000 were made in an hour's time, most of it being at slight odds on Van Wyck, or even money. When, however, the Republican roll made its appearance with "commission layers" at the Hoffman House and the Fifth Avenue hotel, the Democratic bettors demanded odds, which were cheerfully given.

About noon C. H. DeWitt went into Wall street with $26,000, which he offered at 8 to 10 on Van Wyck. Some of it was taken, but the names of the bettors were not made public.

One bet of $5000 to $4500 in favor of Roosevelt is said to have been made in Wall street, and Washington Seligman laid $500 to $450 on Roosevelt and offered several thousand at odds of 10 to 8 on the Republican candidate without a taker.

Bell & Co., who have been placing a number of bets in favor of the Democratic candidate, yesterday laid all the money they had left, about $7900, getting 8 to 10 for some of it. Among the bets made were $2500 against $3000, and $1600 against $2000. They claim they could have placed $50,000 more had they had it.

The following ante-election predictions are made:

Democratic.

Richard Croker—We claim the county by 76,000 and the city by 98,500. Van Wyck will be elected governor of the state of New York by 50,000 plurality. The Republicans may get one congressman from Manhattan and perhaps not even that one, and not more than four assemblymen out of the 35 from Manhattan and the Bronx.

David B. Hill—This is going to be another election like 1882, when the Democrats carried not only New York and Brooklyn, but the rest of the state above the Harlem river. It is a landslide for Van Wyck.

Senator Murphy—The Republican ticket will go down to Spuyten Duyvil creek with a majority of not to exceed 40,000. This will be met by an overwhelming Democratic vote in Greater New York. I expect to hear that the Democratic ticket has been elected by a majority of from 50,000 to 60,000.

John L. Shea, chairman of the Kings county Democratic executive committee—I am conservative in claiming that Van Wyck for governor will have in this county a plurality of not less than 18,000 votes.

Chairman McCarren of the Democratic state executive committee—Van Wyck will be elected and his plurality will approximate 70,000. He will get 100,000 in the Greater New York.

Republican.

Thomas C. Platt—Colonel Roosevelt's election and the election of his associates on the state ticket are assured beyond the shadow of a doubt. Roosevelt will have 100,000 plurality or more.

Chairman O'Dell of the Republican state committee—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will win by 40,000 plurality.

Lieutenant Governor Woodruff—Victory is certain for the Republican ticket.

Chauncey M. Depew—From my experience of years in this sort of campaigning I have no hesitation in saying that the election of Theodore Roosevelt is as certain as if it were all over now.

Michael J. Dady—Roosevelt will carry Kings county by 18,000 plurality.

There are abundant evidences at both Republican and Tammany county headquarters that the two great political parties are watching each other closely and that many challenges will be made by the Republicans at the polls. Tammany will stubbornly insist on the right of the men challenged to vote. It was learned at Republican headquarters that Superintendent of Elections McCallagh's warrants will not be the only interference at the polls. The district captains on both sides will be vigilant, and many challenges from this source are anticipated. Every registered man who has not come up to the required standard of the census will be challenged and made to swear in his vote.

Tammany leaders charged that Superintendent McCullagh will make wholesale efforts to intimidate and preparations have been made to meet this at every point. McCullagh has unearthed a nest of Italians who, he alleges, have been guilty of procuring false papers of naturalization for many of their fellow countrymen. Rosario Calcelone, or Calaguiro, a restaurant keeper, and Guiseppe Marrono, a race track frequenter, and supposed labor contractor, were arrested on the charge of having in their possession fraudulent naturalization papers. The prisoners each gave $2500 bail.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Nov. 8.—The Democrats and Republicans in the Fifth, Seventh, Ninth and Tenth congressional districts claim they will elect their men. It is believed the voting in the Tenth, where Congressman Barrows is opposed by H. F. Naphen (Dem.), will be very close, and that the successful man will not have a large plurality. Bordman Hall, who was a candidate for the Democratic nomination, will support Mr. Barrws.

The friends of Congressman John F Fitzgerald (Dem.) claim he will be re-elected in the Ninth. In addition to the candidacy of Franz H. Krebs (Rep.), Senator Gallivan is running as an independent Democrat, but the district is heavily Democratic and the chances appear slightly in favor of Fitzgerald.

Everybody admits that the vote in Boston is going to be unusually large, for the lively contests in the congressional districts, and for places in the senate and council, have interested the voters to an unusual degree. This will count largely in favor of the Democrats. They say they will get out a Democratic vote of 40,000 this year.

The Fifth and Seventh districts gave big Republican pluralities in 1896. The Democrats have made a terrific fight, and it is thought will greatly reduce the pluralities of that year, but the Republicans claim the districts are in no danger.

All the other districts in the state will be carried easily by the Republicans. Governor Wolcott and the entire state ticket will be re-elected by a plurality conservatively estimated at from 50,000 to 60,000, while the legislature will be strongly Republican.

CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Nov. 8.—Connecticut has rarely seen an election day so commonplace and quiet. Republican managers throughout the state are confident of a victory which will place once more in their hands the reins of the state government, return the four present congressmen to Washington, and give them all of the eight county sheriffs. The Democratic leaders are claiming the state on the state ticket; they announce themselves as sure of electing two congressmen, at least four sheriffs and gaining increased representation in the general assembly. Onlooking Democrats or lay members of that party content themselves with the prediction of a Republican victory in general, but a victory with largely reduced majorities.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Less excitement than usual is reported from all parts of the state. The Democrats are concentrating their claims on the First congressional district, where they say Knowlton is sure to defeat Sulloway (Rep.), who is a candidate for a third term. It is claimed that the city of Manchester will give Knowlton 1500 plurality. The Republicans admit that Sulloway's plurality will be cut down from two years ago, when it was 11,700, but they scout the idea of his defeat as absurd. In the Second congressional district practically the same condition exists. Clarke (Rep.) will be re-elected, but his 12,000 plurality of 1896 will be materially reduced by his Democratic opponent, Warren F. Daniell. On the other hand, it looks as though Frank W. Rollins, Republican candidate for governor, would receive an even larger vote than has been anticipated.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence, Nov. 8.—The Republicans are more sanguine than ever of the return of Congressmen Melville Bull and Adin B. Capron. The election of the Republican candidates has been conceded by the Democrats, and attention has been turned to the constitutional amendment and the municipal election in this and in the other four cities in the state. Mayor Baker (Dem.) will, no doubt, be re-elected in Providence.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Each of the three leading candidates for governor, Stone (Rep.), Jenks (Dem.) and Swallow (Pro

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to R, and today's instalment is the second of the S's:

Ten Days Dead.

A Swede passing near Field & Wild's old quarry Monday afternoon about 4 o'clock found the badly decomposed body of a man at the bottom of the quarry. The medical examiner was notified and ordered the body removed to Hall's undertaking rooms.

The opinion of the medical examiner is that the man had been dead ten days and that it was evidently a case of suicide.

The body was after identified as John Tenney, a teamster, who resided at 158 Granite street and he had a wife and eleven children. He was 61 years of age.

Tenney had been missing for ten days but his family had thought nothing of it. According to the family Tenney has for years threatened to take his own life, so that it had become an old story. He was also in the habit of going away for days at a time. Sometimes he would be gone a month without his family being aware of his whereabouts, so that when he went away a few days ago nothing was thought of it.

The Temperance Rally.

There was a large congregation at Bethany church on Sunday evening at the Temperance rally. The Rev. Mr. Hardy before introducing the speaker publicly thanked Mr. Faxon for the generous gift to the church. The speaker of the evening, Rev. E. V. Taylor of Chicago, spoke for one hour upon the subject. "Citizenship in the Light of Christ and Paul." The address was exceedingly clear and logical and one of the most convincing heard in Quincy for a long time. The line of argument was new and interesting.

A REPUBLICAN DAY

Pleasant Weather Bringing Out Large Vote.

Good Majority for Barrows In This City.

New Vote Counting Machine May Delay Returns.

The indications at one o'clock were that over 3,200 votes would be cast in Quincy at the election today. It is a clear bright beautiful day of normal temperature, familiarly known as a Republican day, and as far as Quincy is concerned it will be a Republican day. Majorities are assured for all the Republican candidates from Governor and Congressman down to Senator and Representatives.

It is not expected that Congressman Barrows will have as large a plurality as in 1896 when he led Bordman Hall by 828, but Republicans are confident it will be over 500, while Democrats do not concede over 200 or 300, and hope to wipe it all out.

Next to the congressional contest the biggest fight is over Senator, and the Democrats are making strenuous efforts to elect Mr. Rivers of Milton; he however, has a majority of 793 to overcome in the city and 2,329 in the district, and the Republicans are not worrying.

There seems to be no doubt about the election of Messrs. Sheppard and Sprague, the Republican candidates to the Legislature.

WARD ONE.

Hazen E. Ricker of Bigelow street was the first man to vote in the Centre ward, and during the first hour the average was about one per minute, the total being 55 at 7 o'clock. At 8 o'clock the total was 124 and at 9 o'clock 203.

Ward One is voting this year in the rear end of the Council chamber, the scene of many a hot town meeting. It makes a much more desirable place, being larger, lighter and better ventilated than the old ward room.

At 10 o'clock the vote had reached 259, at 11 o'clock 298, and at noon 326.

During the noon hour the vote was swelled to 397 and will probably go over 500.

Voting began about 9 o'clock but it is found that the counting board does not expedite matters. It takes the counters about ten minutes longer to a block than under the old way.

Officers Newcomb and O'Brien who are on duty find it very quiet.

Stephen Morse presented himself to vote but his name was not on the list. At least three others wanted to vote in this ward who had to go to other polling places.

It is thought that this ward will give Barrows about 70 votes in 100.

WARD TWO.

The Quincy Point ward is getting out a large vote today. The heavy voting was during the morning hours, and at noon a much larger vote had been cast than at the State election last year.

The only excitement was over the late arrival of grub, for up to 12.30 none had appeared, and the election officers who had not tasted food since before 6 o'clock this morning were getting hungry.

As far as this ward is concerned it is estimated that Barrows will have at least a majority of one hundred.

There are several new elections officers on duty this year but the warden says he does not propose to stay on duty all night counting votes. Counting was commenced early so that when the polls are closed there will not be more than 25 or 50 votes left to count. The counting machines are working all right, but the general impression is that they do not hasten or simplify matters any.

The election officers on duty are: Eugene C. Hultman, Timothy J. Carey, W. H. Sampson, Jr., Daniel J. Ford, George Weston and Morris Newcomb.

At one o'clock the vote was 290.

WARD THREE.

At Ward Three the South Quincy ward, the election is proceeding very quietly and the chances are that a very large vote will not be cast. How the ward will go is a question, but both parties claim it.

During the morning hours the voting in the Democratic precinct was the heaviest of the two. Carriages are in use at both precincts by both parties, and those who do not want to walk can ride.

In this ward the heaviest voting was between 12 and 1 o'clock when the workmen came from dinner.

Mr. Sprague will doubtless be cut in this ward, but just how much is a question. One thing is certain, however, Republicans who do not vote for Mr. Sprague, will not vote for either of the two Democratic candidates. In other words they will shoot bullets.

The officers on duty are as follows:

Precinct One, Dennis J. Ford, W. W. Parry, Abel Nutting, George D. Cahill, James H. Sullivan and W. F. McCalder.

Police Officers, DeForrest and Bradley.

This ward is holding its own with other years and the indications are that a fairly good per cent. of the registered vote will be polled.

In precinct one at 2 o'clock the vote was 303, and in precinct two at the same hour 244.

WARD FOUR.

West Quincy is the banner Democratic ward of the city and no one has any doubt how the ward will go, the only question being by how much majority.

The leaders of the Democracy claim that Mr. Naphen for Congress will go out of the ward with 400 majority. The Republican committee however cut that down some.

Thomas F. Cain claims the ward by 500 majority, but it is a fact that he is being cut to a considerable extent by his own party in his own ward, and according to an estimate by a Democrat in position to know he will be lucky if he gets 250 majority.

The voting during the early morning hours was fully as heavy as other years and at 9 o'clock Precinct two, the Republican precinct led the Democratic precinct by a number of votes. There is no excitement of any kind in either precinct. In precinct two the election officers and others are enjoying their annual feast of apples, provided by Tobias H. Burke.

The officers on duty are:

Precinct One — Cornelius Crowley, John R. Gourd, John W. Burke, James Rooney, Virgil W. Fuller and John Williams. Police, Officers Gordon and Hinchin.

Precinct Two—Nathan Ames, J. W. Dumphy, Matthew Lyons, William D. Burns, Hiram W. Campbell and William H. Teasdale. Police, officers Sandberg and Milford.

The indications at 1 o'clock were that a very light vote for this ward will be cast. The vote in precinct one at 1.15 o'clock was 260 and in precinct two at 1.30 was 271.

WARD FIVE.

As usual Warden Sherman and his election officers were promptly on hand at the polling place in the Polson building at Wollaston. Indications early in the day showed that a moderately heavy vote would be thown. Last year Wolcott polled 279 and all others 65. It is doubtful, in view of the general apathy which is apparent in both parties, if the total vote exceeds 375. There is one factor, however, which will tend to increase it over that number, and that in the lively contest which is being waged in the ward over the two home candidates for the General Court,—Messrs. Sprague and Jordan. Although of diametrical political views both are going to pull out a considerable vote. They are bound to. They are both popular, and what strength they get in their own ward is going to count twofold in the general result.

Then again the Republican Ward Committee wants a large vote out, aside from party consideration, because the number of delegates to which the ward is entitled at all of the Conventions next year depends upon the number of votes cast for the party candidate for governor. The larger the vote the more delegates the Republicans in the ward are entitled to.

In Ward Five at 1.45 the vote cast was 450.

WARD SIX.

Ward Six, the Atlantic ward is getting out a big vote today, and if the indications at noon count for anything it will poll a larger per cent. of its registered vote than usual on State elections. The heavy voting commenced early and at the end of the first hour 97 had voted, this number was increased to 169 at 8 o'clock, 208 at 9; 220 at 10; and 231 at 11 o'clock. Both parties are hard at work getting out the voters and there are fully as many teams in use as in some of the larger wards.

Mr. Edwards claims that the large vote is Democratic, while Mr. McGrath and others claim it to be Republican. Who is right will not be known until the votes are counted tonight.

Police, Officers McCarthy and Landers.

VOTES FOR THE PAST.

The number of voters on the list this year is larger than ever at a State election. Out of the total of 4,025 it is expected that about 3,200 will go to the polls. The following summary shows the vote of 1897 to have been unusually small, only 2,244 voting. In the Presidential year, 1896, Quincy cast 3,570, but this was above the average which is from 3,000 to 3,3200. The summary gives the vote in each precinct:

BRAINTREE.

The voters here were up early this morning and made their way to the Town Hall. No one was obliged to walk, however, for there were plenty teams and an electric car marked "special for Republican voters," made half hourly trips to and from the depot. There has been no excitement, but at 10.30 A. M. 453 ballots had been cast.

Daughters of the Revolution.

Of all the pleasant meetings held by Adams Chapter that of Monday afternoon was a record breaker. Over fifty ladies were present filling the large rooms to overflowing. The afternoon was in charge of South Braintree members, Mrs. Eugene Dyer, Mrs. C. H. Sprague and Mrs. Elisha Thayer and very entertaining and hospitable hostesses they were.

After a brief business meeting Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern of Braintree was introduced and he read a most interesting and witty paper, Reminiscences of a quiet village this side of Plymouth.

He spoke of visiting the well and the old oaken bucket of song fame, telling how the song came to be written and read several verses very feelingly. At the close of Mr. Crathern's remarks he received a hearty encore.

After a well rendered vocal duet by Mrs. French and Miss French of Braintree all joined in singing "The Old Oaken Bucket," closing the afternoon's programme.

During the social hour that followed refreshments were served, Mrs. Thayer presiding at the chocolate urn and Mrs. Dyer and Mrs. Sprague dispensing sandwiches.

The guests of the afternoon were shown over the interesting old house, the room in which John Adams was born being as usual the most attractive spot.

A number of gifts have been received this months in the way of valuable books, papers and furnishings for the house and several costly pieces of furniture are to be loaned the Chapter.

Adams Chapter is constantly growing and will soon reach its limit of one hundred members. The ladies find the monthly meetings very instructive and entertaining. The preservation of the John Adams house is a noble work.

Two whist parties are to be given under the auspices of the Fragment society on the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, November 15, at Colonial hall. Tickets for sale by Mrs. E. G. Pratt Spear strreet, Mrs. Samuel Crane, No. 3 High school avenue, and Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, Foster street.

The two young men, Messrs. Hayden and Fitzgerald, who were connected with the unfortunate accident at a West Quincy crossing, do not think that "they have a death at their door for life," as they had no thought, intent, or desire to injure Mr. Saville, or any one; and they request us to so announce.

A number of the city officials of Salem were in Qnincy Monday investigating street lighting matters: as to cost, efficiency and schedules. The party were met on their arrival by Commissioner Knowlton and Councilman Swithin, who did the honors of the occasion. In the party were Mr. Little, chairman of the Board of Health, and chairman of the Committee on Lights, Mr. Leach of the Council Committee on Street Lighting and Mr. Stillman, superintendent of street lighting.

Rock on the Track.

A large rock which required the united effort of two men to remove was found on the inward track of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. between the Dimmock and Adams street bridges shortly after 5 o'clock Monday night and but a few minutes before the express train was due.

The party who discovered the rock notified the station agent at Quincy who had it removed. A car of granite passed over the line a short time before and the block may have dropped from that, although it is somewhat of a mystery how it could have fallen off a train and landed between the rails.

On the other hand it is hard to believe that anyone would try to wreck a train and at that time of the day. Had the rock not been discovered as it was a frightful disaster must have resulted.

Thirty minutes was all that was required to transact the business before the City Council Monday evening.

Councilmen Badger, Merrick, Prout, and Willard were absent.

ILLEGAL TAX

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Principal Assessor in relation to tax illegally assessed Willard Walsh. To Committee on Finance.

SEWER ASSESSMENTS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Sewer Commissioners in relation to the sewer assessment in which they asked the following questions:

Is railroad property assessable?

Are city lands assessable?

Where a private way leads from a street, or way in which a sewer has been constructed is land included in said private way assessable?

When an easement has been taken, or acquired for building a sewer through private land, is the land abutting on the easement assessable?

Are those portions of the land within one hundred feet of a street, or way in which a sewer has been constructed, which are below the level of the sewer, assessable?

Is it the intention of the Council that in determining the rate of assessments it be so arranged that one half of the cost of the system be assessed upon the assessable area and frontage.

In determining the cost of the system, should the apportionment of $5,000 made for preliminary work be included?

Is the sewerage system as adopted by the City Council sufficiently definite as to its limits for the purpose of assessment?

Has an appropriation been made which can be used to defray the expense of making sewer assessments?

Referred to joint Committee on Finance and Sewers.

BICYCLE RAILWAY.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the City Solicitor in answer to the request for an opinion, if the two petitions of the Bicycle railway were legal petitions. The play which has made thousands laugh is one of the dramatic representations that commands success from the fact that it is a thoroughly home-like and natural play. The Bad Boy plays pranks that you used to do when a boy and you will enjoy it. This year they introduce new scenery, new costumes, new tricks, new songs, in fact everything that is new and up-to-date in the amusement line. Tickets now on sale at Durgin's.

CARD OF THANKS.

To Mr. Henry H. Faxon.

Dear Sir: The Session and Board of Trustees of the First Presbyterian church, on behalf of the Congregation, which expressed its desire by a show of hands at the service Sunday evening, do tender you their heartfelt thanks for your most generous gift of one hundred dollars. The gift was a perfect surprise. We had been working hard all the fall to raise a considerable deficit in our current expenses. We lacked almost exactly one hundred dollars. You have thus given us a clear balance sheet. We thank you also for your gift to the twenty other churches. Every righteous work in Quincy will be strengthened by your generosity. May you have the full enjoyment of your many good deeds.

Yours sincerely,

ROBERT WESTLY PEACH, Moderator,
PETER W. DACKERS, Chairman,
JOHN C. WYLLIE, Clerk.

LETTER FROM CO. K.

Gifts for All the Members—Presentation to Surgeon.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.
Camp Meade, Nov. 4.

The boys have been kept busy today unloading cord wood, several carloads of which arrived this morning.

The members of Co. K each received today a handsome briar wood pipe the gift of Mr. George H. Wilson of Quincy. These pipes were brought from Quincy by Private Newcomb on his return from a furlough. This is not the first time Mr. Wilson has shown his generosity and kindness to the boys. He has shown himself ever since the boys were mustered into the U. S. service, to be one of their best friends. He may rest assured that these gifts although they may seem trivial to him, will not be forgotten when the recipients return to Quincy.

At times we get lonesome, away down here in Pennsylvania, and long to see our relatives and friends whom we have left behind. Such remembrances as those which have just been mentioned, break the monotony of camp life, and remind us that we are not forgotten at home. A battalion of colored infantry left today. The writer was unable to obtain their destination. These colored troops make brave soldiers, and are fully equal, if not the superiors of some of our white troops. That they are fierce fighters, was shown at San Juan, where they saved the day.

The regular evening parade was one of the finest which the 2d battalion has ever performed. The march past the reviewing officer, was from a military point of view, perfect. The boys of K Company had as usual, the best line and distance.

Lieut. W. E. McPherson First Assistant Surgeon has been presented with a beautiful sword, suitably engraved, the gift of Captain Willis W. Stover of Co. A, Charlestown. Lieut. McPherson was in former years a member of the Charlestown company in which city he is well known as a professional physician. He is undoubtedly the most popular officer with the boys in the whole regiment and especially with Company K. Dr. McPherson has charge of the 2d battalion hospital and performs his duties in a most efficient manner. He is one of the few who have risen by their own efforts and on their merit from the ranks to a commission. We extend to him our heartiest congratulations and wishes for further advancement.

The guard detail today was as follows: Corporal D. F. Mahoney, Privates T. F. Martell, J. McCarthy, H. A. McLaughlin, L. F. Olsen, R. Oliver, T. Rafferty, L. G. Restelli, R. P. Roberts, G. F. Rowell, F. Ryan and D. G. Smith

The health of the boys continues good. Volunteer

Art Lecture.

Professor William G. Ward's lecture on "Greek and Roman Art and American History," given at High school hall last evening made an extremely favorable impression on the audience. Mr. Ward is a fluent and pleasing speaker and as one of the audience remarked is "in love with his subject."

The lecture together with the stereopticon exhibition was of very high value in that it gave those present correct ideas about true art, taught them what to admire and what to blame and emphasized that beautiful self-control, the very cornerstone of Grecian greatness whether in the arts of peace or of war.

The entertainment was varied pleasingly by the exhibition of pictures illustrative of English literature and American history.

A free exhibition of Carbon reproductions of Ancient and Modern masterpieces will be held in the High school hall from 2.30 to 4.30 P. M. today.

Citizens wishing to select a picture for presentation to our High school will have an unusual opportunity of doing so afforded them by this attractive art display. Large reproductions of the Sistine Madonna both as a whole and in detail, and Hoffmann's "Christ in the Temple," originals of both of which are in the Dresden gallery will be highly interesting features of the exhibit.

Gift Appreciated.

The Swedish Congregational church of Garfield street desire to return thanks to their generous friend, Henry H. Faxon, Esq., who so kindly remembered the church with a Thanksgiving offering. The gift is much appreciated and we shall always strive to promote the objects for which the $100 was given. We wish Mr. Faxon God's blessing.

Citizens' Temperance Committee Reorganizes for 1898.

The Citizens' Temperance Committee met at the Y. M. C. A. buliding Monday evening and reorganized for the No-License campaign in connection with the City election.

The officers of last year were re-elected, viz:

Chairman, C. T. Sherman.
Secretary, W. F. Hoehn.
Treasurer, Jonas Shackley.

At the suggestion of the secretary, it was also voted to elect an assistant secretary, and John B. Ramsdell.

A resolution was adopted limiting the committee to the clergymen of the city, to those who contribute fifty cents or more to the campaign.

It was voted to appoint committees on meetings, publicity, address, and subscriptions, but they were not named at the meeting.

The committee last year expended a little over $200 in addition to expenses paid by Mr. Faxon, an $200 or more is wanted for this year's work.

It is probable that the committee may this year contract with the newspapers of the city for a column or more space in each issue, to present local views on the license question.

Voted to meet every Monday evening.

Last year, 3427 went to the polls and 3,241 voted on the License question. The result was 2,047 No, and 1,194 Yes. The majority of 853 was the largest since 1892, and 149 larger than in the preceding year. The summary by years.

Co. K. Man Surprised.

As Harry L. Chase, one of the popular members of Co. K, who is at home from Camp Meade on a furlough, responded to a vigorous ring of the doorbell at the home of his parents on Washington street, South Braintree, Monday evening, he at first thought that the whole 5th regiment was serenading him, as he recognized the familiar strains of the "Dandy Fifth." But it proved to be a party of forty-five of his friends who had assembled to greet him after an absence of several months, and also to give him a royal send-off, as he returns to camp life again.

The young people lost no time in getting acquainted with each other and it can be truly said there were no "wall flowers" visible. Games were indulged in and refreshments served. While a very amusing game was in progress Mr. Walter Belyea stepped forward and in a few appropriate words presented Private Chase with a sum of money as a token of the high esteem in which he is held. One could readily see that Harry was taken very much by surprised by the expression which came over his face but he was equal to the occasion and responded feelingly.

A speech was called for and he gave his friends a splendid account of his camp life.

Games were once more in progress and continued until a late hour. Private Chase returned to Camp Meade today.

Among those present were:

Edith M. Stoddard, Nellie M. Borden, Hannah Learned, Emily T. Young, Jennie Bishop Grace White, Edith May Hill, Eva M. Snow Josie Belyea, Mrs. H. A. Bates, Elsie Stoddard, Alice E. MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

A TURN ABOUT.

and honest government), will have a sufficient number of votes for election, according to the claims of the respective party leaders. Aside from these claims the county reports indicate a plurality for Stone, the Republican candidate. Jenks, however, has the benefit of a harmonized party. While Dr. Swallow will undoubtedly receive a heavy vote, there are indications of a falling off in the Swallow vote, following in consequence of the recent development of increased prospects of the success of Jenks. Some of the prominent independent voters have in the last few days announced their intention to support Jenks.

The Republican and Democratic state chairmen concede Swallow from 150,000 to 200,000 votes, and each claims that his respective candidate will be the only one to receive over 400,000 votes. The Republican chairman claims 131,000 plurality for Stone, while the Democratic chairman figures out a plurality of 35,000 for Jenks, and the Prohibition chairman claims 69,000 plurality for Swallow.

In the congressional contests it is generally believed the Democrats will be successful in four or five districts now represented by Republicans. The present delegation to congress from the state is composed of 27 Republicans and three Democrats.

There is no reason to doubt that the Republicans will have a strong working majority in the new legislature, which will elect a United States senator.

NEW JERSEY.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 8.—The congressional elections, it is thought, will show Democratic gains of two or three in the delegation of eight. The most probable complexion of the congressional delegation seems to be five Republicans and three Democrats.

INDIANA.

Indianapolis, Nov. 8.—The indications are that the vote cast in Indiana will be about 10 percent short of that of 1896. The campaign by the Republicans has been more aggressive than that of the Democrats. Each side is claiming the state. Not since 1872 have the people of the state, in an off year, voted to sustain the administration in power at Washington. The Republicans claim to have taken the most complete poll in the history of the state, and which indicates a Republican majority of 28,000. The Democrats have not made public their poll. Of the 13 congressional districts four are certain to go Republican and four Democratic; the other five are in doubt.

OHIO.

Cincinnati, Nov. 8.—Leaders on both sides are claiming gains on congressmen in Ohio. The Democrats claim a close vote on the state ticket because of factional feeling among certain Republicans who opposed Senator Hanna last January. As state elections in Ohio are held annually the returns will be compared with last year and not with the vote for congressmen two years ago, when McKinley had 51,000 plurality. The Republican plurality last year was 28,000, and the Democrats claim gains on it as well as on congressmen.

MICHIGAN.

Detroit, Nov. 8.—Justin B. Whiting, Democratic candidate for governor of Michigan, expresses confidence of defeating Governor Pingree. Democratic state committee officials predict that the disaffection among old line Republicans against Governor Pingree will assure his defeat. They expect to elect half of the 12 congressmen, an increase of four over the present number of Democrats. At Republican state committee headquarters it is claimed that Governor Pingree will receive as large a vote proportionately as he did two years ago, when his plurality ran up to 83,400. The Republicans claim about all the congressmen.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The chairman of the Democratic state committee is positive that his party will carry the state by a good plurality and gain several congressmen. The chairman of the Republican state committee is equally sure that the Republicans will be victorious. The indications are that very nearly a full registered vote will be cast.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 8.—Chairman Dawson of the Republican state committee says the Republicans will elect all four congressmen in this state and a majority of the legislature, insuring the election of a United States senator to succeed Faulkner. Chairman Onley of the Democratic state committee says that the legislature will be Democratic on joint ballot by a narrow margin, and that the Democrats will carry two of the four congressional districts and may carry all.

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Nov. 8.—There is probably as much uncertainty in the outlook as has ever been known in Minnesota. The Democrats claim that Lind will be elected by from 15,000 to 20,000, and also claim three and possibly four of the seven congressmen. Republican Chairman Steel claims everything, but gives no figures, while other Republican leaders believe that Eustis will be elected governor by 10,000 to 15,000 majority.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Charleston, Nov. 8.—The only feature of the election is the preparations of the Republicans to make contests before the next house for seats of congressional representatives. They have candidates in all districts and have arranged a watching system in hope of securing evidence of fraud.

TENNESSEE.

Nashville, Nov. 8.—Indications are that the vote in this state will be much smaller than that polled two years ago. The Democratic state executive committee claim that McMillin, the Democratic candidate for governor, will be elected by 10,000 majority. The Republicans are making no predictions.

COLORADO

Denver, Nov. 8.—There are signs of a snowstorm before the balloting ends today. A heavy snowfall in the mountain region would help the Republican party by reducing the vote in the mining camps. The Republicans practically concede the election of the fusion candidate for congress, John C. Bell.

NEBRASKA.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 8.—Nebraska will cast a heavier vote than a year ago and little if any behind that of 1896. Republican managers claim that every candidate on their state ticket will be elected by at least 5000 majority; that the candidates for congress will be elected by safe majorities and that the legislative ticket will be elected. The fusionists are equally confident of carrying the state.

VIRGINIA.

Richmond, Nov. 8.—There is no reason to change previous forecasts that the Democrats will certainly carry eight of the 10 congressional districts in Virginia and have more than a fighting chance in the two others.

FLORIDA.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 8.—Today's election in Florida is absolutely without feature, and there is little doubt of general Democratic success.

UTAH.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 8.—The election is bringing out a large vote. The campaign has been bitter and has centered on the candidates of the two leading parties for congress. An accurate forecast of the result is impossible.

WYOMING.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Nov. 8.—The indications point to a close election today. The Democrats have made their strongest fight for governor and members of congress, and their candidates for those offices may run ahead of their ticket. Both the Democrats and the Republicans claim everything.

ARIZONA.

Phoenix, A. T., Nov. 8.—Arizona today elects a delegate to congress to succeed M. A. Smith, Democrat. The Republicans nominated A. O. Brodie of Roosevelt's rough riders, and the Democrats J. F. Wilson, an ex-Confederate veteran. Brodie has taken the stand that statehood is the main issue before the people, and that if elected he will have much influence to secure this boon. Wilson claims that silver is the vital question.

MONTANA.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 8.—If the weather continues fair a large vote will be polled today. The defection of the labor vote from the Democratic nominees for congress and the active campaign made by the straight and silver Republicans make the outcome of the election hard to surmise.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—Everything is running smoothly in California. Both fusion and Republican leaders claim they will win, but the Republicans seem to be a little more certain. Weather conditions are perfect.

TEXAS.

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 8.—The state today will go Democratic. In the congressional elections the only doubtful districts are the Tenth and Twelfth.

WASHINGTON.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 8.—Washington may be placed in the doubtful column. The fusion committee claims the fusionists will carry the state by over 8000. Republicans claim it by 2000 to 4000.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 8.—Both parties are claiming a victory on the state ticket, but the fusionists practically concede the election of the Republicans.

Barkentine Long Overdue.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Anxiety is growing relative to the present whereabouts of the ill-fated barkentine Herbert Fuller, which left New York with a general cargo 74 days ago bound to Pernambuco, Brazil, where she was due to arrive some weeks ago, but whose arrival has not yet been cabled to local agents. It is quite possible that the craft has failed to reach her destination on account of the severe hurricanes which swept the southern coast, and, if not lost, it is thought she has been badly damaged.

It was on this craft that Captain Nash, his wife and second mate were murdered at sea, for the commission of which crimes Mate Bram is now serving a life sentence. It is barely possibly that the craft may have reached her destination, and that her skipper, a relative of the murdered captain, may have thought it would be suitable to inform his agents of arrival by letter, which would be brought by steamer to New York.

She is a vessel of 697 tons net register, built at Harrington, Me., in 1890, and owned by Swan & Sons of Machias, Me.

Homeless and Friendless.

New York, Nov. 8.—The 16 Cubans who were recently released by the Spanish government from the prison at Ceuta, and who arrived here last week, were released from the barge office yesterday and allowed to go, penniless and homeless, into the streets. They applied for help at the Cuban junta, but were turned away with the reply that no funds were available for them. Afterwards it was declared that the Cuban junta would take care of them for the night. When the men were released from the prison they were forwarded to this country by the United States consul at the expense of this government. No arrangements were made for their reception on this side nor for their transportation from this port to Cuba.

A Thousand a Month

Cleveland, Nov. 8.—Franklin Ranson of this city, who went to Terra del Fuego 18 months ago in quest of gold, has returned with nearly $18,000 in gold. Ranson will return to South America in the spring. He says all the gold is obtained from placer mines, or is washed out of a magnetic black sand that is thrown up on the seashore. This sand sometimes runs $1.80 to the pan. The belt of black sand lies under the low tide level, so it is necessary to wait for a storm to wash it up in reach of the miners.

ROBBERY AND ASSAULT

In Complaint Against a Consular Agent and His Wife.

Hotel Man Says "Badger Game" Was Worked.

Handsome Woman, Injured Husband and Revolver Figure in the Case.

New York, Nov. 8.—Two distinguished prisoners were escorted to the police court yesterday by Detective Sergeants Cuff and McNaught from police headquarters, where they had been locked up all night on a charge of working the badger game upon Proprietor Martin Mahon of the New Amsterdam hotel at the Hotel Grenoble, Seventh avenue and Fifty-sixth street, last Friday night.

The prisoners were William A. E. Moore, who has credentials as President McKinley's United tSates consular agent at Durban, Natal, South Africa, and lives in Cleveland, and his wife, Mrs. Frayne Moore, who is said to be the daughter of former Chief Justice Strahan of Oregon. The woman is 21 and pretty. She dresses well and has a predilection for diamonds. It is this fondness for diamonds, the police say, that got her into trouble, and they further hint that her husband enforced his demand for reparation at the point of a big revolver.

Three years ago, Mahon said, he met Mrs. Moore, then Miss Frayne Strahan of Portland, Ore., at a dinner at his hotel. She lunched at the hotel every day and they became so friendly that he loaned her a diamond horse-shoe scarf pin, which she promised to return last Friday at the Hotel Metropole.

Mahon and Mrs. Moore dined at the Metropole, and he gladly accepted an invitation to accompany her to her apartments in the Grenoble. There Mrs. Moore complained of the heat, doffing her street dress, put on a fetching wrapper and urged Mahon to take off his coat and make himself comfortable. He says he didn't.

They had not long resumed their tete-a-tete when the door suddenly opened and Moore rushed in, and, whipping out a big revolver, demanded of Mahon what he was doing there.

Mahon tried to explain, he said, when the woman threw herself at Moore's feet, confessed that she was guilty and begged him to spare her life and Mahon's.

Moore gave his pistol another flourish and demanded of Mahon that he confess. He wouldn't at first, but when he gazed into the 48-calibre muzzle he guessed again.

Meanwhile Mrs. Moore had drawn up a "confession" of her guilt, with dates and places, and signed it. Mahon took another look at the 48-calibre muzzle and signed.

Then Moore demanded a $50,000 ointment for his lacerated heart. Mahon couldn't see it, and Moore lowered the stakes to $5000, half to be paid the next night and the remainder Monday night, when he was to be given the confession as a souvenir of the occasion. Just before Mahon left, he said, Moore took his $500-diamond pin and $167 in loose change as an evidence of his good will.

The grand jury yesterday indited both Moore and his wife for robbery and Moore for assault.

Archbishop In Hospital.

Baltimore, Nov. 8.—Archbishop Gross of Portland, Ore., is at St. Joseph's hospital, under treatment for heart trouble. He arrived here three weeks ago to recuperate his health, but became ill while conducting a retreat. Cardinal Gibbons, a number of the Catholic clergy and numerous personal friends of the archbishop have called on him. The physicians report that his condition is slightly improved.

Case Suspended.

Boston, Nov. 8.—Judge Lowell, in the district court, was about to hear a motion in the case of W. H. Battzell vs. J. R. Cox, yesterday, when the counsel for the defendant called the attention of the court to the fact that Lawyer F. C. Chappell, who represented the plaintiff, had been disbarred by the courts of Maryland. The case was immediately suspended.

Army Assignments.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The war department has decided to send the Eighth cavalry regiment to the province of Porto Principe in advance of the Fifteenth infantry or the Third Georgia. Six troops each of the Eighth are to be sent to Nuevitas and Porto Principe, the capital of the province. The transport Manitoba will take the Eighth to Cuba.

Capture Seems Certain.

Cairo, Nov. 8.—Khalfi Abdullah, the defeated dervish leader, is hard pressed on the frontier of Kordofan, southwest of Khartoum, by natives friendly to the Anglo-Egyptian expedition, and it is believed that his capture is imminent. Ali Shereef, his son-in-law, is already a prisoner, and is being brought back to Khartoum.

A $15,000 Fire.

Boston, Nov. 8.—The provision store of Herman L. Hoffman, on the basement floor at 137 Eliot street, caught fire this morning, and the flames shot up through the unoccupied stories to the roof, necessitating a hard fight on the part of the firemen. The building was damaged to the extent of $10,000, while Mr. Hoffman's loss will be $5000.

No Decision.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 8.—A boxing carnival was held at the Casino last night. The star bout was that between "Spike" Sullivan of Boston and Martin Riley of this city, in which the former had everything his own way. No decision was given.

Lindsay Arraigned.

East Greenwich, R. I., Nov. 8.—Samuel Lindsay, colored, was arraigned in the district court yesterday, charged with murdering Miss Lippitt at Pawtuxet Cove Saturday night. After the warrant was read the prisoner said there was no necessity for his pleading, as it was just as the facts were. He said he was glad of it, and sorry he did not kill the man. When told the woman was dead Lindsay laughed heartily. He was held for the grand jury in December and was taken to Kent county jail.

An Illinois Lynching.

Lacon, Ills., Nov. 8.—The first lynching in central Illinois in many years took place here yesterday morning, when 100 miners from Toluoa, a mining town, broke into the county jail, took out F. W. Stewart, a negro, and hanged him to a tree. Stewart's crime was assault upon Mary O'Brien, daughter of a Toluoa miner. There is a general impression that the negro was punished as he deserved, and no special effort is being made to discover the identity of the members of the mob.

More Sittings.

Madrid, Nov. 8.—Members of the cabinet assert that there will be three or four sittings of the peace conference at Paris. The Bank of Spain has advanced to the treasury 60,000,000 pesetas for current expenses.

Greek Cabinet Resigns.

Athens, Nov. 8.—The cabinet has resigned, its members considering that the exceptional circumstances under which they assumed office have ceased to exist.

"How Do I Look?"

How frequently a woman asks this question! How much thought and study she devotes to it! It is natural. A woman hates to think that she is growing day by day less charming and attractive and youthful to her husband's eyes than in the days of courtship.

A woman may always retain her charms and the vivacity and freshness of youth if she will take the proper care of her health. A tremendous percentage of ill-health in women is due to weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an unfailing remedy for all disorders of this nature. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, stops debilitating drains and soothes and tones the nerves. It preserves in a woman all the charm of healthy youth. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

"Favorite Prescription" is sold by all respectable dealers in medicines. Deal only where you are honestly treated. Any storekeeper who tries to give you a substitute for what you demand is not treating you honestly and you should take your trade elsewhere.

"For nine years I have suffered with falling of internal organs," writes Mrs. Mary Williams, of Raleigh, Wake Co., N. C. (Box 196). "I was troubled with bearing down pains. I had indigestion and female weakness and nervousness. I could not sleep at night. I was constipated and had urinal trouble. The doctor here said that no medicine would reach my disease. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant 'Pellets' have cured me."

BY ABSORPTION

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

Republicans Show Falling Off In Plurality.

Returns Show Success of Republicans in Pennsylvania.

Ohio's Plurality Exceeds McKinley's in 1896.

Returns from Many of the States May Have to Be Corrected.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Intense interest was manifested in the election returns here last night. The results of the various state and congressional district campaigns, to which so much attaches in Washington, attracted thousands to the bulletin boards in front of the newspaper offices. The theaters and clubs received bulletins, the two congressional headquarters had special wires and long distance telephone service for those who were figuring up the result of the battle for the control of the next house of representatives.

Perhaps in no city in the country outside of the Empire state was the result of the gubernatorial contest of such interest as in Washington, where Colonel Roosevelt has spent half a dozen years as civil service commissioner and assistant secretary of the navy, and where he is so well known. But the chief interest, of course, centered in the complexion of the next house. Legislation during the coming two years, support of the administration and many hundreds of offices were involved in the result, and the returns from the close districts were eagerly scrutinized by the congressional campaign managers of both committees.

The following summary will show the latest figures on the house:

NEW YORK.

Roosevelt Carries the State by a Plurality Estimated at 18,000 to 20,000.

New York, Nov. 9.—Theodore Roosevelt (Rep.) has been elected governor of this state by a plurality anywhere from 18,000 to 20,000. All Colonel Roosevelt's associates on the Republican state ticket are probably elected with him. The returns from both Greater New York and the counties outside of this municipality are incomplete, but enough have been received to indicate a heavy falling off in the vote up the state, while that in the city was well sustained. The consequence is a falling off in the Republican plurality in the state from 212,000 and over to the approximated figures given above. Outside of Greater New York the vote for Van Wyck is only about 11-6 of 1 percent above that of Porter in 1896. There appears to be a loss of four Republican congressmen in the Brooklyn districts, the Second, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth. In the Albany district, the Twentieth, Glynn (Dem.) has been elected to succeed Southwick (Rep.).

teenth congressional district, this city, was early conceded by the Quigg managers. The political friends of Captain Chanler declared him elected by over 10,000 majority.

The fight in the Fourteenth district was one of the hardest of the campaign. The district went Republican by over 12,000 plurality in 1896 and over 8000 in 1897.

There are, seemingly, Democratic gains also in the Eighth and Thirteenth districts, both of this city, Daniel J. Riordan being elected in the one and Jefferson Levy in the other. This makes a total Democratic gain of seven congressmen.

Every condition was favorable to the polling of a full vote in all parts of the state. In this city there was no fulfilment of predictions of trouble at the polls. The state deputies authorized by act of the last legislature were most in evidence in the East Side districts, where the cheap lodging houses are located. The number of arrests made was below the usual record of a general election, and in many cases the occasion was found to be in the carelessness of registration clerks. Fights at the polls were few and easily quelled. There was no friction between deputies and police, one lending assistance to the other in the preservation of order.

Enough returns from assembly districts have been received to show the probable election of 80 Republicans and 61 Democrats, with nine districts doubtful or not heard from. Conceding all the latter to the Democrats the Republicans will still have a majority of 10 in the assembly and 14 on joint ballot. This computation, if borne out by official returns, will mean the election of a Republican to the United States senate in place of Edward Murphy, Jr. (Dem).

The state senate will probably stand 27 Republicans and 23 Democrats. The last senate contained 35 Republicans, 14 Democrats and 1 independent.

NEW JERSEY.

Trenton, Nov. 9.—New Jersey has been carried by the Republicans, and Foster M. Voorhees, the Republican candidate, is elected governor by about 12,000 majority. Essex county, which was concededly the fighting ground of both sides, has gone Republican by about 5000, and both houses of the legislature will be Republican. This will insure the election of a Republican to succeed James Smith, Jr., (Dem.) in the United States senate. Ex-Congressman John Kean is conceded to be the choice of the Republicans as Senator Smith's successor. The Democrats have elected two of the eight congressmen. Salmon in the Fourth district and Daly in the Seventh.

Only one state senator has been elected by the Democrats. This will make the senate stand 14 Republicans to 7 Democrats. The assembly will probably stand 40 Republicans and 20 Democrats. This is allowing to the Republicans the two from Middlesex county, which is very close.

DELAWARE.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 9.—Returns received from the state thus far indicate that the Republicans have elected their state, congressional and legislative tickets. This estimate, if verified by the full returns, indicates the election of a Republican successor to United States Senator Gray and a gain of one Republican congressman. The adherents of Edward H. Addicks claim that he will control a majority of the Republicans elected to the legislature, and he will be the next senator from Delaware.

Two Republican Congressmen Defeated by Democrats.

Rollins Is Chosen Governor of New Hampshire.

Connecticut and Rhode Island Also Stand In the Republican Column.

Boston, Nov. 9.—The returns from the state indicate that Governor Wolcott has been re-elected by over 60,000 plurality. The governor carried the city of Boston by over 4000 plurality. The Democrats elected Naphen and Fitzgerald to congress from the Boston districts. The election of Thayer in the Third district came as a genuine surprise, even Democrats being doubtful of their ability to carry the district. The other districts are conceded to the Republicans.

Ramsdell in the Seventh and Flynn in the Fifth made big gains, but not enough to overcome the lead of their Republican opponents.

The Democrats made gains in both the house and senate.

The election in Suffolk county resulted in favor of Stevens (Dem.) for district attorney and O'Brien for sheriff by large majorities.

LOGER WOLCOTT

The most bitter and exciting fight was in the Ninth district between the regular Democrats and the independent Democrats, led by Martin M. Lomasney. It resulted in a Waterloo for the independents. Fitzgerald was re-elected to congress by an increased plurality and Quirk was successful over Holden (Rep.) for the governor's council.

CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Nov. 9.—Connecticut's election resulted exactly as forecasted, and complete returns from all of the 168 towns in the state show a substantial Republican victory, in which the state ticket, headed by George C. Lounsbury of Ridgefield, for governor, received majorities of about 16,000; four Republican congressmen, all present incumbents, were returned; a general assembly, Republican, with a joint ballot vote of 217 against 79 Democrats elected, and Republican sheriffs in all of the eight counties chosen.

Comparison of the gubernatorial vote of this year with that of 1896 show that the Republican majorities of 50,000 in the presidential year were greatly reduced. In the congressional districts, three Republicans were returned with ease, while in the Second district, which had been considered doubtful, Mr. Sperry (Rep.).

NAPHEN ELECTED.

He Carries the Tenth District by Over 3,000.

In a square man to man fight, without any independent candidates, the Tenth Congressional district has proved itself a Democratic stronghold. Henry F. Naphen of South Boston, who is elected to Congress, had 16,884 votes to 13,815 for the present Congressman, Samuel J. Barrows. Six of the nine Boston wards gave Mr. Naphen majorities, while Mr. Barrows carried Quincy and Milton and three of the Boston wards. Ward 16 was the only Boston ward to change over from Republican to Democratic. Barrows vote, however, was less everywhere. Mr. Naphen made an aggressive and clean fight, and Quincy is pleased to know it is to have a federal building and improvements to Town River.

The Tables Turned.

Two Hancock House gunners went on one of their expeditions one day recently and when they came home they exhibited five handsome ducks. They also complained bitterly at the ignorance of some one from Wollaston who shot at their tame decoys and thought that anyone who did not know a tame duck had no business to go gunning, to which everybody in the hotel office agreed. The five wild ducks that our friends had shot were sent to the Boston market. The next day, however, the ducks came back from Boston with a note attached wanting to know if the senders did not know a tame duck from a wild duck for it turned out that our friends had themselves shot tame, or decoy ducks. The laugh is now on the two professional gunners, and their fellow boarders are of course making it pleasant for them.

VOTE ANALYZED.

Quincy again recorded herself as a strong Republican city at the State election of Tuesday, giving every candidate of that party a large majority. That for Governor Wolcott was "a rouser," he lacking only 19 votes of leading Mr. Bruce a round thousand. The vote was: Wolcott 1,976; Bruce 995. The Governor ran fully 150 votes ahead of his ticket showing the high esteem of the people, and an endorsement of the management of State affairs. The pluralities for all the State officers who are re-elected were large.

The total vote of the city was 3,187. This was 943 larger than last year, but 363 less than in the Presidential election of 1896. At the same time it was 158 more than in the year 1895.

Congressman Barrows ran behind his ticket about the same as in 1896. He lost in Wards One, Two, Three, and Six over his vote in that year, and gained in Wards Four and Five. It should be remmbered that the total vote was over ten per cent. less than in that year. Mr. Naphen, the Democratic candidate, who was elected in the district, did not receive as many votes as the two candidates who opposed Mr. Barrows in 1896, but he made gains on the vote of Bordman Hall in every ward, and led him 286 in the city. The total vote was: Barrows, 1,727; Naphen, 1,276; and there were 180 blanks. Congressman-elect Naphen ran ahead of his ticket over 300 votes.

It will be Senator Woodsum from this district, Braintree man receiving 1,804 votes in Quincy to 1,171 for Mr. Rivers of Milton, a majority of 633. The district vote is given elsewhere.

The city reelected two Republican Representatives to the General Court, both of whom will enter on their first year of service. Mr. Sheppard was the leading candidate and the order and vote were: Sheppard 1,793; Sprague, 1,552; Cain, 1,193; Jordan, 1,083 There were as usual a large number of blanks, 753.

The city gave the Republican candidates for Norfolk county offices handsome majorities. Blanchard for County Commissioner was cut some but had 655 over Sanderson. For Special Commissioners Everett and Whitaker lead Martin and Quinn by large majorities. District Attorney Harris went out of Quincy with 776 majority. For Register and Sheriff there was no contest, but many did not vote for the candidate of both parties.

THE RETURNS.

The first complete returns were received at 5.05 from Ward Four, precinct two, and they were followed a few minutes later by Ward Three, precinct two. Then came the other precinct in Ward Four, and after a wait of half an hour Ward Two and the second precinct in Ward Three. Ward Five followed next, then Ward One, and Ward Six last at 8.30.

Early in the evening returns of the vote for Congressmen and Representatives were reported, and by these it was easily figured out that Barrows would carry the city by 400 or 500, and that Messrs. Sheppard and Sprague were elected.

The election committee received the returns in the City Treasurer's office and the narrow passage way leading to the City Clerk's room was packed until the last ward was heard from. There was but little excitemen, as it was a general conclusion that Sheppard and Sprague would be elected, and the interest centered in the Congressional vote.

Both Candidate Cain and Jordan were at City Hall early in the evening but had nothing to say. Mr. Sheppard was also there and of course felt pleased with his election. Mr. Sprague was at home sick, but he was with the boys in spirit, not, however, of the "Game Cock" kind that was conspicuous in some wards during the day.

After the last return at City Hall was in, many went to Republican headquarters where the returns from Boston and elsewhere were received, and an effort was made to burn a box of cigars which Mr. Sheppard had sent up.

At 10 o'clock City Square was almost deserted except on the arrival of the Boston trains.

ECHOES OF ELECTION.

A remarkably heavy vote was thrown at Wollaston, 481. This was largely due to the Representative contest.

Representative-elect Sheppard is of Legislative stock. His father was in the Legislature in 1878. Mr. Sheppard married a daughter of Asa T. Pratt, who also served in the House in 1871.

Charles C. Mellen of Braintree, one of the Republican candidates in the Braintree-Weymouth district was defeated by John B. Whelan of Weymouth. The vote in Braintree was: Mellen 473, Hawes 413, and Whelan 305. In Weymouth Whelan led with 999, Hawes had 874 and Mellen 768. The totals: Whelan, 1,304; Hawes, 1,287; Mellen, 1,241.

The election officers in the several voting precincts all seem to take kindly to the new vote counting machine; their opinion being that it was very handy, although it was no quicker than the old method.

The Board of Registrars were on duty all day at City Hall but found little to do.

It was rather a close vote for Congressman in Ward Six. Both parties claimed the ward up to the time the vote as announced by a large majority.

Governor Wolcott had over 80,000 plurality in the State.

In Hyde Park Representative district Walter S. Weston, Republican, was elected, defeating Samuel A. Tuttle the Democratic and Citizens candidate by a vote of 1,115 to 837. Tuttle was backed by the Morrell ring.

Candidate Sprague is confined to his home with a cold, and therefore could not go to headquarters to hear the news. It was carried to him however.

The election officers were not over pleased with the quantity of food furnished them. The quality was all right but the quantity was lacking.

Election returns were received and distributed by the New England Telephone Co. gratuitously to subscribers.

Councilman Hill has a good voice to announce returns, and none complained that they could not hear.

It was a very orderly gathering at City Hall to get returns and there was but little enthusiasm.

It seems as though it would have been more satisfactory if the Election Committee had received and announced the returns in the Council chamber instead of the City Treasurer's office.

Now for the municipal election.

The politicians have already begun to get in their work for the caucuses which will be held next week.

WOODSUM ELECTED.

Has a Handsome Majority for Senator in First District.

It will be Senator Woodsum in the First Norfolk district. He was re-elected over George R. R. Rivers of Milton by a vote of nearly two to one.

The total is Woodsum, 5,779; Rivers, 2,932; an increase of nearly 1,000 votes for each candidate. The vote for the two years follows:

LETTER FROM CO. K.

The Regiment Now Expects to Move Saturday.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.,
Camp Meade, Nov. 7.

Today has been cold and chilly. The nights are growing colder; a heavy white frost making its appearance every morning.

Today all the drills have been postponed on account of the boys being detailed to the commissary stores. A train of thirty-five cars of wood pulled into the freight yard last night, this is the largest consignment of wood yet received. The whole 2d battalion were detailed to unload these cars and by tonight the cars will be ready to ship back to the place from whence they came.

The boys are feeling tired, so that tonight it is noticeable that few are outside of their quarters. A large number turned in for slumber at a little after seven.

We have not moved our camp to higher ground as we expected, but presume we shall tomorrow (Tuesday).

We expect to leave Camp Meade for Greenville, S. C., on this coming Saturday, if orders are not changed. The 2d Division Headquarters are packing all their accoutrements ready for transportation, so we have every indication to believe that our departure is not far distant.

The guard detail for today is as follows: Corporal Foster, Privates Gilbride, Hodges, Hennessey, Jones, Johnson, Kelliher, Leslie, Levangie and Leonard. The orderly selected was a well known bowler, Private Frank M. Hodges.

Private D. F. Dennison better known to the company as "Major" is found daily attending to the heating apparatus which connects with our noted bathhouse.

The boys are still enjoying good health. Volunteer.

WEYMOUTH.

A meeting of the members of the Parish Society connected with the Union church of Weymouth and Braintree, was held Tuesday evening. Three new members were admitted to the society after which important business was transacted.

John B. Whelan, Democratic candidate for representative from this district defeated Martin E. Hawes, the Republican candidate at the polls yesterday. Although Weymouth is 500 Republicans usually, Mr. Whelan won out by a good majority in the town and district. Mr. Whelan is a very popular young man.

Tuesday afternoon about forty of the pupils of the High school met in room eight for the purpose of organizing a glee-club. Not much progress was made, as there was a very small number of tenors present. A committee was appointed to canvass the different classes to secure tenors. The committee and others interested will meet again Thursday afternoon.

An orchestra has been organized at the High school, and soon will be prepared to fill engagements. Fred V. Garey '91, will act as leader.

Wollaston Unity Club.

It is not too late to begin the course of study with the Unity club, the subject for the winter being Italy. The second meeting of the study course, will be held on Friday evening beginning promptly at eight o'clock.

The evening is in charge of Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop. The historical paper on "The Guelpho and Ghibbelines; Sicilian Vespers; and Joanna of Naples," is to be given by Miss Wood of the Quincy Mansion school.

The Rev. James E. Bagley is to tell of Dante; Miss H. E. Turner of Fra Angelico, and Luini and F. H. Bishop of Rossini and Paganini

The works of these musicians are to be interpreted under direction of Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith and this part of the programme alone will be a treat for an evening.

Mr. Charles W. Allen of Boston will render violin selections from Paganini; Mrs. Allen will give selection from Rossini, and a chorus of twenty voices with Prof. Marceau, as conductor, are to sing 'Inflammatus" from Stabat Mater and "Prayer" from Moses in Egypt. Mrs. Smith will be the accompanist.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

WAS A FORGERY.

John B. Early Repudiates the Sprague Card

The Ledger called attention yesterday to the scurrilous card signed by John B. Early of Rustic place, giving fourteen reasons why Mr. Sprague should, or rather should not, go to the Legislature. This card was largely circulated in Wards Two, Three and Four. It was to be circulated in Ward Five, but Mr. Jordan the candidate from that section positively refused to have it circulated in his interest.

To the citizen who likes clean politics the card was looked upon as a dirty piece of work, although it doubtless did its work among a certain class. The printer of that card, and the parties who circulated it, however, are liable to arrest, and fine or imprisonment, for Mr. Early in an interview with a Representative of the Ledger Tuesday evening stated that he never signed the card in question, and did not give permission to have his name used, and, furthermore, that the first he knew of it was when one was thrown at him upon his arrival home from Boston Tuesday evening. The following statement from Mr. Early explains itself.

Editors of the Ledger:

I, J. B. Early, wish to state that I never signed the card circulated detrimental to Eugene H. Sprague purporting to be signed by me. To-night is the first time I saw the card, on my arrival from Boston.

John B. Early,
Rustic Place.

The many pleasure seekers who enjoyed the series of socials that were given in Music hall, Atlantic, during last winter are looking forward for the pleasure of them again this winter, as they are soon to be resumed.

The Sunday School of the Water Street Presbyterian church held a harvest home concert Tuesday evening; subject — "The rainbows promised light." There were decorations of fruit, vegetables, etc., and a rainbow.

The summer house owned by Bainbridge & Howe of Wollaston, at Post island, as broken into some time last week and a new hammerless, breach-loading, Baker gun, belonging to C. Frederick Howe, and a couple of pairs of rubber boots owned by Randolph and John Bainbridge were stolen.

City politics at Wollaston are now beginning to sizzle. From an outside point of view it seems as though there would be but little opposition to Mayor Sears' renomination from that ward. Ex-Councilman Bryant's re-entry into the political arena has stirred up a little flurry but it hardly seems possible for him to swing an anti-Sears delegation.

T. R. & S. Social.

It is only necessary to announce that the T. R. & S. A. A. will give a social or dance to insure a full house. No better proof of this fact can be put forward than that which was given last Saturday night when sixty couples assembled at Music hall, Atlantic, to enjoy the dancing provided by the association. Friends from Braintree, Roxbury and South Boston attended and were highly pleased with the manner in which they were received and entertained. Sprague's orchestra gave good music as usual, and the floor was most exceptably managed by Mr. B. McLain, assisted by Mr. Martin Cunniff, Mr. William Bennett, Mr. Archie Flynn, Mr. George Lavelle and Mr. George Sleeper. The fourth and last social to be given by the T. R. & S. A. A. at Music hall, Atlantic, will be next Saturday night when the name of the winner of the eight dollar prize, for turning in the largest amount of money from the sale of tickets for the series, will be announced.

THE SIMPLIST CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

As Well as Safest and Cheapest.

The new medical discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tables, digest the food instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, give it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

You get nourishment and rest at the same time because these Tablets will thoroughly digest all wholesome food taken into the stomach whether the stomach works or not. A cure is certain to result because the digestive organs are given a chance to rest and recover their natural vigor and tone. The Tablets are then no longer required.

To show the manner in which the remedy acts on different people and how quickly and effectually it cures stomach troubles we present a few recent cases.

Mr. J. O. Wondly of Peoria, Ills., writes; I was unable to eat anything but the plainest food and even that often distressed me, but since using one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets I can eat anything and everything I want.

Mrs. Samuel Kepple of Girty, Pa., writes: I have been entirely relieved of my stomach troubles by your Tablets. I suffered three years with sour stomach and gas at night. I am thankful for them.

Mrs. A. E. Bowen, Barnard, Vt., writes; I think Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best thing for dyspepsia I ever took. I will recommend them to anyone troubled as bad as I was.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will not disappoint because they cure Dyspepsia surely and lastingly by causing the food to be properly assimilated, and cure constipation by producing the proper quantity of bile. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package. Send for free book on stomach diseases to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. 6-9-1t tin of the Democratic state committee says the returns are not as yet sufficiently complete to determine as to the state. The Republicans have probably elected congressmen in the Sixth, Eighth, Tenth, Eleventh and First districts, though the last is not conceded. The Democrats claim the Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth, Twelfth and Thirteenth districts. The legislature is still in doubt. It will be impossible to give reliable figures until late today. Both parties claim all.

ROOSEVELT.

Chairman Martin of the Democratic committee expresses himself as confident that the Democratic state ticket is elected by about 15,000 majority, together with a majority of the legislature. The Republican chairman makes the same claim for his side.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—Because of the large ticket and the extensive cutting by independent voters, the returns from Philadelphia and Pennsylvania are slower than usual. Enough is known, however, to indicate that William A. Stone (Rep.) is elected governor by a large majority. The vote of Dr. Swallow in the state will probably be under that of last year, when he received 118,969 for state treasurer. Philadelphia is the Swallow stronghold, however, and a large vote here may increase his total beyond last year's figures. The vote on the legislature ticket in the counties where the opponents of Senator Quay have fused with the Democrats is very close. The returns so far indicate that 25 Republicans and three Democratic congressmen have been elected.

OHIO.

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—Incomplete returns indicate that the Republican plurality in the state ticket will exceed the plurality of 51,109 for McKinley in 1896, and probably double the plurality of 28,105 for Bushnell for governor last year. The Republicans will elect 15 of the 21 congressmen, and four districts will be carried by the Democrats. Two districts, the Third and Twelfth, are in doubt.

At midnight Chairman Blacker of the Democratic state committee conceded the state to the Republicans by over 40,000 plurality, and Chairman Daugherty of the Republican state committee claimed about 60,000. The Ohio congressional delegation remains the same as at present—15 to 6—each party carrying precisely the same districts as at the presidential election two years ago.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The indications are that the Republicans have elected their entire state ticket, but the figures are coming in slowly from outside of Chicago, and nothing can be estimated with accuracy. The Democrats in many counties have shown gains over the vote of 1896, and they have apparently secured several congressmen in Cook county and some outside of it.

MICHIGAN.

Detroit, Nov. 9.—Chairman Campau of the Democratic state committee concedes the re-election of Governor Pingree by a plurality of perhaps 50,000. Chairman Narsh of the Republican state committee says: "The official count will give Governor Pingree a plurality of 100,000, a gain of over 16,000 over his plurality received in the presidential election. The legislature will be strongly Republican. As to whether it will be Pingree Republican I cannot as yet say." All the Michigan Republican congressional candidates appear to be elected, although the Democrats still have hopes of carrying the Second district and do not concede the Third, Eighth and Tenth.

The Democratic committee claim that one-third of the members of the legislature will be Democrats.

MARYLAND.

Baltimore, Nov. 9.—Semi-official returns make it reasonably certain that Maryland has returned four Republican and two Democratic congressmen, after an extraordinarily close election. This is a Democratic gain of two. The districts obtained a majority of the popular vote in Baltimore city for the first time in six years.

FLORIDA.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 9.—The vote in this state, judging from returns now in, is from 10 to 20 percent lighter for both parties than in 1896. The whole Democratic ticket is elected. The light vote is due to the feble resistance offered. The constitutional amendment, requiring that bonds of state officers be in sound surety and guarantee companies was carried overwhelmingly. The Republicans and Populists will not elect altogether over five members of the legislature, if that many. The legislature elected will choose a successor to Senator Samuel Pasco.

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Nov. 9.—Both parties are claiming the result on the state ticket. On the legislature the Democrats have all along conceded the victory to the Republicans. Returns on congressmen are insufficient to decide, although it is probable the Republicans have at least four delegates, probably more. Apparently the result will be decided by the country, as the two cities are about a standoff.

St. Paul, Nov. 9.—The Democratic state committee claims the election of Lind for governor, but will give no figures. The Globe-Democrat claims that he is elected by 10,000. The Republicans simply say that the result is still in doubt; that the returns are too meagre to decide the result. They also claim all the congressmen, although the Democrats are positive they have the Seventh district and possibly two others.

MISSOURI.

St. Louis, Nov. 9.—Chairman Cook claims the election of the entire Democratic state ticket by a plurality of 35,000, the election of 13 and possibly 14 congressmen, and the return of a safe majority to the legislature, insuring the re-election of United States Senator Cockrell.

At Democratic state headquarters enough returns had been received from 40 out of 114 counties in Missouri to indicate that the Democratic state and congressional tickets have received majorities equal to those of 1896.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville, Nov. 9.—The Democrats of Kentucky carried nine and possibly 10 out of the 11 congressional districts in the state, a gain of two or perhaps three over their last delegation. The Republicans carried only one district, the Eleventh. In the Ninth district the race between Hugh (Rep.) and Williams (Dem.) is very close, both sides claiming it.

IOWA.

Des Moines, Nov. 9.—The Democratic state committee concedes the state to the Republicans by 25,000, and claims to have elected Weaver in the Sixth district by 1000 to 1200. The Republican state central committee claims the state by more than 50,000, and the election of every Republican congressman by large majorities.

WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, Nov. 9.—Enough returns have been received to insure the election of the entire Republican state ticket by at least 20,000 plurality and a legislature overwhelmingly Republican.

NEBRASKA.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—Scattering precinct returns indicate a political surprise in Nebraska, for they forecast the almost certain election of Hayward (Rep.) by a majority of not less than 3000. This will be a reversal of the verdict of 1896 by nearly 15,000. The count thus far is wholly on governor, so far as the state ticket is concerned, and as it is the belief that Hawyard is running ahead of his ticket slightly, it should make the results on the remaining state officers very close. The most surprising feature is the strength displayed by Republican legislative candidates in some counties.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—Returns from scattering counties indicate that Gage (Rep.), for governor, is polling a larger proportionate vote than that cast for McKinley. The Republican state committee claims that Gage has been elected governor by 30,000 plurality.

MISSISSIPPI.

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 9.—Mississippi congressional results: First district, John M. Allen (Dem.) elected; Second, Thomas Spight (Dem.) elected; Third, Thomas C. Catchings (Dem.) elected; Fourth, Andrew F. Fox (Dem.) elected; Fifth, John S. Williams (Dem.) elected; Seventh, Patrick Henry (Dem.) elected.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Wheeling, Nov. 9.—Indications are that Dovener (Rep.), First congressional district, has 1500; Dayton (Rep.), Second district, re-elected. Legislature in doubt.

VIRGINIA.

Richmond, Nov. 9.—Virginia returns a solidly Democratic delegation of 10 members. The feature of the election was the breaking away from General Walker in the Republican stronghold of the district, where he was defeated by Rhea. The congressmen are all silver men.

TENNESSEE.

Nashville, Nov. 9.—Democratic executive committee claims 25,000 plurality for McMillan for governor. The Republican committee concedes McMillan's election by 10,000 majority. The legislature shows Democratic gains. Congressmen: Eight Democrats; two Republicans.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 9.—The Democratic state ticket was elected without opposition. A very light vote was cast.

TEXAS.

Austin, Nov. 9.—A heavy vote was polled all over Texas. The Democrats swept the state, and Sayers (Dem.) for governor will, it is expected, lead the ticket by 200,000 majority. Hawley (Rep.) will be returned from the Galveston district.

ALABAMA.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 9.—Returns indicate the election of every Democratic congressman in the state. The vote was exceedingly light in all districts except the Fourth and Seventh.

GEORGIA.

Atlanta, Nov. 9.—All the Democratic candidates to congress are elected. Returns show that the Democrats have carried all of the 11 congressional districts of the state. This leaves the Georgia delegation politically unchanged.

COLORADO

Denver, Nov. 9.—Returns from some of the 1820 precincts in this state indicate that Thomas (fusion) is elected over Wolcott by 29,000 to 40,000. Thomas seems to have carried this county by 5000.

LOUISIANA.

New Orleans, Nov. 9.—Reports received assure the election of six Democratic congressmen from Louisiana. The Louisiana delegation is therefore solidly Democratic, as before.

KANSAS.

Topeka, Nov. 9.—Chairman Albaugh of the Republican state committee claims the state for Stanley (Rep.) for governor by 5000, and Chairman Riddle of the fusion committee claims the state for Leedy, fusion, by 11,000.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 9.—Returns from the state are meagre. Republican gains are small. Chairman Merrill of the Republican state committee expresses the belief that Phillips (Rep.), for governor, is elected with the entire state ticket, and Burke and Gamble for congress.

WASHINGTON.

Takoma, Wash., Nov. 9.—Three precincts in Pier county, two of them fusion strongholds, show an average gain of 80 percent for the Republican ticket.

UTAH.

Salt Lake, Utah, Nov. 9.—Tickets are badly scratched and returns are slow. Returns from 24 precincts in city and state give Roberts (Dem.), for congress, 923; Eldridge (Rep.), 767; Zane (Rep.), for judge, 783; Baskin (Dem.), 878.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about 1-4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

CANCER CURED

BY ABSORPTION NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

BAY STATE CHANGES.

The day passed quietly and with no disorder at the polls or elsewhere. Remarkably fine weather brought a vote which was vastly larger than the leaders had expected.

At 12:30 the returns received from 167 of the 168 towns in the state, the city of Bridgeport missing, give Lounsbury (Rep.), 75,644; Morgan (Dem.), 53,762. The same towns in 1896 gave Cook (Rep.), 101,734; Sargent (Dem.), 31,720.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9.—The returns at hand for New Hampshire show that the Republicans have a lead indicating at least 7000 for their candidate for governor, and half that for each congressional district.

Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, chairman of the Republican state committee, issued this statement: The indications at midnight show the election of Rollins for governor by from 8000 to 10,000 majority, and that the Republicans will have from 18 to 20 of the 24 state senators, and nearly the same majority in the house as two years ago. Both Republican congressmen are elected. No returns have been received from councillor districts, but, basing the councillor vote on that for governor, I should say that all five Republican councillors are elected. It is possible that the state senate may stand the same as two years ago—21 Republicans and 3 Democrats.

The Republicans gain a senator in the Twenty-fourth district, where Yeaton is elected over Norris, and there are no present indications that we have lost more than one senator.

The following statement was made by F. W. Rollins, Republican candidate for governor: "I estimate that I am elected by from 7000 to 10,000 plurality, and that the general ticket throughout the state has been elected by a handsome margin. The house will be very strongly Republican, and the senate overwhelmingly so."

Senator Chandler: "There is a sweeping Republican victory in New Hampshire for governor, both congressmen, and the legislature; carried by popular majorities about one-half of those of 1896, when he had the greatest gain made in any two congressional districts in the Union. The Republicans of the state have had special troubles to overcome, but the complete result shows that the state approves the war with Spain, and the conduct of President McKinley in its prosecution."

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence, Nov. 9.—The voting was light throughout the state, as the election of both Republican candidates for congress was a foregone conclusion. The revised constitution has probably been rejected. The country districts voted heavily against it, and unless the vote in the cities proves larger than expected it will not be approved.

Not Disappointed.

Boston, Nov. 9.—Alex B. Bruce, the Democratic candidate for governor, was seen just before he left for his home in Lawrence, and he said: "Governor Wolcott is not any better pleased with his vote than I am with the 100,000 odd I received at the hands of the plain, hard-working people of the old Bay State. The general result is all that I could wish for. The vote demonstrated that the Democracy of this state is waking up and is girding on its armor for the great fight of 1900. It is a great satisfaction for me to carry my own city of Lawrence, where the people know me."

Edward J. Slattery, the candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket, said on the result of the election: "I am frank to say that the result is eminently satisfactory to me, personally and politically. The result is evidence of where the Democratic party will stand in the next campaign, and in the great presidential contest of 1900. The Democratic party is more firmly convinced than ever that the Chicago platform will be reaffirmed for the next presidential campaign."

Teddy Hears the News.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Nov. 9.—Colonel Roosevelt was notified last night of his victory by a telegram from Chairman Odell of the Republican state committee, saying he had been elected governor by from 30,000 to 40,000 plurality. Colonel Roosevelt was at his house in Cove Neck, surrounded by his family and some friends. After arriving home during the afternoon from the city he spent the evening waiting for the returns to come in. A party of newspaper men, as soon as the first information came that he had been elected, drove to his house and informed him that he was to be the next governor of New York state. Mr. Roosevelt was asked to make a statement outlining his future plans, but he laughingly replied that he wanted to be first sure that he had been elected and did not care to say much until he received the official news from the state committee that he was elected. Colonel Roosevelt was congratulated by those present, and during the night and up to the time the telegraph office closed there was a flood of congratulatory telegrams for the successful candidate.

Next House Will Be Very Close.

The Senate Has Strong Republican Majority.

Corrected Returns Vary Little From First Reports.

Washington, Nov. 10.—After March 4 next the Republicans will have a majority in the United States senate.

The present party division in the senate is: Republicans, 43; Democrats, 34; Populists, 6; silver Republicans, 6. This was changed prior to Tuesday's vote by a Republican gain of two—McComas of Maryland, who will succeed Gorman, and Simon of Oregon, who is elected to fill a vacancy.

Of the present Republican total of 45, the terms of seven senators expire March 4 next, leaving 38 hold-overs. There are 21 Democratic hold-over senators. The Populist and silver Republican hold-overs number eight.

An analysis of the party changes in the senate shows that the Republicans gain seven seats from the Democrats—California, Delaware, Indiana, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota and Wisconson, and one from the Populists in Nebraska; they may lose one in Washington, which is in doubt, and gain one in West Virginia, which is also in doubt. The political divisions of the senate after March 4 by states is shown by the following:

Chairman Babcock of the Republican congressional committee said last night that the house of representatives of the Fifty-sixth congress would be Republican without doubt.

Throughout the day and evening a corps of political statisticians was at work in the Republican headquarters compiling and analyzing the returns. In a statement, Chairman Babcock said:

"There can be no longer any reasonable argument over the political complexion of the next house of representatives. It will be Republican beyond a shadow of a doubt. Our advices show the certain election of 185 Republicans, more than enough to give us control. These are straight Republicans, and our majority will be over the combined opposition. Our information induces us to place nine districts in doubt. These are the Seventh in California, the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth in Nebraska, the Seventeenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-sixth in Pennsylvania, and the Twelfth in Texas. We are reasonably certain to get some of these. Without them, however, we have a clear majority and are resting perfectly easy. The Sixth Iowa, which was in doubt for a time, has certainly elected Representative Lacy (Rep.).

"In Kentucky we have elected not only Seitz in the Tenth district, but Pugh in the Ninth; in Kansas we have a solid delegation, although it was not until this evening that we put Kirkpatrick of the Third district in the certain Republican column; in Maryland, we concede the defeat of Jackson in the First district and McIntyre in the Fourth; Minnesota returns a solid Republican delegation, Judge Morris having defeated Charles Towne in the Sixth district; in Massachusetts we concede the election of Democrats in the Third, Ninth and Tenth districts. According to our advices, the delegation from New York will stand 15 Republicans to 19 Democrats; in North Carolina we claim the election of White in the Second district and Linney in the Eighth, but we may be counted out in both; in Pennsylvania the delegation stands 20 Republicans, seven Democrats and three doubtful; Texas, one Republican, 11 Democrats and one doubtful—the Twelfth district; and in West Virginia we carried the First, Second and Fourth districts, while the opposition carried the Third.

"From our view point of the situation as it is now, I fully believe that returns we shall receive tomorrow will increase the figures I have tonight."

At the headquarters of the Democratic committee confidence is expressed that the Democrats will control the next house of representatives. Secretary Kerr will not concede many of the claims made by Chairman Babcock of the Republican committee, and says that in a large number of districts it will require the official count to determine definitely the result.

"It seems certain," said Secretary Kerr, "that we have elected 183 members of the next house, the Republicans 163, and that 11 districts are in doubt. In New York we will have 21 members; in Pennsylvania nine and perhaps 10; in Kansas four at least and perhaps five; in Nebraska four; in North Carolina nine, and in California two or three. Information is slow in coming in because the count in so many of the districts is very close. Our figures are based upon definite returns, and I am satisfied that they aer entirely accurate."

The following table gives a conservative estimate of the complexion of the next house, based on returns received up to this morning:

Boston, Nov. 10.—While the result of the election in Massachusetts was received with considerable satisfaction by the Republican managers, as Governor Wolcott received a substantial endorsement, the returns were especially gratifying to the Democratic leaders, for not only did the vote for their party candidate for governor show an increase of 30 percent over last year, but they succeeded in electing two additional congressmen, and materially reducing

AMERICAN REJOINDER

Contains No New Propositions Regarding the Philippines.

No Substantial Ground For Spanish Contentions.

A Few Facts Which Have Not Hitherto Been Made Public.

Paris, Nov. 10.—The joint session of the peace commission yesterday was short because Senor Rios and Judge Day concurred in the service of the American rejoinder upon the Spanish commissioners without a formal reading of the paper, which would occupy many columns in an ordinary newspaper, and an adjournment was taken until Saturday.

It is quite safe to say that the Americans have made no new propositions regarding the possession of the Philippines, but confined themselves to a discussion of the proposals and assertions made by Spain at the previous meeting. Just what were the terms of the American rejoinder cannot, of course, be ascertained. But despite persistent assertions here to the contrary, there is no ground, as has already been cabled, for the Spanish contention that the United States acquiesced, at the signing of the protocol, in some reservation by Spain of her Philippine sovereignty. This utterly unfounded rumor is now quite well understood to have come from a high source in sympathy with the United States.

The facts of the case are these: On July 26 last the Washington government received from Spain an inquiry as to the basis on which the war might be terminated. Four days later, or thereabouts, the information was forthcoming in a response embodying the terms of the protocol, save for the use in the Philippine paragraph of the word "possession." Before the response was formally presented to M. Cambon, Spain's representative in Washington, he suggested the substitution of the word "disposition." The United States government acquiesced; the substitution was made, the formal response was delivered to M. Cambon, who forwarded it to Madrid; and on or about Aug. 7 Spain forwarded her reply, which, as affecting the Philippine question, was evasive or ambiguous.

"The terms relating to the Philippines," said the Spanish government, "seem to our understanding quite indefinite. On the one hand, the ground on which the United States believe themselves entitled to occupy the bay, harbor and city of Manila, pending the conclusion of a treaty of peace, cannot be that of conquest, since, in spite of the blockade maintained on the sea by the American fleet, and in spite of the siege established on land by a native, supported and provided for by an American admiral, Manila still holds its own and the Spanish standard still waves over the city. On the other hand, the whole archipelago of the Philippines is in the power and under the sovereignty of Spain.

"Therefore, the government of Spain thinks that the temporary occupation of Manila should constitute a guaranty. It is asserted that the treaty of peace shall determine the control, disposition and government of the Philippines, but, as the intentions of the federal government by regression remain veiled, the Spanish government must, therefore, declare that, while accepting the third condition, they do not a priori renounce the sovereignty of Spain over the archipelago, leaving it to the negotiators to agree as to such reforms as the condition of these possessions and the level of the culture of their natives may render desirable. The government of her majesty accept the third condition, with the above mentioned declarations."

This part of Spain's note was deemed unsatisfactory at Washington, as calculated to breed misunderstanding, and if left unchallenged, as holding exactly the possibilities of dissension which it is now sought to introduce into the negotiations here.

The federal authorities therefore on or about Aug. 10 addressed to M. Cambon a communication, pointing out that, while the foregoing utterances from Madrid were understood by him to convey Spain's acceptance of the terms of peace, the acceptance was not entirely explicit, and that the most direct and certain way of avoiding misunderstanding was to embody in a protocol the terms on which the negotiations for peace were to be undertaken.

Along with this note was sent to M. Cambon a protocol, embodying the precise terms tendered to Spain in the American communication of July 30 or thereabouts. Immediately on receiving them, M. Cambon transmitted the protocol to Madrid, accompanied by a message from himself clearly showing that the French ambassador knew that the United States government did not regard Spain's response to the peace terms as satisfactory or acceptable.

He Was In Love.

Montreal, Nov. 10.—Herman Cole yesterday shot and instantly killed Mathilde Lavigueur and then shot and killed himself. The scene of the tragedy was a little candy store kept by the young woman's mother. A letter found on Cole's body stated that he intended to kill himself for love of the girl, and requested that the news of his death be sent to his sister, Mrs. Alfred Gagne, of Vergennes, Vt., and also that his body be sent to that place for interment.

Yellow Jack in New York.

New York, Nov. 10.—Dr. Shields of Gouverneur hospital last night reported to the board of health that Christopher Sadlyth, a sailor who arrived on the steamship Darlington from Tampa on Tuesday, is suffering from yellow fever at a sailors' lodging house in Cherry street.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

Narrow Escape.

One of the sons of Mr. Wesley Walsh, who resides on Elm place, had a narrow escape from being killed at the Quincy depot this morning. He wanted to take the 7.26 train for Boston but arrived just as the last car was leaving the Saville street crossing. Walsh had a bundle in his arm, but attempted to get on the train which was then moving quite rapidly. Instead of getting on he lost his bundle and was himself dragged along. People at the depot expected to see him killed as the train disappeared around the curve with the young man dragging along at full length. The people rushed up the track but meantime people on the train were using their best efforts to get the young man onto the train, and in this they probably were successful, as when the receding train was seen again Walsh was not in sight. His hat however, was found and returned to the depot. It was a reckless thing to do, and had he let go of the rail he must have certainly been seriously if not fatally injured.

Everyone Pleased.

Peck's Bad Boy was played Wednesday evening in Music hall before a large and appreciative audience. The first act represented the grocery store of Mr. Shultz, and Henry Peck (the bad boy) played all manner of tricks upon Mr. Shultz and all his customers. The second act represented the parlor of the Pecks, and here the minister and several others met to rehearse for a charity fair. The third act represented the picnic grounds with the Pecks and their friends having a picnic. The audience was kept in a continual uproar of laughter, the parts all being excellently taken. Several novelties and local hits were introduced. It lasted until 10.30 o'clock, and every one went away well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Masonic hall, was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, ferns and plants. The fine selections rendered by the Harvard quartette, and the presence of the ladies, added very much to the evening's entertainment. After enjoying an elegant banquet provided by mine host Remick of The Greenleaf, good nights was exchanged thus ending the first public installation of Saint Stephen's chapter of Royal Arch Masons.

The Tame Duck Shooters.

The two Hancock House gunners were congratulated last evening on their great success in tame duck shooting, by some of their friends who have ceased their arguments on politics. We are sorry to say that they did not get their duck dinner which their mouths were watering for. When the sportsmen have better luck and can shoot wild duck all may enjoy the feast of which they are now deprived. They say the next time they go hunting for duck they will examine them to ascertain whether they are wild or tame, before they shoot.

One of the handsomest chrysanthemum displays seen in Quincy is that at the greenhouses of James Nicol on Coddington street. Mr. Nicol makes a specialty of these kind of flowers for his own amusement, and those raised by him this year exceed in size and beauty any of his previous efforts. The colors are white, yellow and pink.

Commissioner Knowlton attended the quarterly meeting of the Massachusetts Highway Association at the Parker ouse, Boston, Tuesday, and was elected a member of the nominating committee. At the discussion which followed the dinner, Commissioner Knowlton read a paper on "The low cost gravel roads as supplementary to first class roads as built by the Highway Commission."

On Monday evening the members of Carrie E. Ruggles lodge of Wollaston had their regular monthly supper with a large attendance and a jolly good time. The Comimttee of arragements deserve praise for the able manner in which everything was conducted. The following comprised the Committee: Mrs. Dan Miller, chairman, Mrs Gram, Mrs. Linton, Mrs. E. W. The Day of Days when you will want to have everything for the table "just right" is nearly here —Thanksgiving Day. Have you bought your spices and flavoring extracts yets? A few cents worth of impure spices can do a lot of harm in the kitchen, and ten cents' worth of inferior flavoring extract will spoil a dollar's worth of cake.

Besides absolutely pure Spices and Flavoring Extracts we shall have Nuts and Raisins and many other delicacies for Thanksgiving. We should like to sell you all your Thanksgiving Groceries—our prices will please you as well as the high quality.

Hospital Sunday.

To every man, woman and child in the City of Quincy.

The question has often been asked of the Trustees of the City Hospital, why Hospital Sunday was omitted in the past few years? It was often said to us, it is one of the best ways to raise funds to support the Hospital, as long as it has to be assisted by the people at large.

The trustees regret that endowments have not been sufficient to fully maintain the running expenses. They have faith, however, that the time will come, and not far in the future, when the wealthy of this city, and former residents of Quincy, who have gone to other parts of the world and have become wealthy, will retain the love for their native place so well, that they will in making their last bequests take the opportunity to have their names kept fresh before the people.

In no better way can they do so than to endow the City Hospital with a handsome legacy. There is many a lad or young man, who while in Quincy was not blessed with an overabundance of the world's goods, who in after years, having established himself in business in distant parts, amassed wealth. Like Thomas Crane, the donor of our Public Library building, we hope they will remember the City Hospital with large endowments and thus have their names handed down to future generations.

But till such time as those things are realized we must have contributions from the public to meet the yearly expenses.

The trustees after numerous requests and advice from the clergy and others have concluded to resume Hospital Sunday, and have designated Sunday, Nov. 13, to be observed as such. We hope every individual will contribute something towards its support. Little as it may be it goes to swell the great result. Should you never need the benefit of it yourself, you may have a near and dear friend who will. You will also have the satisfaction of knowing that your contribution has done its full amount of good.

Subscription will be acknowledged in the Daily Ledger.

MORE DELEGATES.

Quincy Republicans Will Have More Next Year.

The election figures of Tuesday continue to afford a study. The summary below shows that Governor Wolcott made his largest gains in Quincy in Wards 5, 1 and 6, while Candidate Bruce made the largest gains in Wards 3, 2 and 4:

	Wolcott Gain.	Bruce Gain.
Ward One,	102	59
Ward Two,	35	84
Ward Three,	93	107
Ward Four,	66	77
Ward Five,	138	18
Ward Six,	98	72
	532	493

Upon the same basis as for 1898 the vote of Governor Wolcott will give the Quincy wards next year the following number of delegates to the Republican State convention, Wards Five and Six gaining one each:

	Vote 1898.	Delegates 1899.	Delegates 1898.
Ward Two,	235	3	3
Ward Three,	411	4	4
Ward Four,	278	3	3
Ward Five,	417	4	3
Ward Six,	211	3	2
	1976	21	19

To the Republican Representative and Mayoralty conventions the representation in 1899 on the 1898 basis will be:

	1899.	1898.
Ward Two,	6	5
Ward Three,	9	7
Ward Four,	7	5
Ward Five,	9	7
Ward Six,	5	3
Total,	45	34
Majority,	23	18

It will be observed that all the wards, except Ward Two, gained two. While the number of delegates will be increased 11, the number necessary for a choice is increased but five. Ward One lacked but one vote of gaining another delegate.

Political.

The Journal figures show 12 Republican majority in the next National House against 49 at present time, and 16 Republican majority in the Senate against 2.

A Dorchester Republican says of the defeat of Congressman Barrows: "It was a plain case of retaliation, and nothing else. Mr. Barrows was beaten because the friends of the Republican candidate for Mayor Quincy last year would not go to the polls and would not show the slightest indication of interest in the result. John C. Cobb, who managed Mr. Barrow's campaign, was a Quincy promoter in 1897. He received the returns in Mayor Quincy's private executive office. I don't believe in retaliatory politics myself, but I can't help feeling that the Curtis men have had more than one precedent for their inactivity."

ADAMS BUILDING OVER POST OFFICE QUINCY MASS

LETTERS FROM CO. K.

Preparing to Move—No More Furloughs at Present.

(Delayed in Transit)

With Co. K, 5th Mass.,
Camp Meade, Nov. 5.

Today is the weekly inspection. K again carried off the usual military honors.

Major Morrison returned to camp this afternoon, being absent the past week, attending the funeral of his uncle in Braintree.

The boys are having their usual Saturday afternoon vacation. All drills are dispensed with except the evening parade which takes place as usual.

The detail for guard today is as follows, Corporal Haskins, Privates Studley, Swanson, Spillane, Savoie, Sheehan, Sullivan, Serberg, Thumstrom, Bowler, Buckley, and G. P. Clapp. Lieut. Spear, is officer of the day. As soon as the Major arrived in camp, he had a detail under Corporal Johnson of K, set to work, to stake off the grounds, for the removal of the whole 2d battalion camp. The intention being to move the camp onto higher ground, so that when it is completed we will be nearer the road. Then the boys can witness the departure of the trains, which leave here every day with troops.

A number of the boys are taking advantage of the privilege granted by the Y. M. C. A. of Middletown, which offered us the use of their hot water baths.

Sergeant Mohan of K now detached from company and acting as battalion sergeant major has been issued a sergeant major's sword. Now the sergeant can perform his duties in a more advanced manner.

Privates Fitzgerald was today granted a 24 hours' leave of absence.

General Young has issued an order that no furloughs shall be issued unless on account of sickness and then only when urgent. Volunteer.

Camp Meade, Sunday.

The weather continues fine but colder. With a very strong wind blowing which renders the standing of our tents over night rather doubtful.

This morning the officers of the 2d battalion were pleased to receive a visit from Adjutant E. E. Locke and Major Warren, paymaster of the 5th Massachusetts Volunteer Militia. They were escorted by Colonel Whitney and spent the morning visiting the officers and renewing old acquaintances. The boys would have been more pleased to have seen Paymaster Warren in his official capacity. The 202d New York has left for Athens, Georgia.

The detail for guard today are as follows: Sergeant John R. McGrath, Corporal J. R. Johnson, Privates Myles M. Clark, Henry Collins, L. W. Delano, Charles W. Deslauries, J. F. Dougherty, David Doran, P. Dean G. E. Livendale, William J. Gilfeather, Hector Gillis and John S. Gallagher, Private Dean was again selected as orderly. Volunteer.

Now is the Time.

Editor Daily Ledger:

A few weeks ago the writer called attention in the columns of the Ledger to the cramped condition of the approaches to City Square from Quincy Point and Houghs Neck which was caused by the enclosed triangular green back of the fountain, and the irregular shape, and seemingly unnecessary size of the enclosed lot on which stands the Unitarian church. The writer suggested the abolition of the triangular green and the taking by the city of enough of the church yard to open up City Square more to convenient travel, present and future.

Since then another impediment to easy passage through the Square has been called to the writer's attention. It is the corner, lately fenced in by the shrewd manager of the old Nightingale estate, which juts out into Temple street, an elbow in the ribs of public travel. All these obstructions could be remedied now at a reasonable expense, and would result in a great improvement in the appearance of, but also in the convenience of travel through, City Square.

The Unitarian parish would undoubtedly be glad to dispose of some of the church land, as the socially exclusive character of the congregation has not resulted in materially increasing the financial resources of this historic church, whose pews were once occupied by our humble but sociable ancestors; who listened to the singing of the choir, supplemented by Hezekiah Bass on the bass viol.

In conclusion the writer would like the privilege of calling attention to the practice of extinguishing the street lights on evenings when according to the almanac the moon ought to shine, regardless of whether it does or not, no account being taken, apparently, of clouds which completely shut out the moonlight. "Settler."

A CARD.

The undersigned does hereby agree to refund the money on a 50-cent bottle of Greene's Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cold or cough. He also warrants a 25-cent bottle to prove satisfactory or no pay.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to R, and today's instalment is the third of the S's:

the Republican majorities in every one of the other districts. The state delegation to the national house of representatives will this year be 10 Republicans and three Democrats, and, while Senator Lodge will be elected by the legislature, the Democrats made substantial gains in the lower branch, and will constitute one-third of that body, where, last year, they had only a quarter of the members.

The interest in the election, aside from the Democratic gains in every congressional district, was the entirely unlooked for defeat of Joseph H. Walker, who for 10 years has been the Republican representative in the Third district, and has held the position of chairman of the committee on banking and currency in the national house for the last three sessions. Mr. Walker's defeat was a purely personal one, as his opponent is credited with being an advocate of the gold standard, and has other Republican proclivities. It is also claimed that Nephen, the successful Democrat in the Tenth district, may break with his party in congress on this same issue.

The total vote for the gubernatroial candidates was: Wolcott, 190,246; Bruce, 106,898, a Republican plurality of 83,348.

The senate of 1899 will stand: Republicans, 33; Democrats, 7. The house: Republicans, 165; Democrats, 67; Independents, 2; Social Democrats, 2; nonpartisans, 1; Prohibition, 1. There are two ties to be decided, either by a recount or another election.

RHODE ISLAND.

Providence, Nov. 10.—Very little interest was shown in the congressional election in Rhode Island, although the weather was favorable. There were no state issues. The vote cast was light and the pluralities for Bull and Capron are correspondingly reduced. Two years ago Congressman Bull had a plurality of 8836 and Congressman Capron had 8524. Bull's plurality was this year reduced to 5519, while that of Capron was cut to 2661. Bull's connection with the Newport municipal election affected his vote in that city.

The proposed new constitution, framed by a commission appointed by the Republican governor and composed of able men of both parties, failed to receive the three-fifths of the total vote necessary for its adoption. The country towns went heavily against it and the large favorable vote of the cities failed to overcome this by about 1000. The total vote was 17,589 for and 13,483 against.

The constitution was designed to replace the constitution adopted in 1842, which replaces the charter granted by King Charles II of England in 1663. It provided for increased representation for the cities and a senate of one member from each city and town as at present, with a house of 100 members, apportioned on the basis of population. Both Democratic congressional district conventions recently demanded a constitutional convention instead of a constitutional commission.

The cities, with the exception of Central Falls, went Democratic on local issues, Mayor Baker being re-elected in Providence by an increased plurality. Pawtucket and Woonsocket went Republican last year.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Nov. 10.—The delegation from Pennsylvania in the new congress will comprise 21 Republicans and nine Democrats, a Democratic gain of six. The present delegation is composed of 27 Republicans and three Democrats. The successful Democrats in the new districts are Messrs. Barber, Davenport, Ryan, Polk, Sibley and Hall. In each of these districts, except one, the present representative was a candidate for re-election. William McAleer, who was re-elected in the Third district, is a sound money Democrat, and the Republicans made no nomination against him.

The complete vote of the state, with four counties missing, gives Stone (Rep.) 435,872 votes; Jenks (Dem), 333,783; Swallow (Pro. and "honest government") 124,437, a plurality for Stone of 122,889, which will be increased to above 125,000 by the complete returns. The total vote in the state will approximate 950,000.

INDIANA.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—The indications are that the Republican plurality will be nearly 15,000. It may vary 2000 either way from that estimate. The Democratic state committee concede that the Republicans have won in the state. Large Democratic gains are shown by some counties, while others show large Republican gains. From the returns at hand it would appear that the Republicans will have a majority in both branches of the legislature, and a majority on joint ballot of about 16.

The Republicans claim nine of the 13 congressmen sure. The Republicans have hopes that they have carried the Second and Fourth districts, though these districts were heavily Democratic in 1896. The Twelfth district is in doubt, but is claimed by the Republicans. The Third district, which in 1896 gave a Democratic plurality of 2434, is the only one the Republicans are conceding to the Democrats.

Chairman Martin of the Democratic state committee concedes a Republican plurality in the state of 14,500. Later returns, however, may change the present indicated result from 2000 to 5000. The Republicans claim the state by 20,000. The legislature will be Republican, which means the election of a Republican to the United States senate to succeed Mr. Turpie.

OHIO.

Columbus, O., Nov. 10.—Returns indicate that the Republicans have carried the same 15 congressional districts and the Democrats the same six districts as in the presidential election of 1896, but the Democrats claim the election of Zimmerman over Weaver in the Seventh. It will require the official count to determine the result in that district.

MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Nov. 10.—John Lind (Sil. Rep.), with Democratic and Populist endorsement, will have not less than 10,000 plurality in the state over Eustis (Rep.), but Lind is the only fusion candidate to win.

MISSOURI.

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—At state committee headquarters no claims are made by the Republicans, but the Democrats give out the statement that enough of the result in each of the 12 congressional districts outside of St. Louis is known to make the election of their candidates assured.

Congressman Champ Clark (Dem.), Ninth Missouri district, has been re-elected by a majority of at least 2000.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville, Nov. 10.—The latest returns from the Ninth congressional district indicate that Mordecai Williams (Dem.) has defeated the incumbent, Samuel Pugh (Rep.) by a majority of about 180. Mr. Pugh, however, claims a majority of 100. This gives the Democrats 10 of the 11 congressmen from Kentucky, a gain of three congressmen for the Democrats in the state. The Fifth, Eighth and Ninth are the districts that somersaulted into the Democratic camp.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Raleigh, Nov. 10.—Late returns indicate that the Democrats have elected all nine of their congressmen, all 12 solicitors, 44 out of 50 state senators, 95 out of 120 representatives and the judicial ticket by 30,000.

MONTANA.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 10.—Campbell (Dem.) is elected to congress by a plurality exceeding 4000. The legislature is Democratic by a decided majority. Complete returns will not alter materially the situation as stated.

TEXAS.

Dallas, Nov. 10.—State Chairman Bell of the Democratic executive committee concedes the election of Hawley (Rep.) in the Tenth (Galveston) district by a substantial plurality. The remainder of the state is overwhelmingly Democratic.

NEVADA.

Carson, Nev., Nov. 10.—The vote for governor is very close, but Sadler (silver) claims his re-election by 600 majority. Congressman Newlands (Sil. Dem.) is re-elected by 3000 majority over Wren (Pop.). The balance of the state ticket is conceded to the silver party, with the exception of superintendent of public instruction. The complexion of the next legislature is a matter of conjecture. Four-fifths of the members will belong to the silver party. Some are pledged to Senator Stewart for re-election and those who are not may join with the Republicans, Democrats and Independents in the organization of the legislature.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 10.—Returns from the state show that Spalding (Rep.) for congress will probably have a majority of 5000 and the remainder of the ticket 500 less. The Republicans will have 50 majority on joint ballot in the legislature, making a Republican successor to Senator Roach.

KANSAS.

Topeka, Nov. 10.—The Republican state committee estimates Stanley's majority in the state at 8000 and claim the election of every congressman in the state except Ridgely (Pop.) in the Third, who may be re-elected. The Populist state central committee claims the state result is so close that an official canvass will be necessary.

WASHINGTON.

Seattle, Nov. 10.—Incomplete returns from 24 counties out of 34 in the state give a majority of 2500 in favor of both Republican congressmen and Republican candidates for supreme court judges. The Times (fusion) concedes the state to the Republicans by 3000, also the legislature. The Republican state central committee claims a majority of 12 in the legislature on joint ballot.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 10.—Chairman Kidd of the Populist state committee claims the election of Lee (fusion) for governor by 1200. Chairman Herreid of the Republican state committee says Phillips (Rep.) is elected by at least 1800. Turkee and Gamble (Reps.) are surely elected to congress. The Republican state ticket, except governor, is elected.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco, Nov. 10.—California has gone to the Republican column with more emphasis than ever before. The entire state ticket, with the exception of secretary of state, has been elected, according to Republican claims. The count this year throughout the state has been unusually slow, and it will be several days before complete figures are received. The Republicans claim all seven congressmen and the legislature.

NEBRASKA.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 10.—Returns by counties thus far make the state ticket in doubt and so close that an official count may be required. The legislature is probably Republican on joint ballot.

IDAHO.

Boise, Ida., Nov. 10.—Only 47 precincts in the state embracing one-eighth of the vote have reported. The fusion ticket is all elected by pluralities ranging from 5000 to 8000. The legislature will be controlled by the fusionists.

NEW MEXICO.

Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 10.—Pedro Perea (Rep.) is elected delegate to congress by from 1200 to 2000 majority over Ferguson (Dem.). The Democrats concede Perea's election, but claim the majority is smaller. Both houses of the legislature are Republican by two-thirds or more. Ferguson's majority two years ago was 900.

London Press Comment.

London, Nov. 10.—All the morning papers comment upon the elections in the United States, but the tendency is to await the final and full returns before expressing a decided opinion.

The Times says: The answer of the American people on the question of foreign expansion is halting and ambiguous. It is difficult to say that the elections have confirmed President McKinley's policy; but certainly he has not been condemned, and, therefore, he has no inducement to abandon the attitude he has assumed regarding the Philippines.

The Times, in common with other papers, comments upon Mr. Roosevelt's chances of succeeding to the presidency and expresses its gratification at the victory of sound money, "though apparently there is little chance of currency reform."

The New York correspondent of The Daily News says: "The elections were disastrous for the Republicans in the house of representatives, and there is no doubt that the popular vote is anti-imperialistic. Commenting editorially upon this opinion, The Daily News says: "It may, therefore, be the senate and the presidency against a popularly elected house. It will be interesting to study the effect of the vote on the peace negotiations."

The Westminster Gazette expresses the opinion, however, that the "Democratic gains are merely the expression of popular opinion of the shameful mismanagement in the war department," and adds: The elections will give Spain cause to revive the old hope of a division among the Americans and the Spanish commissioners will be wise if they abandon all hopes that the Democratic successes will prove advantageous to Spain.

May Test His Eligibility.

New York, Nov. 10—Theodore Roosevelt can be prevented from taking his seat as governor, according to a brief which J. J. Russell has prepared for the Tammany law committee. Mr. Russell, who is one of the Tammany campaigners, has had experience in testing the eligibility of public officers, having, as a leader of the Ohio representatives, deadlocked that body in 1884 on just such a question, touching the right of two Republican members to their seats. If the courts should hold Mr. Roosevelt ineligible, the office would not fall, as many think, to Woodruff, but to Van Wyck, the candidate polling the next highest number of votes, those for Roosevelt being invalid. Mr. Russell advances no new facts in the controversy over Mr. Roosevelt's nonresidence, brought about by his Washington and Oyster Bay affidavits. The procedure for testing Mr. Roosevelt's qualifications would be an application by a citizen to the attorney general for quo warranto proceedings, which would require the governor-elect to show that he is eligible.

Roosevelt's Plurality.

New York, Nov. 10.—The Press this morning, in a recapitulation table of the vote of the state, gives Roosevelt's plurality as 24,821.

The Sun gives Roosevelt's plurality as 17,561. It says Greater New York gave Van Wyck a plurality of 83,938 and Manhattan and Bronx 60,622.

The World says that the state and city figures up to 1:30 a. m. show the following results: Roosevelt's plurality 17,750. Legislature, senate, Republicans 27, Democrats 23; assembly, Republicans 85, Democrats 65.

Platt Terms It Glorious.

New York, Nov. 10.—Senator Platt of course feels highly elated at the result of the election. He says: "I most heartily congratulate the people of New York upon their triumph. It was a glorious victory, and I believe a thoroughly popular one. It was due largely to the brilliant canvass which Colonel Roosevelt made and to the courage with which he met all issues and all attacks. The people were with him, believed in him, and elected him. Our majority in the legislature is far more than enough to insure us a sound money Republican United States senator. I regret so many of the Republican sound money candidates for congress have been defeated. When sound money Democrats who voted for free silver reflect they will see how foolish they were to support any but a straight out-and-out sound money Republican candidate."

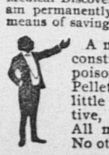
When you have a sick horse you do not hitch him up to a sulky and take him to the race track for a little healthful spin. You doctor him. You cannot work or recreate a man into good health any more than you can a horse. Bicycling will make healthy men more healthy; it will make unhealthy men more unhealthy. When a man has been living in too big a hurry, when he has worked himself out, when he has got so that he does not sleep or eat, or rest, and the whole world looks gloomy to him, it is time for him to take medicine. Then, when he is braced up a bit, it is time enough for him to take to the bicycle.

When a man's nerves have an edge on them, so that the least little disappointment rasps on his temper like a file, when his stomach and liver and nerves are deranged, and he is continually gloomy and melancholy, he should take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It makes a man as hungry as a fisherman and sees to it that all the vital elements of the food are absorbed into the blood. It braces up the liver and puts it to work in the right way. It drives all bilious impurities from the system. It fills flesh, nerves, brain cells, sinews and bones with the life-giving elements of rich, red, pure blood. It makes a man healthy and then a bicycle will make him strong. Medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

"Through your skillful treatment I am once more a well man," writes J. N. Arnold, Esq., of Gandy, Logan Co., Neb. "I suffered for years with constipation and torpidity of the liver, irritation of the prostate and inflammation of the bladder. I took six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' and am permanently cured. You have been the means of saving my life."



A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

Governor Ramsdell of New Hampshire Commutes Dr. Hatch's Sentence.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 10.—Yesterday at the meeting of Governor Ramsdell and his council in this city, the sentence of Dr. John R. Hatch of Ossipee was commuted to imprisonment for life. Dr. Hatch was convicted of poisoning his wife and sentenced to be hanged.

Under the law passed at the last session, the governor has requested the bank examiner to examine and audit the accounts of the New Hampshire asylum for the insane.

Various pardon cases were considered at the morning session. Friday, Dec. 9, was named as the date on which hearing will be given in this city on the petition for the pardon from state prison of Dr. Joseph C. Moore of Manchester.

At the afternoon session, Henry M. Futney of Manchester was appointed railroad commissioner to succeed himself, and Hon. George W. Cummings of Francetown was appointed bank commissioner to succeed Thomas J. Walker, whose term expires Dec. 1.

Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Majority In the Lower Branch Is Slight.

Quay Buckles on His Armor For Another Fight.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The latest information received of the elections held in 42 states on Tuesday shows that in a general way 24 of them were carried by the Republican party, 14 by the Democrats and four by fusionists. In most cases this statement is based on the vote on the head of the ticket, while in a few, where there is no such result to judge from, the composition of the legislature or the choice of congressmen is taken as the determining factor. The four states apparently carried by the fusionists are Colorado, Idaho, Minnesota and Montana. The other 38 are divided between the Republican and Democratic parties as follows:

Democratic—Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia.

A small but safe Republican majority in the house of representatives of the Fifty-sixth congress is assured. The Republican margin in the senate is growing to comfortable proportions. It is believed that the upper house will contain 55 Republicans, 26 Democrats, 4 Populists and 4 silverites. Two seats are in doubt.

Chairman Babcock of the Republican congressional committee has practically completed a list of the representatives-elect to the Fifty-sixth congress. The latest authentic advices received by the Republican committee indicate that two districts are in doubt yet, viz., the Second California and the Twelfth Texas. In both, however, Mr. Babcock concedes that the chances are favorable to the Democrats. He claims neither of them.

Mr. Babcock's figures show the election of 185 straight Republicans, 163 Democrats, 6 Populists and 1 silver Republican. These figures do not include the two doubtful districts mentioned. Conceding these two districts to the Democrats, Mr. Babcock claims a certain majority of 13 over all opposition.

Mr. Babcock says that the public hardly realizes the full extent of the Republican victory on Tuesday. Even more important, he says, than the fact that the next house will be Republican is the sweeping change in the senate, where the fruits of Tuesday's election will give the Republicans 18 majority. "That majority cannot possibly be overcome for eight years," said Mr. Babcock, "and for at least that period the business interests of the country are safe. Republican policies must prevail for that length of time. Even if the next house and the next president should be for free silver a Republican senate would block their path. Besides the majority in the senate will give us a clean working majority there for enactment of our policies without the embarrassment that comes from narrow and unstable majorities. There need be no deals with the kickers. We will have a Republican majority sufficient to work freely, and what we do can be done with the knowledge that our legislation will have ample time to vindicate itself before a hostile senate can be elected to upset it."

Little information of a definite nature was received by the Democratic congresional committee. Secretary Kerr maintains that the opposition to the Republicans will organize and control the next house of representatives. His figures indicated that the opposition would have at least 180 votes and perhaps 181.

Following is a conservative estimate of the complexion of the next house:

AGAIN IN THE FIELD.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Senator Quay announces his candidacy for re-election. He says: "All of my friends have been aware of my personal antipathy to another term in the senate, but those prominent in the late crusade against the Republican state and legislative candidates chose to force the issue. They have made it imperative that I shall be a candidate for re-election. The gauge of battle is accepted. The result is in the hands of the Republican members of the incoming legislature, a very large proportion of whom are my political and personal friends. Throughout the campaign just closed enormous sums of money were used to defeat Republican legislative candidates. I have no doubt efforts will be made to tamper with some of the members-elect, but they will not be successful. The attempt to purchase the United States senatorship two years ago did not succeed then, nor will a similar attempt succeed now, bargain counter methods having been repudiated by the people of this state."

MATTHEW S. QUAY.

Senator Quay then offers a reward of $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one endeavoring to bribe any state senator or representative-elect.

The new Pennsylvania legislature, referred to by Senator Quay, will, by his estimate, have a Republican majority on joint ballot of 76, or nearly two-thirds.

The recent campaign in this state is alluded to in Mr. Quay's statement as a "man hunt, pure and simple," characterized by "personal abuse, villification and misrepresentation" unparalleled in American history. The chief opponents of Senator Quay were Rev. Dr. Swallow, the "honest government" candidate for governor, and ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker, who stumped the state.

Senator Quay claims that there is no doubt of his re-election. On the other hand, in a statement issued from the headquarters of ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker, who has been leading the forces of the opposition to Quay, the claim is made that an anti-Quay legislature has been elected.

Roosevelt's Plurality.

New York, Nov. 11.—Theodore Roosevelt's plurality for governor in this state will probably be between 17,000 and 18,000. Timothy L. Woodruff, for lieutenant governor, seems to have run about 10,000 votes behind his ticket in the state, but he and all the other Republican state candidates are elected. The Citizens' Union state movement was not even a tiny factor in the election. The Bacon ticket did not poll 800 votes in Manhattan and the Bronx, and the total vote it received throughout the state will be about 2000. Revised figures make no material change in the Republican majority in the New York legislature on joint ballot. The Republicans succeeded in electing four senators and 17 assemblymen in the greater city of New York.

The Republicans are already making plans for an assault on Tammany hall and its allies from Albany. The authoritative statement was made that the brewers, who supported Van Wyck, would find the next legislature passing a bill providing for the analysis of all beers under a state inspection similar to that now in operation in Germany, and that a heavy tax would be imposed on every brewery as a "revenue measure."

TACKLED THE SAFES.

Eight Masked Men Held Up a Train In Minnesota.

Engineer and Fireman Compelled to Obey Orders.

One Safe Could Not Be Opened, but Another Yielded to Dynamite.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Nov. 11.—The Great Northern through passenger train which passes through the city at 7:30 p. m. was held up and robbed about five miles west of this city last night. There were eight robbers in the gang, all well armed. Two of them boarded the blind baggage car in this city. The train was scarcely out of the town when these two climbed over the tender and presenting revolvers told Engineer Brace and his fireman to stop at a lonely spot near the Pelican river bridge. Arriving at this place the train was stopped and the engineer and fireman were ordered to leave the cab. The other members of the gang rushed from the woods and boarded the express car. All wore handkerchiefs over their faces.

When the train stopped the conductor and brakeman started forward to find out what the trouble was, but the bandits fired a number of shots and warned them to keep back.

They then compelled the express messenger to leave the car and proceeded to blow the safes. The local safe was destroyed and it was thought they secured considerable money. The through safe was drilled and dynamited, four charges being used. The jacket was blown off, but it was found impossible to reach the inner part and get at the cash.

The robbers worked over it nearly two hours, but gave up finally and left. The two men who stood guard over the engineer compelled him to give up $20.

The express car was somewhat wrecked by the explosion, but the trainmen got it to Carlisle, where is was patched up, and the train proceeded.

Several posses are out, but no trace of the robbers has yet been reported.

Much Sickness Reported.

San Francisco, Nov. 11.—The steamer Australia brings the following advices from Honolulu under date of Nov. 2:

Sickness among the soldiers in camp here is increasing. New cases are of almost hourly occurrence. Typhoid fever is rampant. The military hospital is crowded and the nursing force is entirely inadequate to the demands made upon it. Since Aug. 28 15 soldiers have succumbed to various diseases, typhoid carrying off seven. Last evening there were 208 New Yorkers on the sick list. Every effort is being made to place the camp in good sanitary condition.

The troopships Valencia and Senator sailed yesterday, and the Arizona, which has been delayed here on account of an accident to her water tank, will sail Sunday for Manila.

General King has been confined to his room for several days, suffering from the effects of a vaccination wound. The inflammation is serious, and there is a possibility of blood poisoning.

Not by Invitation.

London, Nov. 11.—The Madrid correspondent of The Daily Mail says: M. Patenotre and Sir Henry Drummond-Wolff, the French and British ambassadors, visited Duke Almodovar de Rioz, minister of foreign affairs, yesterday, to ascertain the motives and details of Emperor William's visit. He replied that nothing had been done officially; that the visit would be incognito, and that the authorities would do nothing beyond the usual salutes. The foreign minister added that the cabinet had not discussed the matter and that no invitation had been issued to the emperor to visit Madrid. The two ambassadors subsequently discussed the matter together. The greatest popular interest is displayed in Emperor William's decision, which is believed to be somehow connected with the political situation.

An Encouraging Sign.

Washington, Nov. 11.—An encouraging sign for the future, so far as prospects of continued peace are concerned, is the report to the state department from United States Consular Agent Hertens, at Grao, on trade conditions in eastern Spain. He says that commercial affairs are in a more promising condition, business activity is noticeable and confidence seems to be restored. A significant fact noted by the consular agent is the abolition by the Spanish government of the war tax of 2½ percent on exports. The effect of that tax, he says, was only to hamper trade without any special benefit to the treasury.

Troops Are Moving.

Middletown, Pa., Nov. 11.—The general movement of the Second army corps south began yesterday with the departure of the Thirty-fifth Michigan regiment for Augusta, Ga. The Michigan troops broke camp in a heavy rainstorm and were loaded in three sections of a train. A surgeon was assigned to each section and a hospital car was attached to the rear of the third section. The Second Tennessee regiment struck its tents and started for Columbia, S. C. Two and three regiments will be started away from here daily. General Young expects to have his entire corps of 25,000 troops in the southern camps by next Wednesday.

Still Kicking.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—The National Zeitung says: Germans regard the American reference in Lord Salisbury's Guildhall speech as the most significant portion of his remarks. They believe it was the hope of American support that gave him the courage to speak with resolution.

The Vossische Zeitung and the Berliner Post also refer to Lord Salisbury's American allusions and reach the conclusion that his speech "gives little hope of prolonged peace."

Railroad Whist.

Railroad whist was the attraction at the Wollaston Yacht club Tuesday evening and fourteen tables were filled by members and their wives and friends. The affair was in charge of the following committee of ladies: Mrs. William Chase, Mrs. A. T. Barstow, Mrs. William Given, Mrs. C. F. Marr, and Miss Carrie Jennings.

The hall was transformed into a well appointed railroad station and car, with the usual signs of "Beware of pick-pockets," "This train will leave a 11.60 G. M. & C."; also many signs that are unusual in a railroad station, such as "Never mind paying, this place is supported by its foundations." "Put your dogs, parrots, and babies in the baggage car," "No deadheads," "One fare for all regardless of age, sex, color or previous conclusions," "Not responsible for tricks lost while the players are asleep," and many other amusing notices. Two bottles of "something" hung on the wall bearing the sign "Hand Grenades, use only in case of fire." An old hatchet and saw were in place on the wall as emergency tools, with the regulation instructions, "For use in case of accidents."

Over the bountifully supplied lunch counter the signs "Armstrong prices," "Board 50 cents per foot, meals extra," "Tooth picks, extra rebate if only one end is used."

After Mr. Page, the ticket agent, had sold tickets sufficient to fill the train, the bell sounded and the train started, and at the expiration of two hours the destination was reached.

On summing up for points in the game of whist for the entire trip it was found that Miss Carrie Jennings had won the ladies' first prize, a pretty little clock, Mrs. A. L. Drew winning a handsome metallic purse. Mr. Winthrop Fearebay was entitled to a pair of gentlemen's extra fine suspenders, and Mr. William Cleaves to a bottle of bay rum.

After the prizes were distributed the lunch counter was besieged. Then dancing was indulged in until 10.30.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Kellar of Braintree, Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Shurleff of Quincy and Mrs. A. L. Drew of Cambridge.

Mayor Endorsed.

That is a handsome endorsement of Mayor Sears which the Councilmen of Ward Five have all signed. It is an open letter to the citizens of Ward Five and reads as follows:

"The undersigned, who have personally and in their official positions had occasion many times to be in a position to pass upon the policies and acts of Mayor Sears, believe that since the Mayor was inaugurated it has been his earnest desire to shape the policies of the city as would tend to improve the city as a place of residence. He has vigorously and enthusiastically advocated sidewalks—the results may be seen; he has effectually prosecuted, through the Sewer Commissioners, the installation of the sewerage sysem; he has taken personal and particular interest in the streets and street lighting; he had given additional police protection to this section; he has given unsparingly of his time to many matters of interest to Wollaston, such as the railorad station approaches, and the boulevard; that his attention to and accomplishments in the above matters and his general interest in the affairs of the city warrant his renomination to the office of Mayor for a second year, and we cordially recommend his renomination."

NOMINATIONS.

Republican Delegates for and Against Sears.

Several New Candidates for the City Council.

Contests in Some Wards for Ward Committees.

The time limit for filing nominations for the Republican caucus ballots expired last evening at 7.30 o'clock, and with the exception of Ward One the nominations are made public, and are given below:

WARD ONE.

The Ward One Republican committee met Thursday evening at the residence of A. G. Doliver to open the lists filed for delegates to the Mayoralty convention, for Councilmen, and for Ward Committee. When the lists were opened it was found that there were two lists of delegates, two lists of ward committee, and several for councilmen. While considering these some legal points came up for discussion and there was a difference of opinion. It was decided to adjourn until tonight at 7 o'clock, and in the meantime authorities on these points will be consulted. For this reason the lists from this ward are withheld from publication until Saturday.

WARD TWO.

The Quincy Point Republicans are well satisfied with the present Mayor and Councilmen. The only list of Mayoralty delegates are favorable to the renomination of Mayor Sears, and all the Councilmen are renominated without opposition. Councilman George A. Sidelinger is again the choice of the ward for candidate at large. The only new candidate is for the School Committee. The nominations:

School Committee,—Fred H. Smith.

WARD THREE.

The South Quincy ward has opposing lists for delegates and ward committee, and two new candidates for Councilmen. The first list of delegates is favorable to Mayor Sears, while the "unpledged" list is undoubtedly opposed. Harry S. Nicoll is the Councilman renominated. The ticket is as follows:

Delegates, "Favorable to renomination of Mayor Sears,"—Lester M. Pratt, Peter W. Dakers, Alexander Marnock, William J. Williams, Lewis B. Carlson, Alexander Clark and Frank L. Carlton.

"Unpledged,"—Thomas W. Smith, Thomas Johnston, George Main, John Kennedy, Andrew McIntosh, Julius Johnson, and Alexander Soudan.

WARD FOUR.

There was only one list of delegates filed by the West Quincy Republicans and it is said to be an "opposition list." Councilman Owens is renominated with two new candidates, who will have no opposition at the caucus. The ticket:

Delegates.—John Williams, Thomas Burke, F. Henry F. Geer, John Anderson, Sante Eliason.

WARD FIVE.

Wollaston Republicans are to have a fight over Mayoralty delegates and Councilmen. One list of delegates is favorable to Mayor Sears, while another is plainly marked in opposition. Dr. Willard's name does not appear for a renomination, but in his place are ex-Councilman Bryant and E. F. DeNormadie, who may make it hot for Councilman Pinkham and Jameson. The ticket:

For Delegates,—H. O. Fairbanks, J. B. Given, R. R. Freeman, E. E. Jameson, Walter S. Pinkham, Charles W. Page and E. F. DeNormandie.

Against the nomination of Russell A. Sears,—C. M. Bryant, J. H. Whitehead, Walter M. Hatch, W. J. Wellington, J. C. Bates, T. C. Gram and J. H. Lewes.

Councilmen,—E. E. Jameson, W. S. Pinkham, C. M. Bryant, and E. F. DeNormandie.

Ward Committee,—E. H. Sprague, E. E. Jameson, R. R. Freeman, W. S. Pinkham, C. M. Bryant, J. H. Whitehead, E. S. Thomas, Charles F. Marr.

WARD SIX.

Only one ticket was filed in the Atlantic ward. The delegates are said to be favorable to Mayor Sears. Two of the three Ward Councilmen are renominated, with Charles Alden as a new candidate. The nominations:

Delegates, — Herbert S. Barker, Alonzo Priest and Henry W. Read.

Council,—Charles Alden, Walter P. Hill and John E. Poland.

Ward Committee,— John E. Poland, David C. Nelson, Ralph W. Hobbs, Roger H. Wilde, Charles A. Hall, Walter P. Hill and Herbert S. Barker.

Sale at Wollaston.

The Ladies' society connected with the Wollaston M. E. church held a successful sale at the church vestry on Thursday afternoon and evening. Notwithstanding the inclement weather there was a large crowd in attendance and a brisk demand for the tempting array of goods.

From six to eight o'clock an appetizing turkey supper was served to as many people as the tables would comfortably seat. The arrangements for the supper were in charge of Miss Merrill, who was assisted by a number of ladies of the society. The ice cream was in charge of Mrs. L. E. Prince.

The general arrangements of the sale were in charge of Mrs. R. F. Ross.

The tables were arranged in the centre of the vestry in the form of a square. The effect with the lace curtain decorations was striking as well as pretty.

The fancy table was in charge of Mrs. Caroline Colgan, Mrs. J. M. Rawson, Mrs. A. A. Hirtle and Mrs. Schofield; the cake table,—Mrs. R. F. Ross and Miss Smith; the apron table,—Mrs. W. C. Sanders and Mrs. Fred A. Whittier; the candy table, — Mrs. Arthur C. Burrell, assisted by her Sunday School class. The tickets were in charge of Mrs. Durgin.

During the evening there was an entertainment consisting of a trio,—Mr. Harry W. Sprague cornet; Mr. James McTeer, violin; and Miss Emily Bjorkman, accompanist; a reading by Miss Jennings of the Park; and a tenor solo by Mr. H. O. Cassidy of Atlantic.

Special of Council.

It is probable that the Mayor will call a special meeting of the City Council for next Monday night. If so the Committee on Streets will report an order granting the Bicycle railroad a location through West Quincy the same being one of those suggested by Herbert T. Whitman, and which was published in the Ledger of a recent date. It is also probable that some provisions will be made in the call to change the date of the adjourned meeting to be held next Wednesday evening.

Real Estate Sales.

It was another remarkable week for real estate sales in Quincy, there being 25 conveyances recorded at Dedham registry. This makes 233 in seven weeks an average of over 33 per week. The list.

The City Council Committee on State Aid will meet Monday evening and the Committee on Ordinances Tuesday evening.

Private Harry L. Berry of Co. K is home on a 30 days' furlough, somewhat under the weather. Quincy air will soon set him right.

Rev. Robert Westly Peach was moderator of the meeting at Haverhill Thursday evening at the installation of the pastor of the Presbyterian church, and delivered the charge to the minister.

N. G. Nickerson of Wollaston is building an apartment and a single house on Marion street. The apartment house has been sold to Mrs. Ada Kendall of Melrose, who will occupy half of it.

The office hours of the Quincy postoffice from date will be as follows: Week days, from 6.30 A. M. to 8 P. M., Sundays from 9 to 10 A. M., and from 5 to 5.30 P. M.; holidays from 6.30 to 10 A. M., and from 5 to 7 P. M.

Messrs. N. G. Nickerson and W. G. Corthell of Wollaston have bought a lot of land at the corner of Lincoln and Winthrop avenues, containing 2,300 feet. This will be divided into four lots, the owners erecting a single house on each lot. Two of the houses were started today.

The John Hancock school defeated the Adams school in a game of foot ball Wednesday night, by the score of 31 to 0, and hope to play a return game. The features of the game were the line bucking of Murphy, Driscoll, Gillis, and a run of forty yards by Driscoll. The Coddingtons and John Hancocks will play Saturday.

The Camp Meade correspondent did not inform Quincy people that Sergeant Crane had put on his "winter clothes," so that many hardly recognized Tommy when he struck town Thursday wearing a full beard. He is on a week's leave of absence. He enjoys good health and says he could not be sick if he tried, as he did one day when there was some distasteful work.

The Eliot Club's programme for the coming season shows thought in planing. It is divided into four groups. Group A has for its topic "The United States of today"; group B, "A literary series"; group C, "history biographically considered"; group D, "miscellaneous." These topics are all sub-divided into subjects for the different meetings, which occur fortnightly.

Commissioner Knowlton held a conference with the State Highway Commission on Wednesday and reports that they have decided to put in the drains and catch basins on that part of Washington street taken by the Commission this fall. This will give the trenches a chance to settle before spring, when the road will be built. Work putting in these drains will probably be commenced next week.

There was a bad break in the water main which runs through a sewer trench opposite the Wollaston postoffice, on Thursday afternoon. Before the repairs could be effected the trench for the distance of nearly a hundred feet was badly washed out, making a large excavation in the center of the street. It was eleven o'clock at night before the water works gang had completed the repairs which were accomplished amidst a pouring rain, thus retarding the work.

A very enjoyable whist party was given by Miss Julia O'Brien at her home Thursday evening, and although the weather was very stormy a large number attended. The first prizes were taken by Miss Hannah Faircloth and Mr. Philip Sullivan. The booby prizes were taken by Miss Nellie McCarthy and Sergeant James J. Clarke of Neponset. During the evening recitations were given by Miss Nellie McCarthy, and Miss Mary Coffey, and solos by Sergeant Clarke, Mr. Michael Scannell and Miss Annie McKenna. A collation was served.

MILTON.

The Selectmen have recently posted a notice of warning to those people who ride bicycles or drive carriages in front of fire apparatus on the way to a fire. Its many cases when the fire apparatus is responding to an alarm of fire bicycle riders will persist in keeping just ahead of the apparatus, which bothers the drivers. They have to exercise unusual care, for no one knows how soon the bicycle rider may be thrown from his wheel. Unless the driver is very careful there is great danger of some one getting hurt. Violations of this notice will result in the prosecution of the parties.

There was but one session of school Thursday on account of the storm.

An interesting impromptu entertainment was given at this week's meeting of the Thursday Evening club, consisting of readings and music. Light refreshments were served.

Rev. H. C. Vrooman, who is visiting at East Milton, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational church on Sunday.

The Dorchester and Milton Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association will hold it first exhibition at Associates' hall the latter part of the month.

The Choral society of the Congregational church will give an old folks' concert at Ellsworth hall next Thursday evening.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

Literary Notes.

The frontispiece of the New England Magazine for November is a fine eproduction of a rare portrait of George Dewey, the hero of Manila, made in 1867. This appears in connection with an article on Montpelier, Vermont, Dewey's birthplace and home. Several papers on old Boston streets have aready been published in the magazine, and to the present issue Rev. Henry F. Bond contributes an account of Old Summer street, as it was in the days when many prominent Bostonians had residences there. Mr. Bonds' paper is important and valuable from an antiquarian point of view, and most interesting as showing the great changes which have taken place even within his own remembrance. The illustrative material used in his pages was for the most part prepared from old photographs in the Bostonian Society's possession.

The Doubleday & McClure Co. has just issued a copyrighted translation of Rostands' famous "Cyrano de Bergerac" which seems to be on the point of turning the literary world on this side of the Atlantic as completely upside down as it has done in France and England. Hardly had the book been published when a second edition was required; an edition de luxe on large paper, uncut and deckledged, with illustrations printed on Japan paper, and bound in blue cloth with the French fleur-de-lys, is to appear immediately. The translation is by Miss Gertrude Hall, who has already given ample proof of her special capabilities in this line by her spirited rendering of Verlaine. The book is an interesting example of the latitude which is indispensable to the translator who would really reproduce a piece of literature. The rhymed couplets, in which the original "Cyrano" is written, would hardly satisfy an English ear, however smooth and perfect they might be, and that Miss Hall has done wisely in discarding the rhyme is very evident when one compares her forceful prose with the ineffective rhythms that represent the best efforts of the metrical translators.

Among the contents of What to Eat for November are "How to Carve a Turkey," "Red, White and Blue Dinner," "A New Enlgand Dinner," "Use of Water as a Beverage," a "Thanksgiving 'Possum," "American Girls in Paris," poems, sketches, practical menus, etc., etc. A clever cover design, "Let Us Have Peace," ad colored pictures galore complete the largest number of What To Eat yet published.

Those who receive the new Calendar for 1899 given by The Youth's Companion to all new subscribers will be ready to allow that the publishers have pretty nearly accomplished their object, which was to produce the finest calendar of the century. The subject of the exquisite color piece which forms the centre is "The Ideal American Girl," and it is depicted in the most delicate tones as well as the most brilliant shades. The Calendar is so designed that no printing appears on the lithographed panels, and they may be preserved as permanent ornaments—suitable for the prettiest corner of the house. Not only is this Calendar a gift to all subscribers to the 1899 volume, but all new subscribers receive also the remaining issues of The Companion from the time of subscription until January 1, 1899, free then for two weeks, a full year, of January, 1900. A beautiful illusrated announcemen of the principal contributions engaged for the 1899 volume will be sent free to any one addressing The Youth's Companion, 211 Columbus avenue, Boston, Mass.

LETTERS FROM CO. K.

This has been a fine ideal day, warm and clear. A good day for election, but we don't vote. Our boys are pretty well worn out tonight, having changed their camp site, to another place. The work occupied the larger part of the day and the boys did not finish until nightfall.

I can now pacifically give the date of our departure for the south. It will be one week from tomorrow, Wednesday. This information the writer received today from an official source, and allowing for unforseen circumstances is final.

The camp now presents a very picturesque appearance, there being a row of trees between each company street.

The guard detail for today is as follows Corporal Whiting, Private Lyons, Martell, Malcolm, Morrissey, Mead, Morales, McPhee, McCarthy and McLaughlin.

The health of K boys remains O. K.
Volunteer.

Roughly Handled.

The granite manufacturers of Quincy and other places have had considerable trouble because of the rough handling that boxed granite receives in transit on the cars and in delivery to the customer. In many cases the boxing has been smashed and corners knocked off the granite when delivered, which means a claim for damages, and in some cases a law suit before the manufacturer gets his money. To try and remedy this evil the Quincy manufacturers have noted to appoint a committee to meet a like committee from the Barre manufactures, to try and remedy this evil.

Against Annexation.

Boston, Nov. 10.—At the meeting of the directors of the Boston Merchants' association yesterday the question of the acquisition of new territory was presented and most earnestly discussed by all present, resulting in the presentation of the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: "That, in the opinion of the board of directors of the Boston Merchants' association, the acquisition of any part of the Philippine islands, except what is needed for a naval station, would be detrimental to the interests of the United States."

No Protectorate.

London, Nov. 10.—At the Guild hall banquet last evening the Marquis of Salisbury did not announce a British protectorate over Egypt, but he emphasized the necessity of being prepared for all eventualities. The premier also said that the United States was a new and disturbing factor in European politics, but not to the detriment of Great Britain.

Viewed With Suspicion.

Madrid, Nov. 10.—Senor Sagasta declares that Emperor William is coming to Spain incognito. There is a good deal of comment upon the fact that he does not plan to stop at Gibraltar, where the coaling facilities are much greater than at Cadiz, and it is pointed out that he will arrive at a critical moment in the history of the Philippines.

Not Cooled Off.

Madrid, Nov. 11.—The Madrid newspapers are regaling their readers with virulent attacks upon everything American. They assert that, "owing to the brutality of the American soldiery brigandage is rife in the interior of Porto Rico, and many residents are quitting their homes." They compare the "present disorder" with the "tranquility under Spanish rule." With regard to the Philippines they reiterate that "America's demands will not be tolerated."

Lottie Will Live.

London, Nov. 11.—The condition of Miss Lottie Collins, the singer, made famous by singing "Ta-ra-ra Boom de Aye," who tried to commit suicide, is greatly improved and there is now no doubt of her recovery.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to R, and today's instalment is the fourth of the S's:

The death of Alphonse Reinhalter places upon the market a desirable quarry at West Quincy on the line of the Quarry railroad. It will be sold at public auction Dec. 3, by Hon. William A. Hodges, the administrator.

It would be gratifying to the young ladies who take the six o'clock car from the factory at Wollaston for Quincy on stormy nights, to receive better accommodations, than one car affords, they are obliged to crowd into the one car sent for them like beasts. They don't like it and believe the railway company should recognize the human necessity of supplying more adequate accommodations.

Wollaston Sociable.

The inclement weather did not deter a large crowd from attending the sociable given under the auspices of the Ladies' Benevolent society at the Wollaston Congregational church, on Thursday evening. Supper was served at seven o'clock. At the entertainment which followed, Mrs. N. G. Nickerson sang with pleasing effect the song, "Dreaming." Mrs. William P. Bailey rendered a piano solo and then there was the Ghost drill, "The Battle of Blenheim." The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. H. T. Whitman and Mrs. George A. Bailey; and the supper committee were Mrs. W. H. Brasee, Mrs. C. F. Wilde, Mrs. James H. Broughton and Mrs. George. W Stone.

NO USE FOR NEGROES.

Trouble at Wilmington, N. C., Culminates In a Race Riot.

Nine Men Become Victims of Shotgun Argument.

Wrecking of a Newspaper Office Set the Ball Rolling In Earnest.

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 11.—A crowd gathered here Wednesday "to assert the supremacy of the white man." Resolutions were adopted urging upon citizens the employment of white labor in preference to black, and declaring that the mayor and chief of police, having demonstrated their incapacity, should immediately resign.

The chief purpose of the meeting, however, was to take action in the case of Alec Manley, a negro editor, who recently printed an attack upon white women. So fierce was the indignation against Manley that a party was organized to hunt him, and if found he would have been lynched. Conservative citizens induced the leaders of the expedition to defer the search for Manley, under the promise that he should be driven out of town. Manley has left the city.

The city is now in the hands of a new municipal government and law and order are being established. The board of aldermen resigned yesterday one by one. As each alderman vacated the remainder elected a successor named by the citizens committee, until the entire board was changed legally. They resigned in response to public sentiment. The new board is composed of conservative Democratic citizens.

The mayor and chief of police then resigned and the new board elected their successors according to law. Ex-Representative Waddell was elected mayor and L. G. Parmalee chief of police. The first act of the new government was to swear in 250 special policemen, chosen from the ranks of reputable white citizens. They are vested with all the authority of the law and will take charge of the city. The citizens will remain on duty, however, throughout the town to prevent possible attempts at incendiarism. The new government will devote its attention to restraining recklessness among the whites as well as keeping down lawlessness among the negroes. Further trouble of a general or serious nature is not expected.

Soon after the meeting George Rountze received a telegram from Governor Russell saying he would use all his efforts to influence the mayor and city council to resign if that would restore peace. Mr. Rountze sent the following reply: "Mayor and aldermen have resigned. Two hundred and fifty special policemen sworn in. Law will be maintained and peace restored."

The trouble in Wilmington commenced at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, when an armed body of citizens, numbering about 400, led by ex-Representative Waddell, chairman of a committee of 25 appointed for the purpose, proceeded to the publishing house of a negro newspaper, The Record, to wreck it. The editor of this paper had published an article defamatory of white women, and a mass meeting of citizens on Wednesday ordered his expulsion from the city within 24 hours and the removal of his press. Fifteen leading negroes were called in by the committee of 25 Wednesday night and directed to notify the chairman by 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning whether they would agree to the removal of the press. They were informed that if no answer was returned the press would be demolished.

No answer was received by the chairman, and after waiting an hour the citizens proceeded in a body and demolished the fixtures of the printing office. The building was also fired and gutted. The leaders say that this action was the work of irresponsible persons, and as soon as the fire was discovered the fire department was called out to extinguish it.

The burning of the printing office created a great commotion among the negroes of the town. The rumor spread that the whites were going to burn and murder in the negro quarter. This rumor reached the negro employes of a cotton compress, numbering 300 or 400, who quit work and hung about the streets in manifest terror. Other parties congregated in the negro section, and it was in one of these that the first tragedy was enacted. The men were standing on a corner and were ordered to disperse. They declined and, it is claimed, fired into the whites.

A fusilade was immediately opened upon them by the whites, and three negroes were killed. Two whites were wounded slightly. One negro ran down the street and passing a residence fired a rifle at William Mayo, white, standing on the veranda, shooting him through the left lung. This negro was recognized, pursued and captured while hiding under a bed. It is said he confessed to the shooting. He was riddled with shot by his captors and killed.

In the meantime the town was in a state of excitement. The whites rushed to the scene from every direction, the local military company was ordered out and a battalion of United States naval reserves proceeded to the vicinity of the trouble with a rapid-fire gun.

About 1 o'clock some negroes in a house fired upon a passing party of white men. The house was surrounded and four negroes were captured and taken to the jail. One negro broke away and ran, but was shot down and killed before he had proceeded half a block.

During the afternoon there were other affairs of this kind and eight negroes were killed at various times in the disturbed sections. Their names at present are unknown.

As the news of the riot spread through the neighboring cities they offered to send help. All such offers were declined, except in the case of Fayetteville, from which town came about 150 men. As night fell the town was completely patrolled and guarded. Very few negroes were on the streets and they were not allowed to congregate anywhere.

The action of the citizens in organizing a new municipal government is expected to bring peace and order and no rioting is expected.

Ex-Representative Waddell, chairman of the committee of 25, received at noon yesterday the following letter: "We, the colored citizens to whom was referred the matter of the expulsion from this community of the person and press of A. L. Manly, beg most respectfully to say that we are in no wise responsible for, nor in any manner condone, the obnoxious article that called forth your actions. Neither are we authorized to act for him in this matter, but in the interest of peace we will most willingly use our influence to have your wishes carried out."

This answer, instead of being delivered in person to Mr. Waddell at 7:30 in the morning as required, was placed in the mail and did not reach him until after the printing office had been destroyed.

A crowd formed last night to take from the jail and lynch two negroes, Thomas Miller and Ira Bryant, who were arrested yesterday, charged with making threats, and were regarded as dangerous cases.

Mayor Waddell promptly prohibited the assembling of the crowd at the jail, and he himself headed a guard of 25 men with Winchesters to guard the prisoners.

Another negro was killed last night at Tenth and Mulberry streets. He was hailed by a guard, but refused to halt and continuing to advance was shot by the guard.

At midnight the newly elected mayor issued the following proclamation: "The undersigned, upon whom has been placed the great responsibility, by the action of his fellow citizens, takes this method of assuring the good people of this city that all the power with which he is vested will be exerted to preserve order and peace in the community, and that power is ample and sufficient for the purpose. All well-disposed persons are earnestly requested to co-operate with the municipal authorities in every way possible to secure the permanent establishment of good government. The law will be rigidly enforced and impartially administered to white and black people alike."

Negroes Shot Down.

Greenwood, S. C., Nov. 11.—Five negroes lay dead at Rehobeth all day yesterday along the roadside, another was killed yesterday afternoon and likely four others are dead and lost in the woods. One white man was buried, three others lie at the point of death and more have been wounded. Four heads of families have left the country and armed troops of countrymen are scouring the country hunting other victims. The trouble was precipitated on election day, when 200 or 300 negroes at the polls opened a fusilade against the store in which the voting was going on. In this fight one man was killed and one wounded. The second occasion for provocation was that a party hunting the slayers of the first man killed was fired into and one fatally wounded and another badly hurt. The arming of the negroes at the polls, the killing of Etheridge, the firing from ambush, all conspired to kindle a flame of passion, and when that will die down it is difficult to tell.

Unwilling to Give Up.

Boston, Nov. 11.—The committee elected in August to investigate the affairs of the Electrolytic Marine Salts company has prepared a report which is being sent to the stockholders. The committee satisfied itself that the process was worthy of more complete trial, and is antagonistic to a receivership, but nominates an independent committee of reputable citizens to take the company's business into its hands with power to thoroughly test the Jernegan process and disentangle the legal snarl into which affairs have drifted.

To Control Tin Plate.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—According to a financial news bureau the consolidation of the tin plate industry of the United States is now practically assured. The Chicago promoters say the $50,000,000 of capital stock has already been oversubscribed. The organizers have figures showing that the output of the tin industry this year is 8,000,000 boxes, and a low estimate places the product of next year at about 9,000,000.

As Woodford Views It.

New York, Nov. 11.—Stewart L. Woodford was a guest of honor at a dinner given by the Baptist Social union here last night. In the course of a speech he said: "Our flag is in Manila bay. Every instinct of our people is averse to what has been mistaken for imperialism. And yet after giving the Philippines a taste of freedom, to leave them to their fate now would be a crime against God and man."

Comforting Report.

Boston, Nov. 11.—Colonel J. H. Whitney of the Fifth regiment has written a letter to Governor Wolcott, in which he says: "The health of the boys of the Fifth regiment still remains excellent; in fact, we have the least percentage of sickness of any regiment in the corps. The discipline still remains the same, and from appearances the boys are, if anything, better contented than when we left South Framingham."

Plenty of Gold.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 11.—Captain Abercrombie, U. S. A., and his surveying party arrived yesterday on the steamer Excelsior from Copper river, Alaska. The party claim to have cut a trail from Valdes to Copper river, which does away with the dangerous trip over the glacier and shortens the distance 60 miles. Captain Abercrombie reports rich gold finds in the interior.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:32; sets, 4:25.
Moon rises—4:58 a. m.
High water—9:45 a. m.; 10 p. m.

The storm was central last night in western New York, moving northeast. General rains prevailed in the middle states, and thence northward, and high winds along the coast from Atlantic City to Portland. The disturbance will pass to the northward today, with clearing weather in New England. Fair, somewhat colder weather, with westerly winds, are indicated for this district through Saturday. Probably continued fair weather Sunday.

MARINE DISASTERS.

Severe Weather Responsible For Wrecks and Loss of Life.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—Waterlogged and unfit to weather a storm upon the lakes the Thal, a two-masted schooner, foundered off Glencoe in the gale of Wednesday night and went to pieces in the surf. The wreckage was cast upon the beach, but no trace of the crew has been found and it is thought that all went down after cutting loose from the wreck in the ship's dory. The schooner is a total wreck. On board the schooner were Captain Schurman and a crew of three men.

Point Pelee Lighthouse, Lake Erie, Nov. 11.—Steamer J. P. Donaldson lost two of her consorts early yesterday six miles southeast of the Dummy lighthouse. The missing boats, it is feared, have foundered in the gale. Each boat carried a crew of about six men.

Halifax, Nov. 11.—The government steamer Lansdowne arrived here yesterday from Sable island with the crew of the Gloucester schooner Mariner on board. The vessel was wrecked Saturday night and is a total loss. The crew were rescued with difficulty. They are being looked after by the United States consul.

Neglected and Underfed.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Major General Miles has submitted to the secretary of war a report on the operations of the army during the year, and it is accompanied by the reports of commanders, most of which have been published. General Miles takes up the war with Spain, saying that the army was neglected and underfed. His report recommends that our standing army be increased to practically the same size as when war began. He wants America to be on a war footing. No direct attack is made on General Shafter, but the report says, "I, Miles, was in command."

Cut Her Throat.

New York, Nov. 11.—A well-dressed woman, about 35 years old, entered a pawnshop on Ninth avenue yesterday, apparently in a state of excitement. She attained a loan of 50 cents on a well-worn wedding ring and a small gold pin. She then bought a razor from a clerk in the pawnshop and cut her throat with it, dying instantly. The woman is unknown, the name on the tickets being "Mrs. Wicket." A note was found in a pocket which read: "May God and my children forgive their mother. Good bye forever. A ruined life. Verdict temporary insanity, but such is not the case."

Railroads Sold Out.

New York, Nov. 11.—The foreclosure sale of the Brooklyn elevated railroad, the Union elevated railroad and the Brooklyn Bridge elevated railroad was accomplished yesterday in Brooklyn by the Central Trust company of Manhattan. There were only one bidder, Frederick L. Olcott, chairman of the committee on reorganization of the Brooklyn elevated, and the bid was $5,507,500. This bid covers the entire real estate property, rolling stock and fixtures. The company's first mortgage bonds represent the sum of $10,015,000.

Labor Troubles at Marlboro.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 11.—It is a possibility and also a probability that a big strike is imminent here, all due to the action of the shoe manufacturers here yesterday. It was started by the formal announcement of the S. H. Howe Shoe company, which operates four large factories and employs 2000 hands, and John A. Frye, who employs several hundred, that they shall inaugurate free shops Wednesday, Nov. 23. Other manufacturers are in sympathy with the new movement.

Lord George Hamilton, secretary of state in India, speaking in London last evening, said he agreed with Lord Salisbury that it was quite impossible to overestimate the importance of America's entrance upon a colonizing policy. "England and America," he declared, "whose ideas and interests are identical, should stand side by side in the promotion of civilization and good government in the dark places of the earth."

AFTERMATH.

Naturally Colonel Roosevelt is being discussed as a presidential possibility. He has been showered with telegrams of congratulations from all over the country. The organization in New York state has been understood to be under a quasi agreement to throw its support in the next national convention to President McKinley. Predictions are being made that Colonel Roosevelt and the Republican organization will get into a snarl before the coming session of the legislature is over. Efforts will be made by the friends of Colonel Roosevelt and Senator Platt to prevent any serious hitch, but the impression is growing that Colonel Roosevelt is absolutely not under any obligations to anyone.

Squabble In Delaware.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 11.—The Addicks Republicans are jubilant over the election and claim that 20 out of the 29 Republican members of the legislature will be for J. Edward Addicks for United States senator. The regular Republicans do not concede this claim, but Addicks apparently has a majority of the Republican caucus. The regular Republicans will urge a big fight against Addicks, and the coming session of the legislature promises to be most exciting. The regular Republicans will attempt to hold enough members to prevent the election of Addicks, either by refusing to go into a caucus, if he is to be nominated, or by bolting the caucus.

The Republicans will file a number of protests against the election of Democrats in districts where the majorities were very slight, and where a number of alleged defective Republican ballots were thrown out.

THE SIMPLIST CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

As Well as Safest and Cheapest.

The new medical discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tables, digest the food instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, give it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

You get nourishment and rest at the same time because these Tablets will thoroughly digest all wholesome food taken into the stomach whether the stomach works or not. A cure is certain to result because the digestive organs are given a chance to rest and recover their natural vigor and tone. The Tablets are then no longer required.

To show the manner in which the remedy acts on different people and how quickly and effectually it cures stomach troubles we present a few recent cases.

Mr. J. O. Wondly of Peoria, Ills., writes; I was unable to eat anything but the plainest food and even that often distressed me, but since using one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets I can eat anything and everything I want.

Mrs. Samuel Kepple of Girty, Pa., writes: I have been entirely relieved of my stomach troubles by your Tablets. I suffered three years with sour stomach and gas at night. I am thankful for them.

Mrs. A. E. Bowen, Barnard, Vt., writes; I think Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best thing for dyspepsia I ever took. I will recommend them to anyone troubled as bad as I was.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will not disappoint because they cure Dyspepsia surely and lastingly by causing the food to be properly assimilated, and cure constipation by producing the proper quantity of bile. Sold by all druggists at 50 cents per package. Send for free book on stomach diseases to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. 6-9-1t

BY ABSORPTION

NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

THE UNITY CLUB.

Interesting Papers and an Interesting Musical Programme

The regular meeting of the Unity club was held at the Wollaston Unitarian vestry last evening before a crowded house. It was one of the most brilliant meetings ever held. Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop was in charge, and also presided owing to the illness of President Finch. As the next regular meeting falls on the night after Thanksgiving it was voted to postpone it to Friday eveinng, Dec. 2.

Last evening's programme was one of the strongest that ever was presented to the club from a musical as well as from a literary point of view. The musical part was in charge of Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith and Professor Marceau.

The literary part of the meeting was opened by a paper prepared by Miss Wood of the Quincy Mansion school on the Guilphs and Ghibellines whose contents for upwards of 400 years devastated Germany and Italy, finally yielding to self-exhaustion and the distraction caused by the French invasion. Miss Wood also spoke on the Sicilian Vespers and Joanna of Naples.

Miss Turner read an instructive paper, illuminated by reproductions, on Fra Angelico, so called from the beauty of the angels which he painted. He was a Monk of San Domenico near Frisoli, and gratuitously painted sacred subjects only, unrivalled for ecstatic expressions including frescoes in his own monastery and at Florence and Rome. His best picture is the "Coronation of the Virgin" in the Louvre.

The Rev. James E. Bagley spoke upon Dante, the poet, whose range of acquirements would be encyclopaedic in any age, but at the time he lived it was literally possible to master all that was to be known, and he seems to have accomplished it. His writings were all (with the possible exception of the treatise De Vulgari Eoquio) autobiographic, and all of them, including that, are parts of a mutually related system, of which the central point is the individuality and experience of the poet.

Mr. Frederick H. Bishop read a paper on Rossini, the Great Italian composer, whose operas number about 40 and who also wrote cantatas, hymns, and miscellaneous vocal and instrumental pieces.

To illustrate his style of composition Mrs. C. N. Allen of Boston sang an aria from the opera "Williams Tell," and Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith and Mr. C. N. Allen played on the piano and voilin fantasy themes from that opera. Then Professor Marceau with a chorus of twenty voices sang the "Inflammatus" from Stabat Mater with Mrs. Allen for soloist. The chorus also sang the prayer from "Moses in Egypt."

Mr. Bishop also read a short paper on Paganini and was supplemented by Mr. Allen, who gave a brief criticism of his work. Illustrations from his works were then given by Mr. Allen, who played an air and march, Mrs. Smith accompanying.

Q. H. S. Alumni.

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association of the Quincy High school was held, last evening in the High school building, President Charles A. Hall, presided. After the secretary and treasurer's reports had been read and accepted, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year:

President,—Mr. Charles A. Hall, '85.

Vice Presidents, — Mr. George R. Lewis, '98; Mr. William R. Thomas, '89; Mrs. M. M. Gavin, '66.

Secretary,—Mr. Herbert F. Wilkins, '97.

Tresasurer,—Mr. Amos L. Litchfield, '72.

Directors with above, — Miss L. Merton Pratt, '97; Miss Mary Dinnie, '95; Mr. William A. Field, '98; Mrs. J. M. Nowland, '91.

After the election of the officers, a short but very interesting and valuable talk was given by Mr. F. A. Tupper, the head master of the school.

Grand Fair.

Opening of a grand fair for the benefit of the Relief fund of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., at Music hall, is on Monday evening, Nov. 14th. The City Band will escort the Post and Camp 27, Sons of Veterans, to the centre railroad station, where His Honor, Russell A. Sears, Mayor, William H. Bartlett, Commander; Warren B. Stetson, A. A. G. of the Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R.; Gen'l. Couch, Division Commander of the Massachusetts Sons of Veterans, will be met and escorted to the hall, and with a few remarks the fair will be declared open for the week.

THE REST OF IT.

Give every man his share
  Of sorrow or of glee,
And he will wonder where
  The other part can be.
If pain be half his lot,
  He tries to make a jest of it.
It serves to warn him not;
  He wants to know the rest of it.

Give woman half a hint
  Of how the scandal goes,
And she will never stint
  When telling what she knows.
One tells the story straight,
  Another what she guessed of it;
The others watch and wait;
  They want to know the rest of it.

Give any growing boy
  A watch, and there's no doubt
'Twill be his vandal joy
  To turn it inside out.
He isn't satisfied
  To merely be possessed of it.
The watch looks well outside;
  He wants to know the rest of it.

And so the story goes
  Through all the alphabet;
No wit or science throws
  A light upon it yet.
The problem's in our hand,
  We ought to make the best of it.
But still, you understand,
  We want to know the rest of it.
—Boston Courier.

STOLEN BY APES.

This is the story of Ruffles, who got his funny little name in a faroff East Indian army post, and it tells how he came near being adopted by a tribe of baboons just about the time when he got his name.

Ruffles is quite a big boy now. When his father, who is a captain in the British Indian army, comes home after parade, Ruffles can carry his big saber quite like a soldier, and he can go around by the back of the compound, which is the name for the big yard where his father and lots of other soldiers live, and, walking very heavily upon the veranda of his own home, he can make his mother believe that a very important visitor has arrived at the front door. Then his mother looks at herself in the mirror for fear her pretty hair may be mussed and sends one of the black servants to receive the caller. Then, of course, Ruffles is very delighted with his joke and everybody laughs, including the new "syce," or groom, just down from the hills, where there are only black people, and he doesn't understand in the least what it is all about.

It was a long time ago when Ruffles was carried off by the baboons, but it is the most excitiug of stories still. In the long evenings when Ruffles' father is busy in his study with reports and papers and other tiresome things Ruffles draws a cassock up to his mother's knee and says, "Now, mom, tell me how daddy found me when the baboons were carrying me away." Then Ruffles' mother twists her fingers in the curls which Ruffles secretly hopes to get rid of before long, and her eyes shine with the memory of the terrible night when she thought her poor little son was the victim of the jungle beasts.

"It was when the regiment was stationed in a little fort up in the hills near King William's Town," says she. "There had been fighting with the Kaffirs, and just the minute it was over you and I and Nurse O'Brien set off in bullock carts to see your daddy. When we got there, they made a great welcome for you, because you were the first white baby ever seen in that part of India. We had taken your perambulator along, and Nurse O'Brien used to wheel you about in the kloof." As Ruffles had been raised in India he, of course, knew that the "kloof" was simply a space in the jungle where trees and bushes had been cleared away, so that prowling beasts or prowling Kaffirs might not come too near. That was before Nurse O'Brien married Sergeant Brown," continued Ruffles' mother.

"Of course," said Ruffles sagely. "Her name wasn't Brown then."

"Correct!" said Ruffles' mother with what Ruffles called her "young lady laugh."

"Now," she continued, "whether it was Nurse O'Brien's fault or Sergeant Brown's fault that you were carried off by the baboons hasn't ever been settled."

"Wasn't it both of their faults?" inquired Ruffles.

"I rather think it was," replied his mother, "though they haven't yet agreed to that between themselves. At any rate, every one knew that when Nurse O'Brien pushed your perambulator about the kloof Sergeant Brown always walked along and talked to Nurse O'Brien. It was a very wild, lonesome place, our fort was, not nearly as nice a station as this, where you have lots of little friends to go to school with you."

"Wasn't there any school there?" asked Ruffles.

"Not a sign of one," replied his mother. "Not a school within 200 miles. Why, they couldn't have had a school for just one little white baby, you know."

Ruffles was silent and breathed a sigh which might have indicated that even this frontier hardship could be borne by patriotic infants.

"Nearly every night," continued his mother, "the baboons used to come all round the kloof, jumping in the trees and howling like—like"—

"Like this," said Ruffles, howling beautifully.

"Just like that," said his mother. "Well," she continued, "one night you were out in your perambulator, and Nurse O'Brien and Sergeant Brown were talking very busily. Suddenly there was an awful howl right at their elbows, and the perambulator was overturned.

"Before either of them could guess what had happened four or five baboons rushed past them, and the very biggest one snatched you up in his arms and ran off with you into the jungle. You just gave one little squeal, and the last they saw of you was your ruffles fluttering in the moonlight as the baboon carried you away. When they told me, I fainted, and when I recovered consciousness I thought I should go mad."

Here Ruffles' mother caught his fat little chin in a loving grasp and held it for a moment.

"You know," said she, "your daddy had ridden to a kraal 18 miles away, where the Kaffirs had been ugly, and he wasn't expected back until late in the night. The whole garrison was thrown into a perfect turmoil when the news of your being carried away reached the barracks. The men rushed into the jungle without orders, some of them only half dressed, but nearly all carrying their rifles. I stood at the gate of the kloof until nearly midnight. The soldiers began to return without having found a trace of poor little Ruffles, and I prayed that I might die when the last man had come in.

"Among the officers who had gone out to search for you was Captain McAdams, and it was he who saw the strangest part of it all. He became separated from the rest of the party, and on a little knoll, where there was a big tree with a wide hollow in it, just a little higher than a man's head, he caught sight of your daddy going through the jungle afoot and carrying something in his arms. Captain McAdams had been so confused and horrified by your adventure that he was quite nervous. He couldn't imagine why your daddy was walking in the jungle, and for the moment he believed that daddy had heard about the baboons carrying you away, and that the news had made him lose his mind. So Captain McAdams just stood perfectly quiet in the shadow of a bush and waited. He saw your daddy carefully lay a bundle right in the hollow of the big tree, standing on his tiptoes to reach high enough. Then daddy went quickly away, and Captain McAdams was quite certain that he was demented. Captain McAdams was going toward the tree to find out what the bundle contained when your daddy came crashing through the bushes on Sultan's back. Sultan was snorting and rearing in a way which proved that he was badly frightened. Your daddy was the best horseman in the regiment then, as he is now."

"The best one in the world, mom," interrupted Ruffles excitedly.

"Yes, of course, and he rode Sultan right up to the tree, and leaning over in the saddle picked up the bundle he had placed in the hollow. And what do you think it was?"

"It was me!" shouted Ruffles.

"Indeed it was!" laughed Ruffles' mother, giving him a good, tight hug. "Your daddy was just galloping off with you when Captain McAdams called to him. 'Ned!' he shouted. 'Ned, old man! Where did you find Ruffles?'

" 'Upon my word,' said your daddy, 'I don't know whether or not I'm just right in my head. A big baboon dropped the poor little beggar right in my path.'

" 'Is he—is he hurt?' asked Captain McAdams.

" 'Not a bit!' said your daddy. 'He's right as a golden guinea.'

" 'Ned,' said Captain McAdams, 'we've been searching the jungle for that blessed baby since 9 o'clock, expecting to find him torn to pieces. The baboons stole him right out of his perambulator.'

"Your daddy took off his hat just as he does when the colors march past, and then he kissed you.

" 'But in the name of common sense, Ned,' said Captain McAdams, 'what did you mean by putting the baby up a tree?'

" 'The baboons that dropped Ruffles gave Sultan such a start,' said your dady, 'that I couldn't mount him with Ruffles in my arms. So I picketed Sultan, put Ruffles in the hollow tree and then rode up and lifted him out.' "

There was a pause, and Ruffles said, "Mom, did they reduce Sergeant Brown to the ranks?"

"No," said Ruffles' mother. "Wasn't it as much Nurse O'Brien's fault as his?"

"Yes," said Ruffles judicially, "I guess it was, and it wouldn't be fair to punish one without punishing the other and it wouldn't be military to punish a woman."

And Ruffles' mother only laughed and said, "Bless my little man's heart!" —Cincinnati Enquirer.

OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

GOWN OF NUT-BROWN LADIES' CLOTH FROM HARPER'S BAZAR.

Shaped bands and stitchings which are at present lavished upon cloth as well as silk and velvet gowns trim in tunic effect a handsome Paris costume of nut-brown ladies' cloth. The circular over-dress, seamed in front is encircled with six rows of bias bands meeting in points, stitched on each edge.

Many lines of stitching trim also the shaped flounce, which lengthens the tunic, and rises in front to disclose a portion of the under-skirt—a seven-gored silk foundation four yards wide, faced in front with fthe cloth. The back fulness of the tunic is dusted in a graduated box-pleat.

The jacket, whose pointed revers are faced in white, has a border of sable fur, and pointed stitched bands trim alike the fronts and seamless back.

With the bolero is worn a dainty Frnch chemisette, formed of a chenille patterned net and a great bow, whose ends are of the same chenille lace, and accompanied by a fluffy boa velvet edgeed. The long sleeves end in funu shapee low over the hand, and are banded their entire length with stitched folds. Currant-red velvet composes the waist-band. The proper cut of this gown can be obtained only by the use of the cut paper patterns furnishe by Harper's Bazar, where the gown appears.

What Reputation Will Do.

The owner of an intelligent dog had been in the habit of allowing him to take a coin and go to the market to buy his own meat. The dog would fetch the meat home, deposit it in the shed and then, when hungry, go and get it.

The household cat found the meat there and on several occasions stole it. The dog discovered what was going on, and would lie in wait for her near the meat, and when she approached would chase her away.

At length he tired of watching his dinner, and fell into the habit of carrying his purchases to the cellar and burying them in the sand. One day the dog's owner removed the meat from the cellar to see what he would do when he found it gone.

After a time the dog went to the cellar and began to dig in the sand where he had left his meat. It was not there. He lay down a minute, as if to think the matter over, and then suddenly rushed up the stairs, and, spying the cat, "went for her," as the boy of the family said, and chased her all over the yard.—Christian Leader.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

TOPIC.—"Christian recreation."—Isa. xxxv, 1-10.

Recreation is becoming more and more a necessity as the world advances. We live faster, we do more in a shorter space of time than our forefathers ever did, and in so living and doing we wear heavily on our mental and physical systems. This constant wear and tear demands times of resting for recuperation. God realized that man would need rest amid the laborious duties of life. He gave us night in which the mind and body may receive new strength and vigor. He gave us one day in seven as a rest day and for a day of worship. In these days it is being almost universally conceded that more time even than this should be used for rest and recreation. Holidays and half holidays are used for this purpose, and wherever possible, special seasons of the year are used for vacations. All are necessary. The constant nervous strain to which the average man today is subjected is very wearing. It makes the hands weak and they need to be strengthened; it makes the knees feeble and they need to be confirmed. One of the best ways to do this is to rest and recreate. The Christian must realize this and act accordingly.

The result of this rest and recreation will be increased ability to labor. Thus we shall gather increased strength to open the eyes of the blind, to unstop the ears of the deaf, to make the lame man leap as the hart and the tongue of the dumb to sing. It's a false economy that provides no place for recreation. All work and no play not only makes Jack a dull boy, but weakens and shortens the life work of many a man and woman.

In Christian recreation there should be nothing un-Christian. Recreation times are times of temptation. Relieved from active work, we may feel sometimes relieved of moral obligation. But this is certainly not the case. We should never do at a time of recreation what we could not do in the moments of the most laborious work for Christ. Nor should opportunities to do good be neglected at such times. Christ, resting on the well curb in Samaria, did not lose the opportunity to speak to a sinful woman about the water of eternal life. Rest times often bring to us splendid opportunities to speak a word for Christ. Let us do it as He did it.

Bible Readings.—Ex. xxxi, 17; xxxiii, 14; II Sam. xvi, 11-14; Ps. lv, 6; lxxxiv, 1-10; Isa. xl, 28-31; lv, 1-3; Jer. vi, 16; Job. xi, 18, 19; Math. xi, 28, 29; John iv, 1-10; II Tim. i, 16-18.

Christian Endeavor Societies.

There are now within the borders of the United States 41,222 societies. These figures do not include the junior, intermediate and other societies. The total enrollment of worldwide Christian Endeavor is 54,191 societies, with an individual membership of more than 3,250,000. South Africa is entitled to the banner for the greatest proportionate increase in the number of societies. The junior societies continue to increase rapidly. There are now nearly 14,000 societies in the world. One thousand of these are to be found in foreign lands.

Russia is the only country in the world without a Christian Endeavor society.

There are 77 mothers' societies, 45 senior or graduate, societies, 17 societies in the United States army and in volunteers' camps, 119 societies in the United States navy and on board merchant ships. During the last year 27,686 juniors have become members of the church. From the intermediate societies 1,518 have joined their home churches and 196,550 from the young people's societies, making a total re-enforcement of church membership during the year amounting to 2?5,754.—Secretary Baer.

At the Present Line.

At this time of public excitement and upheaving, when all are thinking and talking almost constantly of the war and its results, we must not forget that there is a God upon the throne, whose right and province it is to direct and determine the destiny of nations as well as of individuals. He rules in the armies of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth, using this and that nationality for the accomplishment of His purposes. All events somehow further the establishment and extension of His kingdom. He has permitted the present crisis for some wise end and Christians ought to beseech Him to bring out of it such results as will be most for His glory and for the good of humanity.—Presbyterian.

Is Reverence Declining?

Is reverence declining? Yes, reverence for stocks and stones and senseless things. Let us rejoice, not lament, in consequence. Let us exult that we are advancing sufficiently to distinguish between reverence and superstition. The full fruitage will fall to a later age, but it cannot be long delayed.—Jewish Messenger.

Just as Near.

This is the beginning of all gospels—that the kingdom of heaven is just where we are. It is just as near us as our work is, for the gate of heaven for each soul lies in the endeavor to do that work perfectly.—Churchman.

Watch.

Watch, ye saints, with eyelids waking!
Lo, the powers of heaven are shaking!
Keep your lamps all trimmed and burning,
Ready for your Lord's returning.

Kingdoms at their base are crumbling.
Hark! His chariot wheels are rumbling!
Tell, oh, tell, of grace abounding
While the seventh trump is sounding!

Nations wane, though proud and stately;
Christ his kingdom hasteneth greatly;
Earth her latest pangs is summing.
Shout, ye saints; your Lord is coming!

Lamb of God, Thou meek and lowly;
Judah's lion, high and holy!
Lo, thy bride comes forth to meet thee,
All in blood washed robes to greet thee!
—Phœbe Palmer.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Not Applicable In Considering Disposition of the Philippines.

Advice to America From a Spanish Standpoint.

Appeal to Deal Leniently With a Nation Mortally Wounded Financially.

Paris, Nov. 12.—The strongest individual in Spain's financial and commercial world, Marquis De Comillas, is now in this city. He has thus far declined to be interviewed lest his utterances be considered as in some degree those of the Spanish government. When asked yesterday to make an exception to his rule of silence, he consented on the understanding that he spoke only as a private citizen, confessing that he desired to secure from the American people protection for the private interests he represented, so far as the unavoidable results of war will allow of their protection. Marquis De Comillas said:

"It is, perhaps, preumption on my part to asume that the American people will attach any importance to what I say. Yet there are circumstances, even connected with this war, that lead me to hope I shall have a respectful hearing. Spaniards are not unmindful of the noble and generous treatment Spanish prisoners of war have received at the hands of a victorious army and navy at the moment of our defeat, and of subsequent generous care and treatment not less generous than that accorded Lieutenant Hobson by Admiral Cervera.

"They have been touched by the courtesy and kindness with which Spanish officers have been received in America, and they almost dare to hope for the same just and generous treatment of Spanish financial, commercial and industrial interests. Whatever antagonism may have been engendered in the minds of the American people toward the Spaniards as political enemies, I cannot believe any substantial portion of the American people will wish to see unnecessary hardship inflicted upon the vast number of Spaniards whose property and incomes may be destroyed as the result of this war.

"It is not a question of the rich only, but of the small merchants and manufacturers, their employes and laborers. In the hope of securing some better understanding of these interests on the part of the American people—and thus some better protection of those interests—I feel bold enough to speak as to my views and wishes regarding them as affected by a treaty of peace.

"It may prove difficult for me to get wholly clear of political and governmental considerations, because in Spain commerce and industry are closely allied with the government. This condition, doubtless, will be condemned in America, but the commercial and industrial interests did not create the system and could prosper only by conforming to conditions existing in my country.

"The Philippine question presents very different features from that of the West Indies. In the Philippines Americans have no interests of considerable importance. The Monroe doctrine does not apply there. In sending Admiral Dewey's squadron to the Malayan seas the Americans could have had no reasonable aim except to divert the attention of the Madrid government and of the meagre naval reserve forces of Spain, a piece of strategy which was highly efficacious in breaking down the moral and material forces of Spain.

"But now that the desired effect has been obtained, I cannot comprehend what reason the Americans have to retain that land in their power. Spain is suffering severely from her defeat, after the prolonged and disastrous insurrection in Cuba, and she is mortally hurt in her commerce and industry. The Americans are absolute strangers to the Philippines and their population. They are unprovided with the immediate organization necessary to rule that extensive and remote territory and to exercise authority there. The Filipinos have a certain degree of culture and some rudimentary ideas as to public administration, but, as a whole, the country is not yet capable of self-government.

"The cession of sovereignty over the Philippines to the United States would be disastrous to all those having business interests there, as well for the natives as for the Spaniards, and for Europeans of every nationality. Spain cannot transfer her Philippine sovereignty to the United States by a mere clause in a peace treaty. The United States would be confronted with a war for the subjugation of 8,000,000 Malayans. This would mean the destruction of all property in the Philippines. Trade and commerce would be paralyzed there. The merchants and manufacturers of Spain would lose the markets they now enjoy, their factories would suspend and their employes lie idle. The markets for their products would have vanished.

"But the United States would not gain these markets. At least they would gain them only by fire and sword. The case of the Philippines is entirely different from the cases of Cuba and Porto Rico. The only obstacle which the United States had to overcome in order to set up their sovereignty and to render it effective in the Antilles was the power of Spain. In our colonies of Oceanica there exists a population of about 8,000,000 who have lived for centuries identified with Spain, and an immense majority of whom would not accept the decision of the mother country should she transfer her sovereignty, without their consent, to a foreign nation.

"The whole population of Mindanao and the archipelago of the Visayas, and the great body of the inhabitants of the island of Luzon, sympathize with Spain and have defended her cause with arms in past insurrections as well as in the present one, with the same enthusiasm as the Spaniards of the peninsula could show. All these elements—once the ties which attach them to Spain were broken—would rise, without doubt, as a single man in favor of independence.

"As to the attitude of the Tagalos, already risen in arms against Spain, there can be no doubt. Habits of fighting already acquired, ambitions awakened by the assurances of the chiefs who have trained the masses to cry for independence, and the hopes which the United States government itself has raised in them, would all tend to make the Tagalos the bitterest enemies of the United States. To make this clear, I need only point to the relationship between their armed forces and those of the United States as shown in a bloody conflict that took place between them at Cavite.

"The result of all this would be a war of subjugation in our islands of Oceanica; a war which would be very costly in men as well as money for the United States; a war of desolation and ruin for the Philippines and their inhabitants, in even greater proportions than that in Cuba has been a war which would give to one or several powers humanitarian arguments that would justify their intervention for reasons similar to those that caused American intervention in Cuba.

"We who have such large personal and business interests in the Philippines view with dismay the possibility of this terrible event. How can it be that the American people, who boast of bringing intelligence to bear upon humanitarian questions, should not hesitate in face of the certain prospect of plunging into such a series of inevitable disasters. There would result not only the damage to property and loss of life inseparable from all war, but these evils would be aggravated by the diversity of races and the enmity existing between them, rendering very difficult the establishment of any authority that could keep the disasters of war within normal limits.

"All I have said would apply equally whether the United States annexed the Philippines or established a protectorate. The latter course would either be absolutely insufficient to maintain order or would have to assume such a character as would be regarded and opposed by the natives as virtual annexation."

Four Men Killed.

Hanover, Mass., Nov. 12.—An explosion in the grocery store of C. A. Stearns in this place at 5:30 yesterday morning wrecked the building, caused the deaths of four men and severe injury to 10 others, one of whom it is feared will die. The dead are: M. R. Sylvester, leaves a widow and six children; G. T. Tolman, leaves a widow and two children; C. A. Peterson, leaves a widow and child; Edgar Adams, leaves a widow and two children. The explosion was caused by a fire which started in the basement of the building from an unknown cause. The structure was of wood, two and a half stories high, was owned by Bates Bros. and rented by C. A. Stearns, grocer, and Mrs. E. W. Stockbridge, milliner, while the upper floors were used by the Phoenix Masonic lodge. The damage is estimated at $6000; partially covered by insurance. The fire was discovered by J. H. Flavel, who was on his way to work. An alarm was given, and there being no fire department in the town, the inhabitants turned out in an attempt to save the building. The volunteer fire fighters had been at work about half an hour when a terrific explosion occurred. The roof was lifted from the building and carried in an easterly direction, where it fell among the men who were fighting the fire. Three of the men were dead when taken from the ruins, and M. R. Sylvester died before he could be carried to his home.

Mother and Child Perished.

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 12.—By a fire in the 3-story frame building at 9 Beetle street, about 11 o'clock last night, two people perished in the flames and four others were badly burned, two of them so seriously that they will probably die. The building is owned by Adelord Gondreau, and consisted of a carriage house in the first story with two tenements above, one of them occupied by Gondreau's family. Gondreau was away at the time, and his wife and daughter were badly burned in making their escape from the building. The third floor was occupied by Eugene Othler, his housekeeper, Belia Decheau, and Mrs. Bradley and Georgianna Gokey, boarders, and the latter's baby daugther. The Decheau woman and the baby were burned to death, while Othler and Mrs. Gokey were seriously burned, and Mrs. Bradley was overcame by the smoke. The doctors say that Pothier and the Gokey woman will die. All the parties were asleep when the fire broke out in a barn adjoining and rapidly communicated to the house. The barn was destroyed and the house gutted.

For the Boys In Manila.

Washington, Nov. 12.—The 17th of the present month will be the last date upon which the folks at home may send Christmas presents to the soldiers in Manila through government agency. The quartermaster's department has chartered a steamer which will leave San Francisco on that date, and this will be the last steamer to reach Manila before Christmas. Persons wishing to forward goods to friends in the army at Manila must cause the same to be delivered, free of charges, to the depot quartermaster at San Francisco properly directed.

It Is the Maria Teresa.

Nassau, N. P., Nov. 12.—Wreckers who have arrived here have brought with them stores from the stranded vessel off Cat island, which establishes beyond a doubt that she is the Maria Teresa. As the vessel is looked upon as being a derelict, the wreckers claim the right to seize the stores which can be saved. They report that the water is up to her between decks, that she has a list to starboard, which side is damaged, and that she is dismasted. The vessel lies between two reefs, on a smooth bottom and has her anchor out.

Citizens Object.

Lima, O., Nov. 12.—The investigation of the Buckeye Pipe Line company began here yesterday. Attorney General Monett is trying to oust the company from the state on the ground that it is part of the Standard Oil trust. The Solar Refining company will also be investigated. A public meeting was held here yesterday to show the disapproval of the citizens of the action, as the company pays out millions of dollars here annually.

Money to Be Returned.

Boston, Nov. 12.—The receivers of the Framingham Savings bank were yesterday granted leave to return contingent deposits, amounting to $1084, which were made by various persons between Jan. 26 and Feb. 2 last, when the bank was under the control of the savings bank commissioners, the depositors being ignorant of the bank's precarious condition. These deposits were kept separately.

THE BUSINESS SITUATION.

Little Room For Complaint About Present Conditions.

New York, Nov. 12.—Bradstreet's today says: While the influence of the elections and of unfavorable weather has been such as to temporarily retard the volume of current trade, the innate strength of the general trade situation is shown by the very satisfactory reports received as to bank clearings, railroad earnings, prices and other measures of business development. The fact is brought out by Bradstreet's price investigation this week that the steady advance towards a higher level of values was maintained during the month immediately preceding the election. Not enough time has elapsed since that event to allow of many favorable effects in commercial lines, but that good effects must necessarily follow from the sound money victory is conceded. It is a significant feature that this week more inquiry is reported for pig iron. In the steel trade there is rather more anxiety for new business, and some price shading to secure it is reported. The mainstay of the allied industries at present is undoubtedly the immense export demand, which, with the strength abroad, is likely to furnish a needful outlet the coming winter.

The cereal markets have been quite steadily held, notwithstanding the subsidence of the war talk and less active foreign demand. Spot cotton has been unchanged on good domestic and foreign demand, but quotations of futures have been affected rather unfavorably by the growing belief in a maximum yield. Coffee is almost alone among the staples in noting special strength this week on reduced receipts at Brazilian centers. The sugar war goes merrily on, and the margin between raw and refined is now only .41 cent, against a margin before the fight began of nearly .92 cent.

Business failures in the United States this week number 187, against 273 in this week a year ago, 258 in 1896, 279 in 1895 and 280 in 1894.

The general level of values Nov. 1 was higher than on Oct. 1, and likewise higher than at any previous date for five years past. Of 107 staples, 46 were unchanged and 27 higher as a result of operations in October, making nearly three-fourths of all staples whose price condition was either unchanged or bettered during that month. Notable in advancing were breadstuffs, dairy products, petroleum, naval stores, silver, copper, tin and lumber. Declining values were chiefly noted in live animals and their products, except pork and lard, coffee and sugar among groceries, hides and some makes of leather, nearly all raw textiles, Bessemer pig iron and steel billets, coal and coke, rubber, tobacco, opium, tar and olive oil. Compared with a year ago 57 products out of 107 are higher and eight are unchanged.

A good reorder demand for staple goods, particularly dry goods and clothing, is reported at most western points, where spot demand and retail trade have been affected by unfavorable weather and the election holiday and excitement. Industrial activity continues widespread, and business generally makes a good comparison with a year ago.

Found a Skeleton.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 12.—While hunting in the woods in the town of Trumbull, about five miles north of this city, Dr. B. W. White discovered the skeleton of a man lying in a lonely spot. Dr. White is of the opinion that the man had been dead nearly a year. A brown winter overcoat was tightly buttoned about the body and the trousers were intact. Near the skull was a cap and the feet were encased in rubber arctics. The medical examiner for the town of Trumbull will make an investigation.

Bank Lost Heavily.

Macon, Mo., Nov. 12.—The Kirksville Savings bank was entered by burglars and robbed of $14,000 in government bonds belonging to Samuel Reed, president, and something in the neighborhood of $18,000 in gold and greenbacks. About $2500 in silver was left, evidently being too heavy, and $2400 in the vault was overlooked by the robbers.

Lee Elected.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 12.—The election of governor was in doubt until last night, when official returns were received from several counties which showed big changes from the estimates in favor of Lee. The Republican committee concedes Lee's election by about 200. The legislature is safely Republican.

In Memory of Anarchists.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Memorial ceremonies were conducted yesterday over the graves of the Haymarket anarchists who were hanged 11 years ago. Several hundred people visited Waldheim cemetery, sang songs and decorated with flowers the graves of Spies, Fischer, Parsons, Lingg and Engel.

The Age of an Oyster.

It is just as easy to tell the age of an oyster by looking at its shell as it is to ascertain the age of a horse by examining its teeth, or a tree by inspecting the circles revealed by the ax or saw when it is laid low. When the oyster is 6 months old, it is as big as a dime; when 1 year old, it will cover a silver half dollar, and when 2 years old, will be about the circumference of a silver dollar.

The oyster, unlike the crab, is not obliged to seek new quarters or build a new house every time he grows appreciably. The extensions that he puts on his house are clearly marked by a well defined ridge.

Oysters are esteemed to be at their best when between 4 and 5 years of age, and the planters endeavor to protect the beds for that length of time. Conscientious oyster men—that is, men who are not inclined to kill the goose that lays the golden egg—always return to the bed oysters that are too young, but in case a patriarch is brought up, over whose shell the tides of from 8 to 12 winters and summers have ebbed and flowed, he is sent to market, where he is put at the bottom of the heap and sold with his younger and more luscious companions.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Ethical Process.

Mr. Huxley says ingeniously (speaking of societies of animals) that the ethical process "is, strictly speaking, part of the cosmic process, just as the 'governor' in a steam engine is part of the mechanism of the engine." But we know how the governor got into the engine; we don't know how or why early men introduced the ethical process. "It was their nature to," and the ignorant, superstitious blacks say that a god, Baiame, gave them this law. Yet in some ways morality does seem to pay, practically, though not when carried to an extreme. The universe, like the traveling tutor, seems to whisper to its pupils:

Practice, youths, a little virtue,
Just as much as will not hurt you.

This is ordinary morality. Go much further, and you are a saint. The Isle of Saints has ever been the most distressful country. Whither in the world are these reflections hurrying us? I have no idea beyond an ineradicable conviction that the ethical process, plus some "governor" not yet invented, will win in the long run, and that we must back it with our best exertions.—Andrew Lang in Longman's Magazine.

Neither Did the King.

It is told of King Frederick VI of Denmark that while traveling through Jutland one day he entered a village school and found the children lively and intelligent and quite ready to answer his questions.

"Well, youngsters," he said, "what are the names of the greatest kings of Denmark?"

With one accord they cried out, "Canute the Great, Waldemar and Christian V!"

Just then a little girl, to whom the schoolmaster had whispered something, stood up and raised her hand.

"Do you know another?" asked the king.

"Yes—Frederick VI."

"What great act did he perform?"

The girl hung her head and stammered out, "I don't know."

"Be comforted, my child," said the king. "I don't know either."

Why Do We Yawn?

There can be little doubt that one of the objects of yawning is the exercise of muscles which have been for a long time quiescent, and the acceleration of the blood and lymph flow which has in consequence of this quiescence become sluggish; hence its frequency after one has remained for some time in the same position—for example, when waking in the morning.

Co-operating with this cause is sleepiness and the shallow breathing which it entails. This factor, as well as muscle quiescence, is apt to attend the sense of boredom which one experiences in listening to a dull sermon; hence it is that the bored individual is apt to yawn. As in the case of sighing, the deep breath which accompanies the act of yawning compensates for the shallow breathing which is so apt to excite it.—New York Herald.

Strangely Worded.

"Some of the applications for relief sent to the local committees by sufferers from bush fires are strangely worded," says the Melbourne Argus. "Here is an extract from one by a widow: 'I have in family four dairy cows, two pigs, a horse and three children, all these being by my first husband, and two goats in full milk and a baby by my second husband. All of the animals was lost in the fire.'"

Our "Holy City."

One of the serious things told in Mark Twain's "Along the Equator" is that formerly all that people in India knew of the United States was the name of George Washington. Now they know also the name "Chicago, the holy city," where the congress of religions was held in 1893.—Boston Transcript.

A Limit to Trust.

"She said she would trust me forever with her heart."

"Well, that was satisfactory."

"Yes. Then we fell out about who would carry the pocketbook."—Detroit Free Press.

"There is so much trouble coming into the world," said Lord Bolingbroke, "and so much more in going out of it, that it is hardly worth while to be here at all." If a man and a philosopher comes to this conclusion, what must be the natural conclusion of the thousands of suffering women who undergo untold torture in bringing their babes into the world?

Philosophy of this kind is based upon gross ignorance. The fact is, that there is no necessity for the severe pangs undergone by the average woman. If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the majority of women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can always be remedied. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a sure, speedy and permanent cure for all disorders of this description. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic. It banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good."

"I suffered fourteen years," writes Mrs. Mary J. Stewart, of Box 46, Saratoga, Santa Clara Co., Cal., with female weakness, nervousness and general debility. I tried everything to no avail. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' cured me."

The names, addresses and photographs of hundreds of women cured by Dr. Pierce's medicines are printed by permission in the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." It's free. For a paper-covered copy send 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only. French cloth binding 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Every woman needs a great medical book. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser fills this want. It contains over 1000 pages and nearly 800 illustrations.

Good Afternoon.

The Hospital Sunday address has been out but a few days, yet there have been some very generous contributions and the fund has taken a good start, Tomorrow is Hospital Sunday and those who attend church will find envelopes in their pews enclosing an appeal, cards to fill in with contributions, and stamped envelopes in which to forward subscriptions. It is expected on Monday that the Ledger will be called upon to acknowledge the receipt of hundreds of dollars, perhaps a thousand. This year all contributions will go directly to the Hospital, the committee being under no expense for hall, entertainment, etc., and the friends of the institution being relieved of the hard work incidental to a grand festival, should be willing to contribute a dollar in cash. We should make quick work of raising the balance required this year, and show our loyalty to the Hospital and to Quincy.

Every adverse influence to retard prosperity is now out of the way—the war cloud; the silver question; the Supreme Court decision; and last but not least, the elections. All signs of trouble have gone to the rear and are not liable to again appear at the front. One advantageous feature resulting from the elections will be to secure to the nation the full benefit of our brilliant victory in the late war—an achievement in naval warfare unsurpassed in the world's history, but which has been belittled by the press and politicians to such an extent as to seriously diminish its importance and lessen the advantages which should accrue to the American people.

It is not the editors intention to enter into a discussion with correspondents of the Ledger, but we should not ignore some of the queries of Mr. Henry G. Fay in this issue. We certainly believe in good streets and better streets, and therefore say Godspeed to the first two paragraphs. We are in doubt just who is meant by "we" in the third paragraph. If Mr. Fay means the "city" the assumption seems wrong. If he means the "State" he may not realize the task before him or the city. The Legislature would hardly grant Quincy a special act to assess abutters for street building; it would have to be a general law, which would meet with opposition. However, it is allowed in western states. Sewers and street buildings are two different things, the Legislature making special laws for sewers, and allowing special loans therefore and for water and parks. A special loan for Quincy streets outside the debt limit would probably have to be for a specific street, as in Boston, which would prevent the rebuilding of all our streets as contemplated.

LEGAL TO ASSESS.

H. G. Fay Would Assess Abutters for Street Building.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

In reply to your editorial comments on my suggestions for street improvement, permit me to call your attention to the following article in the Constitution of the Commonwealth:—"Government is instituted for the common good; for the protection, safety, prosperity and happiness of the people; and not for the profit, honor, or private interest of any one man, family, or class of men: Therefore the people alone have an incontestable, unalienable and indefeasible right to install government; and to reform, alter, or totally change the same, when their protection, safety, prosperity and happiness require it."

Also to the following from Mayor Sears' address:—"Good sidewalks are attractive to prospective resident; prospective residents are the salvation of the tax-payer; therefore, good sidewalks must be conducive to the prosperity of the citizen."

Therefore, as the Constitution says we may reform, alter, or totally change the laws for the protection, safety, prosperity and happiness of the people, and as good sidewalks are conducive to the prosperity of the people, why are my suggestions unconstitutional?

If the Legislature has permitted Boston to borrow millions for boulevards, strands, speedways, etc., which are streets and walks with the surroundings beautified, why may not Quincy borrow to improve her streets and walks?

A mile to a mile and a half of streets and walks built in a year seems small, but would be a beginning and more than we ever have had. I have been informed that $25,000 to $40,000 a year is all that can be used to advantage for such work in Quincy. As the Commissioner of Public Works states in his annual report there are 70 miles of streets in the city where do the 100 miles come in that you mention?

As to the unconstitutionality of assesing abutters half the cost of street improvement, I would refer you to chapter 174, Acts of 1866, also to the act relating to sewer assessments for the City of Quincy. If it is legal to assess one-half or two-thirds the cost of improvements, why is it not legal to assess the whole cost?

I think you will find upon investigation that the plan of assessing abutters for public improvements has been adopted in many places, as more just and equitable than the old way of a general tax levy.

Henry G. Fay.

Braintree's New Clubhouse.

The handsome and commodious club house that has been so generously fitted up by ihe ever hustling townsman Mr. Joel F. Sheppard, for the use of the Union Veteran Fire association, was dedicated last night with a supper and dance. Music was furnished by Philbrook's orchestra and the evening was highly enjoyed. The building, situated on the banks of the Monatiquot, is a model one for the purpose. The basement is fited up for the hand engine and hose room, toilet room, etc. On the second floor is a hall for meetings and for dancing and on the third floor is the banquet hall.

On all four sides of the building is a piazza twelve feet wide, which will be enjoyed during the summer. In fact nothing has been omitted that would add to the comfort and pleasure of the veterans.

Widen Town Brook.

A. G. Durgin, representing the Quincy Real Estate Trust, has petitioned the Board of Health to widen and straighten Town brook, between Hancock and Canal streets. The claim is that the crooked and narrow course of the brook between these points has been the cause of the water backing up and flooding the basements of their buildings on the west side of Hancock street near the brook. The sewer contractor in laying the pipes through Canal street is said to have knocked a number of stone from the bridge into the brook and these also add a hinderance to the free course for the water. Aside from these, it is said that the walls along the brook between the two points above mentioned have fallen down in many places and should be rebuilt.

WARD ONE TICKET.

Opposing Lists for Delegates, Councilmen and Committee.

The Ward One Republican committee held an adjourned meeting Friday evening at the residence of A. G. Dolliver, when the point over which there was a dispute the night before was settled and the list prepared for the ballot.

The point in question was a simple one. It was a question whether a citizen had a right to nominate himself. Two lists of names for ward committee were filed. On the second list was the name of Frank G. Mowry, and among the five citizens who filed this list also appeared the name of Frank G. Mowry. This was claimed to be illegal.

Mr. Holt of the ward committee claimed that it was perfectly legal for Mr. Mowry to sign his own paper, so to speak, but the other five members of the committee present were against him. This of course caused a discussion and Mr. Holt although alone stuck to his point and would not consent to having that name or list thrown out.

The outcome was that Mr. Holt was given until the next night to prove his point, which he did by the State Committee, and the list therefore will appear on the official ballot.

Delegates to Mayoralty convention,—"Favorable to Russell A. Sears,"—Clarence Burgin, Eben W. Sheppard, Edward B. Souther, Henry H. Faxon, Elisha Packard, Frank F. Prescott and Carl F. Carlson.

"Unpledged,"—John W. Hersey, Andrew Olsen, Archibald F. Macleod, Edward L. Goodridge, Arthur W. Stetson, George O. Langley and Andrew Stewart.

Councilmen,—Elisha Packard, John W. Nash, Edward B. Brown, Frank F. Prescott and John Swithin.

Second list,—Frederick E. Goss, Isaac M. Holt, Charles F. Pettengill, Arthur W. Stetson, Henry P. Kittredge, William T. Isaacs and Frank G. Mowry.

People's Course.

The first entertainment of the Peoples' course of entertainments at Music hall, which will be under the same management as last season,—Mr. Fred B. Rice, Mr. Emery L. Crane and Mr. James S. Whiting,—will be given on Saturday evening, Nov. 16, by the Harry Bower Concert Company.

During the season there will be eight entertainments, the first as noted above to be on Nov. 26, the others being held on Dec. 3, 10, 17, 31, Jan. 7, 14, and 21. Nearly all of the talent has been engaged, which include the Salem Cadet band, the Criterion Dramatic Company the Slayton Jubilee Singers, and vaudeville companies.

The season tickets will be placed on sale at Linscott's jewelry store on Monday. The price will be the same as last year, two dollars for the course. Reserved seats may be obtained at the box office on the night of the entertainment at 25 cents each. The admission will be 10 cents and will include some of the best seats in the house.

Last year the net profits of the course were about $90, which were divided between the City Hospital and the High school.

Piano Recitals.

Rosenthal the famous pianist is to give two piano recitals at Music hall, Boston, on Wednesday afternoons, Nov. 16 and 23 at half past two. A fine programme has been selected for next Wednesday consisting of selections from Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin, Schubert, Listz, Davidoff and Rosenthal. The Pall Mall Gazette says Rosenthal's place is assuredly among the two or three consummate pianists now living. With his golden imagination, Rosenthal played Schumann's Carnaval yesterday as we have never heard it played before. It would be impossible to imagine anything more artistically fantastic than his interpretation. He made this music live from beginning to end, not only as a series of separate little compositions, but as a complete and marvelous work of dramatic imaginativeness.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to R, and today's instalment is the fourth of the S's:

QUINCY HIGH NO. 2.

It Defeats Weymouth High in Suburban League.

Quincy High won her second game in Norfolk County Suburban League yesterday, defeating Weymouth High in a fine game at East Weymouth, this gives Quincy second place in the league Dedham High being first.

Weymouth had the kick-off, and Jordan and Magnuson, by a clever criss-cross, brought the ball to the 30-yard line. A fumdle lost the ball after Quincy had advanced it to the 10-yard line, but Weymouth was held for downs, and Magnuson got areund the end for a 20-yard run, and a touch-down. He kicked a fine goal. Quincy came near scoring twice again in this half, buf failed to get over the line. Score at end of half: Q. H. S., 6; W. H. S, 0.

In the second haif the ball hovered around Weymouth's goal line, but no score was made. Magnuson punted over the line once, and then secured the ball, making a touch-down. This was not allowed however.

Mrs. Charles S. French.

The news of the death of Mrs. Charles S. French on Tuesday morning was a shock to her wide circle of friends for she was out, and had entertained callers, the day before, and apppeared in her usual health.

The French's at one time lived on Spear street and afterwards moved to the house at the junction of Hancock and Chestnut streets which has been one of the familiar old houses in the centre for years. Mrs. French was always very hospitable and made many friends being thoughtful and sympathetic with those in trouble and rejoicing with those who were happy.

After the death of Dr. French the home was not broken up, Mrs. French, Miss Dora A. French, his daughter, and Miss Mary French, his sister, continued to live there. Mrs. French spent a great deal of her time with her daughters Mrs. Albert Whitney and Mrs. Parke Swift. Her greatest sorrow was the death of her youngest daughter. Clara, who became Mrs. Amos G. Woolley and went to Cincinnati where she was very happy for a few years until her early death. This was a great blow to the mother and her health was never quite as good although she was resigned and even seemed to take comfort in looking back at the happy life her daughter had had. Mrs. French bore all sorrows with Christian fortitude and by her example encouraged many to do likewise and to live for the living.

Dr. French by his first marriage had three children, a son and two daughers, the daughters, Mrs. Charles H. Porter and Miss Dora A. French living in Quincy. His second wife was his first wife's sister so that she was aunt and mother to his children. Mrs. French was a good mother and was beloved by her own and her husband's children and their children in turn and her death is a great blow to them.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon and was very impressive. Rev. Albert Whitney of Milford, a son-in-law read the scriptures. Rev. Charles H. Porter, Jr., of Hingham, a grandson also read scripture and a beautiful and comforting poem. Rev. Edgar Waston Preble of the First Universalist church offered a prayer and spoke words of comfort to the afflicted family and friends A quartette composed of Miss Hastings, Mrs. Packard, Mr. Harlow and Mr. Potter sang three appropriate selections closing with that beautiful hymn "Abide with me."

There were many beautiful floral tributes and there was a large attendance of relatives, neighbors and friends. Mrs. French was buried in the family lot at Mount Wollaston cemetery.

BANQUET AT CAMP.

2d Battalion Officers Entertained the 1st and 3d.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.,
Camp Meade, Nov. 9.

This has been another pleasant day. The weather is something delightful for this time of the year. The boys were able to be around today in their brown suits. So by this you can see that the weather is very mild.

Sergeant G. F. Phillips accompanied by his wife, arrived at Middletown today. The sergeant has been visiting relatives at home.

Privates Swanson and Serberg were issued 24 hour passes today.

The boys of the 2d battalion are again enjoying the strains of music from our regimental band this evening. This is their second visit to us, and we cordially welcome their presence.

Our regiment has seven more days to remain at Camp Meade. Then we will break camp for the south. Two regiments of infantry left today for southern soil, and will be followed each day by some regiment.

The guard of today consists of the following: Corporal Gannon, Privates Newcomb, Olsen, Olver, Rafferty, Restelli, Robinson, Rowell, and D. G. Smith.

Camp Meade, Nov. 10.

A change of weather has brought to us a very wet and disagreeable day, which keeps all who are not detailed to special duty within their tents. At present we are experiencing a severe wind and rain squall which causes us to wonder whether the tents were intended for shelter in a rain storms, or a substitute for a shower bath. However, many of us may need the latter, so we won't worry over this trivial matter.

Several regiments were unfortunate enough to have this as a day for their departure, and as a result got wet through before boarding their train. The 2d Tennessee, 35th Michigan and 15th Pennylvania were among those to go.

Last evening the officers of the 2d battalion held a banquet in honor of their brother officers of the 1st and 3d battalions. The affair was a grand success, and was undoubtedly enjoyed as much as if it took place at one of Boston's best hotels. Major Morrison presided and acted as toastmaster, the band was brought down for the entertainment of the boys, and every one enjoyed themselves. At the close of the supper, which was about fifteen minutes after taps, (9.30), when of course the enlisted men were in their tents and presumably rolled up in their blanekts asleep, the officers of the 2d battalion gave three hearty cheers for their visitors. This stirred up the boys and seme one started a return yell, which was taken up by everyone, until the whole battalion was in an uproar. This lasted but a moment, however, and everything became quiet as before.

The guard details for today is as follows: Sergeant George A. Phillips, Corporal D. F. Mahoney, Privates H. F. Studley, O. A. Swanson, A. J. Spillane, L. J. Savoie, P. J. Sheehan, John L. Sullivan, H. K. Thunstrom, F. E. Briggs and T. J. Bowler.

Sergeant John R. McGrath has taken Sergeant Thompson Baxter Crane's position, the sergeant having left the company today for a few days' leave of absence to visit relatives. Sergeant McGrath will now act as quartermaster, and attend to the rations and accroutrements of company.

Private Harry L. Chase returned to camp, much the better for his outing. He again resumes his duties as company clerk, relieving Private Clements who has acted during his absence.

The boys still enjoy good health.
Volunteer.

WOMAN AND FASHION.

A Storm Cape and Skirt—Young Woman's Autumn Hat—False Hips. The Newest Skirt.

The wardrobe of every woman who has occasion to be out of doors in stormy weather includes a mackintosh or some other waterproof garment. The newest idea in these practical garments is a cape and skirt as is shown in the cut, taken from Delineator. The skirt is of full length and may be closed at the back like an ordinary skirt or buttoned up at one side of the front, have short plackets at both sides of the front or be finished at the top with a casing and draw strings. The practicality of all these arrangements is obvious. The cape is graceful and of protective length and may be single or double.

Hat For a Young Woman.

A dainty and effective hat for a young woman is shown in the illustration. It is especially designed for wear with an early autumn afternoon gown. In form it closely resembles the headgear we have been accustomed to for the greater part of the summer. The body of the hat is formed of black "paille de riz." The wide brim is straight in front and at the right side. At the left side, however, it is turned up sharply, and just beneath it and against the hair is worn a bit of rose velvet, draped and gathered in loose folds.

FOR EARLY AUTUMN WEAR.

The crown of the hat is trimmed with small gatherings of rose velvet in two shades and long black curling plumes. These are fastened at the front and curled over toward the back of the hat. —New York Telegram.

False Hips.

The false hip is an unreliable object as to fixedness and naturalness of effect, even when the wearer is quietly walking, but when worn on a bicycle it wiggles from side to side in a fashion that makes painfully patent the fact of its falsity. Ugly under all conditions, it becomes a disgusting deformity as the pedaler speeds her bicycle over the roadway, the wiggling area below her waist line giving her a most awkward appearance. Before venturing on a public exhibition the false hip wearer is advised just as she starts out to try the effect of rapid leg moving from the hip before her cheval glass. At least she will then have some realization of the figure she cuts on the road.—Boston Journal.

The Vogue of the Picturesque.

With the return of autumn is seen again the three cornered shaped hat. It is almost devoid of trimming. The spiderlike Louis XVI bow or a jeweled hatpin is the favorite decoration. It will be worn with point to the front.

Louis XV corsets are the latest cry from Paris. The line is a straight one down the corset front, with all the gores slanting toward the front, but preserving to perfection every line of the figure except the inner curve below the bust, which means that belts will be worn lower in the front than in the back.

Endangers Life and Limb.

While deploring the increased length of dress skirts for the street, it is still more discouraging to hear that the very newest model—that endangers both life and limb—is a skirt which on the front and sides is cut at least an inch longer than the height of its wearer. This can hardly be credited, but it is true, and to walk with any sort of ease or safety a "finger tip" hold of the skirt must be taken at each side, and the parasol be left at home.—New York Post.

BILLHEADS

AT PATRIOT OFFICE

THEY PRAISED MILES.

Distinguished Men at a Banquet In Honor of the General.

Notable Address by the Hero of the Evening.

Governor Wolcott, Governor-Elect Roosevelt and Others Make Speeches.

New York, Nov. 12.—General Nelson A. Miles enjoyed the greatest triumph of a long career last evening. Seven hundred and twenty-five men, most of them of great note in politics, the learned professions, commerce and the art of war, gathered in the great banquet hall of the Waldorf-Astoria and paid tribute to him.

Only once has that roof sheltered a more notable gathering, and that, in honor of President McKinley, exceeded by very little the outpouring in honor of the general commanding the army of the United States.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was honored almost as much as the hero of the evening. The applause that greeted him was loud and long sustained.

After a brief speech by Mr. Choate, in which he warmly eulogized the guest of the evening, General Miles was given an ovation. He smilingly bowed his acknowledgment of the excited applause and said:

"Such a generous reception has been extended to me tonight as few are permitted to enjoy, and I should be wanting in gratitude did I not appreciate the sentiment expressed in this cordial greeting. As an expression of appreciation of the gallant troops which I have the honor to command it is accepted in behalf of the living, and for them I thank you, as well as for those whose lips are forever silent and whose heroism and sacrifice I know are here remembered and revered.

"This reception to me is doubly gratifying, for I am delighted to return once more to the shores of the great republic and also to be welcomed by the men of the great Empire state and those associated with them in this enterprise. For many years New York has seemed like home to me. Passing down Broadway in 1861 at the age of 21 a lieutenant in a regiment from my native state, eight months later I was honored by that great patriot and statesman, Governor Morgan, with a commission as lieutenant colonel in one of the New York regiments. From that time during the great Civil war, I was largely identified with New York troops.

"The wars of the past have had their objects, their achievements and glorious results. This last was in the interest of humanity and in behalf of a heroic people, who for many years have been struggling against cruel atrocities, oppression and despotism of a decaying monarchy. It has been most remarkable in many respects. It has presented one series of victories without a single disaster or a single defeat. The flag of the United States has not been lowered in a single instance. Not a foot of ground has been surrendered, not a soldier, gun or rifle has been captured by the enemy. The American soliders and sailors have been true to the principles and traditions of their fathers and maintained the honor and glory of the American arms. One great blessing to the country in this brief but decisive war has been to firmly unite in bonds of imperishable union all sections of the United States; north, south, east and west. Still more. It has given us reason and opportunity to appreciate our obligation to the mother country for the dignified and powerful influence of the British empire in the maintenance of our principles and rights.

"There are other fields to conquer. The past has gone, and the future opens the doors to greater responsibilities, and I trust to greater progress and prosperity.

"We are ascending to a clearer atmosphere, up to a higher mesa, where we should take a stronger position than ever before occupied by our government and people. We can no longer confine ourselves to the narrow limits that governed us in the past. Much has been said of what has been the ruling policy of the past. This much I think is apparent to all, that the graver responsibilities of the nation are too great to be contemplated by personal, partisan or sectional interests. Our interests are national in the highest degree. They embrace two hemispheres. They involve the welfare of 100,000,000 of the human race. We are getting to that time when we will require not only the ablest men, but many of them, in every department, to protect and administer the affairs of the nation.

"The most important and great questions that had to be met and that have been decided during the last few months have had a broadening influence upon the great mass of our people. It has been uplifting to every community and every phase of society. It has turned the attention of our people to the great power and responsibility of our republican institutions and true interests as a people and a nation, not only at home but throughout every part of the globe. We have been able to give freedom to millions of oppressed, and I believe that we will be able to extend to them the hand of support and secure for them a full measure of justice and enlightened government.

"In behalf of the army and myself I wish to return my most heartfelt thanks for this most cordial greeting."

Governor Wolcott of Massachusetts, introduced as the successor to the governor who gave General Miles his first military appointment, said that he could add but little to what had already been said, but it would be strange indeed if the old commonwealth of Massachusetts had no word to offer of praise and admiration for the distinguished guest of the evening. General Miles drew his first breath in Westminster, Mass. "Yet when a man has attained lofty heights of achievement in civil or military life," said Mr. Wolcott, "he steps beyond the bounds of his native state and knows no north, no south, no east or west. He is, in its broadest sense, an American citizen, and all American citizens unite to do him honor. Although some grasping commonwealths might make special claim to General Miles, Massachusetts waives her claim and is content to praise him as a distinguished citizen."

Governor Wolcott referred to the men who volunteered in the late war and said that if all the governors whose names appeared on the list of guests were really present they would unite with him in saying that the difficulty they had had to contend with was to hold back the great number of gallant young men, primed by patriotism, who had offered themselves to their country.

"We hope," he continued, "that the time may come when the sword will no longer be thrown into the scale of international right. The time may be far remote, but on the other hand it is not impossible that some part of the 20th century may see an era of universal peace. Until then the soldier will carry the rifle in defense of his country. We do well to meet here tonight and honor the gallant soldier who for 38 years has served his country well. Twice wounded in action in the Civil war, four times brevetted for gallantry, his record would not be complete without a word of the Indian campaign he conducted with equal bravery and humanity."

A letter from President McKinley was read and the president's health was drunk standing.

Rear Admiral Henry Erben was the next speaker. He stated that the present success of the navy began with Mr. Chandler, followed by Mr. Whitney, but the one man to whom the most credit was due, he declared, was Benjamin F. Tracy. Mr. Tracy was sitting at the guests' table, and when he smiled at the allusion a loud cheer broke out and he rose and bowed. The admiral's reference to the service that Colonel Roosevelt did in fitting out the navy created great applause.

Captain Paget of the royal navy paid tribute to the American soldier, the American sailor, Admiral Sampson and General Miles. He closed by saying: "I will be proud in the future whenever I see the stars and stripes on battleship, or cruiser, or merchantman. Then I will know that on board of them in each of their seamen I will have, if not a brother, an ally."

Governor Bushnell, who spoke next, eulogized General Miles.

Besides a letter from President McKinley, letters of regret from Governor Cooke of Connecticut, General Shafter, Adjutant General Corbin, Benjamin Harrison and Governor Black were read. Mr. Choate, at General Miles' request, asked for three cheers for General Shafter. Then ensued a storm of applause.

Governor-elect Roosevelt was next introduced. He was unable to proceed for some minutes, so great was the applause. Colonel Roosevelt said he was glad to be present and to add his testimony to that given for General Miles. He praised the regulars who charged up San Juan hill. He advocated an increase in the army and stated that the troops should be moved about in order that the commissary and the medical departments might get practice and perfect themselves in details. He said that the government is not to blame for loss of life from neglect and incompetence if a penurious congress fails to provide the necessary equipment of the army.

Colonel Roosevelt devoted a few moments to the idea of expansion. He advocated the placing of all the people liberated from the yoke of Spain on a plane of equality and liberty, such as is enjoyed in this country.

The other speakers were Seth Low, ex-Governor Flower, Rev. Dr. Van Dyke and Chauncy M. Depew.

The W. C. T. U.

St. Paul, Nov. 12.—The National W. C. T. U. convention began here yesterday. The opening session was devoted to appointment of committees and to the annual memorial service for deceased members. The convention was called to order by Mrs. Stevenson, whose opening remarks were an eloquent tribute to the deceased leader, Miss Frances Willard. The opening memorial address was delivered by Mrs. Forbes of Connecticut. Miss Willard was the one to whom all thoughts and words tended, the memorial addresses for others going over temporarily.

The Detroit Disaster.

Detroit, Nov. 12.—The inquest upon the deaths of the 12 victims of the Wonderland theatre collapse was begun yesterday. Some important testimony was elicited regarding the character and construction of the iron trusses which supported the roof which fell with such fatal effect. The man who painted the iron work testified that he saw several drilled holes in the iron work where bolts had not been inserted. He also asserted that in some places rivets were out, and the holes were ragged.

Awarded to Dixon.

New York, Nov. 12.—Dave Sullivan, the Irish pugilist, lost the bout with George Dixon, the colored featherweight champion, last night at the Lenox Athletic club. The lads were matched to go 25 rounds at 122 pounds, and for nine rounds Dixon had the call. He was Sullivan's master in nearly every instance, but in the 10th round he more than outpointed his adversary. Dixon was awarded the bout on a technicality.

Fusion In Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 12.—Late election returns serve to remove all doubt of the election of the fusion state ticket, with the possible exception of superintendent of public instruction, by average pluralities of 2500. Republicans concede it. The same figures make it certain that the Republicans have the legislature on joint ballot and probably both houses.

Put to Sleep.

Louisville, Nov. 12.—"Australian Jimmy" Ryan sent Jim Franey, the Cincinnati welterweight, on a journey to the land of nod last night in the fourth round of what was scheduled to be a 20-round contest. He was completely knocked out, and it took his seconds some time to bring him to his senses.

EAGLE AND THE LION.

Their Friendly Relations Will Prevent Meddling by Germany.

Kaiser's Visit to Spain a Subject of Comment.

Hopes That He Will Initiate Some Form of European Intervention.

London, Nov. 12.—Lord Salisbury's speech at the Guildhall banquet still reverberates through the European press. The Times says editorially this morning: We are gratified that the American press has not indulged in the mischievous task of reading into Lord Salisbury's utterances something disparaging to the United States. If the United States desire to establish themselves securely in the Philippines it must be with British good will, since it is clear enough that they will not meet with much friendliness from the other nations of the old world.

The Daily Chronicle says: Emperor William's visit to Spain is probably connected with Germany's ambition to secure the Carolines, seeing that she cannot get a coaling station in the Philippines; but there is not the remotest chance of war over the matter. The fact that the British lion and the American eagle will be on the same side is the greatest guarantee of peace.

The Standard, which expresses some suspicion as to the kaiser's intentions, says: Possibly Spain is mad enough to try to renew the war, but European peace will not be further disturbed.

The Paris correspondent of The Times, summarizing the points of America's reply, says:

Spain's protest, prior to the protocol, against being deprived of the Philippines, was in effect a recognition of America's right to annex them. Moreover, Spain would be compelled to make great sacrifices in order to suppress the Philippine insurgents.

As for the holders of Cuban bonds, they must understand that the mortgage is worthless, inasmuch as Spain has lost the territory mortgaged. If Spain's reasoning were admitted no nation could come to the rescue of an oppressed people, since the liberating nation would be obliged to pay the debt.

A dispatch from Madrid says that Duke Almodovar de Rio, minister of foreign affairs, received a telegram last evening announcing that Emperor William would arrive at Carthegena on Nov. 19. The authorities were apparently greatly surprised when they heard of the visit; and it is probable that they had had no previous notice of it.

The whole Spanish press cherishes the hope that Germany will initiate some sort of European intervention. Official circles pretend to be amazed that such an idea should take hold of the public; and they loudly declare that the kaiser's visit will have no official character.

It is understood that as a matter of courtesy the queen regent will send an autograph letter inviting the emperor and empress to visit Madrid. In the unlikely event of acceptance, their German imperial majesties would naturally be shown special attention. The German ambassador will confer on the subject tomorrow with Duke Almedovar de Rio, and nothing definite will be known regarding the matter until after their interview.

The public is so indignant at the attitude of the American commissioners that Senor Sagasta, and his ministerial colleagues, will need uncommon self-possession to prevent a rash suspension of the peace negotiations.

A Berlin dispatch says: The National Zeitung, returning to the subject of Lord Salisbury's American allusions in the Guildhall speech, says: It may be assumed that England persistently aims at the acquisition of the Philippines or a portion of them. The American attitude toward this British ambition will afford a fairly accurate test of the strength of the Anglo-American friendship.

Marchand Hesitates.

Cairo, Nov. 12.—Major Marchand, commander of a French expedition now at Fashoda, and Captain Barateri, who carried Marchand's report to Paris and brought him the reply of the French government, have postponed their departure for Fashoda. It seems that there is some hitch regarding the route he is to take. It is understood that he has received an intimation that he will get no assistance from the British unless he agrees to evacuate all Egyptian territory. He hesitates, therefore, to adopt the river route. It is rumored even that his instructions are to establish fresh posts in the Bahr-el-Gazel basin.

A Dangerous Anarchist.

Lyons, France, Nov. 12.—A man named Pilleyre fired a revolver in the streets here yesterday at a police officer. The officer closed with his assailant. Two other policemen came to the rescue of their comrade, but both were wounded. Another officer then arrived, and a desperate fight ensued, Pilleyre being finally overpowered. At the police station he confessed that he was an anarchist. He said that he had wished to destroy existing society. A hundred cartridges and a good deal of anarchist literature were found on his person.

A Denial.

Paris, Nov. 12.—It became known here last evening that some publicity had been given in New York to a statement that Senor Rios had recommended an abandonment of the peace negotiations and that Senor Sagasta, though unwillingly, would probably be compelled to accept the recommendation, with a final decision in the matter at the next meeting. On the authority of one who has the best means of knowing the facts of the case this report can be unequivocally denied.

Efforts Rewarded.

Constantinople, Nov. 12.—After three years' efforts upon the part of the United States legation here, Minister Straus has succeeded in obtaining an irade authorizing the granting of an exequatur to the United States consul at Erzeroum.

Another Revelation

The Puritans didn't believe we would ever talk by telephone or read by electric light. Perhaps you doubt that it's possible to make a soap that is equally good for any soap requirement. That's because you are not keeping pace with science. Fairy Soap is a revelation, even to other soap-makers. It's a step beyond anything that has ever been expected. It represents the perfect unity of efficiency and daintiness.

FAIRBANK'S
FAIRY SOAP

is a solvent of dirt. If the dirt is on the skin it releases it—that's all—the water does the rest. The skin is not affected. The same thing happens if the dirt is in a fabric. Fairy Soap releases it easily, quickly and thoroughly without injuring the fabric or its color. Fairy Soap is an ideal soap for toilet, bath, nursery and fine laundry purposes.

Change Doctors—A Woman's Rule.

The following was overheard in a street car—a woman was talking to one who had told her troubles:

"Talking about doctors, do you know I think a great many deaths might be prevented by changing doctors? If one doctor cannot relieve you in three or four days, or perhaps a week, he cannot cure you at all, and the best thing to do under the circumstances is to dismiss him and take another doctor. If he does not help you, change again, and keep changing until you find a doctor who can cure you.

"Every doctor has some specialty, although he does not say so. One might be a splendid throat specialist, while on a severe attack of pneumonia he would scarcely know what to do. Change is my rule for doctors, and I never let the same doctor treat me for more than a week at a time."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Electric Lights In Mines.

The extending use of electricity is well illustrated by its use for lighting mines. The candle or oil lamp of former days was not only dangerous in coal mines, where there is likelihood of an explosion, but it furnished a very imperfect light and compelled the miner to work in semidarkness. Small electric lamps, to be carried by the miners, were introduced in France, but they were objectionable on account of their weight—nearly five pounds—and also because they would burn only a few hours without being recharged. The lamps are now attached to the roofs of the galleries, currents being established by means of wires. By this means an abundance of continuous light is obtained, but care must be exercised in insulating the wires to prevent friction or sparks which might provoke an explosion or ignite surrounding woodwork.—Argonaut.

"Nothing seems to please you," he said bitterly.

"I confess," she replied, "that you do not exactly meet my approval."

Such a Language!

Now, the gallant riders rough,
Having got their hard won dough,
Soon will hear the zephyrs sough
As they lie beneath the bough,
Far away from mane and hough,
Close beside the rippling lough,
But they mustn't catch a cough,
No, nor dose it a la Gough,
And—but, say, this is enough.

An Easy Job.

"I understand you want to hire a housemaid."

"That must be a mistake. I do all my own work."

"Too bad. It would be just the sort of place that I'd like."—Heitere Welt.

A Lament.

Leafless and brown are the trees,
And the wild waste rocks are brown,
Which the wan green sea so stealthily
Comes creeping up to drown,
And the sky is cold and pale,
And the northwest wind blows chill,
And now upon the scene he'll soon appear—
The plumber, with his bill.

A Tough Contract.

"Well, Caleb," said Captain W. of Massachusetts years ago, "what will you ask a day to saw wood for me? I've got several cords that I want sawed in two for the fireplace."

"I should charge you about half a dollar a day if I had a saw," replied Caleb, "but I ain't got none, captain, so I don't see how I can accommodate you."

"If that's all that's lacking, I guess we can manage it," said the captain. "I've got a prime new one, keen as a brier, and I'll let it to you reasonable. How would ninepence (12½ cents) a cord do for the use of it?"

"I reckon that's a fair price, captain. I'll be over in the mornin."

Bright and early that next July morning Caleb was at work, and he kept at it so faithfully that he finished before sunset, when he went to the house to settle.

"Let's see," said the captain, "you were to have half a dollar a day. We'll call it a day, although it ain't sundown yet. That's 50 cents for you, and you were to pay me ninepence a cord for the use of the saw. There were three cords and a half in the pile. That makes 43¾ cents due me. Somehow, Caleb, you don't have very much coming to you."

"How unfortunt," said Caleb, after scratching his head dubiously for half a minute, and then looking up quickly, as if a new light had broken in upon his mind—"how unfortnit that you didn't have half a cord more, for then we'd 'a' come out jest square!"—Success.

Musical Family.

When Audubon was traveling in Labrador, he came, one day, upon a house where the friendly inhabitants made much of him and his companions and where the good wife asked him if he played on any instrument.

"I, myself," she said, "am extraordinarily fond of music and have an instrument which has been sent away for repairs. We miss it greatly, for we can all play on it, and when we are tired the servants use it for us."

"You must be a very musical family," said the naturalist. "What sort of an instrument is it?"

She was perplexed.

"Gentlemen," said she, "my instrument is large, longer than broad, and stands on four legs like a table. At one end is a crooked hand, by turning which, fast or slow, I do assure you we make most excellent music."

"A hand organ!"

She smiled delightedly.

"Ah, that's it!" said she. "It is a hand organ, but for the life of me I could not recollect the name."—Youth's Companion.

WAITING FOR UNCLE SAM'S RATIONS AT CAVITÉ. From HARPER'S WEEKLY

The streets of Manilla present an active appearance during these days when the American army is occupying the place. All the shops are open and natives, Spaniards and half-breeds throng the thoroughfares mingling with our boys in blue. Good-natured soldiers these boys in blue are too, listening all too readily to the wily tongue of the persuasive bargainer and purchasing many a trinket that is probably worthless. Spanish, German and English merchants of Manila repeatedly state that if the United States are to retain the Philippines they will remain in business but if not they will retire. The American soldier eats his rations day by day and performs those duties required of him by his government and cares not whether school keeps or not as far as the shopkeeper is concerned. His one principal object is to see that his stomach is well filled. Our picture taken from Harper's Weekly will give you a fair idea of how our soldiers are fed in this far-away land. On a wharf at Cavite are the large storehouses and and nearby at anchor the huge transports lay ready to discharge or take on cargo. You can see the large group of quartermasters of the different regiments all patiently waiting to receive the rations. When this picture was taken the number of rations to be distributed was something like 135,000. These rations are carted away by officers to the different stations and there prepared and distributed.

Our soldies do not like the natives. In fact they heartily despise them and are much inclined to treat them in a bullying sort of way. This the native has brought about by his lying and cheating, despicable traits that do not not go down with an American. And then feeling that he has been unjustly dealt with he fiercely resents the rough manner of our soldiers.

The Mystery of the Razor.

It is a matter of common experience that a razor left for awhile unused becomes blunt. A writer in Chambers' Journal says that rust caused by the moisture in the atmosphere is quite enough to account for this. Shearers, for instance, who have to use particularly sharp instruments, never set their shears till just before using. What is not so generally known is that a razor which will not cut will become sharper sometimes by being left aside for some time. The only explanation of this is that the electrical properties of the metal in the edge become changed.

A "wire edge" is commonly put on a tool by amateurs. The steel turns and folds back on itself. It is owing to the edge being made too long and thin, or the metal being too soft. The only cure for a wire edge is to break off the bent portion and grind and set again.

"A knife that cuts butter when it is hot" (and under no other circumstances) we sometimes meet with. We have been going into the reasons of things, and the reason of this is easily explained. Heat expands metal, and in proportion to the amount of metal which is heated. There is more metal in the breadth of a blade than in its thickness, and the former, therefore, is expanded immensely more than the latter. In other words, the wedgelike shape is lengthened, and the tool becomes "sharp."

The Fall of Just Pride.

One day soon after the Mulberry Bend park was laid out in the Italian quarter of New York the man who had had more to do with the good work than any one else was passing there. As he strode happily along, thinking of the tenements that used to stand there, the fresh, clean earth attracted him and he walked out upon it. Stamping joyously about, he exclaimed:

"Fine, fine! They have planted the seed and soon the green grass will spring up under the warm sunshine. It is my proudest"—

Just then a park policeman who had slipped up behind him landed two vigorous whacks on the good man's back.

"Git off'n th' grass, ye looney old crank!" he said. "Be off wid ye, quick now, an don't let me ketch ye 'round here ag'in or I'll run ye in. See? G'wan, now."

The philanthropist had leaped wildly to the walk and his fist doubled up with anger, but a second thought, that the "sparrow cop" was right, caused his hand to relax, and the maker of the park "moved on," sore but wise as ever.—New York Times.

Sandy and the Mare.

A Scottish paper tells a story of Sandy Mc——, a Forfarshire farmer who had been spending an hour or two in the evening with a friend a couple of miles away. It was a moonlight night, and Sandy, after partaking freely of his friend's hospitality, was riding quietly home across the sheep pastures on his "guid auld mare," when they came to an open ditch, which his mare refused to cross.

"Hoot awa, Maggie," said the rider, "this winna dae. Ye maun jist gang ower."

He turned back about a hundred yards, wheeled round and gave the mare a touch of his whip. On she went at a brisk canter, but as they reached the edge of the ditch she stopped dead and shot Sandy clean over to the other side.

Gathering himself up, Sandy looked his mare straight in the face and said:

"Vera weel pitched indeed, ma lass. Bit hoo are ye goin to get ower yersel', eh?"

The Lady of the House.

"The lady of the house," once esteemed a highly polite and conciliatory form of address, is now, said a city dweller, "ancient and obsolete with those who pursue business by modern methods. In advance practice the custom is now to address the lady of the house by name, a method vastly more impressive and one susceptible of varied application. Thus an establishment with which we already have relations sends out a new circular, and this is left at the door by a man who says not 'for the lady of the house,' but 'the So-and-so sends this to Mrs. Blank.' This beats 'the lady of the house' out of sight and marks the refinement of modern methods of doing things."—New York Sun.

Some Sharp Sayings of Bismarck.

Bismarck had the frankness to say that he looked upon the comedies of Dumas the younger, and indeed on most French plays of the lighter sort, as grossly corrupting to the public morals. "Panem et circenses," smiled De Morny. "Panem et saturnalia," muttered Bismarck.

"Prince Bismarck is respectfully requested," wrote the American, "to cable a few words in reference to the following question: What benefit will be derived in your grace's opinion from international expositions?"

On the margin of this the prince simply wrote in pencil, "None."—"Bismarck's Table Talk," by C. Lowe.

Weary's Sacred Promise.

"No, madam, I cannot split the wood to which you so indelicately refer. It would be a violation of a sacred promise I made to me aged mother."

"Nonsense! What kind of a promise?"

"We have the poker habit in our family, ma'am, and I promised mother I'd never touch a chip in any form."

Boston Museum.

Andrew Mack, who is now filling an engagement of two weeks at the Boston Museum, has in "The Ragged Earl" a splendid vehicle for his personal talents and those of his excellent company. "The Ragged Earl" is an Irish play, on the lines of comedy-drama, and it has all the attributes, too rarely noted in modern stage creations, of cleanliness of conception, of beauty and vigor of expression, and of intelligent and careful interpretation. Its tendency is elevating and its influence is felt by the person who sees the play long after the passing of the performance. Of course, as in all Irish plays, a love story wends its way through the story: this particular affair of the heart is sympathetically told, and exquisitely portrayed, and is so broadly human that it appeals to all who hear it. Mr. Mack plays the title role, under the name of Gerald Fitzgerald, a happy-go-lucky, good-natured and daring young nobleman, fond of good living, yet honest, manly and patriotic withal. The adventures through which he passes in winning his bride are consistent, absorbing, and diverting. "The Ragged Earl" is handsomely mounted, much of the scenery having been prepared especially for the production. The engagement is for two weeks only, and Wednesday and Saturday matinees to be given as usual.

Keith's Theatre

The Keith programmes are remarkable in quality and amazing in cost. They range from grave to gay, from lively to severe, from high art to no art, and combine agreeably and profitably the novel, the ingenious, the interesting and the amusing. Mr. Keith was the first amusement manager who realized that if the people are given more than they expect they are certain to return to so bounteous a provider.

The continuous performance, starting modestly in the little Bijou, has developed far beyond its founder's anticipations, though not beyond his abilities. The programme for the week of Nov. 14 will include Felix Morriss and company in "The Vagabond"; John E. Camp, an English comic singer and dancer, who has made a phenomenal hit with the patrons of the Keith theatres in New York and Philadelphia, and is pronounced the cleverest entertainer in his line who has ever been heard in this country; the Grisantos, artistic modelers in sand; the three Polos gymnasts and acrobats of note; the Midgelys, in an amusing juvenile comedy sketch; the Raymond trio, high class musicians, and the Behrwell trio of ring performers, who made a good impression this week. The bioc graph, which will score its 100th week of continuous exhibitions at Keith's a fortnight hence, still continues its popularity unabated, and will have a new lot of pictures.

Castle Square Theatre.

The management of the Castle Square theatre announces as its attraction for the coming week the comedy in three acts, by Mr. J. H. Darnley, "The Solicitor." It is a farce in three acts so cleverly planned and written that the interest is held to the final curtain. This comedy was given its first American production at the Boston Museum during the season of '90—'91 and created such a sensation that it held the stage for nine consecutive weeks. Its ridiculous situation, comical incidents, laughable stage business, with its bustle, contradiction and mishaps easily explain the instant favor it gained with Boston audiences. The action originates in the experiences of its central figure, a London solicitor, while he is winning a wager by driving a Hansom cab in the streets of London, without the cabbies consent. The cast is as follows: Gilbert Branden, J. H. Gilmour; Colonel Sterndale, James C. Barrows; Captain Midhurst, Charles Mackay; Lieutenant Arlington, Tony Cummings; Mrs. Gilbert Brandon, Miss Lillian Lawrence; Mrs. Midhurst, Miss Maude Odell; Mary Kingston, Miss Mary Sanders.

Impromptu Justices.

The St. James Budget tells the following somewhat unbelievable story gleaned from the columns of the London Times:

Herr Wolff, special correspondent of The Tageblatt, having an idle day somewhere between Kiao Chou and Tsingtau, went out in quest of adventures with his dog, Schuster, and his clerk. Arriving at a courthouse, he found a mandarin preparing to try 13 Chinese, charged with murdering German missionaries. Waving a piece of paper, which he declared was his warrant, he promptly took the highest seat, ordered "Herr von Schuster" to take the next in dignity to his right, placed his clerk on his left, waved aside the bewildered mandarin, who doubtless thought that this was the "mailed fist" in person, and called for the prisoners, whom, without hearing evidence, he promptly acquitted. He then rode off, followed by Herr von Schuster and the clerk, declaring that the order of the day was at an end.

Stranger Than Fiction.

The limits of probability have lately been puzzling a London police magistrate. The origin of his perplexity, as given by the Illustrated London News, is this:

A young domestic servant tried to cash one or two forged checks and was arrested in the attempt. She said "a gentleman" gave them to her—a "Mr. Gilbert," whose whereabouts nobody could trace. That story has been told too often to impress a jury—no juryman likes to be made a laughing stock—but before a verdict of "guilty" could be given a man fell down dead in the streets. He was recognized as "the gentleman" by the accused woman, and, sure enough, in his pocket were found other forged checks similar to those she had attempted to put into circulation. Even Mr. Lane, Q. C., may be persuaded that truth really is stranger than fiction.

Benefit of Peerage.

Every one may not know what the term "benefit of peerage" implies. A peer can demand a private audience of the sovereign to represent his views on matters of public welfare. For treason or felony he can demand to be tried by his peers. He cannot be outlawed in any civil action, nor can he be arrested unless for an indictable offense, and he is exempt from serving on juries. He may sit with his hat on in courts of justice, and should he be liable to the last penalty of the law he can demand a silken cord instead of a hempen rope.

Practical Remedy.

Caller (with manuscript)—Then you can't use the poem? May I ask what ails it?

Editor—Well, it lacks what might be called the true poetic fire.

Caller—Couldn't that be—ah—imparted to it some way?

Editor—Well, you might try sticking it in the stove.—Chicago Tribune.

Not Movable.

Innocent Party—Now, can you tell me where this road goes to?

Rustic—Doan't go nowhere. Bin 'ere ever since I knowed it.—Sketch.

A Philosopher's Deathbed.

A French physician, I read, has recently expired in a truly professional manner as well as with the serenity that man should show in his last hour. He pointed out the precise moment when his pneumonia developed fatal symptoms and predicted exactly when death would supervene. If he knew as much about other people's condition as his own, he must have been a loss to his patients. Haller died in a somewhat similar manner. Feeling his own pulse when he found it almost gone, he turned to a brother physician with, "My friend, the artery ceases to beat," and died. Keats, less technical and accurate, but with an equal perception of his approaching end, said, "I feel the daisies growing over me." The failure of sight is the omen most generally recognized. Some, however, have not only no prescience of their coming fate, but their conviction is entirely the other way. "I do not mean to be killed today," was the remark of the great Turenne a moment before he was struck by the cannon shot that killed him.—London Graphic.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

DARK RUMORS AFLOAT.

Report of Mysterious Telegram Announcing the Death of Dreyfus.

Exile's Wife Meets With Rebuffs From Government.

Information Imparted to Her In a Rather Roundabout Manner.

Paris, Nov. 14.—It is reported here that Dreyfus is dead. The rumor is understood to be based upon a mysterious telegram received from Colmar, capital of Upper Alsace, signed by an unknown correspondent. So far as can be ascertained there is no official confirmation of the report.

CAPTAIN DREYFUS.

So far as can be ascertained there is no official confirmation of the report. The father-in-law of Dreyfus discredits it. He says he has excellent accounts which he received from the colonial office quite recently as to the prisoner's health.

Despite these assurances there are dark rumors afloat. In view of the curious manner in which the letter from Dreyfus, declaring that he had abandoned all hope, was conveyed to Mme. Dreyfus on Friday, many people believe he is dead.

A dispatch from Paris on Friday said that Mme. Dreyfus had applied that day at the office of the minister of the colonies for permission to send her husband some warm clothing for his return home. The request was refused, on the ground that the government would do whatever was necessary.

At the same time, according to the dispatch, the authorities read her a letter from her husband to the effect that, having for five months addressed appeals for revision to General De Boisdeffre (recently chief of staff of the French army) without getting any reply, and being weary and exhausted by his useless appeals, he would write no more to his family or to anybody. He described himself as ill and dying and bequeathed to the "generosity of my country the care of rehabilitating my memory."

It appears that Mme. Dreyfus then asked permission to telegraph her husband the decision of the court of cassation. This request also was refused. Then, through a friend, she appealed to President Faure, but with no better result.

The dispatch said her counsel would bring the whole matter before the court of cassation.

Marchand Departs.

Cairo, Nov. 14.—Major Marchand, commander of the French expedition to Fashoda, started yesterday for that point with Captain Baratier, who carried Marchand's report to Paris and brought the reply of the French government. On their arrival at Fashoda the expedition will immediately retire by way of Sobat, southwest of Fashoda, at the junction of the Sobat river and the White Nile, from which point they will move overland to Jibutil, the French post in the Eesa district, on the west coast of the gulf of Aden.

Getting Rid of Li.

Pekin, Nov. 14.—Li Hung Chang has been ordered to proceed to Tsi-Nan, capital of the province of Shan-Tung, to concert measures with the viceroy of Shan-Tung to prevent future inundations of the yellow river (Hoang-Ho). This appointment is regarded as virtually shelving Prince Li.

Accounts Overdrawn.

Trenton, Nov. 14.—Vice Chancellor Reed has rendered a decision in which he holds that ex-Mayor Frank A. Magowan, as president of the Trenton Rubber company, overdrew his accounts in that concern to the extent of at least $150,000. He also decides that Allen Magowan, the ex-mayor's father, and a director of the company, is civilly responsible for $16,990 of these overdrafts, and that William P. Hayes, another director, is responsible to the extent of $3600. Suit was instituted by Receiver Bird with the idea of holding Allen Magowan and William P. Hayes responsible for the ex-mayor's overdrafts, on the ground that they had been negligent in their duties as directors.

Mourning In Hanover.

Hanover, Mass., Nov. 14.—The debris of Friday's disastrous fire and explosion at the Four Corners smouldered all day yesterday, and around it gathered from time to time the many people who had come here out of curiosity. All the injured people are doing nicely. The funerals of the four men who were killed were held yesterday.

WANAMAKER'S SIDE.

Announces That He Intends to Fight Quay to a Finish.

Philadelphia, Nov. 14.—Ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker has issued a statement in reference to the announcement made by Senator Quay on Thursday of his candidacy for re-election to the United States senate, his statement that his re-election was assured, and his offer of $10,000 reward for the conviction of any person corruptly offering a bribe to a member of the legislature for his vote for United States senator.

Mr. Wanamaker says Senator Quay has interpreted the result of the recent election as his personal triumph and vindication, "while the truth is the recent election is a most significant rebuke and defeat of Senator Quay and all he represents.

The ex-postmaster general says that though Quay's candidate for governor was elected he received a minority of the votes cast for the office, and "what is more significant," he continues, "is that at least 155 of the 254 members of the next legislature are pledged to vote against Quay."

After styling Senator Quay's manifesto as "the exultant yell of a political boss," Mr. Wanamaker notifies the senator that the contest against his domination is not ended, and reiterates his purpose of carrying on the contest until Quay's "rule and his methods are exterminated from the politics of the state."

Mr. Wanamaker closes his address with an offer of $20,000 for information that will secure the conviction of anyone who corruptly gives, or offers to give, directly or indirectly, to any member of the general assembly any money, appointment to office or thing of value to secure the vote of such member for any person for the office of United States senator, or information that will lead to the conviction of any member corruptly receiving any money, appointment to office or other valuable thing for his vote for United States senator."

Mr. Wanamaker adds that his offer will continue in force for a year after the election of a United States senator, and that he will pay all costs of prosecution in any case coming within the province of the offer.

Not McCaffery's Widow.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Judge Payne of the superior court has decided against Mrs. Dawson McCaffery in the suit she brought shortly after the death of John McCaffery in 1894 to be recognized as the rightful widow of the deceased, and to share in the $500,000 estate. Mary Dawson and John McCaffery, who was a Chicago building contractor, lived together as man and wife from 1830 to 1848 at Corning, N. Y. In the summer of 1848 they decided to move to Virginia, and while en route, it is claimed, Mrs. McCaffery deserted her husband and children. About three months later, it is claimed, Mrs. McCaffrey married William O'Daniels, a former employe of McCaffery. In 1864 O'Danlies died in the United States army, and his wife petitioned the government for a pension, which she obtained and continued to draw till the filing of her bill to be declared the widow of McCaffrey, instead of O'Daniels. This decision leaves the property to be divided between five heirs named in the will.

Seek Redress In Politics.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 14.—The Stitchers' union held a very largely attended meeting yesterday, being addressed by President Tobin of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, and at the conclusion it was voted to follow the action of the other unions and abide by the decision of the grand council. The shoe cutters also held a meeting and took similar action. The final meeting of the day was the council, and, while the members absolutely refused to state what action was taken, it is rumored that a strike has been decided upon at the so-called free shops. It is expected that a labor ticket will be placed in the field at the coming municipal election, preliminary action to that end being taken yesterday. A committee of five from each ward was appointed irrespective of party to form a city committee, and nominations will be made for every place on the ticket, from mayor to councilman.

West Virginia Politics.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 14.—Governor Atkinson, who claimed a majority of five for the Republicans in the lower house of the legislature, now concedes the lower house to the Democrats by a majority of one. This does not affect the majority on joint ballot for senator except in the settlement of contests. In the event of many being unseated there would be more cases in the lower house than in the senate.

Founded by an Exile.

Exeter, N. H., Nov. 14.—The First Congregational church of this town celebrated yesterday and is continuing today the centennial of the reorganization of the church, for which, however, an age of 260 years may quite justly be claimed. The church was founded in 1638 by Rev. John Wheelwright, who was exiled from Boston in 1637.

DR. QUINN STEPS OUT.

Wouldn't Preach to Congregation In a Cold Church.

Farewell Sermon Scheduled For Next Sunday.

Warden Disagrees With Him, and Says He Will Call Upon Police.

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 14.—The trouble between the vestry of St. Thomas' church and the rector, Rev. J. C. Quinn, which has been existing for some time, has come to an end. At the services held last evening a letter was read by Choirmaster W. A. Nichols from Archdeacon Van Buren of Lynn, saying that Dr. Quinn had decided to resign, and the resignation was now in his hands, and would be forwarded to Bishop Lawrence today.

There were just 54 persons present when services were begun yesterday morning, at which Dr. Quinn officiated. Just after the collection, the reverend gentleman arose, and said it was his intention to preach his farewell sermon yesterday morning, but as there was no fire in the church, and it was very uncomfortable for the congregation, he decided to postpone it until next Sunday. Dr. Quinn also announced that there would be no services in the evening on the same grounds.

After Dr. Quinn had announced his intention of postponing his farewell sermon, Richard T. Clarke, junior warden, made his way to the vestry, where the doctor was taking off his vestments, and said that he was very sorry that he (the doctor) did not preach, as next Sunday, if he attempted to enter the church, he would have him arrested. Mr. Clarke also announced to the congregation that services would be held in the evening, and Choirmaster Nichols would officiate.

At the service in the evening 25 worshippers were present. Mr. Nichols read two selections from the scriptures, and then read the letter from the archdeacon, announcing Dr. Quinn's resignation, to take place Nov. 15, and also said that at the services next Sunday the archdeacon would be present and officiate.

Commenting on the resignation, Mr. Nichols said: "Providence has seen fit to remove the rector to other fields. What the church needs is a young man, who will work for its interests, visit the parishioners, and be a fit successor to the late and lamented Dr. Durrell. This church is not like other sects, who, if they do not like the minister, they can go some place else; we are bound to be loyal to our clergy, as they are made by the bishops' hands, who are the successors of the apostles."

Dr. Quinn was interviewed at his residence after the service, and said that he decided to resign in the interest of peace and harmony of the church and forsake his own personal welfare.

Ever since the death of Dr. Durrell this church has not been in a flourishing condition, and the last two rectors have had a hard road to travel. Dr. Gray, who was Dr. Durrell's successor, got along very well for a short time, and he was finally ousted, and Dr. Quinn was chosen in his place, with the above results.

Revised Tariff Needed.

Cleveland, Nov. 14.—In an interview last night Senator Hanna said the tariff would have to be revised to meet existing conditions. "The war revenue measure," he said, "must be revised, but we will keep many of the original features of the law simply because it is now necessary. Under the old tariff law we are not getting very much revenue because we are exporting instead of importing, and something must be done to meet these new conditions. We must have a new revenue measure. So far as I am concerned I favor putting a duty on tea and coffee. The revenues for the support of the government must be raised in some way, and the indirect is the best way, according to my idea. When the people do not realize that they are paying a tax there is no complaint. Still it will be necessary to retain some of the features of the war revenue measure. The tax is now on the people, and in some instances it is the proper method of taxation."

Cruel Treatment of a Negro.

Seymour, Ind., Nov. 14.—Last night a masked and armed mob took out of jail John Baird, a colored Democratic stump speaker who had been imprisoned on the charge of obtaining money by false pretenses. Once outside the mob beat him with sticks, pounded him over the head with revolvers and ordered him to leave town at once. Instead of obeying the order he went to the prosecuting attorney and sheriff for protection. Half an hour later he accompanied the sheriff and posse in search for members of the mob. It is not known whether or not the assault upon him was inspired by political spite.

Weather Was Unfavorable.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 14.—Although every preparation was made at the Harvard observatory to observe the meteors last night, the cloudy weather prevented even a glimpse at the starlit and supposed flashing sky. If the weather clears tonight an attempt will be made to carry out the plans for the observation, and this will also be repeated tomorrow night.

Salt Water to Quench Fire.

Boston, Nov. 14.—The "conflagration district," the scene of so many disastrous fires in the wholesale and commercial sections of Boston, was yesterday placed under additional fire protection by the introduction of sea water through fire mains. Final experiments made demonstrated that the method of draughting water from Boston harbor was practical and cheap.

MR. FAXON'S GIFT.

Rev. E. W. Preble Tells Why Churches are Helpful Factors.

At the Universalist church Sunday, Rev. Edgar W. Preble spoke of Mr. Faxon's purposes in giving to the churches, as specified in his brief letter to the several treasurers. After dwelling a moment on the fact that Mr. Faxon was a man who evidently had the right ideal of the use of wealth, and his general benevolencies, and expressing the wish that there were many more such men in the community; he went on to show how the churches were helpful factors in the three things mentioned.

1. We all believe in the advancement of pure religious faith. This does not mean a doctrinal or sectarian faith. It means faith in God, righteousness and the eternal things of the spirit.

This is the main thing in religion. A pure religious faith makes a pure life. It puts the spirit of love in the heart, the sense of duty in the mind and cleanses and purifies the soul. Such faith also makes a purifying life, one that goes out with a cleansing power among men. As the greatest conservator of this faith, therefore, the churches are worthy of the support of all.

2. We all, also, believe in the promotion of honest politics, for the safety of the country depends upon it. No country can endure when corruption and dishonesty rule in the public services. The temptation to dishonest politics is great in our country. Populations are massing in cities and the spoils of office are immense.

The ward boss becomes the city boss, the city boss the state boss; and, with another turn of the wheel, the state boss becomes the boss of the country. There is great need, therefore, for conscience in politics; and it is the duty of the churches to educate this element of public safety. They should make the public conscience a great searchlight, which should shine so bright in all departments of public service, that the shadow of any dishonest act would appear so black and repulsive that the people would instantly condemn it. And in order to do this the churches must be somewhat independent of party lines. They must have the power to act freely, and not be so tied and lashed to any organization that their own conscience is enslaved by it.

3. We all believe in the extension of social enjoyment. Glad Mr. Faxon did not say amusement. The churches are great social factors, and this is not the least of their benefits. On a footing of social equality they bring together all classes and they foster, or should, all pure social enjoyments. In fact, the churches conserve every good of the community and it is wisdom on the part of the rich men to give to them; and in doing it he benefits himself and gives a good example to others.

Incorporated.

The Wollaston Congregational society has voted to incorporate under the laws of 1887. This marks an epoch in the career of this honored society.

Mr. Edward Lyman Robbins, the clerk of the old society, called the meeting to order, and, after reading the call, asked for nominations for temporary moderator. The Rev. Rufus B. Tobey was nominated and subsequently elected to act in that capacity. Prayer was then offered by Mr. N. G. Nickerson.

Mr. Edward L. Robbins was elected clerk of the new corporation.

Acting upon a motion made by Mr. Charles A. Campbell, the meeting voted to incorporate the society under the provisions of Chapter 44, Acts of 1887.

After the adoption of the by-laws these officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year.

Moderator,—Rev. Rufus B. Tobey.

Treasurer,—John A. Barbour.

Prudential Committee,—Edward L. Robbins, John A. Barbour, Edward S. Tenney, George W. Stone, Charles P. Hutchins, A. L. Baker, and N. G. Nickerson.

Superintendent Sunday School,—Charles A. Campbell.

Members of Executive Committee,—W. M. Wright, George A. Dickey.

Collector,—George W. Stone.

Music Committee,—Charles G. Farwell

Deacons,—Charles G. Farwell for one year, Smith B. Harrington for two years, and Joshua L. Nash for three years.

After the adoption of the Creed, Covenant, and articles of Faith the meeting adjourned.

—The fifty-fourth annual meeting of the Massachusetts Teachers Association will be held in the High school building, Springfield, on Friday and Saturday, November 25 and 26. President Gay and his associates have done all in their power to make this meeting equal to any ever held by this notable organization. The names of John Fiske, G. Stanley Hall and William Hawley Smith are a sufficient guarantee that it will be a meeting of great intellectual profit as well as inspiration.

Larger Golf Field.

A committee of the Wollaston Golf club is canvassing the members of the organization with a view to ascertaining the feeling in regard to the purchase of a tract of 66 acres upon which to lay out an 18-hole course. The club now has a fine nine-hole course on land owned by more than a hundred people, and has a lease which runs for two more years, although it may be terminated before if any of the owners wish to build. To acquire the additional tract about $5,000 will be required, and as $2,000 of this has been pledged already, it is expected that the committee will have no difficulty in securing the needed sum. If the grounds are acquired, it is likely that the dues will be raised to $25 a year, and the club membership increased largely. The Wollaston links at Norfolk Downs are among the most easily accessible around Boston, and the quality of the turf and the natural character of the ground are unsurpassed in this vicinity. Within two weeks, it is expected, the committee will be ready to report the feeling of the members.—Herald.

Be-Whiskered Boys.

Editors Daily Ledger:

Permit me to make just one more complaint in your columns before my friends put me in the Home for Chronic Kickers at Cranktown.

A custom has arisen in Quincy this fall, particularly among the young society set, for young boys who have never yet even paid a poll tax, many of them, to allow their faces to become overgrown with a straggly, patchy growth of hair, which either great imagination, excessive courtesy, or failing eyesight might consider a beard. This is the latest fad. When a pipe or cigar is stuck through this covering into the mouth the resemblance to a man is quite complete. The appearance of the devotees to this fad furnish strong objective proof that Darwin's chain between monkey and man did not have as many links as is commonly supposed. A swagger usually is sported along with the pipe.

Several sets of these juvenile whiskers are noticed on the golf field. The small boys have christened them "Spinach," it is hard to see why, unless the fact that spinach is a forced vegetable has something to do with it. The writer has also heard them called "Santiagos"; this term arising among the soldiers and denotes that the wearer has seen service in the field, where it is impossible to shave.

There is one redeeming feature about this latest fad, however, and that is, that although it is silly, it is harmless, like the wearer, although appearances are against them both. The Historical Society has succeeded in procuring a quite perfect set for their relic department.

Yours truly,

Aunt Phoebe.

Drumtochty Folk.

Miss Jean Howison of Perth, Scotland, (Muirtown) will give a lecture-recital from Ian Maclaren's book on Monday, Nov. 21, at 8 P. M., in Colonial hall, Quincy Saving Bank Building. The New York Mail and Express says, Miss Jean Howison, of Perth, Scotland, has captured many an American audience by the grace and charm of her platform efforts. The gifted Scotch lady is both a lecturer and elocutionist. Her favorite platform topic is Robert Burns, of whom in common with Scotsmen and Scotswomen on either continent, she is an enthusiastic admirer. She is herself a native of Perth, but a few miles distant from the now world-famed Drumtochty, and knows both the village and the author. She has just enough of Scotia's delightful brogue to give a sympathetic and entertaining presentation of Scotland's latest prose classic, and to make to live anew the almost historic figures of Jennie Soutar and Drumsheugh, of Mrs. MacFayden and Dr. Weelum MacLure.

Time Expires for Making Nominations for Democratic Caucuses.

Saturday night the time expired for making nominations for the Democratic caucuses which are to be held on Friday evening in all the wards of the city. It was with difficulty that the Ledger was able to obtain the result in the wards given below. Ward One is withheld from the public by the Ward Committee, who ascribe no particular reason therefor, while Ward Three has been forwarded to the City Committee, but has not reached them.

In every ward there are three Councilmen to be elected, but in some only one man has been nominated. The delegates from each ward will be respectively 11, 9, 12, 19, 6, 5, which with one at-large will make 63 in the convention.

There are some contests for delegates and others for ward committees. A noticeable instance of the latter is in the Quincy Point ward where some would oust the chairman and secretary of the City Committee.

Fire at Weymouth.

There was a slight fire in the large shoe manufactory of Edwin Clapp at East Weymouth this morning. Although there was but little damage by fire the loss by water will amount to several thousand dollars. The fire started in the cutting room on the top floor about 3 o'clock and the heat opened the automatic sprinklers, which not only extinguished the fire but flooded the building. People living near, heard the warning gong that was started by the sprinklers but paid no attention to it, and the running water was not discovered until the engineer arrived at 5 o'clock.

For Other Reasons.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

We, the undersigned members of Ward One Republican Committee, wish to repudiate the statement which appeared in your issue of Saturday last, in regard to the meeting held by our committee on Thursday evening, November 10, concerning the question raised in regard to the second list of names for ward committtee. We at no time wished to disqualify or reject the second list for ward committee from the fact that one of the candidates, to wit, Frank G. Mowry, had endorsed the nomination paper, but for other reasons which your paper has not mentioned and which we do not consider should be known. In fact no member of the committee present for one moment thought of rejecting the list on that account.

In Behalf of Humanity.

St. Louis, Nov. 14.—At a meeting of the Forum club, composed of about 500 prominent colored citizens of St. Louis, Professor Wood, race commissioner of the organization, delivered an eloquent address upon the subject of the recent bloody massacres of negroes in the southern states. Resolutions were presented recommending the appointment of a commission of five to draft an address to President McKinley, calling his attention to the defenseless condition of colored citizens who are subjected in the state in which they live to all forms of violence and ask him to intervene in behalf of humanity and good government. The commission is instructed to circulate this petition throughout the United States for the purpose of securing the signatures and co-operation of the colored citizens of the entire country.

Caucuses th is week.

Registration for the city election will close Wednesday night at ten o'clock.

Why don't the Ward One Republican Committee tell he public just what the trouble was and not have any mystery about the opening of the nominations?

The unpledged list of Mayoralty delegates from Ward Three is not all an opposition list for some say that they are in favr of Mayor Sears; that they were requested to allow their names to be used to fill out a list and they did so. This shows that the opposition to Mayor Sears in this ward is confined to a few. There will be a largely attended caucus however.

Alcohol as a Medicine.

At a meeting of the New York State Medical Association last month one of the topics under discussion was the use of alcohol as a medicine. Dr. H. D. Didama, of Syracuse, said that during the last four years he had not given to all his patients together as much as a teaspoonful for this substance. Dr. Hiram A. Pooler, of New York City, declared that he prescribed alcohol very rarely and for young persons he would exclude its use altogether. He confessed with sorrow to a fear that he had aided in sending two persons to drunkards' graves.

Dr. E. R. Squib said that formerly alcohol was the only convenient medium that could be employed in extracting the medicinal properties from solid drugs, so as to mix them with other medicines. Now, however, it had been found that acetic acid, diluted with ten parts of water to one of acid, would serve the same purpose. It was no longer necessary, therefore, to employ alcohol in "exhausting" drugs.

One physician who was present evinced scepticism as to the direful effects of hard drinking on a man's health, and another found nothing that would brace a patient up who is sick with pneumonia as alcohol does.

The remarks of the chief speaker, Dr. J. M. Farrington, of Broome County, are reported by "The Medical Record" as follows: "He expressed the opinion that those of the profession who believe in the value of alcohol as a remedy were now in the minority. A great change in this respect had taken place in recent years. Alcohol, he said, was not a food, but, on the contrary, impaired nutrition. It was not a stimulant, but really a depressant. Recent physiological experiments showed that it retarded, perverted and was destructive to normal cell growth. Life insurance companies had become convinced beyond question that alcohol, use in even moderate quantities, impaired health and shortened life. They declined to accept a risk unqualifiedly if the person used liquor in any form habitually.

"Railroad companies now required their engineers, brakemen, switchmen and conductors to be total abstainers. The majority of Christian societies had banished wine from their religious ceremonies, and used instead unfermented grape juice. Notwithstanding the drinking usages of the time, he believed that there never was a period in the world's history when the use of liquor was considered so degrading. He attributed the superior accuracy of our gunners in the late naval engagements with Spain to the banishment of rations of grog.

"By order of Lord Wolseley, he said, careful experiments had been made regarding the staying qualities and health of the British troops using alcohol, as compared with those not using such drink. Certain regiments were allowed rations of grog, and from other regiments these were entirely withheld. It was found that those receiving the grog made a very impetuous dash in their charges, but after a few days they showed a great deal more fatigue and weakness than those who had had no grog. As a result of these observations, and not from any conscientious scru ples, rations of grog had been forbidden in the present campaign in the Soudan. Difficult as was this important innovation on time-honored customs, the results had fully justified the change. Dr. Farrington though the medical profession should be as active now in securing the banishment of alcohol as it had been in the past in placing it in a prominent position."

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to S, and today's instalment is the first of the Ts:

Incorrigible.

A poor little street Arab was brought into a hospital by the police. He had been run over by an omnibus and was badly injured. The chaplain was sent for, as it was thought improbable that the boy would live many hours. With little tact the chaplain began the interview thus: "My boy, the doctors think you are very much hurt. Have you been a good little boy?"

Boy (much bored)—You git aout!

Chaplain (shocked)—But I am afraid you are not a good little boy, and you know you may perhaps be going to die.

Boy (anxious to end the interview)—Well, tain't none o' your business anyow. Wot's me death got to do with you? Ave you got a pal in the corflin line?

It is pleasant to be able to relate that the boy finally recovered.

Now and then the doctor is believed to be almost omniscient. A patient in a military hospital was constantly getting into hot water because he smuggled food into the wards. One morning his medical officer was about to examine his throat with a laryngoscope. Seeing the little mirror all ready for use the man's chum whispered an anxious warning from the adjoining bed. "I say, Bill, you'd best 'ave a care. Ee moight 'appen to see wot yer 'ad for supper lawst noight."—Cornhill Magazine.

Could Sleep at Will.

A friend of the late Dr. William Pepper of Philadelphia tells how he could go to sleep at will. "Will you excuse me, Mrs. ——?" he would say sometimes. "I could talk with you much more satisfactorily if I had a few minutes' nap. Jane, make Mrs. —— comfortable and wake me in ten minutes."

Outside the office would be crowded with people waiting to see him—about the Philadelphia museums, the University of Pennsylvania, the public libraries, or about their health, but he would go into his own room behind the office, would stretch out on the lounge, throw a rug over his knees and closing his eyes would be asleep at once. Ten minutes later he would be roused by his servant and would at once resume his conversation with the patient at the point at which it had been dropped. He would sleep in his carriage as he was driven from one appointment to another. He would sleep in a train, in a strange parlor or library, in private or in public, absolutely indifferent to comment.

School Holidays In France.

Two hundred and six holidays in the year, as against 159 school days! That's the record of public instruction in France. To begin with, there is the regular midsummer holiday, which covers a period of 64 days. That's pretty good for a starter. Then there are the Sundays. They are holidays of course everywhere, but they count an additional 52 days. Then ten days are allowed for the proper celebration of Christmas and New Year's. To be thoroughly observant of the great feast of Eastertide 15 days are given. Thursdays are holidays, and that means 52 more days of no labor. All Saints' comes in for three days' holiday, St. Charlemagne two days, Shrove Tuesday and Ash Wednesday two days, Whitsuntide three days, and three days to make merry when the national fete in July rolls round. The rest of the year the children are supposed to study.—Philadelphia Ledger.

World's Largest Workhouse.

The largest workhouse in the world is at Liverpool, where the workhouse has accommodation for no fewer than 5,000 inmates. It is not, however, often filled, as only half of its many dormitories are occupied by the permanent pauper residents. There are occasions, such as a labor strike, if long continued, which cause it to fill up rapidly, and then it proves none too big for the requirements of the union. Liverpool has a large number of poor, but it is specially munificent in its charities. Of these the chief are the Bluecoat hospital, maintaining and educating 350 children; the Orphan asylum, the Seamen's Orphan asylum in Newsham park, containing about 400 boys and an equal number of girls; schools for the blind and the deaf and dumb, industrial schools, and a number of hospitals.—London Tit-Bits.

School Laws In Switzerland.

If a child in Switzerland does not attend school on a particular day, the parent gets a notice from the public authority that he is fined so many francs. The second day the fine is increased, and by the third day the amount becomes a serious one. In case of sickness the pupil is excused, but if there be any suspicion of shamming a doctor is sent. If the suspicion proves to be well founded, the parent is required to pay the cost of the doctor's visit.

The Send In the Road.

I don't count death anything. It's the main traveled road. Death is not the end of the road; it's only a bend around which people pass out of our sight. Death is only an incident. Man is a hard thing to kill. He can't be killed. A drop of water cannot be destroyed. When energy goes from here, it persists elsewhere.—Myron W. Reed.

Financially Weak.

"Madam, you've already overdrawn your account."

"What's that?"

"You haven't any more money in the bank."

"The idea! A fine bank, I think, to be out of money because of the little I've drawn! Well, I'll go somewhere else."—Chicago Record.

Historic.

"I suppose," said the frequently disappointed politician, "that I may refer to my latest experience as 'a historic defeat.'"

"Yes," answered the somewhat satirical friend, "in the sense that history repeats itself."—Washington Star.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

A FINAL SETTLEMENT

Regarding Disposition of Philippines Cannot Be Far Distant.

Spain May Be Preparing For a Supreme Rally.

She Is Harassed by America's Stern Attitude and Heavy Creditors.

Paris, Nov. 14.—Among onlookers here the impression exists—though it is not the result of any official statement—that the Spanish peace commissioners will not consent to a treaty which the American commissioners could sign. It seems almost possible, also, that in the pitiable pressure to which they are subjected between their large creditors who are on the spot watching them and the stern attitude of the United States the Spaniards may abandon their struggles and leave the two forces to confront each other. The Spaniards, it has been arranged, will inform the Americans today whether they need the whole day to prepare their next memorandum. If they want it the meeting will take place tomorrow.

Under the rules of procedure adopted by the conference, it is understood that the deliberations may not be unexpectedly concluded by either side.

The statement is printed here that the last memorandum from the Americans is regarded by the Spaniards as a virtual ultimatum; but, as a matter of fact, the Americans have not presented an ultimatum, save as their treatment of the subject in hand may be unanswerable. It is only since Wednesday last that the Spaniards have begun to feel that the Americans purpose taking over the Philippines, and that, too, without any assumption of Spanish indebtedness. As they are now convinced of this, it may be that Spain's next presentment in conference will be the supreme rally of her diplomatic, argumentative and tactical forces. It may even mark the conclusion of all she has to say; but, if the rules of procedure are followed, the Americans would still have another presentation to submit.

Ever since Oct. 1 it has been within the range of possibility that at any meeting an open rupture might occur, and on one or two occasions it might have been easily a fact even before the taking up of the Philippines question.

The boundaries of the field in which that question is being worked out are becoming more apparent, and the angle of final settlement cannot be far off. If a treaty is to result here, it may fairly be expected within three weeks, although it is not true—as reported from the United States yesterday—that the Americans have instructions embodying a time limit for the conclusion of the conference.

The Gaulois this morning says: The acquisition of the Philippines for 25 years by an international syndicate, from whichever power may eventually acquire them, is a rumor based on facts of which The Gaulois will give retails. Following this lead, The Gaulois and other Paris papers today announce the scheme somewhat on these lines:

A syndicate representing $400,000,000 capital proposes to take over the commercial resources and advantages of the Philippines for a term of 25 years, paying to the dominant power therein $125,000,000 for the privilege.

Under the alleged terms of this scheme the dominant power would administer the political and military government of the islands at its own expense, under the apportionment named, while the syndicate would collect all customs and other revenues for the term specified.

The scheme involves giving Spain $175,000,000 to satisfy any real or imaginary claims she may make as to the territory. This feature is said to be based on the assumption that the United States will be the dominant power. The remaining $100,000,000 of this reputed syndicate would be reserved as its working capital.

The sponsor of the project is a Mr. Young, said to be a son of Brigham Young, and an attempt is apparently made to create the impression that the capital of $500,000,000 is already underwritten.

It is thought possible, however, if the alleged syndicate has an existence, that Americans may have an opportunity given them to join with it in holdings of large or small amounts. Whether it proves veritable or otherwise, friends of the United States here are asking if the announcement of the scheme is not intended to embarrass the Americans by an offer, real or apparent, of $400,000,000 for a limited time, for the use of what the Americans may desire to acquire in perpetuity for a sum relatively nil.

Non-officials in Paris put aside as unthinkable the assumption that the United States would farm out its burdens or its advantages, if any, in the Philippines, which, if acquired, will be taken over as indemnity attending the discharge of high responsibilities. In any event the American commissioners will doubtless first ask whether the announcement is timed to serve the ends of the syndicate, or to hinder the efforts of Judge Day and his associates to effect an amicable adjustment of the Philippines question.

Made the Boys Happy.

Boston, Nov. 14.—Through the generosity of Colonel Pfaff the non-commissioned staff and men of the First heavy artillery received $15 each today, previous to their being mustered out of the United States service. In doing this the colonel actually loans the men $15 each and depends upon them to reimburse him when they receive the money from the government. The 667 men will be advanced $10,005.

Wreckers to Be Driven Off.

Washington, Nov. 14.—The official report to the navy department of the finding of the Maria Teresa was contained in the following cablegram received from Commander Craven of the wrecking tug Potomac, which had been ordered to Cat Island from Santiago: "Potomac arrived. Maria Teresa near Bird Point, Cat island, one mile off shore in two fathoms of water. Tide rising and falling inside. Temporary deck broken up, movable articles removed by natives. Vulcan not seen. Natives at work since Saturday." The Potomac was ordered at once back to Cat island with instructions to Commander Craven to take possession of the Teresa and drive off the wreckers who are looting the ship.

William's Visit to Spain.

Washington, Nov. 14.—It is understood that assurances have been given by the German government that the visit of Emperor William of Germany to Spain is entirely devoid of official character or significance; that the official trip of the imperial party ended when they left Palestine, and that the proposed stop at Cadiz and Cartagena is largely a health precaution in behalf of the empress, as the sea trip would be long and arduous if unbroken by these stops at the Spanish ports.

Will Soon Be Deserted.

Middletown, Pa., Nov. 14.—The end of Camp Meade is in sight. By Thursday the entire Second corps will have left for the new camps in the south. Three regiments started yesterday and three more go today. General Young and staff and the signal corps will be the last to go. Among the regiments leaving yesterday was the First Rhode Island. A battalion from a regiment not yet designated will stay behind to guard the government property. Secretary Alger is so well pleased with this location that a portion of it may be used next spring. The hospitals have been cleaned out and on Wednesday their equipment will be sent away. The headquarters of the corps will be Augusta, Ga. The troops will be scattered between that city, Athens, Ga., Summerville, Columbia and Greenville, S. C.

Instructions to Rios,

Madrid, Nov. 14.—El Imparcial says the government has forwarded instructions to Senor Rios, president of the Spanish peace commission at Paris, and that today's conference may be the last or the last but one "unless the American commissioners moderate their claims." According to El Imparcial a member of the cabinet has virtually declared as much.

Right Man In Right Place,

Washington, Nov. 14.—Admiral Schley having asked again for sea service has been promised the command of the European squadron, which will be reestablished in a short time with some of the finest cruisers in the navy to exhibit the American flag creditably to the European nations.

News From Manila,

Manila, Nov. 14.—The following advices have been received from Iloilo, capital of Panay, one of the four principle islands of the Visayas group:

The insurgents have occupied Linganis, Oton and Pavia, suburbs of Iloilo, and are daily expected to attack the town. The Spaniards have abandoned the Mole and destroyed the connecting bridges. Business is paralyzed and the inhabitants are in a state of terror. The mercantile houses, of all nationalities, have signed a circular asking the commander of the United States cruiser Charleston to remain, as the Spanish authorities are incapable of affording them protection.

It is reported also that the insurgents have taken the whole of the islands of Negros and Zebu, of the Visayas group. As the cable connections are cut it is impossible to confirm this rumor.

On Nov. 6, General Rios, Spanish governor of the Visayas, is said to have declared a seven-days' armistice in order to communicate with Madrid with a view of transferring control to the Americans. Major Bell has gone to Iloilo to ascertain the facts of the situation.

Through Train Window.

Detroit, Nov. 14.—Ida Arola, 23 years of age, yesterday threw herself through the window of an express train on the Michigan Central railroad when the train was a short distance from Columbiaville. She was an insane woman who was being deported to Finland in accordance with the immigration law, she having resided here less than a year. Immigration Inspector Williams and the matron of the Sault Ste Marie custom house had the girl in charge.

Jealousy and Murder.

New York, Nov. 14.—Because they could not adjust their differences over a girl, a mere child, Martin Kilkeary, aged 18, and Joseph Smith, aged 21, because involved in a series of quarrels which ended in the murder of Smith. Kilkeary, accompanied by the girl, met Smith Saturday night. A fight followed and Kilkeary drew a revolver and shot Smith, the latter dying by the time he reached the hospital. Kilkeary and the girl were arrested.

Employes Will Be Paid,

Bangor, Me., Nov. 14.—Judge Burgess has allowed the claims of 97 employes of the failed Bangor Pulp and Paper company, and it will take about $10,000 to pay them. Many of the workmen have bills against the company running as high as $200. Assignees Zellin and Dunn of this city are now preparing cases against Bangor men who are alleged to have taken stock in the company without paying for it.

Still In the Ring.

Medicine Lodge, Kan., Nov. 14.—Congressman Jerry Simpson, who has just been defeated for re-election by Chester I. Long, denies the statement that he has quit politics. "I may not run for congress again," said Congressman Simpson in an interview, "but I have not quit politics by any means. I am still alive." Of his ambitions after leaving the national house, however, Mr. Sampson refused to talk.

Two Children Burned.

Boston, Nov. 14.—Frank Veidon, aged 9, and Ella Delano, aged 13, died at the city hospital yesterday from burns received Saturday night. In both cases the children in their respective homes had broken a lighted kerosene lamp, and the flaming oil had enveloped them.

SHOWER OF METEORS,

Kills Two Children, Damages Houses and Sets Prairies on Fire.

Wichita, Kas., Nov. 14.—A report received here says that during a veritable storm of meteors at Perry, Ok., Saturday night, two children were killed, houses were damaged and the prairies set on fire for miles around.

It is said that six huge meteors fell within a radius of a mile. As they struck the earth the concussion was so great that many windows were broken and the people rushed from their homes, fearing an earthquake.

The two children killed were of a family named Henderson. They were asleep together when the great molten mass crashed through the roof and crushed and burned them to death. The whole roof fell in and the family was buried in the ruins. A brother of the children who were killed had his legs and arms broken by falling timbers. The father and mother were pinned in the debris for an hour. Neighbors came to their assistance and finally rescued them.

The meteors were all composed of a substance resembling iron. Some crumbled easily, while others were as hard as steel. There was a vivid display of meteors here Saturday night and last night.

Wants Churches Modernized.

Portland, Me., Nov. 14.—Rev. Dr. Asa Dalton, rector of St. Stephen's church, and for over 30 years an Episcopal clergyman in this city, in a sermon yesterday declared that the Episcopal church had made no progress in Maine in the last 30 years, and said the cause was the devotion of the Maine church to forms and rituals. He spoke of the opposition to Rev. Phillips Brooks when he was made bishop, and said with a bishop like him in the state hundreds would flock to the church. He said the recent conference in Washington was the most encouraging ever held, as the laity had shown its independence of the house of bishops in refusing to approve the change of the name of the church or forbidding any divorced persons marrying again.

Elliott Again.

Boston, Nov. 14.—The result of the annual election in the Massachusetts division of the League of American Wheelmen was as follows: Sterling Elliott was re-elected chief consul by almost a unanimous vote; Adelbert A. Bryson of Fall River, vice consul; Aaron Wolfson of Dorchester, secretary-treasurer, with a majority of eight votes over the present incumbent, Arthur K. Peck of Boston. All the independent nominees for representative failed of election, and among them was A. D. Peck, who declined to accept the nomination of the election committee and ran on independent papers.

A PECULIAR REMEDY.

The Rev. F. I. Bell, a highly esteemed minister residing in Weedsport, Cayuga Co., N. Y., in a recent letter writes as follows: "There has never been anything that I have taken that has relieved the Dyspepsia from which I have suffered for ten years except the new remedy called Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets. Since taking them I have had no distress at all after eating and again after long years can sleep well. Rev. F. I. Bell, Weedsport, N. Y., formerly, Idlaia, Colo.

Stuart's Tablets is a remarkable remedy, not only because it is a certain cure for all forms of indigestion, but because it seems to act as thoroughly in old chronic cases of dyspepsia well as in mild attacks of indigestion or biliousness. A person has dypepsia simply because the stomah is overworked, all it wants is a harmless, vegetable remedy to digest the food and thus give it the much needed rest.

This is the secret of the success of this peculiar remedy. No matter how weak or how much disordered the digestion may be, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. New life and energy is given not only to the stomach but to every organ and nerve in the body. A trial of this splendid medicine will convince the most skeptical that Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles can be cured. The tablets are prepared by the F. A. Stuart Co., of Marshall, Mich., but so popular has the remedy become that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can now be obtained at any drug store at 50 cents per package. Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." STRIKE ON IN EARNEST.

Twenty-Six Hundred Shoe Workers Are Idle In Marlboro.

Seven Factories Involved In the Movement.

Tradesmen Are Much Worried, and Hope For a Speedy Settlement.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 15.—The great strike in this shoe manufacturing town has already taken on a serious aspect to each workman of the thousands who have left their work with the idea of correcting either a real or imaginary wrong. Last night, as the union men met at their several headquarters, there seemed to be a firm determination to make a long fight.

The strike was directly due to the decision of the firms named to conduct their factories without recognizing the shoe workers' organization, an act, the strikers claim, which would eventually lead to a lower scale of wages and the general demoralization of the industry here, while other factories, it is believed, would probably take similar action providing the attempt of the three firms is successful.

The feeling among a majority of the manufacturers is that the depressed condition of the shoe industry has been still further hampered for a long time by the unions, whose terms, many of the factory owners assert, make trade unprofitable.

At present it is impossible to tell whether any of the other firms will declare war on the unions. A number of them will probably refrain from interference until the present struggle is settled.

The cutters, stitchers, lasters, sole fasteners, treers and other unions who accepted the action of these three firms as a declaration of war on the shoe workers' organizations at once began to prepare for a contest. Meetings were held last week and Sunday, and measures were taken for strengthening the unions wherever a defect was found. John F. Tobin of Boston, president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' International union, General Secretary Treasurer H. A. Eaton and other officers of the general organization, who are in the city, with the secretaries of the local unions, engaged yesterday in conference with the three firms. They could not secure any compromise or any concession from the manufacturers, and, late in the forenoon, the council ordered a strike at the four factories of the S. H. Howe company, two factories of Rice & Hutchins and at J. A. Frye & Co.'s factories. The employes, numbering about 2600 in all, were ordered to leave their work at noon.

Practically all the union men and women in the seven factories involved obeyed the order of the council. As soon as the employes left the factories they assembled at Union hall, where a mass meeting was held. General President Tobin addressed the strikers at length, advising them to remain away from the shops. He cautioned them to be careful and prevent any overt act against the peace by anybody. The strikers appeared enthusiastic and determined to resist the attack on the union in every legitimate way possible.

The leaders contend that if the movement of the manufacturers is successful, it will prove an entering wedge for similar action in nearly every shoe factory in Marlboro. They say that wages have been on the decline here for months, and that the war on the unions is actuated by a desire to further cut wages.

The S. H. Howe company employs about 1400 hands, the Rice & Hutchins factories about 600 and J. A. Frye & Co. 600.

All the unions in the city agreed to abide by the decision of the general council after their conference with the three firms.

The firms called upon by the council did not appear to care whether their employes struck or not. Business is not very good at the factories here, and some of the manufacturers maintain that they will lose but little by a few weeks' shutdown.

A joint council of the Boot and Shoe Workers' association was in session the greater part of the afternoon and evening. President Tobin and Secretary Eaton were in consultation with reference to the difficulties, and they left town last night, to return in a few days, when they will advise as to the manner of procedure best to the interests of the laborers.

There was a largely attended meeting of the upper leather cutters, at which it was voted to act in concert with the other unions. Forty new members were initiated. The meeting of the sole leather men last night resulted in the organization of a union which is to be known as the Stock Fitters' union.

The joint council would only say that it had used its influence to avert the strike, visiting the manufacturers and obtaining their views with reference to a possible settlement. No favorable answer having been received, the alternative was the declaration of the strike.

President Tobin expressed himself as pleased with the way the men responded to the call made upon them, and says there is not a single man who has not shown his allegiance to the union.

A report had been circulated around the city that the merchants would refuse to give credit to the strikers. William H. Hall, president of the Merchants' association, in response to an inquiry, said they had taken no action in the matter, as they regard it as a family quarrel, and all they wish is for a speedy and peaceful settlement.

The manufacturers say that they have been forced to compete against the low prices in New Hampshire, and especially those in certain parts of New York state, and their action in opening free shops has become necessary for their own protection.

LIABILITIES OF $1,200,000.

Two Big Coal Companies Unable to Meet Their Obligations.

Cincinnati, Nov. 15.—The Turney & Jones Coal company of Columbus, and the Pennsylvania and Ohio Fuel company of St. Paul, with offices also in Chicago, were yesterday, by the federal court, put into the hands of the Security and Title company of Chicago as receivers. These companies are among the largest that ever operated in the Ohio coal fields. Their troubles commenced in the summer of 1897 with the great coal strike. They had large contracts to fill in the northwest and were unable to get coal until late in the summer, and then at a high price and with very high lake freights. The result was a loss of over $200,000 at that time. During the past summer they bought very large quantities of coal which is still on their docks, while their collections have been very slow. As they bought the coal early a great deal of the paper has fallen due before receipts were coming in. The crisis was brought about by New York parties declaring due the whole of an issue of $280,000 of obligations, because one of the instalments was not paid promptly.

The liabilities amount to $1,200,000. The officers of the companies state that they will pay the liabilities in full if the assets are carefully handled. The two companies are owned by the same parties, mostly by H. D. Turney of Columbus and John S. Jones of Chicago, and had to stand or fall together. The mines of these companies furnish about half of the coal tonnage for the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking railroad, and the future of that property depends largely on what is done by the receivers of the coal companies.

Still Undecided.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 15.—The political complexion of the West Virginia legislature on joint ballot depends upon contested seats, and will not be settled until the two houses are organized. The Republicans will organize the senate and the Democrats the house. The two contested seats in the senate will be decided by the courts and the same decision will settle both, the question being whether a senator loses his seat by accepting a commission in the army. Senator Pierson is a lieutenant and Senator Getzendanner a captain in the Second West Virginia regiment, and Democrats are elected as successors. The house will pass on the eligibility of its members and several seats will be contested. The official returns will amount to nothing more than to furnish data upon which the two parties can work.

Is a Reed Man.

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 15.—In an interview Congressman D. E. Henderson said: "I see my name is being mentioned in connection with the speakership of the next house. This is wholly without my authority. I am not a candidate for that office. If Mr. Reed desires a re-election, and I assume that he does, I am for his re-election."

A Twenty-Five Rounder.

Rochester, Nov. 15.—The decision at the end of the 25th round of the bout last night between Kid Goulette of this city and Joe Hopkins of New York was a draw. This was giving Goulettt much the worst of it, for he had fairly earned the decision, making a chopping block of Hopkins for 15 rounds.

Frozen Out by Trust.

Toledo, Nov. 15.—The Buckeye Tobacco works, formerly Chase, Isherwood & Co., the oldest tobacco firm in Ohio, has closed permanently and retired from business. The proprietors have been unable to meet the competition of the trust and preferred to close solvent.

Dervish Post Captured.

Lndon, Nov. 15.—The Daily Chronicle this morning says: We are reliably informed from the Congo Free State that the Belgians have captured Bohr, a dervish post, 90 miles north of Rejaf, on the White Nile.

Roosevelt's Position Is Plainly Set Forth to Senator Platt.

Will Appoint No Man Unless Absolutely Clean.

Likely to Take Reins In His Own Hands In Naming Murphy's Successor.

New York, Nov. 15.—Republican politicians of the machine stamp who are not talking for publication say that the old fight between the Platt machine and the independent element of the Union League club is bound to come to the front again. In this connection the following facts, not before published, were talked of:

Last Saturday Colonel Roosevelt telephoned State Chairman Odell saying that he would be at state headquarters on Saturday, where he hoped to meet Senator Platt, Elihu Root, Joseph H. Choate and other political leaders, and talk over the situation. Before noon word came to the senator that Colonel Roosevelt was in conference with Choate, Root and Seth Low. He was disturbed.

The governor-elect said frankly in the course of his talk with Senator Platt: "Some of my friends do not yet comprehend that while I consult them, I shall consult you also. They say that I am wearing 'Platt's collar.' Senator Platt, you know that I could wear no man's collar."

"I should have no respect for you if you did," was Mr. Platt's reply.

"I want advice, Mr. Platt," went on Colonel Roosevelt. "I want you to suggest men for appointment, but you must understand that, while I desire to further the interests of the organization, I will appoint no man who is not as clean as a hound's tooth."

During his meeting in the morning with the leaders of the independents Colonel Roosevelt, it is said, had been equally frank. Joseph H. Choate and President Seth Low, though personal friends, had told the governor-elect that they did not wish to go to Mr. Platt's rooms in the Fifth Avenue hotel. No question of appointments arose at their meeting. Nothing definite was decided upon at the meeting of the Union League members with the governor-elect, but an understanding was reached that Colonel Roosevelt would consult with the heads of all factions in the party before passing upon any measure affecting New York city or giving it his sanction.

One of the most prominent organization Republicans said to a reporter yesterday afternoon:

"Disguise it as we may, there is a fight imminent between Senator Platt and the independent Republicans who center around the Union League. Colonel Roosevelt holds the balance of power. I believe he intends to play fair, but his environments are entirely with the Union League crowd, and as soon as a United States senator is named I look to see him take the reins in his own hands and refuse suggestions as well as orders."

In Process of Construction.

Washington, Nov. 15. — Commodore Hichborn, chief of the construction bureau, reports that on Nov. 1 the navy had under construction 55 vessels, a larger number than ever undertaken before. There are eight battleships, and of these the Kearsarge had advanced 71 percent toward completion, while her sister ship, the Kentucky, has a percentage of 69; the Illinois is 57 percent, the Alabama 65 and the Wisconsin 52 percent completed. The sheathed cruiser Albany, which the United States bought on the stocks in England, is exactly half finished. The 22 torpedo boats contracted for show percentages of completion ranging from nothing to 99 percent, the latter in the case of the Rowan. The submarine boat Plunger is advanced 85 percent and the training ship Chesapeake 35 percent.

Might Have Been Known Sooner.

Washington, Nov. 15.—General Breckinridge, Dr. Huidekoper and Major Knox were before the war investigating commission yesterday. General Breckinridge's testimony dealt with conditions at Camp Thomas, of which he was for a time in command, and he took occasion to say that but for the change that was made previous to the war, requiring inspector generals in the field to report to the adjutant general, instead of the head of their own department, the condition of the camps now being developed by the commission would have developed three months ago.

Usual Kick on Pork.

Hamburg, Nov. 15.—The Hamburger Nachrichten, referring to the projected meat inspection bill, says: The Americans ought to be glad that Germany forces them gradually to adopt her own methods of meat inspection. Hitherto American inspection has been untrustworthy. So far as the threat of American retaliation is concerned, America will have to prove the presence of poisons in German wines, woolens, toys and chemicals, as Germany proves the presence of trichinae in American pork.

Steamer Badly Damaged.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 15.—The Norwegian steamer Norman, from Antwerp for Montreal, with a general cargo, arrived here yesterday short of coal. Her captain reports that the Norman's decks were frequently swept by great seas that carried away the bridge, the ventilators and the skylight, flooding the saloon, coal bunkers and engine room, and endangering the safety of the ship for some hours. On Tuesday the steering gear became unmanageable and it was not until Friday that this could be used.

Good Afternoon.

It would be a mistake at this time for Wollaston voters to defeat the renomination of either Councilman Pinkham or Jameson for the City Council. Mr. Pinkham as president of the Council had been a decided success. Those who hesitated to vote him into the position have no misgivings, and they now consider that he has made one of the best presidents since the city was inaugurated. He has ruled impartially and promptly, and we believe there have been no appeals from his decisions. He has kept the Council strictly to business, and the business has been dispatched promptly. He has kept in touch with his committees, attending all of their important meetings and all relations between the legislature and administrative departments have been harmonious and progressive. Councilman Jameson has been one of the foremost members; interested in all the important questions before the city and bringing out salient points by his questioning. His work in the Council and the committees entitle him to a re-election.

West Quincy is anxious that the Boynton bicycle railway be located through that village, and it is not surprising. If the railway is ever built it will undoubtedly be a success and then West Quincy will have rapid transit, while Quincy people will have to ride in the slow trains. When West Quincy becomes ten minutes nearer to Boston than Quincy there should be a demand for its vacant land, and prosperity will again return to the village which has suffered of late years.

Every Republican should attend the caucuses Thursday evening, for there it will be decided who will be the Mayoralty candidate this year—Mayor Sears or Mr——. On the one hand we have a young man who has been tried and who has very successfully administered the affairs of the city. On the other someone unknown. We hear no criticism of the administrative acts of Mayor Sears. While progressive and alert for all that is for the interest of the city, he has also been conservative and zealous of the welfare of the taxpayers. Where everybody was predicting further increase of the tax rate, the administration has succeeding in turning the tide, so that further reductions may be looked for next year and in succeeding years. The grand progress made in the construction of permanent sidewalks, so energetically advocated by Mayor Sears, alone entitle him to a renomination that the work may be continued. The brick and concrete sidewalks mean much for Quincy. They have made the city much more attractive, and the people appreciate them. They should be extended as rapidly as possible. In no year has Quincy made such rapid strides toward making this an ideal city as this year, and the movement should not be retarded. Let us not expect too much at once, but appreciate what we have, and strive to improve our conditions. And above all things speak well of Quincy. It will do much to help us.

ORDER FOR LOCATION

Boynton Bicycle Railway May Go to West Quincy.

Committee on Streets Favor That Location.

Order Will Probably Go Through Saturday Night.

The City Council is in for business this week, three meetings being scheduled. At the special meeting Monday evening all members were present except Councilmen Cain, Merrick, Little and Prout.

The Committee on Streets reported the following order, granting the Boston, Quincy & Fall River railway a location from Neponset to Braintree via. West Quincy:

On Hancock street, beginning at the dividing line between the City of Boston and the City of Quincy at Point A on the accompanying plan, said point being 4 feet distant from the westerly side line of Neponset bridge.

Thence running southerly parellel with and 4 feet distant from said bridge, a distance of 600 feet, to point B;

Thence southerly, curving to the right and crossing the westerly line of Hancock street at a point about 240 feet from point B, no portion of the structure to be attached to said Neponset bridge, the superstructure to be wholly west of the bridge, except such portions as are more than 14 feet above the roadway of the bridge;

Thence crossing Newbury street nearly at right angles at point C, said point being 80 feet westerly from Hancock street;

Thence crossing Walnut street at its junction with Myrtle street at point marked D;

Thence running through and across Myrtle street passing through point E on said plan;

Thence crossing Squantum street at its junction with a private way called Highland avenue at a point marked F;

Thence crossing Beale street at point G, said point being 4 feet easterly from the boundary stone between the City of Quincy and the town of Milton;

Thence crossing Adams street at point H, said point being about 800 feet easterly from Beale street;

Thence crossing Reardon street at point I, said point being 500 feet westerly from Common street;

Thence crossing Cross street at point J; said point being about 400 feet westerly from Common street;

Thence crossing Copeland at its junction with Common street at point marked K;

Thence crossing West street at a point marked L, said point being about 200 feet westerly from Copeland street;

All and more particularly shown on accompanying plan by H. T. Whitman, civil engineer, dated Nov. 14, 1898.

The question came on ordering the order to a second reading.

Councilman Parker, the chairman of the Committee on Streets, reviewed the petitions, hearings, etc. He had seen Mr. Boynton twice and endeavored to have him put in a general petition for a location, but he refused. The committee thought it unwise to grant either of the locations asked, and therefore recommended a new one through West Quincy. The location wanted by the corporation was 23,560 feet long, while the one reported was 22,560 or 1,000 feet shorter. The sharpest curve was the same, on a radius of 4,000 feet. The Boynton petition interfered with 22 buildings, the proposed location with but 11. The Boynton petition crossed 21 streets, the other but 12. The maximum grade of the proposed location was less than one per cent. and must be satisfactory. The engineer employed was present and ready to enlighten the Council.

Councilman Packard asked how many stations were contemplated.

Councilman Parker said the committee had not considered them.

Councilman Badger thought it was very essential to know about the stations. If we were not to have convenient stations we don't want the road, otherwise we do.

Councilman Parker said the committee would have another meeting before the adjourned meeting and would consider stations.

Councilman Jameson asked if location through Cranch pasture back of Presidents hill had been considered?

Councilman Parker said it had received some attention, but the grade was against it.

Councilman Jameson asked if the committee had an engineer's opinion?

Councilman Parker—No, but we had plans.

THE G. A. R. FAIR.

Mayor Sears and Department Officials at the Opening.

The annual fair of Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., opened Monday night at Music hall with a large attendance. Previous to the opening the Post and Sons of Veterans, preceded by the City Band, marched to the depot and escorted Mayor Sears and the Grand Army officials to the hall.

The opening exercises were brief and were presided over by Commander W. H. Warner.

Mayor Sears, the first speaker, brought the greeting and congratulations of the city. There was always a band of sympathy between the government an the Grand Army. The government shows its gratitude by its pensions, the state by its State Aid and the city by its Military aid. There was not one item in the annual budget that the Mayor scrutinized with less care than the appropriations for Post 88. The recent war has taught the men of today to appreciate what the men of '65 had to go through. In closing he wished the Post a pleasant and successful fair.

When His Honor was introduced the band played "Hail to the Chief," which brought a spontaneous burst of applause.

Other speakers were Assistant Adjutant General of the Department of Massachusetts, Warren B. Stetson, Division Commander of the Sons of Veterans, Col. L. C. Couch, and Department Commander of the Grand Army, W. H. Bartlett who formally opened the fair.

Richardson's orchestra furnished music throughout the evening.

The several tables which were arranged about the hall were in charge of the following:

On the right, the Women's Relief Corps and G. A. R. tables.

Here also was the large wheel of fortune in charge of members of the G. A. R.

At the rear of the hall Asa Pope and W. M. Burns served tonics, and ice cream was served by Miss Abbie Phelps.

In the annex was the shooting gallery in charge of Edward Lennon.

Under Q. Y. C. Rules.

A regular meeting of the executive committee of the Quincy Yacht club was held at the Adams building on Monday evening.

The principal business transacted was the elimination of the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts from the deed of trust of the "Challenge Cup." The cup is now governed wholly by the rules of the Quincy Yacht club and the deed of trust. Hereafter yachts of the catamoran and sharpie types are not eligible. Other minor changes were made, none of which materially altered the text of the original deed.

Mr. Charles D. Mower of the Lynn Yacht club has informally notified the Quincy Yacht club that he will challenge for the cup through his club at the earliest possible moment. His new boat is planked, and if the mild weather continues, will be in the water before snow flies.

We sincerely wish it were a fact, but unfortunately the church was not thus aided from the church extension, or any other outside source, except $51 which was received as church aid. We hope this writer of the item was a clairvoyant and simply got the tense of his verb confused, so we may look forward to some welcome assistance.

CO. K. READY.

Will Leave Camp Meade Wednesday for the South.

Camp Meade, Pa., Nov. 13, 1898.

Owing to the great amount of work which we are now doing in preparation for our move on the coming Wednesday, the writer has been unable to send his daily despatches.

The scene around the Commissary depot from which the troops depart and near to which the 2d battalion is camped, has been for the past few days one of great activity. Three or four regiments are leaving each day. Each reigment leaves in three sections with about one-half an hour between. The puffing of the engines, clanging of the bells, noise and dust of galloping horses, braying of mules, ably seconded by their drivers, and the shouts and laughter of the boys as the train pulls out, make a scene never to be forgotten.

The boys, besides the pleasure and excitement caused by the breaking of camp, have had their spirits raised higher by receiving a month's pay the day before their departure. The latter, is enough to raise the good feelings of the boys to the boiling point. This finds vent, in the good natured chaffing and jokes which passed between them and the members of other regiments who have come to see them off.

The leaving of the troops has proved a bananza for the vendors of pies, sandwiches, and cold meats and the inevitable frankfurter, or as it is called by the boys "dog." These pies are sold for a nickle each, are about the size of an ordinary saucer, and about as easily digested. They make here an article called raisin pie, which has proven the sorrow of many a soldier.

Nobody is too young or too old to sell these pies, and one may see little boys and girls carrying a basket nearly as big as themselves, and gray haired men and women dispensing their stock among the men to whom a bit of pastry or leg of chicken is a rare treat.

When this letter reaches the readers of the Ledger the 5th will probably be on its way south. That our regiment which will travel for the next three day and night, will in all possibility, on arrval at Greenville, S.C., find a lot of tired and weary soldier boys.

The boys of our regiment commonly known as the Dandy Fifth will always uphold the honor and good will of our dear Commonwealth, whether we may be stationed in South Carolina or Cuba.

The 2d Division of the 2d Army Corps of which ours is a part will be supplied on arrival in the south, by the Kragacgson rifle. This rifle is a very powerful piece of modern warfare, its effect is deadly. Therefore when our 2d Division receives them, we will be the first to have the honor of firing a shot that is greatly dreaded by other nations.

The Springfield rifle now in use will be shipped back to their respective states where the provisional militia companies, who have filled our ranks while we served the nation, we will be equipped and drilled under the tactics of the Springfield. By receiving these new rifles it means a change in our present tactics, therefore the boys will have to get after the new manual.

The following regiments left us today for the south: 2d Tennessee, 1st Rhode Island, 8th Pennsylvania and 4th New Jersey. Three or four regiments are designated for tomorrow. The 13th Pennsylvania is to leave here tomorrow at 5 in the morning. Therefore it is necessary for this regiment to strike camp at two in the morning, and get everything packed ready for their departure.

The health of the boys continues remarkably well, considering these cold nights. Volunteer.

Engagements to be made and duties to be performed can be jotted down on its leaves, and the daily reminder will save much annoyance and inconvenience. The bright and witty sayings and fitting testimonials to the merits of Columbia product, which grace the tops of the pages, are largely contributions from the Pope Company's town customers, and give an added value to the calendar. The pages for Sundays, the first day of each month, and holidays, present appropriate selections from well-known authors. The calendar will be mailed to any address, safely packed in a carton mailing case, on receipt of five 2-cent stamps at the Calendar Department of the Pope Manufacturing Co., Hartford, Conn., or a copy can be procured by applying to the nearest Columbia dealer.

Brazil's New President.

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 15.—Dr. Campos Salles was installed in the presidential chair today. In his inaugural address he eulogized his predecessor, Dr. Barrios, and declared that now the republic is firmly established the time has arrived to initiate a national liberal policy of tolerence, harmonizing the different elements of the country. The bulk of the address was devoted to finance. He said: "The national honor is pledged to execute the financial agreement concluded in London; and to do this the country should not hesitate to make any sacrifice." He condemned "the particularist policy of excessive decentralization;" promises energetic repression of internal disorders and urges "a most careful cultivation of friendly relations abroad, as Brazil needs foreign capital and immigration."

Jail Sent to Prison.

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 15. — Joseph Paradis of Manchester, N. H., under indictment for assault with intent to kill, withdrew his plea of not guilty yesterday and, pleading guilty, was sentenced to five years and one day in the Concord reformatory. He is 16 years of age, and a plea for leniency was made. Paradis was caught stealing hens, and when pursued he shot a man. The latter, however, recovered from his wound.

Gloucester's Heavy Tribute.

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 15.—The records up to date show that during the past year 19 Gloucester craft and 92 men have been lost. In addition to this, the summary shows that 25 widows and 56 children have been left by those who have perished this year. These figures are larger than usual. The 19 vessels lost were valued at $88,125, and carried a total insurance of $66,752.

'Twas a Close Call.

Medford, Mass., Nov. 15.—The recount of the tie vote in the Ninth Middlesex representative district by the board of registrars gives the election to Nicholas B. Keyou (Dem.) by a plurality of one vote, Keyou having received 624 votes to 623 for Archibald 'Rep.).

Thanksgiving, 1898, ranks in importance with that of 1865. As then, the country had gone through a war and upon our banners is inscribed Victory. It is, therefore, a season of greater interest. In honor of the occasion, The Boston Herald, with characteristic enterprise, will give it special attention, devoting pages to the time-honored festival in the issue of Nov. 20. Every New Englander will want this issue, and we are sure that our readers will find The Boston Herald of Sunday, Nov. 20, one to their liking. It is not out of place to suggest that an order with your newsdealer is the only sure way of securing a copy. The demand for The Boston Herald is very great.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

WALTER P. PINEL

Councilman Jameson considered that a location between Second and Third hills at Wollaston, and back of Presidents hill would benefit more Quincy people that the line proposed by the committee. He thought most of the Quincy people who went to Boston lived in the easterly part of the city.

Voted, that Fred Tupper, the engineer employed by the committee, be invited to explain location selected.

Mr. Tupper came forward. He said the difficulty of the Cranch pasture location was the lowness at Granite street and the height of Cranch hill near by, it being 80 feet higher. To avoid the hill would require too many curves. The proposed location was free from heavy grades and feasible to build.

To Councilman Packard, he said the distance was four and one-half to four and three-quarters miles, about one-quarter of a mile shorter than the Boynton petition.

To Councilman Jameson, he said the location was not in Centre street, but to the West of it.

The order as reported was then ordered to a second reading.

Councilman Badger was not inclined to let the matter drop there, and moved that at the next meeting when the order was to come up that a public hearing be given.

Councilman Poland asked if there was time to give a legal hearing.

City Solicitor McAnarney said a hearing was not legally required. If it were that was not time to give the legal notice.

Councilman Poland did not see the necessity of a hearing.

Voted to give hearing.

The Council will hold a regular meeting Wednesday evening but the order could not take another reading then, as three days would not intervene. It was agreed that a meeting should also be held Saturday night, when the hearing will take place.

Adjourned.

A Challenge.

The following open letter which is self explanatory, has been forwarded to the Ledger for publication:

Quincy, Mass., Nov. 14, 1898.

Russell A. Sears, Esq., Mayor, Quincy, Mass.,

Dear Sir,—As you are a candidate for re-nomination and re-election to the office of Mayor of the City of Quincy and that the voters may to some extent know of your rights to a re-nomination and re-election, I respectfully request you to defend your actions as Mayor in a public debate with myself.

I should prefer to debate with you on Wednesday evening, Nov. 16th, the eve of the day on which the caucuses of the party at whose hand you seek renomination, will be held.

I am willing to have same take place in any public hall in Quincy and am willing to abide by almost any condition you may impose.

Requesting that you make an early and favorable reply, I beg to remain,

Very truly yours,
John H. Bent.

CRISP LOCAL NOTES.

All Up-to-Date Lively, Sparkling and Bright.

The Quincy club has put out a new flag.

Mr. Henry Lemon of Gardner, Montana, is visiting his sister Mrs. L. D. Goodridge, on Hancock street.

Willie Smith, Adolard Picard, Thomas Fay, Edward Barry and Edgar Harlow, five South Quincy boys, have been summoned into court on Thursday, for throwing stones at the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

Since the electric cars have been starting from the north side of the First church a good many passengers have been puzzled. People have stood at the corner of Temple and Hancock street near the bank and waited for most one hour and then would have to hunt around and enquire where the cars were.

THE COMMITTEES.

The No-License People at Work —An Aggressive Campaign.

Another meeting of the Citizens' No-License Committee was held Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, when President Sherman announced the following committees in accordance with the votes at the first meeting:

On Meetings, — Theophilus King chairman, T. B. Pollard, W. P. Bailey, P. W. Dackers, J. H. Reardon, E. J. Sandberg and J. B. Ramsdell.

On Publicity, — W. F. Cummings chairman, Miss E. M. Brown and H. A. Rideout.

On Appeal to Voters,—Rev. Robert Westly Peach, Rev. Edward Norton and Rev. W. W. Dornan.

The last two committees sitting jointly voted to issue a paper in the interests of No-License. They will have printed, 4,000 copies and distribute them to each voter, and also advertise in the local newspapers.

Chorus Class.

The attempt to organize a chorus class on Saturday evening was not a success. There seems to be a considerable disappointment however, among quite a number that this attempt should be given up. It is possible that a change in evenings may make it more convenient to some. All those who can and would join a chorus if it were held on a Thursday evening are requested to send their names to any of the following persons: Mrs. Henry Green, Botolph street, Miss Katie Priest, Atlantic street, Mr. H. C. Wright, Atlantic street. If thirty names are received a meeting will be called for Thursday evening, Dec. 1. All names should be in within a week, so as to allow for further preparations.

Local Politics.

There will be a hot time at the Wollaston Republican caucus on Thursday evening. The fight which started over the Sears and anti-Sears delegations has suddenly shifted to a Bryant and anti-Bryant fight by the open avowal of some of Mr. Bryant's supporters to down Councilman Pinkham. One of the chief reasons assigned for this onslaught on President Pinkham is that he has been a member of the Council from Ward Five for four years, but as Mr. Bryant went five years the honors seem to be about even.

Both the Republicans and the Democrats of Ward Three have renominated Miss Mabel E. Adams for the School Committee.

Turkey for Co. K.

At the suggestion of Mr. George H. Wilson, who heads the list, the Ledger opens today a subscription for the purpose of raising a fund to secure turkey and "the fixin's" for a Thanksgiving dinner for the officers and members of Co. K, Fifth Massachusetts regiment, U. S. V., who will then be in the South. It is not the intention to forward a box, as the freight rates are excessive, but to send the cash. Upwards of $30 will be necessary to furnish the boys with a generous supply of turkey, and it is hoped that that sum will be realized before next Monday, when it will be sent. Who will add to this list?

George H. Wilson,	$1 00

PLAINT OF FILIPINOS.

Claim Unjust Treatment at the Hands of American Officials.

Slights Shown Leaders, Soldiers and People.

Evidently Think Victory In the Philippines Due to Their Efforts.

Hong Kong, Nov. 15.—John Barrett, ex-United States minister to Siam, was asked by the Filipino junta to present a memorial to the United States government and people. Mr. Barrett replied that, while he could have no official influence regarding the status of the matter, he was satisfied that a document which represented the sentiments of the Filipinos would receive at the hands of the Americans all the consideration it merited. Consequently the representatives of General Aguinaldo and his followers drew up what they designate as an "appeal to President McKinley and the American people," but what is in reality rather in the nature of an arraignment of American actions in the Philippines. It says:

"We, the Hong Kong representatives of our countrymen, appeal to the great and good judgment of President McKinley and the spirit of fairness and justice of the American people as it is always shown in their regard for the petitions of the weak and oppressed.

"While the fate of the islands is still undecided and we are doing all in our power to prevent a conflict between the Americans and Filipinos—awaiting patiently the conclusion of the Paris conference—we implore the intervention of the president, supported by the will of the people, to end the slights shown our leaders, soldiers and people by some of the American military and naval officers, although we do not wish to wrong Admiral Dewey or General Otis."

The memorial then avers that "false reports are spread broadcast, alleging that the Filipinos are responsible for all the friction," points out that "the tension is greater every day and any moment a shot may be fired by an irresponsible American or Filipino soldier, leading to great bloodshed," and beseeches the United States to "help the junta to control our own people by directing American officials at Manila to temper their actions with friendship, justice and fairness.

"From the commencement of the hostilities," continues the memorial, "the Filipinos acceded to all the American requests, but after bottling up the Spaniards in Manila the Filipinos were completely ignored when the Americans advanced, and thus deprived us of the fruits of victory. Now, after months of campaigning, the Filipino troops have been ordered beyond the suburbs, where they have no quarters and where supplies are difficult to obtain. All our launches have been seized because of foolish rumors that we would attack Americans, and when we asked explanations we were not even answered. The Spaniards, of late the enemies of the Americans, have been shown every consideration; while the Filipinos, their friends and allies, are often treated as enemies."

After asserting that the Filipinos uniformly acted upon the advice of the Americans and were informally recognized by them until Manila was captured, the memorial goes on to say:

"We can only attribute this sudden change to orders from Washington to American officials at Manila to avoid compromising the American government by a recognition of the Filipinos or their government. The Americans are carrying out these instructions literally, losing sight of the former friendly intercourse and assistance, and of the assurances the American officials gave General Aguinaldo, which he communicated to his followers."

After emphasizing the junta's "absolute confidence in President McKinley and the people of the great republic," stating that "our protests are not prompted by animosity, but are directed against conditions existing at Manila and not against the American government and people;" acknowledging "our gratitude to American arms for destroying the Spanish power in the Philippines," and expressing "a hope that the islands are not to be returned to Spain," the memorial concludes thus:

"We await the decision of the peace commission with even greater interest than the Americans, because it concerns our land, our happiness and our freedom. In the meantime we shall pray for peace and a perfect understanding with the Americans."

Meeting of Commission Postponed.

Paris, Nov. 15.—There was no joint session of the peace commissioners yesterday. Secretary Moore of the United States commission received from Secretary Ojeda of the Spanish commission a note saying the Spanish commissioners had found it impossible to prepare their memorandum for presentation, and asked if the United States commissioners would be inconvenienced if, owing to the late arrival from Madrid of expected data, the Spanish should request that the next meeting be deferred until Wednesday. Secretary Moore replied that the American commissioners were quite willing to accommodate the Spanish commissioners in this matter, and the joint session was deferred until tomorrow.

Spain's Rash Expenditures.

Washington, Nov. 15.—In some figures regarding receipts and expenditures in the island of Cuba, sent to Washington by officers of the Cuban military commission, it is estimated that upon the assumption of control by the United States, expenses now incurred each year under Spanish sovereignty, to the extent of $20,594,225, will cease. These figures show that the burdens of taxation upon the people of Cuba can be largely reduced under a form of government independent of Spain.

Shoes and Stockings For the Boys.

Boston, Nov. 15.—Quartermaster Hyde of the United States army opened bids yesterday for furnishing the army with stockings and shoes. The advertisements called for the furnishing of 50,000 pairs of woolen stockings, with the privilege of increasing the amount 100 percent, and for 25,000 pairs of calf-skin shoes, with the privilege of increasing the amount 100 percent. The lowest bidders were John Mandall & Co., Philadelphia, 25,000 pairs of shoes, at $2.12½ per pair; A. Shuman & Co., Boston, 50,000 pairs of woolen stockings, at 27½ cents per pair, 3000 per week to be delivered 14 days after contract; 50,000 pairs of hose, at 33 cents per pair, 2000 a week to be delivered 10 days after contract, and 3000 per week every week thereafter. The bids were taken under advisement.

Complete Annexation.

London, Nov. 15.—This morning's papers comment editorially upon the peace conference crisis and the American naval preparations, reiterating their conviction of the hopelessness of Spanish opposition and recognizing that the United States have practically no alternative, especially after the elections, but complete annexation, and that if Spain continues obstinate the United States must send a fleet to Europe, an action which no power but Great Britain would welcome, though none would be likely to interfere in Spain's behalf.

Want to Break Away.

Madrid, Nov. 15.—Aragon has now joined with the other provinces of Spain in demanding the decentralization of the government, on which subject a Catalonian deputation was received in audience by the queen regent yesterday. The Aragonians, in presenting their demands, point out that the "Anglo-Saxons of America, aided by the Anglo-Saxons of Europe, have obliterated half of Spain from the maps."

Germany's Attitude.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—A high official of the German foreign office asserts that no communications or negotiations have occurred between the powers regarding the Philippines question. Germany, he says, has "only commercial interests to protect there."

Can Have Battle Flags.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 15.—Adjutant General Richards recently communicated with the secretary of war asking that the flags of the First Maine volunteers be given to the state. He has received the following telegram from Adjutant General Corbin: "Secretary of war authorizes transfer of regimental and state colors of the First Maine volunteer infantry to state of Maine." The colors will be placed in the rotunda at the state house.

Will Make the Boys Happy.

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—The United States transport steamer St. Paul, laden with army supplies and Christmas goods for the soldiers in the Philippines, will leave here on Thursday. There are 4000 packages for the soldier boys.

Sugar Goes Up.

New York, Nov. 15.—The Tribune today says: The American Sugar Refining company yesterday advanced the price of all grades of domestic refined sugars ⅛ of a cent a pound, this move being promptly followed by the independent refiners. This increase makes the price of granulated 5⅛ cents a pound, or 4.84 cents net, exclusive of trade discounts, and is the first general advance since the beginning of the cutting of prices between the American Sugar Refining company and the outside refiners. On Oct. 27 representatives of the National and Mollenhauer companies advanced their rates on hard grades ⅛ of a cent a pound, making their price for granulated 5⅛ cents, but they subsequently put the price back to the old figure.

Southern Lawlessness.

Greenwood, S. C., Nov. 15.—A telephone message received here says a negro woman was shot near Pine Grove church by a party of white men who were on their way here. No particulars are obtainable except that her house was fired into by a passing crowd, and that one ball struck her in the abdomen. A message from Troy states that Kennedy McCaston and a negro on his place in Beville county had a personal difficulty, in which the negro shot McCaston in the face with a shotgun. The negro was pursued to Abbeville, where he was caught and jailed. There is no fear of his being lynched. News comes from Verdery that John Fell had shot a negro near that place while engaged in a personal difficulty.

The New Washington.

Washington, Nov. 15.—At the annual meeting of the Washington board of trade last night President Noyes made an address in which he told what had been done during the past year to make Washington attractive and healthful, and to promote its business and educational interests. In conclusion, President Noyes said: "For the new America there is to be a new Washington. There can be no genuine expansion of the republic which does not show forth as in an index in the republic's city. So, likewise, prosperity in the federal district means that the whole nation prospers and develops more and more from day to day."

Wholesale Expulsions.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—Besides the large expulsions of Danes from northern Schleswig during the last fortnight, many Austrian slaves and Polish Jews have been expelled from Breslau, as well as Dutchmen from Gronau, Westphalia. The cause is not known, but it is believed the expulsions were instigated by Dr. Von Miquel, Prussian minister of finance, with a view of provoking discontent that would serve as a pretext for more severe measures against aliens.

The Dreyfus Case.

Paris, Nov. 15.—The court of cassation yesterday examined General Zurlinden and General Chanoine, who recently resigned successively the portfolio of minister of war, and it is said that their evidence was highly important in upholding the attitude they have taken throughout that Dreyfus is guilty, and that a communication of the secret dossier would compromise the safety of the state and the good relations of France with foreign nations.

From Aus in to Bar Harbor.

Austin, Nov. 15.—The last wire by which Austin can have telephonic connection with Bar Harbor, Me., was strung yesterday. The line is 2600 miles long, and will be opened to the public Dec. 1. This long distance system will also embrace New York, Washington and all the large eastern cities. This is the longest telephone line in the world.

POURING IN BY BUSHELS.

Petitions to the President Relative to Classified Service Decision.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The Monday mail at the White House was extraordinarily heavy yesterday and indicated an intense public interest in the recent announcement that Mr. McKinley was about to issue an order taking 6000 places out of the classified service. Since election, the attention of thousands of people has turned to this matter, and bushels of letters, petitions and memorials are now pouring into the White House. On the general question of civil service reform these communications are divided about evenly numerically, but with a wide distinction as to the animating purpose of the two classes of petitioners. Applicants for pensions who have been refused by boards of examiners are eager to have new men appointed with whom political and personal influences will naturally be more potent, although they do not express their desire in just these words. They want the change made "for the good of the service." On the other hand, many medical societies and organizations of public spirited citizens are petitioning to have the pension service remain under the merit system. Circular letters are being sent out by both sides, urging that as large a number of recommendations as possible be made to the president, and the volume of these responses is now so large that he will doubtless be somewhat hastened in getting the draft of the new order into final shape. Each day there is submitted to him a brief of the contents of these memorials, the volume of which has greatly surprised him as well as the strength with the substantial classes of the country which the merit system exhibits.

Mania For Throwing Lamps.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 15.—Returning Klondikers arriving in this city bring the news that the city of Dawson has been visited with a $500,000 fire, in which 40 buildings were burned. The fire took place on Oct. 16. It started in the Green Tree saloon as the result of a row between two women of the town, Belle Mitchell throwing a lighted lamp at another woman. The lamp broke, the oil spread and in a few seconds the building was on fire. The fire of a year ago was caused by the same woman, who threw a lamp at a man with whom she had a quarrel. A month ago she almost burned her own place in Dawson by throwing a lamp at a woman and nearly caused a conflagration by again losing her temper and wielding another lighted lamp.

An Unfortunate Household.

Pittsburg, Nov. 15.—Edward Beilstein, brother of Bertha Beilstein, who killed her mother and attempted to kill herself six weeks ago, killed himself Sunday night on the grave of his mother. His body was found yesterday. The Beilstein family was quite wealthy, and occupied a prominent position in German social circles. A little over a year ago J. F. Beilstein, the father of the family, died after an illness of a few hours. Six weeks ago Bertha shot her mother to death and inflicted four wounds on herself. She is still living, but cannot recover. Within 24 hours after her attempt to kill herself David Reich, an old man who lived with the family, laid himself on the railroad tracks in front of an approaching train, and was killed.

Temple Project Defeated.

St. Paul, Nov. 15.—The W. C. T. U. national convention yesterday decided, by a vote of 285 to 71, to abandon the Temple project as an affiliated interest. Five hours of animated, vigorous and bitter and personal debating was necessary before the vote was reached. The opposition of this action declared it was an act of repudiation of a moral obligation, and fought every inch of the ground, but most of the leaders were against them and they carried their point. Just before adjournment, Mrs. Dunham presented some resolutions on the subject which may precipitate the whole controversy once more if she calls them up. 4-xleo .edlyon9the- &fli,land-isciaB? i

Major Taylor's Latest.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—Major Taylor, the colored cyclist, broke another world's record yesterday on the board track at Woodside park. He rode for the third of a mile record of 30 1-5 seconds, made by Windle, and was successful, making the distance in 29 4-5 seconds. Taylor had quintuplet pacing. A strong breeze was blowing down the back stretch.

Gubernatorial Candidate In Court.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 15.—In the superior criminal court yesterday George R. Peare, lately socialist labor candidate for governor, was found guilty of disturbing the peace in Malden. The offense for which he was fined in the Malden police court consisted of holding an open air meeting without a license. Judge Hopkins deferred sentence.

Quarantine Raised.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The state of Texas raised the yellow fever quarantine yesterday. Today all existing quarantines in the south against the fever, so far as concerns disinfection and detention, were raised, though the usual regular inspection at ports will be continued all the year round.

No Lives Lost.

Havana, Nov. 15.—The Spanish transport Legazpi went ashore yesterday morning at Putna Boca Cavilanes, near Cienfuegos, and was totally destroyed. All the members of the crew were saved.

Smith Was Second Best.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 15.—The Horizon Athletic club opened its boxing carnival in this city last night with Billy Smith and Tom West as the stellar attraction. They were matched for 20 rounds at catchweights, but despite the fact that West clearly outpointed his opponent, on account of a mutual agreement if they both went the limit there would be no decision, Referee Austin was obliged to declare it a draw.

Death's Betrothal.

A few years ago a New York newspaper conducted an open discussion upon the topic: "Is Marriage a Failure?" The answer is easy and upon the surface. Where there is mutual love and respect, if there is also health, marriage is a success. When health is left out, even the most ardent love does not count, and marriage is invariably a failure.

Modern science has cried the warning so often that all should realize the dangers of wedlock to people in ill-health. In a case of this kind death lurks on every side—in the kiss of betrothal and the caress of the honeymoon. The man who is suffering from ill-health is a physical bankrupt, and has no right to condemn a woman to be his nurse for life and the mother of babes that inherit his physical weakness. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts directly on the digestive organism. It makes it strong and its action perfect. When a man's digestion is all right his blood will be pure; when his blood is pure his nervous system will be strong and his health vigorous.

A woman who suffers from weakness and disease of the delicate organism of her sex is certain to suffer from general ill-health, and to be an unhappy, helpless invalid and a disappointment as a wife. Her children will be weak, puny and peevish. A happy home is an impossibility for her until her health is restored. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures all troubles of the distinctly feminine organism. It cures them speedily, completely and permanently. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Both medicines are sold by all good dealers.

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

SPANIARDS' RAPACITY

Shown In Commissioner Porter's Report on Conditions In Cuba.

Revenue Which Never Found Its Way to Treasury.

Some Valuable Suggestions For the United States to Act Upon.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The special commissioner for the United States to Cuba and Porto Rico, Robert P. Porter, presented his report to the president yesterday. The report goes very fully into the financial and economical condition of Cuba. The report says in part:

In the consideration of the Cuban question it became apparent that the most pressing need of the island was a tariff that would bear lightest in the directions where the people could least afford the burden of taxation and heaviest on commodities which the well-to-do and those engaged in large enterprises required. Commissioner Porter says: "The Spanish tariff was made by Spaniards for Spain, in the interests of tl Spaniards. That seems to be the on principle in it. In adopting for an e. igency measure the rate of duty which Spain levied for her own commodities the United States acted wisely."

A table compiled by Mr. Porter shows the general average of reduction of duties made by his proposed tariff on the articles imported into Cuba is 63.7 percent. The rate reductions vary from 58.7 to 76.9. The report says: "These rates were full of inequalities and were not levied on any sound principle, but on the "heads Spain wins, tails Cuba loses" idea, which prevails in the whole financial fabric. It was found that the only way to equalize the duty, improve the administration and reduce the rates of duty on all articles of general consumption, was to practically frame a new tariff. It has not been thought advisable to make radical changes in the administrative branches, nor to change weights and measures into United States equivalents, because the people of Cuba are used to the metric system. United States currency, however, has been substituted for the Spanish pesos. This will simplify the collection of duties, as customs duties at the present time are collected in Cuban ports in possession of Spain in three different classes of currency, gold, silver and bank notes, all (even the gold) fluctuating in value. The tariff thus proposed will average fully two-thirds less than the rates now exacted by the authorities in Cuban ports in possession of Spain."

The report contains an analysis and discussion of the Cuban budget, in which the effect of the new tariff on the revenue of the country, together with other sources of revenue, is explained. The report states that by reason of fraudulent classification and smuggling most of the revenue collected from the people of Cuba never found its way into the treasury of that island nor of Spain. Mr. Porter says:

"The cupidity and rapacity of the Spanish officials in Cuba is beyond conception, and, if we may judge by the results at Santiago, the United States officials will be able to collect as much revenue on a tariff the duties of which are more than half, or nearly two-thirds less than under the iniquitous law now in force. The reduction to a reasonable rate of duty in certain schedules, such as those relating to machinery, railway supplies, etc., will increase the importation and the revenue will certainly be greater than during the period when the duties have been prohibitory. In all cases where there are home industries in Cuba capable of supplying a manufactured product, made by home labor, care has been exercised, either by making free the raw material, or not making a too radical reduction of duty, not to injure their prospects."

The report gives a table showing that teh average annual custom house receipts in Cuba from 1886 to 1897, inclusive, were $12,645,894. In an analysis of the Cuban budget Mr. Porter says: "The money collected from Cuba, whether it was $26,000,000 or less, has all gone, and nothing is likely to be found in the treasury, but numerous evidences of promises to pay, records of receipts given by the government for goods not paid for, debts of all kinds, including the salaries of a large number of the minor officials. The first and most important item of expenditures is for sovereignty expenses, and exceeds $22,000,000.

"A study of several items shows that the principal expenses for Cuba are those which have directly or indirectly to do with the control of the island by Spain. It is impossible at this moment to make a satisfactory estimate of this new budget, nor can it very well be done until after the United States forces are in full possession. Of course, the large items, such as interest on the public debt, expenditures of Spain for the purpose of conquering the island, will disappear, making a reduction, if we include the civil guards, of $18,000,000 or $20,000,000. How much of this amount will be required for necessary expenses under the new order of things it will be impossible to forecast."

The next most important subject considered in the report is that in relation to currency. Says the report: "Although Cuba is afflicted with many kinds of depreciated currency, the established basis is strictly gold, and in any commercial engagement the value is understood to be in gold, unless specified to the contrary. Indeed, there is something almost pathetic in the manner in which Cuba, plundered and depleted of her resources and wealth, has never wavered from a gold basis.

"The testimony taken and statements made on this subject have been unanimously in favor of a continuous gold basis, for the Cubans have suffered so much from Spain's various attempts to force a depreciated currency upon the people both in the form of silver and bank bills that they want no further experiment with the currency."

"There was, when your commissioner was in Cuba, in September, a margin of 30 percent on the silver dollars, and the financial and business men of Havana do not think these dollars would go down to a point where it would not pay to ship the Spanish silver to Spain and utilize the American dollar in Cuba. In this event it will be necessary for the United States government to ship as many silver dollars to Cuba as possible, one prominent banking firm suggesting five or six millions, with the subsidiary coins, would be required for small payments."

Mr. Porter then takes up the question of taxation and suggests the abolition of certain taxes, especially that known as the "consumption tax" on the killing of cattle, which is an exaction that greatly increases the price of food to the people. Another tax, which will fall down of its own weight when the United States forces take control of the island, is the "cedula" or head tax, which varies in amount from a few cents to $100, according to the rank and importance of the individual. This tax is generally allowed to run until some occasion comes for the unhappy victim of Spanish rapacity to require a public document or permit to bury a child or relative, a license to marry, a transfer of real estate or a notarial acknowledgment. Then it is that the petty rascals in charge of public business bear down heavily and unless the fines and back "cedula" and a handsome "gratification" to the official is forthcoming, the body must await interment, the marriage must be postponed or a transaction delayed.

Mr. Porter then takes up the question of education. Thee are free public schools in Cuba, but the teachers have the right to take pay, and those who do not pay get little or no attention. The proportion of people who are illiterate is very grea Some statistics show only one in 40 of the laboring classes able to read and write. There can be no stable government in Cuba, Mr. Porter says, until this has been remedied.

Dealing with the railway system of Cuba, Commissioner Porter points to the advisability of immediately constructing a trunk railway from end to end of the island, with branches extending north and south to the important cities and ports. In the opinion of the commissioner, from whatever standpoint it may be viewed, no one enterprise could do so much to improve the situation in the island. No revolution could have existed in Cuba if such a railroad had been completed by the former government.

Concerning the condition of labor in the island, Mr. Porter says: "There is at this moment a steady increase in the demand for labor on plantations and, in Santiago province, labor for the mines. While in Cuba your commissioner received one cable dispatch calling for 1500 laborers for the mines, while three large planters stood ready between them to employ 1000 men to work in the sugar fields. Those who offered themselves for employment were, as a rule, too weak to withstand the hard labor Three years of privation and lack of food had destroyed their stamina. There is a surplus of labor in Havana, but those who applied there had no means of transportation to the localities where they could obtain work. It is estimated that at least 3000 laborers could be well employed in Santiago mines before the end of the year if it were possible to send them from the spots where starvation stares them in the face to the localities where work can be obtained for those able to withstand the hardest toil under trying climatic conditions. It should be borne in mind that the Cuban harvest is in the winter months, and I recommend that some plan be at once inaugurated by which those who want work can be immediately brought to those anxious to give them employment."

Case For Court Martial.

Santiago, Nov. 16.—All the colored regiments are encamped in the neighborhood of San Luis, 25 miles north of Santiago. They were sent there virtually to get them out of the way, because of the difficulty experienced in managing them. The colored officers seem to have little or no control over their men, while officers and privates are often seen drinking together, with arms around each other's necks. Two of these colored soldiers abused a Cuban workman on the Normas sugar plantation and stole his hog. Lieutenant Joseph Ferrera, chief of General Wood's gendarmerie in that district, a Spaniard, but a Cuban sympathizer, attempted to arrest the soldiers, who belonged to the Ninth immunes, but they escaped. LAND VALUES

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to S, and today's instalment is the second of the Ts :

Clerks Entertain.

The Quincy branch of the Clerks' Association held its first ladies' night at Doble's hall, South Quincy, Tuesday evening. The affair was very largely attended and proved most enjoyable. During the first part of the evening there was an interesting entertainment consisting of readings piano and vocal solos, a banjo and harmonica duet selections by the South Quincy male quartette, and a laughable farce entitled "Wanted, a Male Cook." The parts were taken by Emery Williams, Wilbard Dalphe and J. E. Daly. There were also brief remarks by the officers of the association and others. Following the entertainment there was a supper and the evening closed with a dance.

He has been in a position to appreciate the kindness of friends at home, and his contribution should be an example worthy of imitation. Friends of 26 Chestnut street have forwarded $2 with the following note:

"We gladly read of the kind effort to get a real Thanksgiving dinner to our boys in the 5th Regiment. Twenty-five cents from many will flavor their Thanksgiving dinner with extra relish; and we add $2 from friends in 26 Chestnut street, for our offering to these good soldiers who have reflected so much credit upon Quincy. Let us swell the $30 suggested, to at least $50 or more, which may, in a land of chicken, etc., furnish a feast for Thursday, the 24th.

What I Fou nd.

Editors of the Ledger:

I wish through your columns to state the exact condition of the plumbing, as found by the Secretary of the Board of Health and myself last evening and this morning.

The Secretary called on me last evening and asked me if I would go with him to his house and examine his plumbing. I responded with pleasure and what was done last evening was only to remove a casing board and we found one of the back air vents only about 16 inches up from the floor; and it explicitly and distinctly states that it must be above the highest fixture; and the highest fixture stands over 30 inches above the floor. Such a condition of things are wrong and proves my charge that the plumbing work is wrongly performed.

After finding out so much I left the secretary with Mr. Keniley, with the distinct understanding that the secretary would procure a carpenter this morning and in my presence we would examine the stack, etc., further.

About ten o'clock the secretary called down for me to come up to his house, as I supposed by agreement last night, that with the assistance of the carpenter that he promised to get, we would continue further examination of the plumbing; but lo and behold, who should I find there but Mr. Keniley and his plumber doing the work, and there was no carpenter there.

Now I only speak of this to show "what an opportunity." When I got there of course I found that there was a brass elbow and a brass nipple where there was a wrought iron nipple and a malable wrought iron elbow, which I saw with other witnesses when we were putting in our heating system in the Secretary's house.

Respectfully yours,

G. B. Bates.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Have you heard the latest tidings
Through the news columns have been sent.
That the harbingers of battle
The calm still air have rent?

Have you heard the stern proposal
Of our worthy friend in arms
Is this foeman worthy of our steel (Nit.)
He gives us the first of the alarms.

Sadly, slowly we read the challenge,
Our hearts fierce throbs with pain,
To know from this trusty prophet
That the battle's on again,

Music hall is densely crowded
Or any lecture hall,
The votes, like leaves are falling
As they do most any fall.

The boy orator is demanding
In a voice cold and stern
Why, as Mayor, should a man of your ability
Such an important office hold!

It is not my fault you were elected,
And served the city well.
Who I worked for last autumn,
It is not necessary for me to tell.

But this fall's campaign will be different,
Of our success I am content,
You will not be returned to office
If you are, my name's not Bent.

Now notice with his well known graceful manner,
Educated men I before me see,
If you want a successful administration
For pity sakes choose me.

Slowly from the Hall we wandered,
His small weak voice still in our ears,
He was mighty good with wheels said some one
But I guess I'll vote for Sears.

POLITICAL FIELD.

The Swedish Republican club met last night in Plumer's hall and discussed local politics. The meeting was very spirited, enthusiastic and unanimous and the attendance was exceptionally large.

The Registrars of Voters are in session at City Hall tody, from 12 o'clock noon, until 10 o'clock tonight. This is the last opportunity to register before the Municipal election.

It is rumored that the opposition to Mayor Sears in Ward Two will endeavor to carry the caucus in that ward Thursday night by the use of stickers, as there is but one list of delegates on the official ballot.

The Democrats are keeping the Republicans guessing as to who their mayoralty candidate will be. Some say Hon. William N. Eaton, others Hon. William A. Hodges and others ex-Postmaster James F. Burke.

For Councilmen the Democrats have renominated two and placed nine new men in the field, the delegations from Wards Two and Three are entirely new. In Ward Five no nominations were made, while in Wards One and Six, but one man is nominated.

The Democrats have contests for Ward Committees in Wards Two and Three.

It is rumored that James F. Burke may be the Commissioner of Public Works if a Democratic administration is successful, and that his brother Tobias H. Burke may have the position if a change of Mayor is made by the Republicans.

The Mayoralty.

Mr. Editor:

As the time for the Republican Municipal caucuses approaches it becomes more and more certain that delegates favorable to the renomination of the present efficient Mayor, Hon. Russell A. Sears, will win. It is true that there is some opposition to Mayor Sears in Ward One but as the opposition is mainly to vent a personal feeling it will not have weight with the fair-minded citizens, who recognize the fact that Mayor Sears has given the city a clean, efficient and progressive administration that has their endorsement. Never have there been so many public improvements inaugurated in Quincy in any one year as the present, and as these have been carried out largely by citizens of Quincy, the laboring man has had more work. As noted above the opposition in Ward One comes mainly from those who have an axe to grind, and never have they put forward an honest argument why Mayor Sears should not be endorsed. In Ward Five everybody recognizes that the opposition is headed by ex-Councilman Bryant and everybody knows that he goes on the rule or ruin principle in politics. However, the time has gone by when one man power rules, and Ward Five is certain to endorse Mayor Sears and elect delegates favorable to him. Likewise in Ward Three the opposition is headed by Julius Johnson, who a few years ago was fined in court for violating the plumbing ordinance, and now seeks to overthrow the present administration because it would not remove not only the Inspector of Plumbing but the whole Board of Health, which was demanded. The Republicans of Ward Three will rally at the caucus Thursday night and elect Sears delegates of a large majority.

For the City Council there are contests in only two of the wards,—Wards One and Five. In the former the candidates number five for the three places, and they will appear on the ballot in this order: Elisha Packard, John W. Nash, Edward B. Brown, Frank F. Prescott and John Swithin. Messrs. Packard Nash and Swithin are members of the present Council. Mr. Prescott authorizes the statement that he would not have consented to the use of his name, but he understood that some of the present members would not be candidates. In Wollaston there are four candidates for the three places, two of the present Council — President Pinkham and Councilmen Jameson — and Councilman Bryant and E. F. Normandie.

The last two are making it hot for the first two, and some feeling has been engendered.

The only contest for Ward Committee is in Ward One, where the present committee are thought to be unfavorable to Mayor Sears.

NO CURRENCY REFORM

To Be Considered During the Present Presidential Term.

Treaty of Peace Will Not Require Extra Session.

Session of the House Might Embarrass the Administration Politically.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Persons in the president's confidence, who have discussed the subect with him within a few hours, say that his mind is pretty well settled against an extra session of congress in March, 1899. At the coming short session he expects to get all the legislation out of the way which is immediately necessary, including the appropriation for carrying the government through the next fiscal year, and the only thing of importance which now seems to him likely to be thrown over is the treaty of peace with Spain, which will have to be ratified by the senate before becoming operative. In case that is ready by March next, an extra session of the senate alone may be called to give it the finishing touches, but the presence of the house, as far as can be foreseen today, will not be required.

The reasons which impel the president to this view may be summed up in the single statement that he does not care to have congress on his hands at the juncture which will then be reached. The only thing in connection with our new colonial dependencies which would call for general legislation would be the establishment of systems of civil government there, and the president feels that this is a matter in which there is danger from too great haste. He would rather feel his way first by keeping the military authority uppermost, but under it building up a modified civil system, little by little, so that, by the time he turns the matter over to congress, he will be able to recommend the legislation most desired, and to draw upon actually existing conditions for illustrations with which to enforce his arguments. In other words, if congress finds a fairly satisfactory system of government already in operation in the newly acquired territory, it will be less likely to rush into foolish experiments.

Moreover, the agricultural interests of this country are beginning to wake up to the idea that their welfare is menaced by the addition of all these agricultural islands, and to put the latter upon a footing of even competition with our domestic industries might be attended with serious results politically to the party of the administration.

Of course, as incidental to this program, we must face the fact that there will be no currency reform legislation during the present presidential term. It was with the view of bringing this subject to the front that the president at first considered favorably the idea of an extra session next spring. If the currency question is postponed to the regular long session nothing will be done, for the administration has no desire to spring the currency issue upon the country on the eve of a presidential election. The theory of the president on this head is that by the time the first regular session of the Fifty-sixth congress meets the country will be in full tide of prosperity, and that the agitation of the money question, in view of the use the Democrats might make of it, would be unwise, as liable to unsettle business conditions again.

The outlook is not especially encouraging to the sound money Democrats who united with these Republicans in 1896; but the point has been made plain to the president that since a great multitude of these men have gone back to their full party allegiance and must not be counted upon for any further assistance, he must steer his own course according to his best judgment.

Spanish Must Get Out.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The government has renewed and strengthened its determination that the Spanish evacuation of Cuba and the American occupation shall not be deferred beyond Jan. 1 next. This conclusion has been communicated to the Spanish government within the last few days in answer to an urgent request that the date of evacuation be put off because of the large number of Spanish troops remaining on the island, who, it was represented, could not be moved before Jan. 1. Not being a subject which could be treated by the commissions at Paris or at Havana, the request of the Spanish government was forwarded to Washington through the French embassy, which received also, and forwarded by cable, the refusal of this government to put off the date of assuming American control.

Crystalizing Public Sentiment.

Boston, Nov. 16.—The Merchants' club of Boston entertained at the Algonquin clubhouse last night the newly elected state officers and several congressmen. Imperialism was the subject discussed more than any other. Mr. Knowlton, Congressman Barrows and Senate President Smith defended the doctrine, although they objected to the use of the term "imperialism." Congressman Gillett and James J. Myers of Cambridge spoke on the other side of the question.

Banquet at Greenleaf

Representative-elect Eben W. Sheppard, in appreciation of the work in his behalf by the Ward One Republican Committee, and the Ward One Delegates to the Representative Convention, tendered the gentlemen a banquet at the Greenleaf Tuesday evening, and it was one of the finest spreads ever served in Quincy. Mine host Remick of The Greenleaf demonstrated to the pleasure of all, that in food and service he is able to give a first class banquet. The menu was as follows:

Consomme. Printmier.
Baked Salmon. Trout. Sherry Wine Sauce.
Boiled Leg of Mutton. Capper Sauce.
Roast Surloin of Beef.
Roast Turkey. Cranberry Sauce.
Olives. Celery.
Shrimp Salad. Mayonaise.
Fried Bananas. Vanilla Sauce.
Mashed Potatoes. Sweet Corn. French Peas.
Plain and Fancy Cake.
Harlequin Ice Cream. Frozen Padding.
California Oranges. Tokay Grapes. Bananas.
Coffee. Rolls. Tea.

The banquet was spread in the parlor of the hotel from 6.30 to 8.30. There were no post prandial exercises, and little reference to politics, but stories enlivened the occasion, and a good time was enjoyed. A vote of thanks was extended to Representative Sheppard, and each and all complimented him on his election and the banquet, and wished him a bright future at the State House.

Bryant Out of Fight.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

As a statement made in your paper of yesterday is entirely wrong, I wish to state there is no Pinkham-Bryant fight in Ward Five. It is a well known fact that the "Park section" has and is entitled to a representative in the Council, and after being waited on by two delegations, and being assured the Park as a unit wished me to go back to the Council in place of Dr. Willard, who declined a renomination, I consented to run. The fight, if any, is who shall receive the nomination of the three candidates, from what is known as the Wollaston side i. e., Pinkham, De Normandie or Jameson, and I think it unfair to misrepresent my position, and so make this explanation in justice to myself and Mr. Pinkham.

Yours truly,
C. M. Bryant.

A PECULIAR REMEDY.

The Rev. F. I. Bell, a highly esteemed minister residing in Weedsport, Cayuga Co., N. Y., in a recent letter writes as follows: "There has never been anything that I have taken that has relieved the Dyspepsia from which I have suffered for ten years except the new remedy called Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets. Since taking them I have had no distress at all after eating and again after long years can sleep well. Rev. F. I. Bell, Weedsport, N. Y., formerly, Idlaia, Colo.

Stuart's Tablets is a remarkable remedy, not only because it is a certain cure for all forms of indigestion, but because it seems to act as thoroughly in old chronic cases of dyspepsia well as in mild attacks of indigestion or biliousness. A person has dypepsia simply because the stomah is overworked, all it wants is a harmless, vegetable remedy to digest the food and thus give it the much needed rest.

This is the secret of the success of this peculiar remedy. No matter how weak or how much disordered the digestion may be, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. New life and energy is given not only to the stomach but to every organ and nerve in the body. A trial of this splendid medicine will convince the most skeptical that Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles can be cured. The tablets are prepared by the F. A. Stuart Co., of Marshall, Mich., but so popular has the remedy become that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can now be obtained at any drug store at 50 cents per package. Send for book on stomach diseases free. 3t 14-16-18.

Vienna.

Here we have a proud, imperial city, rather disdainful of trade, aristocratic and easy going, conscious of a long past, its rulers still animated with the conviction that they are the successors of Charlemagne and Otto, looking on Berlin as parvenu, on London as merely commercial, on Paris as half crazy. Excepting in the domain of music, Vienna is not a home of art and culture, but it is a center of dignity and grace and a certain calm air of superiority, which, however, does not offend. It is content to look on while other places explore and write and toil and push and strain; it stands on its rank; it can never forget its 16 quarterings and its claims to high estate.

Vienna is most interesting perhaps as the meeting place between east and west, where the fine gentleman rubs shoulders in the afternoon lounge along the Graben with the Bosnian peasant. The guardian of Europe's ancient order, the center of a great and most interesting empire, the city of leisure and of a pride so lofty that it does not know itself to be pride at all, Vienna is both a charming city and an important political center, as she will continue to be, no matter what is the fate of the Austrian empire.—London Spectator.

M. de Fontenelle's Bright Speeches.

M. —— said of a young fellow who did not see that a lady was in love with him: "You are very young. You can only read large print."

A preacher said: "When Pere Bourdaloue preached at Rouen, he caused a great deal of disorder. The workmen left their shops, the doctors their patients, etc. I preached there the following year and set everything right."

A lady 90 years of age said to M. de Fontenelle, who was 95, "Death has forgotten us." "Hush!" replied Fontenelle, putting his finger on his lips.

A conceited dolt interrupted a conversation by, "I have an idea." A wit remarked, "Astonishing!"

A courier said, "After the death of his majesty there's nothing one can't believe."

M. de Fontenelle, then in his ninety-seventh year, having just paid Mme. Helvetius a thousand pretty compliments, passed her on his way to the table, without seeming to notice her. "See," said Mme. Helvetius, "what account I should take of your gallantry. You went by without looking at me." "Madame," said the old gentleman, "if I had looked at you I should not have passed by you."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Desperate.

"I want a horse and trap for a funeral. Can you let me have them?" inquired the young man in the loud check suit of the cautious liveryman, whose stock occupies the same place in his affections that a wife and family should.

"Well, if you're careful," replied the cautious liveryman slowly.

The turnout was at last ready, and while the young man in the loud check suit was arranging himself in his seat the proprietor patted the horse, an especial favorite, tried the buckles of the harness, shook the shafts and performed all the usual ceremonies due upon such an occasion. Then, as he handed up the reins, he said absentmindedly:

"He's very willing and quick. Be careful not to drive too fast."

The young man regarded him in surprise for a moment, and then asseverated:

"Well, I'm going to keep up with the funeral if it kills him!"—London Answers.

A Bridle to Her.

Polk Miller of Richmond is known as a raconteur of plantation life in the south before the war. One story told by Mr. Miller will well bear repetition. An old darky named Absalom was the favorite attendant of a widower acquaintance of Miller, and as rumor had it that the widower intended taking unto himself a second wife Miller asked Absalom if it were true. Absalom scratched his woolly pate for a moment and replied that he reckoned it was.

"Well," said Miller, "will he take a bridal tour?"

This somewhat puzzled Absalom for an instant; then an inspiration struck him, and he said, "I dunno 'bout a bridle, sah, but when de ole missus was 'live he used to taik a paddle to her; so maybe he taik a bridle to de new one!"—Exchange.

Got Her Snap Shots.

As President McKinley entered the station at Omaha the other day the crowd lined up as usual upon two sides of a passage that was roped off and protected by the police. Half way across the platform a woman with a kodak dodged the guard and sprang out before Mr. McKinley. The chief of police, who led the procession, ordered her away, but the president interfered and took off his hat so that she might get a better view of his face. Backing rapidly a few feet in advance, she got several good snap shots and then disappeared.

He Won Her.

"I learn," she said reproachfully, "that you were devoted to no fewer than five girls before you finally proposed to me. How do I know that you didn't make desperate love to all of them?"

"I did," he replied promptly.

"You did!" she exclaimed.

"Certainly," he returned. "You don't suppose for a minute I would be foolhardy enough to try for such a prize as you are without practicing a little at first, do you?"—Chicago Post.

Alaska's Sky Pillar.

The newly discovered peak in Alaska, which is said to be taller than Mount St. Elias, is away over on the American side of the boundary line and is thus indisputably ours. It will be somewhat rough on Elias to lose his long reputed pre-eminence, but as the great landmark of the international boundary line he may yet get some consolation.—New York Tribune.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

Exchange Greetings at Banquet of Chamber of Commerce.

Lord Herschell Speaks For Our European Cousins.

General Miles, Ex-Minister Woodford and Others Among the Guests.

New York, Nov. 16.—The 130th banquet of the New York Chamber of Commerce at Delmonico's last night, in point of magnificence, exceeded the previous efforts of the chamber. Three hundred and 30 covers were laid and every plate was occupied. The guests of honor were all men who have gained distinction in public life.

Before the diners went into the banquet room Lord Herschell held a levee in the reception room. The hall was decorated in a more elaborate manner than ever before attempted, and was in keeping with the present good feeling between this country and England, at the same time giving recognition to the friendly commercial relations existing between America and France, Germany, Russia, Austria, Italy and Mexico.

After all the guests were seated, Bishop Potter invoked a divine blessing. The speaking program was as follows:

Introductory address by Alexander E. Orr, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Toasts: "The President," Hon. Stewart L. Woodford.

"The Future Relations Between Great Britain and the United States," Right Hon. Lord Herschell.

"Confidence Regained," Hon. John W. Griggs, attorney general.

"The United States and Canada," Hon. John A. Kasson.

"The Army," General Nelson A. Miles.

"The Navy," Paymaster General Edwin Stewart, U. S. N.

Alexander E. Orr, in his introductory remarks, praised the war and the financial policy of President McKinley, and closed by asking all to stand and drink the health of Queen Victoria. The orchestra played "God Save the Queen," and all present joined in the chorus.

President Orr then read a letter from President McKinley expressing regret that imperative engagements and the pressure of official duties would prevent him from being present, and then said:

"These gatherings of your organization have been productive of great good to the commercial interests of your state and the country at large. They encourage free interchange of thought and render possible the timely discussion of public questions. Not the least among their beneficent results are the kindly good fellowship and co-operation which they foster."

General Woodford, the first speaker, in part said: "Our president walks alone this night bearing the burden of the future of this nation as no president has borne it since the days of the great proclamation and of Gettysburg and Appomattox. Then we solved the question of national unity. And now he and we stand face to face with the settlement of the issues of this war."

Mr. Orr then introduced Lord Herschell. The applause as the distinguished Englishman arose was terrific and long. Lord Herschell said he heard in the cheers good will for his country. There were involved priceless blessings to both countries. He knew his countrymen reciprocated the kindly feelings just expressed. There were some fools—no nation has a monopoly of them—that still harbored some illwill. "Some say blood is thicker than water," remarked Lord Herschell. (Great applause)

"Because we have said nasty things of each other is no proof that we are not closely related. Sometimes we have attacked one another. This is strong proof of relationship. (Great laughter), but when a third party intervenes we shall unite in support of one another.

"Generations to come will rise and call those blessed who put America and Great Britain upon a closer and more fraternal plan.

"Nations should not settle the difference any other way than individuals. There should be a willingness to make concessions. The events of the past few months mark an epoch in history."

Attorney General Griggs was then introduced. He said he was present as the representative of the president, but had no great secrets of state to disclose. He would not even discuss the principle of expansion. That was settled by the annexation of Hawaii. It was only a question of degree. The opponents of expansion had been beaten by the logic of the facts. We are now confronted with what we should do with our new acquisitions. Mr. Griggs ridiculed the idea that Americans could not govern others because they could not govern themselves. He said: "This country can follow in the path that destiny has marked out for us."

Mr. Griggs referred to the bond between Great Britain and America, and ventured the opinion that this country could produce as great men to govern colonies as Great Britain had to govern India and Egypt. He spoke of the work of General Wood at Santiago as an example of what could be done in good time. General Wood's name was liberally applauded.

John K. Kasson, in response to the toast, "The United States and Canada," referred to the differences and relations that have arisen between this country and Canada in the last 20 years and created unbounded applause when he said: "We should live as good neighbors and quit the entire policy of retaliation and commence with a clean slate of friendship."

General Miles was next introduced. He paid a high tribute to both army and navy, and said that the results of the war were remarkable both in the army and the navy. There had never been a war in which so much had been achieved with so little loss of life and treasure. General Miles stated that 12,000,000 of people that a year ago were suffering under the oppression of tyranny and cruelty were today under our protection.

VICTORY FOR MINERS.

Troubles at Virden Promise to Be Brought to a Speedy End.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Officials of the Chicago-Virden Coal company held a meeting here yesterday with representatives of the miners' unions for the purpose of arranging a settlement of the long-standing differences between the company and the miners. An agreement was reached after a somewhat protracted conference. The chief grievance of the miners was the wage scale, and the result is looked upon as a big victory for them. The meeting was attended by Acting President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America, President Hunter and Secretary Ryan of the Illinois Mine Workers' union and President Cahill of the Sub-District Branch State union in behalf of the miners. President Loucks and Manager Lukens represented the coal company. The meeting lasted until late in the afternoon, arranging the minor details of the agreement, including the disposition of the imported negro workers and the stockades. President Loucks refused to talk on these subjects, but President Hunter stated that he had no doubt an amicable agreement on all points under discussion would be reached without difficulty.

Carlists Are Active.

London, Nov. 16.—The Madrid correspondent of The Daily Mail says: A leading Carlist tells me he will be astonished if a formidable rising does not occur in Spain within a month after the peace treaty is signed. The Carlists have abundant supplies of money; and, my informant says, only something very big and unexpected can prevent a rising. This appears to agree with the news that Don Carlos has succeeded in raising an important loan in London and in Paris, and that wealthy Carlist families are insuring their property against war risks. I questioned a prominent official at the Spanish war office on the subject and he told me he was well aware of the Carlist activity, but that the government was even more ready than the Carlists. My own opinion is, however, that the Spanish people will not tolerate a Carlist rising, because civil war would only complete Spain's ruin.

O'Brien Beats Hamilton.

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 16.—Jack O'Brien of New York got the decision over Jack Hamilton of Troy in a fiercely fought 25-round battle at the Manhattan Athleic club last night. The men fought at 125 pounds. O'Brien was the aggressor from the start, and with his short, savage jabs kept Hamilton busy. Hamilton depended entirely on the long, swinging blows with his right, for which he is famous, and when he landed on his adversary's body he made him wince. Had Hamilton the faculty of following up his blows he could have put the New Yorker out of business. O'Brien, on the other hand, was after his opponent constantly, and punished him severely. The decision gave general satisfaction.

Baron Has Skipped.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 16.—Baron Waldeck De Villamill, an Austrian nobleman, and a captain of the Seventh volunteer Infantry, immunes, is in disgrace and has left for parts unknown. A few days ago he was discharged from his regiment for various offenses, principal among which was refusing to pay his debts. Creditors swooped down upon him in his tent and attached his sword and his uniform. He later secured clothing somewhere and skipped out. Villamill claimed to be a cousin to the late Empress of Austria.

At a Standstill.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Negotiations on the proposed reciprocity treaty between this government and Great Britain relative to the British West Indies have come to a halt, with no present indication that the treaty will be concluded in the near future. The negotiations had proceeded to an advanced stage last spring. Since then, however, obstacles have developed, and the negotiations which were so far along have lapsed into a condition of inaction.

New York Merchants Assign.

New York, Nov. 16.—Hoadley & Co., shipping and commission merchants, assigned yesterday without preference. The house was established more than 50 years ago. It did an export and import trade in rubber, coffees, skins, etc. It was also largely interested in the banana rade. In June last the firm claimed to be worth $200,000. No estimate could be made at present of the liabilities and assets.

K. of L. Convention.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The annual convention of the Knights of Labor has begun here. The proceedings will last a week or 10 days, and will be held behind closed doors. It is said that the knights will pass resolutions combatting the assertion attributed to Preident Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, that organized labor is against the acquisition of conquered territory.

Capital All Subscribed.

Pittsburg, Nov. 16.—The last of the three-quarters of the capital of the new tin plate combination, to be apportioned among the manufacturers, was subscribed for yesterday. The organization will carry on business under a New Jersey charter with headquarters either in New York or Boston.

HAHMAN HANGED HIMSELF.

He Is Believed to Have Also Been Guilty of Murder and Arson.

New Canaan, Conn., Nov. 16.—Arson, suicide and suspected murder are the elements of what is believed to be a double tragedy that has taken place on the outskirts of this village. The suicide was Fred Hahman, a German farm laborer, aged 45 years, who had been employed by Mrs. Anderson. Indications lead to the belief that he murdered Mrs. Anderson recently, and, to remove any trace of his crime, set fire to the house and barn yesterday and then hanged himself.

The fire was noticed by Zachariah Osborn, the nearest neighbor, who lived about a mile away. When going to the scene he discovered Hahman hanging from a tree in the orchard, and he at once hastened to town and notified the authorities. When Medical Examiner Keeler later viewed the remains a letter was found on the suicide's person that would indicate that he had murdered Mrs. Anderson. The house and barn were totally destroyed.

A search was made of the ruins, but no trace of the woman's remains were found. A more thorough search is to be made today. Mrs. Anderson was about 50 years of age, and had more than a local reputation for her eccentric ways and quarrelsome disposition. If she was murdered it is believed it was the outcome of a quarrel over money matters. Hahman was married and has four children in Germany.

The Marlboro Strike.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 16.—The salient feature of yesterday in connection with the strike of the boot and shoe workers was the retirement of the upper and sole leather cutters from the S. H. Howes Shoe company factories, and the factory of John A. Frye. There has been no evidence of excitement over the situation and the streets have not presented an unusually lively appearance. To a stranger there is nothing to indicate that the greatest strike in the history of the city is on. The coming out of the cutters took from the factories affected by the strike every union worker in them. Therefore at those shops quietude reigns. The effect of the strike is commencing to be felt in kindred industries, and yesterday the factory of the O. H. Stevens Box Manufacturing company, which employs about 30 hands, ceased operations. Business is practically at a standstill in the last factories. Each side now awaits some move on the part of the other.

Boycotting Enjoined.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 16.—A decision was rendered by the Michigan supreme court yesterday which, in effect, declares a boycott as unlawful and an unwarrantable menace, intimidation and coercion. The case was appealed from the circuit court at Detroit by Breck & Son, millers, who had obtained an injunction restraining the Railway Teamsters' union from interfering with the firm's employes or business, but sanctioning distribution of boycott circulars or any form of boycotting excepting in front of complainants' place of business. The supreme court modifies the decree by enjoining all forms of boycotting.

Caught In New Mexico.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 16.—United States Marshal Stone has received a telegram from Albuquerque, N. M., notifying him of the arrest of H. B. Eckham, who is wanted for the alleged embezzlement of $40,000. It is alleged that Eckham, before disappearing, borrowed $50,000 in cash from four Kansas banks. He next visited several Indian reservations and secured $16,000 in government checks, which he exchanged for bills of large denominations. A reward of $5000 was offered for his arrest.

Cannot Be Saved.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Commander McCalla reports to the navy department that the Maria Teresa is now on a pinnacle of rock, smashed and well hammered. She has been wrecked by heavy pounding seas, and her bottom jammed up a couple of feet. Her engines and boilers form a part of the wreck, and it will be almost impossible to work upon the hulk. The commander thinks the attempt to save her should not be undertaken.

Twelve Were Killed.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—A Grand Trunk express train crashed into a moving freight train, two miles west of Trenton, early yesterday morning, and several cars were smashed almost into splinters. So far as known, 12 persons were killed and a dozen or more seriously injured. A misplaced switch was the cause of the accident, the westbound train taking he wrong track, on which was the eastbound freight.

End of Guttenburg Track.

New York, Nov. 16.—The Guttenburg racetrack, including 75 acres of ground, was sold yesterday by Receiver Wolbert. The property was bought in by Dennis McLaughlin and John Mullins for $125,000. The property will be cut up into building lots. McLaughlin was one of the principal owners of the property when the Guttenburg track was in its prime.

SPANIARD'S RAPACITY.

after 30 colored soldiers attacked the house where Lieutenant Ferrera was and kept up a regular fusilade, killing Lieutenant Ferrera, Antonio Roman, an old man; Emily Bettran, a boy of 17, and a baby and wounding several others. Two soldiers were killed in the affray.

Eye-witnesses of the affair say that two gendarmes who were wounded are expected to die. The impression among them is that all the soldiers belonged to the Ninth immunes. Lieutenant Ferrera behaved most pluckily, even when dying, ordering his men to defend themselves.

He was shot while trying to persuade the crowd to disperse. The soldiers had been drinking.

The Independencia calls upon General Wood to relieve Colonel Ewers of his command, claiming that he is "absolutely incompetent." The paper says also: "It is contrary to all justice to send here as an army of occupation the cut-throats and murderers who, ever since they came, have acted worse than the Spaniards ever did."

Still Growling.

Madrid, Nov. 16.—The Imparcial, commenting upon the loan which Don Carlos is said to have raised in London, says: "Evidently the English are abetting an outbreak of civil war in Spain, with the object of securing additional territory at Gibraltar." The Imparcial adds: "The Americans employed the same methods to become masters of Cuba."

A Question of Cash.

Paris, Nov. 16.—The Spaniards declare that their refusal to sign a treaty based on any Philippine terms thus far suggested by the United States is irrevocable. They say that they do not and cannot view the taking of the Philippines as anything else than a wanton ravishment of their possessions, unless it is accompanied by a financial consideration of appreciable size. Persons near to Spain's heaviest creditors believe that, should the Americans assume the Philippines debt or pay Spain its face amount in cash, the Spaniards would sign.

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

ARBITRATION

Spain Would Thus Solve Philippine Problem.

Persists In Former Position Concerning Protocol.

Plea That Exterior Aid Would Hasten Negotiations.

Not Likely That American Commissioners Will Consent to the Proposition.

Paris, Nov. 17.—The joint session of the peace commissioners was yesterday adjourned to Saturday after the presentation by the Spanish commissioners of a long document in answer to the American argument which was submitted last week. By mutual consent the memorandum was handed to the Americans without being read.

The Spaniards in their communication reaffirm the position which they have assumed against the discussion here of Spain's Philippine sovereignty. They insist that the words "shall determine the control, disposition and government of the Philippines," in article 3 of the peace protocol, do not warrant any reference to Spain's withdrawal from the Philippines, except on her own terms, and, therefore, the Spaniards propose arbitration on the construction to be placed on the words, "the control, disposition and government."

In signifying their willingness to submit the Philippines article of the protocol to a third party for construction, the Spanish commissioners urged that, as there is obviously a difference of opinion regarding the phrase "the control, disposition and government of the Philippines," possibly the result of a misunderstanding, the Spaniards should no more be asked to surrender their view than the Americans to surrender their's. The memorandum points out that a deadlock exists, which might be broken by arbitration on the contending views, to which the Spanish commissioners are quite ready to submit. The latter declare that they have no idea of suggesting arbitration as to the main issue, which touches the national honor of both sides, but they are willing to accept exterior aid to clear the path of negotiation.

It is safe to say that the American commissioners will not consent to invoke any exterior aid to construe the terms of their own protocol.

Another part of yesterday's Spanish memorandum flatly asserts, upon the authority of M. Cambon's reports of the protocol negotiations between Washington and Madrid through him, that President McKinley at no time objected to Spain's reservation of her sovereignty in the Philippines.

This allegation is directly opposed to the American record on the same subject. Judge Day's note to M. Cambon, dated Aug. 10, and already made public, informed him that Spain's note of Aug. 7, accepting the terms of peace laid down by the United States, was not explicit and proposed a protocol to reduce both parties to exactitude. The American commissioners now hold that the protocol itself was born of Spain's attempt to reserve her Philippines sovereignty, though the Spanish memorandum yesterday squarely challenges the contention.

Moreover, the Spanish commissioners have alleged that President McKinley's objection to Spain's phraseology in accepting the peace terms was based solely so far as was made known upon this sentence in the Spanish acceptance: "They accept the proffered terms subject to the approval of the cortes of the kingdom, as required by their constitutional duties."

The Spanish memorandum of yesterday holds that M. Cambon answered the American objection to this by pointing out that the American terms were proffered subject to the approval of the American senate, but that President McKinley replied that he did not desire to involve the internal affairs of Spain in the proceedings in hand.

The Spanish memorandum asks also why, if the United States objected to Spain's reservation of sovereignty, they did not plainly say so in the protocol and leave no room for argument. It asks why Judge Day's note of Aug. 10 did not clearly declare that the United States would not recognize such reservation, and that the protocol was necessary to prevent a misunderstanding on that point. It also asks why did Judge Day's not practically ascribed the inexplicit form of Spain's acceptance of the peace terms to telegraphic errors, while the exact terms of Spain's reservation of sovereignty, as had in Washington before the protocol, are now being quoted in the proceedings here.

This portion of the Spanish memorandum is based upon letters written by M. Cambon at the time, purporting to describe interviews and transactions attending the peace terms and protocol.

On Saturday, the date fixed for the next meeting, the Americans will make their response, in the course of which it is not unlikely that the exact terms and precise time limit of their acceptance will be communicated.

BULLET THROUGH HIS HEAD,

Tragic Fate of a President of a Wrecked Kansas Bank.

Emporia, Kan., Nov. 17.—The First National bank of Emporia was closed yesterday afternoon by order of the comptroller of the treasury. An hour later Charles S. Cross, the bank's president, and one of the best-known breeders of Herefords in the west, shot and killed himself at Sunny Slope, his famous stock farm, near the town.

Speculation is said to have led to Cross' downfall. His fortune has doubtless gone down with the bank. Among the heavy losers by the failure are Lyon county and the city of Emporia. All the city and county funds were deposited in the institution. Cross was custodian of his father's estate, which is also said to be in a wrecked condition.

Cross' ending was tragic. To the majority of the people of the town the comptroller's card on the door of the bank came as a surprise, but in financial circles the result had been anticipated for six months. Examiner Jobsz, who closed the bank on an order from the comptroller, has been going over its books with the aid of President Cross for the past week. No signs of mental agitation on the part of the bank president had been displayed, and when Cross left the bank yesterday, 10 minutes before it closed, he seemed the same as usual. He went immediately to Sunny Slope farm, and, speaking pleasantly to the employes, passed into the bedroom of Manager Evans' house. Evans shortly afterward entered the room and found Cross lying in a pool of blood, with a pistol in his hand. One shot had been fired and it went through the back of the head. Death must have been instantaneous. The news of the suicide was on the streets of Emporia a few minutes after the white card appeared on the bank door, and created a great sensation.

Cross was the son of the late Colonel Harrison Cross, who died a few years ago, and who was believed to have been worth several hundred thousand dollars. Cross leaves a widow and a daughter. His first wife was the daughter of a former president of the Union Pacific railway. They were divorced in the seventies.

Died on the Stage.

New York, Nov. 17.—At the Knickerbocker theatre last night a young actress died on the stage behind the scenes just at the end of the third act of "The Christian." She was Miss Ethel Marlowe, daughter of Owen Marlowe, the famous old English comedian, who died on the stage in the Globe theatre in Boston in 1876, and cousin of Julia Marlowe-Taber. Miss Marlowe was sitting on a chair at the first entrance talking with other girls when suddenly she grew limp, fell to the floor and died instantly from heart failure. Ethel Marlowe's sister, Virginia Marlowe, died some years ago on the stage from the same disease. Her mother is now with the James K. Hackett company, playing in the south. Miss Marlowe was 15 years old. She took the part of Polly in "The Christian."

Fished, But Got No Bite.

Paris, Nov. 17.—There are rumors afloat that Emperor William fished for an invitation to France as a preliminary to visiting the exposition in 1900, and it is said there was an idea of sending a squadron to salute him in French waters. But the chamber of deputies displayed such strong feeling that the idea was abandoned.

With $3,000,000 Capital,

Washington, Nov. 17.—Comptroller Dawes yesterday authorized the Shawmut National bank of Boston to begin business. The new institution has a capitalization of $3,000,000. It is a consolidation of the forces and influence and capital of several national banks which recently have gone into liquidation.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to S, and today's instalment is the third of the Ts:

City Council Overthrows Report on Billings Road.

The Order for $2,500 Given a Second Reading

Councilman Cain Calls Up His Order of Inquiry.

The adjourned meeting of the City Council Wednesday evening was prolonged an hour by a lengthy debate on the order for $2,500 for rebuilding Billings road, which was strongly advocated by Councilman Poland.

Councilmen Merrick, Nicoll, Packard, Prout and Willard were absent.

PETITIONS.

A petition was received from Wollaston that Morton street be accepted as a public way. To next City Council.

Charles H. Porter and others petitioned that the street car tracks on Adams street be removed between Alleyne street and their connection on Hancock street, and that a new location be granted on the southeast side of Alleyne street to Hancock street. To Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from Rev. F. A. Friguglietti for a license to hold a sacred concert for the benefit of the Sunday School of St. Mary's church, Sunday evening, Nov. 20, at St. Mary's hall. Laid on the table until later in the evening when Councilman Newcomb offered an order granting the same, which was adopted.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Elections made its report of the result of the State election of November, which was accepted.

The Committee on Fire Department reported an order appropriating $400 for connecting the steam whistle on the T. R. & S. Co. factory with the fire alarm service. To Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Fire Department reported leave to withdraw on the petition of the Houghs Neck Fire Company for $100 for pay of services. Adopted.

The Committee on Fire Department reported ought not to pass, an order to amend the Ordinances so that the Chief Engineer could sell old material. Adopted.

BILLINGS ROAD.

The Committee on Streets reported reference to the next City Council, on the order for $2,500 for regrading Billings road.

Councilman Parker in reply to Councilman Poland's request for a reason, said: Last year $2,500 was voted for this street and the work is yet uncompleted, and as but a small amount had been expended the Committee thought it advisable to report as it did. It will not make any material difference if order waits until next year. The Committee did not favor appropriating money in the last six weeks of the year for the next year.

Councilman Poland did not think this the proper time for excuses. The order has been before the Committee since June. Now they offer this excuse. The Council was not to blame for the money not having been expended. The Commissioner of Public Works had good reason for not using the money. Hancock street was dug up with the sewer and the street railway were obliged to use the Norfolk Downs loop for Boston cars and it would have been wrong to make them take up the tracks then. There was no reason to believe that the next Council would be any more expeditious than this. This street was in a fast growing residental section, and was the only outlet to a railroad depot for a large territory. He wanted some better excuse than that offered. There were twenty-five new houses in contemplation at this section. The citizens do not want all the money paid in by them in taxes, but they want at least one street to the depot.

Councilman Hill hoped report of Committee would not be accepted, and endorsed what his colleague had said.

Councilman Swithin said the committee thought it would be too late this year to appropriate more money as the city would have to pay interest on it before it could be used.

Councilman Jameson wanted to ask if order was passed now, if the money would have to be borrowed if work was not done until next spring.

He was informed by the President that the order did not provide for the borrowing of the money, but it could be arranged to make notes payable at a certain period from issue and the Executive could fix the time of issue.

In response to a question by Councilman Poland, City Treasurer Gray replied to the same effect as the President.

Councilman Badger was inclined to support Councilman Foland in this street. It was important that people who come here should have something for their money.

Councilman Parker did not look at this matter from a Ward line, but he was looking for the welfare of the city as a whole. He was still of the opinion that it was not necessary for this Council to borrow this money when it could be bororwed next year much better in a loan order.

Councilman Poland said, there has not been an order for an appropriation that has not been acted upon except this. The Finance Committee is amply competent to handle the financial part of it. There was no reason why this important matter should be held for six or eight months in the committee. It was time the matter was settled.

Councilman Parker thought the city had done very well this year with this street, as it had expended $2,500 upon it. In answer to a query from Councilman Little he said the report was a unanimous one.

Councilman Little then asked the Commissioner if $2,500 would put the street in condition for five years.

Commissioner Knowlton said that his estimate at first was $5,300. But the Council felt that it could not appropriate all in one year, and so half was appropriated. When work was commenced on the street he found more clay than he expected and this had to be excavated and it cost more. He did not know what he would find on the unfinished part, but would endeavor to make the $2,500 do, and the repairs for five years would be small.

Councilman Clark said if he remembered right, it did not seem as though the money could be used; it was unanimous that the matter should be referred to next year's Council.

Councilman McGrath thought the appropriation should pass.

The Council refused to accept the report of the Committee by a vote of 9 to 8.

The order was given a second reading and referred to the Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Licenses reported on a number of petitions for minor licenses which were adopted.

The committee on State Aid reported on a number of petitions which were adopted.

MOTIONS, ORDERS, ETC.

Councilman Freeman offered the warrant for the Municipal election which was ordered.

CALENDAR.

The order refunding Charles E. Stetson $238.38 taxes was given a second reading and referred to Committee on Ordinances.

The order transferring $221 to the appropriation for Fire alarm, was passed to be ordained.

The order granting the New England Telephone Co. a relocation for poles on Dimmock, Temple and Hancock streets, was passed to be ordained.

The order changing the salary of the Inspector of Plumbing from $3 a day to $1,000 a year took its second reading and was referred to the joint Committee on Ordinances and Health.

Councilman Cain then started in to debate on order introduced by him that had been referred to the Committee on Claims when the President's gravel called him to order, as there was no motion before the Council.

He then offered an order, that the Council request the Committee on Contracts to report at the next meeting on this order asking why the contract for paving Hancock street had not been given Fallon & Sons, the lowest bidders, instead of an out-of-own party.

He then asked the Committee why it had not been reported upon.

Chairman Sidelinger replied that the Committee did not think it belonged to them and it had been laid on the table, and no one had moved to take it therefrom.

Councilman Cain thought it strange that a reliable firm like the Fallons should not have been given the contract.

Councilman Little asked if it was Mr. Fallon's desire that the Mayor should explain, to which Councilman Cain replied he could not say and did not care.

Councilman Jameson asked if Messrs. Fallon did not furnish a large part of the material, to which Councilman Cain replied, yes; he had a sub-contract.

Councilman Freeman raised a point of order that Councilman Cain was not talking on the motion.

Councilman Cain remonstrated against the interference of Councilman Freeman, the Chairman of the Republican City Committee, when bang went the President's gavel and he was called to order.

The order was then passed.

Voted that when the Council adjourn it be until Saturday evening.

Adjourned at 9.15.

Over 100 New Voters.

The Board of Registrars of Voters were in session Wednesday from 12 o'clock noon until 10 o'clock in the evening. There was but little doing during the afternoon but from 7 o'clock until the closing hour the Registrars had all they could jump to. After registration closed the figures showed that 37 names had been restored and 95 added making a total of 132 additions to the lists at the session. The larger part of these came from Wards Five and Six, although Ward One showed up very well.

The Hunt school of Weymouth was defeated Wednesday afternoon on Emerson's field, East Weymouth, by the Franklin school 12 to 0. It was the most exciting foot ball game of the season. Quincy High, 16—Weymouth, 0.

A more extended report of the foot ball game of Quincy High vs. Weymouth High on Tuesday at Merrymount park will be of interest.

Quincy kicked off, and after gaining nothing on two downs, Weymouth punted to the middle of the field. Then the ball was given to Magnuson, and he got around the end with fine interference, and ran 50 yards for a touchdown. Jordan muffed the punt out, so there was no goal.

Weymouth kicked off, and Quincy brought the ball back to the middle of the field. Then Jordan got through the Weymouth line at tackle, and ran to the 10 yard line. Bates went over for a touchdown, and a moment later Magnuson kicked a pretty goal.

There was no more scoring in this half, though twice Quincy got to the 25 yard line. Each time Magnuson tried for a drop goal on the third down. The first try struck the goal post, and the second went a yard to one side. When time was called, the ball was in the middle of the field.

Score, Quincy High 11; Weymouth High 0.

In the second half Weymouth kicked off, and Quincy brought the ball back slowly towards Weymouth's goal line. Short plunges by Magnuson, Jordan and Bates never failed to gain. Quincy punted on once the third down, but Weymouth fumbled, ad Murphy secured the ball in fine style. Then Bates gained repeatedly from 3 to 5 yards through the line, and finally went over for a touchdown. Magnuson missed the goal.

This ended the scoring. In the remaining few minutes Magnuson was slightly injured in his place was taken by Estabrooks who played a good game. Quincy had the ball near the middle of the field when time was called.

Weymouth never came near scoring. Once she secured the ball on a fumble at Quincy's 10 yard line, but lost it on downs. The best playing was by Bates, Magnuson, Jordan and Welch for Quincy, and by Lynch and Connaughton for Weymouth.

The line-up:

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

The opposition to Mayor Sears in Ward One issued a circular this morning urging the voters to attend the caucus this evening, and vote for the "unpledged list" of delegates to the Mayoralty convention and the Ward Committee list as proposed by the present Ward Committee. The circular letter further says "While the Mayoralty list is unpledged you are respectfully informed that their preference for Mayor is John O. Hall, Esq." Then follows the list of unpledged delegates and Ward Committee.

Mr. Hall when interviewed this noon by the Ledger authorized the statement. "That the circular was issued without his knowledge or assent."

Whist Party.

Mr. J. Archie Verrill, who has a very pleasant suite of rooms at the residence of Mr. L. H. Milberry, Wollaston Park, gave a reception to a number of friends on Tuesday evening. —Louisiana claims to have the largest farm in the world. It is a tract in the southwestern part of the state, and extends 100 miles north and south and 25 miles east and west. It was bought in 1883 by a syndicate of northern capitalists, by whom it is still operated.

POLITICAL FIELD.

It is understood on pretty good authority that ex-Councilman Roger H. Wilde will not under any circumstance be a candidate for Mayor before the Republican Municipal Convention.

The fight at Wollaston goes merrily on.

Councilman Pinkham's friends are rallying to his support.

If Mayor Sears carries the Wollaston caucus tonight it will be a victory well worth being proud of.

Ex-Councilman Bryant circulated through Wollaston yesterday a letter to the Republican voters giving his reasons why he thinks that Mayor Sears should not again receive the party nominations. The letter makes interesting reading but it seems doubtful if it will be endorsed at tonight's caucus.

Eighteen ward Councilmen are to be elected but the Democratic party have placed but 11 in nomination for their caucuses tomorrow night.

Registration has closed for the City elections.

King's Daughters' Sale.

The Whatsoever Ten, King's Daughters, of Wollaston, held a very successful sale at the residence of Mrs. Arthur Stanley on Farrington street on Wednesday afternoon and evening. There was a large attendance of buyers. The Thanksgiving table was in charge of Mrs. Edmund S. Taylor, assisted by Mrs. Charles S. Adams; the apron table was in charge of Mrs. Amos T. Leavitt, assisted by Miss Robbins, Mrs. George R. Badger and Miss Noyes; the lemonade table was presided over by Miss Howard; and the candy table was in charge of Miss Taylor assisted by Mrs. E. E. Jameson and Miss Foster. The entertainment consisted of piano solos by Mr. Nay of Dorchester, vocal solos by Mrs. Charles Godfrey and music by a graphophone, which was presided over by Mr. Newcomb of Dorchester.

Atlantic Memorial Church.

Rev. J. H. Whitaker had for his text Sunday morning "Grow in grace." He said that growth in the spiritual was essentially like that of the physical. As activity in taking to itself of the elements most suitable for its development was a necessity in the organic cell of the body so in one's mental and spiritual growth there must be the same healthy and unceasing activity. The choir singing was fine at this service.

After the Christian Endeavor service in the evening the pastor gave a talk on the subject of "Recreation."

Wednesday afternoon the Ladies' Benevolent society held a business meeting at which Mrs. Coe, the treasurer for the fair, reported one hundred and seventy-seven dollars and thirty cents, net proceeds of the fair held Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 9 and 10.

Mr. Bates' Somersault.

Mr. Editor:

In yesterday's edition of your paper here appeared an article headed "What I found," in which Mr. G. B. Bates insinuates that some changes have or might have been made in the plumbing of the house of Dr. Jones, the Secretary of the Board of Health. This article was preceded by an article in the Quincy Advertiser of the 15th inst., in which Mr. Bates makes the following specific charge, "'Next I prefer the charge of wrongfully performing the plumbing job in the house now occupied by the Secretary of the Board of Health, where wrought iron pipe and fitting are used and bronzed over to imitate brass."

Now yesterday morning I made an examination in the presence of Dr. Jones and Mr. Bradford and Mr. Bates himself, and showed that the pipe was first class brass pipe, and that the fittings were first class and proper. Mr. Bates now says "What an opportunity." I suppose he means that I have taken out the bronzed pipe and put in brass pipe. Any plumber would know that this would take at least two days and Dr. Jones will bear me out in saying that the pipe now in that house is the pipe I put in there in the first place.

To Mr. Bates' charge, that I hold my position as the result of any political influence whatsoever, I will say that my recommendations were from both parties and to show the public what a double somersault a man can turn when he seeks his own selfish ends (Mr. Bates now think he would make a good inspector,) I give the following extract from a letter written by Mr. Bates to the present Board of Health endorsing Mr. Keniley for the position. It speaks for itself and leaves public to judge of Mr. Bates' present attitude

Extract of a letter from Gus. B. Bates to the Board of Health:

"I would like to ask for information. What is the matter with our present Inspector of Plumbing, Mr. J. J. Keniley?

A thoroughly efficient, competent, and practical plumber, who has been a painstaking, honest and conscientious official, performing the duties of his office without fear or favor, demanding of all that the work must be done right. Although a competitor of mine in the plumbing business I must say that he is a gentleman, and eminently qualified and equipped for the position. I believe a grave mistake and an inconceivable loss will be made by not retaining him as Inspector of Plumbing for our City. Mr. J. J. Keniley has earned his laurels as a practical plumber (and not picked up his occupation on the highways and byways), by serving his apprenticeship in full under an able tutor, the late Patrick H. Gavin, who was considered far and near one of the leading practical plumbers in this country."

J. J. Keniley.

New Haven Register: "Mrs. E. J. Earl prepared a delicious menu at Harmonie hall yesterday afternoon, and a good sized audience was thoroughly entertained during the entire proceedings. Mrs. Earl, in the daintiest of little caps, and with extraordinary dexterity and neatness, prepared dish after dish, keeping up a running fire of comment in which the domestic economist found a wealth of information. Many of the women in the audience took notes, and even men who were scattered here and there in the assemblage were wholly absorbed in Mrs. Earl's skilful handling of her subject."

Suburban Rates.

The Railroad Commissioner gave a hearing Wednesday under the resolution of the Legislature, directing an inquiry as to suburban rates, and a report with recommendations. The railroads were represented by some of their officials and counsel, while suburban cites and towns were represented by committees and individua's interested in lower fares.

Quincy was represented at the hearing by Mayor Sears, City Solicitor McAnarney, Councilmen Jameson and Hultman. Mayor Sears entered a general complaint in regard to the fares from all stations in Quincy and presented the commissioner with the diagram drawn by Councilman Parker for the Quincy Board of Trade, showing in comparison the fares charged for single and commutation tickets on the various railroads running out of Boston.

It will be remembered that the diagram showed that Quincy was paying higher fares than other cities and towns within the same distance of Boston.

The railroad companies argued that they ran their suburban business at a loss. They also showed that in many instauces their commutation rate was considerably lower than that charged by the electric competing lines, while the service was infinitely superior, both as to equipment, accommodations and time. The companies further filed statements of the suburban business, which will be open to the inspection of all.

Japs Are Our Friends.

Omaha, Nov. 17.—J. Komura, the new Japanese minister, passed through Omaha last evening en route to Washington. He was interviewed by a reporter. "Japan has always been the supporter of the United States in the war with Spain," said Minister Komura, "and it is now in thorough sympathy with the United States in their demand for the Philippine islands. It will not affect Japan seriously to have any country in control of the islands, so long as the ports are kept open. There are very few Japanese residents in the islands. From a commercial point of view, Japan is vitally interested in the islands. Every year its trade with the Philippines has increased. My government believes the ports of the islands will be freely opened to Japanese ships if the United States governs the islands."

Blanco's "Sorrow."

Madrid, Nov. 17.—Captain General Blanco, in a letter to Senator Tinado, says: "The keenest sorrow of my life is surrendering Cuba, with an army of 150,000 men and 200 guns, to an enemy who claims to have conquered Cuba, while we are possessed of such resources."

Mysterious Proceeding.

Sydney, C. B., Nov. 17.—The French schooner Snowdrop, owned in St. Pierre, was seized here yesterday by the Canadian government authorities without any reason being assigned. The captain does not know what the action is for, and the seizing officers from the cruiser Gladiator maintain complete silence. The schooner was loaded with coal and regularly cleared.

It Saves the Clothes

A red-hot iron would burn the clothes, and so will common soap. Cheap common soaps ruin the clothes more slowly, but just as surely. Fairy Soap is a safe soap. It cleanses without harming even rich cambrics, gauzy laces and other fabrics of fine texture and delicate color. It will not burn, rot and weaken the threads as common soap does, and is more economical than cheaper soaps as it lasts longer.

FAIRBANK'S

FAIRY SOAP

is made of pure vegetable oil, contains no coloring matter, no impurities, so that it is perfectly harmless to the tenderest skin. It is an ideal soap for toilet, bath and fine laundry purposes.

FIGHT TO BITTER END.

Neither Side at Marlboro Willing to Recede From Its Position.

Employers Will Close Shops Until Men Yield.

Response to the Statement Credited to the President of the Howe Company.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 17.—There was pleasure manifested at labor headquarters last evening when it became known that William Inskip, head secretary of the International Boot and Shoe Workers' union of Great Britain, had been apprised of the labor situation here, and that he would time his leaving England so that he might appear here Sunday, Dec. 4, and deliver an address before the strikers. Secretary Inskip is a delegate to the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which will next month hold its annual convention at Kansas City.

The money question is now receiving the most serious consideration at the hands of the members of the joint council, and ways and means are being devised to secure funds to aid the strikers in case the strike is a prolonged one and assistance is required. It is divulged that the situation here will be brought to the attention of the American Federation of Labor at its annual convention, and that it has adready been impressed upon the mind of President Gompers.

The strike will, it is expected, be one of the most important matters affecting labor interests in this country which will be brought before the convention.

The petition to the city government asking the calling of a mass meeting, and suggesting that the city council extend an invitation to the manufacturers and labor representatives to discuss publicly their differences, with the view of giving the public a more definite conception of the reasons held by each side of the controversy, will be acted upon next Monday night at the regular meeting of the mayor and board of aldermen. It can be stated upon unimpeachable authority, and with the indorsement of the shoe manufacturers, that they will not be drawn into any discussion of the situation.

The paramount question in the community is, when are the manufacturers likely to open their factories?. A reporter was informed last night by the manufacturers whose employes are now on a strike, that the factories are closed and they will not be opened again until the help is ready and willing to return to work and deal with the employers individually, or through a shop committee, as indicated in the original statement of the manufacturers, which statement was the cause of the strike.

This means that there will be no concession whatever on the part of the manufacturers, no matter what length of time may elapse before the strikers are prepared to ask for employment and agree not to be represented in their dealings with their employers by any labor organization.

The executive committee of the strikers gave out a statement last evening in which they expressed themselves freely in regard to the published interview with Mr. Howe, in which he stated at length his alleged difficulty in selling goods in competition with other firms. The committee states that Mr. Howe uses the same illustration of cost price—90 cents on his shoes, and 86 cents on his competitors goods—as in 1893, when Mr. Howe asked for a 10 percent reduction, and said on the public platform that unless he got it he would be unable to do business. The committee assert it to be common knowledge and admitted by Mr. Howe that the following two years were the most successful of his career. In view of this remarkable success, following upon an unsuccessful request for reduction in wages, the strikers feel that it is entirely possible that Mr. Howe may be mistaken now. As special reasons for taking this view of the case, they assert that in 1893 the country was in the throes of a financial panic, while at the present time the country has experienced two years of prosperity, and prominent men on all sides are freely predicting increased prosperity as a result of the recent elections, with a further boom in all industries incident to the termination of the late war with Spain. The committee assert that if Mr. Howe's illustrations of equalizing wages between the five-dollar men and the two-dollar men be at all accurate, then Mr. Howe should meet them upon the basis of arbitration; and they further suggest that the statistics of the earnings of shoe workers as published by the state and nation should be revised to include the wages stated by Mr. Howe and thus raise the average.

The committee regret Mr. Howe's statement that hot meetings are being held, and state that all meetings of the strikers have been orderly and all conclusions reached after calm consideration. They assert that Mr. Howe's expressed feelings of friendliness toward the striking employes are reciprocated by all, and say that it remains a mystery to them how Mr. Howe and Mr. Wright have become so changed that they now declare against the organization of labor, while they have always advocated it heretofore.

John A. Frye, one of the manufacturers against whom a strike has been declared, has reduced the rent of his tenants 5 percent, and the Marlboro Building association, in which Mr. Howe is a heavy stockholder, has also reduced the rent of its tenants.

One of the manufacturers states that the rumor that it was the intention to cut wages 40 percent is not true; that the desire is simply to equalize wages.

Whn the labor leaders were informed of the attitude of the shoe manufacturers they simply replied: "All right, it means a long, stubborn and bitter fight." Beyond that nothing was said.

Teddy as a Lecturer.

Boston, Nov. 17.—Theodore Roosevelt delivered the first of a series of eight lectures on "The Western Movement of the American People" before an audience of 1200 people in Huntington hall last night, under the auspices of the Lowell institute. The audience was enthusiastic in its greeting of the leader of the Rough Riders, and it was some minutes before he was able to proceed with his lecture, which was of a purely historical nature. Colonel Roosevelt traced the advancement and expansion of the English, Dutch, Spanish, Portuguese and French during the 15th and 16th centuries, discussing the character and progress of their movements into South Africa, Australia, South America, and into America itself. He spoke particularly of the backwoodsman of North America and his predecessors, and described vividly the hardships which he endured and the progress he made in pushing the frontier further and further westward through the dense forests. He eulogized the backwoodsman as an honest, manly, thrifty man, and said that the foundation which he laid for American government and institutions was of the very finest character.

Death of Dr. Bartlett.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 17.—Dr. Samuel Colcord Bartlett, former president of Dartmouth college, died at his home here last night of acute indigestion, after an illness of a little over a week's duration. In March, 1857, he was elected to the professorship of Biblical literature in the Chicago Theological seminary, and he filled this position 19 years. In 1877 he accepted the presidency at Dartmouth, which he held for 15 years, and then resigned to occupy himself with literary work.

Lodge Spoke.

Boston, Nov. 17.—The banquet of the Boston Boot and Shoe club at the Hotel Brunswick last night was made particularly interesting by the fact that ladies were present, and several of them, representing various patriotic societies, made eloquent addresses. Senator Lodge was the principal speaker of the evening, and devoted his remarks to a discussion of commercial problems in which his listeners were particularly interested.

Intended to Return It.

Boston, Nov. 17.—Edgar S. Winn, 22 years old, was arrested yesterday on the charge of embezzling $220 from his employer, James E. White, last August. Winn acknowledged taking the money, but says that the act was committed when he was under the influence of liquor. He intended to return the money, but was robbed of all but $90, and had since been trying to raise the balance.

Murder, Arson and Suicide.

New Canaan, Conn., Nov. 17.—Yesterday's developments in the suspected murder and suicide case have only confirmed the first belief that Mrs. Anderson was murdered by her farmhand, Fred Hahman, who later fired the house and barn and then hanged himself. The body of the murdered woman was found yesterday in a pigpen, where it had been covered by about a foot of sod. The body was badly decomposed.

Murder Trial Begun.

Dover, Me., Nov. 17.—The trial of John Peters for the murder of John Smart, a Kineo hunting guide, was begun in the supreme court yesterday. Smart was killed in a boarding house. Smart took hold of Peters, and Peters drew a revolver and shot Smart. While the indictment against Peters charges murder, many persons who have followed the case look for a verdict of manslaughter.

Given Time to Repent.

Boston, Nov. 17.—Lydia Southerland, alias Lizzie Bolton, was sentenced yesterday in the superior court to the prison for women at Sherborn, for a term of five years. The young woman, while employed as a domestic, stole $1540 worth of personal goods from one woman, and $60 worth from another. Testimony tended to show that she was a kleptomaniac.

Late Election Figures.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 17.—The official vote of the state as announced last night by the secretary of state varies slightly from the full unofficial returns. The plurality of Rollins (Rep.) over Stone (Dem.) is 9077, and his majority over all is 3513. Sulloway Rep.) has 2855 plurality in the First congressional district, and Clarke (Rep.) has 5129 in the Second district.

Big Sale of Securities.

Waterville, Me., Nov. 17.—A sale of securities of the Lewiston, Brunswick and Bath street railway took place here yesterday, and the following transfers were made by Treasurer Libby: A. A. Blair, Boston, $25,000 of stock and bonds; M. Boles & Co., Boston, $100,000 of bonds; J. H. Peters, New York $50,000 of stock and $200,000 of bonds.

Admits Negligence.

Boston, Nov. 17.—The prison commissioners had Officer Abbott of the state prison before them yesterday for the purpose of examining him on his report of the escape of John Reed, the bunco man. The officer admits his negligence, but declares that he is an honest man, and that he never received a cent from Reed or any of his friends.

Massacre Avenged.

Pretoria, Nov. 17.—The Boer forces, after a heavy musketry and artillery bombardment, have captured the mountain stronghold of Chief Opefu of the Magatos tribe, in the Zouttans Berg district. Opefu recently massacred a missionary and his family and the Transvaal government sent an expedition to punish the natives. The latter attacked the Boers, but were driven into the mountains. Two Boers were killed during the storming of the mountain stronghold.

Won't Amount to Much.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Senor Correa, the diplomatic representative of the United States of Central America, says the reported uprising in Salvador, which is a part of this new union, is undoubtedly due to a wish on the part of a small element to discredit the new republic, which came into existence on the first of this month, but he is sure it will fail, as the three countries forming the union are alike interested in putting down these local uprisings.

Curfew Bill Vetoed.

St. Louis, Nov. 17.—Mayor Zeigenhein has vetoed the curfew bill, passed by the city council recently at the instigation of Colonel Hoagland, well known all over the country as the friend of the street waifs. The mayor thinks the bill partakes of the character of sumptuary legislation.

STUBBORN AGUINALDO

Rejected General Otis' Proposition to Release Prisoners.

Many Friars and Civilians Held In Captivity.

Claims That His Action Is Due to Efforts to "Undeceive the Pope."

Manila, Nov. 17.—General Otis, the commander of the American forces, recently proposed to Aguinaldo that he release the friars and civilians held in captivity throughout the provinces. The insurgent leader denied this maltreatment and refused to release the prisoners, claiming that the civilians had enlisted as volunteers and therefore were legitimate prisoners of war. Aguinaldo also denied that women and children were detained, but said some women and children had voluntarily accompanied their husbands or fathers into captivity.

As to the friars, Aguinaldo argued that they were prohibited by the pope from accepting parochial appointments; that they were only permitted to follow a monastic life, and that the parishes were entrusted to ministers of the independent monastic orders. But the Philippines clericals had deliberately and systematically deceived the pope, pretending that the country was barbarous, unfit for the regular ministry, and that it was necessary that the monastic orders should administer the parishes. Therefore Aguinaldo considered it necessary to detain the friars until the pope should be undeceived.

The Spanish papers here assert that a sanguinary mutiny has taken place on board the steamship Besnardino, and that the native crew massacred the Spanish officers. These papers also appeal to the United States to control the natives.

Advices from Iloilo say the natives of that vicinity distrust Aguinaldo and want American domination.

End of the Teresa.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The armored cruiser Maria Teresa has been abandoned by this time and lies a wreck off the coast of Cat island. The department has wired Captain McCalla as follows: "If you are satisfied, after consultation with the officers named, the Teresa cannot be saved, you are authorized to abandon the wreck. As to any other matters exercise your own judgment. Notify British authorities. When you have done all you can, return to Norfolk." The captain was subsequently directed to bring the wrecking tug Potomac to Norfolk with him when he came, instead of returning her to Santiago.

Unimportant, Says Wood.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The following cablegram was received last night at the war department from General Wood: "Affair reported by newspapers at San Luis not important. Row between drunken negroes, soldiers and Cuban police. Soldiers in wrong. Will be detected and punished. Their camps been ordered moved greater distance from town. General Ewer instructed to take most rigid measures to insure absolute quiet in future." The department officials are satisfied that General Wood will deal with the affair satisfactorily.

White Officers Resigned.

Richmond, Nov. 17.—All the white officers of the Sixth Virginia regiment, colored, have resigned, except Lieutenant Colonel Croxton and Lieutenants Healy and Richardson. The lieutenants are on special duty and are not immediately in command of negro soldiers. The soldiers, while obeying orders perfunctorily, are sullen, and make things unpleasant for their officers.

The Baron Explains.

Louis, Nov. 17.—Baron Waldeck De Villamill, an Austrian nobleman and captain in the Seventh United States volunteer infantry (immunes), who is reported to have left Lexington, Ky., where his regiment is stationed, in disgrace, having been discharged, is here, and denies the story in toto. He says he is here on a furlough to meet his wife. From here he will go to Washington. The captain adds that he has applied for a transfer to a white regiment, service in the colored immunes being distasteful to him.

Dupont Is Speedy.

Newport, R. I., Nov. 17.—Torpedo boat Dupont, attached to the torpedo station, has exceeded the best torpedo boat speed yet developed in the United States, proving her to be the fastest boat in the United States navy. During torpedo practice in Narragansett bay on Monday her engines made 397 revolutions a minute. Yesterday the starboard engine was making 401 and the port engine 403 revolutions a minute, with only two of her three boilers in use. This demonstrated a speed of over 30 knots. During yesterday's trial her bow was at one time eight feet out of the water. Her contract speed was 27½ knots for three boilers.

Will Continue Good Work.

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—The national relief committee has decided to discontinue relief work in Porto Rico on Dec. 1, the government now being in a position to do all the necessary relief work there itself. Should there be a renewal of hostilities agents of the commission will be assigned to every camp. The work of caring for the families of the soldiers who are sick, either at home or in a hospital, will be continued indefinitely.

The MacNaughton Failure.

New York, Nov. 17.—Allan MacNaughton, brother of James MacNaughton who filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy Tuesday, yesterday filed a similar petition. Allan MacNaughton places his liabilities at $1,149,480, with nominal assets amounting to $240,467. The petition is almost identical with the one filed by James MacNaughton. Counsel for the MacNaughtons say that the petition filed by Allan MacNaughton would make it appear that the amount of liabilities of the two brothers would aggregate over $2,000,000, when in reality it was $1,149,530, each being responsible for the other, as one was the maker and the other indorser of the notes.

Dreyfus Won't Go to Paris.

Paris, Nov. 17.—The announcement that two advocates will be sent to Cayenne, capital of French Guiana, to assist Dreyfus in the preparation of his defense, gives rise to the belief that he will not after all be brought back. It is believed he has already received the government's message announcing the revision. The court of cassation will undoubtedly demand the secret dossier; and, according to The Soir, the government has taken the full responsibility for whatever measures may be necessary to prevent the dossier obtaining a publicity that would be dangerous from an international point of view.

Only the tortures of the mediæval rack are comparable to the agonies which many women suffer through the peculiar weaknesses and diseases of their delicate, feminine structure. Nothing less than unbearable torment would induce sensitive-minded women to submit to the intolerable methods of the average doctor in dealing with diseases of this nature.

That there is "a better way" than these detestable "examinations" and "local applications" is a truth which some women have yet to learn, although thousands are already rejoicing in the knowledge. They have found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the one unfailing remedy which heals feminine weaknesses at their very source. This marvelous "Prescription" restores absolute health to the internal organism; stops weakening drains and ulcerated conditions, gives elastic strength to the supporting ligaments, vitality to the nerve centers, and complete womanly vigor to the entire constitution.

It is the perfect fortifier and regulator of women at every critical period in their development; from the time when they merge into womanhood until the "change of life." It is the one medicine which makes motherhood safe and almost free from pain.

A lady living at 7 Park Avenue, Chicago, Ills., Mrs. Emily Howe, writes: "I, myself, suffered a long time from female weakness and seemed to be going into a decline. Took several bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and it saved me from a great deal of suffering. I now enjoy perfect health and will ever praise the wonderful efficacy of your medicine."

The best popular medical book in the world is Dr. R. V. Pierce's 1000 page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser. It will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only. Address the Doctor at Buffalo, N.Y., or send 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy.

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

GOVERNORS CENSURED

For Failure to Suppress Rioting In North and South Carolina.

Just Rights of All Citizens Should Be Respected.

Sentiment of a Mass Meeting to Protest Against Southern Outrages.

New York, Nov. 18.—A mass meeting of colored men and women to protest against the treatment of their race in some of the southern states recently was held last night in Cooper Union. As a precautionary measure the police were out in force, as even in this city, in the "Hell's Kitchen" district, there has been a considerable amount of anti-negro sentiment. This precaution, however, was not necessary, as the gathering, although enthusiastic at times, was a very peaceable one. The hall was crowded with colored people, with a sprinkling of whites. A number of prominent white citizens sent letters, instead of appearing in person, commending the object of the meeting. During the wait for the speakers a white man with long, flowing hair arose in his seat in the center aisle and shouted: "Oh, if we only had a William Lloyd Garrison, a Wendell Phillips, or an Abraham Lincoln at this time."

This evoked tremendous applause. Later on T. T. Fortune took the presiding officer's chair. Mr. Fortune in a lengthy address told of the race troubles in the south. Among other things he said:

"We come here to protest against mobocracy; against the white ruffians who claim to be the vice-regents of God."

Ebenezer D. Bassett, former minister to Hayti, declared that the purpose of the meeting was not to indulge in intemperate language, but to protest against "the outrages in North Carolina."

The following resolutions were adopted with a lengthy preamble:

Resolved, That we, citizens of Greater New York, protest against the rioting and revolution which have disgraced the states of North Carolina and South Carolina, and which has been contrary to the letter and spirit of our institutions and calculated to subvert the guaranteed rights of citizens and to damage the good name, reputation and credit of the republic at home and abroad.

Resolved, That we feel that the governors of North and South Carolina are censurable for their failure to suppress the said rioting and revolution within their states and for their failure to invoke the aid of the federal authority if they were unable or unwilling to cope with the condition of affairs.

Resolved, That we deplore as un-American and provocative of endless friction and contention the antagonism to race and color, which alone appears to have caused the said rioting and revolution in North and South Carolina, and that we insist upon it that the just rights of all citizens under the constitution shall be respected as the only safeguard against lawlessness, and as the only guarantee of orderly government, and that we appeal to the conservative, law-abiding and Christian people of the republic to assist in the creation of a public opinion which shall compel those in authority to enforce the law and to secure to each citizen adequate protection of his life and property in the exercise of his manhood and citizen's rights under the constitution.

"Resolved, That as the states of Mississippi, South Carolina and Louisiana have, by constitutional enactment, disfranchised more than half of their population, we demand that the basis of representation of these states in congress and electoral college be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the number of male citizens 21 years of age, as made and directed by section 2 of article 14 of the federal constitution.

Resolved, That we recommend such amendment to the constitution as will enable the president to use the federal authority to protect the life and property of citizens of the United States from organized or mob conspiracy whenever the governor of any state, from fear or collusion, fears to afford such protection or to call upon the federal government to afford it.

Resolved, That we implore the guidance of Almighty God in the shaping of our homogeneous citizenship to the end that it make for righteousness, for human progress and for the invincibility of our great and beloved republic against the elements of rioting and revolution from within and the assaults of the enemies from without.

Among the other speakers were Lawson N. Fuller, J. P. Peaker, president of the State Sumner league, New Haven; Rev. Dr. J. N. Scott of Henderson, N. C.; Rev. Benjamin W. Farris of Boston and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Grannis.

The Third Trial.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—The jury in the Middlesex superior court, which for the past two days has been hearing the case of Joseph J. Redmond against the estate of General Benjamin F. Butler, announced a disagreement. Mr. Redmond brought suit for $30,000 for alleged personal injuries received while in the employ of the United States Cartridge company of Lowell in 1891. This is the third time the case has been tried.

Kaiser and Sultan Chummy.

London, Nov. 18.—The Daily Mail says this morning: An important result of Emperor William's tour is an agreement on the part of the sultan to give his benevolent sanction to the Zionist movement. This agreement between the Ottoman ruler and the German emperor is still more important as indicating the friendly intamacy of the two monarchs and its probable influence upon general politics.

DINGLEY BILL WILL STAND.

Senator Hanna Gives His Opinion Concerning the War Tax.

Cleveland, Nov. 18.—Senator Hanna was asked yesterday if he desired to make any statement in regard to the recent interview which had been given to the public as coming from him. He replied:

"As I was misquoted, I now state that I consider the Dingley bill the most scientific and best adjusted tariff bill ever enacted; that I would be the last person to disturb its operations; that I believe it will bring a larger revenue to the country than was claimed for it, and will remain in force for many years and be changed only by the Republican party when the requirements of the country demand it. As to the war tax, I believe that some features of it will remain as a means of revenue to provide for expenses of the government and contingencies. I did state that, owing to the benefits of the protective tariff, our manufacturing industries have reached the point for the first time in the history of the country when our exports of manufactured goods have exceeded our imports. This means a reduction of revenue from imports, and until made good from increased volume of business the deficiency must be supplied from other sources, and I suggested tea and coffee, which can be made, in my opinion, a source of revenue (when required) without any great hardship to consumers. I am a protectionist in principle, and have grown stronger in the belief from object lessons which are multiplying every year."

Another Battle.

Pana, Ills., Nov. 18.—Non-union colored miners and white strikers clashed in the streets of this city again yesterday. Several hundred shots were fired, but the combatants did their shooting from behind trees and hedges, consequently no blood was spilled. The trouble is said to have been started by an unknown negro firing upon Wesley Pope, a striker. Pope says he was walking near the Springside colliery, where the negroes are quartered, when he was fired upon. He secured a rifle and reinforcements. Meantime the negroes appeared in force, and the shooting became general. After several hundred shots had been exchanged the negroes retreated to their stockade. No damage was done. The militia arrived too late to get into action.

All Were Carried.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 18.—Four constitutional amendments, which were voted on at the recent elections in this state, have been carried, according to official returns so far received. The vote from 37 counties on the amendment to extend the franchise to women on school matters shows a majority of 9871. The other amendments were: Requiring a majority of voters present to adopt a constitutional amendment; home rule for cities, and for the establishment of a road commission.

Quite a Tidy Sum.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 18.—State Treasurer Carter has completed the apportionment of corporate taxes to towns and cities for the year, and in a few days will be ready to effect a settlement of the accounts. The state owes towns for insurance tax $10,268.25; for railroad tax, $217,544.74; for savings bank tax, $332,464.47; for literary fund, $39,284.40; making a total credit of $599,561.86. The state tax assessed is $425,000, leaving a balance due the towns of $174,561.86.

Plea of Self-Defense.

Dover, Me., Nov. 18.—The government has completed the presentation of its evidence in the Peters murder trial and the opening argument for the defense was made. On a plea of self-defense defendant's counsel will attempt to prove that the shooting was necessary to protect Peters from bodily harm, and that it was not accompanied by malice or attempt to kill. It will also be claimed that Peters was badly injured by Smart before the shooting.

About Time.

London, Nov. 18.—The Berlin correspondent of The Times says: The German attempts to deny the significance of the Anglo-American friendship are now being abandoned. There are certain imponderabilia, to use an expression of Bismarck's, which the citizens of both countries, residing abroad, have already begun to appreciate, as the first proofs of the united influence of the two powers in the affairs of the world.

Lost Two Men.

New York, Nov. 18.—A message was received here yesterday saying that the four-masted schooner Talofa, from Guantanamo for Port Tampa, in ballast, had been totally wrecked on Cozumel island, off the coast of Yucatan, and that the captain and seven of the men had arrived at Progreso, two of the men having been drowned. The Talofa belonged to Arthur Sewell & Co., and hailed from Bath, Me.

Found In Manchester.

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 18.—The police last evening located Warren Tuesley, who, with his little 6-year-old daughter, disappeared from his home in Andover on Nov. 9. Tuesley has made eccentric trips of this sort before, but not with his child. He walked here from Andover. The child's mother became worried about her, and search was instituted.

Keel Crushed.

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 18.—Schooner Mabel D. Hinds, bound home from the grand banks, with 200,000 codfish, while entering the harbor last night, ran ashore on Ten Pound island ledge. Tug Eveleth succeeded in hauling her off and getting her on the marine railway. Her keel was badly crushed and she sustained other minor damage.

Effect of Canadian Tariff Law Giving Great Britain Preference.

Americans Want Abolition of Preferential Rates.

Reciprocity and the Fisheries Question Considered by the Commissioners.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The Anglo-American commission, now in session here to adjust differences between the United States and Canada, held a lengthy session yesterday upon the two subjects which are regarded as of most importance, namely, the North American fisheries and reciprocity.

The fisheries question was practically taken up for the first time, and it was quite definitely understood that the position of the Canadian government was made clear as favorable to granting enlarged rights to American fishermen in Canadian waters of the North Atlantic if in return Canadian fish are admitted free of duty to American market. It is expected that this will open up a wide range of discussion, and an immediate adjustment is not looked for.

Concerning reciprocity, it has now developed that while some progress is being made in considering certain articles which will be the basis of reciprocity, yet the American commissioners are likely to insist as a preliminary to any reciprocity that Canada shall wipe out that feature of her tariff law which gives Great Britain a preference of 25 percent on all tariff duties.

If this concession is made by Canada and conceded by Lord Herschell, who is looking after the interests of Great Britain, then it is said a reciprocity list probably will be agreed upon. Without the abolition of preferential rates to Great Britain the opinion is positively expressed that a reciprocity agreement cannot be reached.

The reason for this, it is pointed out, is that the Canadian law giving Great Britain preference within the last year has diverted trade from the United States and turned it into British channels. The effect has been to reduce materially the sales of American cotton goods, hardware and other lines in Canada and to increase the sales of British goods.

The debate thus far has encouraged the American commissioners to believe that they will succeed in having this preferential wiped out.

The fisheries question is of long standing, and, aside from its importance to the commerce of the New England and Canadian coast, it is said to give the basis for a possible serious conflict between this country and Great Britain. Canada of late has intimated that in case the question remained open, recourse might be taken to the seizure of American fishing vessels in Canadian waters. This doubtless would lead to serious international complications.

The members of the commission are therefore exceedingly anxious to secure a settlement of this question. It is understood that there is some likelihood of a commission of American, Canadian and English lawyers being appointed to determine the meaning of the treaty of 1818, which governs these fishery rights. The suggestion of this international body has come, it is understood, from Lord Herschell. Should such a body be appointed, it would do away with the chance of any collision occurring between the Canadian officials and American fishing vessels during the approaching fishing season.

Praise For Chamberlain.

London, Nov. 18.—The Times editorially this morning hails Joseph Chamberlain as the "apostle of better understandings with the United States and Germany," adding that it rejoices that, in view of the part the United States are likely to play in the far east, a cause of possible irritation has been removed by Emperor William's change of plans as to his homeward journey. With regard to Anglo-American co-operation in the far east, The Times says: Its effectiveness will largely depend upon our ability to do our own share of the work and to protect our own interests without calling upon our friends.

For Kidnapping a Girl.

Cleveland, Nov. 18.—An indictment was returned by the grand jury yesterday against Frank A. Magowan, his wife, Helen, and her sister, Mrs. Constance Winn, who abducted Edith B. Barnes, the daughter of Mrs. Magowan and her former husband, John A. Barnes, from a school in this city Wednesday. A telegram was sent to the chief of police at Erie, Pa., where the three kidnappers were arrested, with the child in their possession, informing him of the indictment. Requisition papers are being prepared. The three prisoners were held in $1000 bail each at Erie.

After a Rape Fiend.

Cincinnati, Nov. 18.—Great indignation and excitement prevails at Madisonville, one of the aristocratic suburbs of this city. As Susan Williams, a white girl, 16 years old, was riding on horseback into Madisonville last evening, she was stopped, pulled from her horse and outraged by an unknown negro. Officers and citizens with bloodhounds are scouring the country for the negro. If he is caught and identified a lynching is probable.

"Don" Is Dead.

Hingham, Mass., Nov. 18.—John C. Gardner, clerk of the board of selectmen, assessors and overseers of the poor, died yesterday of typhoid pneumonia. He was very popular and had quite a reputation among the suburban press as a witty correspondent, contributing many articles under the non de plume of "Don." He was a Mason and Odd Fellow. He was 59 years old.

Good Afternoon.

Mayor Sears when interviewed this morning on the result of the caucuses Thursday night expressed himself as very much pleased at the result. It was also very gratifying to him to receive the endorsement from many who a year ago were his opponents. During the past few days he has received many kind letters from rich and poor alike endorsing the clean and business-like administration which he has given the city since assuming office and the result of the caucuses was the very best evidence that the citizens as a whole have endorsed his administration.

Mayor Sears is to be congratulated upon his handsome victory at Wollaston last evening. The majority was far ahead of what the most sanguine Sears men dared to anticipate. If the ward will do as handsomely by him on election day his reelection is assured.

President Pinkham of the Council is also open to congratulations. He was not downed so easily as was anticipated in some quarters. Mr. Pinkham has made an ideal presiding officer and well deserves the handsome vote which he received.

Councilman Jameson can read his title clear for another year.

Rally for Co. K.

Several more contributions for a Thankgiving dinner for Co. K are acknowledged today, but their should be a little more interest especially among parents and intimate friends of our boys at the front.

A lady writes: "Will not friends who wish to be sure that a dandy dinner is to be a part of the holiday for our boys in camp so far away, open their hearts and purses today, so that the committee in charge can send the money to get a good dinner, on Monday next?

Dimes and nickles, if there are many, will help, and we wish our school boys who have been taught to "salute the flag" would somehow scrape together some dimes or coax it from maternal and paternal pockets tonight. If it goes too late, our dinners at home will lose a flavor that cannot be made up. So, send in your Thanksgiving offering, large or small, tomorrow, in order that bacon, hard bread and other daily food may be exchanged for more seasonable fare next Thursday, and that Quincy boys may know we appreciate the good record they are making."

ALL FOR SEARS.

Republicans Handsomely Endorse the Mayor.

Delegates of Five of the Wards Favorable to Him.

His Renomination May be Made Unanimous.

It is generally conceded that delegates favorable to Mayor Russell A. Sears were elected in five of the six wards of the city at the Republican caucuses Thursday evening. In Wards One, Three and Five where there was some opposition Mr. Sears won out handsomely. While it has been generally admitted that Ward Four delegates are against the Mayor, it would not be suprising in view of the endorsement in all the other wards, that the renomination is unanimous. The convention will be held next Tuesday evening in the Music hall annex.

WARD ONE.

The Centre ward had a rousing caucus and gave Mayor Sears a handsome endorsement. There were cast 374 ballots, and the delegates favorable to His Honor led the opposition nearly two to one.

A. G. Dolliver read the call and was elected chairman against his wishes. The position of secretary also went begging, but Herbert Pratt was prevailed upon to accept it. The chairman and secretary were authorized to appoint tellers and Messrs. Lowe, Holt, Baxter, Adams, Goodridge and Bent served.

The balloting began at 6.10, when a large number were in waiting, and there was continuous voting almost until nine o'clock, when the polls closed. Several times all the booths were full.

The high man of the Sears delegation had 225 votes and the high man of the opposition 142. The present Councilmen were all renominated as expected, and the Ward Committee was selected regardless of contest from the two lists.

The result of the ballot was:

WARD TWO.

In the Quincy Point ward there was no contest, but there was a representative caucus, as 91 voted. There was no opposition list either for delegates, Councilmen, School Committee or Ward Committee, and the following who were elected polled practically the full strength:

School Committee,—Fred H. Smith.

T. H. Newcomb called the caucus to order and was elected chairman with John S. Gay as clerk. Chairman Newcomb appointed the following caucus officers: Eugene C. Hultman, Michael T. Good, Maurice Newcomb and George Weston.

WARD THREE.

The Republicans of South Quincy have held many largely attended caucuses but that of Thursday evening carried off the honors of being the largest in the memory of the oldest inhabitants. There were no contests over Councilmen or School Committee, but there were two lists of delegates to the Mayoralty conventions, one headed by Julius Johnson and one for Mayor Sears, and there was a contest over the selection of a ward committee.

The caucus was held in Doble's hall and from the time the polls opened until 8.30 it was almost impossible to move, the voters being jammed into the room and entrance like sardines. When once a voter had succeeded in getting behind the rail his trials were not over, for he had to wait his turn at the booths, and after marking and depositing his ballot it was next to impossible to get out. One citizen declared that it took him fifteen minutes from the time he deposited his ballot to get through the crowd into the street. But best of all, it was a good natured crowd and all took the pushing and squeezing good naturedly.

About 8.30 it was seen that the caucus was runnnig short of official ballots and Chairman Bigelow announced the fact with the statement that sample ballots would be sandwiched in. A hustle was then made among the crowd and all ballots possible collected. The total vote was 307 and the result was a rousing victory for Mayor Sears.

W. T. Spargo called the meeting to order and John P. Bigelow was elected chairman and John C. Murray, secretary. The remaining caucus officers were appointed as follows: John C. McGowan, Alexander Clark, Harry S. Nicol, Walter Dunbar, John J. Roberts, Daniel McLenon and W. T Spargo.

Counting was commenced early and at 10 o'clock the result was announced as follows:

Councilmen—John L. Johnson, Daniel McLennan and Harry S. Nicoll.

School Committee,—Mabel E. Adams.

WARD FOUR.

At West Quincy 66 votes were polled. There was no opposition list for any of the officers, but there was a quiet attempt to place E. J. Sandberg on the Ward Committee and Nathan Ames was selected as the target.

Mr. Ames received 35 votes and Mr. Sandberg 25. All other candidates polled nearly the full strength and the following were the choice:

Delegates,—John Williams, Thomas F. Burke, Henry F. Geer, John Anderson, Sante Eliason.

Councilmen,—Michael Owens, Mayo P. Fuller and John Evans.

T. H. Burke was chairman of the caucus and Nathan Ames secretary. The result was promptly announced at the close of the polls.

WARD FIVE.

The Wollaston caucus was called to order a 7.30 o'clock by Chairman Freeman of the Ward and City Committee. He was elected permanent chairman and Mr. Herbert W. Pinkham was elected secretary.

The caucus authorized the chairman to appoint the tellers. He appointed the following to act as tellers, and to receive, sort and count the ballots—James S. Whiting, chairman, Frank W. White, George E. Thomas, Edgar A. King, Justin F. Emery and the secretary of the caucus. 238 ballots were cast. The result was announced at 10.15 o'clock.

The Sears delegation was overwhelmingly elected, running about 90 ahead of the "Anti" ticket.

On the vote for Councilman, Mr. Pinkham ran ahead of the other candidates from 94 down to 12.

The vote was as follows, those names marked with an * denoting election:

Against the Renomination of Russell A. Sears—Charles M. Bryant 71, John H. Whitehead 63, Walter M. Hatch 65, Walter J. Wellington, 67, James C. Bates 63, Theodore C. Gram 66, James H. Lewis 65.

Councilmen — Edward E. Jameson *175, Walter S. Pinkham *187, Charles M. Bryant *135, Eugene F. De Normandie 93.

Ward Committee—Eugene H. Sprague *207, Edward E. Jameson *204, Richard R. Free-

CRISP LOCAL NOTES.

All Up-to-Date Lively, Sparkling and Bright.

Will it be Eaton vs. Sears?

Rainy weather continues.

Democratic caucuses this evening.

It was a great victory for Mayor Sears.

Both parties will hold their conventions before Thanksgiving.

Stephen Anderson of Robertson street is seriously ill at his home.

Have you made your offering for the Co. K Thanksgiving dinner?

The Whatsoever Ten, King's Daughters of Wollaston, netted about $35 at their sale.

Mr. Charles E. Snow of Wollaston has moved to his house on Howard avenue, Quincy Neck.

The Bay View Social club held a largely attended social dance Thursday evening at Hancock hall.

The Dreyfus shirt factory on Washington street now employ sixty girls, and there is work for others.

Haverhill has just passed a curfew law. So have Cambridge and Chelsea. When will our Council pass one of these much needed ordinances?

The letters from Co. K are missed but the boys are on the move and travelling from home and the Ledger correspondent is undoubtedly busy.

Councilman and Mrs. Elisha Packard missed their son so much after his departure for school at Greenwich, R. I., that Mr. Packard went for him.

The Euterpe Mandolin, Banjo and Harp club gave an excellent concert Thursday evening in Bethany chapel. Encores were demanded for each number.

The age of Peter F. Farrell will be tolled on the fire alarm tomorrow morning during the funeral services. Mr. Farrell was an old fireman; age 56 years.

B. J. Weeks, Benjamin Johnson, Jr., J. P. Sears, George Richards and B. T. Dyer have just returned from a trip through New Hampshire and Maine. It is said that they bought up all the street railways.

Tickets for the People's Course are now on sale at A. A. Linscott's. In view of the popularity of the course last year it would be wise to select reserve seats early. With the exception of the Salem Cadet band, all the entertainments will be new this year.

The caucuses did not interfere with the attendance at the Grand Army fair Thursday night, as much as did the weather. There was a good sized crowd present, although not as large as on previous nights. The entertainment was in charge of the Sons of Veterans.

The Lady Foresters of St. Francis court held a very large and a very pretty chrysanthemum party Thursday evening at St. Mary's hall. The hall was decorated with potted plants and clusters of chryanthemums, and each of the ladies and gentlemen present wore chrysanthemums.

Last week one of T. D. Baker & Co.'s ponderous market wagons could be seen standing in front of Tirrell & Sons works, after receiving a new coat of paint and being put in perfect repair. So much pleased were the firm with the work that they immediately placed an order for two new wagons to be built. This speaks well for the house and work they do.

The Harvard seniors have elected their class day officers and Quincy is honored by the selection of the secretary. The Transcript says, Arthur Adams, the secretary, has been very popular with his fellows during his college course, as instanced by his being the first man in his class to be elected to the "Dickey." He belongs to many other college societies, including Hasty Pudding and Alpha Delta Phi.

Little Miss Maud Craig observed her ninth birthday anniversary Thursday evening by entertaining twenty or more of her young friends at her home on Franklin street. The evening proved a source of great enjoyment to the young people who passed the few hours in happy childhood games. During the evening a tempting supper was served. Miss Maud was presented with a number of pleasing remembrances.

There is considerable kicking amongst the undertakers at the inconvenience they are often times put in procuring burial permits. If City Clerk Cleaves could have the issuance of them as formerly the difficulty would be obviated. At present they are issued by the Secratary of the Board of Health, and being a physician it often times takes hours to locate him and secure the document. In the meantime there is considerable delay to the annoyance of out of town undertakers who have business with the city as well as by our local firms.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to S, and today's instalment is the fourth of the Ts:

ALL BY THEMSELVES,

Colored Regiments Will Be Separated From Whites and Cubans.

General Wood Is Introducing Needed Reforms.

Preliminary Labors of Evacuation Commissioners Practically Completed.

Santiago, Nov. 18.—General Wood has instructed General Evers, who is in command of the brigade of negro regiments at San Luis, where the drunken affray occurred Monday night, to move the camp five miles out from the town. It is probable that one of the regiments will be sent to an island near the entrance of Santiago harbor, where there are no inhabitants.

Some of the local papers continue to abuse the Americans, catering to the lower elements and striving to create a feeling hostile to America. The better class of Cubans, of course, regret the affray, and consider the presence of negro regiments here unfortunate; but they do not exaggerate the outrage after the fashion of the sensational press.

The United States transport Port Victor, Captain Brickley, arrived at Santiago yesterday, en route for Ponce, with United States troops aboard. Captain Brickley reports that while passing near San Salvador island (Watling's island) he saw a large ship bottom upwards, which he almost ran into. Owing to the darkness he could not discover whether she was a sailing vessel or a steamer.

General Wood has temporarily suspended foreclosure proceedings, owing to the fact that the money "sharks" have been trying to force the collection of small amounts loaned during the war. He believes that the mortgages should have a reasonable time to redeem.

Having satisfied himself of the incompetency of the staff of meat and slaughter-house inspectors that held over from the old regime, General Wood has dismissed the whole force and appointed new inspectors.

Now that the cooler weather has set in, a general order directing regular drills has been issued.

At Guantanamo Mayor Perez now seems to be making an earnest effort to disband his former Cuban troops. Yesterday one man refused to lay down his arms, and drew his weapon on a Cuban officer, who promptly killed him in self-defense. The incident has had a good moral effect, and the others of Perez's former command are now voluntarily relinquishing their arms, preparatory to disbandment.

As previously cabled from Havana, the date for the Spanish evacuation has been definitely settled as Jan. 1. All the Spanish troops then remaining in the island will be quartered, under the protection of the United States, in camps especially designated, pending embarkation for Spain.

The stenographic report of Wednesday's joint session of the evacuation commissioners was signed yesterday by the Spaniards, the Americans having previously attached their signatures. Nothing was definitely settled regarding the question of fixed and movable property, and it is understood that the subject will be referred to the respective governments for consideration. The Spanish troops will carry their small arms, colors, field pieces and the entire equipment of an army in the field.

The landing place at Marianao was yesterday turned over officially to General Humphreys, who is the ranking chief quartermaster of the United States troops in the island. A depot for quartermasters' stores will be erected there. The pier and wharf were inspected by General Greene, General Humphreys and Colonel Hecker, who expressed themselves as satisfied with the work.

In the course of the next fortnight work will begin, under Colonel Hecker's directions, upon a railroad from Casa Blanca, on the east side of Havana bay, to Guanabacoa, where it will connect with the tracks of the United railroad, thus facilitating the transportation of commissary supplies.

Next Sunday Colonel Hecker and Captain Crawford will go to Matanzas, pushing on later to Cardenas, Sagua la Grande and Cienfuegos. Colonel Hecker goes in his capacity of chief of transportation to make arrangements with the various railroads.

General Greene will personally lay out the camps on each side of the Vento water works, beginning work immediately upon the arrival of the first cargo of timber, which will be unloaded at Marianao Beach. The building of a railroad from Havana bay to Guanabacoa indicates that the Marianao landing place is to be only a temporary makeshift.

Manuel Sanguilly of the special commission from the Cuban assembly at Santa Cruz del Sur, who left Wednesday for the United States, was followed yesterday by his colleagues, who went by the Seguranca. General Calixto Garcia, at Captain General Blanco's suggestion, was taken by a tug from Marianao beach to the Ward liner. This was to prevent any demonstration such as might have ensued had the Cuban special commissioner passed through Havana. Many went on board the Seguranca to say farewell, and to wish the commissioners success at Washington. No Cuban flags, however, were displayed in the harbor, and there was no disorder of any kind. General Garcia said that he and his associates on the commission were very sanguine as to the outcome of their expected interview with President McKinley.

May Do Garrison Duty.

Boston, Nov. 18.—A Washington special to The Herald says: The Sixth Massachusetts regiment will not be mustered out of the service as it was officially stated would be done when the regiment was ordered home from Porto Rico. An announcement was made by Adjutant General Corbin. At the end of the 60-day furlough the regiment will probably be ordered to hold itself in readiness for garrison duty in Cuba. A press representative interviewed Lieutenant Colonel Ames at Lowell early this morning, relative to the above report. "I have no official knowledge of any such order," replied the lieutenant colonel. "On the contrary, I have reason to believe that the report is untrue. Nov. 3 we were furloughed for 60 days, and a furlough is a furlough. In my opinion, the peace negotiations will be completed by Jan 1, and the mustering out process will begin immediately afterward. It is possible that the Sixth Massachusetts may be called to do garrison duty later."

In Winter Camp.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 18.—The last regiment of the troops intended for Augusta entered the winter camp at Monto Zano Heights yesterday. The commands in camp here are from Ohio, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota and Pennsylvania. No intimation of an early move to Cuba has been received by any of the officers.

In Gotham Today.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The war investigation commission adjourned at 4 o'clock yesterday to meet in New York today. After concluding the work in New York the commission will proceed to Boston, and returning, will stop at Philadelphia to make certain inquiries there. It is also expected that a number of witnesses will be called after the return to Washington, and if the commission does not go to Cuba some persons there will be asked to come here. General Denby will remain in Washington while the other members are absent and will take the testimony of such persons as may ask to be heard.

Will Soon Be In Cuba.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The movement of United States troops to Havana province will begin within 10 days. The occupation of Cfenfuegos is also receiving attention. General Snyder will command the first brigade which lands in that province. He will be followed soon afterwards by Major General Wilson and the First corps. Nothing has been heard of the detachments of the Eighth calvary which sailed for Neuvitas and Puerto Principe, for there is no telegraph communication with that part of the island.

Coming to Their Senses.

Madrid, Nov. 18.—Almost all the papers deprecate the dilatory proceedings at Paris, expressing their belief that the United States will decline arbitration and urging the government to yield quickly, since it is impossible for Spain to renew the struggle or to expect European assistance, and, furthermore, because it would be better to cease wasting money and to concentrate action upon Spain's domestic affairs and the rest of her finances.

Not Complimentary to Aguinaldo.

Manila, Nov. 18.—Rev. Mr. McKinnon, an American chaplain, contradicts the statements made by Aguinaldo regarding insurgents' treatment of their prisoners. The chaplain and others have seen the insurgents ill-treating prisoners, including women.

Deignan Honored.

Des Moines, Nov. 18.—The Grant club of this city banquetted Osborn W. Deignan of the Merrimac crew last evening. After the banquet the feature of the evening was the introduction of a memorial to congress by John Herriot, treasurer of the state. The preamble to this memorial calls attention to the recognition which the Merrimac crew has been given, and says that it is of special pride to Iowans that the man who steered the Merrimac was an Iowa boy. It states that it is Deignan's desire to enter the naval academy at Annapolis, but he is prevented by age requirements. The resolution asks congress to pass a special act to permit Deignan to enter the academy. The resolution was adopted with cheers. Appropriate speeches were made.

Mountain Out of Molehill.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The feature of yesterday's session of the Knights of Labor convention was an attack on Grand Master Workman Hicks by a New York delegate, who charged that the grand master had admitted an outsider to a meeting of the order in contravention of the constitution. When the delegates learned that the outsider was Mrs. Hicks, who chanced to be present during a part of the meeting simply because it was held at the residence of Mr. Hicks, they quickly disposed of the grievance. The other business of the day was almost entirely of a routine character.

Will Get Their Money.

Boston, Nov. 18.—Judge Knowlton, in the supreme court yesterday, decided that the claim of Messrs. Morse, Peach, Perrin, Allen and Bragg, the commissioners appointed by the governor to investigate the affairs of the Massachusetts Benefit association, should be allowed to share pro rata with the other claims for ordinary debts in the funds in the hands of the receivers of the association. The total commissioners' bill is $5142, being for their expenses and services, and they claimed that it should be allowed as a preferred claim and given priority over other claims in payment.

Bid For Wealthy Residents.

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 18.—Governor Smith's special taxation bill passed the house yesterday. It provides for a board of tax examiners who are empowered to make an agreement as to taxes with non-residents who will enter the state and reside here for a period not to exceed 30 years. The object of the measure is to induce wealthy people who in other states have been burdened to enter Vermont under a contract that their taxes will not be above a specified amount for a specified period.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:40; sets, 4:19.
Moon sets—10:32 p. m.
Full sea—3 a. m.; 3:15 p. m.

Though threatening weather and light rain prevailed on the coast from Maine to Florida yesterday, the center of the storm had disappeared seaward. While other unsettled conditions in the west will extend to New England by Saturday, causing partly cloudy weather, the day seems most likely to be without rain, except, possibly, in northern parts. It will probably be slightly warmer, with winds becoming more southerly.

ENORMOUS GOLD BALANCE.

Imports For Ten Months Exceed the Record by Fifty Percent.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The importations of gold into the United States in the year 1898 are by far the largest ever known, and the exportations the smallest in many years, while the production of gold from our own mines will prove the largest in the history of the country. The October statement of imports and exports, just issued by the treasury bureau of statistics, shows that the total imports in the 10 months, ending Oct. 31, 1898, are $243,658,095, which is more than 50 percent in excess of the amount imported in the corresponding period of any preceding year. The exports during that time have been but $14,061,849, which is less than in the corresponding months for more than 10 years past. This gives the enormous balance of $129,596,246 of gold importations in excess of gold exportations.

This unprecedented flow of gold into the United States is accounted for, in part at least, by the enormous balance of trade in our favor during the 10 months just past. In that period the total imports of merchandise amounted to but $527,757,554, while the total exports were $987,964,356, a balance in our favor of $460,206,802. The total exports of merchandise for the month of October, 1898, amounted to $118,686,232, a sum larger than in any preceding October in the history of the country, the figures for October, 1897, being $111,744,517, and those for October, 1896, $113,516,586.

President Dwight Resigns.

New Haven, Nov. 18.—At the meeting of the corporation of Yale university late yesterday afternoon, President Timothy Dwight presented his resignation. The resignation is to take effect at the end of this university year. The corporation requested President Dwight to delay his retirement until October, 1901. President Dwight, however, insisted upon his resignation at the time stated, and the matter was referred to a special committee to report at a meeting of the corporation to be held on Dec. 31. President Dwight says he resigns because he has reached the age of 70, and wishes to retire from active work. Professor George J. Brush, director of Sheffield scientific school, also presented his resignation. It was accepted and Professor Brush was appointed professor emeritus. Professor R. H. Chittenden was elected as Director Brush's successor.

No Outside Help Wanted.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 18.—A statement is made on the very best authority to the effect that no other than Marlboro people will be employed in the factories which are now under the ban. It is said that a man offered to bring the S. H. Howe Shoe company 25 shoemakers, who would go to work at once at the prevailing prices, but Mr. Howe refused to make such a bargain, saying that his shop would only open with Marlboro workmen, and according to the sign posted in the building. This is interpreted to mean that a free shop is anticipated. Mr. Howe has received an offer to open a shop in another town, but, after consideration, he has decided not to do so. The manufacturers claim to be perfectly satisfied with the present state of affairs, having received many applications for positions in their shops.

Mishap to Flagship.

Shanghai, Nov. 18. — The German armored cruiser Kaiser, flagship of the squadron under command of Prince Henry of Prussia, in Chinese waters, is ashore in Sameah bay. The other vessels of the squadron are assisting to get her off. It is believed that the Kaiser has not suffered serious injury. The Kaiser, which was built and launched in England in 1874 and refitted in 1894, has a displacement of 7676 tons. She is 292 feet long, more than 62 feet in the beam, and has a draught of nearly 25 feet. Her indicated horse power is 5700. Her speed is 14.6 knots, her complement 668 men, and her armament eight 10.2-inch, one 5.9-inch, six 4-inch, nine 3.4-inch quick-firing guns, two Maxims and two light guns. She is fitted with seven torpedo tubes.

Next Convention In Seattle.

St. Paul, Nov. 18.—A meeting of the post executive committee of the W. C. T. U., to which various matters of business were referred by the convention, was held here yesterday Seattle was decided upon as the next place for holding the convention. President Stevens announced that Miss Powderly, the stenographer who served Miss Willard for 14 years, would be retained in her position. It was announced by the president that she would remain at headquarters in Chicago until Christmas and would then divide her time between her home in Portland, Me., and Chicago.

Money For Red Men.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The court of claims yesterday rendered a judgment of $1,961,400 in favor of the Seneca and Tonawanda Indians who entered suit against the United States to recover the value of certain lands donated to them in Kansas as a reservation, but never occupied by them, and subsequently disposed of by the United States. The award is in pursuance of a mandate from the United States supreme court. The case has been pending in the courts about five years.

Pawtucket Launched.

Vallejo, Cal., Nov. 18.—The United States tug Pawtucket was launched at the Mare island navy yard yesterday in the presence of thousands of spectators. The Pawtucket is 102 feet long, of 225 tons and is expected to develop 450 horse power. She will make 12 knots an hour. She will be ready for commission by Jan. 1.

From the Frozen North.

Waterville, Me., Nov. 18.—A letter just received from Robert E. Peary by Dr. J. F. Hill states that in all probability no message will be received from him for several years. The Hope cleared the ice fields all right, but Lieutenant Peary expresses fears that the Windward may be delayed by the ice closing in.

WHAT DO THE CHILDREN DRINK?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee but costs about 1-4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

A PECULIAR REMEDY.

The Rev. F. I. Bell, a highly esteemed minister residing in Weedsport, Cayuga Co., N. Y., in a recent letter writes as follows: "There has never been anything that I have taken that has relieved the Dyspepsia from which I have suffered for ten years except the new remedy called Stuart's Dyspepsia tablets. Since taking them I have had no distress at all after eating and again after long years can sleep well. Rev. F. I. Bell, Weedsport, N. Y., formerly, Idlaia, Colo.

Stuart's Tablets is a remarkable remedy, not only because it is a certain cure for all forms of indigestion, but because it seems to act as thoroughly in old chronic cases of dyspepsia well as in mild attacks of indigestion or biliousness. A person has dypepsia simply because the stomah is overworked, all it wants is a harmless, vegetable remedy to digest the food and thus give it the much needed rest.

This is the secret of the success of this peculiar remedy. No matter how weak or how much disordered the digestion may be, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. New life and energy is given not only to the stomach but to every organ and nerve in the body. A trial of this splendid medicine will convince the most skeptical that Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles can be cured. The tablets are prepared by the F. A. Stuart Co., of Marshall, Mich., but so popular has the remedy become that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can now be obtained at any drug store at 50 cents per package. Send for book on stomach diseases free. 3t 14-16-18.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

CANCER CURED

BY ABSORPTION
NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

The Social Realm.

How foolish is the pessimist,
Despondent and forlorn,
Who always, when he gets a rose,
Goes hunting for the thorn.
The optimist has better sense;
The charm of life he knows.
He doesn't mind a scratch or two,
If he can get the rose.
So do not be a pessimist,
Cankered with discontent;
The optimist has heaps of fun
That doesn't cost a cent.

Rev. W. H. Pratt of Jamestown, N. Y., has been visiting his mother at Weymouth the past week.

Keith's New theatre looked very festive last night, the boxes being beautifully decorated with vines, garlands of pink satin ribbon and bunches of pink chrysanthemums in honor of the Woman's Press club. Mr. Keith extended an invitation to the club to visit his theatre and reserved all the boxes for their use. The club color, pink, was used on the handsomely engraved invitations and in the decorations, a very pretty compliment on Mr. Keith's part. At the close flash light photographs were taken of the guests in the boxes, thus ending a very enjoyable evening. Among those from Quincy who accepted Mr. Keith's hospitality were, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop and Mrs. Mary A. Lincoln of Wollaston and Miss Annie Lincoln Prescott.

Mrs. Charles H. French of Holbrook is to spend the winter with her daughter Mrs. William H. Doble.

Mr. and Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth tendered an informal reception Thursday from four to nine o'clock to their friends, which was a very enjoyable occasion. About 125 braved the inclement weather, some coming from Boston, Brookline, Dorchester, Milton and Hingham. Mrs. Walter T. Babcock assisted in receiving. In the afternoon Miss Mary Gannett and Miss Zayma King poured, and in the evening Miss Marion Whiton and Miss Wadsworth. It was a pleasure to many to meet the father of the bride, Rev. Edward Anderson, and the parents of the groom, County Commissioner and Mrs. E. D. Wadsworth of Milton.

Family reunions and home parties will be the rule rather than the exception next week and many of our people are planning to entertain while others are to go home to the old home and the "old folks."

ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

Democratic Caucuses Are Largely Attended.

All Delegates Unpledged and Preference Unknown.

Unexpected Nominations for the City Council.

Democratic ward caucuses were held throughout the city last evening and were better attended than in past years. The delegates elected to the Mayoralty convention of next Tuesday are unpledged and as far as known have no united preference in any ward. Surprises came in the nomination of complete tickets for ward Councilmen, only one having been nominated in Ward One and none in Ward Six.

WARD ONE.

There were just 27 ballots cast at the Ward One caucus, as the nominations offered no contests. However a nice point is involved over the nominations for the City Council from the ward. The call for the caucus read: "to nominate three Candidates for Councilmen from ward," but the ward committee had an understanding that only one should be nominated. Each of the 27 voters voted for one and the result was: 16 for John Swithin, 8 for Harold B. Faxon, and 3 for Daniel Desmond. It is said the caucus officers will certify to the nomination of the three.

Luke J. Coyle was chairman of the caucus and Walter M. Packard, secretary.

For delegates and ward committee there was some scratching and a few scattering votes, but the tickets as nominated were successful, viz:

Delegates to Mayoralty Convention,—Paul R. Blackmur, John T. Cavanagh, Jeremiah C. Dorgan, Thos. J. McGrath, Albert F. Schenkelberger, Edward Powers, Thomas McDonald, Fred B. Rice, Harold B. Faxon, Patrick F. Shea and Charles F. Adams, 2d.

Ward Committee,—Thomas J. McGrath, Jeremiah C. Dorgan, Philip D. Cook, Harold B. Faxon, Patrick F. Shea, Paul R. Blackmur, James E. Dunn, Joseph T. Welsh and John J. Fallon.

WARD TWO.

The caucus of the Quincy Point ward was held in the Hose house and was one of the largest attended Democratic caucuses this ward has ever seen. This was due to the attempt of the young element of the ward to force the old standbys to take a back seat, and to do this there were two lists for delegates and two for ward committee.

The total vote cast was 88, and the result showed that the young element was vanquished, the average vote for the delegates being 54 for the regulars, and 23 for the Bryan delegates. On the ward committee the average vote for the regulars was 58 and that of the Bryan list was 21.

But two Councilmen were nominated John J. Day declining to have his name used.

For school committee there was also no nomination as Mr. James F. Harlow declined to be a candidate.

Timothy J. Carey was chairman and W. H. Sullivan, secretary. The other caucus officers were James F. Kelley, Robert E. Foy, Joseph G. Kennedy and William F. Cain.

The vote of the ward was as follows, those with an asterisk being elected:

IN HIS OWN KITCHEN

An Aged Resident of Stoughton Held Up by Two Masked Men.

Got Pocketbook and Watch and Easily Escaped.

Evidence That They Were Acquainted With the Habits of Their Victim.

Stoughton, Mass., Nov. 19. — Two masked men entered the residence of Asa M. Woodbury on School street about 6 o'clock last evening, and seizing him by the throat robbed him of a pocketbook containing about $50 and his silver watch, then hastily decamped, overlooking a roll of $200 in bills which Mr. Woodbury had in another pocket. Mr. Woodbury, who was formerly road surveyor and keeper of the town almshouse, is about 65 years of age and quite feeble, having been ill for some time, and was unable to make a very determined resistance.

He was sitting in the kitchen, with his feet on the stove, when two men without overcoats, and each wearing a mask over his face, entered the door. One was tall, weighing about 175 pounds, while the other was short, and would not weigh over 125 pounds. Both were apparently young men.

The taller man grabbed Mr. Woodbury about the head and endeavored to blindfold him so he would not be able to identify them, while the shorter man went through his pockets. Mr. Woodbury made as desperate resistance as his enfeebled condition would permit, but was no match for the two able bodied robbers, who did with him as they pleased.

Mrs. Woodbury, who had been in another part of the house, was attracted by the noise of the encounter, and came into the room just as the men had finished their work and were leaving by the front door. As they passed out she heard one of them say, "Come on, Charlie."

They escaped in the darkness, and so far there is no trace of them or clue to their identity. It is believed, from the manner in which they went about their work, that they were acquainted with Mr. Woodbury and were familiar with his habits and knew where he carried his money. Mr. Woodbury was used rather roughly and is suffering considerably from the shock to his nervous system.

Trapped by Decoy Letter.

Waterville, Me., Nov. 19.—Anthony Comstock appeared before United States Commissioner Choate yesterday to prosecute Lysander W. Mason, Augusta, for alleged violation of the United States postal laws, in sending articles and advertisements through the mails which are prohibited by law. The offense is punishable by a fine of $5000 or imprisonment for five years, or both. Mason is said to have operated in Portland and Augusta under the name of Mrs. Dr. Landers, and was trapped by a decoy letter sent by Comstock from Summit, N. J. Mason waived examination and was bound over to the United States court in Portland.

Placed In Safe Quarters.

Boston, Nov. 19.—Thomas F. Charlton and John Ahern, the two young men who assaulted and robbed Jackson T. Dawson, superintendent of the Arnold arboretum, Nov. 4, were sentenced to state prison for a term of not less than 14 nor more than 18 years by Judge Stevens in the superior criminal court yesterday. Charlton is 22 years of age and Ahern is 21. The assault was exceptionally brutal, and the youth of the prisoners alone saved them from the maximum sentence for the crime, which is imprisonment for life.

Dr. Storrs Resigns.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 19.—The Amherst college trustees held their regular meeting in this city yesterday. Rev. Dr. Richard S. Storrs, one of the board of trustees, sent in his unconditional resignation. This he does because of failing health, which is obliging him to relinquish many of the important interests he has held in various institutions and educational matters. The trustees did not discuss the subject of a successor to President Gates, and state that the appointment will not be made until next March.

Passed Bad Bills.

Boston, Nov. 19.—George Badame, an alleged counterfeiter who was arrested Thursday on the charge of passing a $2 counterfeit bill, was identified by a Chelsea storekeeper yesterday as the man who passed a similar bill on him last Saturday. Federal authorities believe that they have captured one who knows considerable about a gang of counterfeiters. Commissioner Fiske thought the evidence sufficient on both cases and Badame was held for the grand jury in $500 in each case.

Unexpected Result.

Providence, Nov. 19.—Governor Dyer, Secretary of State Bennett, and Attorney General Tanner, acting as a board of canvassers, completed the count of the vote on the amendment to the state constitution yesterday. The official count was: Approved, 17,360; rejected, 13,510. The necessary three-fifths was not obtained, so the state will continue under the old constitution. The official count showed a gain for the "reject" instead of "approve," contrary to what has been anticipated.

No Developments.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 19.—As far as outward appearances go there is absolutely no change in the strike situation here. The manufacturers maintain the same position they have held from the outset, and the strikers show no disposition to yield upon any point. Mrs. Avery of Boston, the socialist leader, is desirous of addressing the strikers, but no arrangements have yet been made for such a meeting.

Government Contract Awarded.

Boston, Nov. 19.—Quartermaster Hyde has received notice from Washington that the contract for supplying the army depot in this city with 25,000 pairs of shoes has been awarded to Munroe, Packard & Linscott of Auburn, Me. The contract for supplying tents was given to S. S. Thorpe of New York. The contract for stockings has not yet been given out.

Was a Suicide.

Boston, Nov. 19.—The young woman who was found dying in the yard of Samuel Steinart, in the rear of 20 Laconia street, and in back of the Hotel Caprio at 5 p. m. Thursday, and who died later at the city hospital, committed suicide. There no longer remains any doubt in that direction, but her identity has not been established.

Beached For Safety.

Ellsworth, Me., Nov. 19.—Steamer Sebanoa, plying along the Maine coast from points between Calais and Rockland, ran into the lighthouse at Hancock point yesterday and was beached to save her. The few passengers and mails aboard were taken off by the steamer Hector. The damage to the Sebanoa is not yet known.

Had Spoken of Suicide.

Providence, Nov. 19.—Jason P. Stone, former councilman from ward 9 and until the early part of this year chairman of the board of canvassers and registration, died from asphyxiation by illuminating gas. Some of Mr. Stone's relatives said he had lately expressed his intention of killing himself.

The Presidential Turk.

Westerly, R. I., Nov. 19.—The president's turkey for his Thanksgiving dinner was dressed yesterday by Horace Vose, who has supplied the White House bird for 35 years. The turkey weighs 28½ pounds, and was shipped by express last night.

Refused to Produce Books.

Philadelphia, Nov. 19.—District Attorney Graham asked for and was granted attachments yesterday for the arrest for contempt of court of William Montgomery, cashier of the Alleghany National bank of Pittsburg, and Steven B. Stone, cashier of the Beaver Deposit bank of Beaver. In making the application, Mr. Graham stated that Montgomery and Stone had been subpenaed to appear before the grand jury to testify in the case of the commonwealth against United States Senator Quay, his son, R. R. Quay, and ex-State Treasurer Haywood, who are charged with conspiracy in the misuse of state funds. The subpenaes commanded the respondents to produce certain books of their respective banks before the grand jury, but they failed to appear.

McKinley, Alger and Roosevelt,

Indianapolis, Nov. 19.—The American Republican College league closed its seventh annual session yesterday. The league changed its constitution to provide that hereafter meetings shall be held biennially instead of annually, and to declare it to be a cardinal principle of the league to secure suffrage for students while they attend school. A resolution was adopted upholding Secretary Alger and denouncing "his villainous slanderers," also praising President McKinley, and endorsing "that gallant soldier, brilliant statesman and champion of clean and popular government, the type of American patriotism, Theodore Roosevelt," and demanding safe currency reform legislation and student suffrage.

"Comes to School Drunk."

New York, Nov. 19.—Little Tommy Callahan is only 6 years old, yet, according to reliable witnesses, he is not only a habitual toper, but can carry a "jag" with accomplished ease and skill. The boy was a prisoner in the Harlem police court yesterday. "He comes to school drunk," testified Miss Johnson, teacher in public school 86, who appeared as complainant. Mrs. Callahan declared the arrest of her son an outrage. He was never drunk, she said, but she did give him a drink of whisky occasionally because he was weak and sickly, and she thought it was good for him. On conflicting testimony, Magristrate Simms adjourned the case to enable Agent Moore to further investigate.

Young's Discovery.

Santiago, Nov. 19. Lieutenant Young of the Hist reports that it is practicable to raise the former Spanish cruiser Reina Mercedes, sunk on July 3 near the entrance of Santiago harbor during the engagement between Admiral Sampson's warships and the Spanish marine and land batteries. He found that she had been sunk by opening her sea valves; that her bottom is in other respects in good condition, and that by simply plugging the valves she can be easily pumped dry and raised. The hull is now resting upon the edge of the bank, with about 110 feet overhanging. A southwest gale would roll her into the channel, effectively blocking the entrance to the harbor.

Soldiers on Patrol Duty.

Pana, Ills., Nov. 19.—The town has been kept in terror by numerous encounters between negroes and striking miners. Both are heavily armed and use their ammunition freely. Deputy Sheriff Watts, while returning from the Springside mine last evening, was shot from ambush. The bullet took effect in his right arm, which had to be amputated. A number of residences were pierced by bullets, and those who are able to do so have sent their families to the country. The principal streets are patrolled by soldiers. It is stated that more troops will be sent here.

Twenty-Four Drowned.

Tacoma, Nov. 19.—The ship Atlanta was lost off the coast of Oregon yesterday. She left here last Saturday with $65,000 worth of wheat for Delago Bay, South Africa. She was in command of Captain Charles McBride of Greenock, Scotland, where he has a wife. The ship left here with 27 men, of whom but three were saved. The Atlanta was of only 1639 tons register. She was built in 1885, owned by N. Hill of Scotland, and worth probably $50,000. She was fleet and was built for a troop or passenger carrier from Great Britain to the British colonies.

To Pass by Big Cities.

Berlin, Nov. 19.—The news that Emperor William is to return to Potsdam by a roundabout route, without touching at Vienna or Berlin, has created a sensation in political circles, as it is interpreted as being a confirmation of the recent indications that the relations between Germany and Austria are less friendly than they have been. His majesty's avoidance of Berlin is supposed to be due to his displeasure at the abandonment of the projected festal reception.

A ROYAL SPORT.

WILD TURKEY SHOOTING AS IT USED TO BE.

Always Called Good Game—A Sly and Knowing Bird—Tricks of the Trade. How Turkeys Are Trapped—Benjamin Franklin's Idea of the Turkey.

The turkey, like Thanksgiving day, with which he is inseparably associated in the American mind, is, in the language of a proud Yankee, "one of the institootions." It had been domesticated and bred in the old world before the pilgrim fathers landed on Plymouth Rock, presumably by the Spaniards, who captured specimens in Mexico and transported them to Europe. In every part of the American continent except the frigid regions of the extreme north the earliest settlers found the turkey in its wild state. The species of fowl which was regarded as so toothsome at the first American Thanksgiving was the bird of today in his unenlightened condition.

The pioneers of all parts of the United States where there were extensive tracts of forest found wild turkeys in great abundance, and even in the days when deer were plentiful no hunter scorned this bird as unworthy of his prowess. Wild turkey hunting was and yet is a royal sport wherever the bird exists. He is considered noble game and, like the deer and the buffalo, has rapidly disappeared from many of his former haunts before the march of civilization. He is now seldom found in his native state except in the larger forests of the great north and northwest, the brush lands of Arkansas and the Indian territory and the jungles of semitropical Florida.

Within the memory of many sportsmen turkey hunting was considered great sport in southern Indiana and Illinois, and the writer, who is "one of the trade," has brought down more than one of the proud birds by the skillful use of his father's ancient, long barreled rifle. The methods of taking the turkey all require the exercise of ingenuity. The bird is timid and regards man as his natural enemy. It is and has been since the turkeys of the country first observed that a man with a gun produced great noise and much slaughter among them impossible to get near enough to render a shot certain of results without approaching the game under cover.

When turkeys were plentiful in the great wooded tracts of the Ohio and the Mississippi valleys, the hunters in the daytime sought for their roosts, which were easily found by means of the fæces. Then he concealed himself within easy range of the place and awaited sunset, when a large flock would approach the place and one by one fly up to the almost horizontal branches on which the birds prefer to roost. A shot at that time would put an end to the sport. The hunter must wait until the last of the flock has mounted the perch and the twilight has so deepened that he can but just fix by his vision the muzzle sight of his rifle in the little nick of the one nearer the breech. If he remains out of sight, he may be able to secure two or even three birds ere the darkness puts an end to his sport. Then he gathers up his game and goes home to return long before the cock crows, for at break of day his turkeys will leave that roost never to return. If he is careful, he may get two more of the flock as a result of his early morning visit.

Then comes another ruse of the hunter, by the skillful exercise of which he may be able to inveigle two or three more of the turkeys to their death. In the wing of each turkey is a hollow bone that can readily be transformed into a whistle, the note of which, when properly blown, very closely resembles the call of a turkey. Not far away and well concealed lies the "daylight murderer's accomplice." As soon after their flight from the perch as the turkeys discover that all has become quiet and the gobblers have mustered up a little courage, they begin calling for the purpose of collecting the remnant of the flock preparatory to a permanent departure from the scene of the massacre. The second hunter softly answers with his whistle, and the chances are great that he will by often responding to the inquiring cry lure the turkey within range of his gun. A sharp report, repeated over and again by the echoing hillsides, a flutter of wings in a death struggle on the ground, and the forest is again wrapped in silence.

After an hour of waiting the hunter sounds his call, then listens for a faint response. If none is heard, he ventures again. A third effort is likely to elicit an answer unless the turkeys have become so terrified by the last shot that by common impulse they have fled precipitately alone or in very small groups. If they have hidden themselves in clumps of bushes or the tops of fallen trees to which the withered foliage is still clinging, the hunter may get another shot.

The third method is to entrap the birds. A strong pen of logs or rails is erected in the wood, and a trench with an easy descent beneath the foundation piece is dug deep enough to admit the largest turkey without crowding. In the trench a little corn is strewn, and the turkeys walk along eating or looking for something to eat as they go until all of them are within the pen. Then they become alarmed and go tearing around the inclosure with their heads erect and chirping as loudly as they can.

They never lower their heads enough to discover that it is as easy for a sensible bird to get out as for a foolish one to get in, and as the pen is securely covered the turkeys remain there until the clever trapper comes and puts a peremptory end to their dire affright. Benjamin Franklin once deplored the fact that the turkey had not been selected as the bird of freedom, but it is probably best that the Yankees did not make this high headed, foolish creature the emblem of their liberty.—Jeweler.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 20—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—"Praise the Lord."—Ps. cxlvii, 1-20. (A Thanksgiving meeting.)

It is probable that this psalm was an anthem written for use in the second temple. It praises God for various attributes, but especially commemorates His goodness in bringing back His people from their captivity and rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem. "The Lord doth built up Jerusalem; He gathereth together the outcasts of Israel." This psalm suggests that we should—

1. Praise the Lord for spiritual blessings (verses 1-6). The greatest blessings that came as a result of the return from the captivity were the spiritual blessings, and the psalmist gives directly as a cause for praise to the Lord that "He healeth the broken in heart and bindeth up the wounds." God has given us great spiritual blessings in the past year, for which we should render thanks and praise unto Him. Skepticism and rationalism are on the decline, and an unusual interest is manifested in various ways in the highest and truest forms of spirituality. Today in the religious life of the world is pre-eminently the day of the Holy Ghost.

2. Praise the Lord for temporal blessings (verses 7-11). "Sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving * * * who covereth the heaven with clouds, who prepareth rain for the earth, who maketh the grass to grow upon the mountains. He giveth to the beast his food, and to the young ravens, which cry." God's providential care of both man and beast calls for our continual thanksgiving. Our country has been especially and wonderfully blessed in temporal blessing the past year. While some nations have suffered recently from failure of crops, our barns have been full and overflowing. This year has been no exception. Fruits abundant have been borne by our trees, and our fields have yielded unusual crops—causes of thanksgiving to God.

3. Praise the Lord for ecclesiastical blessings (verses 12-15). For protection, for blessing, for peace and plenty the church is called upon to praise the Lord. The church today richly and abundantly enjoys all these blessings. It has protection. It never was more secure from danger and harm. The children of the church have been abundantly blessed. The church has peace. It never had a more desirable peace. Ecclesiastical strifes and contentions have almost disappeared. It is the era of ecclesiastical good feeling, and Christian endeavor has done much to make it so.

4. Praise the Lord for national blessings (verse 20). "He hath not dealt so with any nation." The history of the past year again applies these words to our beloved nation. He hath given us a wonderful victory over our enemies at an unusually small cost, in an unexpectedly short time. For what greater blessings could we thank God as a nation than for decisive victory in war and a speedy peace?

Bible Readings. — Ps. xxxiv, 1-8; xlviii, 1; l, 14, 23; lxvi, 1, 2; lxxv, 1; lxxxi, 1-3; lxxxix, 1-7; xcii, 1-5; xcv, 1, 2; c, 1-5; ciii, 1-5; cvii, 1-8; II Cor. ix, 10-12; Phil. iv, 6; Col. ii, 6, 7; iv, 2; Rev. vii, 11, 12.

Not Under Control.

Sometimes at sea a ship is found flying the signal, "Not under control." That is a very terrible signal. So long as the machinery and rudder and the rigging are sound and the ship is under complete control she may weather the strongest gale, but now she lies helpless at the mercy of wind and wave. No rescuing ship even dare come very near, for "not under control" means that she is a menace to others as well as herself. So in life we find far too often a man whose conduct indicates that the forces of his life are not under control. That is a sad and dangerous condition, dangerous for himself and for those about him. Safely lies in keeping the elements of character so adjusted that they are always under control, that thus we may keep our manhood true to its divine course.—Universalist Leader.

Laziness of Mind.

There is a laziness of the mind as well as of the body. People loaf mentally as well as physically. One is to be despised quite as much as the other. The man or boy who sits about on street corners and in stores telling idle tales is no more a social nuisance than is he who dawdles over his studies or dreams away the hours wool gathering which should be employed in planning and thinking about the serious problems of life. The mind should be held quite as rigidly to discipline as the body, for an aimless, wandering, unappliable mind will destroy one's usefulness quite as much as a slothful, flabby, unskilled body.—Churchman.

Swearing.

General Washington, it is said, once uttered an oath, and his example is presented as an excuse for the profanity of other men, but with the statement General Washington's opinion of swearing should always be joined. He said, "This is a vice so mean and low, without any temptation, that every man of sense and character detests and despises it."—Congregationalist.

Mistakes.

People who make mistakes are those who quarrel with one another before their children or who allow the latter to grow up in idleness, those who talk about their troubles before strangers, the father who tells his children to go the way he does not go himself and the young woman who does not make a confidant of her mother.—Lutheran Observer.

Only One Design.

A sculptor has many models from which he chisels various statues, though one may be his masterpiece, but when I come into the Lord's studio I find only one design—that we should be made in the likeness of Jesus Christ.—Bishop Baldwin

ILOILO ALONE EXEMPT,

Insurgents Hold Balance of Island of Panay.

Navy Department Receives Unwelcome News From Dewey.

The Government Placed In a Peculiar Position.

Peace Commissioners Likely to Be Urged to Hasten the Negotiations.

Washington, Nov. 19.—The navy department yesterday received news from Admiral Dewey touching the situation in the Philippines. The admiral sent two of his warships, the Charleston and the Concord, some time ago, to the southward from Manila to ascertain whether there was any truth in the reports that the insurgents had extended their activities in that direction. Yesterday he cabled as follows:

Manila, Nov. 18.—Secretary of Navy, Washington: Charleston and Concord arrived today from Iloilo. Glass reports that the entire island of Panay is in possession of the insurgents, except Iloilo, which is defended by 800 Spanish troops. All foreign citizens there beg for American protection. The island of Negros has declared independence, and desires American protectorate. Dewey."

Glass is the commander of the Charleston. So far nothing has been done by the administration towards curbing the insurgents in their operations save verbal representations from the American commanders to Aguinaldo, in which it has been pointed out to him that it would be good policy, in view of the probability of the annexation of the islands to the United States, to pursue a course that would not be obnoxious to the United States. But the situation is now realized to be critical. So far as the Spaniards are concerned, perhaps they can be left to take care of themselves, but the foreign residents at Iloilo are differently regarded.

The difficulty in the situation is that, with the best intentions to intervene to protect the Europeans and other foreigners, and to save the city of Iloilo, the second in importance in the Philippine group, from looting, the United States forces appear to be stopped, under the rules of war, from moving from their positions. Such is the construction placed upon the clause in the protocol relating to a suspension of hostilities.

The immediate effect of this state of affairs may be to hasten action in the Paris conference, for it is only by the termination of that tribunal that the United States can come to the relief of the beleagured Spaniards in Iloilo, and at other points. It is said to be a fact, however, that a total disagreement at Paris may result in speedier action than if the commissioners agree upon the main principles of the Philippines cession, for in such case several additional sessions probably would be required in order to arrange the details of the treaty.

It is now thought to be certain that the commission at a meeting next Monday or Tuesday will either agree to the cession of the Philippines or note a disagreement to dissolve the meeting, for the administration is not disposed to tolerate further delay, and has so instructed the United States commissioners.

The latter sent a long cablegram yesterday in cipher. The deciphering occupied the whole official day, and meanwhile there were wild rumors touching the nature of its contents. As a matter of fact is was nothing more than an extremely verbose statement of the Spanish side of the case relating to the Philippines. There was a renewal of the attempt to take issue with the American contention as to the meaning of the protocol clause relative to the disposition of the Philippines, and much quibbling, accompanied by quotations from French, Spanish and other European languages, in the effort to demonstrate to the Americans just what an English word might mean.

The latter will take no notice of this kind of hair-splitting plea, but at today's meeting will call on the Spanish commissioners to make answer to the American proposition to cede the Philippines, probably allowing until Monday or Tuesday only for a final answer on that point.

To Investigate Accident.

New York, Nov. 19.—The cruiser Buffalo was brought to the navy yard by the tugs Nina, Narkeeta and Wampatuck, the last named having accompanied her from Newport. The vessel was brought back to investigate the accident which disabled her shortly after her departure from here on Nov. 4, and about which there was considerable mystery.

Off For Manila.

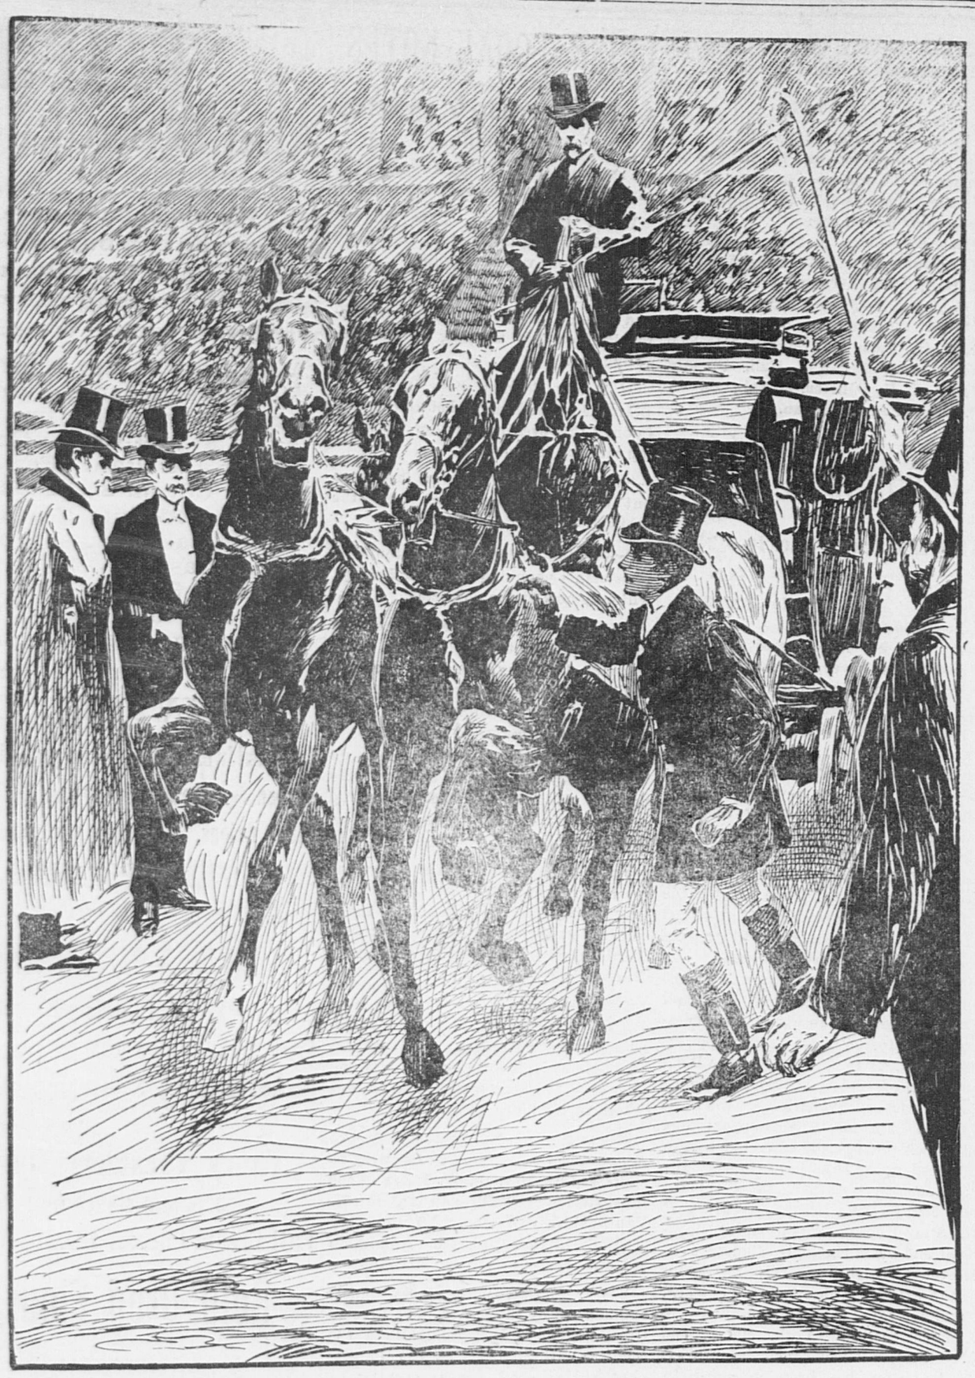
San Francisco, Nov. 19.—The transport St. Paul sailed yesterday for Manila, carrying thousands of packages of Christmas presents for the soldiers and sailors in the Philippines. A number of soldiers drafted to recruit companies now at Manila and 40 nurses sailed.

Hard to Get Odds.

New York, Nov. 19.—Stock Exchange brokers made many bets yesterday on the Yale-Harvard football game, which takes place today. Even money was the rule, although Harvard had a bit the best of it, some of the followers of the crimson offering 10 to 9. In every instance, however, these odds were eagerly seized by the supporters of Yale.

Ten Lives Sacrificed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 19.—In a large fire, which completely destroyed an extensive timber shed here yesterday, 10 persons were burned to ashes.



AT THE NEW YORK HORSE SHOW—BEFORE THE JUDGES. From HARPER'S WEEKLY

After a drawing by Max F. Klepper

Reproduced from Harper's Weekly. By Permission. Copyright, 1898, by Harper & Brothers

A taste for fine horses is expensive, and the people who cultivate it are for the most part rich people. Being rich, they are incidentally people of fashion, and they form the nucleus of the crowd which gathers once a year at Madison Square Garden, New York City, coming from all parts of the country, Quincy included, for the purpose of seeing and being seen. Probably ino cty in the United States has the perpetual show of horses that can be found in New York City, and the ability to recognize a good horse on the street is a qualification that pays for itself in momentary entertainment a dozen times a day.

Horse-lovers gather at Madison Square Garden, and if they are attentive and persevering, they can hardly help learning something, and if they learn how many different sorts of good horses there are, and by what points each sort is known, their accomplishment will thoroughly repay them for the trouble. There is a certain breeziness in the atmosphere about New York during the horse show week which seems to announce to everybody that this particular week is given up to the horses. Madison Square Garden is crowded both day and night with enthusiastic admirers, and the equine thoroughbred, appreciating the admiration, gallops and paces proudly around the tanbark. Our picture taken from Harper's Weekly shows a four-in-hand before the judges. When the evening's entertainment is over, the crowd adjourns to Delmonico's, Sherry's, or the Waldorf, and there, seated around small tables, they laugh, talk, partake of refreshments, and enjoy the hospitality of these great and famous hostelries. The show, which begins on Monday, usually lasts six days, and it is a great show, edifying to the horse-lover, the anthropologist, and the philosopher, and it is a show not to be neglected by any one interested in horses.

All Over the House

Fairy Soap delights those who use it. In the bath room its whiteness, purity, delicate fragrance and floating qualities make it the favorite. In the kitchen it makes the dishes perfectly clean, and leaves no sticky trace of resin on them. In the laundry it saves the clothes and saves the colors in them.

FAIRBANK'S

FAIRY SOAP

cleanses perfectly the most gauzy laces, delicate fabrics, lawns, calicoes, etc., and does not injure them in the least. Its many virtues and lasting qualities make it infinitely better and even cheaper than common brown soap—as much better as refined white sugar is better than common brown sugar. Fairy Soap is the triumph of science applied to soap-making.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Gratifying Improvement Shown In Nearly All Lines of Trade.

New York, Nov. 19.—Bradstreet's says: Evidence accumulates that the good results flowing from the recent election are no longer confined entirely to improvement in tone and confidence. Several substantial developments present themselves this week, notable among which are a number of advances in prices, exceptionally few declines thereof, growing strength in the pig iron situation, unprecedentedly large weekly bank clearings and remarkably good reports as to export trade, not only in the line of foreign products, but in enlarged trade in manufactured products. Distribution of merchandise shows but little change from recently preceding weeks, but the growth in confidence is reflected in very general reports of improved collections on past business.

First and foremost in the line of foreign trade extensions are the returns recently made for October, pointing to exports for that month larger than in the corresponding month of any previous year, second only to those of December last year, and chargeable not so much as formerly to enlarged exports of farm products, but to heavily increased exports of finished products of American industry.

In this connection specially good reports come from the iron and steel industry. The strength in values of all cereals is due to the constant foreign demand, more than offsetting very large gains in domestic supplies, which, however, are still below any corresponding period for years past. Comparison of four months' exports, July to October, inclusive, point to wheat and flour shipments little below those of last year, and only 10 percent below those of 1891, the heaviest ever known.

The values of exports, however, do not make such good comparisons. Corn exports will run to 10 percent of the domestic production, a heavy gain on every year except last. The strength of cereals finds imitations in coffee, whose statistical position shows some improvement; sugar, which is relatively higher for refined, on growing strength of raw supplies; and even cotton, which is higher on smaller movement, and improving tone of the dry goods market.

Wool sales continue of good volume on more confident buying of small manufacturers, who, however, report the finished goods trade unsatisfactory. Heavy sales of bonded wool for re-export to England are reported this week.

Business failures in the United States this week number 229, as against 187 last week. Bank clearings this week exceeded by nearly $200,000,000 the heaviest former week's total there is any record of. For the week ending Thursday they aggregate $1,727,175,465, a gain over last week of 38 percent, over this week one year ago of 35 percent, over 1896 of 40 percent, over 1895 of 34 percent, and as compared with 1893 and 1894 gains of over 70 percent.

Deputies Got Excited.

Paris, Nov. 19.—There was a noisy scene in the chamber of deputies yesterday during Mr. Lasier's interpellation of the proposed government measures to maintain the inviolability of the contents of the package of secret documents in the Dreyfus case, which are understood to affect the national defense. Premier Dupuy recalled the recent ministerial statement on the subject, adding that the chamber could depend upon the viligance of the government in the matter under debate, which he moved be adjourned for a month. Mr. Lasier vehemently attacked the government and the magistracy, which called forth indignant protests. He accused the government of failure to enforce respect for the national honor, but, amid a great tumult, Mr. Dupuy's motion was adopted.

Mrs. Sage "Gave It Away."

New York, Nov. 19.—Wall street and inventors will be interested in a tip unconsciously given out by Mrs. Russell Sage at a meeting of the women managers of the Women's hospital. Some objected to the noise and puffing of the New York Central engines near by as annoying the patients and retarding their recovery. Mrs. Sage replied that, in the near future, she expected the noise would be done away with, as the electric system was to be used. Chauncey M. Depew was asked about it. He admitted that such a move was contemplated, but it was uncertain when the change would be made.

Missing Vessels.

San Francisco, Nov. 19.—Three ships bound for Pacific coast points from the Orient and from New South Wales are considerably overdue, and it is thought in the case of two vessels that there is little hope of their ever being heard from again. The vessels are the Laurelbank, 79 days out from Shanghai for Portland, Ore.; the Valkyrian, 100 days out from Newcastle, N. S. W., for Iquique, Chili, and the Samoena, 59 days from Nagasaki for Astoria, Ore. Local reinsurance on the fleet has reached 90 percent on the Larelbank, 65 percent on the Valkyrian and 40 percent on the Samoena.

The Fifth in Dixie.

A dispatch to the Transcript from Greenville, S. C., says: The fifth Massachusetts arrived here late Thursday night. The men are greatly interested in the country and are happy at the prospect before them. All are hoping that fighting may be resumed and that the Fifth may have a chance at Havana. At different places in North Carolina flags were flying and the most complimentary remarks were said about the passing through of the Fifth. The men of other regiments passing through the State had fired off pistols and guns and been boisterous, but not a shot has been fired and not an ungentlemanly demonstration made by a man of the Fifth.

WARD THREE.

The caucus at South Quincy was held at Doble's hall. It was not largely attended as there was practically no contest. What little contest there was, was over the ward committee ten names being presented on the ticket with but nine to be elected.

Dennis J. Ford called the caucus to order and was elected chairman, with John Boyle as secretary. The other officers were John F. Sullivan, James F. Parker, William A. Kelly, Joseph L. Heaney, Michael J. Hartney and Enos S. Costa.

Sixty-seven ballots were cast, the highest any one person received being 63.

In the ward committee the contest was between Timothy F. Ford and Andrew S. Costa. Ford won out receiving 43 votes while Costa received but 31.

The delegates, etc., elected are:

Delegates,—Edward J. Parker, John Curtis, James H. Sullivan, Francis Morrison, Walter J. S. Thayer, Thomas F. Shea, Patrick F. Fitzgerald, David J. Flowers, Perez Young, Andrew Howley and Andrew Costa.

Councilmen, — James E. Maxim, Edward A. Young and Robert E. Foy.

School Committee,—Mabel E. Adams.

Ward Committee, — "Regular," — Andrew Howley, William A. Kelley, Thomas Higgins, George D. Cahill, Thomas M. Murphy, Timothy F. Ford, James F. Parker, Francis Morrison, Dennis P. Donahoe.

WARD FOUR.

The only contest at the Democratic caucus at West Quincy was over the ward committee when a double list had been placed in nomination. The caucus was held in St. Mary's hall, and, as usual in this ward, was largely attended.

Matthew Lyons, Chairman of the ward committee, called the caucus to order and was elected chairman, with James Gilraine secretary. The other caucus officers were James F. Burke, James Rooney, Thomas Darrell, Henry G. Hughes, Jeremiah Lyons.

The following delegates were elected:

Matthew Lyons, Michael B. Garey, Lawrence Tracey, James F. Burke, James Curtin, Jr., J. H. Ryan, John J. Dugan, J. E. Egan, Thomas F. Hogan, William T. Shea, Alis Burkardt, Stephen B. Little, Lewis J. White, W. F. Powers, Edward E. Cole, Edward J. Murphy, J. F. Rooney, James Gilraine, Jr., Cornelius Crowley.

Only three candidates were in the field for councilmen and all were nominated. John J. Duggan was high man with 95 votes, Thomas F. Hogan had 90 while Councilman Thomas F. Cain was low man with 90.

The vote for a ward committee of nine was as follows, those with an asterisk being elected:

*Matthew Lyons, 63.
*James F. Rooney, 43.
*James Gilraine, Jr., 85.
*Cornelius Crowley, 64.
Edward J. Murphy, 31.
*Michael B. Geary, 72.
*James F. Burke, 64.
Cornelius Driscoll, 34.
Edward S. Cole, 26.
*Jeremiah Curtin, Jr., 48.
*James A. White, 45.

Timothy Driscoll, 38.
John Barry, 28.
*James E. McDonnell, 52.
Thomas Connelly, 28.
John T. Callahan, 35.
Michael Daley, 33.

WARD FIVE

The caucus held in this ward was an unsually large one for the Democrats. William A. Jordan called the caucus to order and was elected chairman, and Francis R. McCormick, secretary. No nominations having been filed for candidates for the City Council, a committee of three, consisting of William B. Orcutt, E. H. Austin and Mr. Adams was appointed to retire and bring in a list of names to recommend to the caucus. The committee reported the names of William A. Jordan, Fred P. Loud and David J. Roche, and the result of the balloting gave the nominations to these gentlemen. Mr. Jordan made a few remarks, thanking the caucus for the nomination, and also the voters for the support he had received at the recent election. It was against his wishes to receive another nomination, but if the caucus so desired, he would accept.

The following were elected delegates to the Mayoralty convention: William A. Jordan, Victor J. Emery, Edward H. Austin, Benjamin Sargent, David J. Roche, Marcena R. Sparrow.

For ward committee, these names were successful, being the list on the official ballot with two exceptions: William A. Jordan, David Roche, Edward H. Austin, Walter E. Simmons, Arthur T. Brasee, Edward Twitchell, Herbert A. Thompson, Arthur Murphy, Victor J. Emery.

It was voted that the ward committee be empowered to fill all vacancies.

WARD SIX.

There was quite a large turnout at the Atlantic caucus which was in charge of the ward committee. There were no contests and the nominations made were as follows:

Delegates—John A. Duggan, Stephen H. Edwards, Martin W. Cunniff, Elijah G. Hall, John H. O'Brien.

Councilmen—John A. Duggan.

Ward Committee — Stephen H. Edwards, John A. Duggan, Michael W. Cunniff, Elijah G. Hall, Bernard Cullen, J. H. O'Brien, J. Sullivan, C. M. Duggan and P. Dolan.

40 POUND TURKEY.

They Had Large Ones in Quincy Years Ago.

Quincy, Nov. 18, 1898.

Editors Quincy Legder:

It will be remembered by those whose tastes have inclined them towards reading the early history of Quincy that Thomas Morton came over with a party of adventurers and traders in 1625, and possessed himself of the trading post established by Capt. Wollaston at what is now the Mount Wollaston Farm, by inciting rebellion during the absence of the Captain and turning out Lieut. Fitcher, who had been left in charge. Thence began a course of unbridled license which made this "picturesque profligate" an object of horror to Gov. Bradford at Plymouh, who called him "lord of misrule."

"Merry Mount" became at once synonymous with all that was bad. When, in addition to his other indiscretions, Morton began selling firearms and fire water to the Indians, the limit was reached, and Capt. Myles Standish came up from Plymouth and took this colonial Falstaff prisoner; shipping him back to England, whence he soon returned, to be again imprisoned. His petition for release to the General Court may still be seen in the Archives at the State House. It is a quaint document and bears the only signature of Morton's which has survived, so far as the writer has been able to learn. Tradition says that Morton moved to Agamenticus, now York, Maine, and died there, but this cannot be proven. As the writer has been informed by the Town Clerk of York that all the early records were destroyed by fire in an Indian uprising at the end of the 17th century, and Morton's name does not appear on any of the old gravestones.

During his exile abroad Morton wrote an extremely interesting book, which probably not twenty-five people in Quincy have ever read. It is called "New English Canaan." And has been reprinted by the Prince Society, ably edited by Hon. Charles F. Adams. Morton states in his book that while at Merry Mount he had shot turkeys weighing 40 pound and that 26 pounds lobsters and oysters a foot long were not uncommonly caught.

In mentioning these figures to a party of friends a few days ago the writer was met with some pointed comments on the veracity of this oldest and most interesting settler of Quincy. The figures did look large, but the reputation of Citizen Morton was at stake and the writer resolved to investigate. There are several other interesting and authoritative books on the animal life about this vicinity at the time of its settlement. Wood's New England Prospect and Josselyn's Two Voyages and New England Rarities. All of these books bore out Morton's statements, but their writers were unhesitatingly placed in the same category as Morton by my friends. They wanted me to furnish more modern proof and we finally got it. We toured the fish markets and learned that a 26 pound lobster had been on exhibition within a year and that oyster shells a foot long were dredged up from Charles River frequently.

Anything relating to turkeys is particularly pertinent just now, and the following letter from Mr. Vose, who furnishes the presidential turkeys may interest the Ledger readers. It at once caused my friends to admit freely that Morton's reputation had been vindicated.

Westerly, R. I., Nov. 16, 1898.

Dear Sir: The turkey which I furnished for Gen. Grant weighed 36 pounds dressed. I have a turkey today that will weigh 40 pounds. I have seen them that will weigh 45 pounds. I have a hen turkey that will weigh 21 pounds.

Yours with respect,

H. Vose.

A perusal of many of these books would please any reader of the Ledger as much as it did,

Aunt Phoebe.

A STRANGE FIND.

Thoroughley Chilled Man in a Box Near Greenleaf.

Two boys, John Foy and Gustin Murphy, while looking for old junk this noon, found a partly unconscious man sitting in a box with his feet in a barrel back of the billboard in the rear of the Greenleaf on Granite street. The fellow had covered the box over with old paper to keep out the rain and had probably been there since last night and possibly since Thursday night, for the box was in the same condition on Friday as when found today.

The fellow was partly unconcious but thoroughly chilled, and all that could be learned from him was that his name was Allen and his home Nova Scotia. He was quite well dressed and had on a brown overcoat, kid gloves and a white shirt. How he came there is a mystery at present. The police were notified and the ambulance removed him to the CITY HOSPITAL.

Braintree Literary Club.

The Braintree Literary club met with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Belcher on Monday evening.

The quotations were from "Twelfth Night." Mrs. O. W. Allen read a paper on Decisive Naval Conflicts. Mr. Atherton Hunt, on England's Naval Resources. Mrs. Joseph A. Ewart, on Japan's Awakening. Mrs. W. E. Morrison, on The Development of the Cathedral Arch.

The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs A. E. Avery.

The Lowell Mail: "Over 600 ladies attended the opening of the New Era Cooking School, at Odd Fellows Hall, yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Earl, of the New Era Cooking School, demonstrated and served to those present a number of delicious dishes. It was a great success and fulfilled the expectation of those who have been looking forward to the demonstrations of the new school of healthful cookery. It was one of the most enthusiastic audiences ever gathered in Lowell."

THE SOCIAL REALM.

The ladies of the Benevolent society of the Memorial church are more than gratified at the great success attending their recent fair. In spite of the unpleasant weather a very handsome sum was cleared, the fruits of which will be seen shortly in the church.

Miss Sarah Richardson Harlow, formerly of Lowell, but for the last three years a resident of Philadelphia, has lately been visiting her northern friends, and also her cousins at Wollaston. She is a lady of ability and energy, and much interested in the genealogy of the Harlow family, and is making careful records of the ancestry and of interesting reminiscences. She is likewise studying the pedigree of the Richardson family. Her sister is Miss Annie Sophia Harlow, whom the Hon. John Wanamaker called to be an assistant in his famous Sunday school in Philadelphia, the largest in the world; and such was the value of her services that he appointed her associate superintendent.

Mr. James E. Curtin has been confined to the house for some days by illness.

Miss Dorothy Quincy, daughter of Mr. Henry P. Quincy, of Dedham has presented to the Dedham Historical society an interesting reminder of "ye olden days"—the manuscript book of the Rev. Henry Flynt. The Rev. Mr. Flynt was ordained a minister of a church in that part of Braintree, now Quincy, in 1640. The book, which plainly shows its great age, is filled with notes of church meetings, chronicles of the doings of the parish and genealogical notes. Much of the writing is still legible. Miss Quincy, the donor, is a lineal descendant of the Rev. Mr. Flynt.

Mrs. Theresa Forschner, who has been visiting her son, Mr. Thomas Forschner of Madison street, the past two months, has returned to her home in Cleveland, Ohio.

In spite of the dewey weather of last evening many pleasure seekers gathered at Music hall, Atlantic, to resume the series of dances that are to be given this winter by Mr. Winthrop J. Fearebay. Many were present from out of town and a sociable time was enjoyed.

LIFE FULL OF ROMANCE.

The Story of One of the Survivors of the Steamship Mohegan.

Among the survivors of the steamship Mohegan, that went down off the southwest coast of England, was a beautiful American woman, Mrs. Amelia Compton Swift of Columbus, Ga., who is well known in Chicago society. Mrs. Swift's life has been full of romance and was very nearly ended by this tragedy of the sea. She is the great-granddaughter of Governor Isaac Shelby, the first governor of Kentucky, and a cousin of General Joe Shelby, the hero of the Mexican war. Her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Shelby, whose guest she has often been and whom she expected to visit this winter, lives at 2034 Indiana avenue in this city. Mrs. Swift had been married but a few years when her husband, William A. Swift, died, and a week later death also took her baby daughter. The weight of this sorrow was so great that she took up the study of Shakespeare and worked hard to forget her grief and make an occupation for her life. While in Chicago a year ago Mrs. Swift read before Mrs. Milward Adams, who advised her to go upon the stage and devote herself to legitimate drama, but this she was averse to undertaking. Her readings, given in the drawing rooms of fashionable friends in Boston, were enthusiastically received, and in London, where she went a little later, she responded to invitations to read and met with flattering success. At the end of several months' travel in England Mrs. Swift started on her homeward voyage Oct. 13, when the shocking disaster occurred which resulted in the loss of 68 lives. The romance of her early life is continued in her widowhood, for she was miraculously saved by a noted physician of London, who was a warm friend and admirer and who lost his own life in saving hers. Mrs. Swift suffered severe bodily injury and extreme nervous shock and will be obliged to remain in London for a time. She will be entertained by Chicago relatives and friends as soon as she is able to make the return journey.—Chicago Times-Herald.

MRS. AMELIA COMPTON SWIFT.

Tennessee Girl's War Souvenir.

The Tennessee Girls' Relief society has issued a war souvenir edition of the Knoxville Journal Tribune. The editor in chief was Margarette Elizabeth Chapman of Knoxville, and she was ably assisted by ladies representing the relief societies of Atlanta, Chattanooga and Nashville. Inez Sledge Campbell was business manager, and if it sold everywhere as it did on the streets of Chattanooga—where lovely young ladies stood by dry goods boxes at the entrance to leading stores and disposed of them rapidly—the girls must have made a lot of money for their beneficent work. The paper contains 26 pages, hundreds of pictures, and much matter that will be read with interest by all, and most especially by the friends and admirers of the plucky girls that compose the war relief societies of the south.—Woman's Tribune.

"Pale and Interesting."

You must be "pale and interesting" during the coming winter if you wish to be swell. The buxom, rosy cheeked girl is passing away with the summer, and in her place we will have the slender and pale faced maiden with only two "ripe red lips" and "luminous eyes" to relieve the almost unnatural pallor of her face.

Whether it is because she wishes to show her sympathy for her sweetheart or brother who has just returned from the war, all pale and thin, by becoming pale and thin herself is not known.

Suffice to say that the swell girl has left off "merely touching the rouge paw to her face," and already we see the new beauty—the pale and interesting creature—and she is irresistible.—New York Herald.

Food's Medicinal Virtue.

It is the belief of many that on the table there appear remedies for almost every disease. Hence it is frequently urged that cranberries be eaten for malaria, radishes and yellow turnips for gravel, onions and horse radish to relieve dropsical swelling, etc. As a matter of fact there is not a food that possesses enough medicinal virtue to warrant its use as a remedy. Moreover, this popular delusion ought to be dispelled, because by too free indulgence in any one food, which the notion would encourage, the system might be seriously disordered.—Boston Journal.

To Freshen Carpets.

The woman who has had straw mattings on her floors since early spring and is only now beginning to put down some of her carpets learned a new wrinkle concerning the latter the other day. The carpet man told her: "When your clean carpet is down, get some naphtha, put it in a watering can and sprinkle your carpet with it quite thoroughly. Then sweep it to bring up the nap, and you will be surprised to find what a bright, fresh looking carpet you have."—New York Times.

THANKSGIVING TIME.

Thanksgivin time's a-comin—I kin hear the

Of the turkeys in the barnyard on the farm

I kin see the Shanghai rooster walkin sort of

Makin b'lieve he's feelin sick an off his feed

An they're fixin in the kitchin fer a good ole

Choppin mince meat by the bushel thet is good fer hungry eyes,
Seedin raisins fer plum puddin fit to save the vilest sinner
If he ever had a mother an she made Thanks-

Ah, the mother, she's a smilin, standin in the

Down toward the railroad station when she hears the engine toot,
Fer her boy is a-comin, an the pies most burn

While her dear ole heart's a-thumpin fer this

Doesn't 'pear to matter nohow thet I'm bald

Doesn't seem to make no dif'rence thet I

She's the same ole lovin mother, never cross

UNCLE JOB'S TURKEY

"Forevermore!" wails Mrs. Tom.

"How provoking!" cries Mrs. Dick.

"But then he's reported rich," asserts Mrs. Harry, "and if that is the case it's assuredly one of those cases that circumstances alter wonderfully!"

"I don't believe he's a rich man, for one," affirms Mrs. Tom, looking ruefully at the letter in her hand. "Why, when I wrote to Uncle Job—of all the names I do detest, 'Job' comes first—when I wrote and ever so delicately hinted that I'd swallow my prejudices"—

"A terrible indigestible mass you'd find 'em, Bel!"

—"and name Plantagenet 'Job' if it would be to the boy's interest later in life, what do you think he said?"

"Don't ask me. What did he say?"

"His answer was terse enough and brief enough to be easily remembered. He wrote: 'Dear niece, pray do not saddle upon your son a name I never should have chosen for myself had I had the smallest choice in the matter. If you must call him for some Biblical personage, I should suggest Malhalaleel as a cognomen euphonious enough to harmonize well with our family name, and, believe me, Niece Isabel, he will have just as much of my good will when I die, if that is your desire, as if he had been named after your affectionate uncle, Job Altick.'"

"Of course he's as poor as poverty, then, Bel. Poor people are always the witty ones, with sharp answers ever ready at tongues' or pens' points. One of us (or shall we take turns?) will be sure to have old Uncle Job foisted upon us, and if it wasn't for those heavy mortgages Harry has to clear off in the spring he would not mind, I know, one extra mouth to feed."

"And if I had an extra bedroom to spare!" says Mrs. Dick.

"And if I had an extra couple of servants!" whines Mrs. Tom. "To be sure, if I could be certain that he was a wealthy man, it would make a vast difference, and for the children's sake"—

"What a sordid sister-in-law I have, to be sure!" laughs Mrs. Harry. "Speaking of the children, Bel, how is Plant's love affair coming on?"

"It isn't 'on' at all, Ruth; it's off—and forever, I hope."

"Bel Altick, what do you mean?"

"I mean that he shall never marry that good for nothing Nan"—

"Mark my words, he will marry her, and neither you nor Tom nor your proposed heiress can keep him from it. Nan's worth a dozen Gwendolines"—

"Then Tom will disinherit him, and, though he's my own son, I shall not blame his father."

"You hard hearted, mercenary woman!" cries Mrs. Harry, moving toward the door. "How you can deliberately go to work to break the heart of so good a son as Plant Altick I confess I cannot comprehend. Good morning, Bel—if you think it's good—seems to me if I were you I'd be obliged to taste the bitter of too many selfish reflections to enjoy it much." And the hall door closes with a bang between the sisters-in-law.

Days, weeks and months pass by, and there is no outward showing of the presumptive wealth of Professor Altick. Save a penny now and then to the smaller fry of the Altick family, he has never shown to them the color of his money, and as he lives simply and indulges sparingly in life's luxuries he is at length accounted an eccentric individual of small means and left religiously alone.

Alone and uncared for—that is, if we except the little friendly "runnings in" of Plantagenet, his grandnephew, who has taken to the gentle old man from the first, and who is never weary of hearing of the professor's late trip to the petrified tree tract of Arizona or looking at the rare specimens so carefully collected, for Uncle Job is a learned geologist and has written several remarkable treatises on the subject, his "Sermons In Stones" having been adopted as a textbook in many colleges.

And from stones Plantagenet easily leads the conversation to scarcely less adamantine subjects—the hearts of his unyielding parents—for, cold, calculating and worldly, they have softened not one whit under the warmth of Plantagenet's young love, and it is Uncle Job who unconsciously encourages him in his grim determination to brave the ire of his parents and marry his sweet Nan in the teeth of all opposition.

And so they are quietly married—Plantagenet Altick and Nanette Gray—and go to housekeeping in a pretty little cottage, in a pretty suburb, some miles from the splendid city home of his father.

Uncle Job, who has begun a new work on geology, shuts himself up in his third story back room and allows the world without to wag as it will.

And it soon begins to wag in a very cheerless manner for the two wedded young folks.

But though shut out from one loved paradise, he has his Nan—his dear, little, brave Nan, who smiles through great, unshed tears upon him, when suddenly she meets his sorrowful gaze after many a long quarter of an hour's silent retrospection.

"Oh, it must come right soon, Plant—they never would shut you out of their lives forever!"

"You don't know them," mutters the boy.

"I'm pretty well acquainted with you, dear, and if any father or mother could treat such a son as you are so scurvily—there, that's an ugly word, I know, Plant, but it's the right one to use in this instance—all I have to say is that they don't deserve such a good child—there!" and two pretty arms, bared to the elbow for kitchen convenience, find their fond way about the neck of her chosen lord.

Her chosen lord smiles faintly at this speech and tries desperately to rally his drooping spirits.

It was a very humble position that the college bred Plantagenet Altick found himself obliged to accept to keep the little house going—the only position open to him when he, beside himself with a just indignation at an unreasonable opposition and a great and absorbing love, broke bounds and besought the faithful Nan to leave her position as governess in a wealthy family and share his five roomed cottage and his meager salary.

Nan, too used to poverty to let it frighten her, and imagining, innocent soul, that no one could long be angry at so dear a boy as Plant, consented, and the home coming, though a lonesome little affair, brought with it happiness enough to last a fortnight at least.

Then Plantagenet saw that there was to be no relenting on the part of those he loved and reverenced with all the strength of his boyish nature, and his grief grew greater with every passing hour. To crown all, he had lost his position the second week in the November following, owing to the insolvency of the firm by which he had been employed, and, though they have given him splendid recommendations, there is no position easily obtainable.

One morning a stray thought, finding its way from out that great, mysterious silence so full of untried possibilities, comes to him suddenly and sends him upon its own little errand straight to Uncle Job.

Up a long flight of front stairs, up a short back flight and several knocks upon a door's panel cause it to open and discover to young Altick a room littered with papers, books, trays of specimens and two or three volumes of Hugh Miller.

"Good morning, Uncle Job!"

"How d'ye do, Plantagenet?"

"I do miserably, thank you, sir. Uncle Job, I've lost my position, and—and—if I could help you in any way—copying or the like—I write a tolerably decent hand, sir, and I thought perhaps you'd like to hire me"—

"No—no—no! Not even though you're a 'Yale fellow well met.' I'd not trust you with them! Not a soul save myself shall do a line of writing on these particular manuscripts. What's the matter?"

"Firm I worked for failed."

"Hrumph! How's Nan?"

"How should she be? Happy and joyous as befits a bride—the bride of a man shut out from home, and who has not a red cent in his pocket! Heaven knows where tomorrow's bread and butter will come from!"

"And it won't tell. It's a sort of habit it has got into, you see, about being sort of mysterious over the ends it has in view. But there, you may sort out the numbered pages for me from among the litter yonder, and we'll see about the bread and butter for tomorrow. Tomorrow is Thursday—bless me, boy, it's Thanksgiving"—

"Thanksgiving! So it is. 'Thanksgiving.'"

"Your tone of voice would suggest that you hadn't the dearest little wife in the world to be thankful for. Shame upon you, my nephew. There, I'm not a rich man, as rich men go, but take this bill to Nan and tell her it's from her Uncle Job."

Late upon this same afternoon Professor Altick, basket on arm, goes from greengrocer to butcher shop, intent upon his purchase of a Thanksgiving turkey. The fowl he means to buy he will offer to his nephews in turn, feeling sure that he who accepts it will no doubt ask him to share their dinner, be it Tom, Dick or Harry or Tom's disobedient son. With an unmistakable grin of amusement the dealer in poultry places a very thin, very poor, very blue about the breastbone, low priced turkey in Uncle Job's basket.

Early Thanksgiving morning the old professor starts out through the cold, uncertain sunlight that shines fitfully through the rifts of hurrying, wind swept clouds, and, basket on arm, finds his way to Thomas Altick's elegant home. He rings and is admitted.

"Good morning, Uncle Job. Anything I can do for you this morning?"

"No, Thomas, thank you. It's something I want to do for you. I chanced to remember it was Thanksgiving—very odd indeed, my remembering it—and I bought you a turkey. Will you have it, Thomas?" and out comes the old gentleman's sad little specimen of the genus meleagris gallopavo.

It is too much for Tom Altick. With a laugh that fetches Mrs. Tom quickly from an adjoining room and provokes her to join in its hearty roulades he declines the poor fowl with thanks with a sarcasm veiled so lightly that the ugly features of a rude and insolent nature shine full upon poor Uncle Job.

Quietly he replaces the turkey within the basket, quietly he takes his hat and gloves, and as quietly, with a brief "good day," he leaves the house of his nephew Thomas.

As for Richard Altick, he "roars amain" and has the turkey he has purchased for his own dinner brought up into the very parlor that he may place it in "odious comparison" beside the small fry in Uncle Job's basket. Again rebuffed, the old gentleman bids Mrs. Dick and her laughing husband good day and finds his way to the house of the youngest of his three nephews.

It is the same thing over again, save that Henry Altick's refusal to accept the wizened bird is more politely veiled. Gentle Mrs. Harry even makes furtive little signs of acceptance to her courteous husband, but that individual, secretly enjoying the comical side of the affair too much to notice the perforce stealthy signals of his wife, allows poor Uncle Job to take his wares to other marts.

Through Nan's kitchen door comes the sweet sound of her singing. Plantagenet has found a new position, Uncle Job has given them a "fiver" to start on, a little fat turkey is on the table before her, awaiting its fragrant dressing, and life has seemed brighter this Thanksgiving morning than for many a day. So she sings with a heart growing lighter at each merry measure—and her song reaches Uncle Job, who stands knocking outside the door.

"Why, Uncle Job, how nice of you! And you've come to take dinner with us, haven't you? Did you meet Plant? No? He went to fetch you over half an hour ago. Let me have your basket and your hat and your gloves—there!"

"Thank you, my niece. I think I'll stay. It all depends, though."

"And how does 'Paradoxides Tessini' get on, sir?"

"Famously, Mrs. Nan—famously! I shall yet live to show old Herr von Leimstein that what he chooses to call muschelkalk of the triassic period is nothing upon earth—or in earth, I suppose I should say—but oolite of the jurassic!"

"Indeed, sir. Well, I'm glad I'm not in the mussel shell state of evolution, and I am also glad that you have come to dinner, dear professor."

"Honestly glad?"

"Honestly glad."

"Glad enough to accept this little turkey as an addition to your repast?"

"Oh, Uncle Job, how lovely of you! Why, what a feast we'll have, to be sure! I'm awfully hungry, and I'll confess to you now, sir, that I felt as if I could eat the entire turkey Plant brought home myself. I wouldn't tell him the whole truth, but I was afraid he'd find it out by my gnawing the bones. But now we're all fixed for a luxurious repast, and, oh, Uncle Job, don't you want to chop up this onion for me? I'm so tired of weeping, and onions always affect me so deeply."

"Tears have forgotten the way to my eyes. Give me the chopper."

"There's the bowl, and there's—Plant."

"'Tisn't fair," smiles the newcomer, holding out his hands to the grateful warmth of the little kitchen stove. "You're a witch. Upon which particular broomstick did you fetch him in my absence, Nan?"

"A turkey brought him. See, here it is, a twin to ours, and just in time to be stuffed."

"Hooray for us—a tandem team! To be strictly candid, Nan, I meant to eat the turkey I brought home all myself. Now you can have a taste. Four drumsticks! Uncle Job, if I do have a weakness for anything besides Nan it's"—

"What's this? Plant—look—look—look!"

Louder than her cries of wonderment is the noisy downfall of the strange contents of that little turkey. Silver disks clatter and jingle and chink upon the pine table over the echoing tinware, the iron pans, the dough board, the floor itself, and, as if demented with their sudden liberty, the big round coins go rolling off into this corner, that corner, under table, chair and stove!

How many broad silver dollars that gaunt fowl holds the astonished young people cannot tell, but to their widely opened eyes it seems a little fortune, and Uncle Job thinks himself amply repaid when two happy children kneel beside him and fall to caressing him as they weep, and the tears are not born of the chopped onions in his lap—they are bona fide tears of pure joy.

And afterward, when it comes to pass that the profits that accrue from the enormous sales of the new textbook are all made over to the little bride and Mrs. Nan is accounted almost as wealthy as the regretted Gwendolin, Mrs. Tom allows John to turn the horses' noses toward the five roomed cottage to which an addition is being built for Uncle Job's especial use, and in her gentle daughter-in-law's little best room eats humble pie very prettily, leaving a message for her son that, to him, brings heaven itself into the dining room, when at dusk, through the sweet air of a budding spring, he comes and takes his place at the supper table opposite his wife.

"But we owe all our happiness to you—all to you, dear, dear uncle! For unless you had come to our aid and played fairy godfather we should yet be as poor as—as"—

"Job's turkey," suggests the professor.—Detroit Free Press.

OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

FRENCH COSTUME OF VENETIAN CLOTH FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

Red, which in every tone is a marked feature of Paris gowns, not only as a prominnt accessory in combination and decoration, but for entire costumes as well, appears in the dark rich shade of the circular tunic overdress to a French costume of Venetian cloth.

Its trimmings are bias bands of black velvet outlining the Vandyke points in front and then passing plainly around the back, which extends nearly to the hem of the black underskirt.

A full circular flounce of velvet added to a seven-gored foundation of silk or satin simulates under the points an entire skirt of the velvet, the width of the flounce at the foot being four yards and three-quarters. A slight fulness, arranged in pleats under the fastening of the back, produces a graceful sweep below.

The corsage is made with one of the little fancy jackets which have retained all of their former popularity. Pleated back and front and bordered with bands of black velvet, it opens over a full vest of white velvet patterned with black polka dots. The pleats of the back fall over a deep corselet of the black velvet which is draped to a low point in front. The collar is a high band finished with a shaped ruffle, whose lining is velvet, and a fanpleated bow of velvet forms the cravat. Small circular puffs surmount the close sleeves at the top, while at the wrist they have the fashionable flare. The proper cut of this gown can be obtained only from the use of Harper's Bazar Cut Paper Patterns. Bunches of violets intermingled with marguerites decorate the hat of crenulated gray velvet.

Quantity of material, cloth, 54 inches wide, 5 yards; silk, for upper part of foundation skirts, 6 yards; black velvet, 8 yards, and white velvet, 1-2 yard.

"MOTOR" KEELY DEAD.

Inventor of a Power That Was to Revolutionize Industry.

Wonderful Ideas Which Were Never Perfected.

His Principal Secret, Which Many Have Tried to Probe, Died With Him.

Philadelphia, Nov. 19.—John W. Keely, the inventor of the Keely motor, died yesterday at his home here from pneumonia. He was taken ill on Saturday last. Mr. Keely was 61 years of age, and leaves a widow.

He was a native of this city. His education was meagre and, at an early age he became a carpenter, following that trade until 1872. It was in that year that he announced his discovery of a new force by which motive power would be revolutionized. Following this he constructed the Keely motor. On Nov. 10, 1874, he gave its first public exhibition before a number of capitalists and scientists, who advanced $100,000 to enable him to perfect his discovery. Since then large sums of money have been expended on experiments without any practical public results. Between 1874 and 1891, Keely constructed and discarded 129 different models. In his first models he employed water as a generator, but later he experiments were made with what he called a "liberator," a machine equipped with a large number of tuning forks, which, he claimed, disintegrated the air and released a powerful etheric force.

JOHN W. KEELY.

In 1888 he was for a time confined in jail for contempt of court in refusing to disclose the secret by which he produced many remarkable effects in the presence of experts, but until his death the secret was known only to himself. Among those interested in his scientific efforts was Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, the well-known society woman, who advanced sums of money to Keely for the purpose of furthering his inventions.

Keely took out a patent on his "motor," and the operations in his small shop on Twentieth street, above Master, behind windowless brick walls, were always veiled in mystery, except when he chose to give an exhibition in order to impress prospective investors with the advisability of furnishing money with which to carry on his experiments.

He claimed for his "motor" that it would "annihilate gravity," "drive the revolving globe," and "supersede every form of propulsion now in use." A number of companies were formed to enable Mr. Keely to perfect his invention, but, notwithstanding the abounding faith which the stockholders had in his genius, he never seemed able to produce a machine of practical use.

It was claimed for the "motor" that when completed it would, by attaching wires to Independence hall and to the Drexel building, float these mighty buildings whole and complete to the top of city hall.

Another power claimed for it was that a girl might sit in her father's house and run his mill by playing the piano. A third virtue claimed was that by pouring a glass of water into an urn and brass receptacle, in half a minute a force would be generated which would lift an iron weight of 700 pounds at the end of a six-foot lever; that this force could be bottled, and this vaporic ether could be taken to charge a gun, which would hurl a leaden bullet against an iron plate with sufficient force to pierce the plate. In fact, almost every occult physical force was claimed for it, which made this invention a sort of a "philosopher's stone" of modern times.

Gates Heads the List.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Commissioner Evans of the pension office has notified Secretary Alger that Jesse T. Gates of the Second United States artillery, who lost part of his upper lip in the West Indian campaign, has been awarded the first pension on account of the Spanish war. The president and the secretary of war each took an interest in this case. Gates will only receive $17 per month. A bill increasing the pension will probably be introduced in congress.

Clipping Fares.

St. Paul, Nov. 19.—The Soo and the St. Paul-Chicago lines are again in a war over passenger rates. The announcement by the Soo that it would put into effect a passenger rate sheet that cuts the fare to New York $4.50, reducing the rates to northern Michigan and other points, induced the St. Paul-Chicago lines to call a meeting yesterday to discuss the situation. It was decided that the reduced rate to New York would have to be met.

Anti-Croker.

New York, Nov. 19.—John Brisben Walker has issued an address attacking Richard Croker as a man who has gained complete control of the Democratic party, both in the city and state, and who is "unworthy of trust." Mr. Walker urges the formation of a new Democracy. Temporary headquarters of the new Democracy will be opened in the Madison Square building.

STUBBORN QUESTION.

Difficult For Commissioners to Agree Upon Reciprocity and Fisheries.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Members of the Anglo-American commission of Canadians and Americans expressed the hope yesterday that they would complete their labors before the Christmas holidays. They are not yet willing to state, however, that a treaty will be framed covering the many subjects of difference between the United States and Canada. Greater progress has been made than is generally understood, and the rough draft of some of the articles of the proposed treaty has been submitted by subcommittees and tentatively approved. But the important subjects of the North Atlantic fisheries, reciprocity and Behring sea remain open. It is understood by those acquainted with the work of the commission that the questions of border immigration, mining rights, lake fisheries and the Alaskan-Canadian boundary have been less difficult of solution than was expected, and that a basis of agreement on these subjects is in sight, if not actually determined upon. As to Behring sea, the view prevails on both sides that a settlement will be reached, and the presence of two officials—one a Canadian and the other an American—at Victoria, where an inventory is making of the Canadian sealing fleet, leads to the belief that the settlement may be on the basis of wiping out the industry by giving the Canadians some equivalent for the capital invested. Reciprocity and the Atlantic fisheries continue to be the most stubborn questions before the commission.

The joint session yesterday was brief. The sole subject considered was reciprocity.

Thirteen Men Killed.

New York, Nov. 19.—Thirteen men were killed near Jersey City shortly before 9 o'clock yesterday by the fast Philadelphia express over the Pennsylvania railroad. One man was also badly injured. All were members of a section gang, at work on the tracks, and were run into by the train. The train, thundering along at the rate of almost a mile a minute, ran into the men and dashed through them like a rocket. Some were ground beneath the driving wheels. Others, mangled and mashed, were thrown to each side of the track, some of them falling 20 feet away from the flying train. The passengers were stricken with horror at the awful sight. The train was stopped as soon as possible and the mangled men attended to. Eleven were found to have been killed outright and two others that were put aboard the train died on the way to Jersey City.

To Control Coal Shipping.

Pittsburg, Nov. 19.—A movement is on foot among the river coal operators to form a combination of all the river mines and floating property, and if the deal is consummated it will make one, of the most powerful organizations in the country. It will have a capital of millions of dollars and will control the coal shipping industry of the Monongahela valley, as well as he markets between Pittsburg and Cairo, Ills. The purpose of the consolidation is to ship all the coal mined in the Monongahela valley to Cincinnati and Louisville under one management, thus doing away with a lot of office expenses.

Out of Cash.

Kansas City, Nov. 19.—The International Grand Opera company, composed of 70 people, including some of the best known singers of this country, as well as some of European fame, is stranded here. The company is playing an engagement at the Coates Opera House and will, according to Romualdo Sapio, its financial backer and musical conductor, disband tonight unless outside aid is received. One of the company has gone to Chicago in an endeavor to raise funds.

To Study Currency Problem.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Vanderlip sailed today for Porto Rico to familiarize himself with the financial conditions of the island, its possibilities of revenue and its requirements and expenditures. One of the most difficult problems which presents itself for solution in connection with the change in sovereignty is that of the currency. It is the assistant secretary's intention to give especial attention to this subject.

Sold For $1,060,000

Crawfordsville, Ind., Nov. 19.—The Terre Haute and Logansport railroad was sold yesterday by W. P. Fishback, master in chancery. No bids under $750,000 would be considered. W. H. R. Miller, representing the second mortgage bondholders, bid $750,000. J. T. Brooks of the Pennsylvania company bid $775,000. They bid against each other till Miller offered $1,000,000, and then the road was sold to Brooks for $1,060,000.

To Watch French Warship.

Halifax, Nov. 19.—The cruiser Pelican, which returned from Sydney this week instead of proceeding to England to go out of commission, has orders to remain in Halifax until the middle of December, an unusually late date for any warship to be in northern waters in this station. It is reported this action is due to information that a French warship would be retained at St. Pierre for an indefinite time.

Furlough Lengthened.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 19.—Colonel Bryan's health does not mend as rapidly as he hoped it would, and yesterday, on recommendation of his physician, he was grented an additional 10 days' leave of absence, which permits him to remain in Lincoln until Dec. 4. Colonel Bryan complains of lack of usual strength and vigor.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:42; sets, 4:19.
Moon sets—11:44 p. m.
Full sea—3:04 a. m.; 4:15 p. m.

Owing to the slow movement of the unsettled conditions rains continued through yesterday in eastern states, but it now promises to clear within the next 24 hours, and fair weather prevail Sunday in New England, with westerly winds and cooler during the night. Fair and seasonably cool weather also seems probable Monday.

FLOWERS AND LEAVES.

Some Appropriate Decorations For Thanksgiving Day.

The woman who converts her house into a sort of green bower, with avenues of palms and the like, may be creating a pretty effect, but she is not arranging an appropriate decoration for Thanksgiving. Thanksgiving is an American festival, and exotics are out of place if one desires to preserve the American spirit in her decorations. Those hardy flowers which might grow out of doors in American yards are the best suited to Thanksgiving ornamentation, and of these the chrysanthemum is naturally first.

That obliging flower comes in almost every possible shade now and can be made to harmonize with any scheme of color decoration. It is as white as a snowdrop; it is tawny yellow and pale yellow; it is reddish brown and clear red; it is pink; it is soft lilac. Each of these colors comes in numberless sorts of blossoms—big ones, with tightly curled leaves, and little ones, with straggling, ragged leaves. No woman can despair of beautiful results who uses plenty of chrysanthemums.

A glass bowl full of the starry white blossoms set on a table of polished mahogany or deep red cherry is most effective. A bowl of dark red ones glowing in fine contrast to the polished oak of a library table is beautiful. Mantels on which plants full of blossoms are set are lovely if blossoms of one color are chosen. The deep yellow ones with edges darkening to brown are particularly good for this massed style of decoration.

One woman, who appreciates the value of cheesecloth, has covered the wall above her fireplace and mantelshelf with dark red cheesecloth gathered rather fully. On the center of the mantel itself she has arranged to have a low, big bowl of white chrysanthemums, while old fashioned glass candelabra at each end will add to the glittering, bright effect.

Smilax is not to be despised in decoration. Chandeliers and window frames may be wreathed with it, mantel mirrors half hidden beneath a latticework of it, and streamers of it suspended from available picture frames. Of course the cool, feathery green is not particularly appropriate for Thanksgiving decoration, but it serves as a delightful background for warmer, more glowing floral effects.

Besides chrysanthemums, which by their size and profusion at this season of the year lend themselves particularly to Thanksgiving decoration, there are baradia, with its coral, pink and red blossoms, roses of all descriptions, violets and the like. The woods still have trailing vines of red and bronze pine boughs and cones, brilliant leaves and dusky berries. The clever woman makes use of these profusely in decorating her house at Thanksgiving, and they seem particularly appropriate.—New York World.

How He Got His Dinner.

"As long as my boss hangs on," said the big workman, "I'm sure of just as fine a dinner for Thanksgiving as the market affords."

"Invited to his house?"

"No, of course not. He has too much sense to set me down to a table with a lot of the upper crust. I'd feel like crawling under the board and could no more eat than if I was gagged and handcuffed. He sends the stuff to the house, and we never get it all closed out much before Christmas."

"Does he treat all his men that way?"

"Couldn't afford it. He has hundreds of them, you know. But me and him had what he calls an escapade a good many years ago. You know, I was coachman for old Grinder. He had a daughter, the prettiest woman in the state, and with spirit enough to lead an army. My present boss fell in love with her. Grinder fairly kicked the roof off the house and told me to do the same with the young boss if I ever caught him on the premises. About that time I was—well, rather in love with Miss Grinder's maid, and she told me mighty plain that if I took sides with old Grinder against his daughter I'd have to go away from home to do my courting. It was a warm Thanksgiving day when the young folks planned to elope. The mistress wanted me to drive them, but I told her in a meaning way like that I better drive the old gentleman when he took up the chase. She saw the point and told me not to hurt him serious.

"Sure enough, when Grinder heard the girl had slipped away after dinner he was a cyclone. Away he went in a light buggy with a fast horse. On the creek bottom road I managed an upset and dragged him through slush and mud for a quarter of a mile. He was mad enough to murder some one, but he was too proud to own he was beaten, so he forgave the young folks and set the boss up in business."—Detroit Free Press.

Evolution In Idols.

The hero of the Thanksgiving of these modern days of this modern end of the century is not the chivalrous hero of bygone times, with his hair in a cue and laces dangling from his wrists, but he stands a stocky figure of herculean strength supported on a gridiron pedestal and holding aloft a grimy football in place of the sword of romance.

His face is massive with the force of his purpose. His hair recalls the jagged shreds of Japan's royal chrysanthemum. His muscles are hardened with the power of iron and the strength of his determination to do or die. His armor is an assorted collection of pads and shields, and, on the principle that it is impossible to get too much of a good thing, his appearance on the field of honor is strikingly impressive and forceful. The football player rules the land on Thanksgiving day. His voice is loud in the land, and his supremacy is unrivaled. Banners are waved at him, and cheers are shouted. Canes proclaim his victory, and beauty extols his prowess. He is lord of the day.—Chicago Chronicle.

A COLONIAL THANKSGIVING.

Quaint Account of a Dinner Given In 1714.

Among the papers of the late ex-State Senator Guy C. Stoddard of the town of Ledyard was found an old newspaper clipping containing a quaint account of an old colonial Thanksgiving church service and dinner. It was written in the year 1714 by the Rev. Lawrence Conant of the Old South parish, in Danvers, Mass., and runs thus:

"Ye Governor was in ye house and Her Majesty's commissioners of ye customs, and they sat together in a high seat of ye pulpit stairs. Ye Governor appears very devout and attentive, although he favors Episcopacy and tolerates ye Quakers and Baptists.

"He was dressed in a black velvet coat, bordered with gold lace and buff breeches with gold buckles at ye knees, and white silk stockings.

"There was a disturbance in ye galleries, where it was filled with divers negroes, mulattoes and Indians, and a negro called Pomp Shorter, belonging to Mr. Gardiner, was called forth and put in ye broad isle, where he was reproved with great carefulness and solemnity.

"He was then put in ye deacons' seat between two deacons, in view of ye whole congregation, but ye sexton was ordered by Mr. Prescott to take him out, because of his levity and strange contortion of countenance (giving grave scandal to ye grave deacons), and put him in ye lobby under ye staire; some children and a mulatto woman were reprimanded for laughing at Pomp Shorter.

"When ye services at ye meeting house were ended, ye council and other dignitaries were entertained at ye house of Mr. Epes, on ye hill near by, and we had a bountiful Thanksgiving dinner with bear's meat and venison, the last of which was a fine buck, shot in ye woods near by. Ye bear was killed in Lynn woods near Reading.

"After ye blessing was craved by Mr. Garrich of Wrentham, word came that ye buck was shot on ye Lord's day by Pequot, an Indian, who came to Mr. Epes with a lye in his mouth like Ananias of old.

"Ye council therefore refused to eat ye venison, but it was afterward decided that Pequot should receive 40 stripes save one for lying and profaning ye Lord's day, restore Mr. Epes ye cost of ye deer, and considering this a just and righteous sentence on ye sinful heathen, and that a blessing had been craved on ye meat, ye council all partook of it but Mr. Shepard, whose conscience was tender on ye point of ye venison."—New York Tribune.

Thanksgiving Games.

Children in New York are devising games to be played on Thanksgiving day. Usually in the gathering together of families there are a host of young folk who need to entertain themselves.

One game that I think is going to be unusually interesting is the escape from prison.

It requires children who are "up" on geography; still, if need be, it is a lesson in the disguise of pleasure. The game proceeds after this fashion: A map is held by the judge, usually a grown person; then, too, children are chosen and placed in separate corners.

Says the judge: "Now, Carrie, you represent New York in this corner, and, Richard, you are in Moscow imprisoned; you want to get away and reach home by Thanksgiving day. You have got from behind the walls, but what is your most direct route home?"

Then Richard has to tell each sea, country and ocean he crosses to get home for the turkey and cranberry sauce. If he can't do it successfully, he must remain right on the spot on the floor where he stopped until he thinks out his escape.

Other members of the game are placed in prison at various parts of the country. The favorite jails now are located in Spain and Cuba on account of the interest in the war. A leading question is, "If you were put in a Santiago prison, how would you get back to Spain?"

Soon the room becomes filled with prisoners, all trying to get home. Half of them are "stalled" in the center, trying to think of the boundary line which brings freedom; others are just leaving the prison walls.

It has the same interest when got well into it as the southern children find in "runaway negro" or "prisoner's base." When the game has been played frequently, those who join in get very familiar with the junction of countries and learn many straight lines and clever jumps that had not appeared feasible before. For those who are not quite conversant with geography easy tasks are given—for instance, to be placed in a Paris prison and find their way home to Boston.—New York Press.

I Am Thankful—

That I never studied football at college.

That I never praised the poetry of my female friends.

That I never was sick more than two weeks at a time.

That a glass of whisky never put me into an exalted state.

That I never bluffed in a poker game at the wrong time.

That I never repeated a poor joke without feeling sorry for it.

That I never abused the trust put in me by my wife or the grocer.

That I never let my neighbors know the extent of my learning.

That I never originated a theory concerning the origin of microbes.

That I never patented anything intended to revolutionize the age.

That I never used a word of eight syllables when one of six would do.

That I never let my tailor wait more than nine months for his bill.

That I never smoked a bad cigar except in the seclusion of my sanctum.

That I never had any leanings toward philosophy, riding breeches or canvas-back duck.—Boston Globe.

"Beauty and Power." The secret of a woman's power is in her complete womanliness, both physical and mental. This does not mean perfection of outline nor regularity of features. It does not mean wit, nor talents nor accomplishments. It means that physical attractiveness that comes from perfect bodily condition and the bright, happy cheerfulness of disposition which only complete health can insure.

A woman with a bright eye, clear complexion, mantling color in the cheeks and buoyant elastic step and manner has a natural attractiveness that no artificial agency can counterfeit.

A woman who is afflicted with the mortifying misfortune of a dull, sallow, pimply complexion or that listless movement and attitude which provokes only disgust and revulsion in the opposite sex, ought to avail herself of the purifying, invigorating power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which makes a strong, healthy stomach and digestive organism; purifies the blood and imparts a natural stimulus to the excretory functions; insures healthy weight, clear skin, bright eyes and the animated manner and bearing of perfect health.

A lady living in West Virginia, Miss Anna Callow, of Kyger, Roane Co., writes: "It is with pleasure I write you after using a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I think them valuable medicines for female troubles and weaknesses. I could hardly go about my work I had such inward weakness and constant misery in the womb. It worried me so that I would give out in walking a short distance. I had a bad cough and my lungs hurt me all the time. I got very thin, my complexion was bad, and my eyes would get so heavy in the evening they seemed stiff in the lids. I could hardly move them. Many persons were alarmed about me, I looked so bad and had such a cough; they were afraid I would go into consumption. I felt so badly every day that I had no life about me. I used only five bottles in all. I shall ever speak in praise of your grand medicines. They are blessings to suffering females."

Another good thing to have in the house is a vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure biliousness and constipation and never gripe.

Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

Thayer Academy 11; Quincy H. 5

Thayer Academy with a team composed almost wholly of substitutes defeated the Quincy High eleven on the Merry Mount park, at Wollaston yesterday afternoon, by a score of 11-4. While Thayer won her counts by hard straight foot-ball, Quincy won her touch-down on a fluke by stealing the ball after it was down, and which the referee refused to allow. Thayer finally gave the pionts to Quincy notwithstanding the referee's decision in order that the game might proceed. Thayer also came near having another touchdown, as at the end of the first half the ball was but two feet from the goal line. For Thayer the work of "Bulley" Harrison Wales, who was injured in the first half, Brigham and Adams were the features. For Quincy the all round work of Magnuson, Linwell and Fox was most noticeable. The summary:

BRAINTREE.

Mr. H. A. Jones is suffering with catarrhal fever.

The High school reception has been postponed to next Tuesday night.

Schools will close next week Wednesday for the remainder of the week.

Dr. Fred Allen has engaged office room with Dr. Jones on Hollis avenue.

The new desks have arrived for the Monatiquot, Union and Jonas Perkins schools.

Thayer Academy eleven will play the Brockton High this afternoon at Brockton.

The recount of the vote for representative which took place Tuesday evening in the Town hall, resulted in a gain of one vote for Mr. Mellen.

Some of the Thayer foot ball eleven say that money was stolen from their clothing while they were in Franklin last Saturday. It was bad enough to be beaten without being robbed.

Mr. Field of the Monatiquot school is arranging a course of instruction in Delsart gymnastics and reading for the young ladies in the 7th and 8th grades. Miss Sherman of Wollaston is to be the instructor.

The Jonas Perkins School Association held a meeting last Tuesday evening. They have taken up the study of American Literature. Mrs. William Allen read the historical paper and Mr. Edison the criticism.

Another of those pleasant receptions for which the people of East Braintree are so noted, was given to the teachers of the town and parents in that vicinity on Wednesday evening by the Jonas Perkins school association and in spite of the many attractions the hall in the Jonas Perkins building was well filled.

Another town meeting is on for next Friday evening at 7.30. The important articles will be to see if the town will authorize the Water Commissioners to settle with the New York Hydraulic Construction Company by paying $1250. To grant an increase of $100 in the salary of town treasurer; and appropriate an additional $1,000 for repairs of highway.

On Wednesday the hand of death removed another aged and respected citizen of our town, Mrs. Anna L., wife of Mr. Lewis Richards.

Rev. A. A. Ellsworth will preach in the First church Sunday morning. Subject: "What is it to be a Christian?" by request.

Thursday Thanksgiving sermon, at eleven o'clock, A. M., at First church. Rev. Edward Anderson will preach. Subject: "The Destiny of our National Progress." Mr. Anderson is an eloquent preacher. All the congregations in town having no services, are cordially invited to join in this union service—clergymen to take part without further notice.

The Gen. Sylvanus Thayer Women's Relief Corps held their eleventh anniversary in G. A. R. hall on Monday evening. The little hall was filled with members of the corps and comrades of the Grand Army. The evening's entertainment opened by Mrs. Alice S. Kane, president of the of Corps, in a well chosen speech, welcoming all present, especially the comrades of the G. A. R.

All persons interested in foot ball will be pleased to learn that Manager Waite of the Braintree A. A. has arranged a game with the strong Weymouth eleven for a game on French's Common Thanksgiving morning. Mr. Waite hopes all attending the game will contribute to help pay expenses. A strong team will represent this town. Coughlan, Allen, Hayden, Waite, Reviere, Gannon are sure to play and other strong players will be engaged.

Another rehearsal of the Union Choral society took place at Weymouth Wednesday evening. There were more Weymouth people present than at the previous meeting but the many attractions kept many Braintree people away. The next two meetings will be in the chapel of the First church Braintree and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. Other new music is to be taken up.

Admittance to the High school reception will be by invitation only. Children in grades below the High school are not expected to be present.

A SOCIETY WEDDING.

Miss Ellis of Braintree Becomes Wife of Cape Man.

The pleasant home of Mrs. Louisa Ellis, at Braintree, was the scene of a pretty home wedding Wedneday evening. The contracting parties being her accomplished daughter, Miss Hattie Howard Ellis, and Mr. Harry Sands Burgess, son of Mr. J. I. W. Burgess of Wareham.

The ceremony was performed at 6.30 by Rev. A. A. Ellsworth in the spacious parlor, in front of a bank of ferns, palms and white chrysanthemums.

The bride and groom were escorted to the parlor by the ushers and two little flower boys, nephews of the bride, who scattered flowers while the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march came from the opposite parlor.

The bride wore white Duchess satin trimmed with Duchess lace, an heirloom from the bride's mother and the conventional veil, with orange blossoms worn by the groom's mother thirty years ago, and carried a beautiful boquet of bridal roses.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the relatives only and was immediately followed by a grand reception. The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by the bride's mother, Mrs. Louisa Ellis, and Mrs. M. L. Jennings, the groom's father, mother and sister, Miss Burgess and the bride's brother, Mr. Stephen I. Ellis, and wife.

Two hundred guests among whom were some of the most prominent citizens of Braintree and surrounding towns called between the hours of 7.30 and 9.30, to extend their best wishes to the happy pair.

Refreshments were served by a Boston caterer during the evening. The wedding cake was made by the bride's mother and has been highly commented upon.

A 10.30 Mr. and Mrs. Burgess, with great difficulty escaped from the throng of friends armed with old shoes brought from miles around, and bags of rice, which they had kept well concealed during the evening.

The very efficient ushers were Mr. Horace Drinkwater, Mr. Harry L. Patten, Dr. Fred Allen and Mr. Harry I. Tinkham of Boston, a cousin of the bride.

The little flower boys were Masters Herbert and Lewis Ellis, who carried baskets of flowers tied with white satin ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgess were handsomely remembered with numerous and costly presents, among them a check from the groom to the bride, also a check from the groom's father. After a short wedding tour they will reside at the corner of Washington and Union streets. At home to friends after December 7.

It can be truthfully said that the occasion lacked nothing. It was the social event of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Burgess begin life with the assurance that they have the best wishes of the community.

The next meeting will be held on Saturday, December 3d, at which time Mr. C. K. Bolton, librarian of the Boston Athenaeum will be the speaker.

All interested in the activity and work of the club are invited to be present.

The plot is full of interest and the characters introduced offer excellent opportunities for all the principal members of the Castle Square Stock company, the cast announced being as follows: Alfred Adrianse, J. H. Gilmour; Captain Lynde, Tony Cummings; Rev. Harry Duncan, Charles Mackay; De Wolf De Witt, J. L. Seeley; Mr. Barritt, William Humphrey; Miss Fanny Ten Eyck, Miss Lillian Lawrence; Miss Lu Ten Eyck, Maude Odell; Mrs. Ten Eyck, Lizzie Morgan; Flora Penfield, Mary Saunders; Alfred, Little Dorothy Reed. THE TRUE TONIC TRUE'S ELIXIR is not a stimulant but a blood purifying, cleansing and harmless mixture of vegetable ingredients which cures disorders of the digestive tract and expels worms. It does not whip the tired organs into temporary activity as most remedies do, followed by an equal reaction, but True's Elixir removes the cause of the trouble and its tonic effects are due to good, sound digestion and pure blood, which follow its use. A favorite family medicine for 47 years. Its popularity is due entirely to its cures. Ask your druggist for it. 35 cents a bottle. DR. J. F. TRUE & CO., AUBURN, ME.

Keith's Theatre.

The most interesting novelty was furnished this week at Keith's theatre in the form of an illustrated recital by Mr. Mason Mitchell of Roosevelt's Rough Riders, who was wounded at the battle of San Juan. Aside from a fine stage presence and well cultivated voice, there is an earnestness and sincerity, as well as modesty, in Mr. Mitchell's delivery, that holds the audience spellbound from start to finish of his lecture. His engagement has been extended another week in order that all who wish may hear him, particularly residents of suburban towns, who found it impossible to visit Boston during this week. John E. Camp, the English comic singer, will also be retained for the week of Nov. 21, as his specialty has proven one of the most popular acts of the kind that has been seen here for some time. Other bookings are: The Matweef-Hugoston troupe, Russian acrobats and dancers; Percy Henri, musical artist; Mason and Forbes, comedy sketch; Welby, Pearl, Keyes and Nellis, clog and step dancers; the Nonderscript Trio, blackface acrobatic comedians; Mason and Titus, shadowgraph pictures; the Valdares, trick and fancy bicyclists, and new pictures in the biograph.

Boston Museum.

There could hardly be a better Thanksgiving week attraction than "The Ragged Earl" in which Andrew Mack is appearing with such conspicuous success at the Boston Museum. Mr. Mack is a New England boy and his rapid advancement in the profession is a matter of great pride to all New Englanders who now see him universally recognized as America's ideal Irish Comedian. He has never been seen in Boston to greater advantages than the present season, for "The Ragged Earl" gives just the sort of a character which he plays so well. The young, jaunty, true-hearted nobleman at home in finery or in rags, kind-hearted and brave as a lion. All these elements of character are finely brought out by Mr. Mack, who proves that he is a romantic actor as well as a comedian. One of the best remembered features of the entire production is the introduction of the new songs by Mr. Mack. These are especially tuneful and are given by him with that expressiveness which has won popularity for so many pieces in the past. It should be borne in mind that there will be a special Thanksgiving Day matinee on Thursday, which will be especially appreciated by patrons from out of town.

CONFLICTING STORIES.

Told by Men Placed Under Arrest For the Stoughton Robbery.

Answer the Description of Woodbury's Assailants.

Both Deny That They Are Guilty of the Crime Charged Against Them.

Stoughton, Mass., Nov. 21.—Chief of Police Vanston visited Brockton yesterday and arrested Charles H. Allen and Ernest Stromberg on the charge of assaulting and robbing Asa M. Woodbury at his residence on School street in this town last Friday night. Allen is a resident of Stoughton and Stromberg formerly resided here, but now lives in Brockton. When arrested Stromberg was in the custody of the Brockton police, having been apprehended by them on Saturday for theft committed since the Stoughton robbery in company with a woman named Mrs. Lottie Talbot.

The men tell conflicting stories regarding their whereabouts last Friday night and the police are very confident that the prisoners are the men who committed the Woodbury robbery. They answer the description of the robbers furnished by Mr. Woodbury, Allen being tall and stockily built, while Stromberg is much shorter and lighter.

The robbery occurred about 6 o'clock Friday evening. Mr. Woodbury, who is about 65 years of age and has been ill for some time, was sitting by the kitchen stove when two masked men entered, and while the taller and stronger of the two held him the other went through his pockets and robbed him of a pocketbook containing $50 and his silver watch, overlooking a roll of $200 in bills which he carried in another pocket. They then made their escape, being seen as they left the room by Mrs. Woodbury, who was in another part of the house when the robbery was committed and had been attracted by the noise of the struggle.

Allen was brought to the Stoughton lockup, but Stromberg is held at Brockton. Both men will be arraigned in court here tomorrow. According to the police very strong circumstantial evidence has been secured against the prisoners. They say that within half an hour after the Woodbury assault and robbery occurred Stromberg went into the house of a neighbor on Washington street, exhibited a watch and said he was going to his home in Kansas City; that his father had sent him a ticket to go home with. The day before he had borrowed money enough to buy his breakfast in town. He had no watch then and had no money with which to buy anything of the kind. He went to Brockton on the 7 o'clock electric car Friday night, and told several conflicting stories in regard to his father sending for him to come home.

When asked to show the ticket his father had sent he said it was in Boston, and that he still had $1.50 to pay on it there. When arrested he had several pawn tickets upon his person. When Chief Vanston went to Brockton to arrest him he found that he was locked up in the police station there in company with Allen's daughter, Mrs. Lottie Talbot, on the charge of the larceny of rings, Mrs. Talbot has been separated from her husband some time and has been living with Stromberg in Brockton.

Stromberg is about 21 years old, of light complexion and weighs about 125 pounds. He is a painter by trade and came here from Kansas City about a year ago, telling at the time that he had taken $200 from his father and ran away from home.

Allen is about 45 years old, lives in Stoughton and is a common laborer. He has been arrested several times for larceny and has served time in Plymouth jail for larceny from the Porter church in Brockton. He was arrested in Brockton just as he was boarding an electric car.

In an interview Allen stated that the first he knew of the robbery and assault upon Mr. Woodbury was when he read the account of it the next day in the newspapers. He said he worked until 3 p. m. Friday, then went to his home on Washington street, where he lived alone, and stayed until 5:40 o'clock. Then he went out and called on a neighbor, remaining at her home the rest of the evening.

Labor's Voice.

Boston, Nov. 21.—The Central Labor union, at its meeting yesterday, was visited by a delegation from the striking shoe workers of Marlboro, who explained the situation. At the conclusion of the visitors' remarks resolutions censuring the manufacturers and pledging the moral and financial support of the union to the strikers were adopted. The union took up the question of the Irish political prisoner, John Flannagan, recently released and retained beyond our lines, discussed the action of the immigration commissioner at Quebec, and adopted a resolution "that we demand the release of John Flannagan, now detained by a United States officer, whose only crime was a desire to have his native land secure her political independence."

Was Gone Five Years.

Portland, Me., Nov. 21.—Captain George B. Leavitt of the steamer Newport, one of the ice imprisoned whaling fleet in Alaskan waters, arrived at his home in Deering yesterday after an absence of five years. Captain Leavitt speaks very lightly of his experiences the past winter, saying that they had plenty of food, such as it was. He says that the reports of their condition were greatly exaggerated, and that the Bear relief expedition was unnecessary, as the government knew, but that she was sent out to quiet clamor at home.

Against Annexation.

Boston, Nov. 21.—At an adjourned meeting of the organizers of the movement against the annexation of the Philippines a constitution was adopted, officers were elected and an address was issued to the people of the United States, urging prompt co-operation in getting signatures to a protest against the annexation of the Philippines. Edward Atkinson presided. Before the meeting he received a telegram from Andrew Carnegie stating that he had sent him a check for $1000 for the use of the movement. Funds have already been subscribed liberally.

Archdeacon In the Pulpit.

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 21.—Archdeacon Van Buren conducted services yesterday at St. Thomas Episcopal church, where so much trouble between the rector, Rev. Dr. Quinn, and the vestry, which ended in the rector's resignation, has occurred. There was a large congregation present. The archdeacon gave the people advice, saying that he thought that they should be careful before they made a selection for a rector in the future.

May Get Long Sentence.

Boston, Nov. 21.—A man arrested Saturday night while pocket picking, and who was supposed to be James Murray, from pension papers found in his pocket, was yesterday declared at police headquarters to be James Davis, alias George Wilson, alias "Philadelphia Jimmy." He is known from Maine to California. It is possible that when he is tried on the charge of stealing his long criminal record will be introduced and if convicted he may be sentenced under the habitual criminal act.

Fell From a Train.

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 21.—Train hands on a train from Boston report that a member of battery K of Portsmouth fell from the train while it was crossing a high bridge over the Merrimac river at Newburyport last night and was drowned. The battery reports that one of its members, Michael Kelleher, 26 years old, was visiting friends in Newburyport and was to have returned to duty last evening. There seems no doubt that Kelleher was the unfortunate man.

Name Was Minnie Ward.

Boston, Nov. 21.—The woman who jumped or fell from a window in Hotel Capri, 1200 Washington street, last Thursday night, and concerning whose death there is still more or less mystery, has been identified as Minnie Ward of Burlington, Vt., where her father now lives. She has worked in this city for some time, having been employed at the Massachusetts eye and ear infirmary, also in a dining room.

Verdict of Manslaughter.

Dover, Me., Nov. 21.—A verdict of manslaughter was returned in the case against Paul Peter for the killing of John Smart, a Kineo guide, the grand jury having reported a bill of murder against him. The trial occupied an entire week, and the defense was that during a row between the men Peters shot Smart in self-defense.

Shot at Housekeeper.

Rockland, Me., Nov. 21.—John Lee, proprietor of the St. Nicholas cafe, attempted to shoot Mrs. Addie M. Morrison, the housekeeper at the St. Nicholas hotel, yesterday. The shot failed to hit the intended mark. Lee was apparently intoxicated. He was arrested.

Murder In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—May Boockh, aged 26 years, was shot and almost instantly killed yesterday, and several hours later Vincent Tortorelli, an Italian beer bottler, aged 50 years, was arrested on suspicion of having committed the murder. Tortorelli is married and has a family, and the dead woman is said to have been his mistress. According to a woman locked up as a witness, Tortorelli called on the girl in her room. The two were singing, and soon afterward Tortorelli came down stairs, saying there was trouble up stairs. The girl was found unconscious with a bullet in her head. She died on the way to the hospital. The man was arrested. He said the girl had taken the revolver from the table where he had laid it and shot herself.

Master Workman Parsons.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—John W. Parsons of New York was elected general master workman of the Knights of Labor by a close vote over the present general master workman, Henry H. Hicks, who is also a New Yorker. J. D. Schoufaber of Baltimore was selected as a member of the general executive board in place of Henry Bostock of Muncie, Ind. Boston was chosen as the place for next year's convention. All the other general officers were re-elected. The new leader is president of the National Association of Letter Carriers, and has been prominent in labor affairs.

Thurston's Intentions.

New York, Nov. 21.—The Tribune says: For some time there has been a persistent report to the effect that Senator Thurston would resign his seat in the senate and retire. He said yesterday that he would, in all probability, serve out his term, but added that he would not under any consideration be a candidate for re-election. "A year ago," he said: "I had a business opportunity that if I had now I would accept and leave the senate, but just at present I will doubtless continue to serve through my term."

Southern Blood Stirred Up.

Macon, Ga., Nov. 21.—W. O. Finney and his son, Tom, fought a street duel at Milledgeville yesterday with W. B. and J. R. Stanley. W. O. Finney was killed and Tom Finney will probably die from his wounds. The Stanley brothers are perhaps fatally wounded. Tom Finney runs a restaurant. W. B. Stanley cursed him about the dinner served. Tom went out and got his father, the two encountered the Stanleys in the street and the fight followed.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to T, and today's instalment is the first of the Ws:

Hicks Arrested.

Charles W. Hicks, who was arrested in Boston last week, as a confidence man, was well known at Norfolk Downs, where he has made his home for some years. During his residence there he attracted wide-spread attention, as he was always well dressed and wore several sparkling diamonds. He was also considered quite liberal with his gifts to his friends, some of whom got diamonds. But little was known of him before he came to Norfolk Downs, but the impression given out was that he was very wealthy and was not obliged to work for a living.

BOYNTON RAILROAD.

Given a Location Through West Quincy by City Council.

Ward Four People Were Enthusiastic for the Road.

Quincy and Wollaston Realized Its Mistake When Too Late.

There was a large attendance at the adjourned meeting of the City Council Saturday night, West Quincy in particular being well represented, as that section was interested in the proposed route of the Boynton Bicycle railroad.

Councilman Cain, Little, Merrick, Prout and Willard were absent.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication stating that the suit of Arthur W. Woodward against the city for damages sustained on Willard street in the spring of 1897 had been referred to a referee who had awarded Mr. Woodward $320, which had been paid out of the appropriations for Misellaneous City Expenses. Placed on file.

A petition was received for State aid and referred.

MOTIONS, ORDERS, ETC.

Councilman Hill offered an order for $100 for rebuidling the culvert under Newbury avenue.

In support of the order he said that it was an emergency case. The culvert had caved in and the water had backed up and filled several cellars. The Inspector of the Board of Health says it is detrimental to health.

Commissioner Knowlton when called on said the Board of Health considered it necessary to draw the water off that is being held back. He would put in a pipe culvert which would be all that was necessary this fall.

The reference to a committee was withdrawn and the order adopted.

Councilman Freeman offered an order for the Committee on Elections to meet on the evening of Dec. 6, to canvass election returns. Adopted.

Upon motions of Councilman Jameson rule one was suspended, and it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until Monday, Dec. 5.

A recess was then taken for ten minutes.

BOYNTON RAILWAY.

The order granting the Boynton Bicycle railway a location then took its second reading.

A public hearing on the above order was then held.

Ex-Chief Engineer Walter H. Ripley thought the map shown was a little indistinct as to owners of land through which the proposed route was to pass. The proposed route cut his property but he did not know what the damage would be or how much would be taken.

Engineer Tupper who surveyed the line then came forward and explained to the gentleman by the plan what he desired to know.

John J. Byron said he owned no shares in the road, owned no property along the route and he was not in the employ of the New Haven road, but thought public interest was not considered. The first petition was the one for he interest of the people. He did not believe the Bicycle railroad was putting their money into it to develope swamps, but to develope Quincy and he saw no reason why they should not have the first location. From a financial point this was not a desirable location and he doubted if the road would accept it. Those employed in Boston would be benefited by the first route. It was enough for him to know that the Legislature and the Aldermen of Boston thought it feasible. It was no argument to say the road only existed on paper, and it was unfair to give a location in swamps. It was also unfair to the citizens of Quincy of the present and future. It would not develope land at West Quincy as it was not suitable for residential purposes, and you would be serving the citizens better by giving them the location petitioned for. The riding portion is 50 to 1 in favor of the centre and this means a saving of car fares and was in the line of rapid transit. Here is a system that brings you within five minutes of Boston which means much to business men.

Councilman Badger doubted that the ratio of travelling public was 50 to 1 in favor of the centre.

Councilman Parker asked if he was present at the other two hearings.

Mr. Bryon said that he was but he did not take part for he believed that the Council would give it the consideration it deserved, but as it did not he now appeared. The opposition in the centre was a matter of sentiment which must give way to progress.

Henry H. Faxon objected, as the West Quincy route was not a proper one. He did not believe Boynton would accept it. They want their road in thickly settled districts and the other route was the best. The objection to it was a selfish one. He hoped the railroad would go through his land and that they would build a depot on it. He always favored a railroad as every time one was built valuation would increase. The more railroads you have the better facilities and the better it is for the city. It was absurd to think that anyone would invest their money to go through such a God-forsaken place as West Quincy.

Councilman Hill asked if Quincy was not a God-forsaken place before the Old Colony road was built, to which Mr. Faxon replied of course it was.

Ex-Councilman T. J. Lamb thought the Committee on Streets had shown considerable wisdom and the proper place for the road was the one shown on the plan. West Quincy needs bracing up and this is the thing that will do it. It would add value to the property and he hoped the road would soon be built.

Ex-Councilman W. T. Shea did not believe in Ward One having everything. It is claimed that the centre does not want it but we do. It will accommodate a great deal of South Quincy travel. The Assessors find us in Ward Four as well as in Ward One. The Committee on Streets has shown good judgment. We want rapid transit as well as other people and he hoped the Council would give the location at West Quincy.

Ex-Mayor Porter asked if in laying out the location at Beale street as four feet east of the Milton line meant the centre.

Mr. Tupper replied that was the track line it was optional with the railroad which side they took the forty feet on.

To a question from Mr. Faxon, if Mr. Boynton liked this location, Mr. Tupper replied that he did not know.

Ex-Senator Merrill asked whether if the Council was not obliged to grant the location petitioned for. If not granted could it be demanded later.

City Solicitor McAnarney replied the company does not have the selecting of the location, except a reasonably direct one.

Ex-Mayor Porter asked if it would not be better to have the whole forty feet inside the Quincy line.

Councilman Parker said the four feet east of the line left 20 feet in Quincy which would be ample.

Councilman Packard asked if Mr. Tupper had provided for eight stations in Quincy.

Mr. Tupper replied that he did not consider stations.

John A. McAloon thought from the remarks of Mr. Faxon that the road was being constructed entirely for Quincy centre. He did not suppose Fall River people cared whether they went through Quincy centre or West Quincy, there was as good building land in West Quincy as any where. West Quincy now had one train an hour and the running time was nearly forty minutes.

The hearing then closed and upon motion of Concilman Parker the rules were suspended.

IN THE COUNCIL

The question came on passing the order granting the location.

Councilman Badger said he had been interested in the hearings on the locations through Quincy centre, an in view of the opposition he could not vote to grant the locations asked. But I realized the railroad would be a good thing for West Quincy and I interviewed several. Everybody in West Quincy wanted it. I am ready to give land for a part for the railroad if need be. The road would open up nice land, especially on Adams street. East Milton would be pleased also, and Wollaston would be benefited. The Councilman estimated that from 7,000 to 10,000 people lived on the proposed line in Quincy. Reflecions had been cast upon West Quincy, but I find there are some big-hearted people there as elsewhere. He would amend the order to provide for at least six stations in the city.

Councilman Jameson favored the order. His personal preference was between Second and Third hills at Wollaston and through Cranch pasture. He thought it would benefit more people. But he was willing West Quincy should have it.

Councilman Hill favored the location through West Quincy. He believed it would be a greater benefit to the city as it would open up considerable new territory.

Councilman McGrath would oppose if he thought the line would ever be built. But it seemed only visionary, and it mattered little where it was located. Mr. Boynton had not impressed him favorably. He did not object to West Quincy having the road. He expected the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. would soon be equiped with electricity and that Quincy would be well accommodated.

Councilman Packard argued that stations should be located. Quincy should have at least ten and they should not be over the streets.

Councilman Clark thought it unnecessary to trouble ourselves about stations. If the company wants business it will establish frequent stations.

Councilman Jameson thought it was not within the province of the Council to locate the stations. Further we should not have doubts as to the building of the road, but be careful and locate it in the best place.

Councilman Poland agreed. The

The showing of these views was accompanied by patriotic airs by Mr. McCue and Mr. Harrington. There were also selections by an orchestra.

The Herald thinks that the Quincy Yacht club has done a good thing in cutting its cup loose from the Y. R. A. of Massachusetts. It says, "The members of the Quincy Yacht club have now seen light, and, in order not to be hampered by any ridiculous racing rules which the M. Y. R. A. might enact, have struck out all reference to this association in deed of trust governing the cup, so that now the club has full control of its own challenge cup."

Commissioner Knowlton is doing a substantial job on Payne street and when completed the abutters will have no reason to complain about damage to property as it will be greatly improved. The only wonder is that this street was not put through before. It is not only near the home of the Adamses; but on it and near by their lives a Representative to the General Court, three ex-Councilman, one of the present Council, and two candidates for next Council.

The Rev. R. W. Peach and the Rev. D. Kerr exchanged pulpits Sabbath evening and it was somewhat strange that both preachers should deal with the same subject, viz.: "The Christian," but from different stand points. Rev. Mr. Peach preached from 1 Cor. 26:13, and dealt with the Christian in relation to true manliness in faith and practise; while Rev. Mr. Kerr preached from 1 Peter 4:16 and dealt with the Christian in relation to suffering and service in the church and in the world. Both discourses were much enjoyed by the respective congregations.

There is a barbed wire fence on the wall along the Brackett estate on Hancock street that is not only a nuisance but dangerous and against the law and should be removed. Several ladies who have occasion to use the sidewalk in this vicinity complain that in walking by the fence, especially when there is a high wind, there wraps are blown against the barbed wire and torn. The fence in question was placed on the wall several years ago to keep young men from roosting there and it has served its purpose well and should now be removed before someone meets with a serious injury which would end in a suit against the city.

WEYMOUTH.

The W. R. C. fair will be held Dec. 7, and 8, in Odd Fellows' Opera House, East Weymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Frank Beals of Milwaukee returned home Saturday.

Five new members were voted into the Boys' Lyceum last Monday evening.

Assistant State Superintendent Houck of Pennsylvania will lecture on "The Educational Outlook" at the High School hall, Dec 6, and on Dec. 8, will lecture on "The Old and the New."

Union services will be held on Thanksgiving morning at the Congregational church, East Weymouth Rev. Mr. Kingsley will deliver a sermon at 10 30.

A most interesting lecture will be given at the Odd Fellows' Opera house, East Weymouth, on Tuesday evening by Major Du Chesney on the Civil War.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church, East Weymouth, celebrated its anniversary Nov. 16. An excellent programme was rendered to a large number in the church, after which all were invited to a fine collation in the room below. A most enjoyable evening was had by all.

Unknown parties broke into the East Weymouth lockup sometime Sunday night. Their mode of entrance was through the coal scuttle. The object of the break was to secure liquid refreshments which it was known the liquor officers kept there. The larger part of the liquid goods, however, had been removed a few days before and the fellows secured but little for their trouble. The liquor was kept in a special room, the lock of which the parties had to smash to get in.

Mr. Stephen Cain a prominent Mason and Odd Fellow, died at his home in East Weymouth Saturday in his 81st year. He was a mason by trade and was widely known along the South Shore. It was his boast that he had attended every session of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows for the last 35 years. A widow, two sons and a daughter survive him.

Lynn Item: "The ladies were amazed and delighted, and eagerly watched the work of Mrs. Earl, who, after preparing the tempting dishes, presented them to the audience. The sight was inspiring, domestic, fascinating. Every one was enthused with the lessons they had learned."

BOYNTON RAILROAD.

road may be a success and a benefit to Quincy. The only objections to the first location seemed to come from Goffe street people. No business men had come forward to express an opinion, and none from the outlying districts had been heard. We should consider it as good as built and whether it would be a benefit. It seems practicable. The Legislature and Boston city government had sanctioned it. Wollaston people regarded it as foolish to put the railroad away from the people. We are taking chances of driving the road out of Quincy. With the advent of a new road would come a reduction of fares and better service on the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. He hoped every Councilman would be heard. Rapid transit cannot come too soon.

Councilman Parker said the Boston city government had nothing to do with the location secured in Boston. Boynton had endeavored to obtain additional location of the city but had failed. Our City Solicitor recommends that nothing be incorporated in the order which would be illegal.

Concilman Badger said there would be no opportunity for changing the location in the order as it was necessary that the order be put through tonight before 12 P. M., as the sixty days expired. He considered the West Quincy location just right.

Councilman Packard would give the road to West Quincy.

Councilman Swithin spoke of Mr. Boynton's refusal to change his petition. He favored also the West Quincy location.

Councilman Jameson thought at the three hearings the people of the city had had every opportunity. The road could not go through Milton under the charter, and If Mr. Boynton went to the Legislature again he might lose all.

Councilman Hill also thought every opportunity had been given. As Quincy opposed and West Quincy was anxious for the road, he believed West Quincy should have it.

Councilman Packard said we had a survey of the West Quincy location and he doubted if there had ever been one of the Quincy route. On the West Quincy route there would be very little damage.

The order was then put on its final passage and was passed unanimously 16 to 0, the vote being:

Yeas—Badger, Clark, Freeman, Hill, Hultman, Jameson, Keith, McGrath, Newcomb, Nicoll, Owens, Packard, Parker, Poland, Sidelinger, and Swithin—16.

Not Voting—President Pinkham.

Absent—Cain, Merrick, Nash, Prout and Willard.

Mayor Sears promptly signed the order and presented to Councilman Badger the pen.

ADAMS STREET TRACKS.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing on the removal of the street railway tracks on Adams street, between Hancock street and Alleyne street, and the granting of a new location through Alleyne street. Adopted.

TIT FOR TAT.

Councilman Parker moved that the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds be requested to report on the improvement of the Ward Six playground.

He said that the chairman of the committee had taken occasion to call the Committee on Streets to do on a delinquent report and here was one he had had longer.

Councilman Poland said if the Council wanted it they had but to ask for it.

The motion prevailed.

PLUMBING.

Councilman Packard presented at the request of the Board of Health a new plumbing ordinance, which was given one reading and referred to joint committee on Ordinances and Health.

ADAMS STREET AGAIN.

E. P. Howland and others petitioned that sidewalk on the east side of Adams street between Hancock and Alleyne streets be raised. Referred to next City Council.

Adjourned at 9.40 to meet Dec. 5.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

But no Battle Ax to chew!!"

One of the most convincing proofs of the really GENUINE excellence of BattleAx PLUG

is the unwillingness of those who have chewed it to chew anything else—even if Battle Ax is not obtainable for a time. They do not want any other kind. When all is said and done, the fact remains that Battle Ax is so good—so thoroughly good and satisfying, that nothing else can take its place.

Justice In Demands Upon Spain Tempered With Mercy.

Question Whether Spot Peace Is Worth Spot Cash.

There Will Be No Deviation From Terms Originally Decided Upon.

Washington, Nov. 21.—There was no meeting of the joint peace commissions Saturday. The first proposition from the United States commission to the Spaniards regarding the Philippine islands was not a demand. To bring the subject under discussion the Americans merely submitted a proposal to take over the Philippine islands and relmburse Spain the amount spent by her there for permanent betterments.

Spain declined the terms and the proposal itself. Had she stopped there the United States would have been compelled to repeat the proposal as an ultimatum, or to tender new terms. Spain, however, put off any consideration of terms by declaring that the United States had no right to impugn her sovereignty in the Philippines; that, if her sovereignty there should pass, the mortgages she had placed on the Philippine revenue must be underwritten, and that her dignity forbade her to heed any questions as to how she spent the loans so secured.

The Americans patiently replied that the peace conference was charged with the disposition of the Philippines and the sovereignty there. They laid down the broad principle that expenses incurred in a futile attempt at subjugation should not be loaded upon the colony seeking freedom. Finally they affirmed their right to inquire as to the destination of moneys raised by pledging the Philippine revenues.

All this postponed a discussion of the main question; but in their next memorandum the American commissioners will go to the vital point. Definite notice will be given that the United States will take over all the Philippines; and Spain will unquestionably learn the terms from which there will be no deviation. It is more than likely that the Americans will flatly summon Spain to effect immediate amicable adjustments.

Should she refuse to make a treaty ceding the Philippines to the United States, the instant alternative for America will be the conquest of that territory at an increased cost to Spain in the final settlement, and, possibly, with loss of Spanish life. It may be held that the Philippines, if ceded now without any terms would be an inadequate indemnity to the United States for their war expenses already incurred, and that Spain cannot expect, as a legal or a moral right, any monetary concessions. Philippine acquisition by conquest, however, would entail upon the United States a waste of treasure far greater than a sum that Spain may accept now as the basis of peaceful cession.

Spain, being barren of territory or cash to indemnify the United States fully, even at this juncture, would be still less able to meet an additional expense to the Americans in further operations in the Philippines. Moreover, a speedy adjustment of local Philippine condition is demanded. Spain could not in any circumstances effect this. The Americans have assumed responsibility, and they feel that the delay here prevents their discharging it. It is fully realized that the business interests in the United States are more or less in a condition of unrest, pending definite peace conclusions, whether now or after renewed hostilities. This disquietude, they feel, should be composed, and the normal conditions of peaceful thrift be established.

Moreover, although Spain affects to believe otherwise, the quality of mercy is not absent from the situation. The American commissioners cannot fail to see with a certain amount of pity the fading away of a once proud power, bereft of her colonies in the east and west. While Spain has no legal or moral right to ask the United States to be a partner in her losses, the Americans here recognize her territorial shrinkage, her lessened resources, her empty treasury and her debt-burdened people. They have, of course, no power to express any such feeling of sympathy through the United States treasury; but always assuming the interests of humanity to be concurrently served, gratification on the part of the Americans would follow relief to Spain.

Spain must confront the Philippine surrender. May she not prefer acquiscence and some financial relief to protracted opposition and greater loss in the end? If she acquiesces then peace will follow immediately; if she does not, then war will continue. The question is simply this: Is spot peace worth spot cash?

It s believed that the American commissioners have been deliberating along this line, and that they are inclined to answer the question affirmatively. What the amount may be must obviously be unknown outside the commission—possibly $20,000,000, probably less.

In any tender to Spain care will be taken, doubtless, to convince the Spanish commissioners that the offer of what may seem to them a small amount is not to be considered as indicating that the Americans might be jockied into paying a larger sum. Neither Spanish debts, bonds nor mortgages of any description will be considered, the transaction being cleared up on the spot, probably, if at all.

The Spanish peace commissioners have been notified that the United States commissioners will be ready to treat with them in joint session this afternoon. Unless the Spaniards have an adequate reason for further delay, the two commissions will join in the most important meeting thus far held.

The American commissioners, in a written communication, will declare that the third article of the protocol, regarding the Philippines, is capable of only one fair construction, that no arbitration is needed to elucidate its terms, and that the United States cannot admit any other power to figure here purely as a lexicologist.

This will be accompanied by a clear declaration that the United States will possess the Philippines. Following this declaration the American commissioners will lay before the Spaniards two alternatives: First, to accept a sum of money from the United States and to cede and evacuate the Philippines. Second, to lose the Philippines to the United States by conquest, with the possibility of other territorial losses to indemnify the United States for the added expense of conquest.

This communication may not be formally designated as an ultimatum, but it will lack naught of the conclusiveness indicated by that word. This will be so plain that the Spanish commissioners will scarcely haggle for more money on the first alternative nor cherish any doubt of American action under the second, should the first be declined.

Spain is exceedingly anxious to escape the Philippine debt and possibly the sum to be offered may be determined by an analysis of that debt, which consists of $40,000,000 in bonds, on which she realized $36,000,000. Of the latter amount she is believed to have expended some $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 in fighting the United States and a part in attempting to quell the Philippine insurrection. A reasonable guess at the sum for tender would be $20,000,000, though it may fall below that.

The Cuban question may come up again today. The American commissioners had thought the discussion on that point finished, but the Spanish commissioners are reported to have declared last week that the mortgages imposed by Spain on the Cuban, as well as on the Philippine revenues, must not be impaired or questioned. This would compel the American commissioners soon—and probably today—to demand whether Spain means to repudiate the plain compact of the protocol to relinquish sovereignty over and title to Cuba. Three weeks ago the Spanish commissioners accepted the Cuban article in the protocol without conditions, save that its embodiment in the treaty should depend only upon an agreement on all the articles in the protocol.

Recently, however, Spain's representatives have said that the Cuban matter had been only temporarily passed and was still in abeyance.

When the last paragraphs of the long translation of the Spanish note which was presented to the American peace commissioners last Wednesday was deciphered at the state department it appeared that, in addition to the long argument which was intended to show that the word "disposition" used in relation to the Philippines meant "something else," the Spanish note included a proposition to submit the Philippines clause of the protocol to the interpretation of arbitration.

Another cablegram followed the first long message, this time directly from Judge Day, seeking instructions definitely on some points to be made in the American answer, which is yet to be presented. These instructions have been sent forward, and it may be stated, without going into detail, that they are precisely in line with the policy which the American commissioners have been pursuing up to this point in the negotiations.

In the event that the commissioners disagree totally at their next meeting on the Philippines, there will be no discussion of any of the subsidiary questions, but in the other event, namely, that an agreement shall be reached on the principle of the Philippines disposition, these matters may be expected to consume at least one or two additional sessions of the commission. One of these subjects concerns the restoration of trade relations between the United States and Spain. At the beginning of the war Spain terminated all of her treaties with the United States.

With a view to bringing matters to a speedy conclusion, our commissioners, early this week, will lay before the Spaniards the final and irrevocable demands of this country, allowing a specified time in which our conditions may be accepted or rejected.

This ultimatum, it is understood, involves all that has thus far been contended for, including the surrender to the United States of the entire Philippine group, and also names the amount of cash which this government will pay Spain in consideration of her expenditures on account of pacific improvements and betterments in the island of Luzon.

Source of Much Trouble.

Macon, Ga., Nov. 21.—The Sixth Virginia negro regiment that caused so much trouble at Knoxville is under arrest in camp in Macon, all of their arms and ammunition having been taken from them. They are guarded by a battalion of the Tenth immunes, also negroes. At midnight Saturday night about 80 of the Sixth broke through the lines at camp and started to town with the avowed purpose of killing the white provost guards, each man being armed with a rifle and a belt full of cartridges. Information concerning this action was sent to the provost headquarters and General Wilson at once ordered Colonel Gillard of the Third engineers out to arrest the negroes. The Third went double quick to the camp of the Sixth and found them rioting and disorderly. Further trouble is feared when the Sixth is released from the guardhouse.

Where the Fault Lay.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Surgeon General George H. Sternberg has made his report to the secretary of war. It relates mainly to the work of the medical corps during the war. He says that more than 650 contract surgeons and 1700 women nurses were engaged. The proximity of the camps to cities, he says, was the cause of much sickness, and officers' inexperience and bad sanitary arrangenemts caused most of the rest.

A Fatal "Joke."

New York, Nov. 21.—Michael Egan, a private watchman living in Hoboken, N. J., was shot and killed by his wife, Egan some years ago had a stroke of paralysis and when dressing had to be assisted by his wife. Saturday night he was preparing to go on duty, when he asked his wife to hold his revolver. She, according to her own story, took the weapon from his pocket and jokingly pointed it at her husband, saying she was going to shoot. She pulled the trigger and her husband fell dead. The authorities are holding her, awaiting an investigation. Her husband had two insurance policies on his life.

DID A BIG BUSINESS.

Southall's Swindling Operations Reached Hundreds of Thousands.

St. Paul, Nov. 21.—James H. Southall was until about 18 months ago chief clerk in the United States engineer offices here. In that position he formerly had charge of issuing time checks to laborers on the government works. From discounting a few of these himself he came to handling them for outsiders. The profit was large and the demand great, so that he took to issuing bogus time checks, selling them among his friends. New issues of time checks could always be sold in time for him to cash such as came due, so that he was able to evade discovery for several years, even though no such time checks had been issued by the government for the past six or more years.

The Southall time checks were sought after not only in this city, but were handled all over this country and as far east as Hartford. With the money he realized from the time checks Southall was speculating in the wheat market and backing a local commission house. Last winter he lost considerable money on wheat and finally in February came the exposure.

The amount of bogus time checks on the market is unknown, but the most conservative estimate was $500,000, while others placed it at over $1,000,000. It developed during the investigation, after Southall's arrest, that the government officials had discovered the irregularities in April, 1897, and had discharged Southall, but did not reveal his operations on his promise to make good what was outstanding. On this holders of bogus paper have claimed that the government was liable and should make good their losses.

The jury stood 11 for conviction to 1 for acquittal for 24 hours, when the 12th juror agreed to the verdict of guilty. The penalty is from one to 10 years' imprisonment, but sentence is deferred, a motion for a new trial being set for hearing.

Southall and family moved in the best society and lived extravagantly. The sensation arising from his arrest and exposure was consequently very great in all circles and the trial has been watched closely.

MORE TROOPS FOR PANA.

Governor Tanner Convinced That They Are Greatly Needed.

Springfield, Ills., Nov. 21.—Notwithstanding the declaration by Captain Butler, in command of the national guards at Pana, made to Governor Tanner Saturday, that he felt able to cope with the occasion with the troops at his command, a delegation of about 50 business men of Pana, headed by former Mayor Huber, visited the governor at the executive mansion yesterday and informed him that Pana was in a state of terror, and that Captain Butler appeared to be inadequate to the occasion and asking that the governor send more troops to Pana and take stringent measures to preserve the peace Accordingly Governor Tanner ordered company G, Fifth Illinois infantry, to proceed to Pana last evening. The governor also superseded Captain Butler, who has been in command at Pana, with Lieutenant Colonel Frank P. Wells, Fifth infantry of Decatur.

Quarryman's Awful Mistake.

Portsmouth, O., Nov. 21.—By an accidental explosion of blasting powder yesterday, George W. Ferguson, a quarryman, is dying, two of his children are dead, and his wife and another child disfigured for life. Ferguson was hunting for wood to build a fire, and found a powder can apparently filled with coal. When he attempted to start a fire with this, a loud explosion followed, which knocked the entire side of the house out. At the time Ferguson, his wife and baby in arms and four little daughters were grouped about the stove. All were knocked down by the force of the explosion. Iva, aged 6 years, and Cynthia, aged 11 years, died almost immediately from injuries, and Ferguson was so terribly injured that he cannot live. The mother and other children are terribly burned and bruised and may not live. It transpired that the can was partially filled with blasting powder.

Not Forgotten.

Dublin, Nov. 21.—The anniversary of the death of the "Manchester martyrs" was celebrated yesterday. A procession, headed by the Stars and Stripes and the French tri-color, went to Grasnevin cemetery and placed wreaths upon the graves with the usual ceremonies of decoration. The day was similarly observed in Cork.

Anarchist Suspected.

Paris, Nov. 21.—A terific explosion occurred yesterday in the Cafe Du Champeaux, under the office of the Havas agency. A woman was killed outright and eight other persons were seriously injured. It is thought that the explosion was due to ignited gas, but there are rumors of an anarchist plot.

Fire Brigade Dissolved.

Havana, Nov. 21.—The battalion of municipal firemen, which formed part of the reserve of the Spanish army and which served during the entire three years' campaign, has been dissolved and ceases to exist as a military organization. The entire brigade, with the engines and fire equipment, were turned over to the municipality today.

Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

ULTIMATUM!

Spain Hears America's Final Proposition.

Treaty Cession For Which $20,000,000 Will Be Paid.

Other Suggestions and Considerations Hinge Upon It.

The Philippines to Be Open to Commerce of the World.

Last Opportunity of Spaniards to Avoid the Resumption of Hostilities.

Paris, Nov. 22.—The United States peace commissioners have undoubtedly made their final proposition here. When the conference opened yesterday afternoon, Judge Day, addressing Montero Rios and his colleagues of the Spanish commission, recurred to the protracted negotiations and reaffirmed the desire of the American commissioners to reach an amicable conclusion. Then, handing the American presentation to the interpreter, Judge Day concluded his remarks by saying that the Americans, preferring not to break the armistice or resume hostilities, had determined upon another and final proposition, which he hoped would lead to a speedy and amicable adjustment.

That portion of the presentation setting forth the new proposal—the proposal that the United States must have possession of the entire Philippine archipelago, with a tender of $20,000,000 for a treaty cession of the islands—was then read. Without betraying their mental attitude, the Spanish commissioners suggested an adjournment until Wednesday.

The new proposition, with its collaterals, was embodied toward the end of the American memorandum, which filled 30 type-written sheets. Only this part was read in the joint session, the memorandum then being delivered to the Spaniards for translation by their own staff.

Spain's proposition to invoke the offices of a third power to construe the words "control, disposition and government of the Philippines," was rejected by the American commissioners on the ground that dictation of the third article of the protocol, dealing with the Philippines, is so broad and clear as to afford no justification for arbitration as between the parties to the agreement.

On the terms named the United States proposes a mutual relinquishment of all claims for indemnity, national or personal, subsequent to the outbreak of the last Cuban insurrection. Nov. 28 is fixed as the date on which the United States commission desires a definite response to yesterday's propositions and all other subjects in issue here.

It is also declared that the United States desires to treat of the religious freedom of the Caroline islands, as agreed upon between the United States and Spain in 1886, and also of the acquisition of one of the Caroline islands for an American naval station, and of the cable landing rights at other places in Spanish jurisdiction and the revival of certain Spanish-American treaties as heretofore in force.

The vital portions of the American commission's memorandum were communicated verbally to the Spanish commissioners in practically these terms:

The fact was cited that the proposal presented by the American commissioners in behalf of their government for the cession of the Philippine islands to the United States having been rejected by the Spanish commissioners, and the counter-proposal of the latter for the withdrawal of the American forces from the islands and the payment of an indemnity by the United States to Spain having been rejected by the American commissioners, the latter deeming it essential that the present negotiations, already greatly protracted, should be brought to an early and definite conclusion, now begged to present a new proposition embodying the concessions which, for the sake of peace, their government would under the circumstances be willing to tender.

The government of the United States is unable to modify the proposal heretofore made for the cession of the entire archipelago of the Philippines, but the American commissioners are authorized to offer to Spain, in case the cession should be agreed to, the sum of $20,000,000, to be paid in accordance with the terms to be fixed in the treaty of peace.

It being the policy of the United States to maintain in the Philippines an open door of the world's commerce, the American commissioners are prepared to insert in the treaty a stipulation to the effect that for a term of years the Spanish ships and merchandise shall be admitted into Philippine ports on the same terms as American ships and merchandise.

The American commissioners are also authorized and prepared to insert in the treaty, in connection with the cession of territory by Spain to the United States, a provision for the mutual relinquishment of all claims for indemnity, national and individual, of every kind, of the United States against Spain, and of Spain against the United States, that may have arisen since the beginning of the late Cuban insurrection and prior to the conclusion of the treaty of peace.

Next followed the terms nearest approaching to a formal ultimatum to Spain. The United States commissioners expressed the hope that they might receive from the Spanish commissioners on or before Monday, the 28th day of the present month, definite and final acceptance of the proposals made as to the Philippines, in connection also with the demands as to Cuba, Porto Rico and the other Spanish islands of the West Indies, and Guam, in the form in which these demands have been provisionally agreed to. In this event, it would be possible for the joint commission to continue its sessions and proceed to the consideration and adjustment of other matters, including those which, as subsidiary and incidental to the joint provisions, should form part of the treaty of peace.

It was at this juncture that the Americans notified the Spaniards that they desired to treat of the religious freedom of the Caroline islands, as agreed to 12 years ago, also of the release of political prisoners now held by Spain in connection with the insurrections in Cuba and the Philippine islands, also of the taking over of the island of Kusiae of Ualan, in the Carolines, for a telegraphic and naval station, also of cable station right at other points in Spain's jurisdiction, and also of the renewal of certain treaties previously in force between the United States and Spain and which may have lapsed or been vitiated by war.

The commission then adjourned until Wednesday next.

An analysis of the American memorandum shows that all other suggestions and considerations in it hinge upon treaty cession, at the amount named by the United States and within one week. In the event of cession Spain may enjoy for a term of 12 years rights of commerce in the Philippines equal to those of the United States. If the United States acquire the islands by conquest Spain may not enjoy such rights. Should Spain refuse cession she would remain liable for indemnity claims, national and individual, since the outbreak of the last Cuban insurrection. Should she refuse, she would also lose, probably, as further indemnity for the expenses of conquest, one of the Carolines, which she may now sell, and other cable privileges within Spanish jurisdiction might be taken by the United States without any return to Spain for them.

The Spaniards, doubtless, do not know whether they will accept or reject the American terms. They are telegraphing the substance of the American memorandum to Madrid, and they expect to reply at tomorrow's meeting.

Possibly they may conclude that, because one money offer was made, another and a larger offer may follow pressure upon the American commissioners. But if this be their expectation, it will not be realized. The American terms, submitted almost at the close of eight weeks of patient hearing and painstaking arguments, are a practical ultimatum.

Friendly Comment.

London, Nov. 22.—The morning papers concede the generosity of the offers of the United States peace commissioners and express the opinion that Spain would be foolish to reject them. They express universal gratification at the announcement of the "open door" policy in the Philippines.

The Daily Mail calls the offer of $20,000,000 as indemnity "a surprising act of generosity."

The papers generally take it for granted that the "open door" will be adopted in the West Indies also.

The Daily News says: The United States have not become an Asiatic power, and Lord Salisbury clearly had reason to predict that the expansion of the United States would give Great Britain a valuable ally in the China seas.

Hustling Them Out.

Havana, Nov. 22.—The Spanish mail steamer San Agustin, leaving Nuevitas yesterday for Spain, carried the Columbus monument, formerly in the cathedral, with 287 boxes of archives. She took also 23 officers and 160 soldiers. The Mexico and Chandernagor, leaving for Nuevitas, carried 27 officers. From Nuevitas they will take the troops of the Puerto Principe division. According to official reports 10,827 persons have arrived here as passengers by the various steamship lines since the raising of the blockade.

Spaniards Going Home.

Havana, Nov. 22.—The greatest activity prevails in the Spanish military circles in the arrangements for evacuating the province of Havana, which it is believed can be effected before Christmas. The province of Pinar del Rio will probably be clear of Spanish soldiers before the end of the first week in December.

Berlin, Nov. 22.—The Kolnische Zeitung this morning, in an article supposed to be inspired, advocates an absolute prohibition of the importation of sausages. This advice is aimed at the American market.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to T, and today's instalment is the second of the Ws:

☞ It will be some weeks yet before the Ledger completes the publication of the Assessors' land values. Considerable land in all wards of the city is owned by non-residents, and these lots have not been published. The list will follow the publication of the resident taxpayers, and considerable interest will doubtless be taken to ascertain whether the non-residents pay their proportionate share.

☞ A limited number of back copies of the Ledger containing the land values can be obtained for five cents each at the office of publication.

New Advertisements Today.

Mrs. Creelman —Dress and cloak making.

Pleasant room and good board for teacher.

Good Afternoon.

A grand church wedding and the convention of the two political parties tonight will be enough for one evening.

Councilman Parker seems to have beaten his colleague Councilman Poland at his own game. All the committees of the Council seem to hold back more or less business.

The City Council has not only adjourned over the regular meeting scheduled for last night but it will not meet again until the eve of the City election. Will it have an election rally that night over the contract inquiry and other matters?

The present city government has made but very few loans outside of water and sewers, and at the same time the monthly reports of the City Auditor show that the department have kept well within their appropriations. Mayor Sears is anxious to get in all bills against the city, as will be seen by advertisements. The administration will not only make a good showing but will be in a better financial condition than a year ago. It will this year pay $62,080.00 of the municipal debt; or with water, sewers and parks, $97,080.00.

Councilman Badger was quick to realize that the Boynton railroad would be a good thing for West Quincy, and when he found that Quincy centre did not want it, he interested his neighbors, and after a location had been reported he was enthusiastic to have it adopted. It was not until then that some in Quincy and Wollaston realized that they were putting a good thing from them, but it was too late. However, the location granted through West Quincy will develope considerable land if the road is built and be a great benefit to Quincy as a whole. Quincy centre will not suffer, for the Boynton road there will be a competitor and cause the N. Y., N H. & H. R. R., to give Quincy, South Quincy, and Wollaston better service—not only quicker trains but more frequent trains. It will hasten the four tracking and the equipment with electricity, and when it is possible to go to Boston in fifteen minutes, every fifteen minutes of the day, Quincy will have excellent service.

Prof. Bush's Will.

The will of George G. Bush, late of Quincy, has been filed in the Norfolk Probate Registry at Dedham. In it he leaves $500 to the Vermont Methodist Seminary at Montpelier, in that State, and the same amount to the Cazenovia Seminary at Cazenovia, N. Y., to establish the George Gary Bush scholarship at each place. The income is to be given to deserving students.

The will was executed Sept. 20, 1894, and his widow, Ellen F. Bush, is named as executor.

CONVENTIONS.

Both Parties Will Make Nominations Tonight.

Doubt as to Who Will Run Against Mayor Sears.

Republicans Will Renominate the Councilmen at Large.

Both of the political parties of the city will hold their municipal conventions this evening—the Democrats at French's hall, and the Republicans in Music hall annex.

The action of the Republican convention can be predicted almost to a man. Mayor Sears will be unanimously renominated, possibly by acclamation, and William E. Badger, Alexander Clark, Richard R. Freeman, Charles F. Merrick and George A. Sidelinger will be the candidates for Councilmen-at-large if they will accept a renomination. One candidate at large for the School Committee is to be named and Frank C. Field of South Quincy will probably be renomiated.

There seems to be considerable uncertainty as to whom the Democrats will nominate for Mayor. Delegates who have been interviewed say they don't know. Many names have been mentioned as will be seen below, but the nominees is just as liable to be some one else as any of these:

Hon. William A. Hodges,
Harrison A. Keith,
Hon. William N. Eaton,
Jame F. Burke,
Henry McGrath,
Frederick B. Rice,
Charles T. Baker,
Paul R. Blackmur,
Albert F. Schenkelberger.

Little is heard about nominees by the Democrats for Councilmen at large, but it said that an effort will be made to nominate a strong ticket.

There are at the City election this year 139 more voters than last year a total of 4196. The gains have been in the Republican wards. One of the precincts of Ward Four actually lost 11 while the ward itself gained but 4. The number of voters in 1897 and 1898 are given side by side by precincts below, and also the gain or loss:

	1898.	1897.	Gain.
Ward One,	777	747	30
Ward Two,	596	589	7
Ward Three, precinct one,	469	443	26
Ward Three, precinct two,	410	395	15
Ward Four, precinct one,	408	419	*11
Ward Four, precinct two,	441	428	13
Ward Five,	613	582	31
Ward Six,	482	454	28
The city,	4,196	4,057	139

*Loss.

The vote for Mayor last year does not give the Democrats much encouragment for success this year. It show Mayor Sears to have been elected by a majority of 300 and that he carried five of the six wards. The Dem ocrats, however, point to the vote of Mayor Adams in 1896 and think that with a popular candidate who can draw some Republican votes that it may be duplicated this year. They say it will not require over 1750 to elect their candidate this year.

The Republicans were never more confident of victory and seem to care but little who their oponent is. Whatever disaffections there may be, will be fully offset by gains, so that they look for no decrease in the majority of last year.

The official votes of Quincy at the last two City elections were:

Letters remaining uncalled for Nov. 21:

Frank Bacon, Charles Bamford, Roderick McKenzie, Charles F. Harland, S. Nilson, Richard D. Nash, Twentieth Century Library Syn'd

Mrs. Hattie M. Cook, Annie Glover, Emma Lovell, Miss Mary Sexton, Mrs. Edith Wolf.

☞Saturday afternoon the South terminal officials announced the appointment of Mr. Asa H. Porter as station master, Mr. W. R. Babcock as general ticket agent and Mr. F. A. Tilton as yard master. All of the appointees have had long years of practical experience in railroading, and there is every reason to believe they will add new laurels to their reputations for efficiency in their newer and more important duties.

On to Cuba.

Co. K may be on the move to Cuba before Thanksgiving. A dispatch to the Transcript says:

Official orders were received Sunday from Secretary Alger ordering the Second Army Corps, of which the Fifth Massachusetts is a part, to be held in readiness to proceed to Cuba and to occupy stations there, the movement to take place from time to time as ordered by telegraph.

The corps headquarters are to be at Havana, where the First and Second divisions will also be stationed. The Third division is to be stationed at Mariel.

The men of the Fifth Massachusetts have never seen a more beautiful Sabbath day than Nov. 20 The air was warm and invigorating, the thermometer registering about 80 degrees in the sun. The night was cold, however, and a number of the men suffered somewhat; but this will be remedied by the stoves soon to be issued.

Lecture Recital.

A large audience did not greet Miss Jean Howison at Colonial hall last evening which was a great pity as her lecture recital from, Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush was one of the best things ever given to the Quincy public.

The seventy-five who were present enjoyed the recital from beginning to end and many who did not before appreciate Ian Maclaren's pretty Scotch stories will now read and understand them. Miss Howison was thoroughly at home with her subject and it being her native tongue her rendering touched the right cord in many of the Scottish hearts in the audience.

It is seldom one meets on the stage a woman so easy, so thoroughly at home with her subject. She recited for an hour and a half without notes of any kind. It really seemed more like an interesting talk than a recitation and we can only say as before it is a great pity there were not more present to enjoy it.

MILTON.

Mr. Morton Safford of Milton has been appointed administrator of his mother's estate.

Miss Myra A. Hobbs has returned from Omaha where she has been representing the Walter Baker company at the exposition.

Rails are being laid for the Boston, Milton and Brockton street railway.

The dance held at Ellsworth hall, East Milton, Friday evening was a most enjoyable affair and was very largely attended.

Miss Mary Mackay of East Milton, was surprised Friday evening by her many friends and was presented with an elegant gold watch. A very sociable time was had.

WEYMOUTH.

Miss Fannie B. Chubbuck, assistant in Grades I and II at the Athens school, North Weymouth, has been appointed teacher at the Adams school Weymouth Heights.

A Boys' Brigade has been formed at East Weymouth.

The Post Office at Weymouth Centre is being renovated by the present post master, Joseph A. Cushing.

The W. H. S. football team will line up against Whitman High at Institute park, Thanksgiving morning.

Honor to Whom Honor is Due.

Saturday's account of the foot ball game between Thayer Academy and Quincy High school taken from the Braintree Observer was unfair to the Quincy team. Thayer' steam contained no extraordinarily large number of substitutes, and Quincy began the game with two substitutes and put in a third one.

Thayer's touchdowns were earned. They were the result of clean, hard line—bucking, and no one attempts to deny this fact. Quincy High's touchdown was also earned. On Thayer's 25 yard-line, Thayer man dropped the ball. It lay on the ground 45 seconds, timed on a stop-watch. Then Ford, not Luce, picked it up and carried it over the goal line for a touchdown. How different is this fact, from Thayer's statement of the case:

The play is exactly like that by which Princeton defeated Yale 10 days ago. Pole, the player who made the play for Princeton is now famous, and has made one of the greatest plays ever seen on a foot ball field. Why does not Thayer Academy recognize this, and give Ford the credit for the fine play which he made.

CRISP LOCAL NOTES.

All Up-to-Date Lively, Sparkling and Bright.

Quite a heavy frost this morning.

City election two weeks from today.

It looks now as though there would be a snow storm before night.

The Loyal Ladies' of Clan McGregor, O. S. C., holds their annual masquerade ball this week.

The new city stables are now completed and will be described at length in Wednesday's Leger.

A church wedding and two municipal conventions should furnish excitement enough for one evening.

Many are going to East Milton tonight to attend the ministrel show of the Tuesday Evening club.

Now that the sewer is being put in on Hancock street people realize how narrow the street is from Col. Packard's estate to Music hall.

You will not be disappointed in your turkey if you trade with local markets. They sell only reliable goods which are worth a little more than poor stock.

The base ball and foot ball seasons are ended but golf still holds on. The next sport on the programme is skating and the first ice will set the ball in motion.

Dexter Remick and Councilman Elisha Packard were guests Monday evening of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company at the Quincy House, Boston.

It looks now as though the clergymen would be busy between now and Thanksgiving, for the City Clerk issued seven marriage licenses Monday and this morning issued two more before 10 o'clock.

Dr. N. S. Hunting is moving into his new home on Hancock street. Mr. Wilson Tisdale is also getting into his new home. Both families expect to eat their Thanksgiving dinners this year in their new homes.

The Sewer department opened another new trench this morning on Hancock street opposite Greenleaf street and are moving north to connect with the manhole at the corner of Hancock and Alleyne streets.

If the Quincy & Boston Electric road will run their cars with some regularity in Atlantic, they will carry more passengers and stop a good deal of kicking. They say as they now run they are perfectly useless.

The Quincy Young Men's Christian Association is endeavoring to secure Gen. James A. Beaver, an ex-Governor of Pennsylvania, as a speaker at the Business Men's banquet on Dec. 7. Gen. Beaver is on the War Investigating Committee.

Carrie E. Ruggles Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, of Wollaston, gave a coot supper at Odd Fellows' hall on Monday evening at seven o'clock. The tables were crowded with members of the lodge. The supper was well served and would have suited the most fastidious epicure.

The auction sale of the Thompson Baxter estate at the corner of Chestnut and Canal streets will be one of the attractions of Thanksgiving morning. It is centrally situated, in an excellent neighborhood, is elevated land and should command a good price. It will be sold in four lots.

The Alcyone Whist club has been recently organized at Wollaston with these officers: President, Mrs. J. C. Haskins; Vice President, W. F. Nichols; Secretary, William A. Jordan. Members: Mr. and Mrs. William A. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Poultry, Mr. and Mrs. Gilman M. Stokes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Comins, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Haskins and Mr. and Mrs. Hall of Dorchester.

If at any time during the present week, you are asked to buy a ticket for the popular Monday evening course of lectures at the Universalist church, which begins Nov. 28, you need not hesitate to do so, as you are sure to get the worth of your money if you only attend half of the number in the course. In fact, the opening lecture by Gen. Taylor of the Globe, ought to be worth the price of admission for the entire course. When one can hear such talent at an average price of nine cents per lecture, he should jump at the chance, as a literary investment on such reasonable terms is seldom offered.

No-License Campaign.

The Citizens' No-License Committee at their meeting Monday evening decided to issue 4,000 copies of a temperance paper to be called "The Duty of the Hour," and awarded the contract to Geo. W. Prescott & Son. Speakers are being secured for the No-License meetings, and the dates, etc., will soon be announced. Mrs. Lake of Kansas who spoke so effectually at West Quincy last year, will this year make the principal address at Quincy Music hall on Sunday evening, Dec. 4.

LOCAL NEWS TRACK.

Some Colts which are Sure Winners Every Heat.

The Golden Rod for November is out today.

Miss Annie Ago of Glover avenue has been quite ill.

The first 1899 calendar in Quincy is that issued by C. F. Pettengill this morning.

The smelts have begun to run up the river again, and excellent fishing is reported.

Mr. Robert Scholes of Connecticut, is visiting his son Mr. W. I. Scholes of Billings street.

F. A. Skinner, the photographer, advertises that his studio will be open Thanksgiving day.

The dance that was to have been held by the Norfolks at Music hall, Atlantic, Saturday evening, was postponed on account of the heavy rain.

P. G. Jacobs, P. G. Cobb, P. G. Keith, P. G. Goodridge and Noble Grand Jenness of Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., attended the dedication of the new Odd Fellows hall at Cohasset, Monday evening.

A load of hay was capsized on Washington street near the corner of Canal street this morning. The culvert over Town brook at his point is being rebuilt, and but a narrow part of the road is passable. As the load of hay was capsized at this point the street was blocked for a time.

Commissioner Knowlton is doing a good job in widening and rebuilding the culvert over Town brook on Washington street. The culvert was too wide to cover with stone and old railroad iron is being used. The old rails are first laid across and then a layer of cement is put on. This is followed by more rails and cement so that when completed the covering is fully as solid as anything can be and will last for ages.

The fifty or more ladies who attended the opening lecture of Mrs. E. J. Earl at Colonial hall Monday afternoon were delighted with the instructions in cooking which they received, and it is safe to say that all will be present today and tomorrow if engagements do not interfere. Each lady was requested to bring a fork, spoon and napkin and they did this willingly, and they pronounced dishes cooked as remarkably good, and have already commenced to experiment at home.

Troublesome Indians.

Price, Utah., Nov 21.—Nearly all the bucks of the White River Utes and part of the Uintah tribe are off the reservation, and probably a great many of them are in Colorado. Henry Harris, a half-breed, who was sent out by the acting agent, has so reported to Major Ilsley. A large detachment of cavalry will be sent after them. The Indians say if the government won't pay for the land they bought from them, they will hunt on it as often as they can get there to hunt.

Feared a Rebellion.

London, Nov. 21.—The Pekin correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, referring to the 'precariousness of the empress dowager's tenure of power," says: She decently dismissed an able minister, Huyummei, from the tsung li yamen at the request of General Tung, because she feared a rebellion among the Kang Su troops of Tung.

SOME FOOLISH PEOPLE

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 25c. and 50. Trial size free. At all druggists.

An Open Letter to Co. K.

When Thanksgiving day comes a great number of Quincy boys will be away down South in Dixie, and we hope they are very thankful that better days have come to our land. These soldiers will be pleased at a Kindergarten patriotism among the children who helped to send our holiday gift, and so we all "salute the flag."

Quincy is busy these days and there are secret sessions in various corners, as to the disposition of wise and unwise citizens for the duties of the coming year.

For ourselves, in spite of the fact that we thought our Mayor too young a year ago, we hope he has grown a year older and will occupy the throne the coming year. We hope you all will use your leisure hours in camp in serious study of this grave, all important lesson of government. The failure in the United States since spring should be our teachers.

Quincy is busy stretching out its lusty limbs in ever direction and it will need your good work by and by.

A very pretty new church is going up on a sightly hill in South Quincy. That section is a little city of churches.

The Hospital is receiving of our bounty and all are opening heart and purse to help it. A prominent business man in the Centre who sent you two turkey legs, which we hope will be tender and will reach you, says—"these men in Co. K who have no families are well placed now in a business way, as they can save some pennies for a rainy day if they are careful." It is easy to let money flow through our fingers, and temperance in all things may be learned in camp.

Letters from Co. K have been very welcome; they tell us what we want to know, personal news, who is raising a beard, who has shaved; who is out on guard, etc., etc., and now our sermon is ended. We want our company to be at the head of the regiment in all things, except in actual warfare, which please God has gone never to return to our shores. Veteran.

Politics in Other Cities.

There is opposition among Medford Republicans to the renominatioon of Mayor Lovering.

L. Herbert Huntley has been nominated by the Somerville Republicans for Mayor.

The Democrats of Waltham have endorsed George L. Mayberry who will run for Mayor on Citizens nomination papers.

Mayor Eaton of Lawrence has been unanimously renominated by the Republicans.

Haverhill has four candidates in the field for Mayor: Moses H. Dow, Republican; Daniel S. Chase, Democrat; John C. Chase, Social Democrat; Ernest C. Peabody, Socialist-Labor. The prohibition party may add another in the person of Frank N. Rand, former city marshal.

The Republican delegates of Marlboro are for Walter B. Morse.

Alderman Edgar F. Belding has been nominated for Mayor by the Independent Citizens of Fitchburg.

Quincy Point Magazine Club.

Friday evening, Nov. 18, a party of persons interested in science, literature and art wended their way to the home of Mr. Frederick H. Smith. It was the annual meeting of the Magazine club and the usual delightful, merry evening was spent. The busines meeting consisted of a discussion of books and magazines and the election of officers and committee for the ensuing year.

The following members were chosen:

President and Treasurer, — Mr. Frederick H. Smith.

Vice President,—Mr. T. B. Pollard.

Secretary,—Miss Raycroft.

Board of Directors,—Mrs. Smith, Miss Dorcas Higgins, Miss Freeman and Miss Thomas.

Lafayette Monument Fund.

The Lafayette memorial Commission has been requested by President McKinley to report to him the amount of funds contributed by the school children of the United States for the erection in Paris of a monument of La Fayette. The Commission is desirous that postmasters and public and parochial school officials forward the amounts held by them at the earliest possible date to Treasurer Charles G. Dawes, Washington. It is expected that Congress will appropriate for a pedestal an amount of money in duplicate of the pennies and nickels given by the children which will approximate $50,000 or $60,000. This appropriation will be asked for in the form of La Fayette souvenir half dollars, the silver for which will cost the government half the face value or $25,000. It is thought that the coins may readily be disposed of at a premium or one dollar each.

—Remember the Seventh Exhibition of the Brockton Poultry Association, Massasoit hall, Brockton, Mass., Nov. 29, 30, Dec. 1. Send to C. H. Pope, secretary, for premium list for entry blank.

Over Thirty-Five Dollars.

The Thanksgiving fund raised by the Daily Ledger for Co. K was closed today, and the amount sent to camp is over $35. This sum it is estimated will supply the company with 150 pounds of turkey and also vegetables, fruit and all that goes toward a first class Thanksgiving dinner. The Ledger desires to return thanks to all who so kindly remembered the soldier boys who responded to their country's call.

Local Politics

Up to Monday night City Clerk Cleaves had received three official withdrawals from the caucus nominations, all Democratic, viz: John J. Day for Coucilman in Ward Two, Daniel Desmond for Councilman in Ward Two, and James F. Harlow school committee in Ward Two.

The Bonnie Brier Bush.

A treat to cultivated tastes, was given in Colonial hall last evening. As usual in the best work behind the effort, was the refined personality of the individual. Those who have been fed from childhood upon Scott and Burns and who later have lived with Mrs. Oliphant, William Black and the other fine writers and thinkers from Scotland welcome this lady in her lectures or recitations.

Her tact in trying to avoid raising sad feelings in the last scene when the doctor of the old school triumphed over life, was rare and took away from the depression that usually attends such readings. The evening is one to be remembered and must have appealed strongly to those whose feet early trod the land which she so ably represented.

Another Fine Volume.

Standard books are ever welcome when they come to us in forms and bindings representing all the embellishments of the art of bookmaking. Such a book is the Naval Battles and our New Navy, published by The Dominion Company, Chicago, a copy of which has just come to our desk. The contents are well arranged, the illustrations are fine, the print is clear and neat and the binding is superb. The Dominion Company is forging ahead as the leading western publishing house making a specialty of fine subscription books. Having sales people in nearly every nook of the country, the company enjoys a large and growing trade. As this company has a known reputation for liberality towards its agents and fair treatment of them and agency in this community for the above book, or some other published by his company, woulld be a source of considerable profit to the one fortunate enough to secure it. Interested readers shoud write the company for full particulars.

OPERATIVES WALK OUT

Three Thousand Refused to Submit to Reduction In Wages.

First Affair of the Kind In Southern Mills.

Matter of Interest Apart From Particular Issue of the Movement.

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 22.—After threatening for some days, the local mill trouble culminated in an individual walk-out yesterday. Over 3000 employes are idle, three of the larger and one of the smaller mills being included in the trouble. They are the King mill, 30,000 spindles and 1085 hands; Sibley, with 900 hands and 40,256 spindles; Enterprise, 33,000 spindles and 900 hands; Isetta, 3653 Spindles and 105 hands.

The affair is styled "an individual walk-out," while it is in reality a strike. The trouble began about a month ago, when the Southern Manufacturers' association announced that, in order to meet competition, it was necessary to make a reduction of from 8 to 13 percent in all branches of the industry. When the scale of reduction was posted, it was found that it started in some cases below the second hands, none above being cut. Straight away the operatives began organization under the direction of the local representatives of the Federation of Labor. Saturday the merchants of the city, with but two exceptions, presented to Charles Estes, president of the association, a petition asking that no present reduction be made, as it would precipitate a strike.

The walk-out started in the weaving department of the Sibley, operatives from the King joining. The strikers then went over to the Enterprise and were joined by the workers there.

A mass meeting was held yesterday afternoon, the speeches being made by several operatives and Patrick Walsh, mayor of the city. Upon his suggestion a committee was appointed to wait upon the mill owners to see if the matter could be adjusted. Their conference will take place today. Meanwhile there is firm determination on both sides. There has been no disturbance, though the factory district is a perfect hive of meetings.

Some time ago announcement was made by the Southern Manufacturers' association of a reduction in wages in the Augusta mills of from 8 to 13 percent. The operatives held meetings and took steps to organize, with a view to contesting the position taken by the mill owners. One or more representatives of eastern labor unions appeared to advise and encourage the mill hands in resisting the proposed reduction. The help presented a petition to the Manufacturers' association setting forth their objections to the cut.

President Charles Estes of the association recently said that the Augusta mills were paying higher wages than those paid elsewhere in the south, and that the cotton business generally has dropped to such a low level of prices that it is impossible for them to continue the higher rate of wages and compete with outside mills. He also said that so far as the "bosses" in the mills were concerned Augusta was paying no more than many other southern mills, while the salaried officers were receiving considerably less, the excess thus being in the wages of the operatives.

Augusta is the only southern city in which a labor organization in connection with the cotton industry has been attempted. About two years ago Mr. Howard of Fall River spent some time in that city, and left behind him an operatives' union in an apparently flourishing condition, but it soon began to languish, and in the early part of this year was in a moribund condition. It has been revived. Apart from the particular issue of the movement between the operatives and the manufacturers the labor movement in Augusta will be watched with much interest, as it may prove to be the introduction of a new factor into southern textile industrial conditions.

Printers Quit Work.

Columbus, O., Nov. 22.—A strike was inaugurated by the men in eight of the 12 union job printing offices yesterday under the rule recently adopted by the national organization calling for 9½-hour day with 10 hours' pay.

Galveston, Nov. 22.—The printers and pressmen in the house of Clark & Courts, to the number of nearly 100, are out on strike. They demand 35 cents an hour. The firm is willing to pay 31½ cents.

Indianapolis, Nov. 22.—All the job printing establishments in the city closed yesterday owing to a strike of the press feeders for shorter hours. Two hundred men are involved.

Few Stitchers at Work,

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 22.—There are few changes in the shoe strike situation here, although a number of the striking stitchers gathered in front of the Middlesex factory of Rice & Hutchins at the closing hour yesterday and made a few remarks to the dozen or more stitchers as they left their work. There were, however, no disturbances, and the stitchers soon moved off. It is said that there are five hands now at work in the Middlesex factory, and that the firm is perfectly satisfied with the showing. At a meeting of the board of aldermen a petition, originating among the strikers, which requested the free use of the town hall for purposes of entertainment and for meetings during the strike, was refused.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast

Sun rises—6:45; sets, 4:16.
Moon sets—2:01 a. m.
High water—7 a. m.; 7:30 p. m.

The storm was central last night in northern Illinois, moving northeast. It is attended by rain and high temperatures and followed by snow flurries and a cold wave. The disturbance will be felt in New England tonight and Wednesday morning in the form of rain and high winds. Snow flurries are possible with clearing weather and falling temperature Wednesday afternoon or night.

WINTER'S ICY BLAST.

High Winds and Snow General Through out the Northwest.

St. Paul, Nov. 22.—The first snowstorm of the winter has prevailed throughout the northwest during the past 24 hours, and it still continues without much abatement. The snow has been accompanied by a high wind, reaching in many places the proportions of a genuine blizzard. The fall of snow has not been great, but the wind has drifted it badly, and in many places there is considerable delay to railroad traffic. Specials from various points in North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and northern Iowa report the storm still prevailing and local business impeded. The weather observer here predicts that the storm will continue today, and will be followed by a cold wave.

Battleford and Colgary, in the British northwest, report temperatures of 21 and 28 degrees below zero, and other places say that zero weather is prevailing.

Locally the storm has been quite severe. About three inches of snow has fallen, and a gale has drifted it badly The mercury is rapidly falling and the weather observer believes it will go to 10 or 15 below zero.

The storm was especially severe on Lake Superior, Duluth reporting a 70-mile gale.

MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED.

No Firearms Can Be Carried With n the City Limits of Pana.

Springfield, Ills., Nov. 22.—Owing to a continued clashing of, white strikers and negroes at Pana, and the danger of a more serious affray, Governor Tanner has declared martial law at that place.

The governor's proclamation prescribes the limit within which martial law prevails as one mile beyond the city of Pana, and forbids all persons to carry any arms, either publicly or privately, and commands the surrender of all firearms to the officer commanding the national guard within 48 hours.

Experts Say 'Twas Yellow Fever.

Washington, Nov. 22.—The officials of the marine hospital service and Health Officer Woodard both take issue with Dr. Doty of New York in regard to the cause of the death of Archie M. Miller, whose death here last Friday was attributed to yellow fever. They express the opinion that Dr. Doty's opinion that Mr. Miller died of malarial trouble is colored by his desire to excuse himself for allowing Mr. Miller to pass quarantine at New York. A marine hospital surgeon said: "You may say for the marine hospital service that we are entirely satisfied that Miller died of yellow fever. The case was seen and handled by four of our experts. The autopsy performed upon the body of Miller showed that the diagnosis of yellow fever was right."

Encouraging Signs.

Washington, Nov. 22.—General James Longstreet, the commissioner of railroads, in his annual report, calls attention to the general prosperity in railroad affairs and, referring to the increase in commerce following the acquisition of new territory, recommends the government construction and operation of a first-class double-track railway from Kansas City to San Diego, Cal., by air line route. He says the physical condition of our railroads generally is better than ever before. He points to the spectacle of roads which a short time ago were in receivers' hands now paying dividends on their preferred stocks and piling up surpluses.

Life In Dawson.

Washington, Nov. 22.—In a report dated Dawson City, Oct. 1, United States Consul Cook presents an interesting picture of the Klondike town preparing to go into winter quarters. Large quantities of logs were being piled in front of business and other houses to serve for fuel and small fortunes were being made by parties who were bringing in glass and oil lamps. Butter was selling at $2 a pound, and the price of condensed milk and other products had doubled. It was predicted that 5000 people would be working through the different creeks in the Dawson district on the winter diggings, beginning in the middle of November.

In Memory of Heroes,

Shanghai, Nov. 22.—Prince Henry of Prussia yesterday unveiled the monument to the officers and sailors of the German cruiser Iltis, which was lost in a typhoon on July 23, 1896, north of the Shan-Tung promontory. The ceremony was very impressive. A large force of German sailors and marines were present with American, British and Austrian sailors. The Shanghai volunteers were also represented. The Iltis was a small cruiser. In the disaster all but 10 of her company perished. According to the tale of the survivors the officers and men gave three cheers for Emperor William as the Iltis went down.

Comes Off Tonight.

New York, Nov. 22.—The sporting element in this city, which is being augmented hourly by new arrivals, is in a ferment over the meeting between James J. Corbett and Thomas Sharkey tonight before the Lenox Athletic club. It will certainly go on without any interruption by the police authorities. Both pugilists are in the best possible shape for the encounter and, while each seems confident of victory, Corbett is still the favorite among the majority of sporting men.

May Be a Smuggler.

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—Honolulu advices say: The sloop Volante, 26 days from San Francisco, arrived in port on the 11th, and created more interest than a big liner would. She is a trim little craft, 25 feet long, with a 9-foot beam. The captain and crew are John Oliver and Alden Johnson. Adventure, pure and simple, is the animating principle of their cruise, they say. The officials do not dissemble their suspicion that the Volante is an opium smuggler.

Backed by Br tishers.

New York, Nov. 22.—The American Sardine association, for controlling the output of the manufacturers and packers of this country, is finally assuming shape. It will be governed by British capitalists. Hiram R. Steel is in charge of the work of getting up the corporation. Mr. Steel says the new company will be capitalized at $3,000,000, with shares at $100 each.

POLICE TAKE KEOUGH.

Former Tax Collector Charged With Embezzlement of $115,000.

Did Not Secure Bail, So Spent Night In a Cell.

Has Been Free to Come and Go While Books Were Being Examined.

Holyoke, Mass., Nov. 22.—The sensational charges against James C. Keough, former tax collector of this city, reached their climax last night in his arrest on the charge of embezzlement. The sum named is $115,000. Keough was arrested while eating supper and was taken to the police station and locked in a cell, where he now is. Efforts to secure bail have been fruitless so far.

The warrants were sworn out by City Marshal Edward Gorman, under direction of City solicitor C. T. Callahan and Clerk Tierney of the police court, there being three separate charges—embezzlement of $15,000 of moneys collected by Keough for the city in 1895, and the embezzlement of $50,000 each for the years 1896 and 1897.

As soon as Marshal Gorman received the warrant at 4:30 o'clock, he sent Detective Lynch to this city to watch the trains leaving for New York. He himself visited the places of business in which Keough was interested, and, not finding him at either of them, decided to go to the house. Meantime, as it was later learned, Lynch and Keough had passed each other on the road to the city.

Keough was eating supper when the marshal arrived, and was allowed to finish his meal before going to the city hall. He walked down from the Highlands, and after buying a cigar arrived at the police station at 7:30 o'clock. Keough would talk but little and would not admit any guilt.

When Captain Peters led him to the detention room he showed traces of emotion, the first observed since he has been under suspicion. Friends called on him during the evening and night and a careful watch was kept over him to see that he did no violence to himself. It is not thought that he will be able to secure bonds, although an effort was made to get them last night.

T. J. Flanagan of the bondsmen visited Keough at the police station after his arrest and held a brief interview with him. Mr. Flanagan, who is one of the bondsmen, stated that the bondsmen would hold a meeting and probably take some action on the matter, though what form it would take he was unable to state.

He felt sorry for Keough and his family, but the feeling that Keough had misrepresented matters to himself and the other bondsmen made a difference. There would be no effort on the part of the bondsmen or other men interested, so far as he knew, to bail Keough out; in fact, until a preliminary hearing had been held, and the bail fixed, he understood that it would be impossible to do anything.

In the first report of E. M. Estes, the first expert engaged in the case, he reported that there were "erasures" to the extent of $118,000 on the books. These were erasures of money that had apparently been received.

Meanwhile, for two months, Keough has been going and coming from the city at his own will, continually saying, "It's all right" to those who asked him about it.

About three weeks ago the bondsmen of Keough, and Keough as principal, were attached for $175,000 by three writs, and yesterday the final notices were served on them by the deputy sheriff. The writs were returnable the first Monday in December, and the city will then begin its suit against James C. Keough as principal and the bondsmen as sureties.

The criminal action has been deferred until the city solicitor could secure what he considered satisfactory evidence of fraud, and, though there has been complaint on the part of those who wished to have Keough immediately apprehended, the aldermanic committee has sustained the city solicitor in this matter.

The arrest of Keough was discussed at the meeting of the aldermanic committee in the city hall yesterday. The city solicitor maintained that since the matter was in the hands of the law department the reports of the experts must be made to him alone. He also stated that nothing could be done until the experts had reported more fully. This they seemed to have done, and the arrest followed as a matter of course.

To Abolish the Office.

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 22.—At the reassembling of the legislature yesterday the joint committee to investigate the expenses of state officials and the state attorney made its report, the document being read in the senate first and later in the house. The chief criticism is against Adjutant and Inspector General Peck. So severe was the criticism that the bill abolishing the office and suspending the maintenance of the militia for two years was passed by the senate by a unanimous vote. The bill is expected to pass the house with equal unanimity. General Peck arrived here in the afternoon, and he feels very badly over the odium cast upon his administration of the office.

Seventeen Men Injured.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 22.—A loss of between $75,000 and $100,000 is the estimated damage of yesterday's fire in the pork packing establishment of John P. Squire & Co. In addition, 17 firemen were injured, one of them probably fatally. The property loss is fully covered by insurance, and President Squire of the company, who watched the fire almost from the first, said the firm would rebuild immediately. Whether James Ward, the watchman of the Squire plant, is dead or not seems to be a matter of doubt. Many persons claim to have seen him after 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The man could not be found last night, however.

Ilollo Not Taken.

Madrid, Nov. 22.—The report that the insurgents have captured Iloilo, capital of Panay, in the Visayas group of the Philippines, is declared untrue. It is said that measures have been taken for the defense of the town by the Spanish authorities.

Early In the Field.

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—At the Palace hotel here are registered a number of prominent Filipinos. They came direct from Manila, and are en route to Washington. The object of the visit to the United States just now is to present large claims for damages before the president and cabinet. The damages, the claimants assert, were incurred owing to the recent war with Spain, and an attempt will be made to show that valuable property owned by the Filipinos was destroyed by the American troops. It is not definitely known how large an indemnity will be asked for.

Turk an Easy Winner.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—Adeli, the terrible Turk, last night made his first appearance in this city in a wrestling match, easily defeating Rudolph Wolff, champion of Australia, in two successive falls. Adeli was 70 pounds heavier, and while the Australian made a strong effort the Turk handled him with ease.

Pleasant Dreams.

It does not lie in the painter's fancy to imagine a prettier picture than that of a young girl, with lips luscious with the promise of love, half parted in the smiles of happy dreamland. The mind of happy maidenhood is a clear and polished mirror, which, when the wits go wandering into the ghostland of dreams, reflects the impressions of waking hours. If those impressions are pleasant and painless and happy, she will smile in her sleep. If the impressions are those of a suffering woman, tortured with the special ailments to which the feminine organism is liable, the picture is spoiled by the lines of suffering and despondency. Maladies of this nature unfit a woman for joyous maidenhood and for capable motherhood. They incapacitate her to bear the burdens of life in any sphere of action. Household, marital and social duties alike are a burden to the woman who is constantly suffering from headaches, backaches, dragging sensations and weakening drains. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription positively, completely, unfailingly cures troubles of this nature. It imparts health, strength, vigor to the distinctly womanly organs. It fits for carefree, healthy maidenhood, happy wifehood and capable motherhood.

"I have a little step-daughter who had St. Vitus's Dance, which your medicine cured," writes Mrs. T. F. Boze, of Ford, Dinwiddie Co., Va. "I spent about twenty dollars for doctor's bills and medicine, and it did not do the child one cent's worth of good. We commenced giving Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and used three bottles of each, which cost only six dollars. Now the child is running around every where and is just as healthy as ever."

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

ON THE RUN.

Corbett Looked Like a Sure Loser.

Suspicious Interference by One of His Seconds.

Sharkey Surprised Onlookers by His Clever Work.

Apparently Had the Ex-Champion Completely at His Mercy.

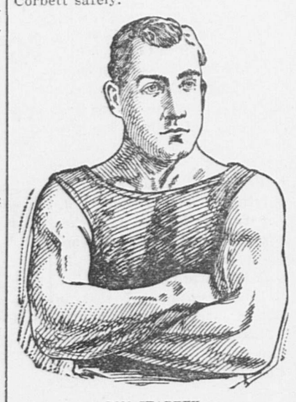
Fitzsimmons Must Prove That the Sailor Lad Is Not His Superior.

New York, Nov. 23.—Referee "Honest John" Kelly stopped the fight between Corbett and Sharkey at the Lenox Athletic club last night at the end of 1 minute and 48 seconds in the ninth round. He did so because Connie McVey, one of Corbett's seconds, jumped into the ring, which was contrary to the rules.

This was followed by another decision that all bets were off.

It was a most unfortunate and abrupt ending to what promised to be a most interesting fight. For weeks both Corbett and Sharkey had trained faithfully and carefully for the contest, and when they stripped last night each of them showed in excellent condition. Sharkey was very confident of success, and the manner in which he acquitted himself in the ring while the fight lasted showed very plainly that his confidence was founded on good grounds.

Those who believed that Sharkey could not fight fairly changed their opinion after the bout had gone one round. On the other hand, Corbett hit the sailor in the body rather low and Sharkey protested. Sharkey's quickness and aggressiveness were astonishing from the very beginning, and from the very first it was evident that he held Corbett safely.



TOM SHARKEY.

In the second round there were wild yells from the admirers of the Irishman when he floored Corbett with a right swing on the head, which was preceded by a powerful blow on the body. Sharkey's rushes were successful invariably and Jim's quickness and leg work were tested to their utmost in trying to evade the aggressive sailor pugilist.

That Sharkey has improved wonderfully goes without saying, and, on the other hand, that Corbett is not the Corbett of New Orleans is beyond question. At no time had the Californian the upper hand of his younger and more sturdy rival. Sharkey is a fighter and a clever one at that, and his work last night stamps him beyond all doubt as being second only to Fitzsimmons, who will have to meet him in order to decide which is the better man, and when those two meet they should put up a fight which will be worth witnessing.

From the second to the eighth round Sharkey held a decided advantage. In the ninth round, which was so productive of disappointments and unlooked-for incidents, Corbett seemed to be stronger than at any time during the fight, but it was evident that he was slowly, but surely, fading under Sharkey's onslaughts. It was two to one on Sharkey after the second round, and had not McVey acted as he did there is very little doubt that Sharkey would have won handily. Some of the most prominent bankers, brokers, lawyers, doctors and business men in this and other cities were present during the mill, and not one of them could see any reason for interference by McVey. The general belief is that McVey acted from some unexplained motive, and some persons said of the ring. Inspector McLaughlin caught hold of McVey to pull him out again, but the latter was evidently more than anxious that Kelly should see him. In this he was more than successful, but not until half the people had yelled repeatedly to Kelly to disqualify Corbett.

When the big Californian realized what had occurred, he was furious with passion and rushed at McVey. Had he caught the latter there is no telling what Corbett would have done in his frenzy, but the police were on hand and rushed between the men, thus avoiding a scene which would have added to the disgraceful exhibition. That the untimely incident will injure pugilism in this city is beyond question.

A close estimate placed the attendance at 9000, and it was learned that the receipts exceeded $45,000.

that he jumped into the ring to prevent Corbett going under.

When McVey first put his leg through the ropes the referee evidently did not or would not look in that direction, but continued to pay close attention to the fighters, who were mixing it up in the center

A Batch of Opinions.

John Kelly, the referee made the following statement: "I stopped the bout and gave the decision to Sharkey because McVey, one of Corbett's seconds, in violation of all rules, jumped into the ring. I called all bets off, because I believe the action of McVey was paid for by somebody who had bet on Sharkey, and I did not propose to decide public money on a palpable fake. I would not be a party to such a fraud. No one can tell me McVey lost his head. He has been behind fighters for years, and there was some fraudulent deal behind his movement. So far as I can see, the fighters were on about even terms when I stopped the bout in the ninth round."

McVey said: "I jumped into the ring because I saw Sharkey hitting in almost every clinch and sometimes so low that anybody ought to have been able to see it. I called out to the referee time after time in the last round, and then I could stand it no longer and stuck my head through the ropes, but Kelly did not see me, and then I saw Sharkey hit Jim in another clinch. I guess I lost my head and put my foot over the ropes and they gave the fight to Sharkey. I am sorry that I am the cause of the decision being given against Corbett. He had Sharkey whipped, but I could not stand seeing Jim get fouled without making a protest."

JAMES J. CORBETT.

Corbett said: "I think that those who saw the fight will agree that I had Sharkey whipped and could have had the decision in another round or two. It was my misfortune that McVey jumped into the ring to call the referee's attention to Sharkey's foul fighting. He did fight foul—he hit me low once in the second round and again in the seventh. I did not see McVey jump into the ring, and when Kelly said, 'you win,' I thought he meant me, because I knew I had away the best of it. After I realized that the decision was against me I offered to fight it out with him then and there, but he walked away. I ought to have gone right after my man and whipped him in four rounds. I will leave the decision to those who saw the fight."

Sharkey said: "I regret that Corbett's seconds got into the ring, for in a few more rounds, perhaps the next, I would have put him out. I fought fair. Corbett struck too low once or twice. Not a blow that was delivered hurt me. I have not a scratch or mark on me. I believe I can whip Corbett or anyone else and stand ready to fight him or anybody in the world, Fitzsimmons preferred. Corbett's cleverness counted for nothing. Here I stand tonight without ever having lost a fight on a foul and having just stood Corbett off with all his much vaunted cleverness for eight rounds without a scratch on me. I can best any man in the world."

Beneath Fitz's Dignity.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Robert Fitzsimmons is now here. He has all along declared that the fight between Corbett and Sharkey would be a fake, and when seen after the result was known, he exclaimed: "Didn't I say it would be a fake, and it was a big fake. McVey jumped into that ring on purpose to stop the fight, and it was all fixed for him to do it."

"What will you do in regard to any challenge that Sharkey or Corbett may send in your direction?"

"Do?" said Fitzsimmons, with great scorn, "I'll pay no attention to either of them. They have put themselves further away from any intention from me than ever. Let them go and get a reputation. This kind of fighting makes me tired. It ain't on the square. There is only one honest fighter, and his name is Robert Fitzsimmons."

Nancy Guilford Is Quite Unexpectedly Brought Into Court.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 23.—Nancy A. Guilford, who was extradited upon the charge of murdering Emma Gill last September, was brought to a special session of the criminal superior court in this city yesterday, and bail fixed at $10,000. The special session of the court was authorized by Chief Justice Andrews, upon the application of State Attorney Fessenden, and Judge G. W. Wheeler was appointed to preside. The matter was kept a profound secret until 30 minutes before, not even Attorney Klein, Mrs. Guilford's counsel, being apprised of the matter until a half hour before court opened.

Mr. Klein opened what will prove to be a long drawn out legal contest by offering a motion to quash the indictment against Mrs. Guilford, on the ground that Judge Robinson erred in charging the grand jury that death resulting from an attempt to secure an abortion was murder in the second degree. This question is one for the supreme court to determine, so that Attorney Klein's purpose is plain. He pleaded for a bond to be fixed at between $3000 and $5000, at which respective amounts the bonds of Mrs. Rose Drayton and Mrs. Guilford's son, Harry, and also his sister, Eudora, are placed. The state attorney asked for a bond of $10,000, which amount was fixed by the court.

True Philanthropy.

Boston, Nov. 23.—The late Edward Austin of this city gave, according to his will, which was filed for probate in the suffolk probate office yesterday, $1,100,000 in public bequests. The aged poor, the struggling student and teacher are made the object of his great bounty. Harvard college will receive $500,000, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology $400,000. The gifts announced in the will are as follows:

To the New England Trust company, $100,000 in trust. The income is to be paid "to needy aged men and women who have been in better circumstances in earlier life, but have become in want when in old age." To Harvard college, $500,000, the interest to be applied to "needy, meritorious students and teachers to assist them in payment of their studies." To the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, $400,000; to Radcliffe college, $30,000; to Roanoke college, $30,000; to Tuskogee normal and industrial school, $30,000; to the bacteriological laboratory of the Harvard medical school, $10,000.

Brutal Assault by a Negro.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 23.—A ruffian negro, whose motive is not apparent, terribly beat Mrs. Louise Buttrick, who lives on Pleasant View avenue, Swampscott, at 9:30 yesterday morning. His weapon was a sharp stone, though he may have used a flatiron also, for both flatiron and stone, covered with blood and hair, were found in the room in which the assault was committed. Mrs. Buttrick, her head battered into a mass of wounds, is at the Lynn hospital. The physicians say that her skull is fractured and that her condition is serious. The negro had called for a glass of water, and assaulted Mrs. Butterick as she was handing it to him.

SEARS RENOMINATED.

Republicans Harmonious and United in His Support.

His Speech of Acceptance Pleases the Convention.

The Old Ticket With One Exception for Councilmen.

The business of the Republican Municipal convention was dispatched with harmony in about thirty-five minutes, and it would appear that the party is again united.

R. R. Freeman, chairman of the City Committee called the convention to order promptly at 7.45, and a temporary organization was effected with Mr. Freeman as chairman and Frank F. Prescott of Ward One as secretary.

Upon motion of Walter S. Pinkham, a committee on credentials was appointed, consisting of Mr. Pinkham, of Ward Five, Elisha Packard of Ward One and P. W. Dakers of Ward Three. They reported 32 of the 34 delegates present, there being one absent from Ward One, and one from Ward Six. The Ward Six man was admitted later.

The report was accepted and temporary organization made permanent.

Nominations of candidates for Mayor were in order, and Hon. Russell A. Sears was named by Peter W. Dakers of Ward Three, and seconded by ex-Mayor Fairbanks of Ward Five. Mr. Dakers thought all were agreed on their choice and that Mr. Sears would have the hearty, united support of the people. Mr. Fairbanks said that the administration of Mayor Sears entitled him to a renomination, and he had no doubt about his reelection. Wollaston would increase his majority 100 this year. He moved, if there was no objection, that the nomination be made by acclamation.

The renomination of Mayor Sears prevailed amid enthusiasm.

The next business was the selection of five candidates for Councilmen at large, and representatives of each ward were allowed to name one candidate.

Ex-Mayor Fairbanks renominated Richard R. Freeman of Grand View avenue, Ward Five.

Ex-Councilman L. M. Pratt renominated Alexander Clark of 8 Payne street, Ward Three.

Tobias H. Burke renominated Wm. E. Badger of Crescent street, Ward Four.

Ex-Councilman Frank E. Badger nominated Frank W. Blanchard of Brook street, Ward Six.

These five men were the choice of the convention for Councilmen at large.

Upon motion of Councilman Clark, Mr. Frank C. Field of Ward Three was renominated at large for School Committee for the term of three years.

Voted, that the Executive Committee of the Republican City Committee be authorized to fill any vacancy caused by resignation, death or inelegibility.

Upon motion of Henry P. Kittredge, a committee of two was appointed to wait upon the Mayor and request his presence. Mr. Kittredge and Benjamin Johnson, Jr., were the committee.

The entrance of the committee with the candidate was the occasion for applause, which was renewed when His Honor was presented. Mayor Sears said in part:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

When a committee from a similar convention came to me a year ago and informed me I had been nominated as a candidate for the chief magistracy of this city—and I came before the convention and received its cordial greetings, I felt the greatest joy of my life. Now, a year later, that my fellow citizens have again convened, and having in mind the trials which I have been through the present year, have said that the present mayor is worthy of the continued confidence of our citizens, the honor of the first nomination almost sinks into insignificance compared with this. (Applause).

In accepting this nomination I do so with the same pledges to the citizens that I gave a year ago, and all of which I conscientiously believe have been fulfilled.

I told you last year that whatever the future days might bring forth no act of mine would cause you to blush for me, and with my uplifted hand I say to you that so far as I know I have not done, or caused to be done, a single act which would bring remorse to me or shame to you. (Applause)

I told you that so far as I was possessed of intelligence to that extent I would apply myself to the needs of the citizens. I ask your honest judgment as to whether or not I have so done.

But if the man exists that believes the mayor of a city of 25,000 people can so conduct the affairs of the city that all should be pleased, that man must be unconsciously under the gentle, somnolent influence of a beautiful dream. (Smiles) But, I renew to you my promise, that honesty and faithfulness in office shall be the chief policy of the administration next year.

I reaffirm that if the citizens once again see fit to make me their mayor, that Quincy as a city—a modern city—will look just as different a year hence as it differs today from what it was a year ago; that with the accomplishment of some propositions which I have in mind and which I shall in time unfold to you, the people will never look with regret upon your action tonight. (Hearty applause).

Believe me, my friends, the office of Mayor as constituted by our charter, is not one calculated to be entirely surrounded by sweet scented zephyrs or the pathway which is strewn with fairest flowers. And although hostile influences arise, I can say now from experience, that whoever the Mayor may be in the future, let him devote his energies to the public good and the good public will in the end sustain him.

I will not relate to you the accomplishments of the past year—for I believe you and the citizens are well aware of them—but I will say that for my beloved city I will continue to work earnestly and heartily to place her upon a level if not above her suburban sisters. (Applause).

Again I ask your assistance, your charity and your respect, and God willing I shall strive for my reward from you, that when I again become a private citizen that at least some of my people may cherish the administration with respect and gratitude. (Continued applause.)

After the adjournment at 8.20, Mayor Sears held an informal reception and many assured him of success at the polls.

BIRTHDAY PRESENT.

H. A. Keith Given the Democratic Nomination.

And Introduced as the Next Mayor of Quincy.

A Strong Ticket for Councilmen at Large With Him.

The Democratic Municipal convention was held Tuesday evening in French's hall and was a very harmonious affair. The convention was called for 8 o'clock, but it was ten minutes later before it got down to business. Mr. Michael T. Sullivan read the call.

A temporary organization was formed with Michael T. Sullivan as chairman and Timothy J. Carey as secretary.

Upon motion of Stephen H. Edwards of Ward Six, a committee of one from each ward was appointed as a committee on credentials as follows: Paul R. Blackmur, John A. Shaw, William A. Kelly, James F. Burke, William A. Jordan and Stephen H. Edwards.

They reported the convention entitled to 63 delegates of which 56 were present as follows: Ward One, 9; Ward Two, 8; Ward Three, 10; Ward Four, 17; Ward Five, 6; Ward Six, 5; and one at large.

The temporary organization was then made permanent.

James F. Burke addressed the convention, saying: We are assembled to place in nomination a candidate for Mayor. In our selection, we honor a man we believe is not unknown. A native born of Quincy who has spent his life here. Who has given 23 of best years of his life to teaching the children of Quincy, giving the Quincy school system the name of being the best in the land. He served with distinction and honor on the School board and also four years as City Clerk. He did your bidding. All who sought for information were courteously received. Such a man I have the honor to place in nomination as our standard bearer. He is worthy of the honor. He has wielded a friendship that the citizens will join hands with us and elect him as our next Mayor. I have the honor to present the name of Harrison A. Keith. The work is by no means ended here. You are to leave here with the determination to work with a will that the enemy may not fire bullets that will strike the mark. Mr. Chairman, I move the nomination of Harrison A. Keith by acclamation.

A. F. Schenkelberger seconded the motion. He fully endorsed all that Mr. Burke had said. He was confident that with a strong pull we could easily elect him. He will get a strong Republican vote, especially in Wards One and Five.

The motion was then carried and Mr. Keith was declared the nominee.

Upon motion of Paul R. Blackmur, a committee of three (consisting of Mr. Blackmur, Mr. Burke and Mr. Schenkelberger) was appointed to notify Mr. Keith and escort him to the hall.

While this committee was out a committee of one from each ward and one at large were appointed to retire and bring in a list of names for five Councilmen-at-large and one for School Committee at large. This committee consisted of Harold B. Faxon at large; T. J. McGrath of Ward 1; Robert J. Williams of Ward 2; Edward J. Parker of Ward 3; Michael B. Geary of Ward 4; Benjamin Sargent of Ward 5; Elijah G. Hall of Ward 6.

John A. Duggan suggested that in selecting the Councilmen at large the committee take three best men regardless of ward lines.

This Committee later reported as follows:

Councilman at large:
Ward One, Rupert F. Claflin.
Ward Three, Henry McGrath.
Ward Four, James E. McDonnell.
Ward Five, Henry G. Fay.
Ward One, William W. Jenness.
School Committee at large, N. S. Hunting, M. D.

The report of the committee was accepted and adopted.

Upon motion of Jeremiah C. Dorgan, the chairman and secretary of the City Committee were empowered to fill any vacancies.

The committee then entered with Mr. Keith who upon being introduced was greeted with applause. He said:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:

I shall do my part but will have to depend upon all of you. I came over here with the distinct understanding that I should not make a speech and I intend to keep my word.

It was a matter of pride and it was an honor any man should feel proud of to be nominated for Mayor.

This was the proudest day of my life to receive the nomination of those who represented at least half the citizens of Quincy. It was particularly honoring as it is my birthday. (Applause).

If elected it will have to be by friends outside of the Democratic party. If elected I will give as good an administration as I know how. I

NOVEMBER BRIDES.

Three Notable Weddings in City Last Evening.

Again Tuesday evening the First was the scene of a large wedding, when Mr. Henry Whitcomb Porter, son of Hon. and Mrs. Charles H. Porter, and Miss Edith Rowena Noyes, daughter of Mrs. Jennette Noyes Rice of Brookline, were united in marriage. The church decorations were very simple, consisting of palms, ferns and chrysanthemums. The organist, Mr. Charles A. Clark, played continously before the ceremony, many of his selections being composed by the bride, as was also the wedding march.

The bridal party was a large one consisting of the ushers: Mr. Arthur Wendall of New York, Mr. Charles Tatman of Worcester, Mr. Gordon Noyes of Boston, Mr. Charles Lauriet of Boston, Mr. Arthur Porter of Neponset, Mr. Edward Carter of Andover and Mr. Robert B. Porter of Quincy, brother of the groom.

The bridemiasd were Miss Ethel Nowell, Miss Evalyn Emerson, Miss Ruth Horton of Boston, Miss Zayma King of Quincy, Miss Kate Lincoln, Miss Marion Sherman of Wollaston, and Miss Mabel Carter of Andover. Miss Lora Mabel Noyes, the bride's only sister was her maid of honor and her little brother Master Paul Rice was the flower boy. The bride came up the aisle with her mother and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Rev. Charles H. Porter, Jr. The ceremony was solemnized by Dr. Edward Horton of Boston, assisted by Rev. Ellery Butler of Quincy and the bride was given in marriage by her mother.

The bride wore an elegant gown of cream duchess satin with mousseline de soie and pearl garniture. She wore a tulle veil which was worn by the groom's mother thirty years ago. The veil was fastened by a pearl sunburst, the gift of the groom. The bridal party was a very pretty one, the gowns worn by the bridemaids being dainty Swiss muslins over soft colored silk slips, making a charming effect against the dark green ferns and palms banked about the altar.

Among the guests were noticed: Dr. William Everett, W. B. Rice, Prof. Chadwick, Edward D. Mead, Nathan Haskell Dole, Charles F. Aams, 2d. Arthur Adams, Prof. Arlo Bates, Rev. Mr. Van Ness, Rev. Clark Carter and Rev. Mr. Long of Andover, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Rogers, Mme. Gertrude Franklin Salisbury, B. E. Woolf, Dr. and Mrs. Blake, Miss Blake, Dr. I. T. Talbot, Dr. Nathaniel Emerson, Dr. Sutherland, D. W. Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. Nowell, Dr. and Mrs. George Talbot, Prof. Webter Wells, E. H. Clements, Mrs. Susan Marr Spaulding and many well known Quincy people.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the chapel of the church to over four hundred guests. Mr. and Mrs. Porter were assisted in receiving by Dr. and Mrs. George Brackett Rice, the grooms father, Col. Charles H. Porter, and the bride naids.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter are to reside at 12 Alleyne terrace where they will be at home Tuesdays after the first of January.

Addison—Newcomb.

Last evening was solemnized one of the prettiest and at the same time most largely attended home weddings of the season in Quincy, when Miss Mary Elizabeth Newcomb, daughter of the late Bryant B., and Caroline Baxter (Crane Newcomb, was united in marriage to Thomas Alfred Addison, a jeweller and optician of Chelsea, and one of the most prominent men in business circles there.

The wedding was held at the home of the bride, 217 Washington street, Quincy Point. At half past seven the bridal party, preceded by two ushers, entered the drawing room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, and there were met by the groom and best man, and the ceremony took place in the presence of a large number of the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting couple; Rev. E. Perry Bush of the First Universalist church of Chelsea performed the marriage ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Charles H. S. Newcomb, wore a beautiful and most becoming gown of pearl white duchess satin, ornamented, with rich applique work and lace. The bridemaids were Annette A. Addison and Jennie V. Hartley, nieces of the groom. They were prettily attired in white silk with pink trimmings. The maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Brown, wore a handsome dress of muslin over white silk, with rich pink sash and ribbons. The little flower girl, Miss Evelyn Newcomb, looked very dainty in pink and white. She carried a basket of exquisite Scott pinks and maiden hair ferns. The maid of honor and the flower girl are both nieces of the bride. Mr. Charles W. Addison, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Fred S. Coates, editor of the "Financial News," Mr. William Paremain Harris, a broker and member of the Boston Stock Exchange, Mr. John A. Newcomb, a well known business man of Quincy, and Mr. George E. Adams, Harvard 99.

The ceremony was immediately followed by the reception. Mr. and Mrs. Addison were assisted by Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Addison of Chelsea, in receiving their many friends and acquaintances, who came to wish the newly married couple success, and who showed by their presence the esteem in which they held them. The spacious and newly furnished rooms were luxuriantly decorated with laurel, asparagus, Scott pinks and chrysanthemums, which together with the rich dresses of silk and satin made a brilliant spectacle. The decorations were the work of William Patterson florist; Hendrie Bros, caterers of Dorchester, furnished an elaborate collation and their ices and magnificent service have not been equalled in Quincy. Peters' orchestra of Boston discoursed sweet music during the evening. The wedding gifts which were numerous and beautiful were displayed.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Addison left for Washington on their wedding tour. After a brief sojourn they will return to their home, 217 Washington street, where they will be "at home" after January 15, 1899.

Pierce—Booth.

Tuesday evening was the occasion of one of the prettiest of weddings, when Miss Margaret Booth and Mr. John C. Pierce were united in marriage at the home of the bride, by Rev. E. N. Hardy. Miss Annie Booth was bridesmaid and Mr. Russell G. Pierce best man. The rooms were decorated with flowers and ferns.

To the strains of a wedding march, the bride passed through the rooms escorted by her father and preceded by the bridesmaid, the bridal party meeting under a beautiful floral bell of white chrysanthemums. Those present well not soon forget the lovely picture the bride made in her white robes and veil, the latter, being fastened with orange blossoms, grown and presented by a friend.

The bridesmaid was becomingly attired in white Swiss muslin, and carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Pierce received congratulations and then all sat down to a bountiful supper.

Later came music and dancing, also selections by the Quincy male quartette, of which the groom is a member. An upper room was filled with wedding gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce will be at home to their friends at No. 65 Centre street.

Suit For Heavy Damages.

St. Louis, Nov. 23.—Gerritt H. Ten Broek has filed suit in the circuit court against John W. Gates of Chicago and Elbert H. Gary for $1,875,000 damages. Ten Broek also represents five associates. In the petition it is set forth that all the parties had ordered a company to buy manufactories of wire nails and barb wire and deposit the profits of their operation with Morgan & Co. of New York, who would divide the profits equally between the plaintiffs and defendants. The petition states that, when this organization was about completed, the defendants formed a company of their own and carried out the original scheme, shutting out the plaintiff, who now sues for alleged damages.

When a young man asks a father for his daughter's hand in marriage, if the father is a wise one, he thinks of one thing equally as important as the young man's morals, social and business standing and intelligence. A young man who suffers from ill-health has no right to marry until his health is restored. To do so is to commit a crime against the human race. While all diseases may not be directly inherited, the constitutional tendency to acquire them is inherited. If a man is a consumptive, the chances are that his children will have weak, undersized lungs, and a predisposition to acquire the same disease.

The young man who suffers from bronchitis, weak lungs, spitting of blood or any disease of the air-passages which, if neglected leads up to consumption, may take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with almost absolute assurance of recovery. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases when taken in time. It soothes and heals the delicate and sensitive tissues of the air-passages and lungs, checks the cough, facilitates expectoration, drives out all impurities and disease germs from the tainted blood and builds new and healthy tissues.

Mr. John G. Born, of 4020 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "Some thirty months ago I said to my wife, 'I don't want to keep anything from you, I must tell you I am in the last stage of consumption.' In December 1896 I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I could then only speak in whispers. I have taken thirteen bottles, and can say with truth I am greatly benefited. People are surprised to hear me speak. I can halloo, and my voice has not been as good in eight years. My stomach was never in better condition. Formerly I could not eat without suffering very much immediately after, but now I can eat anything."

LETTER FROM CO. K.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.,
Camp Witherill,
Greenville, S. C.,
Sunday, Nov. 20, 1898.

The boys of this command are all enjoying good health, besides our new southern camp air. The following roster will perhaps be useful to the friends of K Company. K was one of the companies on the third and last section of regiment to leave Camp Meade. The third section which comprised the whole of the 2d battalion left Camp Meade on Wednesday morning, the 16th of November, at 12.50 P. M. We passed through Harrisburg at 1.20, Bridgeport at 1.30, changing engines from Pennsylvania railroad to the Southern railroad. The front of the train became the rear, as the Southern railroad engine coupled on to the rear.

Harvard vs. Quincy High.

At Merrymount Park Tuesday afternoon the Quincy High was defeated in a well-played game by a team from Harvard. In the first half Harvard succeeded in scoring two touchdowns and kicking one goal.

In the second half Quincy braced up and played a fast game. Harvard resorted to a punting game, but several of their punts were blocked.

Harvard secured the ball within three yards of Quincy's goal, and there fumbled it, and Murphy of Quincy got the ball and started up the field. A Harvard man overtook Murphy and tackled him within twenty yards of their goal, but Foss proved to be the right man in the right place, and taking the ball from Murphy carried it over the line.

Harvard averaged about 150 pounds, but Quincy's snap enabled them to score and hold down their opponents. Umpire, Mr. Slade. Referee, Mr. Harrison. Time-keeper, Mr. Bates.

Quincy will play the graduates tomorrow morning at 9 in the park.

There has been some campaigns in this city and elsewhere where a large part of the argument consisted of personal abuse. I hope this will not happen with the Democrats this year but that they would stand upon their dignity. (Applause.) We have a perfect right to criticise the officials' acts of the other party and if they enter into personal abuse, our side will shine the more by the contrast. He should make no promises whatever. MAY REFUSE THE CASH

But Spain Must Eventually Submit to America's Ultimatum.

Her Experiences of Dismemberment and Decay.

United States the Only Nation to Show Pity to a Prostrate Foe.

Paris, Nov. 23.—The Spanish commissioners have sent the American proposition by a special messenger to Madrid, where it will arrive today. It is felt that the Spanish government must now answer the American ultimatum, but, as it is not likely that the answer of Madrid will arrive today in time for the commissioners to formulate their reply to the Americans this afternoon, it is probable that the joint meeting will be deferred from today to a day later in the week.

There is quite a difference of opinion among unofficial people near the peace commissions, but the prediction is made that Spain will decline the American offer of money; that she will refuse to cede the Philippines, and will say to the United States: "You may take the archipelago because you have the power to do so. As you advance, we will retire, protesting against greedy aggression. We will faithfully carry out our protocol pledges and leave Cuba and Porto Rico in your hands. You came here to engage in a discussion under the terms of the protocol, but you evidently meant, when drawing up that document, to provide a conference in which, though we differ, man to man, you proposed to announce at the proper time what you will do, whether we agree to it or object. Such an attitude robs the conference of a negotiative character and sets up the United States as a dominant power whose first purpose is to listen, but whose ultimate determination is to do its own will."

As a matter of fact, Senor Rios is reported to have used virtually such language and arguments as the foregoing. He said more, even, indicating a high degree of exasperation at the American offer of $20,000,000. His manner, no less than his words, betrayed his repugnance.

His display of feeling and utterances, however, are not wholly approved by his Spanish colleagues, who did not hesitate to say as much after Monday's session.

Utterances later by a Spaniard of importance, whose name is withheld for the present, indicate another line of action—a treaty cession of the Philippines. "Suppose," said the speaker in question, "that Spain says to the United States: 'We are exhausted. We have no funds with which to continue the war. We do not want to continue it, and we cannot. You serve us with an ultimatum. We must submit to your power. Prepare your treaty, and when you want us to sign we will sign. We must bend to physical force. You have the Antilles, and you will possess the Philippines as a conquest from a helpless people. We yield, but we decline $20,000,000 for property on which our valuation was not asked nor respected. You have your will. We trust you will not continue the war, because, forsooth, we decline your $20,000,000. Surely this waiver by us of your money will not provoke a further use of arms against Spain. We sign, we cede, we are dumb. It is finished; and we may be permitted to retain the privilege of assuring our people and our national creditors that we at least have not stolen and resold territory we had pawned.'"

Should Spain cede by treaty or, on the other hand, should she refuse and break off the negotiations here, her protests will embody some such declaration as this.

As against such sentiments it is argued that the business in hand is work for grown men, that it would be childish folly to refuse $20,000,000, and that the Spanish government could not justify such a refusal before the Spanish people or the public creditors of Spain—a deliberate throwing away of $20,000,000, in addition to the loss of the Philippines.

The Spanish commissioners have sent the American proposition by a special messenger to Madrid, where it will arrive today. It is felt that the Spanish government must now answer the American ultimatum, but, as it is not likely that the answer of Madrid will arrive today in time for the commissioners to formulate their reply to the Americans this afternoon, it is probable that the joint meeting will be deferred from today to a day later in the week.

In connection with the proposal of the United States to pay Spain $20,000,000 for the cession of the Philippines, it may be stated as an interesting historical fact that of all nations this country has been the only one to pay for ceded territory. In all wars, ancient and modern, the conquerers have taken everything available without scruple, and all losses or acquisitions of territory have almost without exception been the immediate result of war. The United States furnishes the most notable exception, as the Louisiana, the Florida and Gadsden purchases were all made in a time of peace. We also have the exceptional distinction of paying for land already won by the right of conquest, as we did with Mexico in the case of California, and as is now proposed in the case of the Philippines.

Spain, of all the nations of Europe, is far in the lead in the cession of territory without compensation as the result of unsuccessful wars. From the time of Philip the Second, or for more than three centuries, Spain has one after the other parted with her valuable possessions without the suggestion of compensation until in the present negotiations with this country. Prescott, in his ornate and fascinating style, describes the power and grandeur of Philip the Second of Spain when he ascended the throne in 1556. The empire which acknowledged his sway had no parallel in the history of the world, except that which owed allegiance to Rome in the zenith of its splendor. Most of the fairest and richest portions of continental Europe, the pick and the flower of the lands of the newly discovered American continent, the teeming and fruitful and beautiful islands of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans all poured their teeming treasures into his coffers.

Not satisfied with his heritage, Philip strove to increase, and, glutted with power and pride, imagined he could add England and Germany and Holland to his dominions. At the close of his 12 years' war, his armies defeated, his navies destroyed and his resources exhausted, he purchased tranquility by the cession of a long list of provinces too numerous to mention. Under his reign, and that of the successive Philips who came after him, disastrous wars necessitated the surrender of territory to such an extent that scarcely a semblance of the once great empire was left, and not a cent of consideration for and of it.

In the first half of the 18th century, beginning with the reign of Charles the Second, Spain recovered some of its prestige and some of its territory. But its downward path was not long arrested, and from that time forward until the present time it has been one continued experience of dismemberment and decay. In 1805, at Trafalgar, England for the second time destroyed the naval power of Spain. In a very few years afterwards Mexico and the other Central and South American colonies of Spain wrested their liberty from its clutches. Spain ceded Louisiana to France without any equivalent, and France turned around and sold it to the United States for $15,000,000. She ceded San Domingo to France and Trinidad to England, and would have been laughed at if she had asked any money. England has held Gibraltar all this time, but never paid for it.

In 1898 the navy of Spain was for the third time practically destroyed, upon this occasion by the United States, but we offer to pay a penalty for our prowess.

Cuban Sentiment.

Santiago, Nov. 23.—In general terms, the instructions given to the special commission from the Cuban assembly, now in the United States, were as follows: First, to bring to the consideration of the United States government the fact that, now Spanish control is ending, it is time for the Cubans to disband, unless requested to assist the Americans to keep order, but that it would be hardship to disband them without payment. Second, to require sufficient funds for this purpose out of the income derived from taxation throughout Cuba. Third, to offer the support of all classes of Cuban revolutionists. Fourth, to thank the United States congress for insuring the independence of Cuba.

Kept Up Old Tricks.

San Juan, Nov. 23.—Jose Hernandez, Martin Riviera and Francisco Noa, employed in the department of harbor works, have been arrested, charged with misappropriation of funds. A detective learned that the department carried dummies on its payrolls and charged expenses in connection with a dredge which has long been out of commission. Other irregularities were discovered and the arrests followed. The abuses prevailed under the Spanish regime and have been continued under American rule. There is considerable trepidation in official circles.

Victims of Santiago Campaign.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Complete returns having been received of the casualties of the Santiago campaign, the adjutant general's office has divided the campaign into different dates and periods. The statement shows: La Quasima, June 24—Killed, 1 officer and 15 men; wounded, 6 officers and 44 men. San Juan, July 1 to 3—Killed, 17 officers and 134 men; wounded, 69 officers and 938 men. El Caney, July 1—Killed, 4 officers and 84 men; wounded, 24 officers and 332 men. Aguedores, July 1 and 2—Wounded, 2 officers and 10 men. Around Santiago, July 1 to 2—Killed, 1 officer and 1 man; wounded, 1 officer and 12 men.

Rejoicing Is Premature.

London, Nov. 23.—The Daily Chronicle this morning editorially criticises the "premature rejoicing of the English press over the alleged policy of the open door into the Philippines, because," it says, "Washington can do nothing until congress meets."

Tinsley Won't Yield.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 23.—Thomas Tinsley, a New York millionaire, who has been for two years in jail for contempt of court in not producing the books of the Glenwood Cemetery company, and whose incarceration has been affirmed by the supreme court of the United States, has made another effort to secure his release on the ground that the books were not in his possession. The judge ordered him back to jail, where he will probably spend the rest of his life. It is a case without a parallel in the state.

Tried to Kill Himself.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23.—C. W. Drehr, a Brooklyn real estate man who on Monday wrote to his wife from this city, threatening to commit suicide, fired five bullets into his head yesterday, but is still alive at the Presbyterian hospital, and the doctors there do not regard his condition as serious. The bullets all glanced off and none inflicted any grave injury. It is understood that unfortunate speculations prompted the attempt at suicide.

Wife and Money Missing.

St. Louis, Nov. 23.—W. F. H. Schroeder, a wealthy retired real estate dealer, aged 58 years, reported to the police that his wife, aged 30, whom he married 18 months ago, had left home and taken with her $1500 in cash and $8000 in negotiable notes and also non-negotiable notes for $18,000. Mr. Schroeder says he is confident that his wife has not eloped. He thinks her minds is temporarily unbalanced because of sickness.

Look Out For It.

Washington, Nov. 23.—The secret service gives notice of a new counterfeit $5 legal tender note, series of 1880, check letter A, J. Fount Tillman, register; D. N. Morgan, treasurer; portrait of Jackson, small scalloped seal. This counterfeit is printed on stiff, heavy bond paper. The entire face of the note has a blurred, smutted appearance. Especially is this true of the prtrait of Jackson.

Money Easily Obtained.

Cleveland, Nov. 23.—The postoffice here was robbed yesterday of 11 packages, containing $100 each. The money was in a pigeonhole at the stamp window, presided over by Miss Barry. She left the window for a few seconds, and during that brief time the money was taken. No arrests have been made as yet.

Evidence Which is Right to the Point and Reliable.

Judge Frank Ives of District Court of Crookston, Minn., says: For some time I have used Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with seeming great benefit with few exceptions, I have not been so free from indigestion in twenty-five years.

George W. Roosevelt, U. S. Consul to Brussels, Belgium: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, safe, pleasant to take, convenient to carry, give keen appetite, perfect digestion.

Mr. W. D. Tomlin, mechanical engineer, Duluth, Minn.: One box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets has done its work, and I am again gaining flesh and strength.

O. E. Ransom, Hustonville, Ky.: I was distressed and annoyed for two years with throwing up food, often two or three times a day; had no certainty of retaining a meal if I eat one. Four boxes of the tablets from my druggist have fully cured me. I find them pleasant to take, convenient to carry.

Rev. G. D. Brown Mondovi, Wis.: The effects of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is simply marvelous; a quite hearty dinner of broiled beefsteak causes no distress since I begun their use.

Over six thousand people in the state of Michigan alone in 1894 were cured of stomach troubles by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Full sized packages may be found at all druggists at 50 cents, or sent by mail on receipt of price from F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

Couldn't Get Bail.

Holyoke, Mass., Nov. 23.—Ex-Tax Collector James C. Keough, who was arrested on three warrants charging embezzlement of $115,000 of tax money during 1895, '96 and '97, was arraigned before Judge Chapin in the Holyoke police court last evening. City Solicitor Callahan appeared for the prosecution and William H. Brooks for the defendant. Keough pleaded not guilty, bail was fixed at $115,000, and the case continued at the request of counsel to Dec. 24. Keough was unable to furnish bail and spent the right at a hotel under guard of two police officers.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

Cleared From Santiago.

New Orleans, Nov. 23.—Schooner W. H. Swan was yesterday seized at this port for carrying contraband goods. Besides 3050 cigars, which were not down upon her manifest, she had on board, clumsily concealed, 37 Mauser rifles, 14 bayonets, 44 cartridge belts, 49 boxes of cartridges, one sack of cartridges and three brass cannon. The ship cleared from Santiago for a small port in Georgia, and put into New Orleans in distress, and when the customs inspectors boarded her they discovered the cargo. The ground is taken by the officials here that not only are the ordnance and arms contraband by not being on the manifest, but they are the property of Spain.

Crew In Danger.

Detroit, Nov. 23.—It is reported that a small schooner has been caught in the blizzard on Lake Erie and is aground near Bar Point. The captain of a boat which reached Amherstburg states that the waves are breaking over the distressed vessel, and it is feared she will go to pieces before the crew can be rescued. The schooner's name is not known.

A Georgia Lynching.

Macon, Ga., Nov. 23.—Ed Merriweather (colored) was taken from jail at Monticello yesterday by a crowd of citizens and shot to death. The grand jury had found him guilty of the murder of Joe Pope.

CANCER CURED
BY ABSORPTION

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 252 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

CO. K'S TRIP SOUTH

Cities and Towns Where Stops Were Made.

Scenes and Incidents Along the Route.

The Arrival at Greenville and Camp Wetherill.

Only the first paragraph of an interesting letter from Co. K was printed in Wednesday's Ledger. It is republished with the remainder of the letter today:

With Co. K, 5th Mass.,
Camp Witherill,
Greenville, S. C.,
Sunday, Nov. 20, 1898.

The boys of this command are all enjoying good health, besides our new southern camp air. The following roster will perhaps be useful to the friends of K Company. K was one of the companies on the third and last section of regiment to leave Camp Meade. The third section which comprised the whole of the 2d battalion left Camp Meade on Wednesday morning, the 16th of November, at 12.50 P. M. We passed through Harrisburg at 1.20, Bridgeport at 1.30, changing engines from Pennsylvania railroad to the Southern railroad. The front of the train became the rear, as the Southern railroad engine coupled on to the rear.

We passed through the following places: York at 2 20 P. M., and Hanover Junction at 2 45 P. M. Stopped at New Freedom at 3.09 P. M., at Parktown at 3.25 P. M., and Texas at 3.57. Here is where we noticed a number of lime kilns. Stopped until 4.10. Arrived at Baltimore at 4.20 P. M. Here two engines coupled on to the train at the rear, again reversing the cars.

Left Baltimore at 4.55 P. M., and passed through two miles of tunnels under the city of Baltimore. We were side-tracked outside of Baltimore to allow the Congressional express to pass. Passed a very pretty cemetery, with marble headstones, outside of Baltimore. Passed through Bowie at 5.50 P. M., 17 miles outside of Baltimore. It was beginning to snow. Arrived at Washington, D. C., at 7. Saw the White House illuminated. Left at 8 P. M., in a rain. Passed through Alexandria across the river at 8.20 P. M. Our next stop was at Manassas Junction at 9.40 P. M., where a noted battle was fought in the '60s.

Arrived at Monroe at 3.10 A. M. Thursday and left at 5.55 A. M. We were pulled onto a turnout here to allow the 6.47 limited express to pass Here is where we noticed the red clay and leg cabins, so much spoken of in our own old Bay state. The cabins were chinked with mud.

Stopped at Lynch, 196 miles from Washington at 7 40 A. M., and at Hurt at 7.45 A. M. Here our boys noticed a family of negroes consisting of an old colored man and women, with about twelve children, some black and others slightly tanned; in fact, all colors; also a number of pigs, dogs and horses which made quite a novel sight.

The next stop was at Motleys, Virginia, at 7.58 A. M. This station consisted of two old freight cars joined together at the ends, and painted a yellow color. Arrived at Franklin Junction at 8.10 A. M. Here the boys quickly perceived a large sign board with a finger indicator pointing down street with the words "Bar room, 500 yards." But our boys had no use for Motley's water. Here also we had an exciting time. A number of pigs were running loose in the street; two ran under the train. The boys wanted to leave the cars but were not permitted. They wanted to have a good pig race, but were disappointed.

Passed through Dryfork at 8.47 A.M., Falcreek at 8.55; our next stop was at North Danville at 9.07. This is where the Riverside cotton mills are located. The white and black employes do not mingle nor work together. They both have separate work rooms, the old hatred in the South towards the blacks is still manifested and shown.

Our next stop was at Danville at 9.20 A. M., left at 10 and passed into North Carolina, passing through Pelham at 10.22 A. M. Stopped at Riffin at 10.25.

At Reidsville we stopped 10 minutes. Passed through Benaja at 11.27 A. M., stopped at Busick at 11.50. All hands left train here for a morning exercise to stretch their limbs. The boys called this place B. U. Sick. After leaving Busick we noticed a school with one department of white, while the other end of building was filled with colored children. Stopped at Highpoint at 1.05 P. M., at Thomasville at 1.15.

At 1 55 we noticed the first cotton field. It was a very pretty sight and the boys went nearly crazy over it, so we had to procure pods of cotton to send home for souvenirs.

Arrived at Spencer at 2.08, and left at 3.05. Spencer is a new railroad yard with only one house near the yard. Arrived at Salisbury at 3.15 and left at 4 P. M. The town of Salisbury is very pretty, consisting of cotton mills, cotton seed oil mills and fine costly residences.

Passed through Chinagrove. This is another fine town, with all new houses; seems to have been recently settled. A number of new residential houses were being erected.

Arrived at Concord 21 miles from Charlotte and allowed second section containing third battalion to pass us. Stopped here 15 minutes. Arrived at Charlotte at 5.25 and left at 6.15: this place has some fine wide streets oil mills, and cotton duck mills. Arrived at Gastonia at 7.10 and left at 7.45.

Passed through Blacksbury, S. C., at 8.31 P. M. This is the first place after crossing boundary line.

Arrived at Spartansburg at 10.30. Stopped 20 minutes, then proceeded on towards our destination, which was Greenville, S. C., arriving at 11.55 P. M. We stayed on the train until morning, for the hour being late, Col. Whitney did not care to move his men. We were met by Mayor Williams who is the chief executive of Greenville. Col. Whitney was kindly extended the cordial welcome of the city. The Mayor wished to have the honor of reviewing the regiments. This was on Friday, before we marched to open our camp.

Our first day in Camp Wetherill was a very wet and disheartening day, for a regiment of tired soldiers to put up tents. We are camped on high level ground, in the midst of a cotton field, with lots of cotton growing around us.

Our camp overlooks the 4th Missouri, which is considerable lower than we are. Today has been bright and warm. The air is something like our Eastern Indian summers. Taking it all in all, this is a very pretty site for a camp, and the general impression is that the boys will be favored by the change of climate.

Corporal Wardwell of K expects to leave tomorrow with his honorable discharge. Volunteer.

Both Alarms False.

Two false alarms of fire were pulled in between midnight and Thanksgiving morning. The first alarm came in from Box 46 at about 3.15 and the second from Box 43 at 5.30. The recall in both cases was promptly sent in. While responding to the first alarm the Hook and Ladder hauled up in front of the old fire station on School street to let a fireman on. It was unusually dark at this hour and was almost impossible to see even a few feet. Behind the Hook & Lader was Hose 1, which was tearing along at a rapid gait. The driver failed to see the truck and as a result he ran into it with a bang. The force of the collision broke one of the ladders and cut one of the Hose horses which was later attended by a veterinary.

—The Dedham and Milton councils, K. of Co., met with Magnolia council of Hyde Park, Wednesday evening in Magnolia hall, where the third degree was conferred on 25 candidates by John W. McAnarney and suite of Quincy. Many visitors were present from Boston and vicinity and the work of the degree was followed by addresses and a collation.—Norfolk County Gazette.

NEW CITY STABLES.

Their Fine Appointments Will Surprise Many.

Built upon honor by citizens of Quincy, a model building fitted with every convenience, sum up in a few words the new city stables which are now completed and in use.

The building is of wood and is situated on the City Farm off Sea street. The main builing is 70 by 40 feet, with the main entrance from the west side, the two ends facing north and south.

The main entrance leads into the stable proper and one is at once struck with its attractive appearance. The room used for the stable is 54 by 40 and has one double and twenty single stalls arranged along the east and west sides with a wide corridor in the centre. The ceiling of this room is of metal and is not only a preventative of fire but also prevents the hay seed from the loft from coming through.

Each stall is supplied with a hay rack and a patent slow feeder which supplies the horses with grain as fast as needed and prevents the waste of grain. The stalls are also fitted with the snow fixtures. That is, the floor of each stall is removable, being hung with hinges so as to be lifted up. Under this floor is an iron pan in which there is a ball trap through which water is carried to the manure pen and prevents the odor usually found in stables. Then the stalls are always perfectly clean as they can be washed with a hose, the trap taking care of the water.

The main stable floor is of three layers with a layer of felting between, the whole being crowned so as to carry any water to the sides.

Rising from the centre is a 6 by 6 ventilating shaft which runs through the roof to the cupalo. This shaft is supplied with windows that may be raised at will.

At the right end of the building is a plaform and a run to the back of the building. At the left are two rooms, viz: a harness room and office. The harness room is 14 by 19 feet and is provided with hook, and a sink with hot and cold water. The office is 14 by 17 feet and is provided with a table, wash bowl and a closet for each of the drivers.

There is a door leading out of doors from this room and another leading to the tool room which is 16 by 24 feet, and is provided with hooks and racks for the tools, the rule being a place for everything and everything must be in place.

From this office is a stairway leading to the loft. This loft has a capacity of fifty tons of hay and can be readily ventilated by means of doors in the main ventilating shaft. There are also in the loft two grain bins of a capacity of 1,100 bushels. These bins are lined with zink with level bottoms, so that the grain is drawn off by a shoot. When feeding time comes the grain is drawn off into a grain cart and is fed to the horses by the hoppers which open on this floor.

On this floor is a one room 14 by 16 feet, and a sleeping room for the hostler, 11 by 23 feet. This room will be connected by a private telephone line with the Commissioner's office at City Hall.

The basement is divided into three sections. In the first is the heating apparatus, which room will also be used for making repairs to the wagons which can be brought in from a large door in the rear of the building. The second section is to be used for the storage of the water carts, and is large enough to accommodate twelve. The floors of both of these sections are of concrete.

The third section is for the manure. This is 16 by 40 by 12, and is water tight. From this pit is a tin ventilator which runs up the outside of the building to the roof.

Aside from the main building there

Street railway hearing.

Good Afternoon.

A year ago Mayor Sears went before the voters without a record in public affairs. Even his close friends regarded him as rather young to fill the executive chair of the city, with sole authority to appoint and remove officials, but the general opinion seems to be that he has made an excellent Mayor. That he has faithfully, conscientiously and honestly discharged the duties of the office, and that 1898 has been Quincy's most progressive year. The installation of the sewer system has been pushed along rapidly and satisfactorily, without labor troubles and without discommoding the people much—certainly no more than such great works necessitate. Many extensions of the water system have been made, city stables built and a notable improvement made in many streets. But the administration is receiving the greatest praise for the continuous sidewalks of a permanent nature which have been built in all wards. To the progressive and executive ability of our Mayor, it must be recognized that his sociableness is a great factor in making his administration a success. To make all the advancement noticeable and at the same time reduce the tax rate and the municipal debt is a great achievement.

In the nomination of Mr. Harrison A. Keith the Democrats have placed before the voters their strongest man for the Mayoralty. The ex-City Clerk has been a life-long resident of Quincy, and has long been identified in city affairs. For many years he was principal of our High School and later a member of the School Committee. Under the town form of government he was for a number of years the auditor, and under the administration of Mayor Hodges was appointed city clerk a position for which he was well adapted and which he filled with marked efficiency for four years. During all the political changes of twenty-five years Mr. Keith has served as a trustee of the Thomas Crane public library, where he is also secretary. While not a public speaker there are indications that he may become proficient. His speech of acceptance is said to have been his longest address, and good sentiments were advanced. He says he accepts the office unpledged, and that he shall make no promises. This is the safest course for a candidate, and efficiency for office would surely be his test for all positions. His desire is for a campaign free from personalities, but open to a discussion of city issues.

Quincy is the only city adjacent to Boston that does not have a curfew ordinance. It is a regulation which would do much good and be of inestimable benefit in keeping young children off the streets at unseasonable hours of the evening. On Monday evening of this week the Waltham curfew ordinance went into effect and on Tuesday evening Everett became protected by one.

HOLIDAY DANCES.

Annual of Nonpariel Club and Masquerade of Loyal Ladies.

St. Mary's hall presented a gay and fascinating scene Wednesday evening on the occasion of the second annual ball of the Nonpariel Social club, a well known organization of young men whose headquarters are at Brewer's corner.

Col. Beals, the well known decorator of Boston, had charge of the decorations of the hall and he was more than successful in his efforts at transformation, for the walls were almost hidden behind yards of colored bunting and flags. Several American flags were draped along the sides of the hall while at the head was a large painting of Washington flanked on either side with a flag. Many large and handsome potted plants were arranged along the platform, behind which was Cuff's orchestra of seven pieces which furnished music for the promenade concert and for the ball. In the centre of the hall were suspended two banners reading: "1898, Nonpariel Social Club" and "Welcome to our 2d annual ball."

The concert was from 8 to 9 o'clock and while the orchestra was rendering some of its choicest selections the handsomely gowned ladies and their escorts were arriving.

It was but a few minutes past 9 o'clock when the first notes of the march that was to open the ball sounded, and the long line of over eighty couples started in its circuit around the hall. The march was a very pretty affair, and before it had ended the participants had almost, unknowingly, spelled out the word "Nonpariel."

The march was led by Mr. Walter J. Anderson, the floor marshal, and Miss Eva Ferguson who made a pretty picture in a costume of pink muslin trimmed with white lace and pink ribbon and a corsage bouquet of pink roses.

Following the floor marshal were the two floor directors, then Mayor Russell A. Sears and Miss Mary Anderson, Chief of Police Amos L. Litchfield and Miss Kate Lane, and the other participants.

At the conclusion of the march all were presented with a handsome souvenir order of the season's greeting. From this time on until morning the ball continued uninterrupted save for a brief interval at midnight, when Caterer Nash served one of his tempting menus in the lower hall.

The invited guests included Mayor Sears, Chief of Police Litchfield, Chief Engineer Packard, Commissioner Knowlton, and the heads of the various societies in the city.

The entire affair which was a success in every way, was in charge of the following efficient committee of arrangements: Charles H. Farrell, Arthur Poole, William Boyd, Peter Anderson, Walter Anderson, George A. Anderson, Joseph Galvin, Thomas Dunn, Thomas F. Cain, Allie Farnham, George McDonald, Fred Peterson, George Anderson, Allie Fiege and Walter Lecain.

Loyal Ladies' Masquerade.

The Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor, No. 1, held their third annual masquerade ball on Wednesday evening at Music hall and like the previous efforts of this well known order was a pronounced success.

From 8 to 9 o'cock the Merrymount orchestra gave a promenade concert, during which the many merry makers, whose identity was so completely hidden beneath the many and varied costumes that it was next to impossible to penetrate the disguises, enjoyed themselves immensely. They kept the many who viewed the kaleidoscope scene from the balcony in constant good humor by their capers and there were many surmises as to who this person or that person was. It was not until unmasking that one was actually enabled to identify their friends.

Almost every known character was impersonated, the whole presenting a scene not soon to be forgotten.

At 9 o'clock came the grand march, and the way the different characters mated up was amusing for his Satanic majesty had for his partner a diminutive maid impersonating an angel. This combination, however, did not detract from the scene any more than did a United States boy in blue marching arm in arm with a Spanish maiden.

The fourth number on the order was a quadrille, at the end of which there came the command to unmask. For a few minutes there was a complete babble of voices, as one for the first time recognized his or her friends.

Dancing then became general until 3 o'clock in the morning.

Mayor Sears and Chief of Police Litchfield arrived on the scene shortly after 10 o'clock and enjoyed the scene from the balcony. Other invited guests included the presiding officers of several of the local fraternal orders. Refreshments were served during a brief intermission at midnight.

Maria B. Menenick was floor directress, and was assisted by Lucy Ka'n and Cathryn Black, Agnes Kennedy, Mary McKay, Maggie O'Neil, Charlotte Mundie and Annie Booth. The reception committee were: Mrs. Maggie Souter and Mrs. Lizzie Perry and the committee of arrangements Mrs. Maggie Souter, Mrs. Mary Daly, Miss Lizzie O. M. Smith, Mrs. Lizzie Perry, Mrs. Fannie Ward, Mrs. Bell Ross and Mrs. Jeannie Spargo.

Other Dances.

Mrs. Rhines also gave her usual holiday sunlight party for the young people at Faxon hall, which was attended by 60 or more. Music was furnished by hurdy gurdy and tamborine. Marie A. Grosse, the artist, also gave tambourine solos, and Miss Hettie Abrams sang a pleasing song entitled, "I love high society." The patronesses were Miss Thomas, Miss Graham and Miss Ballou.

The Lafayette club held a sunlight party in St. Mary's hall Thursday afternoon from 2 until 6 o'clock. S. Rogers was floor director and W. B. Dalpe, W. Delory and A. Demeis aids.

The Sunlight party held at Music hall, Atlantic, Thanksgiving by the Newberrys from 2 to 7 P. M. was a great success. It was one of the largest parites ever held in the hall. Sprague's orchestra furnshed music.

THEY HAD NO CASE.

Railroad Commissioners Give Free Trausfers a Black Eye.

The hearing given by the Railroad Commisioners Wednesday is reported by the Herald as follows, and it would seem that the petitioners did not proceed in the best way to bring about a five cent fare in Quincy on the street railway.

Mayor Russell A. Sears of Quincy, with a pure white chrysanthemum scintillating in the left lapel of his spring overcoat, appeared before the railroad commissioners Wednesday morning to further a petition on the part of the City Council of that city for a 5-cent fare on the Quincy & Boston street railway within the precincts of that granite-ribbed municipality.

In presenting his case, the mayor took occasion to refer to the financial success of the company, instancing the fact that it paid 7 per cent. dividends and had a large surplus snugly tucked away in its treasury. He thought it no more than right that the company should share a part of its profits with the people.

Councilmen Walter S. Pinkham, T. F. Cain and Edward E. Jameson reiterated the sentiments of the mayor, and added that it was an apparent injustice to compel the residents of Quincy to pay two fares if they wished to ride a few feet beyond the square, where an exchange of traffic was made between the company's severalbranches. These witnesses further stated that they were strongiy of the impression that along back at the time when the Wollaston loop was opened the company, under the exhilaration incident to the celebration of that event, had promised a 5-cent fare within the limits of the city at the approach of the following spring.

President John R. Graham of the Quincy & Boston had no recollection of such a promise. He said that the company had always shown a willingness to make concessions on the representations of any number of its patrons, and that at the next meeting of the directors he would bring up the question of 5-cent fares, as petitioned for. The interesting fact was developed that the company, about a year ago, had made a 3-cent fare, good on all its lines within Quincy, in behalf of the working people, but, at their own request, it was taken out, on the representation that employers were taking advantage of it.

After the hearing had progressed for nearly two hours, Chairman Sanford brought it to a sudden ending by saying that it was not being conducted on the present legal basis, and that no conclusion could be reached on the lines that had so far characterized it. He then read the law bearing upon the question of petitions for the reduction of rates on street railways, which, in effect, is that it is incumbent upon the petitioners to show that the fares asked for are not lower than are charged in other parts of the states where the service is similar. The hearing was thereupon adjourned with the understanding that each side, if it was desired to reopen it, must provide themselves with the facts as to rates on other roads for the purpose of comparison.

There was quite a crowd at the District court Wednesday to hear the Keniley-Bates libel case, but they were disappointed, the case being again postponed on account of the absence of the plaintiff's counsel.

Wood estate at Wollaston was sold to Mr. Hunniman of Boston for $1,650.

Wednesday Mrs. Morris of Cottage avenue had occasion to enter a small building in the rear of her home, which rested on the bank of Town brook. While in the building the bank which had become undermined gave way and the building fell over into the brook door down. Mrs. Morris' cries soon brought help but it was not until the boards of the back of the building had been pried off that she was gotten out. Mrs. Morris is a very large woman and it was wonderful that she escaped uninjured.

☞ Harry A. Bower, who appears with the concert company which will open the People's Course at Music hall tomorrow evening is regarded as the greatest xylophone soloist in the world. The Lawrence Eagle says, young Harry Bower has great ingenuity in devising novel musical instruments; his solos on ordinary junk bottles were highly enjoyable and showed correct musical taste and superior skill; his xylophone solos were also received with signal favor.

DAY FOR WEDDINGS.

Thanksgiving Brides Were Numerous—A Church Marriage.

The Presbyterian church was filled with friends on the eve of Thanksgiving to witness the marriage of Miss Jennie May Phillips and Mr. Daniel A. Ross by the pastor, Rev. Robert Westly Peach. The bride has been the organist of the church for a number of year, and both the young people are well known and popular in South Quincy. A reception followed at the residence of the bride's parents on Liberty street, which was also an enjoyable occasion. Mr. and Mr. Ross will reside on Trafford street.

Owens—Ellis.

There was a pretty and an enjoyable home wedding on Garfield street on the eve of Thanksgiving when Mr. Hugh W. Owens and Miss Mabel Ellis, both of this city were united in marriage by Rev. Edward Norton. Many friends were present with congratulations of a substantial nature, and good wishes for a happy life.

Johnston—Hobart.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. Winslow Hobart on Verchild street, when his daughter Cora Lillian, a well known and popular young lady, was united in marriage to Mr. August V. Johnston who is also well known in Quincy. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. Kerr of the Cavalry Baptist church in the presence of a number of the relatives and intimate friends of the contracting-parties. Miss Alice Rowell of Braintree was bridesmaid and Mr. Eskil Ashland of Boston attended the groom. The bride was becomingly gowned in creme white nuns veiling trimmed with ribbon and she carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. The bridesmaid wore a white Swiss muslin and carried a bouquet of pinks.

A reception and wedding supper followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left at 10 o'clock for a brief trip returning from which they will reside in Roxbury.

Many handsome, useful and valuable gifts were received, among which were substantial sums from the groom's father and from his uncle.

Maxwell—Rushton.

Mr. Frederick Maxwell of 18 Hampden Circle, Norfolk Downs, and Miss Alma May Rushton of 8 High street, Quincy, were united in marriage at the residence of the Rev. Mr. Kerr, No. 2 Payne street, Quincy, on Wednesday, Nov. 23d. Mr. Charles L. Maxwell, brother to the groom acted as best man, and Miss Maud Rushton, sister to the bride, was bridesmaid.

The bride was dressed in a tailor-made suit of blue broadcloth, with hat to correspond; and the bridesmaid wore a blue suit and hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell will reside at No. 1 Brooks street, Norfolk Downs, and will be at home to friends after Dec. 10th.

Kelly—Hill.

Quincy is just the place for a west ern couple to be married, and two prominent people of Sioux City, Iowa, recognized this and journeyed way to New England at the Thanksgiving season to have the knot tied strongly and well. May their happiness in life be in proportion to the journey.

The bride, Miss M. J. Hill, is a sister of Mrs. E. R. Wade of Atlantic, and the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Wade on Prospect street was the scene. The groom is Mr. John C. Kelly, the publisher of the enterprising Sioux City Tribune, and widely known throughout the State of Iowa.

The house was prettily decorated with plants and flowers by Bugbee, when at 1 P. M., the bridal couple entered the parlors preceded by the bride's niece, Miss Helen Wade, carrying a bunch of white chrysanthemums. Rev. J. H. Whitaker performed the ceremony.

A Thanksgiving dinner followed, and at 4.20 Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left on a tour through the south and will reach Sioux City about Dec. 15.

Next Monday.

In the opening lecture to be given at the Universalist church, on Monday evening, Gen. Taylor of the Boston Globe who is to speak on Journalism, will be introduced by Mayor Sears who will make a short address. The lecture will begin at 7.45 and single tickets, or tickets for the course, may be obtained from Hearn, the druggist.

NEW CITY STABLES.

are two wings in front, that at the right is open to the south and is 45 by 24 feet and has five openings. That on the left is 61 by 24 feet and has closed doors. In this will be the steam roller, road scraper and carriages. The entire building is lighed by electricity and is heated by steam, and in extreme cold weather the stable proper, which is also piped, can be heated. Directly in front of the building, over the hay loft door, is a cluster of electric lights, which illuminates the yard at night.

The entire arrangement of the building is according to the ideas of Commissioner Knowlton, who visited city stables in other cities, retaining their good points and discarding their bad.

The total appropriation for the building was $6,500. The carpenters contract was $5,500, and the heating $300.

As stated above the building was built by citizens of Quincy. W. F. Lofgren was the architect, and he and the Commissioner were constantly at the building, and speak very highly of the manner in which the builder, Mr. A. W. Parker, carried out his contract.

The heating plant was put in by Badger Brothers. The granite in the foundations was furnished by the Merrymount Granite Co. The mason work was by J. A. Halquist. The painting by William Slaunwhite, tin work by G. A. Mayo, electric wiring by E. S. Beckford, stable fixtures by W. A. Snow, and the lumber was furnished by Benjamin Johnson.

Union Service.

The union Thanksgiving service at 10.45 A. M. at the First Presbyterian church was better attended than any in recent years. Among the clergymen present were: Rev. E. N. Hardy, Rev. Walter R. Breed, Rev. E. W. Preble, Rev. David Kerr, Rev. W. W. Dornan and Rev. Robert Westly Peach. The sermon preached by Rev. Mr. Dornan of the United Presbyterian church was appropriate to the season, and very impressive and eloquent. Among other things the preacher thought we should give thanks for the victory of this Nation in the recent war; for our enlarged responsibilities; for the broadening of the area of human liberty and brotherhood.

Memorial Church.

The service at the Memorial church Sunday morning was an exceedingly fine one, including the music.

The pastor in his Thanksgiving sermon spoke of the things of which we ordinarily rendered Thanksgiving and our manner of regarding the ills of life, and contrasted the spirit of thankfulness that should actuate our lives and render them perpetual "Praise to God." Miss Heidenreich of Boston sang two solos in her usually effective manner and the special music by the choir was much enjoyed. The Christian Endeavor service in the evening and the pastor's talk were a continuation of the subject of the morning.

HOLIDAY FOOT BALL.

Two Games Played Alternately at Merry Mount Park.

Two good games of foot ball were played Thursday morning at Merrymount Park which were witnessed by a large crowd, the rain in no way interfering with the enthusism. The first line up was between the Atlantics and Wollaston. The teams were well matched but their play was a little slow. The Atlantics succeeded in getting the ball dangerously near their opponents goal line when half time was called.

The next line up was between the Quincy High and the Quincy A. A. This game was more spirited and some very pretty plays were made by the Quincy High boys. They worked the ball into the enemy's territory and secured a touchdown from which a goal was kicked. No further score was made before half time.

The Atlantics and Wollastons then came onto the field for their second half. In this half the Wollastons had the best of the game but time was called before either side scored. Score, 0 to 0.

The second half between the Quincy High and Quincy A. A. was full of brilliant plays on the part of the Quincy High boys. The two teams had not been at play but a few minutes when a goal was kicked from near the centre of the field. Once again during this half of the Quincy High got a touchdown but it was not allowed. No more scores were made. Score—Quincy High, 11; Quincy A. A., 0.

Quincy Point Won.

The old rivals, the Quincy Point and the North Weymouths, played their annual football game at North Weymouth on Thanksgiving morning and the former won. The features of the game were the line bucking of Sweeney and the long runs of McConarty and McCabe.

The line up was as follows:

QUINCY POINT.		NO. WEYMOUTH.
Dunn,	l. e.	Lane
Pitts,	l. t.	Sampson
Caldwell,	l. g.	J. Sweeney
Hayden,	c.	Gunville
Foster,	r. g.	Newell
Federhen,	r. t.	Smith
W. McCabe,	r. e.	Newton
Sherborne,	q. b.	Benson
H. McCabe,	l. h. b.	Jenkins
McConarty,	r. h. b.	Ashe
Carter,	f. b.	Sweeney

Score—Quincy Point, 5; North Weymouth, 0. Touchdown—McConarty. Time—two 20-minute halves. Referee—Whiton of Harvard.

Reception to Corp. Wardwell.

A very pleasant reception was given to Corporal George A. Wardwell of Co. K, Fifth Massachusetts regiment, by his many friends at Odd Fellows hall, Wollaston, on Tuesday evening.

About eighty assembled in the hall and then Mr. Wardwell was summoned; not to war, but to face music of a different and more pleasing nature than Mauser bullets from Spanish rifles. After congratulations and handshaking, Mr. David Brown received Mr. Wardwell with a welcoming address, to which the corporal responded, thanking one and all. He gave a brief account of camp life.

The banquet hall was tastefully decorated and the tables looked, as Mr. Wardwell remarked, just a "little" more inviting than the "mess" room in camp. After a pleasant repast a short tertainment was given including songs by Mr. C. W. Page, cornet solo by Mr. George Critchley, reading by Prof. Mae and piano solos by Miss Julie Page and Miss Frances Whall. All were encored. Whist and other games filled out the time up to half past eleven.

The reception was under the management of Miss Nellie Wait, Miss Ida E. Anderson and Miss Carrie L. Saunders.

Unsuccessful Hold-Up.

Mr. John Kelley, the well known resident of East Braintree, was held up by a highwayman Thursday morning, on Meadow road, about 1.30 o'clock. Mr. Kelley, who is one of the engineers of the Braintree fire department, had attended the Firemen's ball during the evening and was driving slowly homeward meditating on the vicissitudes in the life of a public official, when a fellow jumped from the side of the road and grabbed his horse by the head. Mr. Kelley, however, has been a police officer too many years to be frightened by a little thing like that, and although he did not have his shooting iron with him, he grabbed his ivory mounted whip and jumped to the ground. The fellow must have seen immediately that he had held up the wrong man for he let go of the horse and beat a hasty retreat. Mr. Kelley was in no way frightened at the episode and laughs the matter off as he tries to impress you that he sells the best monuments in the country.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Danvers Man Entered a Store and Was Robbing the Safe.

An Officer Was Lying In Wait For the Intruder.

Revolver and a Cleaver Figured In the Subsequent Proceedings.

Danvers, Mass., Nov. 25.—Martin Kennedy, aged about 24 years, a Danvers man, was shot in the right side, just over the lung, by Chief of Police Bacon Wednesday night while robbing the safe in the grocery store of Frank M. Spofford. Chief Bacon was attacked by Kennedy with a meat cleaver and received severe injuries in the eyes, nose and hands, but which will not result seriously. Kennedy's wound is not necessarily fatal, but two attempts to locate the bullet have failed, and he is in a weak condition.

Mr. Spofford's store has been entered four or five times during the past five weeks, and money amounting to about $75 taken. As the cash was in the form of silver the amounts were not large at any time. Strict watch has been kept for the past three weeks by different watchmen and officers, and Wednesday night Chief Bacon was on guard. Kennedy entered over a doorwoy, carefully unlocking a door by which to make his escape, armed himself with a meat cleaver, ransacked the money drawer and had just taken $11 in silver from the safe, which had purposely been left unlocked, when Chief Bacon ordered him to throw up his hands. He did, but at the same time hurled the cleaver at the officer, barely missing killing him. The chief then fired at Kennedy, hitting him in the right side, and also immediately flashed an electric flash lamp upon him.

Kennedy jumped and ran, springing over a heap of boxes and disappearing out of the back door. Chief Bacon fired an ineffective shot after him, and being unable to chase him he sent Officer Mead to follow Kennedy, who was found in bed. He was arrested. Dr. Magee was called and probed for the bullet without success.

Kennedy will be charged with breaking and entering and assault with a dangerous weapon. He is a well known man, and much surprise is expressed at the act, as he was never suspected of anything of the kind. He is a morocco dresser by trade.

Death of Hon. E. H. Shaw.

North Chelmsford, Mass., Nov. 25.—Councillor E. H. Shaw, who has been ill with pneumonia for several days, died at his home here yesterday. Typhoid symptoms developed in the case, and the sick man was so weakened that he could not rally. He was 51 years of age. Mr. Shaw was born here Sept. 29, 1847. He was in turn a brass moulder, second hand in a woolen mill, and latterly proprietor of a general store in this town. He was postmaster for a quarter of a century, selectman, assessor, overseer of the poor, and captain of troop F of cavalry. He was past master of William North lodge of Masons, past high priest of Mt. Horeb chapter, Royal Arch Masons, and thrice illustrious master of Massachusetts consistory, A and A. S. Rite, 1892-'93-'94. He was trustee of the Lowell Five Cent Savings bank. In 1884, as member of the house, he served on the committee on insurance; was chairman of the committee on military affairs, and was a member of the committee on public health in the senate of 1894; on committees on finance, military and naval affairs, state house and accounts in the executive council of 1897.

Mrs. Butterick's Assailant.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 25.—Samuel Connors, a negro laborer, who lives on Brookline street, was arrested by Marshal Burckes and Inspector Colby on the charge of feloniously assaulting Mrs. Louisa Butterick at her home on Pleasant View avenue, Swampscott, Tuesday morning. Connors was arrested while at work on the Little river sewer, and was taken immediately to the hospital and to the cot occupied by the woman. She positively identified him as the man who asked her for a drink of water and then assaulted her with a rock and flat-iron. The police are sure that Connors is the much-wanted man. The clothing he wore when arrested was stained in many places with blood. Connors denies that he had anything to do with the crime, and says that he was at home all the morning and in such pain that he could not possibly get out. He never saw Mrs. Butterick before, he says, and she is mistaken.

Trust Company Loses.

New Haven, Nov. 25.—Judge Townsend, in the United States circuit court, has handed down his decision in the case of the Central Trust company of New York against the Worcester Cycle company of Middletown, and Charles C. Goodrich, as trustee. The suit was brought by the Central Trust company to forclose a mortgage of $500,000 which Mr. Goodrich, as trustee, maintained was invalid. Judge Townsend finds that the mortgage indebtedness was not sufficiently proved, and that the mortgage is invalid. The case has been pending over a year.

Vanderbilt Generosity.

Newport, R. I., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt gave the news and messenger boys of this city a Thanksgiving dinner yesterday, about 400 being seated at the tables. The waitresses were from the local corps of Kings Daughters. After the feast the boys sang patriotic and popular songs, led by a full orchestra. Many state and city officials were among the spectators. As the boys marched out of the hall they cheered Mrs. Vanderbilt, and she gave to each a box of candy, the cover representing the American flag.

Found In the Woods.

Fall River, Nov. 25.—The body of an unknown man was found yesterday in the woods, half a mile from upper Bedford street. It was of a man 30 years old, five feet, nine, fairly well dressed. Among the effects was the name "Thomas Henry Wilkinson." A handkerchief in his pocket was embroidered "C. S." A bottle, which may have contained poison, was near the body. The eyes were mutilated, but rats or natural decay are mentioned by the police. The body may have lain there a week.

Mystery Explained.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 25.—The body of William B. Hawkes, who had been missing from his home in this city since the first of this month, was found yesterday afternoon floating upon the waters of Lake Quinsigamond. The body had been in the water for several days, and identification was made solely by means of the clothing the man had on. The pockets of his clothes were filled with stones. The man was 57 years old, and had been employed in Sessions' undertaking rooms for some time. It was clearly a case of suicide.

Stabbing Affray at Haverhill.

Haverhill, Mass., Nov. 25.—Early last evening William Whittier was in the Italian section of the city, and it is alleged he got into an altercation with Joseph Blue, an Italian, and the latter was thrown to the ground. Whittier received five dagger stabs in the body, and claims that Blue is responsible for the act. Blue denies being a participant in the altercation. Blue was captured in the suburbs of the city.

His Throat Cut.

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 25.—Joseph Dens, an Italian, had his throat cut, with probably fatal results, by a fellow countryman during a quarrel yesterday. The man fled after he committed the crime.

Change Must Be Made.

St. John's, Nov. 25.—The colonial minister yesterday received dispatches from Joseph Chamberlain, intimating that he had been furnished with the preliminary report of the royal commissioners who recently returned from the colony, where they had been investigating the French shore question. Mr. Chamberlain stated that the condition of affairs represented by the commissioners was intolerable, and that he was preparing to open negotiations with France for a settlement of the question, with a view to enabling the colony to pursue its industries unhampered by the restrictions created by the existence of more or less substantial French rights. Mr. Chamberlain promised to expedite the negotiations as much as possible.

Business Largely Increased.

Washington, Nov. 25.—First Assistant Postmaster General Heath has completed his annual report, except the portions relating to military postoffices at the army camps and in the Antilles and Philippines, and the rural free delivery service, both of which await further advices. The general business of the department shows an increase of over $6,000,000 during the fiscal year. In all departments of the service the influence of prosperous times has made itself apparent. This year there were 27,798,078 domestic money orders issued, against 25,169,055 last year; the amount carried was $191,354,121, against $174,482,676. There were 2358 new money order offices established. The recommendations for congressional action are numerous.

Banquet at Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—A Thanksgiving dinner attended by 200 Americans was given at the Kaiserhof last evening. John B. Jackson, secretary of the American embassy, presided at the banquet, and proposed toasts to President McKinley and Emperor William, both of which were received with cheers. Ex-President Gates of Amherst college made an address upon the significance of national holidays. Major General Wheaton, U. S. A., said a great German chief, upon reading the report of the battle of Santiago, expressed unqualified admiration of the spirit of the American soldiers who, though knowing that the enemy was armed with better weapons, never for a moment hesitated to do their duty.

Great Increase In Coinage.

Washington, Nov. 25.—In his annual report, George B. Roberts, the director of the mint, says: "The most important events of the fiscal year in the world of government finance have been the consummation of the long planned resumption of specie payments by Russia in gold, the reorganization of the monetary system of Japan with gold as the standard, and the refusal of the government of India to co-operate with the governments of the United States and France in an effort to establish bimetallism by international agreement. The gold coinage of the world in 1897 was the largest recorded, amounting to $437,719,342, against $195,899,517 in 1897.

A Deal With Bavarians.

Berlin, Nov. 25.—It is announced here that during Emperor William's visit to Munich a complete understanding on the military penal jurisdiction regulations was reached after conferences between the emperor and Regent Luitpold. The latter agreed to the establishment of a Bavarian senate, with representation in the supreme military court at Berlin, while the emperor granted to Bavaria the right to appoint the president of the Bavarian senate, together with a military counsel.

In Behalf of Oppressed.

Baltimore, Nov. 25.—The Dreyfus Propaganda society has adopted a resolution "that we call upon our sympathizers all over the country to prepare and hold suitable festivities on the day that the hero artilleryist (Dreyfus) sets his foot on French soil." Senator Morgan of Alabama has been invited to speak at the banquet, which the Baltimore society will give on the occasion of Dreyfus' exoneration and complete vindication by the court of cassation.

Talked to Pit Workers.

Paris Nov. 25.—With a view of averting a strike of miners at Lens, President Faure, accompanied by his suite, yesterday made a personal visit to the town, where he descended into the pit. The president conversed with the men and made a brief speech to them, in the course of which he said he desired to bring to the workers proof of the government's solicitude for them. Mr. Faure received an ovation from the miners.

Italy Means Business.

Tangier, Nov. 25.—The Italian government has sent an ultimatum to the Sultan of Morocco on the subject of the detention and ill-treatment of Italian proteges. A week has been given him in which to reply, and the Italian warship Umbria will fetch the answer of the sultan.

NO WASTE OF WORDS.

Evidence Which is Right to the Point and Reliable.

Judge Frank Ives of District Court of Crookston, Minn., says: For some time I have used Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with seeming great benefit with few exceptions, I have not been so free from indigestion in twenty-five years.

George W. Roosevelt, U. S. Consul to Brussels, Belgium: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, safe, pleasant to take, convenient to carry, give keen appetite, perfect digestion.

Mr. W. D. Tomlin, mechanical engineer, Duluth, Minn.: One box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets has done its work, and I am again gaining flesh and strength.

O. E. Ransom, Hustonville, Ky.: I was distressed and annoyed for two years with throwing up food, often two or three times a day; had no certainty of retaining a meal if I eat one. Four boxes of the tablets from my druggist have fully cured me. I find them pleasant to take, convenient to carry.

Rev. G. D. Brown Mondovi, Wis.: The effects of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is simply marvelous; a quite hearty dinner of broiled beefsteak causes no distress since I begun their use.

Over six thousand people in the state of Michigan alone in 1894 were cured of stomach troubles by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Full sized packages may be found at all druggists at 50 cents, or sent by mail on receipt of price from F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

CANCER CURED
BY ABSORPTION
NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

THERE IS A CLASS OF PEOPLE

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over 1-4 as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

BOSTON DOG SHOW.

Unfortunate Deformed Creatures Which Society Raves Over.

Editors Quincy Ledger:

A club of deluded but enterprising females, actuated partly by a desire for notoriety, and partly by a desire to pose as horsey "women dog-fanciers" got together a curious collection of canines, known in polite circles as "terriers," but known to the small boy as "bull purps," and, hiring a hall in a fashionable district in Boston held an exhibition this week. The writer went, and was not disappointed. There was row upon row of homely, snarling, dwarfed, watery-eyed pigmies, so weak and puny that any self-respecting house rat would have scorned to tackle one of them. Even their poor little tails were deformed, for their owners had, when the pups were born, twisted them into a close pigtail curl, which fashion has called "screw tail." Their ears, too, had been trimmed down to the merest strip, giving them the startled look of a bat, suddenly aroused from sleep.

Most of the doggies had a handsome, hand-embroidered blanket, a heavy brass-studded collar, and a name long and high-sounding enough for the very largest ocean steamers. This is our latest fashionable female fad. Mannish women, with horse show covert coats were as plentiful as flies at Santiago. The gush that was indulged in over the dog, and the "agony" that was piled on in the way of style was something awful.

It was a matter of general conversation that the owner of one of the dogs had sent around engraved cards to the owners of the other dogs announcing that her dog would "receive" the other dogs at 5 P. M. on the following afternoon. It was not, the writer believes, announced on the cards whether it was to be a German, or cards.

The lamentable feature of the show was that these poor little degenerate toys have been bred so small to conform to the ridiculous dictates of fashion, that all semblance to strength, beauty and utility have disappeared. They all had the same look of professional depression and ennui as the dwarfed lady in the side show, on a rainy afternoon.

These unfortunate little deformed creatures belong in the same class as docked tailed horses, Chinese women with deformed feet, Hottentots with nose rings, or fashionable women with ear rings, which have again made their appearance.

Fads, fashion and the desire for notoriety have caused them all.

Yours truly,
Aunt Phoebe.

Braintree Town Meeting.

The town meeting last evening was called to order at 7.30. F. A. Hobart was elected moderator, and the meeting adjourned to the lower hall where the following business was transacted.

Article 3, relating to the settlement of the water question was discussed briefly, and it was voted to instruct the Water Board to settle with the Hydraulic Construction Company by paying them the sum of $1,250.

Article 2, which related to extending water mains on Liberty street drew a long discussion, between Mr. E. E. Abercrombie, who thought the work should be done when there was money enough in hands of Commissioners to do it, and Mr. John Kelley, who urged that it be done now.

It was finally voted to raise $2,000 for this puprose and that the balance be taken from receipts from water rates.

Another discussion came up over the borrowing of money for the widening of Commercial street and in order to know just how much would be needed the matter was postponed until after the bids for the work are in.

The meeting adjourned to next Saturday evening at 7.30.

Geeson—Walker.

Mr. John H. Geeson, the proprietor of the Public Market, and Miss Florence E. Walker, only daughter of B. S. Walker, proprietor of the New Bugbee, Putnam, Conn., were united in marriage, Thanksgiving eve. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. N. Hardy of this city and was with a ring. Miss Mary Geeson of Lowell and Miss Mabel Preston of Royalston, Vt., served as bridemaids. Louise Carpenter was flower girl. After congratulations a wedding dinner was served. Orchestral music furnished the wedding march and entertainment at the dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Geeson after a wedding trip to New York and Washington will reside at 73 Whitwell street.

DEWEY AND HOBSON.

Two Heroes Praised In Secretary of Navy's Annual Report.

Sampson Credited With Destroying Cervera's Fleet.

Territorial Acquisitions Will Make a Great Increase In Naval Fleet Necessary.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Secretary of the Navy Long, in his report to the president, gives a compact narrative of the operations of the navy during the war with Spain, abstracts of the reports of bureau chiefs, and the secretary's recommendations for the increase and the improvement of the navy.

In his report Mr. Long praises Dewey and Hobson, but makes no mention of Schley in connection with the destruction of Cervera's fleet, Sampson being given full credit for that performance. Among other things, he recommends the temporary revival of the grades of admiral and vice admiral, a change in the system of rewards and the placing of the transport system under the control of the navy department. He also recommends the building of a number of new war vessels of various types and the establishment of a national naval reserve. The report begins:

"Since my last report the navy has, for the first time since its rehabilitation, been put to the supreme test of war. Years of patient, persistent training and development had brought it to a point of high efficiency, which resulted in the unparalelled victories at Manila and Santiago—victories which have given the names of our naval commanders world-wide fame and added an additional page to the glorious naval history of our country."

Mr. Long recites the naval dispositions in the early part of the year, the interception Jan. 11, of the gunboat Helena under orders to join the Asiatic squadron, the bringing of the Cincinnati and the Castine from Montevideo to Para, on the north coast of Brazil, and the blowing up of the Maine in Havana harbor. The "judicious telegram" of Captain Sigsbee requesting that public opinion should be suspended is given and the appointment of the board of inquiry is recorded. "In the meantime," continues the report, "the commander-in-chief of the Asiatic squadron was ordered to assemble his squadron at Hong Kong. Commanders-in-chief of stations were ordered to husband ammunition and to keep their vessels filled with the best coal obtainable. Enlistments, even in excess of the established quota, were ordered. The North Atlantic fleet was greatly strengthened and vessels were concentrated in the neighborhood of Key West. The flying squadron was organized under command of Commodore Schley and stationed at Fortress Monroe for the protection of any point on the coast which might be menaced by a Spanish fleet.

"On March 9 congress passed the emergency bill appropriating $50,000,000 for national defense; the department at once took steps to secure auxiliary vessels and the purchase of ammunition, guns, and all classes of naval war material went rapidly on.

"The squadrons, ships, officers and crews were in a desirable condition and training, and as early as April 15, four weeks before Admiral Cervera's fleet reached Cuban waters, the navy of the United States was ready for the outbreak of hostilities. The North Atlantic fleet at Key West covered Cuba; the flying squadron at Hampton roads stood ready to defend our own coast, or to threaten that of Spain, and the Asiatic squadron at Hong Kong only awaited information of the outbreak of hostilities.

"On March 19 the Oregon left San Francisco. She arrived off Jupiter inlet, Fla., on May 24 in good condition and ready for service, and was ordered to Key West, where, after coaling, she took her place as part of the command of Admiral Sampson.

"In order to provide for the protection of the Atlantic coast between the capes of the Delaware and Bar Harbor, Me., the northern patrol squadron was organized and was placed under the command of Commodore Powell on April 20.

"On April 21 congress declared war. Admiral Sampson, in command of the North Atlantic fleet, which had been engaged during the five or six preceding months in gunnery and tactical practice off Florida, was at once ordered to blockade that part of the northern coast of Cuba extending from Cardenas to Bayan Honda. At 6:30 a. m. on April 22 the admiral sailed on that errand."

The secretary gives the telegram to Admiral Dewey, April 24, directing him to proceed from Hong Kong to the Philippines and "capture or destroy the Spanish fleet." Commenting on the victory, Mr. Long says: "This victory gave to our fleet the complete control of the bay of Manila. The naval station at Cavite was taken possession of and its fortifications were destroyed. The admiral reported that the city would be taken at any time when a sufficient number of troops were on hand to hold it.

"Aside from the mere fact of having won without the loss of a single life such a brilliant and electrifying victory at the very outset of the war with all the confidence which it infused throughout the country and into the personnel of every branch of the service, it removed at once all apprehension on the Pacific coast. The indirect pecuniary advantage to the United States in the way of saving an increase of insurance rates and in assuring the country of freedom from attack on that coast is incalculable."

Mr. Long then proceeds to review the progress of the campaign in Cuban waters, quoting at length from the orders to Schley and Sampson and the correspondence between the latter officer and those officers in command of the land forces before Santiago before and after the destruction of Cervera's fleet.

Of the sinking of the Merrimac Mr. Long says: "On June 1 Admiral Sampson arrived off Santiago and found Commodore Schley's squadron in column to the westward of the mouth of the harbor. Immediately upon the concentration of these two forces at Santiago a close and efficient blockade was established, Admiral Sampson in command. The harbor was closely guarded day and night by our ships in a semi-circle. Powerful searchlights were thrown upon its entrance during the dark.

"A plan of attack, by which our vessels were to close in at once upon any of the enemy's coming out, was provided for in standing orders. On June 3 an attempt was made to close the harbor by sinking across its entrance the collier Merrimac. This attempt, though unsuccessful in its object, was daringly conceived. It is now one of the well-known historic marvels of naval adventure and enterprise, in which Naval Constructor Hobson and his men won undying fame."

Mr. Long then treats of the armament of the new vessels and concludes his report with many recommendations for new legislation, concluding as follows:

"With the territorial acquisition of the present year, if the Philippines are also annexed to the United States, its outlying territorial possessions will be so great and so extended that this increase of naval force will be necessary; and as two or three years will be required for the construction of the ships enumerated appropriations sufficient for beginning them should be made now."

FEATURES OF INTEREST

In Postmaster General Smith's Review of the Past Year.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The work accomplished and policies adopted by the postal department are thus outlined in the annual report of Postmaster General Smith:

"The war entailed the necessity of a military postal service and prompt measures were requested for handling the mails of an army of 250,000 men. Large postoffices were suddenly created at the camps of concentration, the exigencies of constant changes and movements were met and the military and naval forces in active service in the West Indies and Philippines have been in prompt and constant postal communication with home. These military postoffices were clothed with all postal powers. Some of the larger camps increased the volume of postal business to that of cities of high rank. Quick and intelligent management was demanded and trained clerks were detailed from available points.

"When our troops advanced into Cuba the postal service advanced with them. When Santiago surrendered, United States Postal Agent Eben Brewer took possession of the postoffice of that city. Now there are four deliveries in the business portion of Santiago city and regular mail communication has been established with Havana and intermediate seaports, and with Jamaica and other West Indian islands. Service has also been extended into Santiago province.

"The postal service accompanied our arms and our flag to Porto Rico. From Ponce it was extended as rapidly as different places passed into our possession, until now there are 12 military postal stations there, having postal connections with many smaller places.

In the Philippines two military postal stations have been established at Manila and Cavite, supervised by a division superintendent and conducted by a force of railway mail and postoffice clerks and agents, assisted by details from the army of occupation.

"The acquisition of Hawaii has not thus far been followed by any change in our postal relations with that country. The absorption of its postal system into our own and the exercise of our control, like the incorporation of other features of its local administration, have awaited the report of the congressional committee and the legislation which will follow. There was more reason for observing this obligation, as Hawaii already has a good mail service, which is more than self sustaining."

Regarding the effective work of auxiliary cruisers and merchant marine in the war, the postmaster general says the great value of the aid contributed during the war by steamships employed in our mail service and converted auxiliary cruisers is universally recognized.

The postmaster general calls attention to the rapid and amazing growth of the postal business in all its branches. In the last fiscal year the gross revenue was $89,012,618, against $33,315,479 in 1880, and the gross expenditures $98,033,523, against $36,542,804; the number of postoffices 73,000, against 43,000. Within this period the population has increased about 50 percent, while postal business has multiplied nearly threefold. The general increase of expenditures for the past year has been little more than the preceding one, despite the fact that nearly $1,000,000 earned in mail transportation by the aid of the Pacific railroad companies was paid this year directly out of the department appropriations. There was an increase in postal receipts of nearly $6,500,000 over the aggregate of 1897; it is cited as a proof that the country is again prosperous. The estimate of revenues and expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, follows: Total estimated revenue, $100,958,112; estimated expenditures, $105,224,000; deficiency for 1900, estimated, $4,265,888. But for the gross abuse of second-class matter privileges the deficit should have disappeared long ago and its present and promised decrease is in the face of this abuse.

The most marked advance in volume of money order business in the history of the system was this past year, the increase being 17,000,000 in number, $16,000,000 in money carried. There were 28,753,412 money orders issued, face value $204,193,891. Legislation is asked for at the next session of congress to correct the evils growing out of the existing system of speculative bidding for star route service. There were 15,600,220 pieces of mail matter registered at the postoffices during the year and the aggregate of $998,199 in fees collected was an increase of over 7 percent over the previous year's business.

Among recommendations for legislation are those to make depredations of railway postal clerks a continuous offense; to provide a severer penalty for employes embezzling or destroying newspaper mail; severer statutes covering green goods and obscene matter; the issue of a special stamped envelope of a superior paper quality for 10 cents for greater security and safety; for at least curtailing the use of postage stamps as a medium of exchange and for allowing postmasters of the first and second classes to pay for the special delivery of letters by salaried postal officials and to allow car fare to special delivery messengers in the great cities.

VIRTUALLY COMPLETE.

Civil Administration of Santiago In Good Running Order.

Opportunity For Cubans to Show Their Ability.

First Instalment of American Troops Safely Landed In Havana.

Santiago, Nov. 26.—Some time ago Major McLeary, whom General Wood had appointed mayor of Santiago, requested to be relieved of his mayorality duties and to return to his military post. This request was granted yesterday.

In the opinion of General Wood it is preferable to appoint to the mayorality a civilian acceptable to the Cubans; and he has appointed as Major McLeary's successor Senor Bacardi, an old resident. He is anxious to give the mayoralty as much authority as is compatible with military jurisdiction. The new mayor will conform to General Wood's ideas, which are to give the Cubans every opportunity to show themselves capable of self government.

Major McLeary, as a military mayor, gave entire satisfaction to all classes. He has now been assigned to the duties of inspector general of the province and will shortly take a tour, including Holguin, Jibara, Baracoa, Sagua De Tanamo and other points, making reports to General Wood.

The first official act of Mayor Bacardi was to discharge the entire clerical force in the mayor's office and to employ Cubans who had served in the war. He will shortly issue a manifesto to the effect that he intends encouraging the city's development and giving employment, so far as conditions will permit, to worthy persons. He will promise to look closely to the general interests of the community and will call upon all Cubans to obey the law and thus to promote the prosperity of the country and to insure the happiness of its people. General Wood has high hopes of these first attempts at civil government under Cuban control.

The regulation preventing the foreclosure of small mortgages, issued by General Wood about a fortnight ago, has proved a great boon to those for whose relief it was intended.

General Wood has approved a scheme for a school for the higher education of women, similar to the American normal school. Yesterday he issued a notice imposing a fine of $1000 upon any person promoting a bull fight and a fine of $50 upon any promoter of a cock fight. In the case of a cock fight the fine will fall upon witnesses as well as promoters.

The rural police have been instructed to keep a special lookout along the telegraph line between Santiago and San Luis, as the peasant farmers are still cutting the wire and using it to bale hay and cope stone.

The civil administration of the province is now virtually complete. The appointment of supreme court judges will be made today, and as the local Bar association has put forward several names, General Wood will probably select from among these.

American Camp In Havana.

All four companies of the Second regiment volunteers engineers which arrived off Marianao beach, Havana, yesterday morning on board the United States transport Florida landed by 9:30 at the Marianao wharf. They marched straight for their camps, two miles from Havana. General Greene and his staff reviewed the men as they passed. All the men, with the exception of five who are still suffering from sea sickness and were taken to the camp by train, were in line and all are in good spirits and fit for duty. About 150 Cubans of General Menocal's division were employed in clearing the camp site, and by 11 o'clock the tents were being pitched for the first American camp at Havana.

Apart from the few cases of mal de mer, only two of the 280 men who landed from the Florida are on the sick list. One is suffering from dysentery and the other from a dislocated knee cap, but both had their present complaints when they left the United States.

The men have been busy pitching camp and fixing tents. The site selected for the camp is excellent, on high ground and well supplied with water. The men arrived with only heavy underwear, woolen blouses and cloth breeches, which are very trying under the scorching sun of the sea coast. The medical staff considers it urgently necessary that Khaki uniforms be sent at once for the comfort of the men.

The Spanish evacuation commissioners yesterday delivered a note announcing the complete evacuation of the Holguin division.

The United States commissioners sent the Spaniards a note informing them that the following troops were expected on or about Nov. 30: The Fifteenth Pennsylvania volunteers, which will be stationed at Pinar Del Rio; the Third New Jersey, to be stationed at Mariel, and the Two Hundred and Second New York, assigned to Guanajay, all in the province of Pinar Del Rio. The troops destined for Mariel will be landed there, the port affording excellent shelter and facilities for disembarkation. Those intended for the city of Pinar Del Rio and Guananaja will land in Havana harbor, where they can make immediate railway connections for those points.

Owing to his expected early departure, Captain General Blanco was asked by the United States evacuation commissioners yesterday to appoint a day and hour when they can visit him at the palace to say farewell.

Passports were yesterday delivered to the aides de camp of General Blanco's staff, who will sail for Spain on the steamer Juanforgas on Dec. 3. On the same steamer, it is announced, will embark Marshal Blanco, General Solano and his staff and the officials employed at Blanco's headquarters.

The volunteer forces at Cardenas have delivered their arms to the authorities.

Possible Source of Delay.

London, Nov. 26.—The Paris correspondent of The Standard says: It is hinted that the delay in the peace negotiations here is chiefly due to the irritation of Senor Montero Rios, who wants to resign, and has consented to retain his membership in the Paris commission on a personal appeal of Senor Sagasta to his patriotism, the premier having assured him that personal responsibility is in no wise involved.

A Chat With Rios.

Paris, Nov. 26.—Montero Rios stated last evening that the Spanish peace commissioners had not yet decided upon the answer to be given to the last American memorandum.

"We are considering the matter," he said, "in a conciliatory spirit, and are anxious to re-establish friendly relations between the two countries. At the same time, we are here to defend the interests and honor of Spain."

In reply to an inquiry as to whether there was any truth in the report that the Spanish commissioners had decided to accept the American offer of $20,000,000 for the Philippines, Senor Rios, shaking his head, said: "No; the commission has not yet decided on its answer. What our reply will be can only be determined at the conference on Monday, when we will discuss the matter with the Americans. At the same time," he added in a still lower voice, "we will follow the instructions that may be received from Madrid."

"Then the final instructions have not yet come?" was asked.

"Ah, but we are approaching a confidential manner," said Senor Rios, innocently. "Everything connected with both commissions is a secret."

Wood's Good Work.

Washington, Nov. 26.—General Wood has sent an official report to the war department of which the following is an abstract: "I have sent rations all along the seacoast and by pack trains into the interior, using every effort to scatter rations about in such a way as to enable the people desiring to return to their farms in the interior to do so with a reasonable assurance that they can obtain food while waiting the development of their first crop. Santiago today is as clean and healthy as any town of its size along the American seacoast south of Fortress Monroe. Excellent order prevails."

The Anniston Outbreak.

Anniston, Ala., Nov. 26.—The city has quieted down after Tuesday night's rioting, and it is believed that the full extent of the shooting has been learned. Two negro soldiers were killed and three wounded, and six or eight white enlisted men were more or less seriously hurt. The members of the white provost guard who were missing have reported for duty.

Russia Won't Meddle.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 26.—A Russian diplomat, in the course of an interview, has declared that Russia will not stir a finger to prevent the United States from occupying the Philippines, but he said he was unable to conceal his conviction that the injustice of America's attitude presaged the termination of the friendship which has hitherto existed between Russia and the United States.

Suicide's Peculiar Freak.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Nov. 26.—Alfred E. Dean, 34 years of age and single, employed by James Stevens on his farm in Danville, committed suicide by hanging. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens attended a Thanksgiving reunion, and did not return to their home until midnight. Upon entering the house they were horrified to find Dean's body hanging in the front hall. The gold watch and chain of Mrs. Stevens was found dangling from his nose, through which he had thrust the chatelaine pin attached. It is supposed that insanity was the cause of the act.

Old Warrior Gone.

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 26.—General Andrew McReynolds, who was the first and only person commissioned by President Lincoln direct to raise a regiment during the war of the rebellion, died here yesterday, aged 91. Deceased served in the Mexican war and was promoted to major for gallantry. He served as United States district attorney and rendered distinguished service in the Civil war. General McReynolds claimed to be the oldest Knight Templar in the United States. He was always a Democrat.

Would-Be Lynchers Blocked.

Glasgow, Ky., Nov. 26.—Seven shots fired before daylight yesterday awakened citizens to the fact that they were intended as a warning to the guards at the jail of the approach of a mob to lynch Robert Brown and Johnson Franklin, charged with murder. The warning shots were fired by the night police. The mob of 50 found the jail guarded, and, after being assured that the guards would do their duty if an attempt was made to take the prisoners, parleyed for half an hour and then rode off.

St. Louis Crookedness.

St. Louis, Nov. 26.—Henry Besch, city register, was indicted on four counts by the grand jury yesterday, charged with fraudulently manipulating the city payrolls and accepting bribes. Besch was formerly superintendent of the street sprinkling department, and the offenses with which he is charged were committed by him while in charge of that department, it is said. G. W. Reichman, a sprinkling superintendent, was also indicted for connection with the case.

From the Yukon.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Receiver Rhode of the public land office at Nulatto, Alaska, reached Washington yesterday and recommended the removal of that office to Weare, a settlement 200 miles further up the Yukon river, and at the mouth of the Tanana. The removal will be authorized at once. Mr. Rhode reported that the main mining industry is centered at Weare. The general mining conditions are reported to be very encouraging. There are 125 steamers now navigating the Yukon, he said.

Fatally Assaulted Wife.

Toronto, Nov. 26.—Robert Taggart, a laborer, staggered into a police station yesterday and told the officers that he had killed his wife. The police found the woman lying in a pool of blood, her head horribly battered and the brains oozing out. The woman was still breathing and was taken to the hospital, where the doctors pronounced her injuries mortal. No motive is assigned for the crime.

Manual Training.

The following able paper in favor of the introduction of Manual Training into the Braintree schools, from F. H. Palmer of the "Education" was read by Superintendent Horne before the Jonas Perkins school association reception last week Wednesday evening:

I have been asked to contribute a few words to the meeting tonight, upon the subject of Manual Training. I assume that none of the intelligent and experienced teachers here present, trained in modern ideas and familiar with the trend of recent pedagogic thought, needs to be argued with in favor of manual training as a most useful and essential feature of the New Education. I conceive that the object of this gathering is to bring at least a few of the busy citizens of our town, the fathers, toiling in the shops, upon the farm, or busily engaged during the day in the city stores and counting-houses; — and the mothers, burdened with the manifold duties of the household,—into touch with the ideas and aims of those who have more time than they, and whose business it is,—to study the deeper problems of education. To the fathers and mothers of the pupils in our schools I wish to speak a few earnest words in favor of manual training. For only thus, by explaining its relations and creating public sentiment in its favor, can we expect ultimately to get votes for its general introduction into the schools of the town. As a student of educational topics and as a parent practically interested in the highest efficiency of the schools to which I am sending my own little men and women, I am glad of the opportunity here afforded of expressing myself as heartily in favor of the general introduction of manual training into the schools of Braintree, and also as deeply appreciative of the results already attained from the introduction of the subject into one of our schools through the generosity and public spirit of one of our honored citizens. The good which the pupils of this one school are getting I want to see placed within reach of all.

It is something to be able to say of any subject that it is favored with practical unanimity by the leading authorities who make that subject their special study. This may fairly be claimed for manual training as a part of the school curriculum. I have been much interested, in looking over the bound volumes of a leading educational journal, in noting the rise of this subject scarcely a dozen years ago, as a prominent subject of educational discussion, — the cautious, experimental way in which it was approached at first, and its gradual emergence on to the sure ground of practically unanimous approval. It is a convincing and impressive spectacle when we behold the master minds of a great profession thus working their way through to a substantial agreement on a subject that was once considered a decided innovation and that provoked hot debate as to its legitimacy and value.

The ordinary arguments for the introduction of manual training into our schools are of a two-fold order, — theoretical, and practical arguments. As this paper must be very brief I will barely indicate the direction taken by some of the theoretical considerations urged by its advocates, and confine myself mainly to the presentation of its practical side.

Theoretically it is argued, that the human body has two sets of nerves, the receptive and the executive; that book-learning appeals to and cultivates the receptive faculties, and manual training the executive; and that the latter are deserving of as much attention as the former.

Again it is urged that mind is located not only in the brain but also in the fingers, and that mind should be cultivated wherever it manifests itself. Watch the nimble fingers of a skilled mechanic or of an accomplished pianist and you will not find it difficult to believe in the mentality of the finger-tips.

The point has recently been made that the coarser, rougher employments of our ancestoors developed the larger sinews and that the duty of the present and future ages is to call out the latent, unused efficiency of the finer, more delicate muscles and nerve centres. the substitution of machinery for hand-labor is a part of this process, relieving men of the necessity of the heavier kinds of work. This is the Age of Machinery, and the adjustments of mechanisms to man's needs become ever finer and more complex. The rise of manual training as a part of our educational system is at once a cause and an effect of this change.

It is argued further that the child will be more roundly be developed, more competely educated, more thoroughly quailfied to do good work for others and to appreciate their good work for him, if he is taught the use of tools an labors at the bench and by the forge, even though his labors be but those of an amateur. It is claimed that this kind of education will broaden his oulook and make him a more efficient factor in human society, more of an all round man.

And here we approach the practical side. There theoretical effects are seen actually taking place. The meaning and purpose of education and of school-life has first dawned upon many a child's mind as he has entered upon this new kind of study which seems to him so much nearer to real life than any of the book work in which he has been heretofore engaged. Let me quote a sentence or two on this point from the testimony of one manual training teacher:

"One great result," she says, "of the manual training in the graduating class of our school has been an increased earnestness in the ordinary school work. Boys who, in the carpenter's shop, have had their faults set plainly before them by their failures to make any but an imperfect joint, or who, in the printing class, have seen themselves in a paragraph full of errors—and this even when they have tried earnestly to do well, begin to cultivate patience and applications, and carry these qualities into their school work as well."

"Sometimes a boy who is brilliant in his classes will make failure after failure in his carpentry, not from lack of deftess of hand, but because he has neither accuracy or patience. Some of the brightest minds in my class have discovered this, and are now ready to put into their school work the concentrated attention and willingness to plod which they begin to see is essential, not only in the shop, but in all mental work of value."

"The boys themselves tell me that the work makes them more patient, attentive, and determined. There is a lively, happy interest throughout the class; and while the girls are gaining greatly in order and fore-thought through the work in the cooking class, many of the boys are acquiring these same traits through their work in the shops. They enjoy the lessons with their novelty and interest thoroughly, although they are work, and often hard, plodding work."

Are not these interesting indorsements of the practical value of manual training?

Manual training should help, and certainly does, in answering rightly the important question, What career in life should a young man or a young women choose. There is perhaps but one practical question that is more important than this, and that is the choice of a husband or a wife. I am inclined to think that manual training may sometimes contribute something to the settlement of that profound question, which is only more important than the other from the fact that if a man makes a mistake in his calling he can change it; while a matrimonial blunder is irremediable.

But it is vastly better to begin right in one's life-calling, to avoid getting the square peg in the round hole. What a saving of power and efficiency, to say nothing of discouragement and heart burning, it would be if every boy and girl could be so guided as to make just the right choice of a career, a life-work, until there should be no more "misfits," but each one should be employed in exactly the work for which he is best suited. Well, can any one doubt that manual training helps mightily in securing this desirable result?

The practical value of manual training in helping to fit the child for a useful career in life is so obvious that it is usually the first and most convincing argument with the majority of people. The world needs probably twenty or fifty or a hundred skilled workmen in wood and iron and copper where it needs one professional man, minister, lawyer or doctor—not to mention the the politician. Hence, as manual training is directly concerned in the development of skilled laborers in these more material callings, the common people naturally believe in it as their right and opportunity. This argument has real force.

M. Sluys, of Belgiums, tells us that in Sweden, "In the beginning the economic conception was generally adopted, and everywhere manual training was looked upon as a means of the common people to earn their living." I have certainly known more than one poor minister whose making had spoiled an excellent mechanic. I doubt not that every profession discloses similar instances. A chance to use tools, and to get instruction in the best use of them, in the formative period of childhood and youth, will surely bring light to this great question of one's calling and help to fit one for the calling finally chosen. I honestly believe that the world needs today, good, honest, industrious, well equipped mechanics and artisans fully as much as it needs more ministers, doctors, lawyers and politicians.

I will name but one other practical consideration; and I have saved it till the last because I esteem it the most important, though perhaps the least recognized effect of manual training upon the mind and life of the child. It is its awakening effect upon his whole intellectual nature,—its efficiency in calling out into consciousness the selfhood of the pupil, causing him to realize himself as a factor in the world, an agent, efficient and responsible, with individual character and personal entity, but still related to and connected with society and with the race.

This intellectual birth is the most important crisis in a young man's life. Many are never thus born. They drift through life on the current, practical nonentities. But to secure this conscious birth is one of the greatest results of teaching. Whatever contribues to it is valuable. Manual training has contributed in a marked way in many instances to secure such an awakening in those whose natures had never been deeply touched before by any study. For such birth is apt to come when the child becomes suddenly conscious that he has made something Who has not felt somthing of this thrill of achievement, this high inspiration of accomplishment which declares man to be an agent, a free personality, above Nature, supernatural, able to take the forces and materials of the natural world and recast them to his own purposes at his own free will!

It may be that the achievement which calls out this consciousness is in itself very trifling,—the making of a toy ship, the construction of a perfect joint in capacity, the shaping of a horse shoe or the successful casting of a molding. But there it lies, something that was not, and is; something actual, tangible, useful, that the boy himself has made, — in that moment the boy has become a man.

Preyer tells us that the infant he was observing was so delighted with the discovery that it could put a cover on a box, that it deliberately took it off and put it on seventy-nine times without an interval of rest. "It was an educative step in its development," says Dr. Harris, "a step in the discovery of its selfhood as an energy, as well as a step in the discovery of an adaptation in the external world."

From this step of the infant to the masterful assertion of personality when a trained and eloquent orator sways the mind and feelings of an audience and by his eloquence changes the destinies of nations—seems a long way. But midway between is the step of the boy, bashful, backward, only half-conscious of his birth-right,—out into the light of realized manhood, with purpose to make something of himself, to be somebody and to do something that shall be of real service to humanity. That step is often taken, I believe in the Manual Training School.

The Giant Despair.

One of the most horrible things about the nervous diseases to which women are peculiarly subject is the sense of overwhelming despair which they bring upon the mind.

A woman's mental condition is directly and powerfully affected by any ailment of the delicate, special organs of her sex. Such a difficulty not only racks her body with pain and suffering but burdens her with mental anguish which words can hardly describe.

Thousands of women have had a similar experience to that of Mrs. Eurath A. Williams, of Westport, Oldham Co., Ky., in which the use of Dr. Pierce's wonderful "Favorite Prescription," by imparting health and strength to the feminine organism, has not only restored complete vigor and capacity to the bodily powers but has also given renewed brightness and buoyancy of spirit.

"I suffered for over a year," says Mrs. Williams, "with indigestion and nervous prostration. I was unable to eat or sleep. I tried several physicians, but they only helped me for a short time. A friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pellets.' I commenced taking the medicines last May. Took three bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription,' three of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three vials of the 'Pellets,' and am now feeling better than I have for two years. Have a good appetite, sleep well, and do not suffer from indigestion or nervousness. I have gained seven and a half pounds since taking these medicines. I have recommended Dr. Pierce's medicine to several ladies, one of whom is now taking it and is being greatly benefited."

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to T, and today's instalment is the third of the Ws:

☞It will be some weeks yet before the Ledger completes the publication of the Assessors' land values. Considerable land in all wards of the city is owned by non-residents, and these lots have not been published. The list will follow the publication of the resident taxpayers, and considerable interest will doubtless be taken to ascertain whether the non-residents pay their proportionate share.

☞A limited number of back copies of the Ledger containing the land values can be obtained for five cents each at the office of publication.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

CRISP LOCAL NOTES.

Up-to-Date, Lively, Sparkling and Bright.

It feels like snow today.

December comes in next Thursday.

Not much excitement yet over the City election.

An engine off the track at South Boston delayed all outward trains Friday afternoon.

The Wollaston laundry has changed management, Mr. Sampson having gone to Cambridge.

Rev. C. G. Hagberg, a missionary, just returned from India, will speak at the Swedish Methodist church at both Sunday services.

The time in which candidates nominated to be voted for at the City election can withdraw, expires tonight at 5 o'clock.

The Q. & B. Street Railway Company have commenced work on their carhouse at Neponset bridge. The old buildings at Robinson's wharf have been demolished.

Mr. Patrick McDonnell of Main street had a shock on Thursday and did not survive the night. He leaves three sons, Rev. Matthew McDonnell, Thomas H. McDonnell and John A. McDonnell, also three daughters.

The funeral of Mark Swift was held yesterday afternoon at 2.30 from his late residence at Germantown, and was attended by Rev. E. W. Preble of the Universalist church. Mr. Swift was in his 74th year. He had been sick about two years.

About 10.30 o'clock yesterday morning the chimney of the house of Timothy Reardon, at the corner of Bates and O'Connor avenue was discovered to be on fire. Hose 4 was notified and responded, extinguishing the fire without an alarm.

Rupert F. Claflin has written the Democratic City Committee that he could only accept the nomination on the distinct understanding that he shall not work for personal or party success, and if elected to office will only support such measures as seem to him for the best interest of the city.

Johnson Brothers with their usual up to datedness have their windows decorated with Christmas greens. The dark green holly and bright red berries, together with this cold snap turns people's thoughts to the holiday season which is less than a month away.

Tickets for the course of lectures to be given in the Universalist church are selling well, as might be expected from the good talent represented and the low price of admission. Capt. Eldredge, Boston's Chief of Police, is quite well known here and there will be a general desire to hear him, as well as Col. Taylor, Col. Thomas and the others.

Daniel McLennon, Republican candidate for Councilmen from Ward Three has resigned as an election officer. The law prevents anyone nominated for office serving as an election officer or deputy, and unless they resign they must be removed. Harold B. Faxon nominated by the Democrats for Councilman from Ward One, will probably resign as an election officer today otherwise the Mayor will by law be obliged to remove him. It is, however, too late to fill vacancies as the nominations have to be confirmed by the City Council.

THEY HAD TURKEY.

Co. K Boys Thankful to their Quincy Friends.

Turkeys Fresh Killed by the Boys Themselves.

A Thanksgiving Dinner That was Much Appreciated.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.
Camp Wetherill, Greenville, S. C.
Monday, Nov. 21.

This has been a regular May day; fine and warm. The sky is bright and clear with not a cloud presenting itself. The boys of the regiment have been working hard all day, clearing and cleaning up the camp.

The 2d battalion, which was on special duty at the commissary stores at Camp Meade has returned to the regiment, so that we are once more united.

The battalions have been somewhat mixed up since we struck Camp Wetherill. Major Morrison who is in command of the first battalion, has the following companies under his command: On the right of the line Co. A, Captain Stover of Charlestown; right centre, Co. C, Captain Springer of Newton; left centre, Co. K, Captain Neilson of Braintree and left of the line, Co. I, Captain Sykes of Attleboro. This is the first time in the record of Co. K that it ever held rank in the first battalion, having jumped up three companies.

The present 2d battalion, of which K was part, now consists of Co. G, Captain Hanson, of Woburn; Co. H, Captain McDonald of Charlestown; (H is the color company), Co. B, Captain Tracey of Cambridge; Co. E, Captain Clarke of Medford. This battalion is now under command of Capt. Hanson of Co. G of Woburn, who is acting as Major.

The third battalion consists of Co. M., Captain Clare of Hudson; Co. F, Captain Gindrat of Waltham; Co. D, Captain Butler of Plymouth, and Co. L, Captain Cutting of Malden. This battalion is now under command of Capt. Clare of Co. M, Hudson, who is acting as Major.

The old 2d battalion, when at Camp Meade, consisted of Companies I, D, K and H. The reader will now see how these companies that have been for years in the same battalion are now all separated.

Indications point favorably to the promotion of Major W. E. Morrison, ex-Captain of Co. K, to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Our major is in every way worthy of the commission.

The boys are once more settled down to camp life. This seems to be the best camp that our "Dandy" regiment has struck, except in rainy weather. The soil is of a rich red color, which makes it like quick sand.

The company cooks here have a regular mess house built of wood, and very conveniently made. K company's cook squad consists of Privates Tucker, Brown, Belcher, Carlson, and Robinson.

Private H. F. Tucker is in charge of a provost guard which has been detailed up in Greenville centre to take charge of the boys who may in any way disturb the peace. This complaint has never as yet been entered against the members of the Fifth Massachusetts. These provosts have been detailed as safeguards. The detail from K Co. under command of Lieut. Whitney is as follows: Sergeant John R. McGrath, Privates D. P. Lyons, T. F. Martell, W. E. Morrissey, John Mead, P. McPhee, J. McCarthy, F. E. Morales and T. J. Boler.

The regular detail for regimental guard which K sent for duty today were: Sergeant Phillips, Coporal Gannon, Privates Garbutt, Hodges, Jones, Johnson, Kelliher, Leslie, and Levangie.

The following privates of K Co were detailed on Saturday to perform the first guard duty on Dixie soil: Privates R. Buckley, G. P. Clapp, M. Clark, P. Currie, and H. Collins.

The boys seem to be picking up in health. The boys feel more contented now they are once more in a warm climate. Everrything is O. K.

Thanksgiving at Camp.

Camp Wetherill,
Wednesday, Nov. 23, 1898.

Last night we had another Southern rain storm, but toward midnight it cleared off bright and starry. Today has been an ideal day. The camp is very near completion, so that tomorrow the boys may be able to take a rest, especially as it is our "Northern Thankgiving Day."

The boys are busy this afternoon killing turkeys, as K company, through the kindness of the Daily Ledger and Quincy citizens, has received a bountiful and glorious dinner for tomorrow. We appreciate their kindness extremely. A good feed by the soldier boys in the far distant Southern camp, especially one contributed by friends at home, brings back many happy thoughts to our minds of the many pleasant days that we enjoyed when at our own firesides.

K company boys will feast on roast turkey, celery, cranberry sauce, pies and numerous other eatables. The boys are counting the minutes so that it will come to pass soon. Dinner is ordered for 11 o'clock tomorrow instead of 12, as is the usual custom.

Those detailed for regimental guard today are Corporal C. L. Whiting, Privates Terrance Rafferty, L. G. Restelli, G. F. Rowell, Robert Olver and J. A. Ross.

Private Harry A. Bailey was today detailed over to the 2d division hospital as orderly.

Hospital Sergeant Matthews expects to leave here on Saturday for a 20 days' furlough, if new orders are not received for the removal of our regiment to Cuba.

Corporal Haskins was out today, taking a walk through these Southern woods, when his eyes beheld a beautiful bunch of mistletoe growing from an old oak tree, about fifty feet in the air. The corporal climbed the tree with much difficulty and got a piece of genuine mistletoe.

The boys are sending home a few pods of cotton, evergreen, and Greenville's red soil for souvenirs to their friends.

Corporal William J. Leslie has an elegant wreath of evergreen hanging over his tent entrance; one that he made himself. The corporal intends celebrating Thanksgiving.

The boys are in good health. The change of climate is improving many.

Echo from Camp Meade.

The Middletown, Penn., Journal says: Camp Meade's deserted ground furnishes an excellent picking ground for junk dealers and already a number of them have paid visits to the ground, gathering up iron and scraps which were considered of no value by the departing soldiers. These "pickers" are closely watched to see that they carry away no lumber. Many of them secured good cots, hundreds of which were thrown away by the soldiers, who had no opportunity to carry such baggage with them. A large number of these little camp beds were comparatively new and will likely be "done over" by enterprising "second-hand" men and sold to camping parties next summer or to the soldiers themselves if they return. Many of the cots were burned.

Thousands of feet of valuable lumber are still on the ground, in the shape of tent floors, mess houses, company kitchens and stables. These will be carefully watched and thieves attempting to remove anything will be severely dealt with. Some trouble along this line has already arisen through persons residing in the vicinity appropriating government property.

It is understood that if the troops do not return next spring that this lumber will be disposed of at public sale. About 700 cords of wood remain at the camp and the railroad siding. Nearly 100 cords remain also near to where the first division headquarters were formerly situated. This will not be removed but will be guarded with the other property until spring.

Young Man Afflicted.

Chief of Police Litchfield received a message from Police Headquarters, Boston, yesterday, that a driver of the Shawmut spring water team had been taken violently insane at Dorchester that morning. The driver proved to be Charles Fuller, a son of F. J. Fuller. From what has been learned it seems that he called at the house of Superintendent Eldredge of the Boston Police, at 69 Minot street, Dorchester, and was there afflicted. At the time no one but the servant girl was at home. Her story is that as the man came up to the door he began to scream and talk in a wild fashion. She closed and locked the door and shouted for help. Two officers who reside nearby responded, and after a desperate strugle succeeded in holding him until the patrol wagon arrived. Superintendent Eldredge ordered his removal to the tombs for examination.

Vesper Service.

The music at the Wollaston Unitarian church at 4 P. M. on Sunday will include:

CORP. HERMANSON.

Writes of Hospitality at Baltimore and Kindness of Friends.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

I am going to write and let the people of Quincy know how I am getting along in the hospital. I was taken sick with typhoid fever about five weeks ago in Camp Meade, and I have been in three hospitals since then. First I went to our Regimental Hospital, and I was there a few days when they sent me to Division Hospital. I only staid there a few days. I was very sick there, so they could not keep me any longer. They told me that I had maleria fever, and sent me to St. Joseph's Hospital in Baltimore, Md., where I am located now. The doctors there soon found out what ailed me. They said that I had typhoid fever.

This is an elegant hospital. We have the best of care that can be given. The nurses do all that is in their power for us, and the doctors are regular physicians, so I am very glad that I came to such a good place. There are here about 56 soldiers, and only one has died. The greater part of them are on their feet now, so they are only waiting for their furlough to go home. I just got out of bed yesterday, and I felt very weak, but today I feel much stronger. I will give this hospital a good word for the great work that it is doing. I don't think that I would have pulled through if I had not come here.

Another thing I wanted to write about is the people of Baltimore and their kindness to the soldiers. They come here every day and go around to every bed and speak to the boys in blue and ask them if there is anything that they need. They bring in flowers every day. With each bed is a table, and you will see a big bunch of flowers on every table. They have brought in clothes of all kinds, and shoes and slippers, and shirts to everyone that needed them. They bring in every day something that is better for us; at least we like it better than anything else—something to eat. Of course they had to go to the nurses and ask permission, and those who had typhoid fever could not have anything but milk while in bed. They brought apples, cake, candy, oranges, and every Sunday ice cream. While I was in bed I could not get anything, and it was best for me; they were looking out for my interest. Sometimes I could get an orange and I got ice cream on Sundays, but I tell you it was very hard for me to see all the rest of the boys eat while I only got milk. I was hungry so that I could have ate for three. You know when a person has typhoid fever he has an awful appetite. I had one, anyway. The Baltimore friends brought in writing paper and went around to every bed and asked if we desired any letters written. They would not take any money, but paid for the stamps and everything, so I tell you the people of Baltimore did everything in their power for the soldier boys.

Thanksgiving they gave us a big turkey dinner, and ice cream besides. I had the luck to have a change of food, so the doctor told me the night before that I could have a share of the turkey dinner. Do you think I was very glad when he told me that? I enjoyed the dinner very much, but I would have enjoyed it better if I had been in Quincy with my people. I will say that our friends of Baltimore are the best people I ever met away from home, and I must say Baltimore is a good home for the soldiers.

Now I will thank the Quincy people for the kindness that they have shown me, both in camp and in the hospital. When I was in camp I received big boxes with food and lots of other good things, cigars, lemons and moxie. Since I came to the hospital they have done more than I ever expected. They have sent me lots of flowers, books and papers, stamps, apples, and lots of other good things, and I have even received letters. One said he would come to Baltimore and bring me home. I cannot express my thanks in writing to all my friends in the old town of Quincy. I shall surely never forget them. I think I will be home on a month furlough about three weeks from now, and I will spend Christmas with them.

Theodore H. Hermanson.

AN OLD LANDMARK.

The Site of the Henry Flint Heuse Now Nearly Forgotten.

Quincy, Nov. 3, 1898.

Editors Quincy Ledger:

Yesterday Aunt Phoebe, in spite of the cold east wind which sighed a requiem for so many of the Pilgrims at Plymouth during the awful privations of the first winter, went to Dedham, to see the old manuscript book, presented to the Dedham Historical Society by Miss Dorothy Quincy on July last, mention of which was made in last Saturday's Ledger.

The book is a hand made affair, bound in pig skin and about ten inches by seven, and half to three-quarters of an inch thick. The writing is of the smallest and most delicate tracery imaginable, yet scarcely a bit faded and every word perfectly legible. An entry on one of covers, signed to a four verse of exhortation says "Henry Flynt's Book, 1690." Now Henry Flynt died in Braintree (now Quincy) in 1668, on the 27th day of April, old style, so could not, of course, have made that entry himself, although he might, and probably was the original owner of the book. There are entries in different hand writings and examination by competent judges can easily determine if any are his. It may be said in this connection that Henry Flynt (or Flint, as it is just as frequently, and probably more correctly spelt in this book), was born in 1600, came to New England in 1635, on the 2d day of February, was ordained minister of the church at Braintree (the present Unitarian church of Quincy) in 1640; married Margery Hoar, who died on the 10th of March, 1686-7, and died at Braintree, as before stated, on the 27th of April, 1668. He left a son Josiah Flint, born in 1645, which is ten years later than the first date recorded in the book, which shows that he was not the original writer in it. This son graduated from Harvard with the class of 1664, and succeeded his father as minister in 1668. Thence, and for what reason no one seems to know, but this old book when deciphered will probably reveal, began a row in the church, in which a man by the name of Buckley is repeatedly mentioned, which culminated in Josiah Flint's withdrawal to Dorchester where he was ordained minister in 1671, and died in 1680, on the 16th of September, having married Esther Willet, who bore him several children. One daughter, Dorothy, married Judge Edmund Quincy of Braintree, who was agent for the colony in England, sailing on the 20th of December, 1737, and died there the next year.

A very large part of the entries in this ancient book are in the handwriting of Josiah Flint, one of them being as follows: "On the 27th, 2d month, 1668 it pleased the Lord to take away my Honored father Mr. Henry Flint, Teacher of the Church of Braintre.

The writer would describe the book as a family diary, which was perhaps begun by Teacher Flint, (as he is best known,) the writing however, being, almost entirely in the handwriting of his son Josiah. The examination by experts will reveal whether or not, any of the entries are in the handwriting of Teacher Flint. Dr. Pattee's history of Old Braintree and Quincy gives a fine account of the Flint family It is a book which is now rare and will soon be at a premium; the writer advises those who care for histories to purchase one of the few remaining copies, at the Ledger office. The Flint residence is there pointed out. It is one of the oldest, but now well nigh forgotten landmarks of the city. Another entry in Josiah's handwriting is expressive. "28th, 9st month, 1669, Being Sabbath day the church had a very uncomfortable debate after solemne admonitione," and on the 25th of the 5th month of the same year there is an entry under the church news which says "awfulldivison."

The book will undoubtedly throw light on much that is dark in our town history, as it contains considerable of genealogical importance besides many accurately recorded dates and miscellaneous entries. Very many of the pages are entirely blank.

—The progressive movement toward a closer union of all Christian sects and denominations goes on apace. In every section of the country there is observable a disposition to loosen the hold of dogma upon the human intellect. Established creeds and cherished forms are giving way to a simple and unencumbered faith. There are those who cry out that the breaking up of sectarian association and effort is a blow to religion. This is not true. Religion in is purest and highest sense gains by the change. The impulse behind the movement is furnished by the people. It is an ethical and an intellectual impulse. It is forcing the various sects to modify their creeds and doctrines, to broaden the scope of their religious activity, and to bring all Christian bodies closer together upon a platform, the chief plank of which recognizes the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.—Boston Beacon.

Miss Winnie Seaman a popular young lady of Norfolk Downs was agreeably surprised at her home Wednesday evening by her many friends who gathered to show their kind esteem for her and to pass an evening of enjoyment. Although taken entirely by surprise Miss Seaman composed herself sufficiently to welcome her friends and when later in the evening she was presented with an elegant gold watch she responded in a grateful though quiet manner. The presentation speech was made by her brother, Mr. Clarence Seaman. Many friends were present from Wollaston, Atlantic, Boston and other surrounding towns. Refreshments were served throughout the evening and games of all descriptions were indulged in.

Keith's Theater.

Charles Bowser, who first gained fame by hi amusing portraiture of Snaggs in "A Bunch of Keys," and who is an exceptionally diverting comedian whose methods appeal strongly to the patrons of the continuous theatres, will be the leading attraction at Keith's Boston house the week of Nov. 28, presenting a piece called "A Domestic Cyclone," which is said to be rarely amusing. The American biograph has become a stock attraction at Keith's. Not only is it the greatest example of animated photography, it is the steadiest and clearest, and suffers least from those flashing sparks and tremulous motions that are the common fault with many of these ingenious inventions. It is treated at Keith's as a record of passing events, in the main, and hence new pictures are being constantly added. The principal pictures last week illustrated incidents connected with the coronation of Holland's girl queen, and these will be continued another week. The new additions to the programme will show the 69th regiment on parade at Tampa, Fla., the 4th infantry, who led the right of line at San Juan, a Rube's experience on a man-o'-war, and Hungarian women plucking geese.

—Mrs. Partington and her famous mop are now outdone by Boston's new fireboat, that will on occasions of great conflagrations try to pump the harbor dry. The boat appears to be a fine $25,000 worth. With little force—only about seventy pounds pressure—some 4,000 gallons of water may be thrown each minute on a burning building, with a cheerfulness of result to be easily understood by any who have passed through a big fire.—Boston Home Journal.

—The Michigan Supreme Court renders the decision that a boycott—of any kind is "unlawful," and an "unwarrantable menace, intimidation and coercion." Prevailing practices in many states are not in consonance with this ruling.

—The salt water pipe system for extinguishing fires, which has lately had a successful trial in Boston, is not a new idea, says the Dorchester Beacon. Many other cities have it in use and even so small a city as Bangor, Me., has used it for several years.

—Prune the orchard trees this winter, says the Ploughman, but don't butcher them. Have a reason for every stroke.

MILTON.

The Milton A. A. foot ball team play at Wellesley today.

There is a movement on foot at East Milton to organize a political club.

Thanksgiving prayer meetings were held at the Congregational and Baptist churches on Wednesday evening.

By far the largest crowd ever seen at Ellsworth hall was that which gathered there Tuesday evening to listen to the minstrel show under the auspices of the Thursday Evening club and to laugh at the many witty local jokes and hits that were cracked by the end men. The manner in which these hits were sprung upon the five hundred present showed only too plainly that the darkies (?) knew whereof they spoke. The demonstrators, as they were called were Chief John Graham,; subordinates Harry Brierly, Charles Sutherland, Jesse Baxter, Paul Babcock, Robert Gilchrist, Will Smith, Fred Sterling, Albert Hooten, George Ellis, Walter Brand; rattlers, Duke Vaughn, Alex Park; banger, Cliff Packard, Tom Loudon. Mr. R. S. Taylor was musical director and Mr. C. Graham stage director.

The weather on Monday must have suited everybody.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

FITTING HERSELF TO HELP THE CONDITION OF WOMEN IN GERMANY.

A Problem For Mothers—Before the Doctor Comes—French Vs. American Figures—Man's Dislike of Cosmetics—A Bundle of Nerves.

The woman's law class of the University of New York has a remarkable member in the person of Mrs. Franceska Haider, who, though only 17 years old, has been married nearly a year, has traveled all over the world and has now settled down to the study of law that she may be able to better the condition of women in Germany.

Mrs. Haider was born in Berlin. Her father is a wealthy architect, designing most of the modern residence buildings of that city, his more notable work being the palatial residences that line the Kurfurstendamm, the principal boulevard of Berlin and the favorite drive of the kaiser.

When at 16 Fraulein Pruss was graduated from her college an accomplished linguist and musician, her father wanted her to take up the study of medicine at Leipsic, but fraulein had no leaning toward medicine. She was interested heart and soul in the emancipation of German women.

"The lower classes are nothing but beasts of burden," she said in charming German-English. "I must help them, and how can I better do it than by making myself competent to make plain to them their rights and privileges?"

But Cupid stepped in to thwart the father and to thwart the fraulein also for a season. Herr Pruss took this pretty daughter on a little journey in Switzerland, and one summer morning up in the Tyrol she met a handsome young Austrian artist, and it was a most desperate case of mutual love at first sight.

They met in the morning, were engaged in the evening and would have been married on the morrow, they said, but for papa. Papa was cruelly phlegmatic and practical, and he would have everything quite decorous and conventional.

Now comes the serio comic side of this young couple's romance.

Young Haider was an artist of a fine Austrian family, and for several years he had been a globe trotter.

The Berlin authorities would not permit him to wed Fraulein Pruss unless he could produce a certificate from the mayor of each and every municipality in which he had lingered affirming that Haider had not been married in their cities.

So the bride and her family and the bridegroom and his attendants journeyed to London town, and there they were wed, after which they returned to Berlin and were married again, with no opposition this time, in the Kaiser Wilhelm Gedaechtnis-Kirche, the church of the emperor.

The handsome pair came to New York last August, she to study law at the New York university and he to study political science at Columbia college.—New York World.

A Problem For Mothers.

"How can I possibly keep my child simple and unworldly and at the same time give her the necessary stimulus which she undoubtedly needs in her lessons by putting her either in a school or a class with the children of my friends?" asked a perplexed mother the other day, according to a writer in the New York Tribune. "To my surprise and I must say also to my consternation, she returned home the other day quite pettish. 'Mamma,' she said, 'where do you get my jackets?'

"'Why, sometimes from one place and sometimes from another, Mollie,' I answered, rather surprised at such a question from a mite of 10. 'I buy them wherever I find one that I think is pretty. Why do you ask?'

"'Oh, because Carrie Midas looked at the mark inside and laughed, and Sally Tufthunter said to me afterward that Carrie wears lovely clothes, but that, of course, she only gets them at the best places, and then added that she herself wouldn't wear a jacket that didn't bear the mark of a fashionable place.'

"Only fancy children of that age caring where their clothes come from as long as they are prettily and nicely dressed! But that is not the worst. I found Mollie that afternoon busily unpicking the stitches that fastened the trademark in her jacket.

"'What are you doing, dear?' I asked.

"'Oh,' she said frankly, for so far, I am thankful to say, she does not conceal any of her actions, 'I am taking this out, and am going to put in the one from my best jacket, which came from the same place as Carrie's, and which no one sees, as I only wear it on Sundays or when I go out for a walk.'

"'But, Mollie,' I exclaimed, quite horrified, 'that is cheating! I am sure my little daughter never would act a lie.'

"The child grew red instantly, and her eyes filled with tears.

"'Mamma,' she said, 'I never thought of that. Fannie Sly told me to do it, and said she took a mark from her mother's cloak and sewed it into her jacket, and all the girls said what a nice one it was, just because it came from A.'s.'

"Now, what is one to do under such circumstances? I cannot have my child's simplicity and unworldliness spoiled, and yet she is getting on wonderfully with her lessons and needs young companionship. Of course I can send her to another school, but these are the children of the people I know, and the girls she will be with later on in society, and they are really nice children except for their worldliness. I want Mollie to be 'in the world, but not of it,' and how to bring that about is a puzzle."

Before the Doctor Comes.

Children should be taught to act instead of screaming in cases of pressing emergencies. Many mothers themselves are woefully ignorant of what to do until the doctor comes in cases that require instant attention.

A few years ago, in a school I attended, a young girl fainted and fell to the floor. In a moment the teacher had raised her to a sitting posture, and we frightened children crowded around her, wringing our hands and crying. We thought she was dead. In the midst of the confusion a young girl of a dozen years came to the rescue by stretching the unconscious girl flat upon her back. In a quiet, firm voice she said, "Sara has only fainted, and you must stand back and give her air." Instantly the circle that had been drawn around her widened, the windows were thrown open, the compression about the chest removed, and in a few minutes the young girl was herself again.

"Who taught you to act so calmly and promptly?" inquired the teacher.

"My mother," was the answer. "Once, when my little brother had fallen down stairs and was knocked senseless, the nurse picked him up and began tossing him up and down, to bring him to, as she explained. Mother took him out of her arms and laid him flat on his back on the sofa. Soon he began to breathe regularly, and then mother told us that as fainting was caused by the failure of the heart to supply the brain with blood the patient should always be laid down if possible with the head a little lower than the body, as it was easier for blood to run down hill than up."

One of the coldest days last winter a patient in the dental chair failed to rally from the depressing effects of chloroform; and the physician who was hastily summoned, with the help of an assistant, dragged him to the door and dashed snow into his face, until the weakened action of his heart gave out, and the patient lay back limp and apparently lifeless in their hands.

"Stand him on his head. That is what father does when they don't come around right," said a bright young lad who had been attracted to the office door by the unusual stir. So the patient was turned upside down, until he began to show signs of returning animation. By that time the boy's father, one of the leading physicians of the place, arrived, and his son's timely direction was followed by proper medical treatment.—Belle V. Chisholm in Housewife.

French Vs. American Figures.

La Figaro of Paris asserts that French dressmakers are seriously determined to adopt the American figure for their model and as a standard.

New York corset makers, who are largely responsible for the American figure, are curious to know what Paris considers to be the American figure.

The subject was discussed by a New York young woman, who gets an abundant salary because she is an expert corset fitter and will "improve" a woman until she is modeled on strictly orthodox lines and destined to deceive all but the eyes of her dearest enemy.

"Perhaps, to begin with, you don't know," she said, "that there are no two women in the world who measure just alike. Corset makers have always been familiar with the premises on which the Bertillon system is founded. In the 20 years in which this house has been fitting women to corsets it has never found two figures with precisely the same measurements. Fashion establishes a general standard, and we fix the exact measurements to which women must conform. After that is done we do the rest.

"So I don't see what Paris dressmakers can have in mind unless it is the improved average American figure. Averaging measurements by the hundred and comparing them with Frenchwomen in a similar number, we know the American woman generally has a longer underarm or trunk measure.

"The average measure decreed for this season in this country is 21 inches waist, 36 inches bust, 44 inches hip and 9 inches under the arm, with a back 15½ inches long. Last year the waist measure was 22 inches, because the large sleeve made it possible to obtain the effect of a small waist without compression. Tighter sleeves have brought the smaller waist and longer back.

"We have customers all over both American continents, especially in Cuba, but the Cuban women simply decline to adopt this year's measurements. They want short waists and low fronts, such as Frenchwomen have, but they haven't the slender French waist measure by any means. The Cuban beauties are very independent about their corsets.

"Ninety-nine of every hundred of our regular customers are 'improved.' Don't say padded. They don't like that. Even a very fleshy woman may require and usually does need some of our art in the shape of a bustle. Very probably, if there is any disposition to adopt an American figure, it is this improved one, but I don't believe Parisian women will use it longer than this year."

Man's Dislike of Cosmetics.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox in The Woman's Home Companion discusses "Man's Limitations" when he attempts to discourse on the secrets of beauty. She says:

"To the average man the word 'cosmetics' has the effect of a red rag shaken in the face of a bull. Yet the word does not mean paint or pigment. Trace it back, and you will find it signifies a preparation to restore harmony. This is the age of specialists. In days gone by whatever evil befell the human body the family physician was expected to relieve. Now we have the dentist, the surgeon, the oculist, the aurist, the pedicure and still others skilled in the treatment of scalp and skin. A good complexion is the background of a woman's beauty. Nature's most beautiful grouping of feature is ruined if the background loses its tone or becomes seamed or spotted. To avoid such disaster with the flight of years requires knowledge and patience. There are specialists in this line who are just as expert as the dentist or the oculist. No man is indignant or disgusted if his wife consults the dentist. He does not tell her that a cheerful disposition will preserve her teeth. The complexion feels the ravages of indigestion, time and inheritance quite as much as the teeth or eyes and needs quite as skillful treatment, yet the majority of ladies must keep their methods a secret because of the intolerance and unreason of man upon this subject.

"If a woman goes abroad with visible rouge on her cheeks, powder on her nose or pencil marks under her eyes, a man has a right to utter a protest and voice his disgust. But he never stops at that. He immediately proceeds to air his ancient theories about a cheerful disposition and soap and water as the only cosmetic proper for a respectable woman to use. Meantime the deadly scented soap cake has ravaged more complexions than any pigment on the market."

A Bundle of Nerves.

Volumes—in disconnected essays, sermonettes and club papers—have been written on the average American woman's inability to keep still. She is usually a chatterbox—if not of the rambling, vague, wearisome sort, of the alert, chipper, pepperbox variety—but even when she is not a talker she is a fuss, a bundle of nerves, energy and restlessness, and this in the era of Delsarte, outdoor sports and iced shower baths! Her idea of resting is characteristic. She exploits it unconsciously in the pretty parlors and writing rooms fitted up for customers in the big shops. Perhaps she is elegantly dressed, lorgnetted, veiled, faultlessly gloved and shod, armed with a card case for her afternoon round of visits. She has promised to meet Mrs. Blank at this shop at 3 o'clock, and she glides with a swish and frou frou of silken skirts to wait in the empire parlor. She has been in this empire parlor dozens of times before. She knows every picture on the wall, and she is perfectly familiar with the frescoes on those mantel vases and the design of the chandelier, but she finds it impossible to sit still. She wanders around the room, gazing intently at the pictures, anxiously examining the details of the fireplace and even opening the little writing desk to see the pigeonholes inside. She walks up and down, her skirts brushing the ends of the rug up as she goes. When she walks back, she stands for a second to push the rolled up end in place with the tip of her patent leather boot. She sinks into a big chair and watches the women who pass in and out of the room. She sighs, gets up again, looks toward the elevator, and when she sees Mrs. Blank coming does not wait for her, but sweeps off to meet her.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

She Struck It In Klondike.

Mrs. J. A. Nelson of Hailey, Ida., went to the Klondike last spring and opened a bakery, which pays her a profit of $75 to $100 a day. She bought a claim which is paying well. Mrs. Nelson is an energetic woman who emigrated to Idaho some ten years ago, married, and has helped her husband develop mining property there.

In Missouri a young woman who intends to raise bees for a living began with a single hive last summer. During the winter she removed it to the house, and, as her family did not care for the society of bees, she established them in her bedroom. She says that they are quiet, orderly, gentle companions, and that they all come to her hand as tamely as so many doves.

Many women who heretofore ordered dresses made for them, because of the improbability of getting a custom made gown to fit and please, are buying ready made dresses this fall. The news that a "boss" recently kicked from his shop a nonunion cutter who had ruined 30 women's coats has alarmed the tailor made woman.

All who have "colds in the head" should know that such attacks are often caused by germs, consequently are contagious. They should therefore quarantine themselves as much as possible, avoid contact, and be very careful not to touch towels, etc., that are used by others. The danger lies in the nasal discharge.

In London the women are blamed for the proposed increase in the premiums on the insurance policies of cyclists. It is said that women are much more reckless riders than men, and though they may not "scorch" so much, they dodge around corners and fly under the noses of horses in a reckless fashion.

It is to be hoped that shawl shaped capes will be worn only by women who remain seated. As a walking garment they suggest the scarecrow variety of deformity.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov 27—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—"Great reforms that need our help."—John ii, 13-25. (International temperance Sunday.)

The topical reference is the story of Christ's cleansing of the temple. By the divine authority invested in Him He drove from the house of God those who were making it a den of thieves instead of a house of prayer. Besides the example of Christ in the Old Testament, we have many others to give to us the authority and the inspiration to try to do something in correcting the abuses of society, the church or the state. God has frequently, both in sacred and secular history, called out great reformers, who have vigorously denounced existing abuses and have brought order out of chaos. We are living in an age of reforms and reformers, and while we cannot hope to interest ourselves in every hobby of pretended reformers, yet there are several great and important reforms today that do demand our most earnest study, prayerful consideration and judicious action.

1. Temperance reform needs our help. A tremendous crusade is being made against the saloon and intemperance today. A political party, legions of societies, Christian churches, a religious press and many influential individual reformers are arrayed against them. The saloon is the greatest enemy of our country. It blasts thousands of lives; it ruins multitudes of homes; it is a constant lawbreaker and daily educates lawbreakers. Every time it deals out its poison, contrary to law, it not only breaks the law itself, but teaches a citizen of the country to disregard and trample under foot the law of the land. Every endeavor should be arrayed unalterably against the saloon and should be an earnest advocate of temperance reform. How these positions are to be manifested must be determined by each one for himself in accordance with his individual surroundings and opportunities.

2. Sabbath reform needs our help. The Sabbath is being constantly encroached upon. Pleasure and business are usurping the most sacred rights of God. "It is the only day I have for pleasure," says the advocate of a continental Sabbath. This is just contrary to the truth. The Sabbath is the only day that we have not got. It is the one day that God kept for Himself. The man who takes it for pleasure or unnecessary business robs God. There is need for a better observance of the Sabbath in our land. Endeavorers should stand firmly, by precept and example, in favor of a Christian, American Sabbath.

3. Social reform needs our help. There is great social unrest throughout the world today. It manifests itself in the deeds of anarchists, the enormous amount of socialistic literature and in various societies and organizations looking toward social reform. It advocates almost everything from anarchy to communism. Here is a work for Christianity. It should teach the world that the principles of Jesus alone can solve these problems. When the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, as taught by Christ, are believed in and acted upon, all social differences will be easily adjusted.

4. Political reform needs our help. There is a clamorous cry today against debauchery in politics. Bossism and partyism are arrayed against piety and patriotism. We cannot divorce our politics from our religion. Piety and patriotism must go hand in hand. The man who will not render unto God the things that are God's cannot be depended upon to render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's. Let us do all in our power to raise the standard of American citizenship.

All these reforms can be best advanced by advancing Christ. Let us strive in the face of these great needs more earnestly to get Christ into men. Christ in the hearts and lives of men will solve all temperance, Sabbath, social and political problems.

Bible Readings.—Ex. xx, 8-11; I Kings xv, 11-14; II Kings x, 20-28; xviii, 1-5; xxiii, 1-8; Ps. xxxiii, 12; Prov. xxiii, 29-31; Isa. i, 1-18; Amos vi, 1-8; Gal. vi, 1, 2; Phil. iv, 8, 9.

The Lesson of the Cross.

It is the cross of Christ that furnishes not only the programmes of philanthropy, but as well the power necessary for humanitarian effort. The motive truths of the cross are the great dynamic forces of missions and ministries the world over. Faith in the One who loved us and gave Himself for us moves to faith in the men whom He can redeem. The exhibition of the supreme sacrifice of a Divine sufferer to produce an imitative impulse in the wondering worshipers of that Saviour. The grace of God energizing the soul pushes it out along lines of lowly and kindly service. Love to God becomes the strongest and steadiest inspiration to love for man.—New York Observer.

Sunday a Necessity.

Mr. Gladstone's daughter once stated in a letter that her father said "He did not believe he would be alive now if he had not always kept his Sundays quite apart from his ordinary, and especially his political life, not only because of the pure refreshment it has always been to him to turn to holier things on that day, but because it has enabled him to learn more on religious subjects than perhaps any other layman, and so has given him that firm and splendid ground which has ennobled and hallowed all his actions through life."

God's Promise.

God does not promise supplies in advance. If we have only bread for today and are doing our duty faithfully, we may trust Him till tomorrow for tomorrow's food, and it surely comes, for God's word fails not. As the days come, each one will bring with it its own little basket, carrying a day's supplies, but no more.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

THE DREYFUS AFFAIR

Promises to Be Overshadowed by Case of Colonel Picquart.

Persecuted For a Desire to Render Justice.

High Personages In France on the Edge of a Political Volcano.

Paris, Nov. 25.—The Picquart case seems in the way of raising even a greater storm than the Dreyfus affair. The papers favorable to the general are dumb in the face of the barefaced decision of the military governor of Paris General Zurlinden, to try Colonel Picquart by courtmartial, while those favoring revision are furious at this new attempt to defeat justice, and protest against the courtmartial being ordered.

Nobody believes that Colonel Picquart is guilty of any crime except a courageous desire to render justice to Dreyfus but on all sides it is recognized that, in a practically secret trial, he may be condemned on some technicality, thus attaining the apparent object, which is to throw doubt upon his depositions before the court of cassation in the Dreyfus trial.

Everyone is asking the motive of General Zurlinden in so persistently pursuing Colonel Picquart, and why a courtmartial, if necessary, could not be postponed until the decision of the court of cassation has been given. Everyone is asking whether it is a desperate attempt to shield the former minister of war, General Mercier, and the general staff, even at the risk of precipitating disaster and the nation's hatred, and, in any event, of driving every doubting person into the Dreyfus party.

A protest against the courtmartial of Picquart, bearing the signatures of authors, politicians and journalists, is being widely circulated for further names, and will be presented to the government.

Last evening it was reported that Mr. De Freycinet, minister for war, had consented to be interpellated on the subject in the chamber of deputies next Monday, when a sensational scene may be expected.

Another feature of the case is the torrent of hostile criticism now being poured upon Mr. De Freycinet, who is accused of quailing before General Zurlinden and the general staff.

Maitre Labori, Colonel Picquart's counsel, says he is convinced it will be impossible to condemn Picquart on the charge of forgery, but that the accused officer may possibly be condemned on the charge of communicating secret documents, although their communication was in no way inimical to the interests of the state.

Colonel Picquart continued his testimony before the court of cassation throughout yesterday, and his deposition is expected to occupy several days more. There is still some hope that he may receive justice, owing to the presence on the courtmartial of Colonel Bonnal, who is a great friend of Colonel Picquart, but Mr. Clemenceau, in The Aurore, declares that the courtmartial is packed, and accuses Mr. De Freycinet of allowing an innocent man to be victimized in order to increase his own chances at the next presidential election.

Coffee Cooler Won.

Newcastle, Nov. 26.—In a 20-round contest here last evening, for a purse of £300, between Frank Craig, the Harlem "coffee cooler," and George Crisp of Newcastle, Craig won in the 13th round. In the betting Craig was the favorite, 2 to 1. The men were fairly even in the opening rounds of the bout, but before the sixth round was over the coffee cooler had Crisp in difficulties, the Newcastle man being greatly puzzled by the American's tactics. In the 13th round Craig got a left swing heavy on the jaw, and sent Crisp to the boards, where he was counted out. Craig showed no signs of punishment.

Abyssinians Causing Worriment.

London, Nov. 26.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail says: The government is alarmed at the receipt of reports that Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia is advancing on Beru Mioda with 100,000 men, armed with rifles, and a numerous train of artillery. It is believed that the objective of the negus is the Bahr-el-Gazel basin, and that he will attempt to force a definite boundary settlement.

The Ware Murder Case.

Bucksport, Me., Nov. 26.—The investigation into the Ware murder case by the detectives is suspended, pending a report on the accumulated evidence, now being considered by County Attorney Bunker. The evidence tends to implicate a resident of this neighborhood in the crime. The town officers are quite certain that one or more arrests are likely to be made.

Shafter and Garcia Meet.

New York, Nov. 26.—While passing out of the Fifth Avenue hotel last night, General Shafter and General Calixto Garcia met for the first time since the capitulation of Santiago. The generals saluted simultaneously, then shook hands and conversed pleasantly for several minutes. Each seemed pleased at the meeting.

Tomorrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:49; sets, 4:15.
High water—10:30 a. m.; 11 p. m.

The weather in New England Sunday will be unsettled, and rain or snow is possible, most likely in the afternoon or night. The foul weather depends on the movement and development of a storm now apparently in the gulf of Mexico. The temperature will not change decidedly.

FAVORABLE FEATURES

Continue to Exist In the General Business Situation.

New York, Nov. 26.—Bradstreet's says: Winter storms and a holiday have interfered with wholesale demand and distribution, but later clear, cold weather is a compensating feature, inducing heavier retail business in seasonable goods. In general business circles most developments have been favorable, notable among which might be mentioned general advances in prices of cereals, provisions, groceries, cotton, steel and pig iron, the latter chiefly at eastern and southern points, continued heavy export trade, a better tone in the market for hides and leather, more firmness in cotton goods and active stock speculation, all of which are reflected in very heavy bank clearings' totals. Unfavorable features are few, prominent among which is the continued dullness at wholesale of wool and woolen goods.

The situation as to the country's export trade is a flattering one, except for the scarcity of freight tonnage, which is really becoming serious. Considerable pig iron arranged for shipment is being delayed and may ultimately be thrown back on domestic markets. The movement of wheat and other breadstuffs continues large, and demand is sufficient apparently, to more than counteract growing increases in supplies. The agreement as to print cloth production and heavy sales of cottons for export have stiffened values in manufactured goods somewhat and imparted a more cheerful tone to this trade and to the raw material itself. Stocks of goods are said to have been materially reduced and to be under better control than for a long time past.

Woolen goods show little effect as yet of current good retail distribution, but there is a steadier tone as to values.

While wholesale trade and shipments are restricted, favorable features are found to exist in the general situation because of the stimulus given retail distribution in heavy weather clothing and supplies. From the entire west and northwest, following the check reported early in the week by exceptionally heavy storms, come advices of enlarged sales by retailers, particularly of boots and shoes, heavy clothing and rubber goods.

Bank clearings aggregate for the week $1,333,000,000, a falling off of 22 percent from last week, a holiday intervening but 26 percent larger than in this week a year ago, 42 percent heavier than in 1896, 53 percent larger than in 1895, 65 percent in excess of 1894 and 39 percent larger than in 1893.

Important developments are looked for in the iron and steel industry. Increased speculative interest in anthracite coal stocks leads to rumors of important movements in this branch of trade.

Business failures in the United States for the week number 178, against 233 in the corresponding week of 1897.

Not an Expansionist.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Senator Cockrell has arrived in Washington after a long and exhaustive campaign in his native state of Missouri, the result of which assures his return to the senate for a fifth term. "I do not look for any new and sweeping legislation at the coming session," said the senator. "It is impossible to say what the senate will do with the peace treaty, as it is not known what the conference at Paris will agree upon finally. Personally, I am opposed to taking the Philippines. The policy of expansion, about which we hear so much, is not defined very clearly by its advocates, but it seems to me that the annexation of islands thousands of miles away from our coast will involve very grave questions, and is of doubtful wisdom. In my judgment it is entirely unnecessary."

Tracy Was Second Best.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—George Lavigne gained the decision over Tom Tracy last night at the end of a 20-round fight at 142 pounds or under. The fighting was interesting and clever throughout, but lacked the excitement which usually accompanies a contest between two such exponents of pugilism. Lavigne did decidedly the main work, being aggressive in every round, forcing Tracy about the ring and compelling him to show all his cleverness and shiftiness to avoid the little champion's rushes. Tracy did not seem to be at all chagrinned over the adverse decision and took it good naturedly. The crowd was as large as any that has assembled in Woodward's pavilion since the Wolcott-Greene fight, 6000 probably being present.

Complaint of Brewers.

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—The executive boards of the state brewers' associations of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Kentucky met here yesterday for the purpose of taking concerted action toward securing from congress the repeal of the war tax of $1 a barrel on beer. The meeting passed resolutions which will be formally drafted and presented to the several congressmen from the states represented, who will be urged to secure action by congress this winter.

Many Trampled Under Foot.

Paris, Nov. 26.—While a religious ceremony was in progress in the vestry room of a church, where many girls from the schools were in attendance, the cinematograph lamps were suddenly extinguished and a fearful panic ensued, everybody instantly recalling the charity bazaar fire. The priests finally succeeded in allaying the panic, but not before 40 girls were more or less seriously injured by trampling.

Body Identified.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 26.—The body found in the water works woods has been identified as that of Charles Swain, missing from Lawrence. The police here have communicated with the police in that city. The body had probably lain in the woods eight days.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Colonel Henry Lee, financier and writer, died at his home in Brookline, Mass.

The body of Mrs. Abel Spaulding, a widow, was found in the well near her home at Grafton, Mass. It is thought she committed suicide.

A New York, New Haven and Hartford engine, with two freight cars, jumped the rails, ploughed up the roadbed and obstructed traffic at the Central street tunnel at Fall River, Mass. The damage amounts to several thousand dollars.

GOODBY TO BLANCO.

Former Governor General to Leave Cuba In a Few Days.

Details Arranged For Evacuation of Pinar Del Rio.

How the Americans In Santiago Spent Their Thanksgiving Day.

Havana, Nov. 25.—Yesterday's issues of the Havana newspapers announce the resignation of Captain General Blanco, as published in the Madrid Gazette, and insist upon the truth of the reports in circulation that General Blanco will leave Havana in a few days, probably sailing on the steamer Villaverde.

The members of the colonial cabinet yesterday tendered their resignations to General Blanco, who accepted them, but requested the secretaries to continue the exercise of their functions until his successor shall have taken possession. General Blanco has announced his intention of leaving on Saturday or Monday next by the steamer Villaverde.

The United States evacuation commission, in an official note, yesterday requested that the archives of the civil administration be left here, as they would be valuable to the incoming government. The Spanish commission immediately replied, acceding to the request. The American commissioners also delivered a note informing the Spaniards of the early dates upon which the American troops are expected to arrive.

Colonel Hecker and Captain Crawford have returned from a trip through Guines, Cienfuegos, Caibarien, Sagua, Cardenas and Matanzas, undertaken with a view to making arrangements for the transportation of men, supplies and government stores. Colonel Hecker appears to be much pleased with the success of the trip. Captain Crawford says the squalor of the villages of the interior is inconceivable, and that with the exception of the principal seaport towns, the entire island is in a state of collapse. He says there are apparent no evidences of resumption of work in the fields, which seem to be utterly abandoned.

On Monday next bids will be opened for the construction of a railroad from Casa Blanca to the junction of the united railroads at Cambuto.

Majors Almy and Butler and Captain Hart returned from the Isle of Pines yesterday. They are enchanted with the location and conditions of the island as a camp and sanitarium for the American troops. The commissioners were received at Nueva Gerona with extreme courtesy by the Spanish officials there. The members of the commission recommended Nueva Gerona as the ideal site of the Isle of Pines.

Messrs. Gould, Garrison and Conant, the legal advisers to the American commission, will probably return north about the first of December, their commissions having terminated.

Reports from Santiago say that that city yesterday celebrated its first Thanksgiving since the American occupation. All the ships in the harbor were decorated with bunting and the officers entertained friends at dinner. The day was practically unobserved by the Cubans, except those employed in the government offices. A football game, which had been arranged between teams from the fifth regulars and Fifth volunteers was postponed until Christmas day, the weather being still too warm for such sport.

Several officers stationed at Guantanamo and Manzanillo, who had secured leaves of absence, spent the day with friends here. All the regiments celebrated as well as possible under the circumstances. Turkeys were few, but hopes are entertained by the Americans that their friends in the north will ship turkeys to them in time for their Christmas dinner.

The Cuban papers make practically no allusion to the day, apparently considering that they have not much to be thankful for.

El Porvenir prints a 2-column article with reference to the intention of a colored preacher of Topeka to bring 30 families of negroes and establish a town in the highlands above Santiago, which shall be known as Topeka. El Porvenir demands that the people boycott the Yankee negroes, asserting that they are frequently guilty of horrible crimes, and that the southern states, anxious to be rid of their colored population, will endeavor to send them to Cuba. It alludes to the San Luis episode, claiming that all Yankee negroes are on a par and that they will ruin the country, as they are able to live on practically nothing. The paper maintains that the Cubans have a right to regulate immigration into the island, that they object to the negroes and they will not have them.

The entire details of the evacuation of the province of Pinar del Rio have been arranged.

The transport Montevideo sails on Nov. 27, with 2245 troops; the Covadonga on Nov. 28, with 2370; the Gran Antilla on Nov. 30, with 1354; and the Maria Cristina on Nov. 30, with 1508; Juan Forgas on Dec. 3, with 1260; San Ignacio on Dec. 5, with 2040, making a total of 10,677 troops leaving Pinar del Rio by way of Havana by Dec. 5.

The remains of Columbus will probably be shipped to Spain on the war vessel on which Admiral Monterola, the Spanish naval commander here, returns to Spain.

The United States transport Florida is expected here at daybreak tomorrow. She will come close to Morro castle, will be signalled and will then proceed to Marianao, without entering Havana harbor.

The steamer will lay outside the bar at Mariano and land her men and stores on lighters, which will take them ashore over the new wharf. General Greene's staff will ride out from the Inglaterra hotel, where they are stopping, at 5 o'clock in the morning, on horseback, to receive the party and superintend the landing.

The Herrera line of steamers, running between ports on the north coast of Cuba, will change from Spanish to British register.

Today's issues of the Havana newspapers announce the resignation of Captain General Blanco, as published in the Madrid Gazette, and insist upon the truth of the reports in circulation that General Blanco will leave Havana in a few days, probably sailing on the steamer Villaverde.

May Be Left to Cortes.

Madrid, Nov. 25.—The cabinet, it is said, will make a final decision today, but it is agreed in principle to authorize Senor Rios to sign a peace treaty, although the commissioners may be instructed to insist upon its ratification by the cortes. It is believed that this decision will provoke an internal crisis.

It is reported that the Carlists have smuggled 12,000 Mauser rifles across the frontier. The Carlist organ announces that Don Jaime, after a conference with his father, left Venice upon a mysterious journey, in company with a prominent Carlist leader.

The newspapers here comment bitterly upon the peace conditions of the United States and upon the landing of American reinforcements in the Philippine islands. The Imparcial expresses the belief that "the American exactions are becoming harder and harder," and adds that there "appears to be a European plot in favor of might against right."

Agriculture In the Philippines.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department has directed the publication of a report on agriculture in the Philippines by George F. Becker, who visited the islands for the purpose of collecting the information. The report says that little seems to have been done to promote advanced methods of cultivation in these islands, or to secure a scientific knowledge of their capabilities. There is a government school of agriculture and a botanical garden in Manila, several "model farms" and agricultural stations, but, Mr. Becker says, so far as he can learn the results have been insignificant.

The Boys Made Happy.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 25.—Every soldier in the Seventh army corps was made to feel that yesterday was Thanksgiving. All drills were abandoned, and at 2 o'clock each man received a ration of turkey, fruit and cake. Over 1000 turkeys and several wagon loads of fruit and cake were sent out to the camp. The feast of General Lee's men was provided by the ladies of Charleston. The prevost guard regiment, the Fourth Illinois, was especially entertained in a separate refreshment tent. The eatables were covered with flags and flowers.

Beating Our English Cousins.

London, Nov. 25.—Charles T. Ritchie, president of the board of trade, discussing the subject of British trade before the Croyden Chamber of Commerce last evening, said he regretted to have to confess that the exports for the year ended with October had decreased £2,600,000, chiefly through the alteration in the United States tariff. "Although," said Mr. Ritchie, "we are gradually making up the leeway, it is impossible to help a feeling of anxiety. Although we ought not to be surprised that we are being so rapidly overhauled in exports by other nations, especially by the United States and Germany, it is a regrettable fact that, while since 1891 the exports of the United States have increased 18 percent, Great Britain's exports have decreased 5 percent."

McCune Badly Punished.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—Jack Bennett of McKeesport, Pa., got the decision over Tom McCune of Detroit in a 15-round battle here last night. Although McCune was badly punished, he put up an excellent exhibition of gameness. In the fifth round he landed a heavy right swing on Bennett's jaw. For a second it looked as if he was out for keeps, but he rose slowly. McCune then went in to finish his man, but lost his head. Bennett quickly recovered and went at his man hammer and tongs. In the ninth round he broke McCune's nose, and in the next closed his left eye. In the last two rounds Bennett punished his man at will and could have landed a knockout blow had he desired.

My Good Friends.

Are you aware that winter is here and the cold frosty winds will soon howl around the corner and almost make you think that it is saying "Where have you been all summer?" and remind you that you must be on the lookout for a good store where you can get the most for your money. The fact is (to make a long story short) not being exactly in the business centre of the city, we put out a great many more inducements in the way of low prices than we would otherwise. Please cut this out and bring it to us and we will prove our assertion that we will sell as cheap as ANY LIVE CONCERN. Here are a few more things this week very worthy of mention:

Men's Heavy Pants only $1.00.

Politics are a little quiet now, but it is that quietness that preceds a storm. Next week will probably be politically, warm enough to please all. The friends of Mr. Keith, who are called "the ex's," are making a personal canvass and appeal in his behalf.

Dr. N. S. Hunting informs the Ledger that he will decline to be a candidate for the School Committee. He is opposed to political contests for members of the board, and has heard no reason why the present member at large should not be reelected.

Proposed Freight Schedule.

In a recently published interview, President Lucius Tuttle of the Boston & Maine Railroad effectually disposes of the so-called "Baltimore plan" to reorganize the present basis of freight schedules adopted by the railroads of the United States by substituting a tarriff of so much per ton per mile.

This scheme is the outgrowth of an effort on the part of the business men of Baltimore to forestall any unfavorable result upon the export trade of that city growing out of the enforced dissolution of the Joint Traffic Association, and it is announced that they intend to petition Congress to enact a law placing railroad freight rates on that revolutionary basis.

President Tuttle, while pointing out that the idea is wholly impractible, and giving as his opinion that it will be a long time before the present "block" system of making railroad freight tarriffs in this country is superseded by any other arrangement, at the same time presents some logical and forceful arguments in favor of large railroad systems, of which the Boston & Maine is itself an excellent example.

In the course of his statement, Mr. Tuttle says: "Competition between roads brings about that rate-cutting which may prove disastrous to those for whose benefit it was ostensibly devised. The competition here is no longer that of one town against another, but a contest in which New England is pitted against every part of the country in the attempt to market its products and manufactures in every part of the world. A great system of railroads can give to every customer upon its line equal territorial facilities for marketing its goods, and through its connections with similarly powerful systems make its customers competitors everywhere under the most advantageous conditions. The effort of the railway manager today is directed to the cheapening of rates so that his customers can get their goods into the markets of the world so as to compete with those situated upon other systems, rather than to get more money out of the shippers or receivers upon his line. Thus the competition becomes territorial rather than local, and a great system, embracing a section, can best deal with the question and give those within its jurisdiction the better and cheapest service.

"The railroad business is not in a satisfactory way, notwithstanding the efforts of the Interstate Commission and the use of various expedients from which much was expected. The solution of the problem is one that taxes the ingenuity of practical railroad men and they are very much at a loss what to do. Is it reasonable to suppose that others who possess no natural aptitude for the work or experience in it, can settle this matter as is proposed by the Baltimore plan? When each section of the country has its own transportation system whose interest in establishing fair rates would be as great as the maintenance of them afterward, then will the troubles now complained of disappear largely and a better state of things prevail for everyone concerned.

Castle Square Theatre.

For the coming week at the Castle Square Theatre the management announces a revival of the realistic drama "Blue Jeans" in which the Castle Square players made such a great hit some six months ago. All of the strikingly effective stage pictures will be given with the same care as at the time of the earlier production of the play and the several characters will be cast as follows: Perry Bascom, a wealthy mill owner and candidate for Congress, Charles Mackay. Col. Henry Clay Risener, politician and manager of Bascom's campaign, J. H. Gilmour. Ben Boone, engineer of Bascom's mill, Sue Eudaly's sweetheart, William Humphrey. Isaac Hankins, the promising son of Samanthea Hankins, Mr. Tony Cummings. June, the poor-house waif and daughter of Bascom's uncle, Miss Lillian Lawrence. Sue Eudaly, the belle of "Rising Sun," Miss Maude Odell. Cindy Tutewiler, Jacob Tutewiler's wife, Miss Lizzie Morgan. Samanthea Hankins, Ike's mother, Miss Rose Morison. Beleena Kicker, the German cook, Miss Mary Sanders. For the week beginning Monday, December 5th, the attraction at this play house will be "The prisoner of Zenda" and a novel commemoration of the One Thousandth dramatic performance by the Castle Square Theatre Stock Company, which occurs Wednesday, Dec. 7th, is being planned. This event promises to be an occurrence of the greatest interest and one that has no precedent in the dramatic annals of this country.

Boston Museum.

"Because She Loved Him So," is the title of William Gillette's latest work for the stage, and it will be presented at the Boston Museum Monday evening next with an extraordinary cast of well-established favorites. It will furthermore be Charles Frohman's annual Boston Museum production, and it is promised that nothing will be spared to make the enffagement a success from every possible artistic standpoint, worthy of both manager and playwright. William Gillette's name is a magnetic one for Boston play-goers. Everything of his has been successful in Boston, which was among the first of cities to pay tribute to his "Held by the enemy," the best known of war plays until his own "Secret Service" was produced on the very stage where the latest and probably the most prognant of his comedy efforts, "Because She Loved Him So," will now be seen. "Because She Loved Him So" will prove to be neither a romantic drama, nor a pastoral comedy. Mr. Gillette has seized upon a fruitful theme as his subject. He has imagined a female Othello—an unreasoning, headstrong, wayward and tempestuous woman, so completely possessed of the demon of jealousy that her life becomes nearly a record of those "damned minutes" which serve to make up the sum of existence of one "who dotes, doubts, suspects, yet strongly loves." Here is matter enough, and more than enough, for a thrilling tragedy.

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

AT STORM'S MERCY.

Blizzard Rages Over Snow-Bound City a Mile a Minute.

Streets Blocked and Traffic Suspended.

Much Damage Done Over Other Parts of New England.

Boston, Nov. 28.—The Saturday and Sunday storm, with a snowfall of some 12 inches in Boston, raging in several states, and accompanied by a wind blowing at the rate of 60 or 70 miles an hour, was the most violent that ever occurred in this section of the country in the month of November. As a gale, in any season of the year, it came with an ace of being a record-maker.

Boston harbor was swept by big waves and the tide was abnormally high. The list of marine disasters includes the total wrecking of four schooners and five barges, the sinking of two schooners and one stone sloop and the running aground of 10 schooners, four barges, the ocean tug Tamaqua, the steamer John J. Hill and the Wilson ocean liner Ohio.

Twenty lives are undoubtedly lost; more men have probably met death. These accidents were nearly all right here at home.

Nobody knows what tales of destruction and death the telegraph may bring from all along the coast of New England.

Tidewater rolled over the wharves of this city and damaged goods in warehouses. The kitchens of the residences on the river side of Beacon street were flooded. The drawtenders' houses on the bridges were invaded and the fires under their boilers barely escaped being extinguished.

Trains north, east, south and west were nearly all stalled early in the night, although one train from Bangor reached Lynn yesterday noon, and two Chicago trains came into the city last evening.

In cities and towns dependent upon electric car service was even worse, for the damp snow packed hard on the rails and held up even the heavy snow ploughs. The service in this city was probably the best of any of the surrounding communities, yet even here there was no attempt made to run more than a dozen cars on Washington street, and one or two others of the main thoroughfares.

The storm, while not so severe and far-reaching in its effects as the fearful blizzard of last February, was, nevertheless, the heaviest experienced in November in this part of the country for a long series of years. Coming on Sunday it did not, of course, cause the annoyance or inconvenience as would have been the case of a week day, and most of the transportation companies made a heroic effort to at least particularly recover from the effects of the blockade.

The storm was a combination of two disturbances, one which came over the lakes Sunday and another that formed off the Florida coast Saturday morning. The two united off the Jersey coast some time in the afternoon and, moving northeast, the disturbance was central somewhere near Nantucket about 8 o'clock Saturday night. The storm center deepened considerably as it moved and the resultant winds rushed down into the vortex with fearful rapidity. With the storm center off the southeastern coast, the greater part of New England was swept by a northeast gale which in some places reached the velocity of 60 miles an hour. For nearly 24 hours the storm center hung over Nantucket with a gigantic bank of atmosphere to the northwest that fed it constantly with cold air, while on the other side of the center the storm blew up the warm currents from the south which, ladened with moisture, gave sufficient fuel for the heaviest kind of a snowfall.

Night trains over the Shore Line to New York reached Providence with only a few minutes' delay but beyond that point they met terrific drifts, and it was morning before either of the two regular trains reached New London. Here they were stalled nearly all day by freight wrecks on the road between that point and New Haven. Among the passengers and New Haven.

The worst misfortune suffered by the Boston and Maine railroad was the washing out of nearly a half mile of its double track across North river, between Salem and Beverly. The midnight tide made some inroads onto the embankment, but the road was in fairly good shape so that the trains from Bangor passed over it yesterday morning only 18 minutes late. It was the noon tide that did the damage, and the heavy northeast gale dashed the waves onto the track and the gravel embankment rapidly succumbed. The road used every endeavor to fill up the gap, bringing gravel from as far away as Hampton, N. H., and by night the eastbound track was declared safe for trains, while the westbound will not be in condition for traffic until some time today.

Up to 6 o'clock last night the worst shipping disaster reported was the grounding of nine schooners in Salem harbor but fortunately only one of them is in a dangerous position, and so far no lives have been lost. The schooners were all bound from Boston for eastern ports and put into Salem Saturday evening. Five of them are on soft ground, while three are on the Marblehead side of the harbor and the ninth is in a very dangerous position on the rocks at Naugus Head. A tug made a tour of the harbor, but as none of the schooners were flying the signal of distress it is probable that their skippers believe that they will all come off when the wind shifts.

One of the principal feature of the storm was the terrific gale which began about 10 o'clock Saturday night, and has blown with but slight interruption ever since. In some localities, especially along the south shore, the wind attained a velocity of over 60 miles an hour, which, with the blinding snow, made outdoor conditions of a fearful character. Many trees were blown down, chimneys demolished, houses unroofed, and what was most exasperating, telegraph poles heavily burdened with wires snapped like pipestems.

Two men lost their lives in the storm at Revere. One was Michael Lee, aged 40 years. Ocean avenue was completely under water and the tide was flowing along the street. Lee attempted to cross but was warned that he would be likely to lose his life, but he persisted. He stepped into the water, but the rush of the tide was so great that he was taken from his feet and drowned. The body was recovered. The other man drowned was an unknown negro.

The storm did great damage at the beach. The new metropolitan boulevard is believed to be undermined, and it may have to be entirely rebuilt. The beach is strewn with pieces of wreckage. In the pier district the worst damage was done. The houses here are on the cottage pattern. All of the houses were under water, and those located in the lowlands were so covered with water that only the tops of the roofs could be seen at high tide.

The cost of the storm to the city will amount to over $50,000, it is thought at present, roughly estimating the cost of clearing various sections of the city, where the storm did its worst. Last winter's big blizzard cost the city almost $100,000. The clearing up of the streets yesterday gave employment to 3000 men and 100 teams, and the force will be trebled today.

The high tide set fire to lime in W. C. Norcross & Co.'s sheds on the water front, and caused a $1000 fire.

While the storm raged the common and public garden were one wild and dreary waste. Huge old elms were uptorn, root and branch.

Twenty sailors gave up their lives in the storm, as near as the marine men in Boston can figure out.

Two members of the crew of the schooner Virginia of Mt. Desert, which went to pieces on Thompson's island, are known to be lost.

The loss of the barges Nos. 1 and 4 of the Consolidated coal company's fleet, as reported by the captain of the tug Cumberland, which had them in tow, and the loss of the barges Macauley, Escort and Navesink, as reported by Captain Hersey of the tug Herald by telegraph, will make a total of 20 lost, at a low estimate.

There may have been loss of life among the crews of the schooner laden with hard pine on Hull beach, and also of the crew of the vessel on Toddys rock. No definite information could be gained on either point, however, all communication being cut off with Hull and all shore vicinities.

The crew of the three-masted schooner going to pieces between the Brewsters and Boston light are believed to be safe at one of those places. She evidently drove over to where she lay, yet her mainmast was standing. No men were in the rigging, and it is such a short distance to both Brewster and the light that it is put down as granted that the crew were taken off safely.

Whether any men were lost on the boats on Moon island is not known.

High on the beach of Spectacle island the great Wilson line steamer Ohio lay struggling with the tempest all day yesterday. With anchors dragging and vainly resisting, she had been borne from her anchorage at quarantine and dashed upon the hostile shore with such violence that it is feared she must lie there until removed by wreckers.

Shrill and piteous whistle calls were borne all day long to the ears of would-be rescuers; but the fury of the storm forebade any near approach to the laboring ship.

The Ohio came in from Hull, Eng., on Saturday night with a large miscellaneous cargo, and is the only freighter running here from that port. She has been recently running out of the New York service, and is commanded by Captain W. W. Hadaway, formerly of the Chicago, who was making his first trip here in her. He is well known in this city from his connection with the old Chicago, and his luxuriant Burnside whiskers are familiar to local seamen.

The steamer had just escaped the snow storm on her night of arrival, and had anchored at quarantine station for safety. In the early morning she dragged her anchors and was driven onto Spectacle island, an exceedingly high tide of 15 feet being instrumental in giving her a boost into so high a position.

A wrecker averred yesterday that the steamer cannot be safely floated until a deep channel has been dredged for her, as in a change of wind the sea and tide will lower, and that she will be far away on dry land at the next high tide.

The Ohio is 3967 tons register, 2557 tons net, and is owned by T. Wilson Sons & Co., Limited, of Hull, Eng., owners of nearly 100 large and small steamers in every trade. She is 360 feet long, 43 feet beam and 24 feet 8 inches deep. She is worth in the neighborhood of $200,000, and her cargo is valued at a lesser amount.

The steamer is lying easily on a mud bottom and will be considerably strained. The cargo will have to be lightered before she can be floated, and the company will be put to considerable expense.

Street Car Traffic Tied Up.

Salem, Mass., Nov. 28.—The terrible northeast snowstorm, which raged here all Saturday night and Sunday morning, caused a complete suspension of all street car traffic, as well as the railroad trains, and during the night the gale blew ashore nine schooners of the coasting fleet, which late Saturday afternoon had sought refuge in the har-

Snowplow and Engine Overturned, Killing Two Men.

South Berwick, Me., Nov. 28.—Harley Bates and Fred Hallway, aged 34 and 32 years respecitvely, both resident of Portland, lost their lives while at their post of duty on engine No. 12, on the western division of the Boston and Maine railroad, yesterday afternoon.

The locomotive left Portland Sunday morning for Exeter, for the purpose of clearing the track of the vast amount of heavy snow that had fallen during the night. A heavy plow was being pushed through the snow, and until the train reached North Berwick at 1.14 o'clock in the afternoon the trip was uneventful. The plow carried the conductor, Robert McCrandall, and two brakemen, who attended to the general working of the snow clearer. There were the usual number of men aboard the locomotive, Harley Bates and Fred Hallway, engineer and fireman, respecitvely. Upon reaching a point known as Hobb's bridge, a distance of two miles from South Berwick, at about 1:24 o'clock, the plow left the irons, and turned completely over. The engine followed and went up an embankment about 15 feet, where it remained embedded in the earth. The plow tipped over onto the cab, and Engineer Bates and Fireman Hallway were crushed against the boiler head, the nose of the plow coming in contact with them while they were at their posts of duty, the engineer having one hand on the throttle, in which position he was found by the other members of the train gang. Hallway was crushed almost beyond recognition, while Bates' head and body were terribly mutilated. It is probable that they were both instantly killed, while the escaping steam caused them to be fairly roasted before their bodies could be removed from the wreck. Physicians were summoned from North Berwick, but their services were not needed, the occupants of the plow only receiving a general shaking up, their escape from instant death or serious injury being miraculous.

The body of Engineer Bates was removed last evening, while it is likely that the rescuing party will be unable to remove Hallway's body until today, as it was firmly pinned between the plow and the locomotive. Both of the unfortunate men leave families to mourn their loss.

A wrecking train arrived from Portland early in the afternoon with a large gang of workmen, but it is thought the tracks will not be cleared and traffic resumed until this afternoon. The plow undoubtedly left the irons on account of the heavy snow, but the locomotive upon being thrown to one side caused the track to spread, which made the derailment complete, and causing considerable damage to the road bed. The locomotive and plow also sustained great damage.

Engine 12 has experienced several mishaps in the past, and has figured in the death of five persons. Principal among the accidents was that of running into the washout near Exeter, N. H., on June 11, 1897, when the conductor and two brakemen on the train were killed, and the engineer was so seriously scalded that he remained in the hospital for several weeks.

Good Afternoon.

Mayor Sears, the Street department, the Fire department and the Police department were all alert during the storm to meet all requirements. Commissioner Knowlton was not able to do much with the snow ploughs, but he had many shovellers at work, and cleared several sidewalks. Chief Litchfield and his men looked after dangerous poles and wires, while Chief Packard had out a fire patrol and made preparations to cope with any fire that might be discovered.

The electric wires of the city can not go under ground too quick to improve the service and save money to the companies. The north-east storm has again interrupted the te'ephone and telegraph service, and it will be many days before communication will again be established. Not only are the people discommoded, but the fire alarm has been crippled and is useless at a time when it is most needed. Buildings which caught fire would have burned to the ground Sunday before an alarm could have been given. The railroads should have at least one wire underground, so that information can be given at all times concerning trains.

The caution to people in Boston, is equally applicable to people of Quincy and vicinity. Householders and others who have occasion to handle stoves, furnaces and lamps will do well to exercise unusual care while the present conditions prevail. The danger from fire is always increased at such a time, and the condition of the streets and of the fire alarm service which results from a storm such as has prevailed during the past two nights tends to sadly lessen the efficiency of these two branches of the public service at a time when they are most needed. It is impossible, however, to move ponderous modern fire apparatus rapidly with the streets in their present condition, while the wires of the fire alarm service suffered as well as others during the terrific gale of Sunday morning.

Memorable Storms.

The Ledger's record for 100 years does not contain one for November, but November is no longer an exception. On Sept. 23, 1815, there was a severer gale which blew down trees and sheds, and also the roof of the meeting house. Dec. 6, 1830, there was a violent Northeast storm which drove the brig Diamond ashore at Port island. Oct 2, 1841, a severe northeast gale, a schooner was driven ashore on the west head of Pettucks island and two on Moon island head. The famous gale which swept away Minots ledge lighthouse came April 15—17, 1851. Jan. 5—6, 1856, there was a violent northeast storm which rivaled 1851. April 19-21 there was a very heavy snow fall. A snow storm on Jan. 18-19, 1857 piled up drifts north of President bridge which blocked trains until the 22d. A violent northeast storm of Jan. 17, 1867, blocked railroad traffic for two days. Later storms are more familiar to this generation.

IT WAS A TOUGH ONE.

A Northeaster Which Rivalled the One Last February.

Ships Ashore at Quincy---Trains and Electrics Stalled---And Damage Everywhere.

The severest snow storm which has visited this coast for generations raged Saturday night and all day Sunday with undiminished force. The damage which this storm caused will probably exceed that of the famous storm of Feb. 1 of last winter, which in point of severity has been seldom equalled.

There were two storm centers, one starting in the Great Lakes and working directly eastward down the St. Lawrence valley. The other came up the coast via. Cape Hatteras. Both storms reached us a day apart. One storm commenced on Saturday evening at about 7.30 o'clock. The wind was high and the snow light and fluffy. By midnight the storm had increased to a hurricane and the wind blew at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The barometer dropped over half an inch. The wind was dead east. The snow began to grow damp and cling to the poles, wires and trees and pack down solid. This made trouble.

Shortly after eleven o'clock the train service on the New Haven road came to a stand still caused principally by poles falling across the tracks. The 10.30 P. M. outward train was hung up Atlantic by falling poles which blocked the track for an indefinte distance. The passengers were compelled to remain aboard all night, making themselves as comfortable as could be expected under the circumstances. This train was not moved until 9.30 Sunday forenoon

The 11.30 P M. outward train met a similar fate being hung up at Pope's Hill and was not able to get away until the middle of Sunday forenoon.

The 11.16 P. M. inward train from Wollaston was stalled opposite the Tublar Rivet & Stud Co's works. The passengers on this train had a miraculous escape from serious injury. The train was brought to a stand-still by a pole falling on the locomotive and completely demolishing the stack and head light. Another pole toppled over, landing between two of the passenger cars, giving the occupants a scare. Two of the passengers, Brockton men, left the train and put up at the Wollaston hotel for the night. In the morning Lord's team took them over to Fields' corner. By ten o'clock Sunday morning the train crew cut the train clear.

Several freight trains were also stalled between Wollaston and Quincy. The Taunton freight got held up just south of the Wollaston station at 12.30 Sunday morning by a score of poles dropping on to the tops of the cars. This made a bad mess and necessitated hard work before the train was cleared, which was about noon.

The storm on the water front was the severest ever known. The Steamship John J. Hill of Marine City, Michigan, came ashore at Rufe's Hummock near Merrymount park early in the morning.

A large three masted schooner went ashore on the outer end of Nut island; a two master drifted into Veazie's Rocks, a dangerous position. Her main topmast was gone.

Another two master went ashore on Post island and two two-masters were beached on Moon island.

At four o'clock Sunday afternoon the second storm set in. The wind did not blow so heavy as during the night. The snow was much heavier and accumulated faster.

The weather was threatening all day Saturday and when it began to blow along toward evening there was not much surprise expressed. Shortly before 8 o'clock Saturday night it began to snow and everybody said, "Just what I expected." The snow was light at first but both wind and snow rapidly increase and by 10 o'clock the storm had turned into a howling north-easter, which increased in fury as the night advanced.

The street cars struggled along on fairly good time until after 10 o'clock when they begun to run on any odd time. When the telephone wires began to snap with the weight of the damp snow and force of the gale and blow across the streets, things began to look serious. As the wires blew about they would strike the trolley wire and the vivid flashes that followed reminded one of the sharp lightning on a summer's night.

The wires were also becoming dangerous and late pedestrians were in constant fear of receiving a shock. The street railway got out its giant snow plows but the tangled mess of wires soon made it impossible for them to be of use. All this time the storm seemed to be increasing in fury, and some of the late cars were unable to proceed and became stalled, where they remained all day Sunday.

The railroad trains were stalled as will be seen by another part of this report.

All night long the storm raged and houses shook and rocked in such a manner that not a few expected momentarily to see the roof of their shelter blown off, leaving them without protection.

When, at last, Sunday morning came, those who ventured out, saw what destruction the storm had done. Telephone, fire alarm and light wires were down everywhere and tangled in a confused mass. Fortunately few poles had fallen which was probably because many of them were new poles erected to replace those destroyed by the storm of last February.

It was also seen that an enormous amount of snow had fallen and had been blown about into drifts that were almost as solid as earth, and in many instances would bear the weight of a man.

The storm, however, had not abated much and although it blew almost a gale all day, the street railway people had large gangs of men at work cutting away the mass of wires that crossed the trolley wire. Until these were removed it would be extremely dangerous to turn on the current. This work owing to the high wind and cutting snow was necessarily slow; but the larger part of the lines in Quincy had been cleared.

Sunday at best was a dismal day. People could not get out to church and the clergymen if they preached at all did so at home or to empty benches in the churches. Those who depended on Sunday papers to enjoy themselves were also doomed to disappointment, for none came until late in the afternoon.

The milkmen who are usually the first men about Sunday morning were many of them among the missing and not a few had to drink their morning coffee without milk.

Along about noon it stopped snowing and the wind abated somewhat, but this did not last long for toward night the wind shifted a few points north and the snow came again thick and fast, so that by night the storm was about as severe as that of Saturday night.

TRAINS STALLED.

A large number of Quincy people were in Boston Saturday evening, several at the Symphony concert, others at the theatres, while some were kept in by business. Few were prepared for a storm, and none for such an experience as was before them, and they were greatly surprised to be stalled.

Most of the Quincy people were on the 10.30 train which left Boston on time, and met with no difficulty until Neponset bridge was reached. Upon the Atlantic side a telegraph pole with numerous wires was down across the track and this and other poles stalled the train at Atlantic all night.

The extra Saturday night express which leaves Boston at 11.15 with Engineer Philbrook at the throttle did not do as well. It became stalled between Harrison Square and Pope's Hill. Conductor Flanders and the brakeman braved the storm and labored for four hours to clear the way of poles and wires but were only partially successful. Engineer Philbrook told the Ledger man it was the worst storm he had experienced during his 28 years on the road. It was the worst snow storm his engine had been in.

The 11.30 from Boston came along and was stalled behind the 11.15. It

The Bethany Ladies' Circle will hold a special meeting Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in the church parlors.

The beach house at Rufe's Hummock, owned by Mr. Theophilus King and others, which was totally destroyed, cost about $1,500.

City Square was full of snow shovelers between 7 and 8 A. M. working on the sidewalks and street railway and they soon had all the streets opened up.

The gunning stand on the Adams beach, owned by Messrs. J. C. Morse H. T. Whitman, C. M. Bryant and R. H. Jenness was entirely demolished. The guns were saved.

The flag pole on the Wollaston Hotel blew over and crashed through the roof of Sam Yick's laundry. When the pole came crashing through their room their queues stood right up straight.

S. T. Copeland, the Wollaston druggist, came near losing one of his large plate glass show windows. It was saved by propping it up with boards. During gusts it would spring in nearly three-quarters of an inch.

The Daily Ledger is without electric power today for its type setting machine, but steam power is utilized. Some of the compositors found it difficult to reach the office early, but we get there just the same.

J. S. Fisher, one of the milkmen who starts from Quincy Neck, was thoughtful for the welfare of the infant daughter of Mayor Sears, and braved the storm on foot to deliver milk. He had a rough experience.

WAS A TOUGH ONE.

was after daylight before Division Superintendent Ross and his gang cleared the way so that these trains could reach Atlantic. Here the Quincy passengers on the 11.30 train were transfered to the 11.15 and the 11.30 started via West Quincy.

Meanwhile the inward trains were having similar trouble. The 11.12 P. M. train of Saturday night left Quincy nearly on time, but a fallen telegraph pole caused the engine to lose its smoke stack at Wollaston and it was stalled for the night there. As the freight which left Plymouth at 7.38 P. M. pulled through Quincy after the 11.12 it was cautioned to run slow and look out for fallen poles. The caution was timely, as a pole fell between two cars before Dimmock street bridge was reached, and it was stalled at this point until 11 A. M. Sunday and then made but slow progress. Engineer Crowbitz staid at his post all the time and says it was an awful night. Coal and water both ran low, and it was necessary to get water by hose from the Hammond Beef storage. The engineer says many of the polls did not blow down in front of him until 9 to 10 A. M., and the fence on the southerly side of the Dimmock street bridge fell directly in front of him about 10 A. M.

Another freight was stalled all night between the Quincy station and Granite street, and held up the first Sunday morning train to Boston at this point. Some Quincy gentlemen waited in vain about the depot for their wives until about 3 A. M., the station being open all night. This was in marked contrast to the Quincy Adams station where the agent locked up early, and got quite wrathy when some men who were waiting for ladies got inside. On such a night the depot should have been kept open.

The stalled cars upon the outward trains were all comfortably warm, being heated from the engine, and the passengers good naturedly made the most of it. They missed most something to eat, and some confessed they were driven to drink, but the supply of liquid refreshments was also exhausted. When the representative of the Ledger boarded these trains Sunday morning between Wollaston and Quincy, he found a sleepy and rather sheepish crowd. They would have been better pleased to see people were they supplied with baked beans or sandwiches, but anything in the eatable line would have been acceptable, and would have been purchased at double value.

The 10.30 P. M. train from Boston which was stalled all night at Atlantic, made slow progress Sunday morning. A large gang of men went before, and sawed in half the fallen poles and cut all the wires at frequent intervals, and removed them to the side. It was after 11.30 before the 10.30 and 11.15 trains which had been connected at Wollaston reached the Quincy station, and it was some time before it was able to pull out. They had been over twelve hours in coming from Atlantic to Quincy. The Sunday morning trains were still later and the Boston Sunday papers did not arrive until after 2 P. M. and the mail was later. It was not until our citizens got out for their Sunday papers and mail that they fully realized how severe the storm had been.

The Journal says, the scenes about the Old Colony depot in Boston in the early morning hours Sunday almost rival description. The newspaper train, due to leave about 4.30 A. M, was standing on a siding as late as 9 o'clock, and the first regular passenger train, the 6.18 for Braintree by way of the Granite Branch, did not dare to venture out of the train shed for many hours, as was also the case with the 6.30 for Brockton and the 6.45 for Braintree and the South Shore. The trains were ready to leave the depot, and a few passengers were on hand to patronize them, but the officials said they did not dare to start them out, for the reason that the telegraph wires had not been working since 10.30 o'clock Saturday night, owing to the violence of the storm. Throughout the day the roadbed of the Old Colony Division between Fall River and Boston was in a sorely tangled condition.

The flood tide Sunday morning caused a washout on the Shawmut Branch where the road spans the Neponset river in Milton. The roadbedding was washed away and the rails sagged for quite a distance. Seaweed and drift wood were heaped on the tracks. The Neponset river bridge on the main line was under two feet of water at high tide on Sunday.

STEAMER ASHORE.

High and dry on the breakwater at Wollaston near the National Sailors' Home and Merry Mount park is the steamship John J. Hill of Marine City, Michigan. She left New York Friday night for New Brunswick, and when the approaching storm was noticed the captain tried to make Boston harbor, and he successfully entered Presidents road. The lights were hidden and he decided to cast anchor. The chain soon parted, and he put out another anchor, but again the chain broke, and then he was at the mercy of the wind and waves. He tried to head out to sea, but with little success. At 2.45 o'clock Sunday morning when the tide was unusually high the ship stranded upon the beach, so that she was wholly out of water at low tide.

When the Ledger representative visited the ship the Captain kindly lowered a ladder and allowed us to board.

The steamship John J. Hill is 170 feet long, 41 feet beam, and 17 feet deep, with a tonage of 974. She was built at Marine City, Michigan, in 1892. Her home port is Port Huron, Michigan. As coast raters are at present very high she came on here from the lakes to engage in that trade. As she came in on a high course tide, backed by a 60 mile gale, it is doubtful if she can be floated off without first being jacked up and set on a runway.

AT QUINCY POINT.

The new house of boat builder Smith at Quincy Point was taken off the piles which supported it and carried inland.

Hanley protected his property early and suffered no particular damage.

Gavin also secured firmly his boats. Only one got adrift and it was caught before damged.

At Lelois' buildings and boats were washed inland with some damage.

Schooner loaded with stone smashed into Quincy Point bridge. The bridge was flooded with water.

J. L. Whiton's chimney was blown down.

Ice from limbs of trees broke glass in several houses.

The stern of the yacht "Say When" was broken in.

The power house of the street railway on Wharf street was flooded.

A large tree in front of George Crane's house on Washington street was blown down, even with the ground and fell about three feet from his house.

President Graham took an early trip with a sleigh this morning through Washington street as far as Quincy Point.

Gangs of men are shovelling out on Washington street today.

An electric car and a plough were stalled on Washington street.

AT QUINCY NECK.

The strong wind created havoc around Quincy Neck, and so fierce was the storm that the houses shook and trembled all Saturday night. Fences were blown down and posts snapped off even with the ground, and limbs from trees were torn away and strewn all around the streets.

A resident of Quincy Neck says he left Boston on the 10.30 P. M. train.

He reached Neponset at 4.30 Sunday morning and Quincy at noon and walked down Quincy avenue and though the woods reaching home at 1.30 Sunday afternoon. He carried a 11-pound turkey.

The wire to the residence of Rollin Newcomb, the engineer, which connects with the tapper, was broken off and several wires hang most to the ground. Large rifts of snow are piled up everywhereabouts.

The tide was so high that it flooded over South street fully a foot deep, making passing impossible for two hours at the head of Bent's creek on Howard street.

AT GERMANTOWN.

People who live at Germantown report that they experienced a rough time Saturday night. The wind blew terrifically across the point and the houses shook and rattled, and at times during the night it seemed as though they would surely go.

The wind blowing through Quincy woods felled trees, which broke off like pipe stem. Sunday morning the tide rushed across the gut leaving Germantown an island.

AT POST ISLAND.

The houses received a severe shaking up at Post sland, but they stood it well and were not moved from their foundation. Mr. H. E. Rickers' stable, however, was moved to a point near Sea street.

There is one schooner ashore here and she was carried into Sea street where the receding tide left her. How she will ever be floated is something her captain said he would give up. There are also a number of smaller vessels and yachts strewn all along the shore from Post island to the Willows.

AT HOUGHS NECK.

It is reported that much damage has been done to the cottages at Houghs Neck. That roofs have been blown off and buildings that were set upon posts have been moved about and overturned. Just what damage has been done here cannot be learned as yet as the street gang which are breaking out the road have not opened up the way to the beach as yet.

THE HIGHWAY.

The streets in many places were drifted very badly. Add to this the debris caused by fallen poles, trees and wires, which made them almost impassable. On the Quincy Point road there was the usual big drift near the residence of John R. Graham. Sea street to Germantown and Houghs Neck was also drifted. Canal and Coddington streets were overflowed by the high tide to a depth of two feet and the cellars of houses along the shores of the canal were flooded.

Commissioner Knowlton got his men, teams and ploughs out early Sunday but the only way they could reach the Centre was by Valley street. The sidewalks on the main streets were ploughed out Sunday.

This morning the Commissioner had nine six-horse teams and two four-horse teams breaking out the roads. Besides this all ploughs were out, and a shoveling brigade of 150 men, so that by noon the streets were nearly all in a passable condition.

At Quincy Point Sunday residents expected to see the bridge between Quincy and Weymouth swept away. It shook and rattled so badly that people were warned against trying to pass over. The only thing that saved the bridge from being wrecked was the street railway structure on the south side. This structure is new and strong and formed a strong brace for the main bridge.

BOATING INTERESTS.

Hanley's, Lelois' and Gavin's boat yards suffered severely. Hanley's yards are under a high hill and the high tide and wind forced yachts and cradles with a bang against the embankment, and each succeeding wave bumped them all the harder, so that there will be considerable damage. At Lelois yards the yachts were lifted from their cradles and blown high and dry upon the beach and are more or less damaged.

There was a man, whose name could not be learned this morning, who passed the night in Gavin's boathouse, and Sunday morning people living on Edison street saw the boat house floating about with the man on the roof, waving his arms frantically for help. Suddenly he was seen to jump into the water and swim for a skiff that was floating about. There were no oars in the skiff and he was almost as badly off for it was blown back and forth and was in danger of being swamped at any moment. By this time help had arrived and some men put out in a boat and brought the man ashore. The boat house was badly wrecked and was left high and dry when the tide went out.

At this point the tide also entered the lumber houses of B. Johnson and did considerable damage.

STREET RAILWAY.

The street railway tracks are badly blocked and no lines have been run since Saturday. If it had not been for the telephone wires falling upon the trolley wire, the big plows would have kept the tracks almost free for use. Gangs of men were sent over all lines Saturday and today, cutting away the loose wires, and cleaning the trolley wire. This morning large gangs of men were also put to work shovelling out the tracks and it is probable some of lines will be running before night. The power house at Quincy Point was almost surrounded by water Sunday morning. The water entered the engine room of the station and did some damage to the machinery. This however is being repaired today and will be in readiness by the time the tracks are cleared. The cars are greatly missed.

THE MAILS.

The Sunday morning inward mail due about 9 o'clock did not arrive until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, owing to the blockade on the steam railroad. This morning the Boston mails arrived nearly on time, although the New York and Plymouth mails were hours late. The outward mail Sunday night was dispatched on time and today they are being sent off as usual. The mail for the offices in Weymouth supplied by the street railway, is being dispatched and received by a sleigh.

FIRE ALARM.

The storm played havoc with the fire alarm system and not a circuit in the city was in working order Sunday morning. Fortunately the services of the fire department were not needed. Before noon Chief Engineer Packard had made arrangements in the form of a patrol. This was done in every ward of the city. All day Sunday and Sunday night firemen were patroling the city, either on foot or horse back. In case of fire the instructions were to notify the nearest piece of apparatus and to sound the box nearest the fire from a steam whistle. Extra horses were provided for every piece of apparatus and if their services had been required everything was in readiness. Men are at work upon the system today and it is thought that the boxes in the centre will be in working order by night.

THE TELEPHONES.

The Telephone company always suffers more or less at every storm, and this storm proved no exception to the rule. Their damage, however, is light compared to the February storm. Many of their wires are down and in some instances the everhead cables are burnt out. Local Manager Lawton reports that he has 35 out of his 117 lines working. Of the lines working the majority of them are in the centre district, although he is able to reach West Quincy and Weymouth. All the men possible will be put at work immediately to get the lines in working order as soon as possible.

CO. K.'s DINNER.

Their Bill of Fare on Thanksgiving Day.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.
Camp Wetherill, Greenville S. C.,
Thanksgiving Day.

The weather is mild and warm. The nights are chilly, but a cold clear air.

We are enjoying the pleasures of a holiday. The regiment is exempt from all duty. K company participated of a good substantial dinner and supper. Through the generosity and kindness of our esteemed friends in Quincy, the following menu was served for dinner: Roast turkey with dressing, cranberry sauce, sweet potatoes or what the southerner calls yum yums, celery, boiled onions, gravy, bread and butter, coffee (with milk.)

For supper we had turkey stew, cheese, mince and apple pies, bread and butter, coffee (with milk.)

The boys partook of a thorough good meal for there was plenty of it.

Many compliments were spoken in favor of the Daily Ledger and our friends at home, who have not forgotten us. The receipt of the bountiful offering will be repaid at a future date, when K company once more returns to Massachusetts soil.

The 5th Massachusetts is sending details for provost duties to parade the streets of Greenville. The members from K company who will serve for three days, when a new guard will relieve them, are as follows: Corporal McIntosh, Privates Logan, Buckley, Colberg, Deslauries, Garbutt, Serberg, and Thumstrom.

Those detailed for 24 hours as the regimental guard are Privates Rogers, D. Smith, Spillane, Savoie, Sheehan.

Private Sheehan secured the orderlyship to Col. Whitney. This is a high compliment for K company, for a man must be very neat and clean to secure this important berth.

Four Horse Team Lost.

The four horses of John Q. A. Field which were lost Saturday night between Neponset and Quincy, turned up all right this morning. The manner in which the team was lost was a peculiar one. It was returning from Boston, when the driver becoming numbed by the cold got off and started to walk ahead of his team. After getting warmed up he turned to get on again but could not find the team. After searching some time he gave it up and returned home on foot. This morning it was returned by a party who had found the horses in the lee of a hill at Norfolk Downs, Saturday night, and had taken the animals and given them shelter until this morning. It is supposed that the flash of a wire, falling upon the trolley line, had frightened the horses and caused them to turn out into a side street leading to the Downs, where they became lost.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

It was 1 30 Sunday morning when the falling wires and trees made it dangerous to longer furnish electric current for street and house lighting and it was turned off.

Superintendent Austin reports this morning that although suffering considerable damage it is nothing compared with the storm of last February. Some few poles are down in several parts of the city, and in places the wires are also down, although the main damage is by the small telephone wires which cross his lines. He has all his men out clearing away the wreckage and says that he will be able to run the alternating circuit in the Centre tonight.

AT STORM'S MERCY.

bor. Yesterday noon the tremendous tide added further damage by washing out the Boston and Maine tracks between this city and Beverly, and flooding the power house of the Lynn and Boston railroad so that, even if the tracks of the local electric lines are cleared today, it will probably be a number of days before the cars will have power to run. The storm began about 9 o'clock Saturday night, and has continued with unabated severity ever since, over two feet of snow having fallen up to 9 o'clock last night, and much of it is badly drifted. The last train to reach the city from the east was the Bangor express, which arrived yesterday morning only 18 minutes late, but before noon the viaduct between this city and Beverly had been washed completely away and all railroad communication in that direction was stopped. The railroad officials went to work quickly, and, by running special gravel trains from Hampton, N. H., by night the east-bound track was in fairly good condition, and there was every prospect that trains will be running over the west-bound tracks sometime today. The tide also washed out a half a mile of spur track to the electric car power station, and about noon the water entered and filled the fire room in the power house. The Lynn and Boston company have no means for pumping their fire room dry except by hand pumps, so that it will be some days before the station is put in condition to supply power.

A number of yachts at Frisbie's yard were thrown from their cradles and badly damaged, while a shed 173 feet long at Derby's wharf was blown to the ground. Another building owned by Thomas F. Little, on the water front, and filled with barrels, was also demolished, and yesterday afternoon the whole harbor was filled with floating barrels.

A fleet of a dozen coasting schooners, bound from Boston to eastern ports, put into the harbor late Saturday afternoon, and, with two anchors ahead, each of them started to ride out the gale. This morning nine of them were on shore, but all being light and finding, with one exception, a soft bottom, very little damage was done. One schooner, however, went onto the rocks at Naugus head, and it seems probable that she may become a total wreck. The name of this schooner is the W. H. DeWitt, Captain Harrington of New Castle, Me., bound for Damariscotta. Among the other schooners ashore are the Agnes Mary, bound from Boston for St. John; the Evelyn,, for the same port, and the Ellis P. Rogers, bound for Bath. The revenue cutter Dallas came in last night and dragged her anchors for a short distance, but finally managed to find a good holding ground.

A number of trees throughout the city were blown down, many electric light wires severed, and numerous chimneys demolished.

Nine Inches In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—The blizzard reached this city at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, and raged furiously until 1 o'clock Sunday Morning, causing great havoc, not only here, but throughout the entire state. The snowfall reached a depth of over nine inches, and the wind a velocity of 45 miles an hour. These figures are unprecedented in the November records of the local weather bureau, and the officials say that the storm in general was the worst since the memorable blizzard in 1888. The mercury steadily dropped until well below the freezing point, and last night it was still on its downward way. In this city traffic of every kind, as well as wire communication, was crippled. The suburban lines were brought to a complete standstill, with the roads piled high with drifted snow.

During the morning hours all New York trains were four hours late, and since then from one to two hours. The Boston train on the Pennsylvania, due at 5:40 yesterday morning, had not been heard from up to 7 o'clock last night. Yesterday the weather was clear and cold, and much progress has been made in clearing up the railroads.

Dispatches from interior towns tell of like conditions. Street car traffic was stopped, and communication by wire with outlying districts cut off.

At Stroudburg large forces of men were working all day yesterday on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western tracks, trying to get trains through to New York. In the mountain regions of Scranton and Wilkesbarre, the greatest damage was to telegraph wires. The gale was especially severe around the Delaware capes. The schooner William M. Wilson, from Philadelphia for Norfolk, with a cargo of coal, sprung aleak four miles south of the Metemkin life saving station. Her signals were promptly answered, and the guards took off her crew of six men. The schooner is anchored a mile and a half off shore, and is likely to sink during the night. A number of vessels off the capes were unable to get into the harbor, and it is feared that there has been heavy losses

Heavy Loss at Nahant.

Nahant, Mass., Nov. 28.—The storm yesterday was of unusual intensity, and the loss caused will be large. Hotel Nahant, located at the end of the peninsular, had its billiard and bowling hall, a frame building 50 by 100 feet, completely wrecked; th front of the hotel on the sea side was battered and the band stand and several candy stands in front of the hotel were broken up, the loss being fully $5000. The sea wall at Marine park for about 100 yards was washed away.

The Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad tracks were washed away at a place between the Point of Pines and the Oak Island station, and the telegraph and telephone poles are prostrated.

The Boston and Maine railroad bridge, which spans the Saugus river at the General Electric works, has been weakened by the tide, so that it is unsafe, and trains, when travel is resumed, will go by way of the Saugua branch.

Dedham Tied Up.

Dedham, Mass., Nov. 28.—The streets of Dedham are terribly blocked with snow, as the result of the storm and blizzard of Saturday night and Sunday. There was practically no travel about the streets yesterday, the electric car traffic being suspended, the three lines which enter Dedham being unable to move a car. The Norfolk Central electric line attemptd to clear its tracks yesterday morning, but the plow was thrown from the track on account of the heavy snow, and several mn on the electric thoroughfare clearer narrowly escaped serious injury. The fire alarm system is partially demoralized, and considerable damage is reported in various sections. The train due here yesterday morning at 8:15, over the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, did not reach Dedham until early in the afternoon. The road succeeded in running on scheduled time later in the afternoon between Dedham and Boston, but traffic was entirely suspended on the Wrentham branch during the entire day.

Stone Wall Washed Away.

Swampscott, Mass., Nov. 28.—The wind and snowstorm, which, in proportion to the damage wrought, nearly equals any blizzard in late years, had not abated in its intensity last night. The wind was terrific, and fears are entertained among the seafaring men that the number of casualties will be large. A message from Palmer's beach says that a 3-master is ashore there, and several fishing boats went to pieces on the rocks off Fisherman's beach. Two hundred feet of stone seawall, 20 feet high, and some three feet in thickness, on King's beach, near the Soldiers' monument, which for 20 years has been safe confinement to the high seas, was washed away.

The Lincoln House was badly damaged by wind and sea, the large veranda which extends around the house on the water sides being broken into splinters, and the corner of the house crushed in, causing a loss of $10,000. The residence of Charles P. Curtis was lifetd from its foundations and shifted to one side, and the stable was also moved, causing a loss of $3650.

The firealarm and electric systems are completely demoralized, and travel is at a standstill. Several houses on the highlands have had windows broken and chimneys blown away by the force of the wind, and many trees were uprooted.

Out in Swampscott bay several bathing houses float in the storm, having been washed from the beach.

Electric travel is effectively blocked, and the snow plows sent out to clear the road have met the same fate. Travel on the Boston and Maine has ceased, and the cuts have drifted full.

Heavy Gale at Haverhill.

Haverhill, Mass., Nov. 28.—A wind and snowstorm, which in proportion to its severity nearly approached the blizzard of last February, began Saturday evening and continued unceasingly until noon yesterday, when, after a slight interim of quiet, recommenced at 3 o'clock with increased severity. The wind blew a gale, causing the snow to drift badly, completely blocking the roads and railroads. No electric lines are being operated with the exception of one and a half miles in the centre of the city. The electric line connection with Newburyport succeeded in getting a car to West Newbury late Saturday, where it has since been stalled. Communication by rail with the suburban towns is completely cut off, and no attempt is being made to open up the lines. No trains have been run over this division of the Boston and Maine railroad since the paper train, which passed through here at an early hour Sunday morning. The snowfall up to last night reached 15 inches, and from advices obtainable as to the severity of the storm, the Merrimac valley is completely snowbound. Telegraphic and telephonic communication is seriously impeded as a result of the gale, which attained a velocity of nearly 50 miles an hour, blowing down at least 20 chimneys in this city and prostrating poles and piling the snow into drifts to the depth of five feet.

Hard on Boats.

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 28.—The principal feature of the blizzard here yesterday was the tremendous tide, which, blown by the heavy northeast gale, reached a point that has not been attained since 1851. The entire seawall at Humphrey street, built of granite, was almost completely demolished, and 15 or 20 dories anchored off shore were blown ashore and smashed to pieces. Numerous chimneys about the city were blown down by the gale, and not a street car on the Lynn and Boston has run since 8 o'clock Saturday night. The newspaper train came in about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and the Bangor express arrived from the east in the forenoon, but, owing to a washout on the marshes, it was obliged to stay in the city all day. The storm was the severest since the memorable blizzard of last February, the wind attaining the velocity of 55 miles an hour.

Trains Delayed From North

Baltimore, Nov. 28.—On account of the blizzard in New York last night all trains from points north of Philadelphia were from one to five hours late yesterday. The Pennsylvania train, bearing yesterday morning's issue of the New York papers, did not arrive until nearly noon, four hours behind schedule time. The Baltimore and Ohio was compelled to make up their western train here, taking Philadelphia and Warhington passengers through, and provided for the western passengers from New York by special trains on their arrival from the north. Trains on both the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio from the south and west were on time throughout the day. During Saturday night and Sunday high winds prevailled on the Chesapeake bay, but so far as known there were no casualities.

Waterville's Worse,

Waterville, Me., Nov. 28.—Falling snow, driven by furious winds, has buried this section as never before known in November. The wind began late Saturday night, and it was generally from the northeast, a great drop in the mercury accompanying it until six degrees below zero was reached. Early yesterday morning snow began falling and had not abated last night. Trains on the Maine Central railroad ran all day under great difficulties, as the snow had drifted badly over the entire system. No attempt to keep on schedule was made, as trains were from two to four hours late. Snow plows had difficulty in keeping the road clear. All the electric cars in the city are stalled and no attempt will be made to open up the line while the snow falls. Eight inches of snow had fallen in Waterville at 7 o'clock last evening.

Nantasket Suffered.

Hull, Mass., Nov. 28.—One building and one structure left standing between Atlantic Hill and the Ocean View House is the story, in brief, of the havoc wrought by yesterday's storm at Nantasket beach. With the exception of the Nantasket chutes, and the main structure of the Hotel Nantasket, there is not a single building of any kind left of the various hotels, dance halls, bathhouses and other structures in the territory mentioned. The high wind and tidal wave of the storm swept everything before them, and wreck and ruin now lines the beach. The property, exclusive of Hotel Nantasket, was probably worth $100,000. All there is left of this is the floating debris and stranded timbers from the ruins.

Shipping Suffered.

Providence, Nov. 28.—The shipping in Narragansett bay Saturday night had a fearful battle with the blizzard, and while no casulties have yet been reported it will be nothing short of miraculous if some tale of a frightful marine disaster is not the outcome of the storm. The City of Fall River of the Providence line, which was due here yesterday morning from New York, has not yet been heard from, and it is probable that she put into some port on the sound for shelter. The three-masted schooner Pardon G. Thompson dragged her anchors in the gale and went ashore at Sassafras point, and a sloop yacht, which was anchored near her, was sunk.

PECULIAR POISONS.

GENERATED IN THE HUMAN BODY.

The Result of Imperfect Digestion of Food.

Every living thing, plant or animal, contains within itself the germs of certain decay and death.

In the human body these germs of disease and death (called by scientists Ptomaines,) are usually the result of imperfect digestion of food; the result of indigestion or dyspepsia.

The stomach, from abuse, weakness, does not promptly and thoroughly digest the food. The result is a heavy, sodden mass which ferments, (the first process of decay) poisoning the blood, making it thin, weak and lacking in red corpuscles; poisoning the brain, causing headaches and pain in the eyes.

Bad digestion irritates the heart, causing palpitation and finally bringing on disease of this very important organ.

Poor digestion poisons the kidneys, causing Bright's disease and diabetes.

And this is so because every organ, every nerve, depends upon the stomach alone for nourishment and renewal, and weak digestion shows itself not only in loss of appetite and flesh, but in weak nerves and muddy complexion.

The great English scientist, Huxley, said the best start in life is a sound stomach. Weak stomachs fail to digest food properly, because they lack the proper quantity of digestive acids (lactic and hydrochloric) and peptogenic products; the most sensible remedy in all cases of indigestion, is to take after each meal, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they supply in a pleasant, harmless form all the elements that weak stomachs lack.

The regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure every form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

They increase flesh, insure pure blood, strong nerves, a bright eye and clear complexion, because all these result only from wholesome food well digested.

Nearly all druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package, or by mail by enclosing price to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. but ask your druggist first.

—A town not far from Kiokomo, Ind., has a unique method of circumventing the Nicholson temperance law. A big Newfoundland dog belonging to the village baker acts as surveyor, carrying buckets of beer from the saloon at all hours to the thirsty waiting guzzlers about the all-night restaurants. The law does not forbid seling liquor to dogs, and the animal does a land-office business. Neither does the law provide against dogs disposing of liquor, and the traffic is carried on with impunity.

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

FURY OF GALE

Caused Countless Casualties at Sea.

Massachusetts Bay One Vast Mass of Wreckage.

Many Sailors Went to the Bottom With Vessels.

Disasters Off the Coasts of Maine, Connecticut and Nova Scotia.

Fears That Steamer Portland Is Lost, With Ninety-Seven Souls Aboard.

Damage Will Probably Exceed Record of Any Previous Storm.

Boston, Nov. 29.—Not since Minot's light was carried away in 1851 has there been such damage to the vessels in Boston harbor and bay as was caused by the storm of Saturday night and Sunday. Vessels of all sizes, from the great ocean steamer to the little fishing schooner, were dashed about, thrown on the shore or smothered and sunk by the great waves.

It is generally supposed that a vessel with strong ground tackle out is safe from any storm in the upper harbor at Boston, yet a dozen vessels dragged their anchors, even in that haven, and were dashed against the wharves or into one another, and thousands of dollars of loss was caused in this way alone. It is known that many more are ashore in every direction outside the harbor, and when the news of these disasters is all in it is believed that the damage done to shipping will exceed the record of almost any previous storm.

It is known definitely that over 70 lives have been lost in the wrecks of tugs, schooners and coal barges, and if the steamer Portland has also gone down, as now seems possible, the work of the storm will carry the casualties up to 160, with over 100 vessels of all description ashore, two score of them being total wrecks, and an unknown number probably beneath the waves of Massachusetts bay.

There is scarcely a bay, harbor or inlet from the Penobscot to New London that has not on its shores the bones of some craft, while along Massachusetts bay, and especially Boston harbor, the beaches are piled high with the wreckage of schooners and coal barges. And yet the record, although hourly lengthening, is incomplete, for that ocean graveyard of Cape Cod is still to be heard from, and as it has never yet failed to give up some grim tale at such a time, it probably will not be found lacking on this occasion.

The annoyance of the railroad and street car embargo, covering the whole of southern New England, sunk into insignificance before the story of destruction wrought by wind and wave, yet it will be many a day before the full import of the disaster is known or even realized.

The islands of Boston harbor are without exception strewn with wrecks and wreckage. No less than 29 vessels are ashore at Gloucester, over 20 in a supposed safe harbor of Vineyard Haven parted their anchor chains, and are high and dry on the beach; Nantasket Beach saw two schooners and a coal barge dashed to pieces on its sands; the rocks of Cohasset claimed a staunch fisherman; Scituate, a well known pilot boat; Manchester, a down-east lumberman; while one tug and three barges known to have been between Cape Cod and Boston are unaccounted for, and probably lost.

Even the upper harbors of Boston, Plymouth, Salem, Portsmouth, Portland and other places where vessels were supposed to be comparatively safe, were the scenes of numerous collisions between ships and the wharves.

Every life saving crew performed deeds of heroism in rescuing frozen seamen from the stranded vessels, while tug boat captains risked life and property in their endeaver to save life.

Though the work of gathering up the details of the effects of the storm on sea is still unfinished, the history of the blizzard on shore is about complete, for nearly all the railroads succeeded in resuming the embargo yesterday, and the street car lines were also partially successful in getting their systems again into operation.

It will be many a long day before the storm is forgotten, while its sad results will linger in the households of hundreds of families throughout the land.

The managers of the Boston and Portland Steamship company state that there are grave doubts as to the safety of the steamer Portland, which sailed from here Saturday night. Every harbor between here and Portland on the north shore has been heard from and one on the south shore, and in no case has the steamer been seen. The only remaining harbor which she could have reached is Provincetown on Cape Cod, and news from that point is anxiously awaited, as it is impossible to reach that place by wire. She carried 65 passengers and a crew of 32 men.

Arrangements have been made with the government to dispatch the revenue cutters Dallas from this port and Woodbury from Portland to hunt up the steamer. The Dallas will cruise along the south shore as far as Provincetown, while the Woodbury will make a long circuit from Portland around Cape Ann, and if neither of these steamers succeeds in locating the missing vessel there is little hope of her ever being seen again. A passenger list is aboard the Portland and at present there is no means of knowing the names of those on board outside of her officers. The steamer had in all 97 souls on board.

The Portland was built in Bath in 1890, and is a side wheel steamer of 1500 tons net burden. Her length is 280 feet, beam 42, depth 15 feet. She was valued at $250,000, and is fully insured.

The storm caused widespread destruction at Plymouth, but no lives have been reported lost, although seven vessels are ashore and three are still to be heard from.

Besides taking off the crew of the Consolidated coal barge No. 1 at Pemberton, and a portion of the crew of the Calvin F. Baker at Boston light, the Hull lifesavers also rescued from a terribly exposed rock off Gun rock three members of the crew of the barge Lucy A. Nichols, which was wrecked at that point. The Nichols was one of the two barges which broke away from the tug Underwriter late Saturday night or early Sunday morning. Her companion, the Virginia, has not as yet been heard from, and it is probable that she sunk with her entire crew of five men. Two of the crew of the Nichols were lost. An unknown schooner also struck the rocks below the Atlantic House, and before she went to pieces one man was seen in the rigging making frantic signals towards shore. Those on the beach, however, were powerless to aid him, and the vessels broke up before their eyes in a very few minutes. So completely was the schooner ground to pieces on the rocks that not the slightest trace of her name could be found on any of the small fragments.

Steam tug James Hughes, Jr., arrived at New Bedford from Vineyard Haven, having on board the crew of the Merchant and Miners Transportation company's steamer Fairfax, 38 in number; also eight passengers of the Fairfax.

The lifesaving crew report the wreck of a large barge, ashore at Humacock beach. It is thought to be the Daniel I. Tenney of Boston. No trace of the crew has been found as yet.

A vessel with one mast standing has been sighted ashore at Brant Rock.

Five men were seen on Black Rock ledge, off Cohasset, yesterday. The Humane society launched a boat, but they were thrown into the water and drifted ashore. The Hull lifesaving crew came around in their boat and took off the men, returning to Hull.

In addition to the disasters enumerated above the following is as nearly as possible a list of the craft wrecked or sunk in this section:

Two-masted schooner Virginia, totally wrecked on Thompson's island.

Three-masted schooner Calvin F. Baker, totally wrecked between Boston light and the Great Brewster.

SURRENDERS TO FORCE.

Spain Desires to Avoid Any Further Effusion of Blood.

But Few Details Remain to Close Negotiations.

Further Discussion Between Commissioners Will Be of Friendly Nature.

Washington, Nov. 29.—It is the impression at the state department that the peace commission's work is now near an end, and that about two weeks' time will about suffice to close it up. This idea is based on the belief that instead of undertaking to arrange the several matters yet to be settled in the treaty of peace, a general clause will be placed in the treaty binding each of the parties to begin negotiations in the near future upon those subjects. It was said at the state department that the next step in order will be to begin negotiations for the acquisition of Ualan, in the Car line islands, for a cable station. This will be an offer in all sincerity to purchase the island at a fair price.

Spain has accepted the United States offer of $20,000,000, and at a joint session of the peace commissioners yesterday afternoon, consented without condition to relinquish Cuba and to cede Porto Rico, Guam and the Philippines.

The document presenting this acceptance contained only 300 words. It opened with a reference to the final terms of the United States, and said that the Spanish commissioners, after having taken cognizance of the terms proposed by the Americans, replied that their government had tried to give as equitable an answer as possible, but that they were not prepared to commit their government to the acceptance of the principles embodied in the American argument. Spain rejects these principles, the note continues, "as she always has rejected them."

Basing her attitude upon the justice of her cause, the note then says, she still adheres to those principles "which she has heretofore invariably formulated." However, the note adds, in her desire for peace she has gone so far as to propose certain compromises, which the Americans have always rejected. She has also attempted to have submitted to arbitration some of the material points upon which the two governments differed. The proposals for arbitration, it is added, the Americans have equally rejected.

Spain's reply yesterday, in substance, continued by declaring that the United States had offered, as a kind of compensation to Spain, something very inadequate to the sacrifices that country made at this moment, and she felt, therefore, that the United States proposals could not be considered just and equitable.

Spain had, however, exhausted all the resources of diplomacy in an attempt to justify her attitude. Seeing that an acceptance of the proposals made to Spain was a necessary condition to a continuance of negotiations, and seeing that the resources of Spain were not such as to enable her to re-enter upon war, she was prepared, in her desire to avoid bloodshed, and from considerations of humanity and patriotism, to submit to the conditions of the conquering nation, however harsh they might be. She was, therefore, ready to accept the proposals of the American commission as presented at the last sitting.

The reading and translation of the document occupied less than five minutes. At the conclusion of the translation the commissioners empowered Senor Ojeda, secretary of the Spanish commission, and Secretary Moore of the American commission, to draw up articles which should embody the relinquishment of Cuba by Spain, and the cession of Porto Rico and the Philippines. These articles, which may be considered as constituting the conditions of peace, will be ready for submission at the next meeting.

Gunners' Experience.

The gunning stand at Adams' beach, which was destroyed by Sunday's storm will be immediately replaced by a new structure. Work was begun today on the new building. The loss on the old buildling and its contents amounts ot $500. The guns and decoy ducks and geese were the only things saved. At the time the stand went to pieces Al. Williams and Joseph Morse, Jr., were in it. They had barely time enough to liberate the decoys, grab their guns and jump through a rear window when a huge wave broke over the building and collapsed it. The decoys flew in all directions but with the exception of something like four geese all were recaptured. Mr. Williams lost over $100 worth of fancy duck feathers which he was collecting for a Boston millinery firm. The new stand will be better protected from the encroachments of the sea than the old one.

Half of Wollaston Pleased.

Great credit is due to Contractor Thomas Whalen of Wollaston for the thorough manner in which he kept his section of Wollaston, north of Beale street, plowed out on Sunday and Monday. All day Sunday, from day break to dark, he was out with his men and plows breaking roads and sidewalks. Monday morning he was up at daylight and by 7.30 had sidewalks all plowed. The section south of Beal street, which includes the hills, did not have such a wide awake contractor. It was some time before that section was plowed out. In the meantime there was lots of kicking among the citizens. Why wouldn't it be better for the city to let Whalen plow out the whole of Wollaston?

NOT HALF YET TOLD

Norfolk Downs Yachts Were Seriously Damaged.

Interesting Account From an Eye Witness of Storm.

Experience of Two Gunners and Other Incidents.

Wind, snow, hail and a very high tide were abundantly in evidence at Wollaston beach, particularly at the foot of Beach street on Sunday, and those who braved the storm during the day to view the ruin and destruction wrought by the elements, stood aghast at the sight which met their gaze.

To many it was a revelation, for them. Visits to this pleasant spot before had been on occasions when all things were bathed in sunshine and peacefulness, but all was changed on this never-to-be-forgotten day. Where hundreds of men, women and children lounge about in summer on the green grass under, the shades of the far reaching branches of old elm trees probably planted there by the elder Quincys,—was seen wild and dirty waves dashing high in the air carrying with them wreckage from boats and all sorts of floating debris.

On the lawn surrounding the residence of Mr. McNamara at the foot of Beach street was a collection of oars, buckets, joist, boards, tops of cabins, parts of small boats, sea weed, and vegetables; in fact everything that would go toward kindling a fire and the making of a clam bake or boiled dinner, except the corned beef.

In the street, directly in front of the house was piled high in a tangled mass, two hundred feet of the Wollaston Yacht club's float run and other lumber. Jammed in this confusion of most everything was the Yacht Yolandie, owned by Mr. Fred Loud. The boat sustained damage amounting to about seventy-five dollars.

The hay and grain shed about fifty by twenty feet on the left of Beach street owned by Loud & Tribou was turned around and carried twice its length up the marsh land besides Sachem creek. The bridge which spaned the creek at this point, and also the public wharf were lifted from their pilings and carried up the creek and now rest close to the hay and grain shed, making a very good piazza to that building.

One of the floats belonging to the Wollaston Yacht Club is in Mr. Youngquest's front yard, the other is still anchored but stripped of its flooring.

The yachts Burgess, Clara Lou, Thelma and Elf were moved from their winter quarters, the Burgess getting a bad bruising. The Sea Gull and Dictator are keeping company about one hundred feet from the Billings road bridge. Mr. James Smith's yacht Muriel is a total loss, amounting to four hundred dollars.

The loss to the Wollaston Yacht club will reach from $250 to $300 and that of the boat owners to about $800

Mr. John Stuart was a heavy loser, the front and one side of his boat house were blown away exposing tools and stock, also a new raceabout nearly finished to the storm.

An alco-vapor launch, 30 feet long, belonging to Dr. Clement of Haverhill, housed over for the winter by Mr. Stuart, yielded to the great pressure of wind and tide and lodged up against the Wollaston Yacht club house, receiving considerable damage.

A handsome race-about built by Stuart last summer and owned by a Boston party was carried far up on the marsh and was damaged to the extent of $200. Mr. Stuart could not give his total loss at this time, but it must certainly reach $1,200.

A twelve room bath house at the foot of Beach street took a pivot and no longer looks natural.

Down along the beach near East Elm avenue the residence of Mr. Patten was surrounded by water to the depth of seven feet, and when the kitchen floor became flooded Mrs. Patten and her three small children became frightened and gave distress signals from the upper windows. They were seen by Capt. E. A. Snow and Mr. Lewis who rescued them in a boat.

The wooden breakwater extending to Faxon's beach was damaged considerably.

Mr. Landers, the plumber, had one hundred hens before the storm, but now he can count but six, and the coop is about one hundred yards from its former foundation.

Considerable damage was done to the breakwater in front of the cottages on Faxon's beach.

Just south of these cottages near Black's creek lies the steamer John J. Hill, Capt. McLean, with a crew of fourteen men. The captailn was bound for Hillsbury, N. B., in ballast, for a cargo of plaster for New York. She is of 786 net tonage and 988 gross. About six years old and owned by H. T. Mooley of Detroit, Mich.

Many souvenirs were picked up on the beach. Your correspondent finding an oar painted blue and bearing the stamp of the Massachusetts Humane society.

NEW ROSTER OF CO. K

Men Still Talking About Their Big Thanksgiving Diuner.

With Co. K, 5th Mass.
Camp Wetherill,
Greenville, S. C, Nov. 25.

We have spent another pleasant day, the sun shining bright and strong, like one of our Northern summer days. It was so warm that some of the boys walked around camp in their blue shirts, leaving their coats off.

The camp is once more running on the regular service time. All cook houses and buildings are finished, so that the boys may have a rest from their daily toils.

The trenches that were dug to lay the pipes for city water are also finished and filled in, so that we are now drinking Greenville city water. These mains were kindly put into our grounds, by the sanction of Mayor Williams of the city of Greenville. The water is clear and crystalized. Although the water seems pure, we still shall continue to have every drop filtered before issued.

1st Sergeant Maurice A. Colbert is kept busy all day long, making out his reports, and having the details got ready to report for duty. Army life has no snap to him.

Quartermaster Sergeant Crane must be complimented upon the efficient manner in which he had that Thanksgiving dinner served yesterday.

2d Sergeant John R. McGrath obtained a leave of absence for 24 hours yesterday. The sergeant visited Greenville and all places of interest and seems to be pleased with the manners and customs of our Southern brothers.

Sergeant Joseph T. Mohan still holds his position as Sergeant Major under Major Morrison of the 1st battalion.

Sergeant George A. Phillips enjoys the presence of his wife; Mrs. Phillips is boarding in one of the cottages a short distance from camp.

Sergeant Herbert T. Barrett is considered one of the most efficient sergeants while on his 24 hours' of guard duty. He always keeps his eye peeled for stragglers after taps are sounded at night. No one can get through his guard, whenever he is sergeant of the guard.

K company at the present writing has only five duty sergeants instead of six. Sergeant Mohan is detached from company. We have only eight corporals instead of twelve; Corporal Hermanson, is on the sick list, Corporal Matthews is detailed on the Hospital staff, Corporal Wardwell has received an honorable discharge, Corporal Adams has also received an honorable discharge. Therefore K company is at present, short of non-commissioned officers With this shortage, they hold the record of being one of the best drilled and disciplined companies in the 5th Massachusetts, today.

There are several other companies who only wish they could hold the record that K does, with their regimental commander, Colonel Whitney.

The following is a complete roster of members who at present serve with K company while at Camp Wetherill, S. C. Those who are detached on special duty are specified:

Portland Steamer Wrecked.

All on Board Reported to Have Perished.

A special to the Boston Herald by special train from Provincetown, says the steamer Portland was wrecked off Highland Light at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

All on board perished within a short distance from land.

Up to last night thirty-four bodies had been recovered by the life saving crew, one of which was a woman.

A large amount of wreckage has come ashore, including trunks and personal baggage.

At the offices of the steamship company In Boston it was reported that as far as known the Portland had twenty six passengers, and her crew including officers numbered sixty five men.

LATER.

Among the passengers on the ill fated steamer were Mrs. George Chickering of Weymouth and her sister Mrs. Wheeler of South Weymouth.

Highland Light where the steamer was wrecked is off Cape Cod and is not connected by wire.

Note—Highland light is northeast or seaward of Cape Cod (Highlands, Truro). It has a fixed white light, 195 feet above sea level, visible for twenty miles, a white tower and black lantern. It has a Daboll trumpet with blasts of eight seconds duration at intervals of thirty seconds.

Fire Alarm Working.

Chief Engineer Packard, Superintendent of Fire Alarm Wight, and a gang of men were at work upon the fire alarm circuits all day Monday and when night came they had the satisfaction of knowing that all the boxes at Quincy Point and those in the Centre from Box 35 at Christ church to Box 28 at Greenleaf street were in working order. They are at work today upon the other circuits some of which will be in working order tonight.

QUINCY INSURANCE CO.

That's a new one on you, isn't it? You've never heard that there was such a company before, have you? and still there is, and has been doing business right here in Quincy for over nine months, and doing a good business, too, with over 10,000 policy holders. It's got some of the best people in Quincy and some of the worst for clients. It's a Steer Accident Insurance Co., and it beats fire insurance all hollow, for you don't have to burn out to get your money's worth. It's better than life insurance for you don't have to die to get your money. You don't have to pay any money nor premiums; you get your policy free—absolutely—even make a little by taking it out. It beats any other accident company for you don't need to lose a leg or an eye or get hurt to get your money's worth.

Who runs this company? We do. You're insured against accident with every sale you make with us. You can't lose. If you buy anything of us that you don't like as well when you get it home as you did in our store it's an accident on your part—bring it back. If you get anything that don't wear as it should—it's an accident on the maker's part—bring it back.

If you get anything that isn't just as we said it was—it's an accident on our part—bring it back; and "BRING IT BACK" with us means no quibbling, no questions, but your money back quicker than you paid it out, ten times over.

People have faith in our insurance; that's why we have such crowds on Saturday evenings which keep us open long after all the other stores have closed. Not afraid to trust us by artificial light as well as day light. Ours is a safe store and we are glad of it. Do you know that we carry more different styles Men's and Boys' Suits and Overcoats, and Child's Reefers, Suits and Short Pants, than all the other stores put together—and sell more, too. Price and Insurance do the selling. Men's $10.00 Overcoats at $7.50. Boys' $3.00 Reefers, $2.25; $2.00 kind, $1.39, and everything else a man or boy wears, except shoes which we do not keep, in the same proportion.

West Quincy Inconvenienced.

West Quincy suffered but little by the storm. There are one or two poles down and a tree or so broken off, but the streets are not badly drifted, and what little there was in West Quincy proper was quickly cleared away. On Adams street, however, there was a tremendous bank near the corner of Common street and Commissioner Knowlton had a large gang of men at work all day Monday at this point. There were some few places in West Quincy where the snow drifted but these were on the back streets, so that the business section did not suffer.

The greatest inconvenience to West Quincy people by the storm is the train service. The road bed of the New Haven road between Granite avenue and Squantum street was washed away and in order to reach Boston from East Milton and West Quincy the people must go to Braintree and then down the main line. In coming from Boston it was fully as bad for passengers had to come out on the main line and then down the branch. This morning however the electric car service was resumed and most people came to Quincy Adams or Quincy for their train.

Parker—Bradshaw.

On Monday evening Mr. Harry Parker and Miss Emma Bradshaw were united in marriage at the home of Mr. G. N. Sherwin at Atlantic. Rev. H. C. Wright of the Methodist Episcopal church officiated. The brilliant moonlight evening made a very happy contrast to the terrible weather of the evening before. The guests however were somewhat delayed by the irregular train service. The home was comfortably filled by the near relatives, whose good feeling, voicing the return of bright weather, added much to the pleasure of the occasion. The bride was married in her travelling dress. The many presents attested to the high esteem in which the bride was held by her numerous friends. The well wishes of all go with Mr. and Mrs. Parker to their home in the "sunny south."

Royal Black Preceptory.

Mount Joy, Royal Black Preceptory, No. 21, held a regular meeting Monday evening. Most all the sir knights were present, and after the regular business of the preceptory was transacted, the members of Bay View lodge, L. O. L., No. 187, were admitted and were received by words of welcome by W. P. M. McKenzie. D. M., A. D. Martin was conducted to a seat on the platform and Sir Knight A. M. I McLeod, chairman of the reception committee, was called upon. He made a lengthy speech and was followed by Past Supreme Grand Registered Sir Knight F. Finney, who spoke of the progress the order in the country. Speeches were also made by A. D. Martin, M. Lamont, D. McKinnon, James McDonald, D. L. Gordon, R. Whiteway, A. Stewart and others. Refreshments were served by a committee and a good time was enjoyed.

St. Mary's Fair.

The first grand fair of St. Mary's parish was opened at St. Mary's hall Monday night, and although the weather was greatly against a large attendance there were many present. Numerous tables were arranged about the hall for the sale of various articles of a useful and fancy nature, each table being named for one of the West Quincy societies, such as Foresters, Hibernians, Knights of Columbus, etc. These tables were all up stairs in the hall, the lower floor being used as a refreshment room. Owing to the electric wires being out of order, oil lamps had to be used for light which prevented the hall from looking as brilliant as usual. It is thought that the electric lights will be in working order by night.

He Got His Turkey.

A Thanksgiving incident at Wollaston Park which has just leaked out, had interesting features bristling out all over it. The first chapter will take the reader into Merrymount Park on Thanksgiving morning and if he or she did as the writer did, he or she or both, made a big fool of themselves by standing two or three hours in the rain watching twenty-two boys trying to pull each other apart playing football.

One of these boys listed with the Q. H. S. eleven, and one who was not the smallest by considerable in height and flesh, got the worst of one of the numerous pyramidal tangles and hopped off the field on one foot, the other member hanging limp in the air. The young man's father, grandfather and a number of friends ran to his side and comforted him as best they could while the young athlete stood pale and shivering in the cold. A carriage was offered by a sympathetic friend and the boy was conveyed to his home at Wollaston Park, where he was given a mother's care. His ankle was badly swollen, he could not bear the least weight upon it. He was made comfortable in a reclining chair.

All went well until the family were summoned to take dinner with the grandparents who live some two hundred yards distant.

Then it was that the problem of moving the foot ball player arose, and with it enters the second chapter. Neighbors were searched in vain for crutches to enable the cripple to join the family gathering and partake of the good things that grandmother had cooked as only grandmother's can. Failing in this manner of transportation, the father of the now hungry boy attempted to carry him in his arms, but when it is explained that during the son's sixteen years of existence he had accumulated an avoirdupois exceeding his father's by some fifty pounds, it is unneccessary to state that this mode of transfer was abandoned.

The crisis had arrived. It was suggested that the mountain should be brought to Mahomet. The grandmother objected. Her grandson should eat at her table or not at all.

Grandmothers can always be relied upon to clear away all diefficulties, so in this case she espied a wheelbarrow in the yard. That was sufficient, the big boy was bundled into the barrow and the male members of the two families alternated in wheeling him to the fond grandmother's house, here he kept her busy for an hour carving turkey and serving other goodies.

Gen. Taylor on Journalism.

Gen. Taylor the "Globe man" thoroughly captivated his audience at the Univeralist church Monday evening, and those who did not attend missed a rare treat. Owing to the storm's interference with the railroad, the speaker arrived quite late. As a specimen of the mixed up condition of the trains it may be said that Gen. Taylor arrived here at a quarter past eight on the six thirty train and left at about ten on the nine twelve. This delay on the part of the speaker in getting to town caused some of the audience to leave and consequently the already small gathering was whittled down to still smaller proportions.

In view of this fact and the lateness of the hour, Gen. Taylor said he would abide by the decision of those present and either come again later on, or go on with the lecture then; and it was decided to have it.

Mayor Sears, therefore, in some brief and appropriate remarks, in which he alluded to the speaker as a man who had gained a well deserved distinction in the noble profession of journalism, introduced the speaker who talked most interestingly for an hour, without notes, or a scrap of paper before him. Graceful and easy in manner, with a pleasant well modulated voice, and bright as a new silver dollar, he took a firm grip upon his audience at the start and never let up until the last word was spoken.

It would be difficult for any speaker to pack more varied information respecting his subject—more wise suggestions concerning the use of opportunity, more practical advice about life in general, into a single hour, and serve it up flavored with a more delicious humor, than did the "Globe man" on this occasion. It was the concentration of a brainy man's life experience in his profession. Beginning with the fact that nearly all great modern improvements have taken place since the Civil war, he showed how Journalism had also developed a marvelous spirit of activity and enterprise. Brief sketches of the great journals and their editors were given and many popular criticisms of the newspapers were answered.

In fact the lecture was a bright and practical talk from a man thoroughly at home upon his subject, and whose distinction in his special line invested it with a peculiar charm for his hearers. It is only to be regretted that many more were not present to carry away the large amount of pleasure and information which the lecture afforded. And there was no good reason why more were not present. The night was beautiful, the travelling not bad, and under the circumstances the vestry should have been full.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

Point Bridge Closed.

The Quincy Point bridge is in bad condition, much worse than was at first supposed and is closed to teams. The only one permitted to cross is the sleigh carrying the Weymouth mail and in this case it is necessary to drive slow and hug the rail toward the street railway structure. The street railway structure is apparently all right but cars will not enter upon it until the draw bridge has been examined by inspectors to see if it is safe. The impression is that it would not be safe for the heavy cars. Men are at work repairing the bridge, but are making slow progress. It has been suggested that what should be done here is to fill in under the bridge excepting at the channel at the draw. The bridge has long been considered unsafe and now that it is, so far knocked to pieces it would be a good time to rebuild.

The Crack Shots.

The Wollaston Trap club had a very successful shoot at their grounds Thanksgiving morning resulting in the following parties, obtaining their dinner free by their ability in getting there at the right time: A. L. Baker, one turkey; Mr. Cook, one turkey; C. V. Sarrett, two turkeys; C. L. Prescott, one turkey; and Mr. Nole, two turkeys. Bates, Bryne, Whitmarsh, Brainerd, Noyes and others were close competitors. Many visitors were present. About 700 blue rocks were thrown.

The prizes won at the shooting gallery at the fair of the Swedish Good Templars have just been announced. The gallery was in charge of P. A. Nelson and the crack marksmen were:

First, Oscar Lungren, fancy cuff and collar box.

Second, Victor Johnson, toilet set.

Third, Andrew Anderson, 50 cigars.

Fourth, John Wilson, 25 cigars.

LIFE SAVING SERVICE.

Much Good Has Been Accomplished During the Past Year.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The following is an abstract of the report of the general superintendent of the lifesaving service:

At the close of the last fiscal year the establishment embraced 264 stations—192 being on the Atlantic, 56 on the lakes, 15 on the Pacific and one at the falls of the Ohio at Louisville. The number of disasters to documented vessels within the field of operations of service during the year was 402. There were on board these vessels 3113 persons, of whom 12 were lost. The estimated value of the vessels and cargoes involved was $7,168,390. Of this amount $6,410,530 was saved and $757,860 lost; 663 shipwrecked persons received succor at the stations. The number of vessels totally lost was 59.

In addition to the foregoing there were during the year 365 casualties to small craft, on board of which there were 874 persons, of whom 10 were lost; value of the property involved $199,705, of which $177,826 was saved, 56 other persons were rescued who had fallen from wharves, piers, etc., the most of whom would have perished but for the aid of the lifesaving crews.

The crews saved, and assisted to save, during the year 471 vessels, valued with their cargoes at $3,868,655, and rendered assistance of minor importance to 324 other vessels in distress, besides warning from danger by the signals of the patrolmen 226 vessels. The number of lives and the amount of property saved through these warnings cannot be determined, but it is certain that numerous disasters were thereby averted.

The cost of the maintenance of the service during the year was $1,497,676.55, which sum, however, includes $56,952 expended during June and July from a special appropriation of $70,000 for the maintenance of 139 stations as coast signal stations for war purposes on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

The Buffalo Breakdown.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The court of inquiry appointed to investigate and determine the responsibility for the breakdown of the cruiser Buffalo, when only a few days out from New York on her way to join Admiral Dewey's fleet in the Philippines, found that the accidents were due to neglect and incompetency on the part of the engineers of the ship, and recommended that Chief Engineer Bieg be reprimanded and that Assistant Engineers Simmonds, Mackay and Rodgers, who have only temporary appointments, be discharged from the service. Assistant Secretary Allen modified the findings so far as to retain the three assistants in the service, but transferred them to other duty.

William's Finger In the Pie.

Berlin, Nov. 29.—It is learned that Colonel Schwartzkoppen, former German military attache at Paris, while supping with Emperor William at Potsdam on Sunday, detailed the whole of the Inside history of the Dreyfus-Esterhazy and Picquart cases to his majesty, who contemplates taking some action in the matter. Chancellor Hohenlohe, Minister Von Buelow and General Von Hahnke will be summoned to Potsdam to discuss the advisability of an official German pronouncement on the subject. It is said that the emperor, during his recent tour, conversed with several persons about the Dreyfus case, and it is added that the new points which he has heard have prompted him to his present action.

The Situation at Marlboro.

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 29.—All the employes of John O'Connell's shoe factory, which posted a free shop notice last week, remained away from the shop yesterday with the exception of a few men who are making preparations with the annual stock taking. The strikers held a meeting yesterday and voted not to go to work at the factory. Mr. O'Connell, in an interview, intimated that all his employes were welcome at his factory whether they belonged to the union or not. There is no change at the S. H. Howe factories, but there is a general feeling that an attempt will be made to resume work in a short time. The situation at the other factories is unchanged.

Mystery Deep as Ever.

Bucksport, Me., Nov. 29.—The town of Bucksport, as a municipality, has abandoned its investigation of the murder of Mrs. Sarah Ware, an aged widow, who was found dead in a pasture with her skull crushed on Oct. 2. Detective Odiln, who has been at work on the case about 10 weeks, made his final report to the municipal officers yesterday, the substance of which was that he could not find evidence enough to warrant an arrest. It is understood that the evidence previously submitted to the attorney general has not been considered sufficient to warrant any procedure, and the mystery remains as great as at any time since the murder.

which contains no alkali, no impurities, nothing to injure the most delicate fabric. There is still greater economy in using Fairy Soap, because it lasts longer than common soaps. It's

In Ram's Head channel, Boston harbor entrance, many of the buoys are out of position as the result of the storm. The southeast breaker buoy, off Baker's island, is gone. Devil's Back buoy is out of position, having drifted one-eighth of a mile southwest. Fawn bar bell buoy has drifted from its position fully half a mile, being now a half-mile eastward from Deer island.

Losses at Gloucester and Rockport.

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 29.—As a result of one of the most furious storms Gloucester has ever known, 29 large vessels are ashore about Cape Ann, and fully as many smaller craft either have sunk or have been washed upon the rocks. So far as is known no lives were lost. Probably the worst effects of the gale were noticed in Rocky Neck Cove, where many vessels were hauled up for the winter. Each boat had been thrown up at the inner end of the cove, many of them wrecked completely, but all badly damaged.

At the entrance to the cove the schooners Carrie F. Roberts and James Drinan sank. The brig Ernestine lays with her stern about 20 feet from the shore. The schooner Senator Frye is high and dry. In Harbor Cove several vessels are ashore on the flats. On the north side of Ten Pound island are five vessels. The other four wrecks at this point are: Schooner E. F. Merriam of Boothbay, Me., schooner Wilson and Williard, schooner D. T. Patchin and schooner Frank. Over on Niles Beach lies the schooner Rienzi. She is high and dry. Schooner Anna H. Mason is ashore a short distance to the northward of Eastern point lighthouse. The chances are that she will be a total loss. Underwriters' Agent Hazen Fellansbee chartered Startle and Eveleth, and went to work to save all the small craft possible. The tugs did grand work, the captains continually taking desperate chances in order to rescue life and property, the high seas and terrible wind making every move dangerous. A small sloop, name unknown, sank near the Copper point factory. A valuable new naptha launch also broke from her anchorage and went to sea. At Bay View the schooner Idilia Small arrived Saturday to load. The force of the wind drove her ashore, and smashed her into pieces. She is a total loss.

The shipping disasters at Rockport are numerous. About eight small fishing craft anchored in the outer harbor are a total loss. Some of them dragged ashore and the balance sank at their moorings. The loss of these vessels means much to the owners, as they all are poor men, and their craft is all the property they own. None of them carried any insurance. Probably the most heroic effort of the storm there was the rescuing of the crew of the three-masted schooner Charles E. Schmidt. This vessel broke away and drifted over on Hale Knowlton's point, going high up on the rocks. She lay wedged in, head to sea. The crew of the vessel were rescued by the lifesaving crew in the very height of the gale. Many other minor disasters occurred, the more important being the demolition of the Hassachusetts Humane society's building, which was smashed by the force of the waves. The boat was in use at the time, so in this case escaped destruction.

Large Fleet Lost.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., Nov. 29.—The fierce storm swept out of existence a large fleet of sailing vessels, which anchored off Vineyard Haven to escape its fury. It is known that at least four men have perished, and it is very probable that as many more have lost their lives. Twenty-one schooners, nearly all heavily laden, and one barkentine are ashore; four schooners, now lying at anchor, are totally dismasted, two others were sunk, and one bark is resting on the bottom, entirely submerged. Many other vessels were battered and partially stripped of their rigging.

Of the fleet of probably two score vessels that came to anchor before the storm, hardly one escaped damage. Many that were able to maintain a safe anchorage had their headgear carried away by being fouled by other vessels adrift.

It is believed that Captain Nelson of the Rockland (Me.) schooner Island City, and his entire crew have perished. The Island City was bound from Port Liberty, N. S., for Cohasset with a cargo of coal. She was discovered Sunday morning off Cottage City ashore, the seas making a clean breach over her. Captain Nelson and his crew of two men were in the rigging. The vessel was sighted by residents of the island, but they were powerless to render aid. No surf boat or life-saving apparatus were available. All the forenoon the men clung to the rigging. During the afternoon one man was seen to drop overboard, evidently having become exutterly hausted. Soon after the helpless watchers on the beach saw a second man relax his hold in the rigging and fall to the deck. He was quickly washed overboard. The third man remained in the rigging, apparently limp and unconscious, if not dead. He was lashed in the cross trees, and undoubtedly perished. The schooner is a total loss.

Schooner Leora M. Thurlow of Bath, Me., was sunk here. She lies in several fathoms of water. The crew climbed into the rigging and set distress signals. A volunteer crew succeeded with difficulty in saving the mate and two seamen, but Captain Roberts had perished from exposure before succor came.

Another bad wreck is that of the schooner Abby K. Bentley. The Bentley dragged ashore on the east side of the harbor and pounded heavily for hours. A hole was knocked in her bottom and she is full of water. Captain Price and his crew escaped to the shore.

The beaches in this vicinity are covered with debris, consisting of broken masts and spars, stove-in yawl boats, cabin furniture and fittings, lumber from the deckloads of vessels, and articles of every description. The gale continued until early yesterday morning, but it was late in the day before a systematic search for bodies could be begun, and at sunset this work was only partially completed. It is feared that at least half a dozen lives have been lost in this section. The local small craft suffered severely, and many boats were dashed to pieces.

In all the volunteer life-saving crew from this port saved 15 lives. Nearly 50 sailors, who had come ashore from their abandoned craft, were cared for by the villagers.

Duxbury's Report.

Duxbury, Mass., Nov. 29.—Two schooners, the Mertis H. Perry of Boston and the Edgar S. Foster of Bucksport, Me., were wrecked off Brant Rock during the storm. The crew of the Foster were taken off by the life-savers, but Captain Pike and four members of the crew of the Perry perished in the terrific sea. The other nine members of the Perry's crew were landed in safety. Both vessels were fishermen, and the Foster was on her way back from Newfoundland with a load of herring. When the storm broke the Foster was apparently lying in a safe position off Portsmouth, N. H., but in the terrific sea she parted her cables and was driven clear across Massachusetts bay, bring up on this shore Sunday afternoon. She struck the shore broadside, and two of her crew were able to land without difficulty. The line was then thrown to the other seamen, and they were all rescued. The vessel went to pieces.

Wrecks Off Connecticut.

New Haven, Nov. 29.—Several disasters at sea, resulting in the loss of a number of barges and possible loss of life, are reported with the arrival of tugs in this port. The tug Carbonero, with three barges, Kalma, Schuylkill and Thomas, lost its tow off Old Field Point, L. I., and the barges were driven ashore. It is not thought that any of the crew was lost, though the extent of the damage is still unknown.

Schooner Santuit, Boston for Newport News, also reported the barge Independence ashore near the Carbonero tows.

Captain N. T. Chandler of the tug Sea King reports the loss of the barge E. W. Stetson, which went ashore off Minor Hill, L. I. The captain of the barge, his wife and child and a crew of four men were aboard the barge, but on account of the strong northwesterly gale that was blowing, Captain Chandler was unable to render any assistance.

The tug Hercules reports one barge ashore on six-mile reef, Long Island, and two more that he had in tow are lost somewhere, but where he has no idea. The barges were light, and for that reason he is not alarmed about the safety of the crews, though there is a strong possibility that they have foundered and those aboard lost.

Among the wrecked vessels off New London are the two-masted schooner Ferguson, the three-master Maggie Ellen, the Nathan F. Dickson, which is sunk off Fort Trumbull, and the schooner Hattie Douglass. The Schooner Kittie is reported sunk at Saybrook, and it is believed that the crew perished.

Wrecks on Maine's Shore.

Belfast, Me., Nov. 29.—Three schooners are ashore at Fort Point. One of them, the Forest Queen, of Stonington, will be a total loss. The schooner Tyron of Boston is on the beach at Fort Point cove with a bad hole in her port quarter. The schooner Izetta of Bangor is also ashore. All on board the three vessels escaped.

The gale at Eastport reached a velocity of 60 miles. Very little shipping escaped damage and word comes from Grand Manan, N. B., that several fishing vessels in Grand harbor broke from their moorings and were driven to sea. Anxiety is felt for the safety of the crews on these vessels.

The three-masted schooner Annie W. Barker, from Bangor for New York, is ashore on Southern island and is badly damaged. The crew reached shore safely.

Schooner Alida of Bangor, lumber loaded, went ashore at Lobster cove and it is reported to be a total loss. The crew were saved.

Schooner Saarbruck of Calais, from Portland for St. John, parted her chains while lying in the lower bay near Millbridge, and went ashore. She has begun breaking up. Her crew landed safely.

The storm raged at Bath with intense fury. Schooner Ben Hur parted her chains at Five islands and went ashore on Lower island.

Steamer Roanoke, Buffalo for Philadelphia, via Montreal, put in at Boothbay for a harbor. During the gale she parted her chains, lost both anchors and collided with the schooner Vesta of Gloucester, and did much damage. The steamer also ran into an ice wharf at Southport, tearing it completely down.

Beyond New England.

Halifax, Nov. 29.—Reports of damage done by the storm in Nova Scotia are arriving slowly from the outports on account of the difficulty in restoring the demoralized wire system. At Westport the schooners Actoria, Primrose, Hemita and Etta and Thrush were damaged badly. Many others were slightly damaged.

At Canso the schooner Renfrew went ashore. She sank in four fathoms of water; nothing saved.

At Large bay two topmast schooner Seraphine, from Boston, lies ashore and full of water on the north side of Hear Island.

The schooner Silver Cloud is ashore with the loss of rudder and all headgear.

Charged With Perjury.

Northampton, Mass., Nov. 29.—A warrant has been issued and placed in the hands of Chief of Police Maynard charging Lewis Warner, the defaulting president of the Hampshire County National bank, with perjury, in swearing to false statements while on the witness stand in the superior court. He will probably be arraigned in the district court within a week.

Accidentally Killed by Brother.

Boston, Nov. 29.—Otto Landin, aged 16, of Roslindale, was accidentally shot and almost instantly killed yesterday by his brother Carl, aged 18, while the boys were engaged in trying to extract a cartridge from a shotgun at their home. When the gun was discharged Otto was standing nearby and the charge struc him full in the mouth. He lived only about five minutes.

The mystery of life and death has puzzled many a wise man. The alchemists of old searched in vain for some combination of drugs that would prolong life indefinitely. Common sense, chemistry and medical science have combined in this age to show man the way to a long and healthy life.

Common sense teaches that a man should not over-work or over-worry; that he should take ample time for his meals, for resting and for recreation and sleep; that he should not neglect the little ills of life, because they are the precursors of serious and fatal maladies. Chemistry has enabled men to make combinations of drugs that were impossible in the days of the alchemists. Medical science has taught when, how and why these combinations of drugs should be used. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most valuable of all health-restoring medicines, and the most effective. Its first work is upon the fountain-head of life—the stomach. A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished. This medicine makes the stomach strong, facilitates the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgment.

It does not make flabby fat, but solid, muscular flesh, nerve force and vital energy. All medicine dealers sell it.

J. W. Jordan, Esq., of Corbin, Whitley Co., Ky., writes: "About two and a half years ago I was taken with severe pains in the chest, began to spit up blood, was troubled with night-sweats and was so short winded that I could hardly walk half a mile. Tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and have improved both in strength and weight."

The medicine dealer who urges some substitute is thinking of the larger profit he'll make and not of your best good.

CANCER CURED

BY ABSORPTION

NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

NONE SAVED

Of Passengers and Crew of the Portland.

Steamer Buffeted to Pieces on Cape Cod Shore.

Struck Some Time Sunday In Height of the Gale.

Probably Blown Out of Her Course While Seeking Shelter.

Coast From Highland Light to Race Poin Light Littered With Her Cargo.

Highland Light, Mass., Nov. 30.—Steamer Portland of the Boston and Portland line has been lost on Cape Cod with all on board. The life saving men, through the blinding storm of Sunday morning, at 6 o'clock heard the distress whistle of a steamer, and Sunday night, at midnight, the body of a man washed ashore. On the body of the man was a lifebelt marked "Steamer Portland, of Portland." A gold watch in his pocket had stopped at 10 o'clock. The man was well dressed, wore black clothes and tan shoes, had light hair and mustache, and a piece of card in his pocket bore the words "John W——, Congress street, Portland." The body of a large woman, without covering of any kind, washed ashore at Pamet river, but there was no means of identifying it.

Another body at High Head is that of a young man, evidently a passenger. Another at Cahoon's Hollow is that of a large man, not identified.

Boxes, trunks and merchandise have been picked up all along the shore. It is believed that the steamer Portland was disabled by the storm at 10 o'clock Sunday night, being unable longer to hold up against the gale, and drifted onto Peaked Hill bars, and went to pieces. Boxes of tobacco, clothing, cheese, oil, etc., have been washed ashore, also life preservers, marked with the words "Steamer Portland."

No one will probably ever tell of the experience of the steamer after she bowled past Boston light, for, so far as known, there are no survivors. She was last sighted off Thatcher's light just after 9 o'clock by the schooner Maud S. She was then all right, and was holding her course. The storm then was filling the air with snow and the wind was gathering fresh fury with every blow. Still, it was as a whiff to a whirlwind as compared with the gale that burst all round after midnight.

Captain H. H. Blanchard of the Portland was one of the veteran pilots of the New England coast and his very confidence in his own ability led him to tempt the fortunes of a night at sea that gave indications of heavy winds and blinding snow. General Manager Liscomb was uneasy over the weather indications and counselled the captain not to make the trip, but to the "old sea dog" the gathering clouds had no terror and so the Portland went to sea.

The Portland was heavily laden. She had a general cargo of all kinds of merchandise, and in the warmth of her cabin were gathered some 50 passengers. The exact number is not now known. The list lies somewhere along the sand snares of the cape. There were 55 officers and crew manning the steamer. They are all gone, after battling all night long with tempestuous seas that finally succeeded in battering their craft to pieces.

Brave wreckers who patrol the sand dunes and treacherous beaches have been busy since Sunday afternoon in the sorrowful duty of caring for bodies hurled ashore by the breakers. They had gathered 34 of these terrible reminders of the death-dealing storm up to a late hour yesterday afternoon. They were also busy in saving from the sea portions of the $250,000 worth of cargo that came within their reach.

The harbor of the town, felt to be one of the best on the New England coast, had been robbed of its safety, and where but a few hours before had ridden laden schooners, now were dismantled and sunken hulks. But there had been but little loss of life, and the news of the sinking of the Portland gave a gloomy completeness to the stories of 20 wrecks already reported.

How the Portland came to be in a position to go ashore where she did, engaged the attention of the captains and seamen who dwell along the cape.. The gale, which at times reached a velocity of 75 miles an hour, was blowing from the northeast. It is conjectured by them that Captain Blanchard, encountering the force of this gale after he passed Thacher's, thought to ease his vessel by heading off shore in an east-northesaterly direction.

In favorable conditions his course would have been directly northeast. This course Saturday night would have been right in the teeth of the gale. With such a steamer as the Portland, setting as she did so high above the water and with side wheels to make her way, this became an impossibility, and no captain would more quickly realize these conditions than Captain Blanchard. He decided to do what they say they would do, that is, seek the open sea and try to weather the storm.

From 9 o'clock until possibly about 11 o'clock the steamer was able to make some headway on her new course.

Then the storm became so powerful that the Portland could not make headway, and began to drift rapidly to the leeward until the early hours of the morning, when the gale was at its height and forced her, with her engines working fully, astern and to leeward, until she struck on the sand bars off Cape Cod on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

The Portland was by this time naturally pretty well strained and battered, and could not, therefore, present any, or but little, resistance to the terrific grounding of the waves, which were running mountain high and with unprecedented velocity.

The sand bar furnished a good foundation upon which she probably crushed like an egg shell, and was immediately broken up.

The old sea veterans hold that the steamer was well torn long before she struck the sand. So long as she was able to keep into the face of the wind she probably suffered little, but as soon as the gale commenced to drive the struggling craft backward, and the captain was forced to shift, perhaps half a point, the powerful waves wrenched away her paddle boxes and tore the guard to pieces.

Taking into consideration the time of the Portland being reported at Thacher's island and the time of her final dissolution near Highland light, she must have made a gallant fight, but a losing one, against wind and wave. It is the almost unanimous opinion of seafaring men here that at no time did Captain Blanchard give up the struggle, and they judge from the place where the steamer went ashore that he was making an effort to either weather the cape entirely, or to seek the shelter of Cape Cod bay. If he desired to do the former, it is evident that the engines were not strong enough to contend against the elements, and if he were endeavoring to make the shelter of the cape, it may be that he mistook Highland light for the Race Point light.

And yet it would have been an impossibility for the captain to have seen much of Highland light on that night, for the snow was blinding. It is, therefore, believed to be a theory worthy of consideration that the Portland made an uneven fight to keep out at sea, but was driven to disaster despite all the power of her engines and the skill of a trained and veteran seaman like Captain Blanchard.

The struggle must have been a terrible one, as broken and battered, with top carried away, and the waves forcing their way in steadily, filling her up and rendering her harder to manage and reducing her power of resistance, she still staggered on and struck the sand, with engines still working and fighting for the lives of those on board.

That her boilers and her engines were still in good condition and working agrees with the reports from the scene of the wreck of her whistling for help being heard. Taking into consideration the way the steamer struck, and considering the possibility of her being disabled and drifting, it does not seem probable that her machinery gave out, if at all, until she had reached some point about northeast from Highland light. If her engines had broken down to the northward of such a point she would in all probability have been driven ashore somewhere between Plymouth and Nantasket, and at a much earlier hour than 10 o'clock.

The beach for 10 miles between Highland light and Race Point is covered with wreckage of every description, and includes cigars, tobacco, barrels and tubs of lard, barrels of whisky, cases of gin and wine and kegs of varnish, loose vegetables, etc. Mingled with the cargo are all sorts of cabin furnishings, consisting of stair railings, stateroom doors, berth boards and fancy woodwork, and also a large number of life belts marked steamer Portland.

Rufus E. Snow of Orleans, Mass., picked up the steering wheel of the Portland. The wheel was tangled up in a mass of wires. The bodies found were distributed all the way from Race Point to Orleans station, a distance of 60 miles. All the bodies appeared to come from the Portland.

The Portland carried 16 lifeboats and rafts, and had 800 life preservers on board. It may be that some of the passengers made the attempt to reach shore on the rafts and in the boats, but it is hardly possible that either could live in such a sea. Nothing has been heard of the landing of any parties, and not a vestige of either raft or boat has been seen.

A dispatch from Portland says that Mr. Liscomb says that the responsibility for the disaster must rest with Captain Blanchard. He was ordered to stay in port, but instead put to sea.

He knew that other steamers had gone out and returned, but he kept on. Why he took this course will never be known, but it is supposed that he thought he could go through all right, and that Mr. Liscomb was over cautious.

Mr. Liscomb tried to get Captain Blanchard himself by telephone that evening, but failed, and then gave positive orders to him through Mr. Williams not to go out. That order was disregarded.

The Portland cost $250,000 and was insured for $60,000.

QUINCY INSURANCE CO.

That's a new one on you, isn't it? You've never heard that there was such a company before, have you? and still there is, and has been doing business right here in Quincy for over nine months, and doing a good business, too, with over 10,000 policy holders. It's got some of the best people in Quincy and some of the worst for clients. It's a Store Accident Insurance Co., and it beats fire insurance all hollow, for you don't have to burn out to get your money's worth. It's better than life insurance for you don't have to die to get your money. You don't have to pay any money nor premiums; you get your policy free—absolutely—even make a little by taking it out. It beats any other accident company for you don't need to lose a leg or an eye or get hurt to get your money's worth.

Who runs this company? We do. You're insured against accident with every sale you make with us. You can't lose. If you buy anything of us that you don't like as well when you get it home as you did in our store it's an accident on your part—bring it back. If you get anything that don't wear as it should—it's an accident on the maker's part—bring it back.

If you get anything that isn't just as we said it was—it's an accident on our part—bring it back; and "BRING IT BACK" with us means no quibbling, no questions, but your money back quicker than you paid it out, ten times over.

People have faith in our insurance; that's why we have such crowds on Saturday evenings which keep us open long after all the other stores have closed. Not afraid to trust us by artificial light as well as day light. Ours is a safe store and we are glad of it. Do you know that we carry more different styles Men's and Boys' Suits and Overcoats, and Child's Reefers, Suits and Short Pants, than all the other stores put together—and sell more, too. Price and Insurance do the selling. Men's $10.00 Overcoats at $7.50. Boys' $3.00 Reefers, $2.25; $2.00 kind, $1.39, and everything else a man or boy wears, except shoes which we do not keep, in the same proportion.

MARY WENT.

LAST Week Mary and everybody else were invited to call at the Quincy Second Hand Variety Store. They went, and Mary tells us that she was delighted with what she found. She bought an excellent stove for half its value, a chamber set for a remarkably low figure, and small ware in abundance for almost nothing. In fact, she was so well pleased, she sent her husband, who bought all the tools he could carry off for a few dollars.

WALTER P. PINEL

Good Afternoon.

Candidate Keith is ahead of Candidate Sears on the official ballots, but if the Republicans get out their vote Mayor Sears will again be on top on election day.

By the oversight of some one the name of Miss Mabel E. Adams will not appear on the official ballots as the Republican nominee for School Committee from Ward Three, although she was regularly nominated at the caucus. The nomination was not filed with the City Clerk and it is now too late because the time limit has expired. Fortunately Miss Adams' election is not endangered, but it will make a difference in the size of her vote.

As yet we hear no words of criticism against the administration of Mayor Sears. Until that time there is no valid reason why Republicans and Independents should withold their support. He is better qualified than a year ago to be the executive of our city, and he has come very near being a model executive. Not only has he administered the affairs of the city successfully, but he has been fortunate in the selection of department officers; again on several public occasions he has reflected credit by his speeches, and he has added dignity at many social gatherings where his presence is always desired. All this with the marked progress of the city the past year, show that Quincy might make a mistake if it made a change.

New Nominations.

Some of the gentlemen nominated for offices at the election next Tuesday, who intimated that they would resign, did not do so in regular form and it is now too late, and it is now impossible to get the names off. Some resignations, not reported, have however been made, and voters should carefully scan the official nominations in this paper.

All the candidates at large are the regular convention nominations except for School Committee. Frank C. Field of Ward Three having declined a renomination, John L. Miller of the same ward has been nominated by the Republicans. His rival is Dr. Hunting who did not officially resign.

In Ward One Daniel Desmond, one of the Democratic nominees for the City Council, has resigned and the vacancy was not filled. Harold B. Faxon takes advantage of the mistake of the caucus, which intended to nominate but one and the eight votes he received in the caucus places his name on the ticket.

In Ward Two the resignation of John J. Day as a Democratic candidate for the City Council has been filled by the nomination of Fred P. Hill of Edison park. The Democrats have also endorsed Fred H. Smith for School Committe, Mr. Harlow having declined.

In the ward all the regular caucus nominees stand.

AT HOUGHS NECK.

Wreckage Everywhere Along the Shore.

Vessel Wrecked and Abandoned on Veazie's Rocks.

Several of the Cottages Suffered —Very High Tide.

Tales of the destruction wrought by the storm still come in.

The road to Houghs Neck has been broken out. The sleighing is good as far as Mosquito bridge, then from there to the Willows the ground is bare where the tide made over.

At Mosquito bridge the Bainbridge Bros.' yacht, the "Ida J." is balanced on the edge of the granite abutment, apparently in the act of diving into the creek. She was moved over a thousand feet from where she was hauled up. Strange to say the float which formerly laid beside her at her winter quarters is now with her in her new position. The boat is apparently uninjured.

On the opposite side of the bridge from the "Ida J." Hazen Ricker's stable is standing on its roof. It seems also to have escaped injury.

Just beyond these is the large Wiscasset schooner, the "Mary B. Rogers." She is a two-master and was built at Phippsbury, Me., in 1875. As schooners go nowadays she would not be called a very large boat, measuring but 79 feet overall with a tonnage of 92. She is high and dry, beyond the reach of the ordinary tide.

When the Ledger correspondent called, the skipper, who is a typical "down east" coasting skipper, had the vessels' sails aloft drying in the still air He did not seem to be much troubled over the stranding of his boat. He was philosophical and was glad that he was not on the back side of the Cape Cod. When the sails were dried he was going to have the crew unbend them and store them in her hold, for she was in ballast, and he was going home to spend the rest of the winter, returning here in the spring to float her off on a high course tide. When his vessel struck, the water was about four feet deep on the causeway.

At the Willows there was an immense amount of wreckage of every conceivable description, from an immense Perkins & White scow, which towered up above the road and adjacent cottages like some monster levathian, to empty barrels and drift wood. A large part of the wreckage at this point was made of sections of the flooring of a wharf.

It will be remembered that at the Willows a very substantial granite breakwater was built last year. The force of the waves and the wind was so great that this structure is entirely demolished. Huge blocks of granite weighing from 1,500 pounds to a ton were tossed about as though they were pebbles. The car tracks were grabbed up by the waves, shoved across the street and twisted into all sorts of fantastic shapes as though they were some giant's toy.

On a bluff just before the Willows is reached is what is known as the "Dorchester" cottage. This bluff is at least four feet above the street level. The tide came up into the yard and washed away the front steps.

From the Willows, along the bluff, the cottages were badly shaken up, but none of them were badly damaged, with the exception of George W. Morton's "Red Lion" which had its sea wall razed and piazzas damaged. His loss will be heavy.

A cottage in the rear of the "Mandarin" cottage got pretty well twisted.

Off on Veazie's rocks was the sorry spectacle of the only real wreck on our shores. This was the schooner "Ella F. Crowell" of Thomaston, Me., loaded with plaster. She was an old vessel, 35 years, with a tonnage of 163. Her hull, spars and rigging are still frosted with ice and snow. She is a typical picturesque wreck and well worth going down to see. She looks weird with her maintopmast dangling in the air, her main boom adrift, and her sails blown to ribbons. She has been abandoned and will become a total wreck.

It was supposed that the Quincy Yacht Club's house being built out into the water on piles, and wholly unprotected by a breakwater, would be blown off the face of the earth. The club house, thanks to its heavy timbering still stands, but little the worse for the severe buffeting it got on Sunday. With the exception of the demolishing of the water pipes beneath the house and the starting of a few of the underpining posts, the damage was trifling. If it had not been for a floating battering ram formed of a few heavy planks there would have been no loss. The crib which held the spare span was carried away and so were the horses to the wharf.

J. L. Harvey, however, was not so fortunate. His bath house and wharf were carried away, entailing a loss of $400.

At the Fensmere the waves burst open the dam. This of course allowed an immense amount of wreckage to come in making the ground look like a wood yard. The tide was so high that it arose three feet in the lower story of the hotel and other building, causing considerable damage.

Arthur H. Dunham, the genial postmaster, came near losing his cows. He keeps them in the basement of his stable. When the dam gave way he had hard work to save them, the water rose so fast. As it was he lost 36 hens out of a flock of 40.

At Nut island lighters are along side of the three masted schooner "Nantasket," which was stranded on Sunday morning, discharging her cargo. She will probably be floated without difficulty.

Capt Petterson, the lobster man on Nut island, was quite a sufferer. He lost a large number of hens, lobster pots, his boiling house, including the boiler and his boat.

Perkins & White have four of their huge scows piled up on various parts of the beach.

The old willow tree, which for so many years has been a shelter as well as a landmark at Mear's was blown over. The old house does not look natural with this old friend gone.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Man Discovered Walking About After Shooting Himself.

As Mr. John Coyle was passing through Merrymount Park Tuesday afternoon, he saw a man wandering about the pavilion. Upon investigation he found that the fellow was more or less under the influence of liquor and that he was bleeding profusely from a wound in the head. He took the fellow to the police station, where Dr. Jones made a hasty examination. Finding that the fellow had been shot, he took him to Dr. Gilbert's office, where a more thorough examination was made. The bullet had entered the left ear and came out at the neck, making a serious although not dangerous wound.

It was also learned that his name was Eric Anderson, and that he lived at 15 Buckley street. He claimed that he got on the train at Harrison Square, and got off at Norfolk Downs, and was on his way to view the wreck at Black's Creek, when he was set upon and assaulted. Upon being searched a revolver was found in his pocket, one shell of which was empty and the grease marks showed that it had evidently been recently fired. This lead to the supposition that the fellow had been suffering from over indulgence in alcoholic stimulants and while under its influence had endeavored to take his own life.

After being treated by the physicians he was removed to the lockup for the night, where he was treated by Night Captain Hanson. He was taken to court this morning.

No License Paper.

The No-license paper, the Duty of the Hour, will be issued tomorrow. It is a neat little sheet of four pages on good paper, clear cut type and neatly printed from the press of George W. Prescott & Son. It has an appeal to voters; interviews with Mayor Sears, Paul R. Blackmur, City Clerk Cleaves, Supt. Lull, Representative Sprague, Rev. Edward Anderson, Councilman Willard, Mayo P. Fuller, Councilman Owens, Councilman Jameson, Henry P. Kittredge, Rev. Julius Johnstone, Councilman Hultman, W. A. Jordan Theophilus King, Councilman Newcomb, John Evans, Commissioner Knowlton, City Auditor Hall, Councilman Packard, Clerk of the Council Spear, Frank F. Prescott and Dr. C. T. Sherman, all of whom are opposed to license. There are columns of facts, comments and statistics which cover the field thoroughly, and no further arguments seem necessary to convince a voter why he should vote NO.

The Fifth Massachusetts.

The Greenville Daily News says: "The regiment made a splendid appearance as it marched down Main street. The uniforms were in good condition, showing neatness and good discipline. The men are of excellent physique, and seemed to enjoy the best of health, and to be in excellent spirits, in spite of the muddy march through the streets."

A prominent city official said: "We have been waiting impatiently for the coming of the Fifth Massachusetts, for their reputation had preceded them, and we are not disappointed."

New Telephone Company.

Wilbur F. Laken of Quincy with Q. S. Holbrook of Cambridge, Fred A. Spear of Lowell, Paul Faver of Boston and Silas P. Chase of Reading are the incorporators of the Massachusetts Telephone Co. which has petitioned for a location in Boston. A committee of the aldermen has reported ought to pass. The order went over to the next meeting under the rules. The maximum rate for use of instruments is placed at $6 per month.

TO TRY SOFT COAL.

School Committee Hold Their Monthly Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday night, Messrs. Porter, Field, Hallowell, Ash and Miss Adams present.

Miss Adams reported the resignation of Miss Parker of the Adams school.

Dr. Ash reported that some minor repairs to the windows, etc., were needed at the Willard school. The Finance Committee were authorized to make any necessary transfers.

It was voted that the room in Music hall building, Atlantic, be rented for another year at the rate of $150.

Superintendent Lull, who was instructed to obtain information relative to the use of hard and soft coal for heating school buildings, reported that he had corresponded with a number of cities and large towns, all of which used soft coal in one or more buildings and the general opinion was that soft coal was the more economical. Commissioner Knowlton whose opinion was asked replied that he had never given the matter any consideration, but that it would be unwise to change over in buildings not heated by steam. In buildings heated by steam it was an open question. While at first soft coal might be cheaper, he did not think that there would be any saving in the long run. He advised that some building heated by steam be selected, and a test made.

After some little discussion the Committee voted that the Committee on Supplies, with the approval of the Commissioner of Public Works, make a test relative to the economy of hard and soft coal at the Quincy school.

Only One Blot.

Editors Quincy Ledger:

The vicinity including Bigelow street and Miller Stile road is one of the prettiest neighborhoods in the city. The residents take a commendable pride in the neat appearance of their houses and well kept grass plots, a condition which is only brought about and maintained by a large amount of attention and considerable outlay. There is one eyesore, however, in the midst of this uniform neatness which should be remedied. In calling attention to it thus publicly the writer has no intention whatever of reflecting in any way upon the gentleman upon whose lot the blot is; as he is not responsible for the worst phase of it, those which constitute it a nuisance.

The writer of course refers to the dump pile on the next lot to the residence of Mr. John Hall on Bigelow street. It has for a long time been the practice of persons employed to remove rubbish and refuse, much of which is of a character dangerous to health, to dump it there, rather than carry it further to a proper place. The noxious quality of the dumped material is concealed by a thin covering of dirt or ashes. A dump even for clean filling only, such as it is only just to the owner of the lot to mention as being what he intended, is not only unsightly, but unnecessary, as it could be kept constantly level for the same outlay it will require to level it off finally. It does seem a pity that this dump, originally ill-chosen, continuously unsightly, always unnecessary, and now unhealthful, should longer insult the character of this pretty neighborhood by its presence.

Observer.

Prize Terriers.

Although "Squanto" and "His Nibs" have passed from her borders Quincy still has the distinction of possessing several of the finest Boston terriers in the world, for at Boston Terrier Breeder's Club Show last week, in competition with 332 entries of the breed, three times as many as were ever before entered at a show, Dr. W. G. Kendall's "Shawmut" won first prize in both his classes, "Puck" the first prize in his class, "Fan Tan" and "Famous" were second and third in their classes. Squantum kennels won kennel prize for best exhibit of four, and the special prize for best pair with "Shawmut" and "Fan Tan." After this phenominal success "Shawmut" was taken to New York where, the next day he won first prize in limit class. This phenomenal dog is but a year old this month and, undoubtedly has a great career before him.

More snow.

The last day of November.

Election is almost forgotten in the storm.

Another holiday for the school children.

Mr. Fred Cornish of Walnut street is quite ill.

Quincy has no telephone communication with Boston.

The Managers of Public Burial Places meet Thursday evening.

Political and temperance literature will now flood the mails.

Most time for boat sleighs and the familiar blowing of the horn.

The no school signal was sounded this morning and again at noon.

The two chimneys on the Universalist church were blown off in the storm.

Snow slides are frightening horses and are enough to frighten anything.

The official nominations appear in the Ledger today; also the warrant for the City election.

The joint committees on Finance and Sewers of the City Council meet Thursday evening.

Miss Lizzie Earley of Brockton was the guest of Miss Mamie Sullivan at Atlantic, for a few days.

Owing to the storm the Mother Goose entertinment will be postponed. The date will be announced later.

The Congregational church at Shelbourne Falls has voted to extend a call to Rev. A. A. Youtz of Middlefield.

The furniture of Nash's hotel in City Square and also some carriages will be sold at auction next week Friday.

One of the school teachers who spent Thanksgiving on Cape Cod has not been able to return because of the storm.

The old wooden snow shovel must go; a new light iron shovel with a long handle has made its appearance and is a useful article.

The flag pole on the Bates block near the depot has toppled over and should be removed before it falls into the street and injures some one.

Quincy Point bridge is open for passage for light teams. The railroad structure has been examined and found to be all right and the street cars are running over it as usual.

Corporal Harry J. Matthews of Co. K is at home on a twenty days' furlough. Harry wears a very pretty watch on his left wrist, made in the shape of a bracelet. He is looking well.

A faucet in the Y. M. C. A. rooms was left open Tuesday night, and the outlet having become stopped up, the water went down through the floor and damaged the stock of G. B. Bates on the floor below somewhat.

The indications are that Major Morrison, late of Co. K, of Braintree, will become lieutenant colonel, and that Capt. Hanson and Capt. Claire will become majors. Then Lieut. Whitney may become a captain.

A large gang of men were at work early in City Square this morning, and quickly loaded the surplus snow into large box sleds, and it was carted away. Commissioner Knowlton is now prepared for more, which seems to be due.

The street railway begun Tuesday to run cars on all its lines except the Quincy avenue. The delay here is due to several large poles being down across the track and street. In some places where the trolley wire was down it was necessary for the railroad to put on a watchman to keep thieves from stealing the wire.

Quincy Sept. 7.

A QUINCY VICTIM.

Believed to Have Perished on the Portland.

One of the passengers on the ill-fated Portland was George W. Cole of South Portland, Me. Mr. Cole was quite well known in Quincy for he not only has a brother who lives here, but he also was here for the larger part of this year, having been employed at the store of A. H. Doble & Co. at South Quincy. When seen Tuesday night the brother said that George was now travelling for a large Boston firm and left on the boat Saturday night to visit his wife and child, who are at present in South Portland. Mr. Cole further said that he should go to the Cape today to see if his brother's body was among those recovered.

Trains Late.

Trains on the New Haven road are still running late. The outward trains from Boston averaging from 10 to 15 minutes. The inward trains from Quincy are much later. The train due to leave at 9.12 this morning did not leave until nearly 11 o'clock, meanwhile a large number had gathered at the depot and as the time passed and no train stopped there was a general howl. While they were waiting there were a number of inward trains that rushed through Quincy without stopping which only made it the more annoying. No cause for the delay was given. Most of the inward trains from Quincy start from South Braintree.

Peace Commissioners Already Have Draft of Articles to Consider.

Paris, Nov. 30.—As the result of the work of Mr. Moore and Senor Ojeda, the draft of the articles embodying the protocol agreements was completed last evening. It will be presented to the two commissions today, when it will receive final consideration. There will be little delay on these articles. Mr. Moore will also submit to the United States commissioners the subjects to be presented to the Spaniards for negotiations. These, for convenience and greater dispatch, are being drafted into the form of articles.

The release of the insurgent prisoners held by Spain will go into the protocol agreements, it having been already agreed that Spain is to release them upon the United States undertaking to secure the release of Spanish prisoners in the hands of Aguinaldo. This question is so intimately related to the peace treaty that it has been removed from the subjects that are matters of negotiation and has been embodied in the articles containing the protocol agreements.

A Madrid dispatch says: Senor Sagasta asserts that if the United States insist upon Spain paying the Cuban and Philippine debts, she will honor her signature to the extent of her resources and that the government will not refuse to accept this burden.

Senor Sagasta showed much emotion on learning that the Spanish commissioners in Paris had formally agreed to sign the treaty of peace on the American conditions, but he assured his friends that he was convinced he had adopted the best course in the interests of the country and the monarchy.

The Journel Des Debats says: The Americans, having started out to liberate Cuba, have ended with pocketing what remained of Spain's colonies. This moral evolution of the Americans is edifying, as a good example of the manner in which one can, almost in good faith, arrive at the formulation of the most outrageous demands by a confusion of ambition and duty at once, by considering an interest to be a divine right. Now that America has entered the arena of international politics she may have some lively surprises in store even for those who have been so ready to offer their friendship.

Grief and Suicide.

Watertown, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Fred W. Ganter, the champion bicycle rider of northern New York, killed himself at his home at Pamelia yesterday. Ganter's wife died yesterday morning while giving birth to a child. The husband then took a rifle and went to the room where his wife's remains had been laid out on a bed. He sat down on the edge of the bed, placed the gun between his legs, the muzzle under his chin and pulled the trigger. Death was instantaneous. Ganter was 22 years of age, and had been married a year.

Edward Stearns, aged 40, was struck and instantly killed by a train at Easthampton, Conn.

To Take Briggs' Place.

New York, Nov. 30.—Rev. Dr. Thomas Hall will not succeed his father, the late Rev. Dr. John Hall, as pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church. Dr. Thomas Hall yesterday accepted the chair of Christian ethics in the Union Theological seminary, which was vacated by the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Briggs. When the Briggs controversy was at its height Dr. Thomas Hall was prominent among the supporters of Dr. Briggs. Dr. Hall's succession to the pulpit of the Fifth Avenue church was suggested immediately after the death of his father, but strong opposition developed because of his doctrinal record and the subject was dropped.

Powers Unlimited.

Paris, Nov. 30.—In the senate yesterday, in reply to a request that he would "clarify" his speech made Monday in the chamber of deputies in answer to the interpellations as to the Picquart courtmartial and the Dreyfus affair, Premier Dupuy said: "The speech was clear enough. The powers of the court of cassation are unlimited and all necessary documents will be communicated to the court. The best way of restoring peace is to leave matters in the hands of the judiciary."

Alaska Steamer Wrecked.

Port Townsend, Wash., Nov. 30.—The steamer Cottage City, from Alaska, reports the wreck of the steamer Detroit on Shelter island, 20 miles from Juneau. The Detroit had 27 passengers, all of whom were saved. The accident occurred during a heavy snowstorm Nov. 26.

Engine of Destruction.

Marseilles, Nov. 30.—A bomb, containing 140 grammes of powder and nails, capable of doing terrible damage, was found in the Bourse here yesterday morning. The fuse had been lighted, but it had not burned.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Bismarck memoirs have not created much of a sensation in Germany.

Adalai, the "Terrible Turk," won a wrestling match from Isadore, the Russian wrestler, in two successive falls at Philadelphia.

British steamer Newstead, from New York Nov. 16 for Aden, Bombay, Madras, etc., arrived at St. Michaels for coal and reported that Captain Dyer was washed overboard and drowned.

The congressional election in the Sixth Mississippi district, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of F. W. Love, passed off very quietly. Hon. F. A. McLain, congressman-elect for the regular term, was elected without opposition.

President McKinley had as guest of honor at dinner last night President Iglesias of Costa Rica. Invited to meet President Iglesias was Vice President Hobart, the representatives at the Capitol of the South and Central American governments, the members of the cabinet and others.

The Chicago News says that an attempt is being made to consolidate the American Sugar Refining company, the Doscher sugar plant, the Arbuckle concern and all of the other independent refineries, and the Glucose Sugar Refining company of Chicago.

The following named officers of the volunteer army have been honorably discharged: Major W. C. Daniels, assistant adjutant general; Lieutenant Max I. McRae, Third Georgia volunteer infantry; Captain John C. Michie, First North Carolina volunteer infantry, and Lieutenant F. J. Cronin, Sixty-ninth New York infantry.

LAND VALUES

A Transcript From the Books of the Assessors.

Number of Feet in Each Lot and Valuation Thereof.

Also the Amount of Each Person's Tax Bill for 1898.

Something new in the publication of the taxpayers of the city is attempted this year by the Daily Ledger. There is considerable interest in the assessed value of land in the city, which is claimed to be high in some cases and low in others. So the Ledger has supplemented the amount of the tax bill in each ward with the value of each lot of land for which the person is taxed, giving in each case the number of square feet or acreage.

The amount given in the line with the person's name is his total ward tax, and may include houses, personal property, etc., in addition to the lots of land below. The Ledger gives only the valuation of the land.

To obtain a person's total tax in the city, add together the amounts paid in the several wards.

The Ledger commenced the publication Aug. 30, and has already published the land values of all persons whose names begin with A to T, and today's instalment is the fourth of the Ws:

WEYMOUTH.

Several of the great pine trees in front of Edmund Hunt's residence on Broad street were blown down during the storm.

Saturday night, the steeple of the Universalist church in Ward Three was loosened by the gale, and it is now swinging by one support, a menace to the life of all persons who have occasion to pass by in the vicinity.

Two windows were blown in at the High School Sunday morning.

Nearly all of the poles on the Quincy & Boston Quincy avenue line from Newcomb square to the toll-bridge are down.

The Braintree & Weymouth had a large gang at work Monday, and Tuesday were running from Jackson square to Braintree.

Mrs. G. O. Chickering and Mrs. Augustus Wheeler of this place were on the Steamer Portland which sunk during Sunday's storm. Mrs. Chickering and Mrs. Wheeler were going to Lewiston to attend the funeral of another sister.

Dr. Fraser is a heavy loser from the storm.

The streets are in a horrible condition as a result of the storm.

The senior class of the High school is planning for a sleigh ride which will probably come off Thursday evening if the streets are in a condition for an enjoyable ride.

Sunday, there was the highest tide for years in this town. At the wharves untold damage was wrought.

Stewart Jordan, who is attending Highland Military academy of Worcester, was at home last week.

There was no school at the High Monday, as no cars were running, and very few pupils outside of Ward Two put in an appearance.

The storm of Saturday and Sunday discouraged all the clocks on the public buildings.

The Braintree & Weymouth Company had several cars stalled at Cottle's turnout Sunday.

A chimney on G. H. Baker's house was blown down and piled up on the roof, Saturday night. This must have "jarred" Mr. Baker's family to quite an extent, as the chimney was of very large dimensions.

Stephen Lane Folger, of New York, will furnish the pins for the class of '99, W. H. S. The class colors are turquoise blue and white. A sample pin has been received, and is very handsome, it being pronounced the neatest thing that any class has ever had.

Miss Wheeler is not teaching at the High this week, as her mother was one of the passengers lost on the Portland. Miss Wheeler is very popular at school and has the full sympathy of pupils and teachers in her bereavement.

THE HALF NOT TOLD.

Tales of Disaster Pouring In From Storm Centers.

Hundred Bodies Probably In Boston Harbor.

Hardy Life Savers Were Even Forced to Abandon Patrol.

Late Reports of Wrecks and Thrilling Rescues of Storm Beaten Sailors.

Boston, Nov. 30.—A reporter who traversed Scituate beach, from North Scituate beach to the third cliff yesterday, was forced, by what he discovered, to the conclusion that the bodies of 100 unfortunate men are rolling in the sea and on its bottom, or are ashore along the coast extending from Nantasket to Plymouth beach.

This may be a large estimate, but it seems to be warranted by the facts which have come to light, and by the discoveries of bodies at points where men are working along the shore. The trip of the reporter resulted in the location of seven bodies in addition to those which had been previously reported as found or missing, and the finding of three additional unknown wrecks. These wrecks can be seen; how many more are hidden beneath the waves may never be known.

But this is sure. That if no severe storm carries all the sad flotsam out to sea bodies of sailors will for many days to come be picked up along the shore, which in the summer time knows nothing of terrible danger and swift death, but, on the contrary, is the chosen abiding place of hundreds of happy, pleasure-seeking families.

The fury of the storm along this shore is described by all who were there when the tempest of 1851 wrought such havoc as much more terrific in its force and effect than that historic event.. It was impossible for the hardy members of the life-saving service to maintain their patrol, and several of them had narrow escapes from perishing in the storm. A patrolman from the fourth cliff station was obliged to seek safety in a tree, where he remained for hours.

Matters are improving slightly along Vineyard sound so far as means of communication is concerned. The best summing up of the disasters in that section is told by Captain Hard, Jr., of the revenue cutter Dexter, who has cruised along shore. He says the sight in Vineyard Haven is one of desolation. Hulls are piled up on shores and those vessels which are afloat seem mere shells. The Dexter reports possible additions to the wreck list in two schooners sunk off Menemsha light, and two big ones sunk abreast of Presque island. The fate of these crews is unknown. There are three wrecking steamers around the Fairfax, ashore on Sow and Pigs reef.

Storm stories from all parts of New England still come in, but those from inland towns are insignificant as compared with those from seaports. The financial loss in the various branches of business is simply beyond computation at this time and attempts to reach conclusions on the present seemingly meager returns are impossible. When the worst is known an idea of the sum total can be suggested.

Ocean tug Mars reports the loss of her tow, consisting of the coal laden barges Delaware and Daniel I. Tenney, during the gale early Sunday morning, and it is feared that the barges and their crews are lost. Captain Miles reports that while in Boston bay he held on to his tow until 1 o'clock Sunday morning, when the wind blew such a hurricane that it was impossible to hold them, and he signalled the barges to anchor. At this time they were between Minot's light and the lightship, and he thought they could hold on, as they both had good tackle. The wind was blowing at the rate of 75 miles an hour and a tremendous sea was running, which broke over the tug, smashing the pilot house, flooding the cabin and filling the lower part of the boat. The Delaware was commanded by Captain Howes of Lincolnville, Me., and the Tenney by Captain Cox, formerly commander of the Monarch. They were en route from Newport News to this city.

Twenty-Three Lives Saved.

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 30.—The rescued crew and passengers, numbering 23 persons, of the British schooner Narcissus, Captain William McIntosh, from Boston for Shelburne and Liverpool, N. S., with a general cargo, were landed here yesterday by schooner Hiram Lowell, Captain Nelson.

The Narcissus left Boston last Wednesday at 9 p. m., and all went well as far as Thatcher's island. They put into Gloucester and again got under weigh Friday evening at 5 o'clock in a wholesale northwest breeze. They had an uneventful run until they struck Saturday's blizzard, about 70 miles west of Seal island. The schooner shortened sail, running under three-reef foresail only until Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, when the sail was blown into ribbons. From 8 to 11 o'clock the vessel was tossed around, being constantly covered by the enormous seas which were running masthead high. To make matters worse she began making water, seeming to leak all over, where she had been strained by the heavy seas.

At 11 a. m. Sunday a big comber came down on the unfortunate craft, carrying away the flying jibboom, all forestays and headgear of every description. From this time until 3:30 p. m. Monday signals of distress were left flying, the vessel meantime being completely at the mercy of the storm.

At 3:30 p. m., when 40 miles east by south of Highland light, a sail was discovered, which proved to be the schooner Hiram Lowell. The latter sighted the unfortunate Narcissus and stood up to her. About the same time the ocean liner Philadelphia hove in sight, and seeing the signals of distress ran down to the Narcissus and offered to take her in tow, but the offer had to be refused through fear that the additional strain would pull the schooner apart, as she was then badly strained and full of water. The Lowell launched four dories, two men in each, and at once began the work of rescuing the Narcissus' crew, which was gallantly and heroically accomplished without an accident of any kind. At about dark the last dory brought Captain McIntosh and Mate Almon Daggett, who gladly left the vessel to her fate. When last seen the waves were making a clear breach across her, and as darkness came on she was gradually disappearing from sight.

Captain Nelson and crew of the schooner Hiram Lowell left Boothbay last Saturday, where they had purchased bait and ice, for a Georges fresh fishing trip. Before sighting the Narcissus she had severe experiences with the blizzard. She encountered the gale 40 miles off shore, and gradually shortened sail, until at the height of the storm she was running under bare poles. About midnight a tremendous sea broke over her, smashing a nest of five dories, breaking foreboom, smashing bulwarks and carrying away the wheel box. When sail was made Monday morning it was found she had drifted over 80 miles out of her course.

When the Narcissus' distress signals were seen and the captain asked to be taken off, there was no need of calling for volunteers, for every man aboard the Lowell was ready and anxious to do his share in the work of rescue. After all had been safely taken from the Narcissus and brought on board the Lowell the latter's captain and crew, who up to this time had no opportunity for fishing, willingly abandoned all thoughts of setting trawls and immediately headed for this port, where they arrived in safety. The captain, crew and passengers of the Narcissus lost everything.

Sumner's Crew Saved.

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—The members of one of the many crews of the vessels which were wrecked off the New England coast during Saturday and Sunday's storm are safe and domiciled in the Quaker city. These men are Captain Dobbin of the schooner Maynard Sumner and his crew of five men. They were rescued from their dismasted and waterlogged vessel Monday afternoon by the steamer Mackinaw, which left London Nov. 17 and arrived here last night. In one trip of the Mackinaw's large boat all were landed on the steamer without injury, although the boat itself was crushed and broken in dashing against the steamer while the transfer was being made.

Losses Off Gurnet.

Plymouth, Mass., Nov. 30.—Captain Rogers of the Gurnet life saving station reports that a fishing schooner was wrecked off Brant Rock and eight out of the 14 men on her were saved. A herring schooner was also destroyed there and the crew of the Brant Rock life saving station picked up three bodies.

On Sunday night a fishing vessel anchored half a mile off Gurnet. The patrol lost sight of her soon after dark and have no idea where the vessel went. No wrecks having been reported from Manomet it is probable that the craft was lost with all hands on board.

Thirty Vessels Ashore.

Provincetown, Mass., Nov. 30.—Over 30 vessels are ashore but no loss of life is reported at this port. A large four-masted schooner is ashore off Race point and is going to pieces. The fate of the crew is unknown. Houses have been wrecked at various points along the coast and the wires are all down.

Briefly Told.

Tug Carbonero, which reported its three barges lost off Oldfield Point, Long Island, Sunday, put into New London, Conn., and reported that she found her barges ashore about five miles east of Port Jefferson, but all the crew safe.

Schooner Reganet was wrecked off Long Beach Point, L. I. The crew, after suffering from exposure and want of food for 36 hours, were finally rescued in an exhausted condition. The men lost all their personal effects. Three sloops were sunk at Orient.

The schooner Everett, with a cargo of brick and owned by the Long Island Brick company, foundered off Shelter Island Heights, L. I., and the crew had a narrow escape from drowning.

Schooner William P. Davis dragged ashore at Dutch Island harbor, R. I. She is on a rocky bottom, with starboard quarter stove and is full of water.

Schooner Abner Taylor is ashore on Fox Hill beach, R. I. Schooner Oak Woods sprung foremast and lost foretopmast. Fishing smack Grace is also ashore.

Barge Orion of the Atlantic Transport company, in tow of a tug with another barge, was caught in the storm off Chincoteague, Va., on Sunday night. The Orion went adrift and has not yet been found.

Faces Four Charges.

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—The naval court-martial appointed to try Naval Constructor Hanscom convened yesterday at League island navy yard. The first charge against Hanscom is that of approving fraudulent vouchers which gave to workmen at League island navy yard more pay than they had earned; the second is culpable inefficiency in the performance of his duties; the third is the failure to report the false vouchers to his immediate superior, and the fourth is the making false statements in his reports to Washington of labor performed at the navy yard. There is a long list of witnesses to be examined and the inquiry, it is expected, will consume three or four days.

Looking Toward West Indies.

London, Nov. 30.—The Daily Mail says: We are able to state that, on the invitation of Joseph Chamberlain, some English capitalists have indicated their readiness to endeavor to revive the sugar industry in the West Indies if bounties are abolished. Sir Thomas Lipton is prepared to spend £1,000,000, and it is probable that some arrangement will be arrived at.

Willis Must Hang.

New Haven, Nov. 30.—The Connecticut supreme court yesterday handed down a decision sustaining the decision of the lower court in the case of Benjamin R. Willis, the Fairfield county murderer of David G. R. Lambert. Willis was to have been hanged on Nov. 4, but Governor Cooke granted a reprieve until Dec. 20. The death sentence must now stand.

PECULIAR POISONS.

GENERATED IN THE HUMAN BODY.

The Result of Imperfect Digestion of Food.

Every living thing, plant or animal, contains within itself the germs of certain decay and death.

In the human body these germs of disease and death (called by scientists Ptomaines,) are usually the result of imperfect digestion of food; the result of indigestion or dyspepsia.

The stomach, from abuse, weakness, does not promptly and thoroughly digest the food. The result is a heavy, sodden mass which ferments, (the first process of decay) poisoning the blood, making it thin, weak and lacking in red corpuscles; poisoning the brain, causing headaches and pain in the eyes.

Bad digestion irritates the heart, causing palpitation and finally bringing on disease of this very important organ.

Poor digestion poisons the kidneys, causing Bright's disease and diabetes.

And this is so because every organ, every nerve, depends upon the stomach alone for nourishment and renewal, and weak digestion shows itself not only in loss of appetite and flesh, but in weak nerves and muddy complexion.

The great English scientist, Huxley, said the best start in life is a sound stomach. Weak stomachs fail to digest food properly, because they lack the proper quantity of digestive acids (lactic and hydrochloric) and peptogenic products; the most sensible remedy in all cases of indigestion, is to take after each meal, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they supply in a pleasant, harmless form all the elements that weak stomachs lack.

They increase flesh, insure pure blood, strong nerves, a bright eye and clear complexion, because all these result only from wholesome food well digested.

Nearly all druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package, or by mail by enclosing price to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. but ask your druggist first.

A Cuban Tragedy.

Havana, Nov. 29.—Two Cuban soldiers entered the farm of Antonio Trujillo, a Spaniard, at Guanabacoa, a suburb of Havana. Trujillo remonstrated with them for trespassing and threatened them with his gun, as he was just returning from a hurting trip. At this the Cubans drew their carbines and shot him dead on the spot. They claim that they fired in self-defense.

Fatal Collision.

Providence, Nov. 29.—In a collision between a snowbound train and an engine with a gang of shovellers aboard being sent to its relief, William Osgood was almost instantly killed and John Nichols and Owen McKegley, engineer and fireman on the relief train, were seriously injured. Both engines were badly smashed up.

Shafter Visits New Haven.

New Haven, Nov. 29.—Major General Shafter, who is the guest of Major Albee, was tendered a public reception yesterday. Between 1000 and 1500 people were present and shook hands with the general. Another reception was later tendered the general by members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Quinnipiac club at the club house of the latter.

THERE IS A CLASS OF PEOPLE

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over 1-4 as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 15 cts. and 25 cts. per package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O.

Manila Jottings.

Manila, Nov. 30.—At the Loyal Legion banquet here Monday evening there were 64 guests present. Nearly every commandery was represented. General Armstrong presided, and Rear Admiral Dewey was received by a guard of honor from the Oregonians.

The Concord has sailed for Canton.

The steamer Culgoa has arrived here from Sydney, N. S. W., with supplies. She has been transferred to the American flag.

It is reported that a section of the insurgents, called the Guards of Honor, who are opposed to Aguinaldo, have captured San Ignacio, in the province of Pangasinan, Island of Luzon, at the instance of the Spanish priests.

The Caseno Espanol here has donated $40 to each Spanish officer and $10 to each private held in captivity by the insurgents.

The Filipino papers are demanding good roads into the interior for the transportation of produce which is now wasted.

Banks Want Their Money.

New York, Nov. 30.—The Central National bank of Boston, the First National bank of Malden, Mass., and the Irving National bank of this city filed a petition yesterday to have Robert J. Dean & Co. declared involuntary bankrupts. In the petition, it is alleged that on Aug. 3 last the firm assigned to Eugene W. Guild with intent to defraud other creditors; that on July 27 Robert J. ean, knowing that he was insolvent, transferred all his real estate holdings to his wife, Mary G. Dean. The Central National bank has claims amounting to $5000, the First National bank $6000, and the Irving National bank $6000.

To-morrow's Almanac and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:54; sets, 4:13.
Moon sets—7:15 p. m.
High water—1 a. m.; 1:15 p. m.

A storm has developed off the south Atlantic coast, and moved thence northward to the New Jersey coast, with very low barometric pressure. This storm has not as yet been attended by high winds, although it is probable that in its further advance northward it will cause increased and perhaps high winds along the New England coasts. Winds of this character, with snow, which is indicated for New England, will be dangerous to shipping, and warning to this effect has been telegraphed middle Atlantic and New England ports. A second storm has moved from Manitoba to Lake Superior during the last 24 hours, and it is thought that this storm will unite with the Atlantic coast disturbance over New England.

CANCER CURED

BY ABSORPTION
NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.
